 Mr. Harrows said that the president's assertion that the duty on imports was a tariff on the consumer had been refuted by free traders in England. He challenged any man to name a product of a foreign country that is not an article of duty, but upon the great law of supply and demand. Harrows was being met by the president's theory that the farmer to believe protective tariffs were in his interest. The farmer was directly interested in maintaining a protective system, but he was not interested in the value of the land in the north and it would bring it to the south. It would bring the south an era of unexampled prosperity. He believed in protection, not in a tariff on the consumer. He believed in American industry, in American capital, in American labor, in American industry, in American capital, in American labor, in American industry, in American capital, in American labor.

The Coming Republican National Convention and the Probable Admission
 New York, April 28.—J. S. Clarkson, of Iowa, is in this city. When asked if he expected to attend the national convention, he said: "I have received over seven thousand applications for tickets, and about every other member of the committee has been similarly honored. I am confident that I shall be elected a delegate to the convention. I have been everywhere for some time. Republicans everywhere seem to look on this as the most important convention of the party since the late Mr. Fremont. It will liberate the whole future of the party will depend. It promises to be a deliberative and a deliberative one. It will be a party rather than the party of any man. It will be a body that can't be stamped by any sectional movement. We have had enough of sectional conventions and trade routes."

 The bill of Messrs. Henderson and West's bill, which has been introduced in the House of Representatives, provides for the establishment of a bureau of documents, to be located in or in the vicinity of the government printing office; it makes the chairman of the committee on the subject of the public printer a committee to select a site for a building for the bureau of documents, and of superintending its erection in accordance with plans to be prepared by the architect of the capital. In acquiring the site the same method of construction shall be used as in acquiring the site for the bureau of documents, and the same method of construction shall be used as in acquiring the site for the bureau of documents, and the same method of construction shall be used as in acquiring the site for the bureau of documents.

Omaha has reached the distinction of being the third packing center in the United States.

A caucus of the democrats of the home shows that enough of them will vote with the republicans to defeat the Mills bill.

The president has sent the name of Melville W. Fuller, of Chicago, to the senate, to be chief justice of the United States.

It is believed that the most dangerous stage of Emperor Frederick's disease is over and that he is safe for several weeks at least.

The New York legislature has extended an invitation to Ingersoll to deliver a memorial address before that body in honor of Roscoe Conkling.

Sixteen of the cranks who think a third party necessary to enforce prohibition in Iowa, met in state convention and nominated a state ticket last week.

The fact that Mr. Cleveland has written another letter in favor of civil service reform indicates, of course, that he will soon make another batch of appointments on strictly partisan grounds.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

The New York Sun pretends to have reliable information that the last thing Blaine will do before he leaves Europe for America will be to refuse to be considered a candidate in such emphatic terms that there can be no possibility of his nomination.

It is a noteworthy fact that while the republican state conventions applaud the names of the different leaders who are candidates for a presidential nomination and declare the favorite among them, when the man from Maine is mentioned, "The same things is likely to occur at Chicago."

The world must be moving along at a rapid rate. An old gentleman of Ohio, whose fervent republican sympathies are well known, says his party must adopt both prohibition and woman's suffrage or be supplanted by a new party just as new issues have made new parties in the past. It may be, but it is a little odd that nobody ever suggests that the democrats should adopt a new issue or even unite on an old one. It is always the republican party which is called on to do so.—Omaha World.

One of those uncomfortable ironclads who are always trying to reduce everything to a prosaic level, in circulating the report that Miss Frooman, who won a national reputation by her heroic conduct during the January blizzard, did nothing heroic after all, that the published accounts were gross exaggerations, that the pupils were not saved by Miss Frooman, that she herself was taken home by two of the largest pupils. This report would make of Miss Frooman and her nearest friends and neighbors, who very certainly in a good position to know the facts, the worst of impostors. The public will be slow to believe that the parents of the children who were reported saved and the people of the community where she lived would have united in paying her honor for actions she never performed.

Western papers which in their anxiety for tariff reform are asserting that western farms are mortgaged to eastern manufacturers are trying to prove too much. Between competition, labor troubles, the tariff on new materials and lack of foreign markets eastern manufacturers have had very little money to lend of late years and have not materials so needed as much for the manufacturers as anyone else. Their only fear is that any change in the tariff will be followed by placing manufactured products on the free list. The funds borrowed in the west are mostly the accumulations of eastern savings banks set west for investment because the interest on safe investments here is very low. The borrowers are largely farmers, who need a good deal in a lump for the purchase of agricultural machinery which lasts for years and saves its cost over and over again. Were the old style of hand labor still profitable the loan would not be needed, because the profits of each season would pay the cost of the next. Hand labor is virtually paid by installment, machinery very rarely cash in advance. Hence the loans, mostly obtained and easily paid.—Omaha World.

Senator Padlock's bill providing for a permanent building to cost not exceeding $25,000 for every post office where the gross receipts have amounted to not less than $3000 annually for the last three years it is said is certain to pass. The only towns near us that would secure buildings under such a law are Norfolk and Neligh. Wayne will be the next town added to the list in this part of the state.

Senator Ingalls on Tuesday in replying to a recent speech by Voorhees gave the latter such a scolding as only Ingalls can give. He fairly gouted Voorhees out of his senses, and showed up his copperhead record in a way that will give the enemies of the Hoosier senator ammunition for all time to come.

Political probabilities. For the Greenhorn boom, clear weather, with higher temperature; for the Sherman boom, lower temperature, with severe frost in certain sections; for the Harrison boom, cloudy weather, with rain; for the Allison boom, stationary temperature; for the Forsaker boom, threatening weather;—to the Sherman boom.—Globe-Democrat.

Under the "iniquitous system of protection," against which the free-traders rail with such vehemence, we have reduced our importations of Brussels tapestry carpets from 2,000,000 yards in 1888 to 68,000 yards last year, and in the meantime the cost of carpets, through the active competition of American manufacturers, has been cut down about one-half.—Boston Journal.

The real mugwump, one that is blown in the bottle and not a mere base imitator, is a man who never agrees with anybody and would consider something wrong if he ever found himself in accord with another. This is the definition given by "an original Mugwump" from Indianapolis, in the columns of The New York Evening Post.—Indianapolis Journal.

A Buffalo paper that has been jaundicedly boomeranging Sheridan announces that he would accept a nomination for president, if "Little Phil" will say he is to be the candidate the other gentlemen say as well fold up their aspirations and lay them tenderly away.

Demagogue newspapers find lots of fun in criticising the republicans for having so many presidential candidates. But to have a number of such good candidates is far better for a party than to have only one that it can or dare nominate.—Chicago Journal.

Omaha is worse puffed up over the fact that it has a base ball club that can win an occasional game than though it had secured a new railroad.

The new high horse law in Pennsylvania has cut the number of saloons in Pittsburgh down from seven hundred to two hundred.

Senator Stanford has taken the useless trouble to state that he is not a candidate for the presidency.

The president has signed the bill for the opening of the Sioux reservation.

Representative Dockery thinks that the tariff has made the east rich. He is right, and the people of the west and south are determined to retain the tariff a few years more until it makes the remainder of the country rich.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Mills bill may be the product of many anxious days and nights, but it is better that the laborers of the west and means committee should be lost than that Connecticut, New York and New Jersey should be lost. By beating the Mills bill the democrats may be able to satisfy the jealous protection sentiment of the country.—New York Sun, daily.
