EMERSON ERA.
In a drunken quarrel at Blyburg last week, Geo. Chasmerlin cut, and slashed and carved his brother Charles and Frank Bowman. No information received as to whether the victims are likely to die of their wounds.

WASHINGTON HERALD.
Hartington wants a good photographer. A good man will have all the work he can do.

Z. Boughn, of Randolph, will build a twenty-thousand dollar residence and sick an artesian well. So says the Randolph News.

We advise actual settlers who want land in Cedar county to try soon, for the railroad from Omaha to Yankton is bound to be built, and Cedar county will surely boom more than ever before.

WEST POINT MERCURIAN.
The prohibition convention at Beemer yesterday was held in Schroeder hall over a saloon, for use of which the proprietor charged $1 an hour. He was obviously "playing for time."

E. E. Perrin, formerly of this county, offers to be one of five men to put in an electric light plant at Wayne and the citizens look with favor on the project. Wayne is a lively little village but its desire for electric lights reminds one of a child crying for the moon.

NORFOLK NEWS.
A flood of counterfeit dollars has been turned loose in town since the last week and a good many people have one more of them on hand as mementoes. So far as has been reported, there are three of these counterfeits—one of the dollar of 1881, made of glass, well executed, with a very fair ring, but light in weight; the other two bear date 1883 and 1880 and are poorly executed, with an especially bad seal on the "In God We Trust" on the reverse side. Every dollar of the above dates should be examined carefully before being taken.

DOKOTA CITY EVENING.
Dokota City's prospects were never better than right now. The business men are all having a first class trade their bills are paid promptly, their paper is gilt-edged and failures are unknown to the town. We have a good class of citizens in county and property in all parts of town is very desirable. Let the merchants and people of the town continue to work in harmony for "united we stand, divided we fall," and in unity there is strength. Should business continue to increase the town will double in population by the end of 1888.

HANDSOME NEWS.
There are $12,000 worth of buildings contracted for in this town to be built as soon as the weather permits.

William Flemming, the party that is building the mill at this point, lost $2,000 by the skipping of the cashier of the First National bank of Auburn N. Y. The bank pays 25 cents on the dollar.

W. H. Butterfield, of Columbus, Wisconsin, is visiting his ranch, section 36, 29, 2, west. Since his last visit his foreman has used over seventy thousand feet of lumber in building barns, sheds, etc., for their 1,100 head of cattle and 52 horses. As soon as spring opens they will break 1,200 acres of prairie and make it blossom like the garden of Eden. They contemplate planting 320 acres of broom corn. They have one pasture of 700 acres under fence.

NORFOLK JOURNAL.
Dr. Bear went up to Plainview and amputated both feet of the unfortunate New Boye whose case has excited so much sympathy. Other surgeons assisted in the operation, but we have not learned who they were. The patient endured the operation as could be expected, and the doctors hope that with the aid of a naturally good constitution he will rally and recover.

The Yankton and Southern railroad on Monday filed articles of incorporation in the office of the Sec. of State. This road which is to run through Cedar, Knox, Pierce, and Wayne counties to Norfolk, and thence southwest, has solid business men at the back of it who mean business. The road is sure to be built if the people want it, and that they do and mean to have it is indicated by the zeal and enthusiasm which the project has awakened at Norfolk, Yankton and along the line.

P. E. ILLER ON HIGH LICENSE.

The following letter written by the president of the Nebraska Liquor Dealers Association and the recognized leader of the trade in this state and intended as a confidential pointer to the leading saloonists of New York who are preparing to fight high license before the legislature at Albany, is a timely significant and important contribution to the literature of the contest.

Just how the Voice obtained the letter is at present a mystery, but that paper assures Mr. Iler that his letter will be read within forty eight hours by every leading liquor dealer in the state.

WILLow SPRING DISTILLING CO. T. E. ILLER, PRES. J. H. ILLER, SECT. OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 7, 1888.

TO THE GENTLEMEN: Your letter of the 31st ult. in regard to Prohibition is at hand and carefully noted. I would answer your questions as you put them as follows:

1. High license has not hurt our business, but, on the contrary, has been a great benefit to it as well as to the people generally.

2. I believe some what as you say the Cincinnati Vorkblatt says, that high license acts as a bar against Prohibition. It is especially so in this state, as the tax from the license goes toward supporting the schools thereby relieving the citizens and farmers of just so much tax that they would otherwise have to pay, and is therefore especially beneficial to the poor and laboring classes. It also gives the business more of a tone and legal standing and places it in the hands of a better class of people.

3. I do not think that high license lessens the quantity of liquor used, but places it in fewer and better hands, with better regularity.

4. As to the repeal of the high license law, if the question was left to it, I do not think, as far as my acquaintance is concerned, that they would do it. I have an extensive acquaintance through this state, and I believe if it were put to a vote of the liquor dealers and saloon men whether it should be high license, no license or low license, that they would almost unanimously be for high license. Those objecting would be a class without responsibility or character, who never pay for anything if they can help it, and simply cause business every one they can, and of course such a class would naturally not want this law. I cannot see how anyone who has anything at stake can help but favor high license and enforcing the law strictly.

5. I would be in favor of high license rather than trust to the non-enforcement of the law under prohibition. If you undertake to do your business without protection you are blackmailed by one-hour saloonists; which in the end amounts to many times the cost of a license every year, even if the license be very high.

We have had a great deal of business in the state of Iowa, both before it was Prohibition and since, and I can say positively that there is very little satisfaction in doing business in that state now. Very often goods are seized and causes a great deal of delay and trouble to get them released, and there is a fear of not getting money for the goods, and all the forms we have to go through make it very annoying business. It is like running a railroad under protest. You don't know where you are going or what is ahead. In all my experience of ten years in Ohio before the temperance movement, and twenty years experience here previous to high license and since, I believe that high license is one of the grandest laws for the liquor traffic, and for men interested as well as the people at large, there is no other objection we have here is that the regulations are not more strictly enforced.

I enclose you herewith a copy of our state law regulating the liquor business, which will give you an idea of the kind of law we have. Anything I can do for you at any time, please command me. Yours Truly,

PETER E. ILLER, PRES.

Death of Miss Shattuck.

Seward special to Omaha News. This morning Miss Shattuck was suddenly taken worse and at 9 o'clock passed peacefully away. The death of the young lady was not wholly unexpected as she had been critically ill during the last four days. It was hoped, however, that Miss Shattuck would gain strength and live, but it was announced at 7 o'clock this morning that her death was a question of brief time, and at 9 o'clock the prediction was fulfilled. The attending physicians, Dr. Reynolds and Dr. Fisher, did all in their power to alleviate her sufferings. Her illness was complicated in the liverack on the night and succeeding days of the terrible storm reduced her to an almost helplessness, and her condition became so thoroughly critical that her recovery was not to be expected. In the afternoon her back was badly frozen, and the flesh sloughed away from the body. Her eyes were completely closed, and in fact she died in a coma. Her death was a great loss to her family. She had been married to a young man who was a member of the Omaha police force. Her death was a great loss to her family. The city council of Winona, Minn. rather put the job on the effete East, by passing a resolution giving ten thousand dollars for the benefit of sufferers from the recent New York and New England blizzard.

The Sioux City Journal is one of the most extreme and violent of anti-monopoly papers these days. It would perhaps be uncharitable to think that the fact that its editor has been frequently suggested as a good candidate for governor of Iowa, has anything to do with the matter.

Some one has sent us an Allegany County, N. Y. paper that is denoting its entire energy to booming Blaine. There is no one wanting any of the candidates in Nebraska. If Blaine is a candidate in the convention he will receive the solid vote of the Nebraska delegation without any question.

When the state republican committee meets this year to settle on the time and place for holding the state convention the members from the northern part of the state should make a vigorous effort to locate it in Omaha. There is no other place in the state that is so accessible, and Lincoln has had its own enough.

If the Holy ground-dog had gone into his hole and pulled in and hid forever the President's free-trade manna, his rebel Bag order, the proceedings in the Toledo-Caroline contest, and the outrage attempted upon Congressman White, of Indiana, the Democratic party would have had him up on sugar all the balance of his natural life. But left in sight, as all these things are, people will go on thinking about them.—Inter Ocean

The state board of transportation has apparently decided to abandon all attempts to further adjust freight rates for the present. The board says that the general request from the people is to let the matter alone, as they are satisfied with existing rates. The board of transportation seems to have found out something that no one else knew. If there is any thing that nineteen twentieths of the people are entirely dissatisfied with it is the existing freight tariff.

The New York Sun exhorts the Democrats "to stand together." The Sun's editorial is by the side of Dan, Stand Beer Jones or Beer Watson up by the side of Beer Grady. Stand the President up and back to Congressman Randall and then ask the President to roll off a few of the high sounding sentences of his free-trade manna. How quick the music would begin The Sun might conceivably have "Democrats to vote" together, but to make them "stand together" would fill the air with gooped eyes and pieces of unaimed ears.—Inter Ocean.

At the formation of a Blaine club in Lincoln last week, Hon. John M. Thurston addressed the club in his usual eloquent manner. In the course of his address he said:

"I would rather go down into the bottomless ocean of irrevocable debt than under the banner of a great, empty, and uncharitable leader like Blaine, than sail triumphantly into the harbor of success under the banner of a man chosen solely on account of availability."

That that is a very pretty sentence, and may express Mr. Thurston's sentiment, but it is not very sound politics. Politics is a game, when nothing enough like success.

The discussion of government control of telegraphs has received a new impetus by an address delivered before the National Physicians' Association by Col. G. H. Jones, of the Jacksonville, Florida, Times-Union. He argues that the present system is much more for the people at large than could be a system owned and controlled by the government, and that it is not so much as the people who are to be benefited by the competitive system.

Blaine has written a letter to the chairman of the national republican committee, stating that he was a candidate and that his name will not be presented to the convention. The letter will cause genuine regret to the great majority of republicans, coming as it does at a time when his nomination without opposition was practically settled. It undoubtedly expresses his real sentiments, and takes him out of the list of candidates. The following is the letter:

PROCESSE, Italy, Jan. 25, 1888.—B. F. Jones Esq. Chairman of the National Republican Committee—Sir, I wish, through you, to state to the members of the republican party that my name will not be presented to the national convention called to assemble in Chicago in June next for the nomination of candidates for president and vice president of the United States. I am constrained to this decision by considerations entirely personal to myself, of which you were advised more than a year ago.

But I cannot make the announcement without giving expression to my deep sense of gratitude to the many thousands of my countrymen who have sustained me so long and so cordially in the belief that I could make no adequate return, but I shall carry the memory of it with me to the grave.

Not can I refrain from congratulating the republican party upon the clearing prospects which distinguish the opening of the national convention of 1888, as compared with that of 1884. In 1884 the republican party throughout the nation suffered with disastrous defeat. For states that had supported Garfield and Arthur in the election of 1880 were carried by the democrats either by majorities or pluralities.

The republican loss in the northern election of 1884, I can make no adequate return, but I shall carry the memory of it with me to the grave. The republican loss in the northern election of 1884, I can make no adequate return, but I shall carry the memory of it with me to the grave.

But again the discouragement naturally following the adverse elections of those two years, the spirit of the republican party in the contest of 1884 rose high, and the republican cause entered into the campaign with such energy that the final result depended on the vote of a single state, and that state was carried by the democratic party by a plurality so small that it represented less than one-eighth of one per cent of the entire vote. The change of a single vote in every two thousand polled would have given the state to the republicans, though only two years before the democratic plurality exceeded one hundred and ninety-two thousand.

The elections of 1886 and 1887 have demonstrated the growing strength of the republican right. Scarcely in our political history has a party, defeated in a national election, rallied immediately with such vigor as has the republicans since 1884. No comparison is possible between the adverse election of 1888-87 and its spirit in 1888-87. The two periods present simply a contrast—one of general depression, the other of enthusiastic revival. Should the party gain in the elections of 1888 over those of 1886-87 it is saying like the proportion of the gain of 1884 over 1882-83, it would secure one of the most remarkable victories of its entire existence. But the victory does not depend on so large a proportion of increase. The party has only to maintain relatively its prestige of 1886-87 to give its national candidate every northern state but one with a far better prospect of carrying that one than it has had for the past six years.

Another feature of the political situation should inspire republicans with irresistible strength. The present national administration was elected with if not upon, the repeated assertion of the people that no issue on the tariff was involved. However urgently republicans urged that question as the one of controlling importance in the campaign, they were met by the Democratic leaders and journals with persistent evasion, concealment and denial. That recourse the president has certainly resorted to. The issue which the republicans maintained and the democrats avoided in 1884 has been prominently and specifically brought forward by the Democratic president and cannot be hidden out of sight in 1888. The country is now in the enjoyment of an industrial system which in a quarter of a century has witnessed a larger natural growth, a more rapid accumulation of wealth, and a broader distribution of wealth than ever before known to history. The American people will now be open to and firmly willed to decide whether this system shall be peacefully abandoned and a new trial of an old experiment which has uniformly led to national impoverishment and widespread individual distress. Or it re-will of such an issue, fairly presented to popular judgment, there is no room for doubt. One thing only is necessary to secure success—complete harmony and cordial co-operation on the part of all republicans, on the part both of those who aspire to lead and of those who are eager to follow. The duty is not merely one of honorable devotion to the party whose record and whose aims are the great, but it is one demanded by the instinct of self interest and by the still higher prompting of patriotism.

A close observation of the conditions of life among the older nations gives one a more intense desire that the American people shall make no mistake in choosing the policy which inspires labor with hope and crowns it with dignity, which gives safety to capital and protects its increase; which secures political power to every citizen and comfort and culture to every home.

To this end, not less earnestly and more directly as a private citizen than as a public candidate, I shall devote myself, with the confident belief that the administration of the government will be restored to the party which has demonstrated the purpose and the power to wield for the unity and the honor of the republic, for the progress and prosperity of the people. I am very sincerely yours,

JAMES G. BLAINE.

It was a pretty toadler when Eloise Arnold lay down...

"What!" exclaimed Adah Barrett, as she came in...

"You say," said Eloise, smiling up at her eyes...

"Not going back! Why, what can his mother be thinking of?"

"It is not a lack of inclination on the part of either of us."

"What a very old!" exclaimed Eloise, laughing outright.

"What a very old!" exclaimed Eloise, laughing outright.

"Dear me!" said Adah, "what a crowd you are!"

"You are a dear generous girl," said her friend, warmly.

"I rather do this all by myself, if you don't mind," said Eloise, earnestly.

"Dear me!" said Adah, "what a crowd you are!"

She left the room with a slight inclination of the head...

"You are a lady," he said, "can tell by your voice."

"Well, I understand a good deal, I want you to talk to me..."

"It is my grandfather," said Herbert Landell, "nearly all of the Herberts had that peculiarity."

"How very odd!" exclaimed Eloise, "the boy who resembles your grandfather is called Walter, too..."

"What do you know about him?" "He is a very nice boy..."

"He lives out of town. His father is dead," said Herbert Landell.

"Not much, Walter has to leave college, and is a great pity, for he is very bright..."

FACT AND FANCY.

An ice bridge has formed at Niagara Falls. Orators for a dollar are advertised in New York.

A Perry County (Pa.) young man has died of his jaw coming unglued.

A New York boarding house man has sold a baby for $10,000.

A great deal of machinery is being produced in the North for Southern markets.

Water furnished by man is now five cents a 1,000 gallons in Washington, in Baltimore...

A Toledo baggage-man, who checked an article of clothing at a retail store...

The last sailing vessel built for the United States Navy was the Constitution, completed in 1854.

Nothing has been said about the peach blotch in connection with the recent blight.

John T. Jones, of Kansas City, claims eight acres of land in Iowa City...

There is a woman living at Haverhill, N.H., who has never seen a man.

A spelling school in Des Moines reports on a salary of $2 per week.

A steamer of Boston has dropped, and the three hundred men recommended...

A handsome young woman about twenty-five years old called upon a Boston undertaker...

The most profitable piece of fruit land for its size in the United States is said to be the one in the State of New York.

A German woman, probably now well-to-do, entered the circus office of East Greenwich, Mich.

THE AMERICAN SHIPPING INTEREST.

The problem to be solved is how to provide our people with ships built at a low cost.

The higher rate of wages paid to men employed in the yards of American ship-builders...

The men of Philadelphia, N. J., resigned in both, because not willing to be stopped.

The Practical Joker.

There is no graver nuisance in society than the practical joker. Last week Daniel J. Grealy, of Brooklyn, was the victim of a practical joke who removed his chair on which Grealy intended to sit, with the result that he fell heavily, and in falling, hit his head so severely that he lay on the ground for some time, and his death would be a sad example to these practical jokers, it would afford some consolation, but the silly specious has always been in existence, and will probably continue to flourish, to the great discomfort of humanity. —The Epoch.
