A "NOBLEMAN" DOES ARKANSAS

Carlier Jackson Pleads Guilty to Embellishment - Arrest of Bailston. Blacksmith - A Battle at Fowler. A Frontman George's Fatal Mistake.

ARKANSAS, N. J., Jan. 21. - The coroner's investigation in the Kilton case opened its seventh day. The court room was not so crowded as at previous sittings, though a number of prominent citizens were present. Arthur Leland Kilton, the young son of the accused dentist, was the first witness called. He answered all questions quickly and intelligently, but gave no new details. He repeated the story told by his mother of the gas being turned on in her room on the morning of the first reported robbery. Miss Hattie O'Hara and Mrs. Nellie Smith testified as to the presence of the physician present at the autopsy, corroborated the statements made by the other doctors concerning the condition of the body. His statement that the real cause of death might have been the administration of any volatile matter such as anesthetic or prussic acid, caused him to be the next witness.

DECEASED BY LA GRIPPE

A Band of Eight Hundred Indians in Danger of Starvation.

WINSTON, Jan. 21. - A band of 800 Indians, on St. Peter's reserve, a few miles out of Winnipeg, is being rapidly wiped out. The Indians are afflicted with grippe in its most severe form and being without medical aid, the red skins quickly succumb. In most cases it has developed in lung disease, to which they are subject. Seventy-five per cent. of them are down with it, and speedy action is not taken to send physicians here to nurse. The disease has never before been afflicted with a virulence of this kind, and has no idea how to treat it.

FAULTS OF THE CIVIL SERVICE.

Congressman Honck and Ewart and 241 for Hutton accuse the Commissioners. The ballot men investigate - President's Office Employees Refuse to Resign.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. - The house committee on reform in the civil service met to hear Representative Honck of Illinois. Congressman Ewart of North Carolina gave expression to their views on the civil service. The three civil-service commissioners were present. Representative Ewart began his address by urging the law. He contrasted the views against the commission, and he urged immediate action. If the commission were guilty it should be condemned, but if innocent then it should be vindicated. Mr. Ewart charged the commissioners with a number of charges. His accusations included the appointment of clerks and the promotion of messengers under the civil service commission, without reference to the law. He was also attacking the commission, not the law, and that the administration was defective rather than the principle.

THURSDAY, JAN. 23, 1890.

The President follows the fashion and has the grip.

Cozad waits the state fair. Now where in thunder is Cozad, and what would it do with a state fair?

The report that Blaine intended to resign on account of the death of his son proves to have been another mistake.

Omaha is justly indignant that the rate on stock from Kansas City to Chicago has been made just one half the Omaha rate.

If the Omahans really will stop their quarreling and devote their energies to legitimate newspaper work they will confer a favor on the people of Nebraska.

The fight over the world's fair for 1892 has got into the condition of the field against Chicago. So far the windy city seems to hold its own against the whole world.

The war on the Sunday newspaper having one of its periodic outbreaks, but it is safe to say that the usual result will follow. The Sunday newspaper has come to stay.

John Ruskin, the noted English author, is hopelessly insane. The madly he has been growing on him for several years, but his friends have been able to conceal the fact from the public.

Dorsey, Connell and Laws voted, yesterday, for the bill to reimburse congress for the loss of money by the Sioux delinquency. They will have to stand some criticism for it hereafter. Kearney Enterprise.

A survey of Dakota county, recently completed, shows that the Missouri has washed away ten thousand acres of the county since the last survey was made in 1874. This is said to leave Dakota county the smallest in the state.

A South Carolina man took the $600 prize offered by the American Agriculturist for the largest crop of corn grown on a single acre of ground in 1889. The ears measured out 255 bushels, which shrank to 239 bushels when kiln dried.

Nevada, Idaho and portions of eastern Oregon have been visited by the heaviest snow storm ever known. The Central Pacific and the Oregon Short Line were completely blocked, and cattle have died by thousands.

Nelly Bly, who was sent around the earth by the New York World on a race against time reached San Francisco Tuesday and is now on her way to New York as fast as steam can carry her. She will make several days better time than Julia Verreaux, hero of "Around the World in Eighty Days."

Congressman Peters, of Kansas, publishes an address to his constituents declining to be a candidate again. He says he cannot afford to remain in congress, as the salary will not pay his expenses at Washington and permit him to lay any money by for the future. He intends to devote the remainder of his active life to his own business.

Gen Weaver, the wild greenback statesman, sees in the situation in the Iowa legislature a chance to get back into Iowa politics. There is one greenback member of the legislature, and as he is a devout admirer of Weaver, the latter is using him in an attempt to force the democrats of his old district to agree to again nominate him for congress as the price of the greenback member's support of the democrats. Weaver had been claiming ever since last spring to live in Oklahoma, but that makes no difference to such an agile and scheming politician as he is.

The deadlock in the Iowa legislature still continues.

The bankers of the state are in Omaha to organize a state association.

How quickly the republican opposition to the Iowa legislature disappeared when it came to a vote. There were seventy-eight republicans in the caucus and every one of them voted for Allison.

Instead of getting the Western railroads open today, as had been expected, more trouble seems to be in sight. Another heavy snow storm began yesterday and will undo all that has been done toward opening the roads.

Congressman Dorsey has introduced a bill in congress instructing the secretary of the treasury to apply seventy-five millions of the hundred million dollars held in the treasury for the redemption of outstanding United States notes, to the payment of the public debt. The object of the bill is to release that amount of money and put it in circulation. There is a general feeling that the holding of such a sum in reserve is unnecessary, and it is probable that the bill will become a law.

The managers of the railroads don't take very kindly to governor Thayer's suggestion to reduce the rate on corn five cents a hundred. They insist that they are not carrying the grain at so low a rate as they can, and if they should reduce the rate it would do the producer no good, as the price in Chicago would be dropped to correspond with the reduction in rates. It will require more than mere statements however to convince the people of Nebraska that that is true.

What in the name of sense is Senator Paddock raising objection to law bridges over the Missouri for? Is there any man in Nebraska who does not know that so far as commerce is concerned the Missouri river might as well be filled up? If it is easier or cheaper to build a low bridge with a draw over the Missouri than to build a high bridge, then the proper thing to do is to build low bridges. One railroad over the river is worth more commercially in one year, than the steamer traffic on the entire river will be in ten. It perhaps would not be a good plan to build low bridges with no draws, but there is nothing but a sentimental objection to urge to that. The Missouri is a commercial nuisance.

There was a light snow fall in the mountains throughout the west for the past three winters; and as a result the streams last year got lower than they had ever been known before, and there was a great lack of water all over the country from Wyoming to the Pacific. Streams on which the cattle men depended dried up and the ranges were abandoned. The smaller irrigating streams dried and the larger ones were so low that many farmers could cultivate only a portion of their fields. The situation was humorously described by people along the Snake river complaining that salmon raised such a dust going up stream that they were going to ask congress for an appropriation to sprinkle the bed of the stream. This year all that will be changed. The tremendous fall of snow will not only insure an abundant supply of water for irrigation and the cattle ranges but the people will be fortunate if they escape disastrous floods.

There is something peculiar about Rosewater, something that I do not understand. It would generally be supposed that a man who has been so successful as he has been in the real estate business and in establishing his newspaper, would get above the petty street brawls which seem to deluge Rosey. The fact is a man reputed to be worth his millions down in a police court attempting to prove that a fellow citizen is a bum! Suppose he is a bum, or suppose he is not, suppose it seems to me that wealth would add a little dignity to a man, especially one who started with nothing and finally climbed up a respectable distance. "With the Coffee" in Omaha Herald.

Rev. Mr. French, of Omaha, entertains radical views on the Sunday newspaper question. At a recent meeting of the ministers of that city he took up the subject. He said the Christian gentleman: "While it may not seem fair to compare the Sunday newspaper and the saloon, yet the objection of Omaha are striking more from the Sunday paper than through the saloon. A few are bawling drunkards, but all read the Sunday papers. There are many whose only sermons are in the sporting columns of the big blanket sheets. Surely it is our imperative duty to deny the Sunday paper in our houses. Second, we should speak frankly and not play dumb dogs while souls perish. Third, we should endeavor to arrange with the publishers of the papers so they will receive our subscription for one week gratis without troubling the Sunday paper upon us, for first it will go on the shelf until Monday, then it will be read for church notices and heavily it will be placed on the center table and it will be missed when it does not appear."

Governor Thayer has addressed the following letter to the railroad managers of the state: "A late visit through the central and southern portions of Nebraska into the Republican valley I saw millions of bushels of corn lying upon the ground, or in bins, in all directions. Farmers cannot send their corn to market; they cannot afford to pay the rate. The question then raised itself to my mind, cannot the railroads meet the emergency by reducing the rate so that the farmers can ship their corn to market? If the farmers cannot ship it to points where it can be sold, then there is no use in their raising more corn than themselves and stock will consume. If farmers cannot prosper, then railroads will not prosper. I submit this question: Can you not adopt a measure which will bring relief to the farmers, to some extent, at least? They do not want a measure which will curtail business? I most earnestly urge you to reduce the rate on corn say 5 cents a 100. Please try it; see if it will not start a portion of this corn into the market. Can you not get in a better position for the spring opening? I ask you, gentlemen, to get together and consider this question. I am ever truly yours. JOHN M. THAYER."
