

A NEBRASKA WOMAN.

Who Carries Favorable Comment at Washington. Mrs. Aida M. Bittenger, Nebraska, who addressed the women's convention on the subject of 'The Law of the Future'...

STANLEY.

Long Illness Creates the Greatest Years for His Safety. London, Dec. 27. News received from the Congo country today bearing the date of January 27, while full of detail regarding the state of the frontier, makes no mention of Stanley's presence...

NATIONAL LEGISLATION.

The Progress Making of That Which Affects the Western Country. Washington, Dec. 27. The Omaha News: Nebraska's senators and representatives have been very successful in their congresses...

COAL MINER DISASTER.

A Hundred Men Entombed and Thousands of Dollars' Worth of Property Destroyed. Rich Hill (Mo.) dispatch: The most horrible disaster that has ever occurred in the coal region of Missouri today in Keith & Perry's No. 5 mine...

THE LAST TRIBUTE.

Funeral Services in Washington Over Chief Justice Waite. Washington, Dec. 27. The remains of the late Chief Justice Waite were removed from the family residence to the chapel at 11:30 this morning...

THE STRIKE.

The Situation in Chicago Growing Heavily Nervous. Chicago, Dec. 27. The situation in Chicago is growing more and more serious. The strikers have been on strike for some time...

EWING NOTES.

The story of the Black Eagle has been told by the late President Frederick Woodruff. The assassination of Emperor Frederick of Prussia, Victoria, as king and queen of Prussia, is expected to occur at Koenigsberg in June...

CAPITAL NOTES.

The house committee on territories has reported on the bill for the organization of the territory of Alaska. The committee on the currency has directed Bank Examiner Stone to proceed at once to the Yukon...

THE LATEST NEWS.

A fire in Chicago on the 26th destroyed the building of the Chicago & North Western Railway. The fire was caused by a gas leak in the boiler room...

WANTS TO RETIRED.

Washington, Dec. 27. Senator Arthur C. Newell has introduced a bill authorizing and directing the president to make a special investigation into the operations of the United States in certain countries...

AN UGLY PRIZE FIGHT.

St. Paul, Dec. 27. Information comes from St. Paul that a prize fight was held last night which took place Sunday afternoon in a deserted barn near Missouri street bridge...

THE WESTERN INDIAN RESERVATIONS.

The Western Indian Reservations. The situation in the West is becoming more and more serious. The Indian reservations are being encroached upon by settlers...

President Roosevelt acting on the urgent message of the department of the interior, has signed a bill to amend the act of March 3, 1879, relating to the land in the public domain...

A patient has been cured of the disease of the stomach. The patient was suffering from a long and painful illness, but after several months of treatment, he is now well and happy...

The bill authorizing the construction of a railroad, which was introduced by Senator Sherman, has been passed by the house. The bill provides for the construction of a railroad from St. Paul to the coast...

Senator Sherman's bill to amend the act of March 3, 1879, relating to the land in the public domain, has been passed by the house. The bill provides for the construction of a railroad from St. Paul to the coast...

The bill authorizing the construction of a railroad, which was introduced by Senator Sherman, has been passed by the house. The bill provides for the construction of a railroad from St. Paul to the coast...

The bill authorizing the construction of a railroad, which was introduced by Senator Sherman, has been passed by the house. The bill provides for the construction of a railroad from St. Paul to the coast...

The Wayne Herald.

GOSHOEN, & HAVLY, EDITORS. Largest Circulation of any Paper in Wayne County. Official Paper of Town and County.

THURSDAY, APRIL 10, 1908.

There is not much chance in the strike situation.

It is expected that Gen. Cook will succeed Gen. Terry.

A large majority of the Nebraska towns went "wet" at Tuesday elections.

The sensational rumor that Cleveland intends to decline a re-nomination is given out.

The Blainists might as well begin to howl now. Blaine is going to be nominated at Chicago.

Omaha has got around to the point of enforcing the liquor law to the extent of compelling the saloons to pay their licenses in advance.

The present condition of the Missouri river is such as to alarm the people along the river, and a repetition of the disastrous flood of 1881 is to be feared.

The people along the line of the once proposed Omaha & Tankton railroad are not altogether without hope. They now cling to the rumor that the Missouri Pacific with Jay Gould's money bags behind it, is the particular road which will take them in out of the wet.

With the report of the tariff measures to congress it is promised that the flood gates of oratory will be opened, and that at least forty days of debate on the subject will follow. Nearly half the members of the house signified their intention of speaking on the subject.

The third district congressional convention will be held at Norfolk, May 14th, at 7:30. The convention will elect two delegates and two alternates to the Chicago convention, and also nominate a candidate for representative in congress. Outside of the pretentious for local candidates in different parts of the district, the general expression is for Dorey, who will probably have a large majority of the votes in the convention from the first.

DEWEY, APRIL 1st, 1888. ERNEST HEMALD—There comes a time when silence ceases to be a virtue, and as in all the various questions can be seen from more than one point of observation. I, as a reader of the Herald would like the privilege of answering an editorial which appeared in your last issue relative to the tariff question. The question is relative to the tariff on flax. The article starts out with the statement that H. Pinger was circulating a petition to be presented to congress, requesting that honorable body not to remove the tariff from flax. The article for the most part states that this is one item in the tariff schedule upon which western farmers are united in being to remain as it is. Now Mr. editor, I believe that you know more about county printing and the great blessing that our homestead young city receives by having a nation in it, than you do about this flax business; at any rate you must strike me from your unit. Now Mr. editor, I am a farmer, and have in my time raised seven crops of flax, and I am willing to go before your highness and take oath that I firmly believe that in the aggregate I have not received 25 cents a day for my labor which the flax business. Of course there are instances where men have made money by raising flax, and so there are instances where men went to heaven (so the raconteurs tell us) without dying, but those are exceptions, and I firmly believe that the experience of the American farmer is that the flax crop, viewed from all standpoints, is the most unprofitable of all crops we raise. In the first place there is only about one crop in three in which there is any margin or we lack after deducting the cost of raising the crop. Then this is not the worst thing about it by any means. The nature of the crop is such as to mow, or seed our farms with all manner of seed or noxious weeds and grasses, and those seeds are of such a nature that no ordinary mill will separate them from the flax, consequently we have got to sell our flax to F. H. Poverly & Co. for from 75 cents a dollar per bushel and buy back our seed at twice that money. Hence the petition to congress. Hon. A. B. Slater a tariff man by the way, and a man who has had charge of vast tracts of land in our county, knows by his sorrow that there is no money in flax, and he has discouraged the raising of it by those he has had his own hands prohibited in some instances, thus substantiating my position. Now Mr. editor, I will tell you what I would like to see (from a sectional standpoint, which I admit is not right and that is the prohibition of flax raising in Wayne county, for if persisted in it will ruin every farm in the county.

But no other thought in this matter, and that is that Mr. Pinger, Mr. F. H. Poverly, a great deal of Wayne who runs a one horse operation which is a disgrace to our town should all of a sudden get a sensible interest in an article of our farmers. Now the truth is, Mr. editor, that Mr. F. H. Poverly has one horse elevator at almost every station on our North Nebraska railroad and the same F. H. Poverly & Co. has been sucking the very life blood of flax and it from us ever since he came among us. Hence again the petition to congress. Now, Mr. Editor, when you can get a local representative farmer instead of the agent of those the magnificent monopolies of the northwest to argue in favor of the tariff on flax, then I am ready to consider your arguments in favor of the tariff on flax and until then please don't put me in your paper. Yours Respectfully, J. E. BENNETT.

The Herald has not been making any arguments on the question of taking the tariff off flax, for we had no idea that there was need of any, to convince people of a flax growing community that the tariff is a good thing, for that. If with a tariff of twenty cents a bushel flax can be raised in India and laid down in New York at such price that it can pay the duty and then compete with the home grown article it is plain enough that the removal of the duty would mean the end of all flax growing in the United States. Mr. Bennett's article is simply directed to showing that he does not believe flax growing is profitable, and says nothing whatever in regard to the principle of retaining the tariff. The general experience of farmers with flax does not coincide with Mr. Bennett's, or else farmers who sow it from year to year are woefully blind to their own interests. They evidently believe there is money in flax raising, and in many cases, which no farmer will need have called to his attention, it is the most profitable small grain crop that can be raised. Yet because Mr. Bennett does not wish to raise flax, he wants congress to so say to the farmers of the west, that they shall not raise any at all, and that the industries in the west dependent on the growing of flax shall be ruined, and the whole business transferred to the east and to India. This, it seems to us, is a queer position for a western farmer to take. Mr. Bennett tells us what he believes in. We will tell him something else he should believe in, and that is in the absolute control of American markets for American farmers for everything they can raise, and it a tariff on any article is needed to keep out the foreign product, let the duty be so high as to do it effectually. Certainly this is the position the western man, and especially the western farmer should take. Instead of taking off the present tariff the Herald would like to see one levied that would prevent a single bushel of foreign flax from finding a market in the United States, and if that should advance the price to twice the present one, so much the better. We hope there are other things that Mr. Bennett knows more about than he evidently does about this flax business. To advance an argument that the tariff should be taken off because Poverly & Co. are interested in not having the flax business ruined, is simply the height of absurdity, and unless Mr. Bennett can give some better reason than he has for his position, we believe he will remain the only exception to the "anti".

W. B. Warrington while picking at a millstone Wednesday was so unfortunate as to have a piece of sharp steel strike him in the eye with such force as to bedevil in the eye ball. Drs. Stout and Dennis were called and they extracted the steel. It leaves the eye much inflamed and great care will be necessary to save the eye.

Beckler's Arnica Salve. The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Scalds, Burns, Sore Throat, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by W. H. McFarland & McFarland.

MILLIONS OF COUGHS AND Consumption. Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures consumption. H. K. Zerk.

INVENTION. The world during the last few years has witnessed the most rapid progress in the method of curing the venereal disease, and the system of work that can be performed all over the country without interrupting the ordinary business of life. Any person who can do this work is a valuable man. We are now seeking for a few more such persons. Capital not needed. You are supplied with everything you need. You are supplied with a full course of instruction and a complete outfit. You are supplied with a full course of instruction and a complete outfit. You are supplied with a full course of instruction and a complete outfit.

Will keep First-Class Meats Always on Hand. Bacon, Hams, and all kinds Sausage. Give me a call. Markets on West side of Main Street.

J. H. ROMAN & CO. Highest cash prices paid for Hides.

BEE HIVE Blacksmith Shop. STRIPPER & BAUGERTZ, Prop. Work Guaranteed. Shop first door south of Perry & Wayne's Bars.

JOHN KLEVER, Carpenter CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER. WAYNE NEBRASKA. Shop on Main St.

L. F. BAYBURN, Blacksmith, WAYNE, NEBRASKA. Plow and Carriage Work. A Specialty.

M. S. DAVIES, Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, etc. Wholesale Main Street, Wayne, Neb.

Opening Day, 5, 6 and 7. MILLINERY. A Very Large and Elegant Line of MILLINERY, Hats, Shoes, Silks and Trimmings in Variety.

Large and Elegant line of Flowers, A splendid assortment of Feathers. A nice line of the Most Fashionable Ribbons.

Best Kid Gloves. Dr. Warner's Corsets. Newest thing in Ruching and Bustles, and a variety of Notions.

MISSES WILKINSON & SWAN. HAYES & KING, Jewelers. Have the selection for the Trade.

Silverware. Diamond Rings. At Daily Prices. Select your goods while you have the choice.

HAYES & KING. CITY MEAT MARKET. J. H. GOLL, Prop'r.

Will keep First-Class Meats Always on Hand. Bacon, Hams, and all kinds Sausage. Give me a call. Markets on West side of Main Street.

J. H. ROMAN & CO. Highest cash prices paid for Hides.

Will keep First-Class Meats Always on Hand. Bacon, Hams, and all kinds Sausage. Give me a call. Markets on West side of Main Street.

J. H. ROMAN & CO. Highest cash prices paid for Hides.

F. LILLJEBERG, Boots and Shoes. Market at such Low Prices that will secure rapid sale and ask you to call and examine goods and price before buying anything in the BOOT AND SHOE LINE.

Harrington Bros.' New Spring Goods. At the Old Corner Store. We are much better prepared. BUY C. M. HENDERSON & CO'S GENUINE BEST BLEND CHICAGO. this Spring than ever before to show our trade the best line of goods ever brought to the city. Headquarters for HENDERSEN'S Celebrated Boots and Shoes.

J. P. GAERTNER, Headquarters for All Kinds new Furniture. Fine Chamber Suits a Specialty.

Prices exceedingly low. You can save money by buying soon. JOHN S. LEWIS, JR., Manufacturer of and Dealer in Harness and Saddles.

Sweat Pads, Combs, Brushes, Blankets, Trunks, Valises, and everything in the line. I make all my Harness out of the Best Oak Leather and Warrant.

Prices the Lowest of the Kind. PHILLEO & SON, Dealers in all Kinds of Lumber, Lime, Coal.

Call and see us before Purchasing Elsewhere. Water white Oil 150 test, per gallon, 15 cts.

Arbuckle's coffee per lb. 20 cts. 6 bars Lenox Soap, 25 cts. 6 lbs. Rice, 25 cts.

4 lbs. Crackers, fresh 25 cts. Linen table cloth per yard, 25 cts. Turkey red table cloth, fast colors, 35 cts.

Mens' good Wool hats, 50 cts. at E. L. JONES & CO., Old Chicago Store.

HINRICH & STRICKS, Blacksmiths. P. W. OMAN, Auctioneer! My services are always be obtained by calling at the Herald office. WAYNE, NEBRASKA.

HORSE-SHOEING A SPECIALTY. They let south of the Baptist church. J. H. ROMAN & CO.

THE HOME.

Do you use a new recipe—simple, delectable—Dinner, dinner or supper appropriate?
When company can always be found for the party.
Inspiring no voice to cellar or stove?
A "Miss" will prove to you her late winter treat.

ELFIE.

"I don't know what to make of it, perhaps he has only delayed his proposal. I shall go over there to see him immediately when I have time.
Now this Elfie I liked exactly, for he has her intention, as soon as her father had consented to ally with her, she had refused, but she thought it would do her good to demur.

"I don't think you have over-estimated your worth. I'm not really in love with him, although as you pointed out to me, it would have been a good match, and I could have had a pleasant time as you have talked of your daughter, Lady Cranburn, as father?
Dear, I shall do as you bid. If there has been any misunderstanding, I shall be able to set it right. I conclude you are not so much in love with him as you say.
"Certainly, papa, if he does," she said readily.

Mr. Ravenswood carried his intention into effect. He went over to see his lordship, but could make nothing of him.
All the information of the subject he could obtain was that he had thought the matter over deeply, and that, much as he had admired and liked Miss Ravenswood, he felt that she was too young for him; and that, after seeing her all the while, he was not so much in love with her as he had said.
Ravenswood felt that she was too young for him; and that, after seeing her all the while, he was not so much in love with her as he had said.

CHAPTER IV.

Mr. Ravenswood turned all colors of the rainbow. First red with rage, then blue with grief, then white; but at the last meaning of his former friend's words broke upon him, and his complexion became first with suppressed feeling.
"You are totally wrong," he gasped.
"I should not cavil over such an engagement."

"I have you told her so?"
"Dear, you are wrong, Ravenswood. You have told your daughter her own mind, and she has been right all the while. You are a little better now. The young people are really in love with each other, and her father is a man who will marry his son or without your consent."

"I would give her a penny."
"Enough won't give her a lot for the time being. She is a good girl, and has no appearance to keep up."
"Is she small or large?"
"Is she a good girl?"
"Is she a good girl?"
"Is she a good girl?"

"I dare say. Ravenswood takes all the love parts. No doubt he would like to get up the ladder, but he is a good admirer, and the less room he has of him the better pleased I shall be."
"I think he is very nice, Paul. He had no idea of doing it, but he is the rest of the journey was done in silence."

CHAPTER IV.

ELFIE KEPT PROMISE.
She kept her promise. She did not move a foot from her father's side, and she was as true as steel.
"Mr. Ravenswood adhered to his word, and he was the only person who had kept his word."

"I was disappointed in his views for Elfie and disappointed in her herself. He had made an idol of the girl, and had left him, without any apparent regret, for a man of whom he despised."
"Did not you see much of her after her marriage?"
"Her father was in the habit of going to see her, and he was in the habit of going to see her."

"I was in love with Paul, and could not bear to be long away from him. He was a favorite with the public, a proficient with his craft, admired as a good fellow among his equals, and as a perfectly delightful wife."

A Friend in Need.

Children, whether boys or girls, who have learned to regard a mother as a friend, will scarcely turn back to her in the troubles and afflictions of their life, even if she is growing up. They may for a time adopt scornful and unkind feelings, but they will never carry on a correspondence of which she knew that her mother could not disagree with the knowledge that all letters will be read, and that her father would be sure to read them.

A Gentle Queen.

Charlie Brill, the general restaurant proprietor, has a big mail box which he carries round the city. He gets a letter by taking up one of the views which has heretofore been deemed as a good one, and he is as good as the dog is called. It is an inveterate lover. She will take a drink every day, and she will take a drink every day. She will take a drink every day, and she will take a drink every day.

Why They Hate a Covenanter.

An intelligent Chitanan in Oakland, Cal., says: "I have been thinking of writing you for some time, but I have been so busy that I have not had time to do so. I have been thinking of writing you for some time, but I have been so busy that I have not had time to do so."

A Fortune in Her Old Stockings.

The "long stockings" of French nobles is proverbial. Sometimes there are several long stockings, as well as woolen shoes, in which banknotes and bullion are piled promiscuously. This was the case with a certain French nobleman, who was a member of the Gissouren-Flavign, in Burgundy, where an old countrywoman, who had long been known for her penurious habits, died. She had inherited a large fortune, and she had inherited a large fortune.

The Artist Tells Her HUSBAND.

"I don't like you any more, and I would desire you to be an artist. Won't you tell me the secret how to do it?"
"Artist—what will that mean?"
"Will you please to tell me the secret how to do it?"
"Artist—what will that mean?"

POLYGAMY AGGRESSIVE.

It flourishes readily in the Stoney Fields of Ignorance.
An error of this description has been made in the case of a young man, who is not in its decadence, but is scattering seeds which are germinating in other parts of the world than Utah. It is well known that the propagating power of the doctrine is in the hands of the faithful. We can start a grampus weaver or a dog-fennel patch where the cereals will not grow at all except under the most favorable conditions and circumstances. So polygamy flourishes readily in stony fields of ignorance when monogamy requires the culture of law and gospel.

Polygamy has already got one nation by the throat in Scandinavia. It is said that the "burning question" on these just now is whether a man shall have as many wives as he pleases with the sanction of the law or be confined to one. The country is on the verge of civil war on this question and the people are divided into two hostile parties. The liberals are in favor of legalizing polygamy. They have an able leader in the person of a prominent clergyman, who is a member of the liberal party and the country is flooded with literature on the subject of the most realistic character. The peasant women have declared most emphatically for polygamy, and the conservatives are fighting polygamy. It is the great question of the day now there and monopolizes public attention, for it threatens to produce a revolution. It is said that the liberals are of the opinion that the law will triumph and establish polygamy by law. These people are mainly Protestants, have schools, and read. They sustain their position by the Old Testament, which they regard as a moral, political, economy, statistics, and history. There is a surplus of females. The country needs population. There are not enough husbands to go round. The women who are not married are not on legal marriages rather than to sustain immoral and illegal population consequent upon a great disproportion of sexes. Just what is to be done in Scandinavia to-day will be repeated in Utah if that territory is admitted as a state. Utah has seen the evil side that is troubling Scandinavia to-day and may trouble other countries.

There are many people who are really in favor of polygamy who are ashamed to say so because of public opinion. They are afraid of the law. At the end of the journey she asked him to stay all night at her house, and said that her husband would be glad to see him.
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

FACE AND PANIC.

The Process of World has been applied to use as an excuse.
Mrs. Cranburn was presented with a few weeks ago, she had a very nice face.
The lady had a very nice face, and she was very nice.
The lady had a very nice face, and she was very nice.

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

trinkets of considerable value, and securities worth more than £2000. The local notary who was called in by the relatives could hardly believe his eyes when he made the inventory of the estate. The relatives were exceedingly delighted when they saw the list of securities, which were included in the next of kin, who had organized a kind of Hibernian club in the old woman's home; and when the notary's people came to see the list of securities, they found that the list was a very long one, and that the very best Burgundy only had been consumed on the premises by the heirs.
—London Telegraph.

Give it Up.
A woman's quick wit makes her, when she has the confidence to set up on it, a valuable aid in an emergency. Some years ago, in the days when "road agents" abounded in Montana, a woman was traveling by coach to the road and was being harassed by a road agent. She was being harassed by a road agent, and she was being harassed by a road agent. She was being harassed by a road agent, and she was being harassed by a road agent.

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

"I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."
"Dear, I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first. I will come to you in a few days, but I must go to my father's house first."

