Double Keyboard Piano Opens New Vista in Music Appreciation

If you have not heard Winifred Christie playing the double keyboard piano, you are unacquainted with a development vitally affecting the entire realm of music. In both Europe and America, it is recognized that the new instrument is important not only to the pianist but also to the auditor, as it opens new vistas in musical comprehension not possible on a single piano keyboard.

The double keyboard piano has two keyboards placed one above the other, as in the harpsichord and organ. The lower is the keyboard of the ordinary piano; the upper one sounds an octave higher. Two octaves thus lie under each hand, and new, beautiful chord combinations come within the player's reach. A third pedal couples the two keyboards and opens up interesting possibilities of contrasted effects, while octaves can be played with one finger—and with flawless legato, hitherto unattainable. The white notes at the back of the lower keyboard are raised to the level of the black keys. This makes possible a chromatic glissando—an entrancing effect.

The man responsible for the double keyboard piano, Emanuel Moor, distinguished Magyar composer, was a pupil of Franz Liszt, and as a youth toured Europe and America as a concert pianist. After his concert tour of America in 1887, he retired from public appearances and devoted himself entirely to composition. He wrote and produced many operas, symphonic compositions and instrumental works. At last, in 1920, he began the construction of a double keyboard piano. A perfected model was placed on the market by Reichstein of Berlin in 1930. Emanuel Moor lived long enough to see the recognition accorded his brilliant invention. At present Moor double keyboard pianos are being made by Pleyel (Paris), Boesendorfer (Vienna), and Bechstein (Berlin).

Winifred Christie brings her Moor double keyboard piano to Wayne State Teachers' college Thursday evening, March 17, for a public recital as an entertainment course number. This will be, without question, the outstanding musical number of the year in northeast Nebraska.

was at the organ. Misses Irene and Edith Sals sang.

The bride was gowned in periwinkle blue taffeta of floor length with a jacket effect. She carried pink roses and wore a tiara in her hair.

The bridesmaid also wore blue and carried pink carnations and snapdragons.

A wedding reception was held at the church parlors. Following a two-course luncheon was served with table appointments carrying out the bridal motif of pink and blue. The wedding cake formed the centerpiece of the wedding table.

The young couple will live on a farm near Randolph.

Out of town guests in attendance from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Ulrich and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ulrich of Lyons.

Elect Six Directors to Govern Wayne REA District

C. A. Sorenson of Lincoln addressed 175 farmers at the city hall in Wayne Tuesday evening. Mr. Sorenson, past president of the Association of Rural Public Power Districts of Nebraska, talked to the group on rural electrification outlining the growth of the rural electrification administration, the status of Nebraska projects at the present time, and the legal procedure necessary to establish a district in Wayne county.

A. G. Sydow, temporary chairman, presided during the organization procedure which followed. The group voted to organize a public power district and the name chosen was Wayne County Public Power district. The purpose of the district is to furnish electrical energy to farmers. The city of Wayne was designated as the principle place of business. The number of directors for the district was stipulated as six and the county was divided into six directors' districts.

Directors are as follows: District 1, Sherman, Deer Creek, Wilbur, Albert Watson elected director. Term to expire in 1938. District 2, Garfield, Chapin, Jack Swegard elected, term to expire in 1940. District 3, Hancock, Hoskins, Lyle Marotz elected, term to expire in 1938. District 5, Brenna, Strahan, Ed Grubb elected, term to expire in 1942. District 6, Hunter, Logan, Lawrence Ring elected, term to expire in 1940. District 6, Plum Creek, Leslie, A. G. Sydow elected, term to expire in 1942. Of the six directors elected, two terms expire in 1938 at which time two directors will be elected to serve for six years. Two terms expire in 1940 at which time two directors will be elected to serve for six years. This method of election assures four experienced directors on the board at all times. Any person within the county eligible to vote for governor is eligible to vote for directors of the Wayne County Public Power district.

Peru started scoring almost as soon as the game started, Great house, McCormick, and Halliday all getting counters before the Wayne players could register. Marshall and Cunningham were first to find the basket for Wayne. Peru managed to keep well in the lead for the first quarter or more of the game. With about 11 minutes of playing time in the first half gone, Peru was leading 18 to 11. During the last nine minutes the Wildcats caught a hot streak and at the close of the half trailed only one point, 19 to 20.

Marshall of Wayne opened the scoring in the second half with Peru coming right back with a field goal. Throughout the second half the lead seasawed from one team to the other, neither leading more than four points at any time. With about three minutes left to play the score was tied. Peru gather two field goals in that time with Wayne able to sink only one.

Play was hard and fast throughout the game, Peru trying to keep its record of no defeat in conference competition and Wayne trying to keep the two-year record of no homes defeated. Fifteen fouls were called on each team, Cunningham of Wayne and Bailey, Peru, each going out of the game on personals.

In a preliminary game Tuesday evening the Wakefield town team defeated the Wayne B team 20 to 25.

Last Friday night the Wayne Wildcats played Kearney here, defeating that team 56 to 51. Wayne opened the scoring and led all the way. Cunningham was the leading scorer of the game with 15 points.

Luigenfelter, Wayne's stellar center, is one of the leaders in conference scoring this season, having made a total of 67 points in conference competition. Ellermpier, Peru, who did not play Tuesday night, had a record of 60 points for the season.

There will probably be no N. I. A. A. conference title awarded this year. Peru has lost no games in the conference but has not played the Chadron team, thus being ineligible for the title.

Wayne played 16 games this season, winning 12 and losing four.

Fifteen Wayne men will receive special recognition from the American Legion for 20 years of continuous membership in that organization.

The Green Spot

Strangely enough, a few weeks ago when we were printing the green spot on the city directory, it rained. Although the rain came during a non-crop growing season it was interpreted as a good sign. Since the first rain, more moisture, in the form of ten inches of snow, has added encouragement. Soon it will be time for those good old fashioned thunder showers that chickens stay out in all day. Now when they do come we are not going to take the credit because Wayne has been indicated as the Green Spot. We won't give the Democrats credit either, not even if congress turns in a little green legislation. We will just do like everyone else—be mighty thankful.

The White Spot

This newspaper is running its first ad this week on the White Spot. Already hundreds of inquiries have been received by the sponsors of the White Spot advertisements. Some new industries have relocated in Nebraska. Many Nebraska industries have reconsidered their position and consider themselves fortunate in being located in Nebraska.

Now and then there is a recoil to the White Spot shot. Certain groups who feel they are not as well off as their particular group in other states have gone so far as to label their state as the black spot. And perhaps justly so. For example many of our school teachers receive less salary than is accorded to unskilled labor. In fact we are informed that Nebraska ranks 39 in salaries of school teachers. It may be that not all of the factors which should go to make the white spot white have been taken into consideration. In an opportunity we will soon learn where more taxes could be spent to make the white spot a little whiter. Further, we may learn how the good citizens of the fair commonwealth have found a way to make the white spot white without whitewash. Anyone who can keep a budget balanced these days is capable of doing most anything.

Spot Cash

That's what it leads to "spot cash." Spot cash will turn the black spot white for the teachers. The "green spot" in the "white spot" will make the "spot cash" for the farmer and it was the spot cash saved in taxes that created the white spot. What confusion! How can you keep a white spot white, a green spot green, or spot cash on the spot?

New Uses for Farm Products

One of the features of the new farm program which is receiving favorable comment from even opponents of the administration, is the $4,000,000 appropriation to finance four regional research laboratories which will work with state, local and private research agencies in promoting new uses for farm products.

For years many scientists have urged upon the government the utilization of their findings in ways and means of converting farm products into accepted commodities. To subsidize the efforts of chemists to discover new ways to use surpluses, seems to us a most practical expenditure. Farmers want to produce to capacity and the expenditure of $4,000,000 ought to bring out some new and revolutionary uses of grains.

Farmers and businessmen will welcome enlightenment along this line and no doubt we will have opportunity to hear from competent informants from time to time.

Youth and Enthusiasm

Henry Chester once said—Enthusiasm is the greatest asset in the world. It beats money, power and influence. Single handed, the enthusiast convinces and dominates where wealth, accumulated by a small army of workers, would scarcely raise a tremor of interest. Enthusiasm tramples over prejudices and opposition, spurns inaction, storms the citadel for its object, like an avalanche, overwhelms and engulfs all obstacles.

Enthusiasm abounds in youth. Older folks who have lost some of their pep in the natural process of growing older can well afford to observe, if not absorb some of youth's enthusiasm. Right now is a good time to do it. It's tournament time. The time when youth turns loose without reservation that added amount of steam which drives their favorites on to victory and championships. To sit among a group of youngsters and see them feel the effect of this energy is good for what ails one. During recent years enthusiasm has had more competition than growing years to battle. Fears, legion in numbers, cold water, hot winds, nibbling grasshoppers, arctic snowdrifts, unfulfilled promises, threats, etc., all of these have combined to do enthusiasm no good. Empty of enthusiasm and filled with all of its opposites, some of us go moping around like an advance guard for a famine.

Drouth

During the Middle Ages, the most dreaded word was "plague." Today, in some of our richest farming areas, the word "drouth" is equally potent in inspiring fears.

The drouths of '34, '36 and '37 were tremendously destructive. Since 1889 every section of the nation has, at one time or another, experienced water deficiency. In that year the northwest section of the country was worst hit. In 1894, the great middlewest was arid as a desert. In 1910, drouth came to the middlewest, the northwest and southwest, and ranged as far west as California, though the Pacific northwest was not touched. In 1930 the middle and northwest escaped drouth for the most part, while the Pacific northwest, California, and part of the east looked futilely for rain.

If for no other reason than the fact that drouths tend to get around to all parts of the country in due time, it would seem reasonable to believe that this particular part of the country would escape it this year. Many prognosticators using various basis for reasoning say we will have rain to produce a normal crop this year.

Bygone Days

Wayne County liberty loan will carry over the top is the prediction of Chairman Hamer Wilson. The Democrat certainly sees no reason why Wayne county might not well double her allotment if the people so desire, for beyond a doubt there is plenty of spare money with which to turn the stunt, if the people with the idle cash shall decide to let their uncle have the use of it at a good rate of interest.

On Wednesday a farm stock shipment went from Wayne from the Albert Chichester farm, the property of Mr. Chichester and Ben Lass and brother who are farming the place. ## NEW FARM BILL WILL NOT INTERFERE IN COUNTY SET-UP

Precinct Committees Elected Last Fall to Continue in Work

The agricultural adjustment act of 1938 recently passed by congress will make no change in the county administration of the farm program in Wayne county, Herman J. Podoll, chairman of the county committee announced this week. Community and county committees elected last fall by their fellow producers in precinct meetings will continue to handle the 1938 farm program.

In Wayne county, the county committee is composed of Herman J. Podoll, John M. Petersen, and Thomas P. Roberts. The following men are directors of the county association: Victor O. Kniesche, John G. Sweigard, Willie J. Riggert, Joseph C. Johnson, William McQuistan, Clarence A. Bard, Dan E. Leuck, Lee E. Sellon, Otto F. Gerlemann, and Albert W. Watson.

Farmers in this county will be invited to the community meetings during the last part of March to discuss the application of the 1938 program to the farms of this county. There will be no contracts or any compulsory features connected with the 1938 program as presented this spring. Marketing quotas may go into effect on corn beginning October 1, 1938, if the 1938 crop of corn is extremely large and the farmers in the commercial corn area vote in a referendum to have such marketing quotas.

In practically every other respect, the 1938 farm program is to be similar to those of 1936 and 1937. Many features of the new program seem to favor Nebraska farmers and the situation is expected to state after the crop failure of the last few years. Classifications of crops, and use of land, for example are expected to be more liberal than in the past two years.

If the supply of corn or wheat is large and the price is correspondingly low, the secretary of agriculture will offer corn loans and wheat loans to all farmers cooperating in the 1938 program and on a basis which is entirely voluntary and quite similar to the previous corn loans which have been popular and successful in Nebraska. Farmers who do not cooperate with the 1938 program will not be eligible for loans unless marketing quotas should go into effect.

Nebraskan Called to Washington

A Nebraska farmer, Leroy K. Smith of Chase county, has been called to Washington to assist with the development and administration of wheat crop insurance under the new AAA farm bill. He is a former member of the state ACP committee.

Succeeding Smith on the state committee is J. Lloyd Whitehouse, Hall county farmer. The later is a successful farmer living near Prosser and was a member of the state wheat board during the 1936 wheat program.

Much of Farm Living Non-money Income

A good share of the income of farm families is non-money income. It is the value of housing, food, fuel, ice, and other products furnished by the farm for family use, plus the increase or minus the decrease in value of crops stored for sale and of livestock. Of the average $554 per family non-money income in Vermont, for instance, $510 was from farm furnished goods used by the family, the rest was increase from crops stored for sale and from livestock.

A survey of 25 thousand farm families in 66 counties representative of the different types of farming in this country shows this income varies greatly for different parts of the country. The survey, made in 1935-36, was supervised by Dr. Louise Stanley of the bureau of home economics.

In the southeast, non-money income for white families ranged from a high average of $712 per family per year among North Carolina operators down to an average of $293 for Mississippi sharecroppers; and for Negro families, from a high average of $465 per family per year for North Carolina down to $153 for Mississippi sharecroppers.

In the rest of the country, non-money income ranged from an average of $546 per family per year in Pennsylvania down to $318 in the range livestock counties of Colorado, Montana, and South Dakota.

Make Applications for Half Million Trees

Nebraska farmers now have made application for more than one-half million Clarke-McNary seedlings and transplants for windbreak and woodlot plantings this spring. Recent moisture in the form of snow has boosted interest locally in tree planting and Wayne county farmers have now ordered 4,800 trees.

Scotts Bluff county head the "big five" in tree planting interest this week. Farmers there applied for 21,500 trees. Lancaster is in second place, Cherry in third, Holt in fourth, and Dodge in fifth.

Farmers who had snow fences erected prior to the snow now have considerable moisture stored for their spring tree planting.

New Pasture Program Planned

Contestants to Stress Better Livestock and Grasslands

Definite plans for putting over a pasture-forage-livestock program in Wayne county as a part of the statewide educational movement were announced this week by Agricultural Agent Walter Moller upon his return from Norfolk where he attended a district conference on the matter.

The program will concentrate particular attention upon rehabilitation of grassland, better use of forages and improved livestock. Farmer attention will be called to the various phases through community and precinct meetings and by other means.

Wayne county farmers will probably participate also in the plan set up under the statewide program whereby recognition will be given to producers making outstanding records during the year. Patterned somewhat after the old pasture contest, but more comprehensive in scope, this recognition will be granted next fall. This is sponsored by the Nebraska college of agriculture, agricultural extension service, Omaha Chamber of Commerce, Nebraska Crop Growers' association and the Nebraska Livestock Breeders' and Feeders association.

It is possible in addition to the statewide program that recognition locally will be given to farmers carrying through a sound pasture-forage-livestock plan on their own farms. Some local civic club may cooperate with the Wayne county Farm Bureau in this part of the educational movement.

Farm people here will get further details about the program from a colorful circular which will be mailed to them within the next ten days. Included in the publication are many questions and answers regarding timely farm problems relating to the program.

How a World Traveler Gets the News

Zane Grey Who Has Spent Most of His Time in Distant Deserts and Mountains Says:

"Most of my time has been spent far from the haunts of men . . . naturally I lose touch, failed to keep abreast of the times. Upon my return from the desert or the sea, I would try to remedy the lack by glutting myself with daily news. Then one day The Reader's Digest fell into my hands. Here was condensed the most important and vital thought of the day. Instead of wading through thousands of words, I could open a Reader's Digest on an island off the coast of far away New Zealand, and find out what was going on in the civilized world."

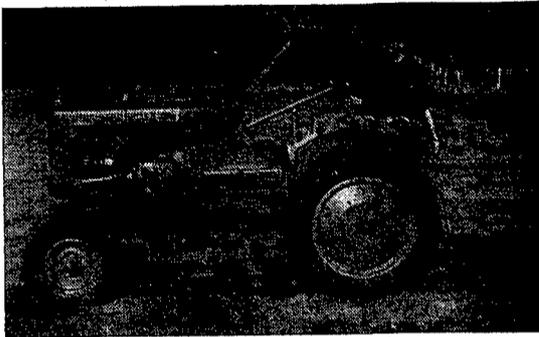

Our readers will find a world of information in The Reader's Digest, too. It seems as though it is becoming almost a mental necessity to read it.

Walter L. Moller, county agricultural agent, will broadcast next Thursday over radio station WJAG. His topic will be on "Pasture-Forage-Livestock Program." He will also conduct an informal interview.

FIRST SMALL FARM TRACTOR IS HERE

The junior-size, speed-lined tractor shown here is said to be the first economically suited to 4,000,000 small farms. It is the lowest-priced farm tractor ever placed on the market, selling for $495.00 f.o.b. factory with rubber tires as standard equipment.

The new tractor is expected to place economical tractor power within reach of 60 per cent of the nation's farms—diversified farms now using mainly animal power. It plows and cultivates at 4 miles per hour, twice the speed of horses. It will replace four to six horses and will operate at about the cost per hour of a two-horse team.

Implements to work with the new tractor will include a plow, cultivator, disc harrow, planter, spring tooth harrow, mower and harvester.

According to its builders, the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, the tractor is also adapted to large farms for replacing horses now kept to supplement a larger tractor.

Washington County is First To Secure Conservation Dist.

Nebraska's first soil conservation district under legislation passed by the unicameral has just been formed in Washington county. Granting of a charter by the secretary of state will set up the area as a legal sub-division of state government.

The final vote of land owners in the district was 159 favoring forming of the area and 25 against. This meant that 87 per cent of the land owners voting favored the plan. The state law calls for a 75 per cent majority vote.

The new district is composed of 47,060 acres of land in the Papio creek watershed in Washington county. It embraces a portion of seven precincts. Land owners soon will elect four supervisors locally to map out conservation work within the district.

Farmers File Application for Emergency Crop, Feed Loan

To Allow Grants Only To Those Who Cannot Obtain Other Credit

Applications for emergency crop and feed loans for 1938 are now being received at the Farm Bureau office in Wayne by Will J. Dendinger, field supervisor of the emergency crop and feed loan section of the Farm Credit administration.

The loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers who cannot obtain credit from any other source. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1938 crops or for the purchase of feed for livestock, and the amount which may be loaned to any one farmer in 1938 may not exceed $500.

Farmers who can obtain the funds they need from an individual, production credit association, bank, or other concern are not eligible for crop and feed loans from the emergency crop and feed loan section of the Farm Credit administration. The loans will not be made to standard rehabilitation clients whose current needs are provided for by the Farm Security administration, formerly known as the Resettlement administration.

As in the past, farmers who obtain emergency crop and feed loans will give as security a first lien on the crop financed, or a first lien on the livestock to be fed if the money borrowed is to be used to produce or purchase feed for livestock.

Where loans are made to tenants having an interest in the crops financed or the livestock to be fed, are required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the governor of the Farm Credit administration until the loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of approved loans will be mailed from the regional emergency crop and feed loan office at Omaha.

DENTON'S Facial Magnesia SELECTED BY THE NATIONAL BOARD OF HEALTH

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

Washington.—Small movie exhibitors are hoping for action now that the bill of Sen. Matthew M. Neely of West Virginia to stop block booking and blind selling has been favorably reported by a senate committee.

Testifying before a senate committee in favor of the Neely bill, the little theater men lay all their troubles on "the big eight." They mean the eight big motion picture producers.

This is how they do it, the little exhibitors say. The producers draw up a year's contract in which the little exhibitor agrees to take a certain group or "block" of pictures.

For several years the independent exhibitors have been fighting the "BB and BS." They've had several bills before congress, and have lodged numerous complaints with the Department of Justice.

The neighborhood exhibitors combine to buy large motion picture monopoly subverts the morals of the nation by making racket pictures and sex pictures, when they could just as well make quality film.

The "big eight" has two answers to the charges. More or less privately its claim is that the profit it makes from the not so good pictures is necessary to support the high-grade pictures.

Meanwhile in North Dakota the independent exhibitors' group got a law passed prohibiting the showing of pictures by theaters which belong to the producer that made the pictures.

Suicide squadrons of high-speed torpedo boats, to be steered by human pilots head-on against enemy ships, are boasted by Germany and Italy.

In time of peace, definitely no. It would be against the glory and tradition of the United States navy. The suicide boats, say navy men, are the unshamed last resort of an inferior sea power.

And navy men maintain that the torpedo boats are impractical. The United States fleet will fight its battles far out at sea, perhaps 2,000 miles. The sleds could not be used in usually choppy open water.

But in the heat of war involving us, no one can say what might be done. If an enemy fleet should succeed in reaching our shores, it would be imperative to attack it with the most destructive weapons obtainable.

Human Sacrifice Would men volunteer for a work of such hopeless finality? Opinion is they would particularly if stirred by dire emergency, and if assured with positive proof that their own destruction would mean certain destruction to the enemy.

The navy is much more likely to consider designing torpedo boats for the Philippine government than for itself in the near future.

Voluntary death as pilot of flying bombs in the shape of airplanes also has been talked of. Torpedo airplanes would be superior to boats in that they could travel several thousand miles to reach the enemy.

The next major battle in the senate will be President Roosevelt's government reorganization proposal.

Some weeks ago the President, embarrassed by the two-year-old wrangle of government agencies for authority over air transport, called Sen. Patrick A. McCarran of Nevada to the White House and asked him to write a bill creating an independent commission to control aviation and end the row.

McCarran and his aides had no sooner written the bill than they found that the matter had been turned over to James. The Post Office department and the Department of Commerce, which now control air transport, and which have a strangle hold on it, immediately set upon James and got many of their old foibles written into the bill.

Chances are this aviation bill will get nowhere in congress. Probably the government reorganization plan will be only partly accepted. But meanwhile, the air transport people must go on through more months of their dilemma.

The interstate commerce commission fixes rates for carrying air mail, and in doing so it examines every detail of every operator's business each year. It even analyzes his purchases, his wage rates, equipment repairs, to see if he spent more than necessary.

The bureau of air commerce controls airway beacons, intermediate landing fields and radio beams, and it makes the safety rules.

Still another is the Department of Agriculture, which climbs aboard all United States overseas and foreign airplanes and looks in the passengers' luggage for Japanese beetles or what have they.

Much as aviation's friends in congress would like to give it a new deal from the government, it is doubtful if they will go for it under the reorganization plan.

Thrilling Winter Sport That Is Popular in Our Mountainous Regions

AMERICA'S skiing season is on. Snow and weather conditions are right and railroads are publicizing the accommodations of their special ski trains.

When one has learned to enjoy it, skiing wins an affection akin to that of a golf addict for his game. No other sport, to a skier, is so much a matter of self.

A sportsman writes: "In my own limited experience, I have tried many sports. Polo has its tremendous thrills, but after all, the horse does much of the work.

Racing on Skis Is Thrilling. Racing has its place. It is a thrill to see a well-coordinated, confident runner come streaking down a narrow trail, cutting a hot corner by a graceful quick thrust with his heels and an almost instantaneous skidding of his skis, which changes their course; or to watch a skier in a slalom race, riding a steep slope in easy scudges, checking his speed with broken cries, or "tailwagging," taking deep or soft snow in a graceful telemark, or steered turn.

The most experienced make their control movements so easily that they seem to float while the skis do the turns. "Tempo stuff," that, the acme of controlled skiing.

"No matter what language one uses to name it, that sequence is about all that skiing is. I used to crouch down when I was afraid of falling. It was 25 years before I knew I was doing an 'Arlberg crouch'."

Girls Hdp Make It Popular. When a town girl attempts to ski with high-heeled shoes it is absurd. When she falls and twists her ankle, as she will may; her suffering is just a reward for her stupidity.

Children always have learned skiing with tiny toe straps. Growing people will find for themselves that toe straps are good for nothing except straight-ahead, easy slides.

When a town girl attempts to ski with high-heeled shoes it is absurd. When she falls and twists her ankle, as she will may; her suffering is just a reward for her stupidity.

And when all the pretty girls were going on the snow trains, they were not going alone. Said an old-timer, "I have no intention of ever running the full head-wall in Tuckerman ravine on Mount Washington. My racing days are all behind me.

Many of the existing trails, despite the effort to classify them as "expert," "intermediate," and "novice," vary so much from day to day with weather and snow conditions that under certain circumstances even some of the novice trails will scare the beginner.

After all, how much multitude appeal is there in mountain trails with such reassuring names as "Hell's Highway," "Chin Clip," "Nose Dive," "Wildcat," and "Thunderbolt"?

A mountain trail with such frequent turns would not be fast enough for Olympic-caliber racing runners; most of the New England down-mountain trails were laid out according to the preferences of racing men.

The snow trains, which brought 35,000 skiers to New England ski areas during the winter of 1935 have created an interesting new problem. It is difficult for the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, for example, to locate areas near enough to New York for a one-day excursion train trip, where the snow is sure to be satisfactory and where the skiing terrain can accommodate thousands of skiers.

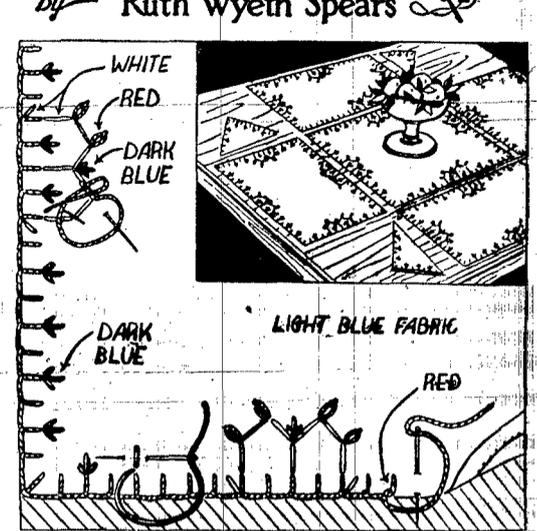

The first regular snow train was run by the Boston and Maine railroad from Boston in 1931. That winter these trains carried 8,371 passengers. Last winter they carried 24,420 passengers, 80 per cent of whom were skiers.

Being nearer the more mountainous section of New England, the Boston and Maine has a wider choice of one-day snow train destinations than the New Haven. However, New York has solved that problem by introducing the "week-end snow train."

It was the development of mountain skiing in Switzerland and Austria which suggested to New Englanders their own mountain possibilities.

Today, cross-country skiing over mountainous regions seems to be the coming thing. A series of shelter huts was built in the White Mountain National forest last summer supplementing the Appalachian Mountain club trail cabins. Individual skiing trail systems have been linked together and mapped for touring.

HOW TO SEW by Ruth Wyeth Spears

WE HAVE been hearing a good deal about American handcrafts lately. Of course, quilts have always been important among our needlework handcrafts. So many readers have written asking me for more of the old fashioned embroidery stitches that were used in making crazy patchwork that I have collected dozens and dozens of these quaint stitches from old quilts.

This gay little double house effect built upon blanket stitches with chain stitches flaunting from all gables was the invention of someone's great-grandmother and I couldn't resist using it for a luncheon set of light blue linen.

All the strands of six-strand mercerized embroidery thread were used for the luncheon set. The mats were hemmed first and then the blanket stitches were taken through the hems to make a firm edge as shown at the lower right. All the other stitches used are clearly illustrated. Just the edge stitches without the little houses were used for the napkins. Many more authentic old patchwork stitches are illustrated in a new leaflet which is free upon request with the booklet offered herewith.

Have you a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book SEWING? It contains forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions for making slip covers and dressing tables; curtains for every type of room; lampshades, rugs and other useful articles for the home. Copy will be sent postpaid upon receipt of 25 cents (coins preferred). Address Mrs. Spears, 210 South Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

TIPS to Gardeners

Grow Better Flowers GROW better flowers by planting them in the kind of soil in which they can perform best. Though your soil may be good and rich, certain flowers will not do as well in it as in poorer ground.

Heavy soil containing clay is good for sweet peas, pansies, stocks, carnations, scabiosa, snapdragons and most of the popular perennials. The following prefer a soil of light texture: Petunia, Portulaca, celosia, hollyhock, love-in-a-mist, annual phlox, calliopsis, nicotiana and all the climbers.

All one's life is music, if one touches the notes rightly, and in time. But there must be no hurry.—John Ruskin.

The Stars Above

FIXED stars are so called because they change their positions so slowly in comparison with the planets. All of the stars are in motion. The name morning star is given to the planets Jupiter, Mars, Saturn and Venus, when one of them rises shortly before the sun and is a conspicuous object in the sky before dawn.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

NEW YORK.—A bequest of $1,000,000, left to Harvard university by Mrs. Agnes Wahl Nieman, will make it possible for newspaper men to go to school at Harvard. It might be better if they would go to school to John Stewart Bryan, handsome, fluent, and erudite head of the committee which will pick the candidates for the Harvard sabbatical years.

Mr. Bryan is publisher of the Richmond News-Leader and president of the College of William and Mary. He talks rapidly and interestingly on poetry, politics, history, philosophy, the classics and humanities. If Mrs. Nieman had engaged him to do $1,000,000 worth of traveling and talking to newspaper men, instead of giving the money to Harvard, the light shed in the dark caverns of journalistic minds surely would have matched any possible Harvard effulgence. And, like Erasmus, Mr. Bryan loves to travel and talk.

The glow in Mr. Bryan's own mind was imparted partly by Harvard and partly by the University of Virginia. Of the southern aristocrat, he practiced law in Richmond and then engaged with his father, the late Joseph Bryan, in energetic co-management of the family newspaper, then the Richmond Times. The elder Mr. Bryan had established a tradition of independence which his son has maintained.

With the passing of such freewheeling journalists as Halstead, Greeley, Watterston, and more recently, Fremont Older, Mr. Bryan remains one of the distinguished exemplars of this kind of spark-plug newspapering.

He was president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association from 1926 to 1928.

Sixty-six years old, he still keeps up with his horseback riding, taking all the jumps until a few years ago.

He is caught up in an incredible whirl of directorates, public and civic posts, clubs, philanthropies and social and political activities—all ways with time to talk.

MME. PAUL DUPUY, whose French chateau is now occupied by the duke and duchess of Windsor, was the first publisher to introduce American comic strips in France. The French liked the comics, but they wouldn't take the columnists. Mme. Dupuy found they liked to do their own interpreting and shied away from omniscience in all forms.

She is the American-born widow of Paul Dupuy. When M. Dupuy died in 1927, he left in her hands the biggest string of newspapers and magazines in France.

In the French tradition, in which the widow quietly assumes command of the cafe or shop, she picked up the vast publishing business, managing it at first from a sickbed, as she was convalescing from a long illness.

The publications included the Daily Petit Parisien, with a circulation of 1,800,000; Dimanche Illustré, a Sunday newspaper in which Mme. Dupuy introduced the first Sunday supplement in France; La Science et la Vie, comparable to the Scientific American; Omnia, an automobile journal; Le Republicain des Hautes-Pyrenees, a provincial daily; Nos Loisirs, a women's magazine; Agriculture Nouvelle, a weekly, and several others.

Mme. Dupuy was Helen Browne, blonde and beautiful daughter of William H. and Mary C. Browne of New York. She attended the Anne Browne school for young ladies at 715 Fifth avenue, New York. Studying in Paris, she met M. Dupuy, son of the founder of the Petit Parisien.

They were married in 1907 and have two sons and a daughter, the Princess de Polignac. For many years, their marriage has been cited as one ideal international romance—a bit of background which is, no doubt, of interest to the duke and duchess as they move into her charming old Chateau de la Maye, near Versailles.

Dog Nips Traffic Policeman While a policeman on traffic duty in Buenos Aires, Argentina, was calmly directing cars and politely answering pedestrian questions, a dog appeared apparently from nowhere, jumped up and bit him severely on the wrist. The canine had touched an electric light cable blown down by a storm, and frightened by the shock had attacked the nearest "enemy," which happened to be the policeman.

LOCAL AUTO DEALERS OBSERVE NATIONAL USED CAR WEEK

Wayne automobile dealers are cooperating in a national drive to sweep the American automobile industry out of the current recession and stimulate American business generally. The campaign was announced Sunday by Alvin Macauley, speaking for every American automobile manufacturer and the nation's 46,000 automobile dealers.

The campaign, to be known as "National Used Car Exchange Week" and scheduled for March 5 to 12, is an outgrowth of recent conferences at the White House between President Roosevelt and leaders of the automobile industry. Mr. Macauley said. The president has been advised of plans for the campaign, which is the first cooperative effort ever undertaken in which all American automobile manufacturers have taken part.

The campaign is timed at the outset of the spring selling season when both new and used cars begin to move in greatest volume, Mr. Macauley said. It is aimed primarily at stimulating the disposal of used car stocks now in dealer hands. Once this is accomplished, a substantial increase in car manufacturing schedules and employment of wage earners in the automobile factories is anticipated.

To support the campaign, Mr. Macauley announced, the manufacturers will spend $1,250,000 in newspaper, radio and outdoor advertising and in other promotional channels. Two-thirds of the advertising budget will be spent in newspapers.

Seedlings Survive Under Proper Care

Given proper care and land preparation prior to planting, Clarke-McNary seedling trees can survive. This has been shown by some Wayne county farmers and producers elsewhere.

Henry Jarchow, Jefferson county farmer, in 1937 had more than 80 per cent survival from his planting of 200 Chinese elm and Red Cedar transplants. This was in spite of adverse weather conditions and grasshopper infestation. The trees were planted for windbreak protection along the north side of the farm buildings. Some of the elms reached 30 inches in height.

The ground was plowed deep in the fall of 1936. Snow and early spring rain did not run off the planting area. Seedlings were planted in 11ster rows and watered only at planting time.

Wayne county farmers now have requested 4,500 Clarke-McNary seedlings for spring planting. Applications for the trees can be had at the Farm Bureau office.

12 Billion Acres Treated Against Erosion Now

Under Conservation Tons of Grass Seed Has Been Planted

More than 12 million acres of farm and ranch land are now being treated for erosion control under the program of the soil conservation service. Grass seed by the ton and trees by the million have been planted. Hundreds of thousands of small dams have been built to conserve and check water.

Work of this kind, says H. H. Bennett, chief of the service, has benefited dozens of comparatively small watersheds. An example is the drainage area of Big Creek in north central Missouri and adjacent Iowa—a watershed of approximately 155,000 acres. Three years ago more than one-third of the land was gullied. At least three-fourths of the land showed some erosion damage.

Today the picture is more pleasant. Under a soil conservation service program, nearly 14,000 acres of highly erodible land have been taken out of cultivation and planted to erosion-resistant vegetation. Farmers on the watershed are plowing more than 12,000 acres of crop land on the contour to save soil and water. Approximately 5,000 acres are in soil-conserving strip-crop systems. An equal acreage is protected by broad-based terraces. More than 8,500 temporary and permanent dams have been built for gully control and water conservation.

Results of this work are evident. Active gullies are almost eliminated. Soil washing has been reduced. More water is available for plants and for livestock. Three years ago Big Creek farms were going down hill, literally and figuratively. Today the watershed has an appearance of stability and permanence.

Controlled Grazing Benefits Quality

If you expect to have good grass, you must give it a rest from grazing. So believes Fred H. Krueger, Thayer county landowner.

After constructing contour furrows on grass land, Krueger keeps livestock off for one year. The additional moisture by the contour furrows produces a better growth and also a better seed crop, he believes, and the condition of his grass is rather convincing proof that he is correct in this.

Although rainfall has not been plentiful during the summer on the Krueger pastures, by conserving the moisture that fell and practicing controlled grazing, grass growth has made good headway and a very satisfactory seed crop has been produced.

Moisture tests made by Krueger on his grass land show a much greater penetration near the contour furrows than is found in soil at a distance from the furrows. In the construction of contour furrows and in the practice of controlled grazing, Krueger is co-operating with the Hebron Soil Conservation CCC camp and the Thayer county Soil Conservation association.

Hero's Award Is Won by Mechanic Who Flagged Train With Flashlight

An Ohio mechanic who flagged down an express train, bringing it to a stop a few seconds before it would have smashed into an automobile which was stalled on the tracks, has received a first 1938 Certificate of Merit awarded by the Light for Life Foundation, Inc., national safety organization. The recipient, Ralph W. Baker, of Forest, Ohio, was handed the certificate by Mayor Homer O. Dorsey, at a ceremony held in the Municipal Building of Findlay, Ohio, a few miles from Forest. Baker, who is 23, and his wife were driving home from a night basketball game. Approaching a railroad crossing they found that an automobile had failed to negotiate an "S" curve near the crossing and had stalled astride the tracks. In the car were five persons. A fast flyer could be heard roaring toward the crossing. Baker grabbed his flashlight and sped down the tracks, signalling as he ran. The engineer saw the waving beam, slammed on the brakes, and the train ground to a halt a few feet from the automobile. In handing the certificate to Mr. Baker, Mayor Dorsey said: "While the occupants of the car had time to get out, they were so dazed by this predicament that they stood grouped nearby where they would have been injured by flying wreckage. The great danger was that the express, with several hundred people aboard, would be derailed since the automobile was wedged in the tracks. It is certain that but for Mr. Baker's foresight in having a light, and his quickness in using it, there would have been a serious accident."

Mayor Dorsey praised the Light for Life Foundation for its efforts to promote the cause of safety. Congratulating Mr. Baker on winning one of the ten certificates given by the Foundation each year, he expressed the hope that Mr. Baker would also win the medal awarded by the Foundation annually to one of the certificate winners.

Betty Crocker KITCHEN CLINIC

Prepared By NEBRASKA DEMOCRAT-BETTY CROCKER HOME SERVICE DEPARTMENT

"HIS MOTHER'S OATMEAL COOKIES"

I was captivated by the name, "His Mother's Oatmeal Cookies" when the recipe was submitted in a contest two years ago. Naturally I was interested in seeing them made, and in tasting these cookies a mother had made to please her little son. Later, when I sampled a thin crisp cookie with a brown sugar and nut-like oatmeal flavor, I could understand why they had lingered in the memory of that boy long after he was a grown man. And I could picture that man's wife later, coveting the recipe eagerly into her cook book with a happy smile of anticipation on her face as she thought how pleased her husband would be when he saw she could make his mother's oatmeal cookies.

They are delicious plain cookies even without any trimming. But when two are put together with apricot preserves, strawberry or raspberry jam or jelly between, they become a delightful combination of crispness and lusciousness. The kind any little boy or girl would be proud to take in a school lunch box. Not only that, but the grown-ups in the family will appreciate them just as much as the youngsters. Here is the recipe:

- His Mother's Oatmeal Cookies
2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. salt
3 cups quick-cooking oatmeal
1 tsp. soda
1 cup shortening (part butter for flavor)
1/2 cup milk (sweet or sour)
1 1/2 cups brown sugar

Sift flour once before measuring. Mix together flour, salt, and oatmeal. Cut in the shortening with 2 knives or a pastry blender until the mixture is thoroughly blended. Dissolve soda in the milk. Stir it and the brown sugar into the first mixture. Chill. Roll on a lightly floured board to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut into desired shapes, place on a lightly greased cookie sheet, and bake 10 to 12 minutes in a quick moderate oven, 375° F. When cool, put 2 cookies together with a filling of jelly, jam or preserves between them. (Apricot preserves, strawberry or raspberry jam, or apple or currant jelly are especially delicious.) Amount: About 30 double cookies (2 inches in diameter).

Betty Crocker Advises

Question: Is there any difference between rolled oats and oatmeal? Answer: Oatmeal is a real meal, like corn flake, while rolled oats are the large flakes we see used for breakfast cereals. The food content of the two is very nearly identical.

Question: How is the best way to measure brown sugar—by leaving it loose in the cup or packing it down? Answer: We always pack the brown sugar down because that's the only way to get a really accurate measurement.

Question: Why do you say in so many of your recipes to chill the dough before rolling it out and cutting it into cookies? Answer: We give this direction to chill the dough for rolled cookies because otherwise more flour would be necessary and as a result the cookies would be less tender. If a large amount of cookies is being made at one time, roll out only a part of the dough at a time, keeping the rest in the refrigerator until needed. Roll out on a cloth-covered board. The dough picks up loose flour scattered on an uncovered board. Of course, this means a stiffer dough and dry, less tender cookies. Cut your cookie dough with a floured cookie cutter and lift each cookie onto the pan with a spatula. The recipe should explain whether a well greased, lightly greased or ungreased cookie sheet or pan should be used for that particular cookie.

If you worry about what to serve, if you dread to start the next meal, just drop a card to Betty Crocker in care of your newspaper, and ask for this week's menus. Complete menus for the week with recipes for the main items will be sent to you, at no cost. Please enclose 3 cent stamp to cover return postage.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Hell Underground" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, EVERYBODY: Here's a detective who had a hobby. And because he had a hobby, he caught a man. And because he caught a man, he came mighty darned near losing his life.

In the spring of 1922, Jack was working for a well-known detective agency. He told me the name, but he wants me to leave it out, because—well—detective agencies don't like too much publicity about the cases they handle.

Jack's hobby is fungi—you know, mushrooms, toadstools and the like. The job he was to do was to run down a fellow named Fritz—last name also omitted by request—a fellow six feet two inches tall, light complexion, military bearing and—like Jack—interested in fungi.

Found His Man in a Michigan Mine.

Jack traced Fritz to an address in Camden, N. J., and from there to St. Louis, Mo. From there the trail led through Chicago, Milwaukee, Hancock, Mich., and finally ended in Calumet, Mich., where Jack was told that Fritz was working in a copper mine called the Quincy shaft.

It was the spring of 1923, a year after he had started, when Jack finally got to the same town his man was in. But still he didn't know what the man looked like. He got a job as assistant timekeeper at the mine and began looking the miners over.

Then, one day, Jack found a bed of fungi down in the mine shaft. He picked up a handful of them and carried them to the surface. He carried them around until he saw a man who answered Fritz's general description eyeing the fungi with interest.

Ready to Bring It Down on Jack's Cranium.

Jack stood talking to the man for a while. They got along great because they had a common interest. Before they parted they made an appointment to go down into the mine on the following Sunday to look for fungi.

That Sunday they met at the mine entrance at 10:30 a. m. The stationary engineer—a fellow named Barry—was there, too. They climbed into the car and were soon at the bottom, 7,200 feet below the surface.

"We explored the bottom of the mine for about a quarter of a mile," says Jack, "with carbide lamps on our hats and wearing rubber coats. The temperature was about a hundred degrees, since the farther you go down the warmer and more humid it gets. When we had been there about twenty-five minutes and had found a few specimens of fungus, we returned to the car for the trip back."

"As we got into the car I noticed a copper ingot lying on the floor and wondered how it got there. Those ingots weigh about forty pounds apiece and come in a size that can be conveniently stacked along the railroad sidings for shipment. I took the top seat, way up in the front of the car. Fritz took the second seat from the rear end where the bells and buttons which signalled the engineer were attached. The car started moving and went half way up the slope, drawn by the metal cable from above. Then it stopped suddenly. I didn't know it then, but Fritz had halted it with a signal."

He Was About to Brain Jack.

When the car stopped Jack turned to look at Fritz. That move saved his life. For there was Fritz, the copper ingot in his hands, holding it high above his head, ready to bring it down on Jack's own cranium. Somehow he had found out that Jack was a detective out to get him—and he was going to get Jack first if he could.

"I ducked," says Jack, "and the ingot hit me a glancing blow on my left shoulder. I was stunned for a minute, nevertheless. My senses left me, but I must have fought on automatically, for when I came to again I found myself half out of the car gripping the edge with my fingers while Fritz was trying to break my grip and throw me over the side."

"Usually I carried a small automatic revolver, but this time I had orders to bring my man back alive and hence carried a different sort of weapon. It was a .25 caliber gun loaded not with ordinary bullets but a cartridge that carried a chemical compound instead of a bullet. When it heated it flowed over the flesh in a good imitation of blood."

"I got that gun out and fired it. It gave a loud report and sprayed Fritz's hands with the concoction. When he saw that he said, 'Stop—I'm shot' and gave up the battle."

Fritz didn't know he actually hadn't been shot until he was back at ground level again and Jack had him safely locked up in a mine store-room. Later he was taken to the local jail and, later still, extradited to the state that wanted him for trial. "He was sentenced to jail for twenty years at hard labor," says Jack, "but that doesn't half make up for the forty years' growth he scared me out of."

Royal Dreams Typified by Palms The desire of every man to be a king is typified by Rio de Janeiro's great number of royal palms. Dom Joao, king at the beginning of the Nineteenth century, had planted the first seed of the royal-palm himself and ruled that the tree was to be exclusively his. To preserve his monopoly he ordered every seed from it gathered up and burned, but the residents of Rio who wanted to imitate royally bribed his slaves to sell the seeds. As a result royal palms soon sprang up everywhere.

Deep-Red Rubies From Siam Many of the best rubies have been found in Siam in the provinces of Krat and Chantaboon, where are located the principal ruby mines of that country. The stones are usually found in detrital matter about 20 feet below the surface. The ruby-bearing gravel is less than a foot in thickness and lies between a clay bed and a heavy covering of coarse sand. The usual color of the Siam rubies is dark red, running almost to a blackish shade of red.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

PETER RABBIT PLAYS DODGE

IT IS fun to play dodge when the one who is trying to catch you is a friend and it is all a game. But to play dodge when the one trying to catch you is doing it so as to have you for his dinner is quite another matter. It isn't fun then unless you are sure that you can get away, but it is very exciting.

Peter Rabbit is one of the best dodgers on the Green Meadows or in the Green Forest. One of the very first things Peter learned when he was a very little fellow was how to dodge. Since then he has had to dodge so often in order to keep his skin whole that none of his neighbors can dodge like him unless it is his cousin, Jumper the Hare, and it is doubtful if Jumper can, because his legs are so much longer and he can run so much faster that he doesn't have to dodge as Peter does.

But never had Peter had greater need of knowing how to dodge than now. You see, he had been having a terrible fight with himself in the Green Forest, trying to decide whether to tell Buster Bear where Busy Bee kept her store of honey and so make Buster his friend, or whether to keep it to himself. If he told, Buster would be sure to make trouble for Busy Bee, for he is very fond of honey. He wanted to tell, for he was very, very anxious to have Buster his friend, but a little voice inside, his better self, kept urging him not to tell. First he would listen to his own selfish desire and then run a little way to look for Buster Bear. Then his better self would make him stop and sit still.

So he would run a little way, then sit down; run a little farther and sit down. All the time he was so busy fighting with himself that he had no eyes for anything else, and so he didn't see Reddy Fox hiding behind an old stump just ahead of him. At last Peter sat down within two jumps of the old stump, and there he fought it all out with himself, and he decided that he wouldn't tell Buster Bear. Yes, sir, Peter decided not to do such a mean thing as to make trouble for Busy Bee not even to win Buster Bear for a friend.

Now, it usually pays to do right. It paid Peter this time, though he didn't know it was going to. You see, he sat still a long time just two jumps from the old stump, behind which Reddy Fox was hiding with his mouth fairly watering at the thought of what a good dinner Peter would make. If he had decided to go on and tell Buster Bear, he would have passed right close to that old stump and—well—probably Reddy Fox would have had a chance to find out just how good a dinner Peter would make. But when Peter finally did make up his mind not to tell, he started to turn back, for then, of course, he didn't want to find Buster Bear. Like a red flash, Reddy was after him.

"You'll be smarter than you've ever been before if you do," panted Peter, dodging behind a tree.

"Caw, caw, caw!" shrieked Blacky the Crow, who happened along just then. "Go it, Peter!"

Peter went it. He twisted his way and dodged that way, with Reddy Fox right at his heels, and all the time he wished with all his heart for the dear old Briar Patch. He knew that unless he found some safe hiding place soon, Reddy would tire him out.

"Caw, caw, caw!" shrieked Blacky the Crow in great excitement. It was great fun for Blacky. "Caw, caw, caw!"

At last Peter saw a great pile of brush. If he could get under that he would be safe. He dodged just in the nick of time, and then, drawing a long breath, he started for that pile of brush as fast as ever he could.

"Caw, caw, caw, caw!" shouted Blacky the Crow.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

PIMENTO BISQUE The soup described below is delicious. It has a delectable flavor and the rich color of the pimientos gives just the desired red touch to the finished product.

1 can cream of celery soup 1 tsp. salt 1 cup milk 1/2 tsp. paprika 3 pimientos

If canned condensed soup is used, prepare according to directions on the label and then add 1 cup of milk. If canned ready-to-serve cream of celery soup is used, pour the contents into a pan and add the cup of milk. Rub the pimientos through a sieve and add to the soup. Add salt, onion and paprika and heat until the soup is hot. Stir frequently to prevent scorching. Remove the onion before serving. Serves 6.

The food with red color in the main course might be a ring mold made with canned beets.

The red color for the dessert might be supplied by a raspberry gelatin made with a can of red raspberries.

100 Get Trials In American League Camps

By GEORGE A. BARCLAY
MORE than 100 rookies are being taken to the various American league spring training camps this year.

But looking over the records of these recruits and gathering hope from the minor league managers who tutored them in 1937, it is evident that a very competent bunch of new men are getting tryouts in the junior circuit.

The Boston Red Sox seem likely to retain at least eight of the players brought in from Minneapolis and Little Rock, Ark. Among these are Catcher John Peacock, Pitcher Charles Wagner and Outfielder Henry Gaffke of Minneapolis; Pitchers Emerson Dickman and Dick Midkiff, Infielder Jim Tabor and Outfielders Deal and Nonnekamp of Little Rock.

Mike's New Pitchers

Mickey Cochrane, who recently announced his definite retirement as an active player at Detroit, appears to have some likely recruits. Detroit's roster is long on pitchers. Mickey will have 17 to choose from. Elton Benton, who starred with Memphis last year, seems ready. Among other good prospects are Pitchers Harry Eisenstat and Jack

Mickey Cochrane

Corbett, Infielder Frank Croucher and Outfielder Roy Cullenbine.

The Chicago White Sox will depend largely on Gerald Walker and Mary Owens, acquired in the trade with Detroit to bolster them, but Pitcher Bill Cox from St. Paul and Outfielder Rupert Thompson from San Diego look like the goods. Cleveland has considerable new material, with Pitcher John Humphrey of New Orleans, Outfielder Geoffrey Heath and Third Baseman Kenny Keltner of Milwaukee out in front. The acquisition of Catcher Rollie Hemsley from the St. Louis Browns, should help.

The New York Yankees' rookies come from Newark, which won the International league pennant by 24 games last year. Pitchers Joe Boggs, Allee Donald and Second Baseman Joe Gordon seem ready to step into the lineup and make good.

Connie Mack is believed to have four recruits who will give the Athletics considerable aid and comfort this season. These include Pitchers Bill Potter from Columbus, Ohio, Steve Kalfass from Trenton, N. J., First Baseman Bill Hanson of Williamsport and Second Baseman Lodigiani of Oakland, Calif.

The St. Louis Browns appear to have strengthened themselves not only in their recent major league trades, but by the acquisition of Pitcher Vito Tamulis and First Baseman George McQuinn of Newark, and Pitcher Muncrief of San Antonio.

Several of Bucky Harris' Washington recruits appear to lack experience, but Outfielder Frank Cuse and Pitcher Mike Krakakaus of Trenton and Pitchers Leonard of Atlanta and Phebus of Chattanooga are highly touted as being able to deliver the goods in big-league style.

Diamond Flashes

Fifty nationalities, or combinations of nationalities, are represented in the National League. Three have Indian strains: Guy Bush of the Cardinals is English-Indian; Roy Johnson of Boston, Norwegian-Indian; Tom Baker of the Giants, Irish-Indian. ... Lee Grissom, Cincinnati southpaw rookie, was unable to beat either Pittsburgh or St. Louis last year, losing four to the Pirates and five to the Cards. But he beat Boston four times and Brooklyn three. ... Lou Fette of Boston defeated Brooklyn six times last season, losing one game. It was the most victories any pitcher chalked up over one team. ... Nine players in the league have hit more than 100 home runs in their National League careers. Nineteen players still in the league have driven in more than 500 runs. Twenty-six have made more than 1,000 hits. ... Biggest margin held by any club ever, another since 1900 is the Cubs' lead over Boston, 519 to 301.

What Is Proper Use of Furniture Polish?

In a recent investigation, it was proven that many, many homemakers use furniture polish incorrectly—pouring it on a dry cloth, for application to the furniture! This is a gross waste of the housewife's time, energy and her polish! And the latter is usually blamed. We refer, of course, to oil polish—for this type is best to clean, beautify and preserve the furniture. The best oil polish is not greasy, because it's made of fine, light-oil base. The polish should be applied on a damp cloth—thoroughly moistened with water, then wrung out. Saturate this cloth with the polish—spread on—and rub lightly. The "wet" of the cloth smoothly distributes the polish—and the finish absorbs, receives it evenly! This correct procedure takes the "labor" out of polishing—and requires far less tiresome rubbing! A dry cloth is then used to easily work up the glow, which is even and uniform—the desired effect! This—and only this—is the proper way to use a good oil polish!

MORE WOMEN USE O-CEDAR POLISH THAN ANY OTHER KIND!

... because O-Cedar not only cleans as it polishes, but preserves your furniture—"feeds" the finish, prevents drying-out, cracking. Insist upon O-Cedar Polish, for furniture, woodwork and floors (with the famous O-Cedar Mop).
