OUR NEIGHBORS.

HARTINGTON DEMOCRAT.

On Monday afternoon a warrant was sworn out by W. R. Winteringer living a few miles west of Hartington for the arrest of C. W. Pfirmer, one of his neighbors. It is stated that Mr. Pfirmer threatened to shoot some of the Winteringer children. Mr. P. was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Jones and brought to town and was obliged to give a $200 bond to keep the peace.

BANKRUPT JOURNAL.

Parties from Wakefield were in town the first of the week looking over the ground with a view to opening a saloon here, but we understand they met with little encouragement, and returned home without making any suggestions.

The engine and two cars to freight train No. 6 ran through an open switch and down an embankment into a gully about twenty feet deep at Oakland on Tuesday, badly demolishing the locomotive. The engine and fireman jumped from the engine in time to save their lives, and no one was seriously hurt.

The Decatur volcano turns out to be nothing more than a crack in the cliff near the river, where the earth has commenced to cave, owing to the action of high water, and the steam issuing from the crevice is caused by the melting of the snow which had blown into the earth to where the tract had not penetrated.

WALSLEY REPUBLICAN.

Six persons were baptised at a Christian church during the week past.

Thompson & Cook have piled up for shipment near the depot 25,000 lbs. of deer soap, some of the product of the ever memorable blizzard.

Dick Lambert got severely kicked on the left leg by a horse on Thursday, and is compelled to walk with a cane. So painful was the laceration that he had some fears it might prove fatal, and accordingly on Friday evening he went to church, and it is said that since that time he has become an investigator of the Bible.

Major Potter received a good-sized check from the U. S. treasury the first part of the week and the same closes the settlement between him and the Indian department as former agent of the Omaha and Winnebago Indians. Nearly every Indian spent upon going out of office has to hire a Washington lawyer to effect a final settlement, but Mr. Potter saved that expense by acting to that part of the work himself. There is an infinite amount of red tape work connected with the Indian department, and it takes a Philadelphia lawyer to comprehend the mystic procedure.

PENDER TIMES.

A bill was presented to congress about three weeks ago asking for an extension of ten years on first payment of the Omaha reservation lands to Geo. W. Pender, C. S. Snow, Fremont and instigated by E. K. Valentine of West Point. We have not seen any petitions yet, but learn that the farmers in favor of having a year or extension granted will have an opportunity of signing a petition to that effect.

Corn is the king cereal on the reservation this season. Our elevators have been strained to their utmost capacity to take in the corn, and the immense cribs have failed to hold what is brought here in the car and is being deposited upon the ground until more cribs can be built. The Pender elevator is shipping it out as fast as cars can be procured, as many as seven cars were shipped out one day last week by their agent, Mr. Peter Sharp, and still no signs of the supply diminishing. Business of all kinds is more prosperous than ever before in Pender and if the present bountiful crop is only a sample of what will be the crop the unsurpassed fertile soil of the Logan valley then the future presents some very bright visions of stupendous wealth and greatness for our little town of Pender.

A Temperance Spade—Call A Spade A Spade.

Question: What is a temperance spade? Answer: A common tool used by the W. C. T. U.

Q. Does it require skill? A. Not at all, but will.

Q. Does it require strength? A. Some strength more courage.

Q. For what is it used? A. For overturning, upsetting, undermining, in short, any kind of digging.

Q. Is it not rather hard work for women? A. Ask them. They will answer, "Better a broken back than a broken heart."

Q. What particular effort does this peculiar spade callibrate—produce upon the women who indulge in it. A. It has been known to develop a marble image of a woman into a Galilee, a Juno into a Minerva, and also sometimes a Niobe into a Nessus.

Q. What practical work can you do with this spade? A. By the judicious use of it, the bullet-like darts of earth can be converted into the mellow, fruitful soil, in which we can so abundantly seed for future harvests.

Q. What else? A. The poisonous weeds that grow on our land can be so buried out of sight that the places thereof shall know them no more.

Q. What is undermining? A. It can so insinuate itself into the crevices of the foundations of the most improving edifice (all tattered and tattered though it be, and possessing a capacity for turning out 1,000 kags a day), that shortly the sides will commence to crumble and crack, and man will begin to "stand from under." While you gaze you shall see the walls tumble and you will know that it is doomed; and the spade did it.

Q. Any thing more? A. It can remove mountains. Even the mountain of "public opinion" has by persistent digging, been known to crumble and shrivel until it became a plain and then, strange to say, the people swore it had always been a plain, at least they always thought so.

Q. Did you say it was used in digging graves? A. That is its legitimate work. No tool has ever been found to surpass it at this business.

Q. Give a W. C. T. U. woman a spade and she never stops digging until she has made a grave. Women are digging them all over the United States, and none so soon, either. Mortally wounded, the foul, festering carcasses are already half paralyzed, and, behold, while we look; they are tumbling in, Maine, Kansas, Iowa, Rhode Island, Washington Territory, and all of them bear the same inscription on the headstone, namely, "A Sinner, Neglected by Death, and Spaded Under by W. C. T. U."

Q. Is there any distinguishing mark about these spades? A. Yes. They are the only weapons used by the government, and they are labeled, A REMONSTRANCE.

OUR REASON WHY IT IS A NATIONAL QUESTION.

If, as the Supreme Court says, a State may make the manufacture and sale of liquor criminal, what unreasonable inconsistency is it for Congress to provide by law as it now does in its internal revenue system, for receiving a portion of the profits made by these criminals in Maine, Iowa, Kansas, Rhode Island? Every dollar received on liquor-making or liquor-selling makes the National Government a partaker criminally. And yet we are told this question!—The Voice.

THE CASE OF MRS. LIVERMORE.

Mrs. Livermore cannot vote, but by transferring what support a woman can give a political party to the Republicans to the Prohibitionists, she has created as much of a sensation and received as many commendations and criticisms as any man would. This shows the inconsistency of our laws in not allowing women to vote.—New England Patriot.

The Omaha Republicans congratulate Nebraska on account of the thousands of valuable emigrants driven across the Missouri by prohibition and have now become citizens of Nebraska. This inclines our namesake, the Cedar Rapids (Nebraska) Republican, to say: "We would like to see a list of say one hundred of these valuable acquisitions, a statement of the business they pursued in Iowa, their wealth and standing, and standing and an affidavit that they left Iowa on account of prohibition. Let us go to the U. S. in a business like way."—Cedar Rapids Republican.

TARIFF AND REVENUE

Senator Keane Replies to the Late Speech of Senator Sherman.

In the Senate on the 20th, after the transaction of some unimportant business Mr. Keane of West Virginia addressed the floor to reply to the tariff speech of Senator Sherman. All circumstances, he said, justified the belief that the speech was a carefully prepared and considered one...

The true situation of the difficulty, he said, is a fair and just medium which shall produce revenue for the country and at the same time protect the interests of the people...

Mr. Sherman had quoted that from President Jefferson, so as to justify his own position. Jefferson had solemnly invoked a change in the organic law of the land to avert the danger of the surplus...

Mr. Sherman had also quoted that from President Jackson, Daniel Webster and a succession of our country's presidents and secretaries of the treasury had shared the apprehension...

A boom for General Sheridan for president is in process of organization.

The Omaha Republican writes to remark that as Blaine was 57 years old Monday he will be in his 62nd year when he completes his first term as president.

The Yankee Band of trade has prepared and sent out a report of the loss of life and stock in Dakota from the blizzard, that completely refutes the ridiculous lies that have been circulated about it.

Another freight war is on and the rate from Chicago to Missouri River points has been reduced one half. About the only good that comes from the rate wars is the tendency they have to permanently lower rates, the companies often finding it a matter of some difficulty to restore rates to the original figure.

When a Nebraska farmer has given a mortgage upon his farm, he is practically only a tenant of that farm. Still, according to the prevailing custom, he is taxed just the same as though the mortgage did not exist. The capitalist who holds the mortgage places the document out of sight and the assessor never catches a glimpse of it. The real estate cannot be hidden. Thus the man who can afford to pay taxes is not asked to pay any, while the other man who is straining to meet interest on heavy obligations must not forth an extra effort to pay taxes as well.—Omaha Herald.

A comparison of the assessed valuation of the counties of the state shows very clearly that Wayne is paying more than a proper proportion of the state taxes. Such counties as Dixon, Dakota, Pierce, Knox, Stanton and Antelope, all of them older and more thickly settled than Wayne, and most of them much larger than Wayne, pay less of the state taxes, and the valuation in such counties as Bert, Washington, Combs and Madison is but a trifle higher. The assessors should see to it that taxes are so fixed in this county the coming year that it will pay only its just proportion of tax.

A reform legislature is a very good thing, and one much needed in every state to hold down the money lords and check the excesses of corporations, but when instead of a body of men honestly and intelligently favoring reform measures that shall deal justly with the people, a legislature is composed largely of hot-headed fanatics who are ready to go to any extreme of legislation, and pass a lot of ill digested laws, calculated rather to injure than protect the interests they are designed to benefit, it becomes a danger to the state and a menace to the business interests of all classes. Such a legislature seems to be gathered in Iowa this winter, and nothing but a peculiar mobility of laws is to be expected from it.

It is said that there are a number of gentlemen in Wayne county who are willing, and a few who are anxious to represent this district in the legislature next winter, and there is every prospect of a lively contest before the election is over. It is probable that there will be three tickets in the field, which may make the result a matter of doubt. The candidate this year should, if possible, be a farmer, for the farmers of the district will not be satisfied with a representative who is not of their number. He should not in any way be suspected of alliance with the railroads or of being under any obligations to them. He should be known to be thoroughly honest, independent and incorruptible. He should have at least an intelligent idea of the transportation problem, and be fair-minded enough to give all sides of the matter careful consideration, and not think that he is able to apply a plaster that will cure every ail of the body politic. He should not be a crank, ready to vote for every wild measure that may be presented, without reference to its effect upon the business interests of the state. It will be difficult to find the candidate who possesses all these qualities, but it should not be impossible.

SHAKING HANDS.

A form of Salivation as old as the hills has long been superseded. Although nothing is said about it in the medical journals, yet the custom of hand-shaking has grown into an epidemic in this country. Everybody is more or less infected. No man can stand up and say that he has never shaken hands.

There is no occasion when it is out of place. When two men stand up in a social or business gathering, the intention of shaking each other, the first move is to shake hands. When two women friends are about to separate for awhile or when they chance to meet on the street, not go the hands and the atmosphere is more or less violently agitated.

Start out in the morning some time and notice the different hands you will shake in the course of the day. Brown, fat hands; long cat-tanned hands; inky, black and smooth ones; white, black, brown, gray, yellow, red, blue and even green hands, hands that clutch at you like a drowning man clamoring at a river and asking for help for a moment and then are taken away, drawing you along with them.

There are many ways of shaking hands, some pleasant, most for other ways. It would not be remote to notice some of the most aggravated cases. There is the man who reaches for your hand, gives it a deluging jerk and then says, "How do you do, my friend, and then follows it up with an impatient inquiry after your health. Some men take your hand as though they were a piece of red-hot iron that had to be touched but must be dropped as quickly as possible. Others take it as though it were an old valuable china vase, fondle it for a moment and then let it drop softly from their grasp. The clumsy hand is the most frightful—of those that are cold, sweaty, sticky paws that are cold to the touch and make you feel like you were holding a snake. "Let no such hand be trusted."

There is the cautious man, who never trusts you with more than two fingers, or three at most. Then the fatal handshake. The right arm is up and down two or three times, as though he had been in the fair; his hand is winking his pump and then suddenly lets go and leaves it in mid air to be taken down at pleasure.

Swabbers once wrote in a book this thing: "Took hands and met with laughter. What a novel and new kind of shaking act he must have been. Let one of those great blue, gold starred, well meaning farmers take him by the hand and give it into a brilliant, shining, piece of meat, and see how that line would change."

Who has not seen the man who shakes hands with two people at once, giving separate hand to each, and the man who gives a lot of hands because he can't get them apart, shaking them so vigorously that they are almost numb?

For years politicians and preachers have been shaking hands with each other, shaking the most hands. The preachers have maintained a slight lead from the politicians, but in the recent election times, but in the recent election times they manage to overcome the politician's grip.

Men who are nothing else to give, will always give you their hand, and the less they have to give other things, the more they will give you their hand.

A shake of some hands is thought to possess peculiar curative properties. Many hands properly applied can cure you of any inordinate desire for hand-shaking that you may have had. The shakes of a good man's hand will cure you a prominent figure in a small town for years—especially if the grasp has been attended by two or more reliable witnesses.

Many a man has been elevated to the highest offices in the government of the people through the knowledge of how and when to shake hands. But it is an art that cannot be acquired. It is a natural gift. The handshaker is born, not made.

There are a few invaluable rules that every man who has the honor of this noble art. Do not depend on an account of their simplicity. They are the result of great brain sweat.

First—Never try to shake hands with a man whose hands are full of butter or who has been in the kitchen. Second—Always take a man's hand in the same spirit in which it is given. Third—If your hand is like a piece of sweaty dough or cold fungus always put on a glove before shaking.

Fourth—Never grasp a hand and put your own off like you thought you were milking a cow. Fifth—Take a man's hand and press it warmly against you, but be thoughtfully, and at the same time lightly enough not to be damaged for impertinence.

Sixth—Never take hold of a hand in the street and hold on to it for five or ten minutes. It awakens distrust in the mind of its owner. Seventh and last—Never encourage a man to shake hands with you unless you have some definite purpose in view when you realize that useful and profitable results will be the result of another's shaking.—Lansdown Times-Star.

Something to Learn. "Good gracious," said an arrival in Washington to the young lady she was visiting, "the town is full of handshaking." "Yes, there is several around." "It shouldn't think the girls would shake hands with you, do they?" "No, they don't. They call me a lady." "Don't be too hard, dear," said the hand giver, "they don't shake hands with you, do they?" "No, they don't."—Washington Critic.

CURRENT EVENTS.

A Montreal youth twenty-one years old is trying the Illinois lottery. A list of the 125 newspapers printed in Georgia are against the continuation of the war.

General Grant's widow visits the tomb in Riverside Park every Sunday. Thanksgiving Day she placed flowers on the tablet. A farmer recently drove into Ashland, Wis., as a loaded hay rack made partly of straw. One of the wheels rolled against the towncrier, striking him in the eye and burning it up.

Several men were arrested at an 'at' get together that drove around this country, as is often done by Louisiana, a vehicle of 120 to 175 miles an hour is required. A California team was driven to a lot of railroad ties in order that he might be sent to state prison and learn a trade. He said that was his only chance of becoming anything but a team.

Spain has seized the island of Pargali, which is situated in the Mediterranean, on the coast of Morocco, twenty-five miles east of Tangier and fifteen west of Ceuta. The place will be fortified. Portions of Iowa have been flooded with counterfeit dollars made of cast iron heavily plated with silver. Ordinary rolls fail to attract them and they can only be detected by their ring.

A farmer in Belmont, Ohio, is proud because his olive tree stock has a big with him, another with three ears, a cat with an eye growing from side out, and a boy with three thumbs.

Lord Salisbury recently sold his property between the Thames and the Strand for $1,000,000. By the growth of house ownership in London he is now one of the richest men in England.

Archbishop Hovda, of Milwaukee, says that the Catholic Church in America has 10,000,000 members, 2,000,000 are Germans. Of the seven archbishops and sixty bishops only one is a native born, Dr. Riggs himself, and eleven bishops are foreigners.

In the old Arabian language there is no distinction between "right" and "left hand." One word has to serve for both, but the modern vocabulary gets over the difficulty by calling the former a "right hand" and the latter a "left hand" or "war hand."

George Bancroft, the historian, is said to record the writing of 300 words as a good day's work. Mr. Blaine made 1,000 his limit. When writing his memoirs and Albert Porter dictated 2,500 as rapidly as a post writing under inspiration.

The Italian banks on the Crow reservation in Montana are said to have become entirely worthless by the default of General Regier's bonds, but the owners are still quietly and are making every endeavor to locate their loans to another outfit.

It may interest the superstitious to note that both Gibbon and Bancroft were born on Friday. Of noted men of the past who came into the world on that day of the week they are mentioned further, as follows: George Washington and Winfield Scott.

Mr. Mark Phillips, of Denver, Colo., who is one hundred and one years old has just been mentioned to the post office, he has married, who says that she disturbs them by crying out in her sleep and making other noises straight up to the ceiling, and an habitual smoker.

The Gloucester Fisheries are expected to have a very good season. Some reports estimate that during the year just ended average fish catch would have gone down, 17 fishermen have lost their lives, 60 women have been made widows, and 61 children orphaned.

Of the 400,000 New Yorks composed to be in the United States, at least 250,000 are millionaires. A New York paper recently published the names of the millionaires in the state whose fortunes range from $100,000.00 up to $4,000,000.00 each.

The record stands as to the ownership of a bag that was claimed by two persons, a Kentucky justice released the matter and let it go to the victor. It made a break for it as one of the contestants, but the other was expelled from the judgment of both the Court and the law.

There is a story in St. Helena, Cal., of a pumpkin which grew to such a size that when it split open from its own weight it did so and made two men there. When one was found long afterward she had given birth to some little pig, which was playing hide and seek in the vast measure of the agricultural output.

A twelve-pound cannon shot was found in the stomach of a cow that died in an area near the city of Franklin, Tenn. It was evidently fired from a Federal cannon during the bloody battle twenty-three years ago, as it retained the shape of the side next to the cow. The fibres of oak are still attached to the ball and are as hard as the iron itself.

A remarkable stock of preserved fete made up of Philadelphia, which is the making of artificial fish for fishing purposes. The stock required are a small lot of sharp teeth, a pair of eyes, a pair of legs, a pair of small pieces of rosin, etc. The materials are broken and left feathers of wool and some, with silver and gold threads, a little saw-wood silk of all colors, some Berlin wool, stained gels, and hooks of various sizes. A novel industry has been started by boys in the San Joaquin Mountains in California. They catch rattlesnakes by means of a slip snare, but then they up and take them to San Angelo, where they sell them. The Chinese are the purchasers. They use them as medicine, and the snakes sell for from 30 cents to $1 each. It is said that the Chinese handle them fearlessly and never get bitten.

A 2-foot sword and a 2-foot long on his "nose" will, near Leacock, Wood county, W. Va., Friday. It was a white oak log, four feet and eight inches in diameter, and had the wood was as early as an African's word. About twelve feet from the ground a phenomenon was found in the wood. The log had grown at right angles with the length of the tree. The tree belonged to one Peter, and a silver horse was time and time before it was hauled to the mill.

From what we know about the Chicago jail we are inclined to question the sanity of the anarchists who die there until the day of execution. Why didn't they walk out and snatch some more, instead of sitting around there doing nothing?—Massachusetts Journal.

Some of the Indians have been good farmers that their pumpkins cost them only 70 cents apiece, and they can raise turkeys for about $2 per hundred.—Chicago Herald.

We have detected that all authors who write at this office are either the Wizard or a year in advance commencing Jan. 4, shall have their recollections written in red ink. This will, of course, entail considerable additional expense, but we're making money and an effort.—Old City Buzzer.

Pennsylvania people are beginning to be afraid to go into their cellars with lamps because of the natural gas, with its very explosive propensities, that gathers around a such place.—Chicago Herald.

Considering that in the dark a man might possibly mistake the clock hydrant for the whisky-barrel faucet, it will be seen that this world's great hardship is to the Pennsylvania.—Chicago Times.

A Prompt Solution.

This was the typical country store. There were soap and black and needles and letter-paper, and back combs and paper collars, and suspenders, in glass cases in the front, and crockery and saloon, and linens and overalls, and soap, and blue cloth, on the shelves, and butter and dried beef, and lard, and wheat and kerosene, and molasses and molasses in treacherous confusion in the rear. Its motley variety was, indeed, a necessity. Lott's was the name of the store.

As if I'm going to have rice pudding for dinner, it ought to be going on," said Lottie, as she looked at the clock.

But she kept on looking aimlessly about for certain fixtures.

"I'd give you my own," said John wistfully.

"You've never been to the house before," Lottie queried.

"You've never invited me," John responded with a gentle reproach.

"Not that I'd care to come if you did," he added, with a faint motion of his head toward Mr. Lamplighter.

Lottie sighed.

"You would get an evening off," she suggested coquishly.

"I'd just love to go," said John, with a radiant and grateful face.

"You know I'd be delighted," Miss Lottier said, with a smile.

"Stockham," Mr. Lamplighter's name was alarming near "I want that box of apples," she said.

John looked at the counter, he glared down at the clock, and then he looked at Lottie.

John looked at Lottie. There was a dim light in his eyes.

"I'll come with you," he said, and he turned to the door.

"I'll come with you," he said, and he turned to the door.

"I'll come with you," he said, and he turned to the door.

"I hope we won't. I'm willing to go on hunting," John rejoined, with a sly, shy glance at the pretty face near him.

"I've got a lot of things to do at home," said Lottie, smiling back at him. "I'm trimming a new hat."

"You couldn't improve on that one," John put in, with another admiring glance.

"As if I'm going to have rice pudding for dinner, it ought to be going on," said Lottie, as she looked at the clock.

ENFORCED ABUTIONS.

A Connecticut Hermit Bathed By the Board of Health.

Over in the town of Clinton, few miles from the city, says the Boston Globe, there exists a character as strange in his way as the leather man, or any other of Connecticut's freaks.

There was a tinge of irony in his tone, and some grimness in his smile; but he was not mad—that—said John Stockham.

They recalled that by a fortunate turn of events Mr. Lamplighter was defeated, and made to appreciate and admit it.

"Well, it's the way to do," Lottie declared a few weeks later, when she and John Stockham were safely engaged.

Two years ago there were as many buffalo between Western Kansas and Nebraska and the Rocky Mountains, and Northern Texas, and the Blue Mountains, as there were at the present time in the same area.

The buffalo is to be valuable as an animal as the plains cow; its hide is as useful and its flesh not less palatable than the hide and flesh of the cow.

But the vast herds, stretching in the bottom of other side of the railroad tracks and across the prairie, finally almost to the very edge, that there be seen as late as 1874.

West have not been more pitilessly destroyed by the hand of man, and the Indians, the buffalo, the elk and the antelope as the same herds.

John Stockham, what is that Mr. Stockham said the day a superintendency.

"John smiled," he declared.

"I'll come with you," he said, and he turned to the door.

"I'll come with you," he said, and he turned to the door.

should be a better plan for John to live in during the winter if he persisted in his determination to live there.

The part of the job attended to, the Board of Health was notified that the Board of Health was notified by Clinton generally.
