A SCOTTSDALE RICH

Striking Miners, Taunted by Blacklegs and Deputies.

CHASE THE SCABS TO THEIR HOLES

And Beat the Deputies Without Mercy—Stones and Clubs Freely Used and the Firemen's Hose Plays a Part—A Striker Shot—Erection.

SCOTTSDALE, Pa., May 20.—The district convention of the strikers was held in this place. The strikers conducted themselves in an orderly manner until about 3:30, when they became angered at a negro, who staggered boldly into a crowd of men. The negro was a "black-leg" having gone to work at the "Valley Works. He boasted that he was armed and that he wanted to shoot District Master Workman Wise. The strikers became angry and started after the negro, whose name is St. Clair, with the firm intention of lynching him. St. Clair ran away, with the mob in close pursuit. Officers Gay collected the negro and ran him into a large building, cluding the crowd. Half an hour later Ike Crossland, another deserter from the mine, came, passing through the crowd and it is said taunted the strikers. The crowd made for Crossland. A policeman came to his rescue and by the aid of a number of citizens the strikers were held off until Crossland was put in a place of safety. The strikers were wild with anger. Just at this moment two deputies who have been doing guard duty at Summit were recognized by the infuriated mob. The deputies displayed their badges and at the same time made manly language at the strikers. The crowd gave a shout of rage and Bushed upon the Deputies. Stones flew, clubs were freely used, and the men struggled together. The town fire company attached a hose to a fire plug and was directed by the strikers upon the fighting crowd. A shot was heard and the deputies scattered. The deputies were covered with blood. The mob again attacked the deputies, when a policeman rushed in and effected a retreat with the deputies. The mob rushed manly after and overtook them. The deputies were again severely punished. Other policemen came to their assistance and helped the deputies to the lock-up.

More Dead Than Alive. The man shot by one of the deputies is a stranger from the Valley works. He is a negro. Sheriff McCormick and eleven deputies arrested fifty-four families at Morgan and Eagle coke plants. No trouble was encountered. Three more of the Morgantown men were arrested. Testing Vesuvius Guns. FORT MONROE, Va., May 20.—The Vesuvius returned from the first day's trial of her pneumatic guns, everything being done smoothly and without accident. Six shots were fired from gun, at ranges of a mile and less, three of which were at a range of a mile and three while the vessel was at full speed. One struck the bull's eye, and fell within the space occupied by an ordinary vessel. The centre of three guns was then tested for curve. The board is satisfied with the result. Thus far.

The Emeralda Coals Up. CITY OF MEXICO, May 20.—Advice received here from Annapolis says that officers of the Emeralda finished buying provisions. It is generally believed in Annapolis that the Emeralda has secretly loaded some coal and she was to receive more outside the harbor. It appears from dispatches received here from the city of Mexico that the Emeralda passed outside of Annapolis at noon last Friday, and is now far out of reach of the Charleston.

South Dakota Grand Lodge L. O. O. F. YANKTON, S. D., May 20.—The first annual meeting of the grand lodge of L. O. O. F. of South Dakota is in session in this city. The attendance is large. One year ago the territorial grand lodge was divided and out of it, the two grand lodges of South Dakota and North Dakota were created. The territorial grand lodge was organized in Yankton six years ago.

Started in a Caving Shower. PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 20.—A portion of shafts 5 and 6 of the Elmwood improved sewerage system, near the old railroad bridge on Broad street, caved in. Eleven men were precipitated into the pit about twenty feet deep, of whom seven were rescued and four are still in the ruins. They were all Italians. The shafts were constructed by Emerson & Lidgell, with Charles Blackmer as inspector of construction. The cause of the terrible accident is traced to the failure of the workmen to straighten the bridge between the two shafts at the junction of the framework. There is much excitement about the place and there is no doubt that the four men still buried are dead, as they have been buried too long to have survived.

Gold for Europe. New York, May 20.—About $4,000,000 in gold will be shipped to Europe from this city to-day.

WYOMING HORROR

Eighteen Men Killed and Many Others Injured.

CARS BLOWN TO SMALL PIECES

And Trackage Torn Up for a Distance of Six Hundred Feet—Frightful Wreck at Tarrytown—Workmen Injured in a Caving Shower.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., May 20.—At 11:20 a. m. a worktrain on the Hudson River road was blown to atoms, one mile and a half below Tarrytown, by an explosion of dynamite in transportation for blasting purposes in track construction. There were probably thirty-three men, including Italian laborers and trainmen on board. Of these eighteen were instantly killed and fifteen terribly torn and wounded. Many of the dead were blown into the river and five bodies still remain there unrecovered. The train was blown to atoms, the tracks ripped from their beds and a great hole many feet deep dug out of the earth, totally blocking traffic on the road for many hours. The train was in charge of Conductor Connor and the gang of men was under Jerome Dixon as boss. The dynamite was all stored on the first of the four flat cars composing the train. It consisted of twenty-four cases, and each case contained fifty pounds, making a grand total of 1,200 pounds of the terrible explosive.

The force of the explosion was terrific. The ground trembled as though from an earthquake, the walls of several Tarrytown houses were shaken and cracked, and in the Tarrytown streets the window glass fell in showers to the sidewalks. In Tarrytown scores of clocks stopped, and it is this way that the explosion was timed. At 11:20, it is fixed. A spark from a passing engine is believed to have caused the explosion. The train was utterly demolished, and eye-witnesses say the air was filled with splinters and debris, while the bodies of the dead and the torn crew were hurled, some of them:

Tom Elmhurst from Elmhurst, in every direction. A female eight presented itself to those who hurried to the scene of the awful accident. The ground as far as could be seen was covered with debris. The track was torn up for a space of 600 feet, and the rails and ties were scattered in all directions. Faces and mutilated bodies looked up on one from all directions. The engine was blown to atoms. The tender was blown half down the hill. The boiler was blown in two places. The engine was blown into particles. These things were the awful work of bringing in the dead and wounded men who were found scattered dead yards away from the track, while others were found in the excavations made by the dynamite explosion. The wounded were suffering from

Most Horrible Mutilations. In many instances arms and legs being torn off, heads broken and bodies blown to atoms. The scene reminded old soldiers and sailors of the scenes of the battle of the civil war. The dead and injured were conveyed to the Tarrytown depot, where they were taken care of. There are still twenty bodies in the river, and this would bring the total number up to twenty.

From later reports received from the scene of the accident it would seem that instead of the Elmhurst being on the ill-fated train, the number was nearer fifty.

The Scene of the Accident is one of the beautiful points on the banks of the Hudson. The explosion occurred in the front of the handsome residence of Richard Hoe, the printing press manufacturer, while the mansion of Elizabeth F. Stuyvesant and John Rockefeller are close by. A panic occurred in the high school of Tarrytown among the pupils. The building was violently shaken and the scholars and teachers thought that an earthquake had occurred. The children ran out of their class rooms into the street, but fortunately none were injured in the wild rush.

Fierce Forest Fires. SOMERSET, Pa., May 20.—A fierce fire has been raging in the woods half a mile south of this place since Sunday morning. The flames are dangerously near to Keatner's large wood mill and the house of a farmer. The property of John Rockefeller are close by. A panic occurred in the high school of Tarrytown among the pupils. The building was violently shaken and the scholars and teachers thought that an earthquake had occurred. The children ran out of their class rooms into the street, but fortunately none were injured in the wild rush.

Jacksoville, Fla., Touched by Fire. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 20.—A fire originated in the Mohawk block on Market street and did heavy damage to the postoffice block and the federal court building and many other structures were destroyed. The losses will probably reach $500,000.
