

Record Crowd Attends Legion Fight

22 Boxers From 8 Towns Appear on Thrilling Program

Seven Wayne Entries Make Good Showing

One of the largest and most enthusiastic crowds of boxing fans were on deck last night to see the boxing program sponsored by the local Legion boys. Twenty-two boxers from eight towns appeared on the program. Wayne lead the list with seven entries, Columbus was second with five, and Pender, Page and Bancroft followed with three, two, and one in the order named. Advance ticket sales were a bit slow because of precarious weather conditions, however, sponsors of the amateur event were more than pleased when the large crowd began to gather early. Fans were not all in agreement with decisions as is generally the case and partisan sentiment was freely expressed but all in all, it was one of those fine programs that only the Legion boys can put on.

State Press Convention Inspires Editors, Herald Wins 1st Award

The Nebraska Press Conference was one of the most inspirational meetings it has been our privilege to attend for many moons. Unlike many such meetings, instead of the program being cluttered with political dogma, most of the speaking and discussion centered on problems of the publishing business as related to community enterprise. The seriousness with which the group listened and entered into discussion evidenced the eagerness with which newspaper men enter into the building of morale during these trying times. Wayne people should feel very proud that one of their newspapers won the award for being Nebraska's most excellent weekly. It was our pleasure to bring the good news to Editor Huse as he was not present when the announcement was made. We would feel somewhat like a slacker if we returned from that inspirational meeting and failed to bring back to our community one suggestion which might contribute to business morale.

In fact the suggestion we have in mind was not born at the convention. And further, in a sense, it is not so much our own suggestion but rather the suggestion of others we have chatted with in Wayne before and since the newspaper meeting. It is the suggestion that Wayne needs an organization encompassing the personnel of its business and professional men and women into one group, with the dominate purpose of selling Wayne to Wayne people and to people in our trade territory. Some may choose to call such an organization a Commercial club, a Chamber of Commerce or a community club—it makes little difference just so every businessman and woman, every professional man and woman is included in its personnel. It seems to us that Wayne has about every desirable organization except a composite group whose primary purpose and function is to sell Wayne to Wayne and to its trade territory. We would not want to be misunderstood, this suggestion is not a criticism from new residents who do not grasp the civic pride prevalent among the citizens of Wayne, it does not come from someone disgruntled. But rather it animates from the conviction that the actual expression of strength of selling Wayne is far short of its potential expression. And we know of no other way to harness this unused force than through the medium of some kind of an organization made up of all business and professional men and women. Several people have expressed this same conviction to us many times during the few months we have been in Wayne.

Someone may say "we once had such an organization, it served its purpose and died a natural death." Others may say "look about you, note the evidences of the influence of such an organization in years past, it served its purpose, there is nothing left to be done." To this we would say, "we doubt if there ever has been a time when there was a greater need for concerted positive action to promote the best interests of Wayne.

Without the function of such an organization a city the size of Wayne cannot present a united effort along a front of common interests. With it scarcely no obstacle is too great to be overcome. Business along Main street still is not so good. No one is ashamed to say so. Yet there is nothing in a co-operative way being done about it. No one likes it. Most folks dislike to subscribe to the idea that there is nothing which can be done until another crop or two comes along or until the government does, this or that. It is not so easy to find a guaranteed solution to the local morbidity of business but you don't have to go far to find someone who thinks something ought to be attempted. We can see not harm in discussing mutual problems and solutions affecting the community in a group whose aim is to promote business in Wayne.

We do not believe Wayne has reached its full capacity in business development in this territory. A city which has an organization and committees within organizations to care for practically every auxiliary of business and community life ought to have a major organization to promote the major interests of business.

Should Wayne Be Listed Among the Leading Cities in White Spot.

Why should Wayne be omitted from the list of prominent cities in the Nation's White Spot publicity? The apparent reason is because its population falls below the 2,500 mark as only those cities above that appear in an attractive 32-page publication just off the press and being circulated by Associated Industries of Nebraska. In our opinion Wayne should have been placed on the white spot map along with the 34 other prominent Nebraska cities. A brief summary of Wayne's many advantages should have been listed along with Norfolk, Crete, Blair, Seward, Aurora, Broken Bow, Wahoo, Schuyler, Gering, and others. Wayne in many respects is better situated and possesses certain advantages over many Nebraska cities, and if any publicity is given the world on Nebraska's most attractive cities, Wayne should be one of them. A hundred or two hundred people should not be the dividing line. We do not know whether concerted action of business was a determining factor in their selection, nevertheless had it been a force Wayne would still have been left out in the cold because we have no such organization to express ourselves. No individual or organization of less responsibility is going to act for business interest with the precision that a Chamber of Commerce or Commercial Club can and will.

On Saturday night the losers of the semi-finals meet at 7, at 8 the Class C playoff will be held, and at 9 the Class B championship battle takes place.

Winners of the tournament will receive the regular association trophy and runners-up will receive a basketball. Winners are also entitled to compete in the state tournament to be held in Lincoln March 10-12.

Marketing Quotas

Marketing quotas, the compulsory feature of the new farm program, is something which every farmer will want to thoroughly understand.

Just how compulsory is this program? Take an example. You are a farmer outside the soil conservation program.

This quota provision goes into effect, and the secretary, through the county committee, assigns you a marketing quota of 2,000.

Now the question comes up, where have you been hurt? Chances are your 2,000 bushels, sold on the market are worth as much as the 2,400 bushels would have been worth had there been no marketing quota.

This is the extent of the marketing quota plan. Does it sound very terrible?

Remember the alternative would have been to let surpluses pile up until prices smashed themselves.

Economic Democracy In short the farm program is nothing more or less than an attempt to make economic democracy a success among farmers.

To assure the success of an economic democracy among farmers patience and co-operation will be as necessary as it sometimes is in assuring the success of a political democracy in the nation.

Since 1932 Farm cash income up 85 per cent. Farm prices up 75 per cent. Farm real estate values up 16 per cent.

It looks to us that the farmer is gaining rather than losing his independence.

Recession and Business Appraisal

It is good news that the tide of business recession has not only reached its maximum flood point, but that it is receding.

Among the many things disturbed, perhaps personnel receives the greatest shock when a recession hits business.

Most any business head will strive to get his particular vehicle into full speed ahead, or at least forward motion, as quickly as the recession gears are dislodged.

Wayne Completes 1937 Farm Program

With initial benefit payments to co-operating farmers scheduled to get underway in Nebraska soon, all speed possible is being used to finish up the 1937 agricultural conservation program in Wayne county.

The first payments in Nebraska under the 1937 program will probably be made to Chase county farmers, according to word received here by the county committee.

Applications totaling 356 have now been approved from that county and are in Kansas City for payment.

Summaries from other counties are being audited in Lincoln daily and applications sent back for individual signature of co-operators.

Applications for payment for producers' signature should reach Wayne county in the near future.

Contour Farming Saves Tractor Fuel

"A dollar saved is a dollar made," and Herman Link, Buffalo county landowner, doesn't object to making dollars.

"I am confident that I have saved from 25 to 50 per cent on tractor fuel since I began farming my fields on the contour," Link says.

"The even pull, always on the level, puts less strain on my equipment, too. But that is only a part of the story, for the greatest benefit I believe comes from holding the soil on my fields.

The additional stored moisture has also been a great help to crops during the drouth years. Contour farming is a good practice."

During the spring of 1935, assisted by the forest service, Link constructed terraces on 49 acres of his cultivated land and in 1935 co-operating with the Ravenna Soil Conservation camp, he constructed terraces on 20 acres more.

Aided by the Ravenna Soil Conservation Service camp, Link planted 4,800 trees during the early spring last year. The trees are to aid in the control of erosion.

To Plan Pasture Live Stock Program

That the Wayne county Farm Bureau will actively sponsor a pasture-forage-live stock program during 1938 was definitely indicated this week.

The plan will dovetail in with the statewide program.

Details of the program will be available immediately after Agricultural Agent Walter Moller attends a district conference at Norfolk on February 16. Upon his return, local plans will be set up in acquainting farmers with the general educational program with major emphasis upon improved pastures, more forage and better livestock.

As a part of the general statewide educational plan, a statewide pasture-forage-live stock program is also being scheduled to be held this year.

It replaces the pasture improvement contest of previous years. Co-operating in the event are the following: Nebraska college of agriculture, agricultural extension service, Omaha Chamber of Commerce, Nebraska Crop Growers' association and Nebraska Live Stock Breeders' association.

Details of the plan are to be discussed at the district conference.

Crops Loan Program Benefits Birds

Game birds in the corn belt states are going to share in advantages of the crop loans program for corn.

Their share will not be great but it will be welcome in cold and snowy weather when the distribution will be made.

The bureau of biological survey explains how this happens. Thousands of farmers are applying for crop loans on corn.

Each applicant has to send in at least one sample of about a pound of shelled corn for testing of moisture content.

State laboratories will make the tests, which include cracking the kernels but do not harm the corn as food for birds.

Thus each laboratory will have a quantity of cracked corn, and the biological survey has volunteered to see that this is used on federal refuges for game birds on short rotations because of wintry weather.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

For Winter Meals.
SCALLOPED dishes are favorites for cold weather because it is a pleasure to use the oven, and because the blended flavor of foods makes such delicious finished products. The tartness of tomatoes complements most any meat that is being served, and while there are almost unlimited ways of making the dish, you may enjoy trying the following recipe:
Scalloped Tomatoes.
1 No. 2 1/2 can tomatoes 1 tbs. sugar
1 tbs. minced onion 2 cups bread crumbs
1 tbs. salt 4 tbs. butter
1 tbs. oil
Combine the tomatoes with the onion and arrange a layer in a baking dish. Mix the salt and sugar with the bread crumbs and blend with melted butter. Place a layer of crumbs over the tomatoes, add another layer of tomatoes, crumbs, and so on until the dish is filled and ingredients used. Leave crumbs on top. Bake about 30 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees).

PETER RABBIT FIGHTS WITH HIMSELF

THAT'S a funny thing to do—to fight with yourself—isn't it? But that is what Peter Rabbit did—fought with himself. Yes, sir, Peter fought with himself, and it was a hard fight. You know, that kind of fighting is the very hardest kind of fighting in the world. You see, it was this way: Peter had been lucky, very lucky. He had started out to follow Busy Bee from the Green Meadows to her storehouse in the Green Forest, and almost right away he had lost sight of her.

Then He Knew That Just by Chance He Had Found the Storehouse of Busy Bee.

But he kept on deep into the Green Forest, wandering this way and that way, until he had grown so tired that he just had to sit down at the foot of a big tree to rest. And as he rested he had heard a humming sound way up high over his head, and it sounded as if it came from inside the great tree. When Peter looked up he saw Busy Bee and all her relations—coming and going—near the top of the tree. Then he knew that just by chance he had found the storehouse of Busy Bee.
How Peter's heart did leap! He did a little joy dance all by himself, with no one to see, just because he was so tickled. "Now," said Peter to himself, "I will tell Buster Bear, and he will be so pleased that he will always be friendly to me, and I need never be afraid of him any more. They say he loves honey better than anything else in the world. I'll hurry and tell him as soon as I can before anyone else finds this storehouse and gets ahead of me."

Peter started off, lipperty-lipperty-lip, as fast as he could go to look for Buster Bear, but he had gone only a little way when he stopped suddenly. He had remembered what Bumble, the cousin of Busy Bee, had said when he had asked him to tell him where Busy Bee's storehouse was. Bumble had been indignant, very indignant. He had hummed and buzzed angrily. He had said some very sharp things to Peter about people who went about making trouble for others. Peter had gone home to the dear old Briar Patch and thought it all over and had made up his mind that Bumble was right. It was a dreadful thing to make trouble for others, and he didn't want to do anything of the kind. But that was before he had found the storehouse of Busy Bee. Then it had been easy to make up his mind that he would do nothing like that. But now—well, now it was different. First he scratched his long right ear with his long left hind foot. Then he scratched his long left ear with his long right hind foot.

"I don't know that Buster Bear will make any trouble for Busy Bee," thought Peter, and hopped on a few steps.

"Yes, you do, too," said a small voice inside, and Peter sat down.

"If I don't tell him, someone else will," thought Peter, and started on again.

"Perhaps no one else will find the storehouse," said the small voice inside, and Peter stopped hopping.

"Someone is sure to," thought Peter, once more starting on. "If they do it is no business of yours," said the small voice, and Peter sat down.

"I'm going to tell!" said Peter fiercely, and began to hurry faster than ever.

"You're not either! You couldn't be so mean!" protested the small voice, and just as before Peter sat still.

Now, all this time, that Peter had been fighting with himself he had been too busy to watch out, and so he did not see the crafty face of Reddy Fox peeping out from behind an old stump just ahead of him. Reddy was grinning wickedly, for he saw that Peter was once was not looking for danger. Two more jumps and Peter would be right where Reddy could spring on him.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"The Murdering Horde"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, EVERYBODY:
Here, boys and girls, is one of the strangest yarns I have seen in a long time—sent to me by Edward E. Kaplan of New York City. It is a story that takes us to India, the land of oddity and mystery—to the year 1928 when, as Ed says, wild animal films were coming money for their producers.

Ed is a movie cameraman, and that's how he happened to be in India with a crew that was taking animal pictures. They were in the Rajmahal hills, near Kartarbari, in Behar province—quartered at the edge of the jungle, not far from the tents of a semi-savage native tribe. The natives were friendly. Somebody had once built a mud and plaster house up there. So the movie crew moved into it.

Says Ed: "One of my first acts was to take out my girl's picture and nail it on the wall. A native boy frowned as I started, but I ignored his warning. As I drove in the first nail the plaster crumbled, leaving an inch wide hole. The boy drew back, and I soon knew why."

Black Bugs Came Out of the Hole.

"An ugly black bug came out of the hole—and dozens and scores more followed the first. I couldn't stop them until the boy brought a piece of wet paper to plug the hole and killed all those crawling around us. Then I understood why the natives lived in tents. Hordes of insects hounded the walls of every house built in that locality."

Now let's leave those strange bugs till later. On the twelfth day, Ed came down with fever, and the crew went off leaving him behind. Ed tossed feverishly on his cot all day. In the evening they still hadn't returned, so Ed spent that first dreadful night alone.

At dawn, though, he was awakened by loud cries from the native tents. He lay still for a while, wondering what was wrong, for he felt too weak to get up and investigate. By raising himself on his elbows,

Still They Came Mounting Up and Up.

though, he could see through the open doorway. The sun beat down with a bright, powerful heat, and the ground shimmered like lacquer. Then, strangely enough, Ed saw a shadow—an immense black one, with a shadow shadow.

It was a long time before he realized what that shadow was. Then, suddenly, it came to him. Ants! Millions of them, moving in a great wave. Ed had seen those ants in small groups. They were long, and black, with vicious biting fangs. He had heard that they came in a great seasonal drove and that they devoured everything that was before them.

Nothing Could Stop the Ant Horde.

The natives said they could kill a trapped elephant. No matter how you fought them they came on and on—millions of them to replace all that could be slain.

"My cot," says Ed, "offered me no safety from that oncoming horde. I was too weak to run. There was a half-barrel of boiled, purified water in one corner of the room. Also there were several film cans. I dragged myself over to them.

"The leading couriers of the ant pack were on the door sill as I filled four of the film cans with water and dragged them over to the table. In a few minutes I had each table leg resting in a can full of water. When I had finished, several ants were climbing my ankles. I staggered to my feet and crawled up on the table."

Ed had no sooner gotten himself set on that table than the ants began coming in droves. The floor became black—solid black—every inch of it. And still hordes of the insects came crawling on. They poured into a mouse hole in the wall. They scoured nests of other insects looking for eggs. They swarmed over the movie crew's food supply like one great, black blanket. An army of them tried to reach Ed. As fast as they mounted the water cans to reach the table legs, they drowned.

"But," says Ed, "the drowned ants floated. The live ones began crawling across over their bodies. They got to the table legs. I smashed them as fast as I could, but one table leg was covered with them, and still they came, mounting up and up."

They Fled From the Dreadful Bugs.

Ed began to think he was done for just about then—began to think he had come all the way to India just to furnish a meal to a flock of scavenger ants. But suddenly there was a crash. A wall, undermined by the ants, collapsed. Plaster fell all around. Then followed a strange spectacle.

"Out of the wall," says Ed, "came a shower of the ugly black bugs that I had seen the day before when I tried to tack up my girl's photo. At the sight of those bugs, the ants turned to flee. The black bugs went crawling after them. Death fought death!

"The ants outnumbered the bugs, thousands to one. They could have slaughtered them easily. But they fled before the bugs as though they dreaded their very sight. Sicker than ever, I watched the shadowy wave move on. In half an hour not a single ant was in sight, but I stayed on the table until late that evening when the members of my party returned. If they hadn't taken my camera along with them what a picture I could have filmed. And all they got was a 'shot' of a swinging monkey!"

Dutch Olykoeks

Dutch olykoeks, or stuffed raised doughnuts, were made with great ceremony. The yeast was set to lighten a little after noon. Just before supper this was made into a rich dough by the addition of many eggs, much butter, and nutmeg flavoring. At bedtime the dough was kneaded. Next morning it was shaped into balls, each stuffed with a mixture of chopped apple, raisins, and candied peel. These were left to rise until after dinner, when they were cooked in hot fat and then rolled generously in sugar.

Genre Painting

Though practiced in early art, as Pompeian frescoes show, and in the Middle Ages, genre painting was not recognized independently, until the Sixteenth century in Flanders, where it was popularized by Pieter Bruegel. It reached its heyday in Holland in the Seventeenth century with Gerard Dou, Ter Borch, Metsu, De Hooch, Vermeer and others of note and extended to France and England in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth centuries. Among its exponents were Watteau, Chardin, Morland, Vibert, Boughton and Wilkie.

Seeds to the Pound

Seed dealers talk glibly of the numbers of seed to the pound; did you know that lobelia has 12,000,000 seed to the pound, and that there are more than 4,000,000 tiny potentilla red clover plants in one pound?

Birds Have Equal Rights

The female phalarope attained equal rights ages ago. Its plumage, contrary to general rule, is brighter than the male's and it runs at large while the male minds the eggs.

Kolinski From Weasel Animal.

Kolinski fur is from a weasel animal, found on the Island of Kolim. It was a Russian who found the island, and also discovered the animal. The suffix "ski" in Russian is possessive; hence, the name Kolinski.

Artillery Ranges

Artillery of the period of 1800 was fired at a maximum range of 1,000 yards. The most effective range is at a point-blank range which is approximately 300 yards.

Three Frocks—a Wardrobe

IF YOU want to be all set for a full and gay Spring, have these three dresses in your wardrobe. Something for morning, something for street and a lovely frock for afternoon parties. All three are easy to make. And you can have the complete group for a fraction of what you would usually spend, if you make them at home.

Shirtwaist Style.
Trim and tailored, this is the favorite silhouette for Spring. The skirt with kick pleat back and front is fun to wear, very comfortable for walking and going about your daily work. Note the yoke top and inverted pleat in back of bodice to permit perfect freedom.

Princess for Morning.
You'll feel sweet as sixteen in this pretty square-necked princess dress with fitted lines. The silhouette is simple. Note the pretty sleeves, puffed high, to make the waistline look even smaller. Choose a pretty cotton print or one of the new rayons to make a dress as charming as the one shown. You'll find the pattern complete with sew chart telling you exactly how to proceed.

Fitted Lines for Afternoon.
Look lovely and picturesque in this frock on molded lines with uplift at the waist and soft shirring in front of bodice. The roll collar and low V neckline is very slenderizing. You'll enjoy the good lines, the flattery of this dress and its grand wearability. Whether it is a luncheon for six or a dinner at eight, you'll be correctly dressed in this frock.

The Patterns.
1976 is designed for sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 34 requires 4 1/4 yards of 35-inch fabric.
1452 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 16

TIPS to Gardeners

Know Your Soil
A GARDENER who knows the quality and texture of his soil can get maximum returns from his garden.

Clayey soils require careful handling, but are productive. Sandy soils are early. Sandy loams are just about ideal for most home garden crops.

Peas, lettuce, cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, beets, carrots, radish and onion like moderately cool, moist conditions during development. Plant them early so they will develop before the extreme heat of summer arrives.

Plant them again later, timing the planting so they will mature during the cool, moist fall months. Sweet corn, beans, tomato, pepper, egg plant, cucumber, melons, squash and pumpkin are not as hardy as those listed above and prefer plenty of heat, sunlight and ample moisture for best development.

They should be planted later than peas, lettuce and carrots, so as to come into maturity during the warmest weeks of summer.

requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch fabric.
1451 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 38 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39-inch fabric. For collar in contrast 3/4 yard.

Bees' Ancient Rookies Face 2nd Year Jinx

By GEORGE A. BARCLAY
CAN Jim Turner and Lou Fette, the Boston Bees' "graybeard rookies," escape the second year jinx that baffles so many baseball sophomores after a sensational first year performance?

Jim Turner is a Milkman During Winter Months.

Jinx the same as they upset the tradition that minor league veterans can't make good in the big leagues. Getting their first big-league trial after more than a decade in the minors, these astonishing veterans each won 20 games for Boston in 1937, or more than Fireball Van Lingle Mungo has ever won in a single season.

Baseball Fatalists

Neither pitcher expects to duplicate his 1937 performance, for they are baseball realists and know that bad breaks, poor support, injuries and any one of a number of things can turn the tide against them. But they don't expect to have a poor season. They think they have a better chance of getting by the jinx than lots of young fellows because of their experience, maturity, attention to keeping in condition and their complete lack of over-confidence.

Age Creeps On

After they passed the age of twenty-five, they began to be resigned, but kept plugging along anyway. Scouts who might happen to see them pitch would say: "They're good bushers, but not big time caliber. Too old. Not enough zip."

Here and There

IRVING BUMP HADLEY, former White Sox pitcher, who was with the Yankees last year, aspires to be the American league's official photographer. Syracuse university has added bowling to its list of varsity sports. Undergraduates bowled a total of 50,000 games at the university last year.

Twenty-three years after he set the world speed skating record of 41 1/5 seconds for 440 yards Norval Baptie skated the distance in 41 4/5 seconds on a bet. The first baseball broadcast, a telegraphic report of a world series game in 1921, was filed by the late W. O. McGeehan, who closed his description with a raspberry for radio and the announcement, "It's just a fad."

Home to Big Ten

Returning to the Big Ten conference for the third time, Herbert O. "Fritz" Crisler takes the job of football coach and assistant director of athletics at the University of Michigan, left vacant when Harry Kipke was fired a while back. Crisler came first to the conference as a gangling, round-shouldered kid at the University of Chicago about the close of the World War.

Under his six-year tutelage Princeton won 35 games, lost nine and tied five. Two of his Princeton teams went undefeated, in 1933 and again in 1935, each eleven winning nine straight games.

Incidentally, the Big Ten to which Crisler is returning recently celebrated its forty-second birthday. In 1896 the appointed faculty representatives of seven large midwestern universities met for the first time as the organization which today stands as a leader of 73 similar college alliances scattered throughout the United States.

Institute of Golf

Robert T. "Bobby" Jones, Jr., lawyer and golfer supreme, has added another title to his distinguished list. He is director of the recently launched American Golf Institute.

phased the words "all kinds." He said: "We do not plan to compete or conflict with the U. S. G. A., the Professional Golfers' association, and others, but we will do all in our power to stimulate interest in golf as a game. We'll answer questions, give advice on financial matters, on club layouts. In fact, anything that is golf."

Schmitt-Clark Nuptials

Miss Cecile Schmitt, daughter of George Schmitt, and Raymond Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Clark were married in Wayne last Tuesday morning by Rev. Kearns. The bride was attractively gowned in a turquoise blue knit suit with brown accessories. Miss Gertrude Schmitt served as bridesmaid and wore a navy blue suit with black accessories. Norman Clark, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. After the ceremony dinner was served at the Geo. Schmitt home for close relatives. The home had been decorated in blue and silver, the bride's chosen colors. A wedding cake formed the centerpiece at the dinner table. From the Month's Letters

(Wayne County Teacher) Dec. 11, 1938

District 29. Dear Miss Sewell: Our school gave a Christmas program on December 9. We sold blanket, a box of groceries and a lunch. The net proceeds totaled $15. With this money we plan to buy playground equipment.

We have had very good attendance in our school. The following have been neither absent nor tardy: Viola, Mabel, Lenola, Paul, Arline and Herbert Brader; Earl, Robert and Edward Thies, and Harvey Reeg.

Robert and Nyla Lindsay entered our school. They had been attending in Wayne.

Emma Dangberg, Teacher

District 55. Dear Miss Sewell:

I received the pencil which you sent as a reward for the sale of Christmas seals. Kenneth is very proud of it, and expressed a hearty "Thank You."

School opened January 3 after a week and one day of Christmas vacation. Every one was glad to be back. We have had three pupils absent all week due to their having scarlet fever. Otherwise school is progressing nicely.

Bernice Holoubek, Teacher

District 81. Dear Miss Sewell:

The second semester of school has started and everything is progressing nicely.

A nice crowd attended our Christmas program. A box of candy was sold and lunch was served. We cleared $23.00. We have purchased song books with part of the money.

New toilets were built during Christmas vacation.

Following is a list of the new library books that we purchased this year: Old Abe, Daniel Boone, Navarre of the North, Moccasin Trail, Red Feathers, Adventures, Red Feather's Home Coming, The Story of Jesus, Twilight Tales, and Four Little Puppies.

We have organized a rhythm band in our school and have played many different pieces.

We are planning a little party for Valentine's Day.

Lucille Eriksen, Teacher

District 60. Dear Miss Sewell:

Half of our school year has passed now and we have been greeted by several new pupils lately.

On January 3, we were greeted by Harold Wittler, a seventh grader, from district 83. At the same time we lost Dona Lee Muehlmeier, a first grader, as she is not going to attend during the winter months.

Last Tuesday, January 11, Elsie Muehlmeier, a fifth grader, left us to attend a parochial school in Norfolk. On Thursday morning we were greeted by four new pupils from district 81. They were: Chris Wiese, a seventh grader; Leonard and Erma Mae Wiese, sixth graders; and Marcella Wiese, a fifth grader. This makes an enrollment of 13. Everyone enjoyed the increase, especially the seventh and eighth grade class, which now number 6.

On December 17 we presented a Christmas program before a capacity house. We cleared $21.50 which we intend to use for various school supplies.

We received a new portable phonograph and our library books some time ago. Both are enjoyed by the pupils very much. A list of the books are: Wags and Woofie, Jacko-The Dingo Boy, Jean and Jerry's Vacation, Smoky, One Boy Too Many, Understood Betty, Goody Two Shoes and The Little Brown Bear.

Frances Langenberg, Teacher

District 18. Dear Miss Sewell:

Time flies so fast, it hardly seems possible that five months of the school year are gone.

The pupils and teacher presented a program the evening of December 16. Lunch was sold afterward. Proceeds will be used to buy playground equipment.

Molly May Lage, Donna Belle Brocker and Kermit Andrews received prizes for winning the first semester health contest.

Our health chart now is a cardboard schoolhouse. It has ten windows in it, one for each pupil. In each window is pasted a picture of the pupil. If he or she passes health inspection and is neither absent nor tardy, his or her window may be opened for the day.

Only one pupil, Donald Brugi-gan, has been neither absent nor tardy.

Edith Sals, Teacher

District 66. Our school was very glad to welcome a new pupil at the beginning of the third quarter. Her name is Joanne Wert. She started January 17 and is in the second grade. She formerly attended in district 57. There are now seven children in our school.

We have purchased some new library books. There are a number of books for the younger children such as: The Four Little Kittens, The Four Little Puppies, Farm Pets, Little Red Riding Hood and The Three Bears.

We also have a book, "Our Presidents," and "Red Feathers." We intend to get The Eskimo Twins, East of the Sun and West of the Moon and The Bobsey Twins.

The sixth grade has been writing original poems and are doing very nicely with them. They have also made window decorations of Abraham Lincoln and are studying his life. We are also making plans for a Valentine Party.

Margaret Wade, Teacher

District 77. Everything is coming along just fine in school. Two fine new sanitary toilets have been built, and also a new front porch.

The pupils made a number of Christmas presents for their parents. We have a sort of manual training class at noons when the weather is bad. The pupils enjoy doing this kind of work.

In October we received the following library books: Uncle Tom's Cabin, The Little Colonel, and a complete set of Alice and Jerry readers. This group of readers is fine supplementary reading for all grades.

Attendance has been quite regular thus far. Three students, Kathryn Bolling, Phyllis Bargstadt, and Marjorie Fler have had perfect attendance for five months.

Leonard Nelson, Teacher

District 21. Dear Miss Sewell:

Pupils of district 21 gave their Christmas program the 16th of December. This was the regular meeting of the P. T. A. with pupils and teacher giving the entertainment. Refreshments were served by patrons after the program.

We enjoyed a week of caca-tion during the holidays.

At the P. T. A. meeting of December 16, it was decided by the parents that they visit the school on January 13, thus observing Patron's Day. The regular class work of the school was shown during the afternoon. The pupils gave a short dialogue on "Safety and Traffic Regulations." Refreshments were served by the patrons at 4 o'clock. Everyone reported that they had enjoyed the afternoon.

Our new library books are: The World Would Be Well, The Swiss Wood Carver, The Dutch Tulip Girl, The Friendly Village for the Second Grade and Health Stories for the third and fourth grades.

The Knighthood of Youth Club (The Jolly Workers) elected new officers January 14. Each group of officers serves for a period of six weeks.

The third and fourth grades have built an Eskimo scene in the sandtable for the month of January.

Blanche Johnson, Teacher

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Corbit and Jimmie Joe were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Corbit.

Christmas Seal Sale

(Wayne County Teacher)

Christmas Seals amounting to $315.29 worth were sold in Wayne county this year.

Miss Marshall writes: "We greatly appreciate this wonderful cooperation on the part of your teachers and their pupils, and would ask that you please thank them for us, when the opportunity presents itself.

It is good that children should know of this great world-wide movement for helping others and be given a chance to do their part and prepare themselves for their future responsibilities as citizens."

A great many double barred cross pins were given out to pupils who sold 25 seals at one cent each.

Forty-eight pupils of town and rural schools received pencils for selling 100 seals and 29 received notebooks instead of pencils. Two First Aid kits, 3 of the 8 1/2 inch Weaver Scholastic balls, 12 of the 12-inch Official Soft Balls and 9 of the 9-inch Champion outseam playground balls were earned by the town schools. The rural schools in districts number 13, 15, 22, 23, 47, 59, 61, 64, 65 and the higher room in the Trinity Lutheran school at Altona, each received one of the 9-inch Champion outseam playground balls for selling $4 worth or more.

District 1 received one of the 9-inch balls for having the highest per capita sale.

There are only two sixth grade boys in the school. They each sold one dollar's worth.

Half of the money sent in comes back to us for health work in the county. During the past year glasses have been purchased for six children, lenses changed for another, and some paid on three tonsil operations.

Following is given the number of the district, the name of the teacher, and the amount sold in each district:

Table with 3 columns: Dist. No., Teacher, Amt. Lists districts 1 through 88 with corresponding teacher names and amounts.

Wayne Farmers Plant Native Shrubs

With Wayne county people becoming more interested each week in spring tree planting, they are now considering the advisability of using native shrubs for planting about their farmsteads for beautification. They are also thinking about the use of hedges to protect home gardens from destructive winds.

Native shrubs are usually easily obtainable for such purposes, says Agricultural Agent Walter Moller. They are hardy and also attractive.

Earl G. Maxwell, junior extension forester at the Nebraska agricultural college, pointed this week to the experience of James A. Pitner of Hitchcock county. He has made use of a large number of hedge plantings about his farm and is greatly pleased with results. In his planting are chokecherries, buffalo berries, flowering currant, fragrant sumac.

Apply for Seedlings

Lancaster county this week took the lead in interest in Clarke-McNary tree planting for 1938 with applications on file at the Nebraska college of agriculture for 3,900 seedlings. In second place is Boone county while Platte and Holt counties are tied for third position in number applied for to date. Scotts Bluff county is fifth.

Locally Wayne county farmers are continuing to make application for the seedlings. To date they have asked for 3,600. The trees are distributed by the Farm Bureau office and are distributed in the spring for planting in windbreaks and wood lots around farmsteads.

Eighth Grade Exams

(Wayne County Teacher)

The dates for the eighth grade examinations to be held in the different towns of the county are Monday and Tuesday, April 12 and 19, 1938 and Monday, May 9, 1938.

It is recommended that seventh grade pupils be permitted to take the eighth grade examinations in bookkeeping or farm accounts, physiology, general geography, and English composition if they have completed the assigned work in these subjects. The English composition examination will be based on the course of study in English composition and grammar for the seven grades. The grammar examinations will be taken by the eighth grade pupils only and may be based on the entire English course.

The general average in the 14 required subjects must be at least 75 per cent with no grade below 60 per cent. Only grades of 75 or above earned in a previous examination will hold good for either seventh or eighth graders. A grade of 60 earned last year will not hold good, but a grade of 60 earned this year will hold good for eighth graders.

Pupils may retake all subjects in which they do not have a grade of 80 or above in a previous examination. They are not to retake any in which they have a grade of 85 or above.

College Dramatics Class Presents Drama March 18

"Girls In Uniform" by Christa Winslow will be presented March 18 at the college auditorium. The college dramatics class under the direction of Miss Florence M. Drake, will appear in this play which was adapted from the German play, "Gestern Und Heute." This drama tells with delicate pathos of a girl's love for her teacher in a German school where the pupils are ruled by the iron hand of discipline. In an unguarded moment of hilarity, the lonely student, Manuela, proclaims her adoration for her teacher, Fraulein von Bernburg. The punishment administered by the tyrannical head mistress of this Prussianized school for what she chooses to regard as a depravity, brings the story gradually and relentlessly towards its inevitable climax. The film "Madchen In Uniform" which is based on this story, was so successful it is being revived.

Wayne Couple Married Wed.

Etlein Aevermann Is Bride of John Brudigan

Under an improvised archway of green and white streamers, from which hung a large white wedding bell, Miss Etlein Aevermann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Aevermann, became the bride of Frank Brudigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brudigan. The wedding took place at the Aevermann home Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Rev. F. C. Doctor read the double ring ceremony lines in the presence of thirty-five guests.

Miss Elta Nelson, cousin of the bridegroom, and Harvey Aevermann, brother of the bride, were attendants.

The bride was attired in white tiana pebble crepe of floor length fashioned with a tight fitting bodice. Her white floor length veil was stirred onto a wreath of waxed orange blossoms to form a bonnet. Her accessories were white. The bride carried a bouquet of roses and daffodils.

The bridesmaid wore an ankle-length gown of aqua blue with white accessories.

Following the ceremony, a 6 o'clock wedding dinner was served at the Aevermann home. The modernistic three-tiered wedding cake baked by the bride formed the centerpiece of the bridal table. Miss Irene Bartling and Miss Frances Baker served.

The young couple will live on a farm southeast of Wayne.

Wright Forfeits Prizes Because Golfers Oversleep

Earned prizes which because of a foursome ruling were forfeited last Friday to open the Coryell "70" service station on the Walter Savidge property on South Main street. Because a couple of fellows from Wayne, Neb., overslept yesterday, C. E. Wright lost an automobile load of gifts for making a hole-in-one.

Mr. Wright, Russell Larson, L. W. McNatt and W. C. Coryell, all of Wayne, for the past several weeks have made up a foursome at the municipal links. But yesterday McNatt and Larson were held abed by the soporific gulf breezes and the other two made their way to the links.

On the second hole, a par three 115-yarder, Wright teed off, and for the first time in his 18 years of golfing, watched the ball dive into the cup for a hole-in-one.

Afterward he learned that if he had been playing in a foursome, he would have received the following: A dinner for four from the Seawall Cafe, a dinner for four from the Turf Grill, a sweater from Leopold-Shaefer & Co., a shirt and tie from W. T. Grant Co., $2 in merchandise from Charner Skains Sporting Goods store, six golf balls from the American Printing Co., a case of Falstaff beer from the Burns Distributing Co., a cabinet smoker from Kahn & Levy, a flashlight from New Electric Co., a quart of salad dressing or a quart of relish from Corbin Sales Co., five cartons of cigarettes from the Cotton Exchange Grill, $2 in

Native Trees Used in Erosion Control

Native trees from stream banks will be planted this spring to demonstrate methods of economical erosion control on Nebraska farms. This announcement was made this week by R. E. Engstrom, state co-ordinator for the Soil Conservation Service. The trees will be used for gully control, for wood and post lots on eroding hillside fields and for windbreaks, Engstrom explained. In all cases they will be planted where they will help check soil losses. Dug-by-CCC-boys-in-camps doing field work under the supervision of the Soil Conservation Service, the trees will be given free to farmers on camp and demonstration erosion control project areas who have signed 5-year cooperative agreements with the Service calling for the institution and use of a complete erosion-control program. Other farmers interested in using native trees for erosion control are invited to visit the demonstration projects and observe the success of the native seedlings.

New Wayne Creamery Co-ordinates Farm and City Service

Concrete evidence of the interdependence of farm and city for their mutual welfare is illustrated in the completion of the new Wayne Creamery. Since coming to Wayne seven years ago Edw. Seymour, owner of the creamery has endeavored to extend the usefulness of his business both city and countryward. Was it not for this dual objective the new creamery might never have been possible.

Within a fortnight the new structure will be officially opened much to the credit of Mr. Seymour and equally to the credit of farmers in this territory and citizens of Wayne.

Plans are now being made for the opening. A complete announcement will appear in the near future. It is hoped that weather will be favorable so that farmers from near and far will be able to attend. Mr. Seymour states that the grand opening has been planned at a time when it will be most convenient for farmers to attend.

Sorghum Grain Suited for Feed

Compares Favorably With Corn for Sheep, Hogs

Definite evidence that sorghum grain compares favorably to corn for sheep and swine was advanced this week by Agricultural Agent Walter Moller. Data secured at the Nebraska Experiment Station and in a demonstration at Gibbon was cited.

The information is considered of utmost importance to Wayne County farmers who this year probably will plant a greater acreage to forage and grain sorghums than ever before. As a result much interest has been manifested in the experiments.

Four lots were included in the swine test at Lincoln conducted by Prof. Wm. L. Loeffel. The object of the test, the first conducted at the Lincoln station, was to determine the feeding value of white kafir corn as compared with yellow shelled corn and also to determine the need or desirability of grinding the kafir corn where self-feeding was followed. Prof. Loeffel said the result should be considered as preliminary and subject to verification in subsequent work.

The whole kafir appeared to be the most palatable grain. Pigs receiving whole kafir gained 1.82 pounds a day while the corn check lot gained 1.64 pounds. On the basis of grain required to produce 100 pounds of gain, the whole kafir proved to be practically 95 per cent as valuable as shelled corn.

As the kafir was ground more finely, the palatability declined; also the rate of gain. The feed required for 100 pounds of gain increased as the kafir was more finely ground. Loeffel concluded that even disregarding the cost of grinding, the whole kafir showed to best advantage.

Wayne county farmers were also informed this week of a sorghum grain-corn test conducted in the Marshall Ross feedlots at Gibbon. Three hundred producers inspected the sheep last week at a meeting held there. Two lots of 241 head each of Wyoming white-face lambs were fed out there for 73 days where in corn was compared to Sooner Milo.

Prof. M. A. Alexander who summarized the test said there appeared to be no great differences in the feeding value of the two grains. Daily gains were practically the same. The condition of the lambs at the conclusion of the test was considered the same in both lots. Charging both corn and milo off at 1 cent per pound, the cost of producing 100 pounds of gain on the corn lot was $8.17. On the milo lot it was $7.86.

A third test comparing corn to sorghum grain will be concluded soon at Franklin. There swine are in the test. A Sorghum-Swine Field Day is scheduled to be held there on February 22.

Mrs. Florence Hellberg spent the week-end in Columbus, visiting friends and relatives.

Test Seedlings With Artificial Drouth

Corn farmers in the Great Plains frequently are confronted in midsummer with days, or even weeks, of high temperatures with low humidity and deficient soil moisture.

Under such conditions it is necessary in any corn improvement program to know the tolerance of any new strain to drought and high temperatures. Wide variations in weather from year to year make testing of this tolerance under field conditions uncertain. Unfavorable weather ideal for testing any new strain may not occur in any year or even in a succession of years.

Specialists of Kansas State College devised a simple heat chamber with thermostatically controlled heat for testing the resistance of plants to heat. A small fan keeps the air in motion and insures uniform temperatures.

Corn specialists of the Kansas station and the United States Department of Agriculture placed 14-day-old seedlings in clay pots in the chamber at a temperature of 140 degrees Fahrenheit and a relative humidity of about 30 per cent. These seedlings showed a great difference in resistance to drought conditions. Some strains withstood the heat for several hours and when returned to normal growing conditions recovered 100 per cent. Others failed to recover.

Bureau Outlines Beef Cattle Situation

Prices of slaughter cows and of the lower grades of steers probably will not change greatly during the first half of 1938 although they usually advance seasonally from January to June, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Low Prices Causes Meat Campaign

With meat prices considerably lower now than in months past, a nationwide "eat meat" campaign was started this week.

The sharp drop in meat prices has come about in recent weeks. In 1937, meat prices reached their peak in the latter part of September. Since that time, beef, pork and lamb prices have all shown declines. Some cuts are selling as much as 50 per cent below the September prices.

In addition to lowered prices, there is an abundance of high quality meat on the market. The year 1937 was a year of excellent feed supplies in most states. This made it possible for live stock growers and feeders to put a good finish on the animals marketed. High quality meat and reasonable prices are regarded as definite advantages to the consumer.

Llewellyn Witmore who teaches in the Concord schools spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Whitmore.

Declines on record. With the number of cattle on feed in the corn belt states on January 1 about 15 per cent larger than the small number on feed in that area a year earlier, supplies of well-finished, grain-fed cattle are expected to increase considerably in the late winter and spring months.

THE HARMONIOUS HAM

Ham harmonizes beautifully with the pink color schemes so prevalent for Valentine parties. But the problem is to find a ham dish that's distinctive and a little different from the usual baked ham or ham loaf. If that's your problem—here's the answer. Ham Timbales exactly fit your specifications. They're delicious fluffy little custard-like molds, packed with bits of succulent pink ham. They are baked in muffin pans. And they are served with a rich creamy Bechamel Sauce. Can't you see how dainty and delicious one would look on a plate with a twice baked potato liberally dusted with paprika and a large spoonful of buttered green peas?

I'd introduce the meal with a refreshing fruit salad—a blushing pink tinted pear on a pineapple ring nestling in a crisp green lettuce cup and liberally anointed with a sweet French dressing. Tiny cream puffs filled with a pink pimiento cream cheese would keep company perfectly with this appetizer salad. Pink ice cream with heart-shaped cakes or cookies could complete this luncheon. Here's the complete menu and the recipe for the Ham Timbales with Bechamel Sauce:

- Fruit Salad in Crisp Lettuce Cups
- Tiny Cream Puffs filled with Pimiento Cream Cheese
- Ham Timbale Molds with Bechamel Sauce
- Radish Roses
- Pickles
- Green Peas
- Twice Baked Potatoes
- Peppermint or Raspberry Mousse
- Little Valentine Cakes or Cookies
- Coffee

Ham Timbales
4 eggs (or 8 egg yolks)      ¼ tsp. paprika
1 ½ cups milk                      1 tsp. onion juice or finely
1 tsp. salt                              chopped onion
¾ tsp. pepper                        1 cup chopped boiled ham

Beat the eggs slightly. Add the milk, salt, pepper, paprika, and onion. Add the ham. Turn into buttered individual molds, set molds into pan of water (having water reach about 1 inch up on molds), and cover tops of molds with a greased paper. Bake in a moderate oven, 350° F., for 30 minutes, or until a silver knife inserted in center of timbales comes out smooth and clean. Size of Molds: 2 ½ inches in diameter and 2 ¼ inches deep. Note: 1 cup cooked chicken or 1 cup fresh mushrooms sautéed in butter may be substituted for the 1 cup boiled ham. ¼ cup pimiento cut in pieces may be added to the timbale mixture if desired.

Bechamel Sauce
Melt 3 tbsp. butter in saucepan over a low heat. Blend in 4 tbsp. all-purpose flour. Add 1 cup heated meat stock (stock may be made by dissolving 1 bouillon cube in 1 cup boiling water). Remove from heat for a few minutes and stir to prevent lumping. Return to heat and add ¼ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. pepper, ¼ tsp. paprika. Blend in ½ cup cream. Cook until thickened... stirring constantly.

Betty Crocker Advises
Question: If I use margarine instead of butter in a recipe—do I use the same amount?
Answer: When margarine is used as "shortening" in cakes, biscuits and other baked products, it may be substituted measure for measure for butter or other commercial shortenings without changing the recipe.
Question: I have lots of chicken fat on hand. I know my mother used to use it for shortening in some of her cakes and things. But I don't know how to use it.
Answer: Of course, you'd clarify your chicken fat before using it as shortening. For each cup of butter or margarine use ¾ cup of clarified chicken fat.
Question: I often have fruit juice left over from canned fruits and never know what to do with it. It seems too good to throw away. Can you suggest any use?
Answer: There are at least a dozen ways to use this fruit juice so that it will be a delicious contribution to other foods. It's delightful used as liquid for rice puddings or brown betty—or as part of the water for gelatin salads and desserts. It can also be used as part of the water in baking apples, making apple sauce or in stewing dried fruits. You can even make it into delicious clear colorful jellies by adding commercial pectin to it. Marshmallow cherry jelly made this way is delightful for garnishes and desserts. Use fruit juice for basting roasts, or moistening mince meat. I like to substitute some of the fruit juice for part of the lemon juice in making a sweet French dressing to use over fruit salads. Of course, you can use it for delightful cold drinks. Try using the fruit juice for the water next time you're making a double boiler icing for a cake. Left-over fruit juice may be made into a sauce for a steamed pudding by simply thickening it with cornstarch and adding a little grated lemon or orange rind. I've even heard of using it to thicken evaporated milk in cake baking.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

Washington.—A horde of mediocre, irresponsible, yet well-dressed and smug people is an unnatural sight to behold. For, outside of Washington, men and women are known by their looks. The stamina of the laborer is written in his weathered face and on his hard hands.

But in Washington, as nowhere else, you see the dull, unworried tax leeches by tens of thousands, smug in futile security. From half past three on, just as the workers in competitive life are buckling down to make hay of the day's effort, the capital crowd swarms out of its marble palaces, gaily jamming the poky street cars and two-bit taxis, heading for cocktail lounges or more hours of indolence at home.

Along miles of corridors in the Departments of Commerce, Agriculture, Interior, Post Office, you see them going through the motions of work earlier in the day. But much of the work is mere motion, for by gesture and voice the worker reveals that it doesn't matter much whether the task turns out good or bad.

Not All Are Drones

How many of these jobs are necessary to the nation's welfare nobody knows. Probably more than half are just drudgery, maybe three-quarters. But generally speaking two out of three of the jobs could be held down by any bright person who wanted to try.

But there are happy exceptions in this city of drones. Most congressmen, doubt it or not, are fairly devoted to toil. The post office superintendent of air mail, for example, works like a mule dog.

There must be thousands who do their honest best. A big order from the chief in the White House reverberates along the Ionic colonades and thousands must lay to, whether they like it or not.

Wants Labor Law

One of President Roosevelt's greatest ambitions, a labor standards law to give the unorganized millions of workers a minimum wage of about 40 cents an hour and a maximum work week of 40 hours, has gotten exactly nowhere in a two-year battle of words.

How far has he gotten with his program? Pretty far. To cite a few examples, the securities exchange law put a severe snaffle bit in Wall Street's mouth. The labor relations act forbids business to interfere with the formation and functions of labor unions.

can be realized. A mighty effort will be made in the latter part of this session of congress to enact it into law. A wage-hour law is such an important factor in the whole scheme that if it isn't passed the New Deal must be considered as having failed to cross over to the land of milk and honey.

Unorganized Labor

For after all, only a small percentage of American labor is organized and able to demand high wages through collective bargaining. The rest are scattered, helpless and unable to make themselves heard. Families by thousands subsist on such weekly incomes as $14, $18, $25. Mr. Roosevelt and his followers contend that people living in such conditions are not of much use to society and are not good customers for business.

Why has the wage-hour bill made no progress? Because only the administration is fighting for it. Industry is against such a law because it fears the government, given an inch, would take a mile and clamp more irons to its leg. The C. I. O. and A. F. of L. say they are for it, but they do nothing. Bargaining for labor is their particular business, and they don't want the government meddling in it.

Besides the administration, of course, the millions of common workers want a minimum wage. They can vote, and it would seem that congress would respond to them. But congress responds precisely as pressure is brought to bear. And the lower third, which Mr. Roosevelt says is ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed, can't afford to hire lobbies and print propaganda.

If the President and his supporters can enact a 40-40 wage-hour law they can hoist their banner, stack arms, and wait for the morning sun to show what manner of country they have captured.

Take Up Dirigibles

Next summer another German airship, much like the giant Hindenburg which burned 36 people to death at Lakehurst, N. J., last May, will cross to the United States. Its first passengers back to Europe will be a few adventurers willing to risk anything for a thrill. In time a transatlantic service. If no accidents befall, more and more travelers will blimp the Atlantic. Meanwhile the United States will get into the dirigible business, and it is successful, eventually will outdo Germany. For this country owns about all the helium there is, and Germany must buy it from us.

But though the United States has a monopoly on helium, Germany seems to have all the skill in building and flying dirigibles. German dirigibles bombed London during the war, kept the British people and the war office in constant jitters. Count Hugo Eckener's flight around the world and recently his regular runs to South America in the Graf Zeppelin were feats equal to Pan American Airways' pioneering around the world trips in flying boats.

Meanwhile the United States failed miserably in lighter-than-air pioneering. Why? While Germany studied lighter-than-air as a distinct science, this country treated it merely as a sideline for the navy. Critics say we sent sailors, not aeronauts, aloft in our dirigibles. That is why we came to grief. If our ships had been owned by private interests, depending on successful enterprise for earnings and reputation, we would have done better.

Ask Financial Help

Right now three or four American companies are asking this government for financial assistance in building airships. One of them has what seems to be sufficient achievement behind it to justify federal aid. If congress passes a bill now before it providing subsidies for overseas aircraft as well as for surface ships, the United States will be in a sort of loose dirigible service partnership with Germany.

Out of our association with Germany, we shall learn all the Germans know about building and flying lighter-than-air craft. Certainly this country is acting in entire good faith toward Germany. But in case Germany went to war against us, or under our neutrality law, against any country, we would stop her supply of helium. Even continued German aggression in South America despite our Monroe doctrine, which says that Europe must stay out of the western hemisphere, would be sufficient cause for keeping our helium at home. In fact, if Germany creates any considerable advantage for herself with helium, military or commercial, the supply will be stopped.

Of course scientists in all mechanized countries are trying to develop a gas to substitute for helium. The best of them say it's a pretty hopeless task—but so it seemed before the Wright brothers was man's attempt to fly.

DORIS DENE'S COLUMN

Daughter's Sacrifice Won't Make Devoted Parents Happy.

DEAR DORIS DENE: I am thirteen and for two years have tried to help my parents who are in financial need. I have not been successful as my job just about supports me. Now I am offered marriage by a much older man. He seems to love me. I have nothing for him but respect and some affection. He can give me everything I need and also make life different for my father and mother. They are my chief worry in life. We are a very devoted family.—Anne H. F.

ANSWER—You can't make a devoted family happy and comfortable through your own unhappy marriage. And no girl of nineteen can marry an older man she does not love and escape much disillusionment and heart-ache before she is through.

Other girls have tried the experiment you propose to make. It's gone well for a while. The devoted daughter in a glow of gratitude to the man who is helping to give her family the comforts they need believes herself to be happy. For a few months she is contented merely to know that her people are being taken care of. Relief from an ever-present worry makes her spirits soar and causes her to believe that she has found life's truest happiness.

But in another few months some of her exultation dies down. Even the most self-sacrificing girl in the world begins to want a happiness more personal than that offered by the spectacle of her parents' well-being. As she learns to accept the fact that the wolf is now established permanently at a respectful distance from the door of the ancestral mansion so her joy in this fact diminishes and her demand for another kind of happiness begins.

It is then that she begins to realize the man she has married; to realize that she can never love him—and that but for her first blind delight in sheer material comforts, she would never have been able to stand him. All his faults are magnified in her eyes. Even gratitude cannot keep her from expressing her unfavorable opinions bluntly. Because she is not in love she cannot make her benefactor happy. And he shortly comes to know the bitterness of being unwanted except for his money—while his young inexperienced wife struggles desperately to conceal her distaste for an unloved spouse.

The result is sordid domesticity. And it is inconceivable that the parents of the self-sacrificing daughter can find pleasure or happiness in the comforts which have been given at the cost of their child's happiness.

DEAR MISS DENE: I am eighteen and am in love with a boy of whom my parents do not approve because of his nationality and religion. He is wealthy and gives me a very good time. Should I break off with him to please my parents? I now see him every day. I enjoy reading your column every day.—D. G.

ANSWER—No good running around with the boy if you have to do it on the sly. That kind of romance never made for permanent happiness. The sly date may give you a romantic thrill but it doesn't give you the faintest chance to know and understand the boy you're going with.

On the other hand it would be a pity if you broke up a nice friendship simply because your hero happened to be of a different race and creed from yourself.

Why not compromise with father and mother? Ask them for a square deal. Ask that you be allowed to entertain the unwelcome guest in your own home, under the parental eye. Perhaps if your fond parents had an opportunity to know your beau ideal they might appreciate some of his good points.

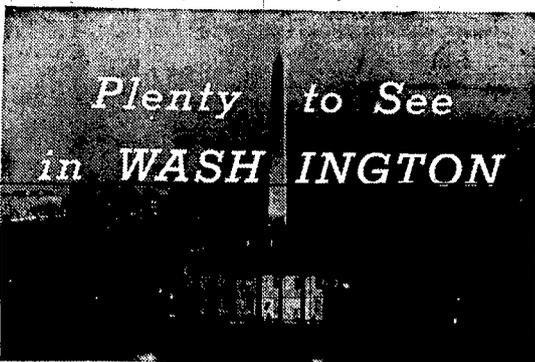

Dancing M.: It's not a question of ethics, my girl, just a case of plain bad manners.

Nobody has invented any laws yet to cover the conduct of a young lady who has been escorted to a dance by a beau she doesn't care a hang about. The whole question is just a matter of personal opinion—and personally I think you behaved very badly.

If you use a man as an entrance ticket to a dance, you might accord him the same courtesy you would show to the keeper of the zoo when he gives you the special privilege of going inside the monkey-house for a few minutes. That's all I claim.

It is simply good taste to show, occasionally during an evening, that you recognize the boy who brought you to the dance, and who paid for the taxi and who will probably have to take you home. It is definitely not unreasonable of the lad to demand one dance with the fair lady whom he mistakenly supposed wanted him to be her escort for the evening.

If you persist in your rather casual treatment of swains, Dancing M., you'll find that your popularity with the stag-line will be of no use to you, since no practical minded man will bear the expense of escorting you to the dance where the stags are at play.

Plenty to See in WASHINGTON

Visitors to the National Capital Find an Infinite Variety of Sights

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service. WHATEVER the visitor's particular curiosity may be, the nation's capital seems to offer something to satisfy it. Residents of Washington are amazed by the variety of sights their visitors wish to see. More news and photographs originate here than in any other city and pilgrims to the capital usually have their own ideas of where they would like to be taken. Showing the home folks the infinite variety of sights, scenes, and dignitaries is a major form of entertaining out-of-town guests.

Long proximity has made Washington residents accustomed to the presence of the famous and near-famous. If a man prominent in public affairs grows weary of the adulation of hero-worshippers, he has only to retreat to Washington to enjoy virtual anonymity.

A rather shy-appearing elderly gentleman used to walk four times each day, to and from work. Among other pedestrians he passed unnoticed, though in most cities he would have attracted a queue. He was Andrew Mellon, then secretary of the treasury, the man who quietly presented to the United States one of the finest collections of paintings and other works of art ever assembled, and added to the gift a $10,000,000 gallery in which to display them.

Everywhere are familiar with the government departments through the extension services that reach all parts of the country. For information on almost any topic within reason, one has only to call the proper office.

Great Place for Students. Thousands of students come here not only because of excellent universities and colleges but also because government agencies and private institutions afford unparalleled opportunity for research. If it is necessary to ascertain the names, nature, or classification of rare species of flowers, for example, they carry the question to the Department of Agriculture or to the United States national herbarium, where an expert quickly supplies authoritative data.

If a question arises concerning trade practices in a foreign land, accurate information is available in the Department of Commerce. For human-interest material and statistics on other countries, there are the embassies and legations of those nations. The Library of Congress and the archives of the United States furnish a wealth of material on history. The national bureau of standards is a mine of scientific information. There is not a government department that does not stand ready to help the serious inquirer.

Almost everyone is amazed to discover how much really unspoiled natural country remains in the nation's capital. There still are many tracts of perhaps a hundred acres of woodland and meadow where wild blackberries and strawberries grow, where coveys of quail scuttle to cover at anybody's approach, where youngsters build concealed huts and defend them against all rivals.

District Is a Bird Haven. The District of Columbia welcomes more than 300 species of birds each year, perhaps 150 of them casual or rare visitors, but many of them year-round residents. Since the passage of a protective law in 1932, the District has been a veritable wild-bird haven.

The bald eagle, the turkey vulture, the wood duck, the pheasant, the black-crowned night heron, the quail, the starling, several kinds of owls and hawks, and about 25 other birds are permanent residents. Within the city it is not unusual to hear the song of a wood thrush or sight the bright flame of a cardinal. Theodore Roosevelt listed more than 90 kinds of birds seen in the White House grounds or near by, and it of them nested there. Wrens, chickadees, finches, orioles, swallows and sparrows are perhaps the most numerous, but bluebirds, cedar wax-wings, juncos, golden-crowned kinglets, and even cuckoos are not uncommon.

STAR DUST Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

UNCLE SAM is the producer of "The River," regarded by many as the greatest of current motion pictures, and one of the greatest motion pictures of all time. Specifically, "The River" was produced for the Farm Security administration by Pare Lorentz, a former New York film reviewer, who for the past two years has been turning down big-money offers from Hollywood in favor of working for the government.

"This is the story of the Mississippi, where it comes from, where it goes, what it has meant to us, and what it has cost us," the beautiful voice of Thomas Chalmers intones as the picture starts. From then on an magnificently photographed scene we are shown an epic. The Mississippi rising in rebellion is far more stirring and majestic than all the actors you have ever seen in imaginary crises.

Months ago David Selznick and Paulette Goddard, who sometimes answers to the name of Mrs. Charles Chaplin, indulged in a bitter argument. Friends reported that Paulette expected to play the role of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind," Mr. Selznick replied crisply that she was not even being considered for it, and Paulette was so upset she said she wouldn't play it even if he begged her to. Now they have patched up their troubles, she has signed a contract and both admit that if her tests are satisfactory she'll play the role.

Kate Smith had a guest star on her program who cost her almost as much as the sponsor. The guest star was Hortense Odum, who took over a falling store a few years ago and built it into one of the greatest sources of women's fashions. Kate doesn't have much time for shopping, and she was so impressed by Mrs. Odum's talk that she gave lavish orders for her spring wardrobe then and there.

Peter Lorre, the sinister "Mr. Moto" of Twentieth Century-Fox films is never the victim of practical jokes in Hollywood. Folks out there know he always strikes back. When he was leaving London for America, his director had a big dray horse delivered to him at the last minute as a parting gift. Mr. Lorre sent the horse to a friend's farm, then arranged to have three hundred singing canaries delivered to the director at three in the morning.

Norma Shearer has never forgotten the stars whose pictures thrilled her when she was just getting started in pictures fifteen years ago. She gave the names of some fifty players to the casting director of her "Marie Antoinette" and asked that they should be given roles. It was hard to locate many of them, for in recent years hard luck, poverty, and despondency had dogged their footsteps, but now they are all happily at work.

ODDS AND ENDS—Between scenes of "Ireland in the Sky" the cast serenaded Toby Doolan with "Nice Work if You Can Get It" because for two days he did nothing but lie still on the floor while a cinema carner and his assistants pronounced Doolan dead. Warner Brothers are going to feature Olivia de Havilland and Anita Louise in "Studio Club" which they hope will be as great a picture as R. K. O.'s "Stage Door." Pick and Pot, radio comedians, are going to make motion pictures for Republic. Although pretty busy conducting the Magic Key and Friday night concert hours, Frank Black found time to stock his one hundred and eighteen-acre Pennsylvania farm and now he is actually making money from his prize live stock and chickens.

Real Steam

It is possible to light a cigarette with steam. This was demonstrated by Dr. Andrade of the Royal Institution of London, who produced high pressure steam hot enough to set fire to a match or a cigarette. The steam which escapes from a tea kettle is not really steam. It has ceased to be steam since it has condensed to tiny drops of liquid water. Water steam is invisible gas.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK...

By Lemuel F. Parton

NEW YORK.—In 1929, at the age of seventy-one, Frederick H. Prince, the Boston banker, was still playing polo. He has the great faith in the durability of men, institutions, governments, and as long as they behave themselves.

He left for Europe to forget about business for a while and intimates that it would be a good thing if the government would be similarly neglectful. "Washington should stop trying to reform business and leave the situation to time," he says. Time has treated him nicely and he may well give it a testimonial. At seventy-nine, he is the grand seigneur of American business. Only four years ago, he engaged in a hard-hitting slugfest over the control of Armour & Co.

He got what he was after—the chairmanship of the board. He has many such trophies, having controlled 46 railroads, and, in general, one of the biggest cuts in the American dream of any man of his day.

His (mainly liquid) fortune is estimated at around $250,000,000. But, for many years, he says, he has made it a point to be about $20,000,000 in debt. That is revealing in connection with his ideas about money and success. He emphasizes the dynamics of money. It isn't money unless it is working. Stagnant money just dries up and blows away. Hence you draw cards even if you do have to drag a few chips for markers.

He's a little too heavy for polo, with a massive gray head, deep sunken, pondering eyes, and heavy, gray moustache; a bit grim, perhaps, but not formidable. When, early in October, 1929, a small black cloud appeared on the horizon, he viewed it with a telescopic eye, saw it for what it was, and got out of the market.

The cyclone never touched him. Until a few years ago, he was still riding to the hounds at Pau, in southern France, master of the hunt. He has marble palaces here and there, one of them the former mansion of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, at Newport. Remarkable that he has been in business 55 years, he says this little squall will blow over in two or three months.

THE reason isn't quite clear, but, these days, the colleges compete for tuba players as well as athletes.

Tuba Aces Prized Same as Athletes

Dr. Walter Albert Jessup deplors this and other phases of the scramble for students in the annual report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, of which he is president. The fight seems to be entirely in the field of extra-curricular activities. No mere scholar gets competing bids from rival faculties. Since he became head of the Carnegie foundation, in 1933, Dr. Jessup has been a consistent deflationist, so far as education is concerned. He wants fewer and better students in the colleges. He assails the colleges which would "teach anybody anything." He is against educational trimmings, excrescences and gadgets, as the little Scotch ironmaster doubtless would be if he were looking over the current scene.

Other leading educators join him in this, but the big mill has to have plenty of raw material, to keep on grinding, or else become just a crossroad plant.

So they go after even the tuba players. At any rate, each can blow its own horn.

Dr. Jessup was president of the University of Iowa from 1916 to 1933. A native of Richmond, Ind., he was educated at Earlham college and Columbia and gathered several honorary degrees in later years. He was superintendent of schools in Indiana and dean of the college of education of Indiana university. He has won high distinction in the educational field and is the author of a book on arithmetic.

One gathers that he would not recommend Benny Goodman for a college faculty and that quite probably the next Carnegie report may find adversely on the shag, the jeoper and the susy-g. He is for low kicking and high thinking, as against the prevailing reversal of this formula.

Accident Taps Riches

Treasure has been brought to light near Cairo, Egypt, by an excavator's lucky accident. He stumbled on the burial place of middle-class Egyptian men and women of 5,000 years ago. In the graves were found objects of art and entertainment. Beautifully carved articles made of alabaster, schist, dolomite and breccia were found, three of them vessels of a kind previously unknown. A knife of flint is so fine and thin as to be practically transparent. A statuette of a goddess wears a silver crown, the eyebrows, necklace and the nails of fingers and toes being of gold. A set of chessmen indicates that the early Egyptians played with 10 fewer pieces than are now used.
