OUR NEIGHBORS.

WEST POINT REPUBLICAN.
Peter Huffman the man who was found in such a sorry plight on the evening of the 12th inst. After he had fully recovered and been properly clothed was sent to Grand Island, he having friends living in the city. There has been no further light shed on the condition in which he was found. It is likely now to forever remain a mystery.

HARTINGTON HERALD.
While mentioning their respective ability to outjump each other the first of the week, John Cole, one of our prominent young men, fell backwards breaking his left arm about an inch above the elbow, splintering the shorter piece. Dr. Hitecock was called and immediately set the broken member. He will be some months before the injured member will regain sufficient strength to be used.

NORFOLK JOURNAL.
Fred May was run over by the cars at the Junction last Friday night and his shoulder and upper arm ground up. He was badly injured but he held in a few hours. Letters, found on his person were the means of his identification, and indicated that he had a wife. He has formerly been employed about Norfolk. Just how the accident occurred did not appear but the coroner's jury summoned on Saturday gave a verdict of accidental death.

DAKOTA CITY EAGLE.
At least a half dozen new buildings have already been started in South Sioux City. It would not surprise us to see that place have a population of 3,000 before the close of 1888.

Pat Barry of Jackson while on his way to Chicago with cattle was run over by a train at Boone Iowa, on Tuesday night. It would not be surprising to anticipate one arm at the shoulder. He was also badly bruised and otherwise seriously injured.

On Tuesday this office received by mail a small box from Homer which was carefully wrapped up and sealed and below the address was marked "for stock." Our curiosity was excited, yet we had some fear that there might be a dynamite bomb, so the box was kept a reasonable distance while being opened. Upon a close examination after the seal was found that it contained a fine bunch of green grass which had been grown in Omaha precinct, and shows the wonderful productivity of that section. The grass even with the thermometer running below zero.

STANTON REGISTER.
If you need a man who says that there is no profit in farming in Stanton county, hit him on the spot. J. F. Robinson, our ex-state senator, is a hard worker and good farmer. On his farm east of town he raised 120 acres of corn, which yielded him over 6,000 bushels. He has sold at 35 c. raised besides over 3,000 bushels of small grain. The work was done by himself and one hand, except an extra man during one month in the season of corn cultivating. This is only a sample case. The Sheriff here across the river, did fully as well, and in fact it is the same story throughout the length and breadth of our country. Why, see what the Milligan boys did on the sixty acre wood patch which they rented of A. N. Gill. They gave Mr. G. over three hundred dollars for his one-third share. They did not get top-notch price.

PONCA JOURNAL.
We had a conversation last week with Mr. W. Jenkins of Genoa on the subject of cheese making. Mr. Jenkins believes it is the best business the farmers of Dixon county can engage in, and his own experience seems to show that his view is correct. Last year he had 26 cows. In 110 days he made them his 26 cows an average of 40 pounds of cheese per day, or for the time being 1,040 pounds. He sold for 111 cents per pound thus receiving for the cheese $340. In addition the 26 cows were the happy progenitors of 21 fine calves, that were sold in the fall for $8 apiece. Total for the calves $168. Total for the calves and cheese $508. It will be seen that the cows earned $25.90 apiece aside from the calves, or including the calves, $33.35 each. The business of making cheese appears from the above figures to be a reliable avenue to wealth. If Mr. Jenkins can with 26 cows make $508 in one season, other farmers of good management can do the same.

Beer in Belgium.
Belgium is pre-eminently a beer country, with what results is told by a writer in a late issue of the Weekly Cosmopolitan of Los Angeles, Cal., who speaks from familiar personal observation. He says:

"Belgium appears to be the head center of drunkenness and drunken poverty and misery. All drinks are free and untaxed there, and a liquor of all kinds and tobacco are very cheap. It is a little country about twice the size of Los Angeles county and has 5,500,000 people. The drunk there is beer, wine and gin. In the year 1850 there were 35,097 dramabops; in 1870 there were 100,735; in 1875 there were 125,000, and now there are 140,000, more than half as many as in the whole United States. One dramabop for every 44 of the population, old and young! France has one for every 100; England one for every 145; the United States one for every 280, California one for every 90, and San Francisco one for every 60.

Dramabops increase under low taxes, high license and free rum. It seems to make little difference. Those who drink this wine will drink more next year, if it is to be had, and the children of drunkards are more and more than their fathers, and become drunkards earlier if they drink at all. There is probably no instance of dramabop decreasing much in any country with private bottles of gin prohibited or where they have so thoroughly ruined a town or village that the people have all left or died, and town one or two deadfalls will stay to rob travelers.

In 1876 the writer was some time on board ship to work every day loaded with private bottles of gin in addition to the demijohns brought by their boss. In a gang of twenty five to thirty men one was detailed about all the time to serve out gin to the rest. Every day one or two men would be stretched out drunk and asleep somewhere and there were a good many men more or less drunk and unable to do any work. One of the merchants said, "Yes, we know it. It is always so, and we cannot help it. We have to give them gin along as they would not work at all. It is so deadly annoying and expensive, but we cannot help it."

"Such a story told of the horrible dose of insanity in Antwerp and public places of infamy, where exhibitions of abjectness surpassed anything else in the kind in the world, except perhaps, San Francisco. The Antwerp Cathedral has in its tall spire probably the most perfect series of music bells in the world. At intervals every day they pour forth over the sinfully crowded symphonies of heavily muscled men only a few from among the fifty quartets called the R. G. famous the world over among sailors for its record or infamous vice and sinfulness.

"Next among the support people of the world did we ever see so many deformed, crooked, hoisted, crippled, pock-eyed, cross-eyed, idiotic-looking species of men never so many who had as if they had been wrecked in a mine or steam-engine, or escaped from a lunatic asylum. Never such a large proportion of drunken men among the workers. We were kept twelve days waiting with a splendid fair wind, a long March easterly gale, taking in some ballast which in any American support could be heaved on board in twenty-four hours. And all because when forty fifty men came alongside the men would go ashore and spend from one to two days before they would discharge it. And no men could be had to do otherwise.

"That was and is what a people, one among the most industrious thrifty, honest, and capable in the world have come to. And we have already a large class of people who are no better here. And unless we have prohibition we shall get where Belgium is.

Cross had a very desecrative fire last week.

A great flood is reported from the upper Missouri country.

Michigan and Wisconsin had another snow blockade the latter part of the week.

A fire in an Opera, Portugal, theatre, caused the loss of 119 lives last week.

A tornado in Kingman county, Kansas, almost totally destroyed the town of Minnebach on Saturday.

The Omaha Herald has got into the domain of foolishness by classing Nebraska as a foolhardy state.

The death of Chief Justice Waite gives the president an opportunity to fill that important position with a democrat.

The shortage of the missing Kentucky treasurer is a quarter of a million. He seems to have left nothing except the shortage, but there is plenty of that.

The Harrington Nonpareil says the "people of this country have been drifting along in ignorance and darkness," and so Rapalee is going to shed the light of his intellect on the situation and illumine things.

The disclosures made before a congressional investigating committee go to show that the packing houses have been practicing all manner of filthy and disgusting frauds in preparing their products for market, and will make consumers for a time very shy of "prime steamed lard" made of cholera hogs, and "picnic ham" cut out from shoulders.

If there existed any doubt that Iowa is unconstitutionally for Allison, it was dispelled by the action of the state convention, where not a shadow of opposition appeared. The senator has reason to feel proud of the loyalty and enthusiasm manifested for him by the state he has served so faithfully and ably in congress for the past twenty-three years.

Here is Senator Spaully's opinion of Cleveland. The nomination and election of Grover Cleveland has made the pretensions of any American citizen to the presidency respectable. There is no man in this country whose ignorance is so profound, whose antecedents so degraded, whose obscurity is so profound, that he has not the right the right to aspire to the presidential nomination—by the democratic party.

The Nance County Journal serves notice on the third congressional district that Nance county does not propose to be ignored in the convention, but will present the name of Hon. George D. Meiklejohn and vigorously push his claims for a nomination. Mr. Meiklejohn is at present chairman of the state central committee and is well known throughout the state.

Low papers are claiming Nebraska for Allison, which will be all right if Allison is the nominee, but the Nebraska delegation can be depended on to go to the Chicago convention tied to no particular candidate. It will be for the man who will best unite all republicans, and give the best promise of success. If it can be shown that Allison is the man they will be for Allison, otherwise not, although he has many friends in this state.

Chief Justice Morrison R. Waite, of the supreme court, died last Friday after a brief illness, his death being entirely unexpected, even by his most intimate friends. He had been suffering from a severe cold for several days, but the immediate cause of his death was a failure of action of the heart. He was appointed chief justice by General Grant in 1874, and although at the time he had but little more than a state reputation, he at once took rank among the most eminent jurists who have occupied the place. His death has caused a universal expression of sorrow from those who have been associated with him in all departments of life, at the capital, and especially from his associates on the supreme bench and the attorneys who practiced before him.

Almost every town in Dakota sent letters of sympathy to the blizzard stricken east last week, and offered financial assistance to the sufferers. The eastern papers realize the situation and accept the mock sympathy good naturedly.

The third district congressional convention meets at Fremont today to select a place for holding the convention. We hope to see Norfolk selected, for no other place in the district would be so generally accessible.

The situation on the "Q" has been complicated by a strike of the switchmen at a number of places.

Both the tickets in the field for village trustees are composed of good men, and personally there would be but little objection to any names on either. The sole question between them is as to what they represent in the contest for control of the village which will be a spirited one. It is only a question of whether the town will continue the policy heretofore in force of having an open saloon under the restriction of a high license, or whether it shall try the experiment of having no saloon. The matter is simply one of what is best for the town and the best method of controlling the liquor business. That to close the saloon here while neighboring towns have them would drive away a large amount of trade from us, no one who is at all acquainted with the facts of the case will venture to deny. The experience of Wakefield and Wisner in that line would be sufficient to show this, if any argument was necessary. While there were no saloons in these towns Wayne not only drew trade from their immediate vicinity, but persons drove through them and came here to trade, and much of the trade that was secured then is still held here. A reversal of the conditions would not only send it away, but would send more with it. It is unfortunate that there are many persons who trade in town where there is a saloon rather than in one where there is none, but such is the fact and it cannot be ignored. With a few exceptions the business men of the town are in favor of retaining the present condition of affairs, and certainly no others are better qualified to judge of the effect of a change than they. What the effect on the amount of drunkenness would be is doubtful. Those who support the no-license ticket maintain that there would be less drinking and drunkenness with no saloon. This is questionable, to say the least. The experience of our neighboring towns, Ponca, Wakefield, Wisner and Oakland, all of which have tried it, is to the effect that while local prohibition crippled them it actually increased the number of cases of drunkenness. Wayne has always been remarkably free from drunken rows and cases of drunkenness, and it is well to consider the matter carefully before deciding to change a good condition of things for one that might possibly be worse, but that would probably be worse from a moral point of view, and which would certainly seriously injure the business of the town.

There is no occasion for any ill feeling in this matter. The most of those who support the no license ticket doubtless do so from principle, but many of those who favor high license under existing conditions, are just as equably in favor of temperance and would be as much in favor of state prohibition as the advocates of no license, but they do not wish to injure the town for the sake of trying any doubtful experiments.

WAKEFIELD NEBRASKA.
Mrs. Northrop, mother of Mrs. C. Adams, of South Valley, has in her possession a gold ring which was presented to her grandmother by Geo. Washington. The set has been lost and the metal is worn in parts so nearly as this as paper. The lady who was the recipient of the gift made the general three linen shirts, spun and made with her own hands and on Washington was very fond of this kind of enterprise among American women to be rewarded the kindest with the above mentioned token.

He Supped With the President.

From the Atlanta Journal. In the early years of this century, when log houses were good enough for the average (iron) man, certain doctors presided over Franklin College. The simple habits of the r-diminished vires did not prevent the boys of those days from having their fun—indeed, they carried on an amount of devilment which the college boys of these times would consider respectable. The boys thought that anything was fair which would make one of the faculty the victim of a joke, and on one occasion they laid a dark plot to rob the doctor's poultry yard and afterward celebrate the event by a midnight banquet. The doctor's chickens were the pride of his domestic establishment, and he had built for their accommodation a log house. The logs was "notched down" at the corners and held in place by their own weight and the roof. At a late hour the boys repaired to the log house, armed with fire-arms. It was an easy matter to insert the rail between two logs and pry up those above so as to make an opening through which a man could crawl. A dapper young fellow, who had visited the doctor's poultry yard, went in and began to put the chicken's feet in the netting they stuck in the log and wrap their necks. While he did so the boys outside kept their feet on the rail, and so kept the track open for his escape. The young man, whom we will call Bob, had been on the rail, and the whole crowd was in high glee over the prospective banquet. Just then a big old rooster crows. "Look out, Bob, break that rooster's neck and stop his noise." "Sh! What's that?" "There was a low growl." "Boys, you have let those logs down too low for them a little, so I can't get out. Be quick about it!" At that instant there was a loud bang and the dog bounded into the poultry yard. The boys on the outside saw for an instant what their crowd, they dropped the rail and grabbed the chicken's feet to beat off the dog, but before they could do this the door of the doctor's residence opened and his tall figure appeared. The boys scattered, all but one. The logs had come together again and Bob was a prisoner. He crawled in a corner and held his breath, hoping that he would be overlooked, but the dog told him otherwise. By this time the doctor had come up and other members of the family came out, eager to see who was caught in the man trap. "Why, it's Bob!" "What have you thought of?" The exclamations were heard in the house and echoed by the young ladies. Then the door of the log house was opened and the young man was sent to the dormitory. He was called before the faculty the next morning. The poor fellow would have given his right eye, and expected to be summarily expelled and perhaps prosecuted. He told the doctor how the matter over. He was a man of great capacity in the management of men, and he recognized this weak as a piece of well-matched which might not be meanless. He resolved to give the matter serious consideration. Accordingly, when Bob appeared, looking like a criminal, the doctor lectured him severely, but in a friendly way and told him that such an offense must not go without a severe punishment. Bob expected the sentence of his expulsion. With measured tones, like a judge pronouncing the death sentence, the doctor said: "Mr.—I will expect you to take pains with your conduct, and as you show a fondness for chickens, the following you took off the roof last night will be on the table." Bob would rather have been expelled. But for the distress it caused his parents he would have gone home in a night, but he was so glad of good stuff in Bob, and with a tremendous effort he resolved to face the matter. It is impossible to describe the mental agony Bob went through that evening when he sat at the table where the doctor presided with courtly dignity. His eloquent wit could not have been more courteous to an honored guest than she was to Bob, and her daughters treated the young man as cordially as ever. Not a word was said about the affair of the night before, but the large dish of chickens was like a mountain in the poor man's eye. It was the reinvestment of treasure when the doctor, with the utmost civility, helped him to the choicest pieces. The situation, which under ordinary circumstances would have been ludicrous, under the doctor's consideration and his wife's tact, was carried subject to the pathetic. It was a lesson written on Bob's memory in burning letters, and he never forgot it.

A Very Pathetic Thing. Two young women in a confidential mood were overheard by an unympathetic man as they were discussing some of the topics dear to feminine analysis. The first speaker, who was evidently from the West, was enlarging upon the theme of the surplusage of the female population in Massachusetts, and described the State as a barren region fit only for a starting point of female emigration. Her companion seemed slightly disturbed at the criticism of her State, and when the Western girl asked in a sweet manner, "Now, how many chances have you your marriage, my dear, with asperity, 'if none, had any and I haven't any now.' The Western girl's countenance lit up with surprise, expression, and she said sympathetically, "Now, that is the most pathetic thing I have heard in New England."—Boston Journal.

Doubtless the Mormons are frugal as their zealous defender, Hovra A. Lockwood, declares. By careful economizing some of them have accumulated six or eight wives.—Philadelphia Press. The Gaudians are mild because the folk common law have allowed the American liberian the privilege of spitting on his own hat outside of the sensible hat.—Louisville Courier. To properly order a merc-chism it must be well-ventilated and protected from the wet winterial atmosphere. To properly order a nose it must be well packed and kept in a glass-whisker case.—New York Freeman. So many people, including his own mother, are in general liberal in their opinion that they are sure to be successful. Always we are coming to believe he wasn't there at all when it happened, and doesn't know any thing about it.—Chicago Times. "Howars of initiation" is the warning label placed on fourteen different kinds of Amos's dramatic lectures and played at Washington and found to be almost as deadly as too long persons. Initiations myself, by my ignorance on the brand.—Detroit Free Press. A work on the subject was: "A general error always exists when he general." Private letters are not so secret as you think that there are some letters who yearn to get out but not out on the table but the doctor's pen is so expert in tracing with the tool.—Boston Herald. Under medical treatment a small fever in Maryland was the other day made to discharge a fifteen-foot tape worm and seven other reptiles resembling worms. All that they appeared to need in him was a hand-kerchief and a toilet paper to make a pretty good side show of himself.—New York Freeman. A New York State minister has been arrested for baptizing converts through a hole in the floor when the thermometer stood at thirty degrees below zero. Several physicians notified that such a hole was a great piece to health. A hole in a roof is a real water hole and a hole in a man's mind is not the wisest sort.—Detroit Free Press. Kansas City papers complain that San Jones did not return the $3,000 which he took out of their town. Because he converted to Kansas City real estate agent. But they are sorry for much of Mr. Jones. Who he can convert to Kansas City real estate agent he will be able to convert the old boy himself.—Chicago Herald. Blessing the Schoolmatters. "I don't know about those new schoolmatters" said one of the Trustees in a southwestern city to a visitor. "What's the matter?" "She's putting on too many airs." "Why do you think that?" "She's training these poor children too many new fangled ideas. My daughter comes home the other night and she says, 'Papa, was the 'tain't right to say 'twas my 'great health, 'twas my 'great health, 'twas my 'great health.' They ain't no more of saying 'twas' with 'twas' than I think of for that. I'm a farmer 'looking' round for another schoolmatters." "Well, I ain't. That her gal's got a man. She ain't been here in this place for six weeks and she ain't no more of saying 'twas' with 'twas' than I think of for that. I'm a farmer 'looking' round for another schoolmatters."—Detroit Free Press.

He'll Take It. A banana seller entered a store on Woodward avenue in Detroit and asked for two quarters for a half dollar, but no sooner had the cashier touched the coin than he said: "Why, man, that's bogus!" "You mean bogus?" "Yes." The police began to rave around and cry out at his loss, and the cashier asked: "Why did you take it?" "If he was all right I make five cents." "And you took the risk?" "Yes." "You shouldn't have done it." "Yes, but I make five cents. Ah! I know what I do. I throw him out and let him in the night."—Detroit Free Press. The Griffin's Society Girl. If there is a girl who uses her tongue more exquisitely than the society Griffin girl, more deftly and daintily, more demurely and reproofably and quietly, who can extract the honey of Hypocrite from the bitterness of the Dead Sea, and compress it into one little twist of tongue, as the Griffin girl does, she is worth climbing the mountains and ascending the heights of Georgia, and if there is one who to which the people of the world are so prone to go to for advice and prescription, the Griffin girl and her tongue in their adorable hands will be the best remedy, if we ever find ourselves in paradise, with no Griffin girl to whom to look for our share of milk and honey, we have no hesitation in saying that we shall never apply for transportation to some country where at least we shall have had communication with Griffin's Gargle. News.

Why You Feel

So weak and exhausted is because your blood is impure. As well expect the sanitary condition of a city to be perfect with defiled water and defective sewerage, as to expect such a complicated piece of mechanism as the human frame to be in good order with impure blood circulating every to its minutest pores. Do you know that every drop of your two or three gallons of blood passes through the heart and lungs in about two and a half minutes, and that in the way it makes bone and cartilage, brain and nerve, and all other solids and fluids of the body? The blood is the great nourisher, or, as the Bible terms it, the life.

"The Life of the Body"

It is my opinion, then, that if the blood is not pure and perfect in its constituents, you suffer no more intelligible symptoms?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla stands "head and shoulders" above every other Alterative and Blood Medicine. As proved, read these reliable testimonials:

"For the past three years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In my opinion, the best remedial agent for every kind of the disease arising from impurities of the blood, and cured me of it."—Eugene I. Hill, M. D., 30 South Ave., New York city. As a Blood Purifier and general blood purifier of the system, I have never found anything so superior as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It gives perfect satisfaction.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla grows especially efficacious in all forms of Scalds, Boils, Carbuncles, Eczema, Eruptions, Lumps, Catarrh, Gels, and, in short, for every evil which defiles the skin.

Spring and Family Medicine. In use. "It beats all" says Mr. Carter of Carter Brothers & Co., Boston. "I have used it." Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Price 25¢ per bottle. No. Worth 25¢ a bottle.
