THE PUBLIC SCHOOL MAP.

The public school map puts the American educational system in a striking form.

Thirteen million pupils are now enrolled in the public schools of the United States—that is, there are more than three times as many pupils as the entire population of the United States in 1800. The entire population in 1890 was 53,000,000. There are consequently a larger nation of children now in our free schools than the whole nation of sixty years ago. These 13,000,000 public school-pupils are one-fifth of our present population of 65,000,000. There are something over a million more in private and parochial schools. But it is this nation of our free school youth, this nation within the nation, that will be controlling the republic fifteen years from now. These "children of the states," imbued with our characteristic American spirit, will soon be the leaders of the people who are to solve the problems of the opening years of the coming century.

One-fifth of our population in the public schools means that the American idea is that childhood and youth shall enjoy a sacred immunity from labor while the preparation for life is going on. In all our states the age when children can be employed for wages during the school term is steadily creeping upward. The time is not far off when one-fourth instead of one-fifth of our population will be enrolled in the schools. Here is the plan for state legislation to make rapid and sure strokes. When the children of our country are not put for wages there comes an apparent relief to the family, but child labor invariably reduces the labor of adults. Raising the school age always operates to raise the wages of the men and women to whom labor belongs. In the states not yet awake for this the children who ought to be in school are with their little hands holding down the general rate of adult wages. If fifteen more made the universal school age, with strict penalties for hiring a child under fifteen during school hours, millions of toiling children would be added to the hopeful nation of pupils in the public schools.

Who are the instructors of this vast democracy of youth? Three hundred and fifty-two thousand teachers are employed. One-third of them are men, two-thirds are women. The men are usually well trained. The proportion of trained female teachers is increasing year by year, as the normal schools send out their classes. Nevertheless, scores of thousands of these female teachers are untrained. Forty per cent. of all the female teachers teach for only one term! Think what that means. In the rural districts of our country, especially in the South, to which almost any girl may turn. Careful examinations of teachers are not to be expected when the school funds are so meager that the cheapest teachers are the only applicants.

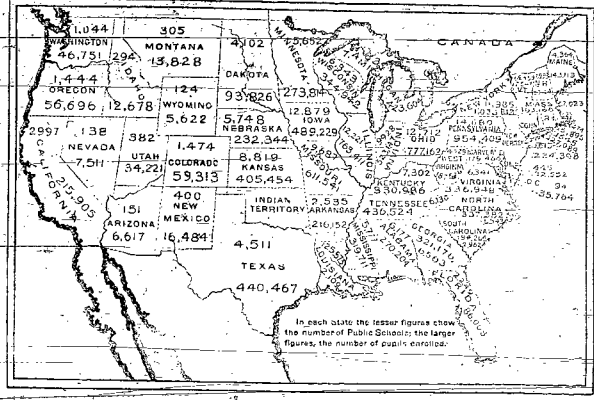

The faults of the American public school system, however, are all on the surface and can easily be remedied. State superintendents and higher educators generally are giving to all the weaknesses discernible in our system their careful attention. It has been determined that the new century shall open upon an educational plan as nearly without defects as progressive genius can make it.

The public school is our most distinctive American institution. It is the same public school which more than twice, has made the difference between this republic and the republics of South America. When we were a young nation at our 40th anniversary of admission into our life this, our proudest institution, will be pointed out as the clearest source of American greatness and enlightenment.

It is a very fitting thing that the celebration of Columbus Day, Oct. 12, be placed in the hands of the American public school. Through the school house flag movement, and the education in patriotism accorded by it, the schools of the republic have been grasping the significance of their relation to the life of the nation. As our 13,000,000 of public school pupils see committed to them the celebration of America's greatest anniversary they will receive a new and inspiring lesson by the recognition of public patriotism which derives upon the educated American.

IN PEACE.
How shall I serve my father-land?
There are no battles to be won,
No conquests to be made, no ventures,
No lives to give at her command.
Nay, none of these but lives to live,
Within of ample soul and pure,
Without of equal and courageous,
For all the best that life can give.
And that to crown the noblest aim,
To know content and yet not care,
To see our country that it is said
He lives in America.
—M. A. DE WYCKE HOWE, JR.

THE SCHOOL HOUSE FLAG.
It Stimulates the Children's Interest and Respect for the Teacher.
The organized "school house flag movement" has been in progress during the greater part of four years. In that short time the seed sown in our earliest suggestion has borne fruit in school after school, in town after town, in state after state.
Though there are still many schools which are not as yet provided with the flag, the truth does not seem far distant when no public school shall be so nearly remote or too indifferent to leave the stars and stripes flapping above its roof.
Sufficient time has passed since the movement began to make it possible to judge the results of the unfolding of the flag above so many schools.

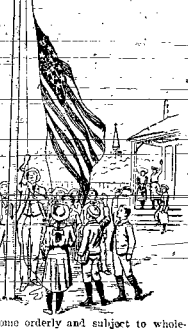

In each state the lesser figures show the number of Public Schools; the larger figures, the number of pupils enrolled.

...assess the proceeding...
...to the scholars? Has it stirred up in the breasts of boys and girls the hope of living to be brave men and good women?
Has it begun to serve with the children the millions from abroad who are inheriting to love for our country as a national reward which will grow up a thoroughly American feeling?
Has it stimulated the love of the study of history, and given children a new idea of the significance of law and order with freedom, so that they themselves

...about the colors to obtain a flag for that date.
The executive committee of the national Columbian patriotic school association have taken a good step in appointing that any school wishing to have their chairman in Boston will be given material suggestions and material help without to prove its use. No one public school in America ought to allow this to be a memorable occasion.

"August Flower"

Miss C. C. McClain, School teacher, 753 Park Place, Elmira, N. Y. "This Spring while away from home teaching my first term in a country school I was perfectly wrecked with that lunatic agency called dyspepsia. After dieting for two weeks and getting no better, a friend wrote me, suggesting that I try August Flower. The next day I purchased a bottle. I had hoped so that August Flower helped me so that I have quite recovered from my indisposition."

TRIALGAVE IN EUROPE

EUROPEANS TURN OUT TO HEAR THE BROOKLYN DIVINE.

Large and Enthusiastic Audiences Greet Him Everywhere—A Sermon on the Life and Death of Jesus Christ.
LONDON, England, July 13.—The famous Brooklyn Divine, Dr. J. H. Whittier, is making a tour of Europe. He is being greeted everywhere by large and enthusiastic audiences. His sermon on the life and death of Jesus Christ, which he delivered in London, was a great success. He is expected to visit other parts of Europe during his tour.

It was with an unprincipled politician, and destined to be honest; but all these were subverted by a visit to the popular, and to please the people. This distinguished prisoner was in the hands of the government. The proposition was made to let one of them. There stands Babalub, the murderer; there stands Cleeb, the invader of the world; and the demand of the renegade is set free, but Jesus is held. As the hard-winded and cruel eyes stare at me among the prisoners, Pilate turns to his other distinguished prisoner—mid-me, indeed, he would be called; but he is confounded as to what course he had better take, so he incapses the mob as a jury to decide, saying to them, "I have no power to let this man go; he is a prisoner of the government. If you wish to let him go, you must let Jesus go." Oh, it is no dried or withered question but one that throbs with warm life, the pulse in the heart of every man among us. Who is he? Who is he? Who is he? He is here. You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand.

You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand. You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand.

You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand. You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand.

You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand. You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand.

You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand. You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand.

You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand. You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand.

You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand. You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand.

You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand. You and I are not so certain, here we stand, here we stand, here we stand.

soil, with perfect abandonment, and hurl yourself into the deep sea of misery. He comes and says, "I will carry you down if you will not go down." He says, "I will carry you down if you will not go down." He says, "I will carry you down if you will not go down."

Why, my friends, you put more into your prayer than you do into your work. You are in the bridge crossing the stream, in the ladder up to the left, more trust in the right in the cook that prepares your food, more trust in the clerk that writes your bills, more trust in the physician that prescribes your medicine, in the bargainer with whom you trade; more trust in the things that are in Christ, although he stands this moment offering without limit, and without mistake, and without exception, universal redemption. Now, do you think that cheap enough—all things for nothing? This is the whole of the gospel as I understand it. If you believe that Christ died to save you, you are saved. When? No. No more doubt about it than that you are there. No more doubt about it than that you are there. No more doubt about it than that you are there.

Christ would pardon you just as freely as if you had never committed one; though you had gone through the whole catalogue of crimes—murder, blasphemy, adultery, murder—Christ would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one.

Christ would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one.

Christ would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one.

Christ would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one.

Christ would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one.

Christ would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one.

Christ would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one.

Christ would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one. He would pardon you just as freely as if you had committed only one.

The democrats who from Gray out of the Vice Presidential nomination for revenge may find that Mr. Gray is an expert at the game.

The indications are that the men who have promised to put the votes of the members of the Farmers Alliance in Kansas and other states where they will most benefit the democratic party will be unable to deliver the goods.

Gen. Stevenson says that he favored the maintenance of the union. But he voted the same ticket as Valandingham and the rest of the copperheads, and ran for presidential elector on a platform declaring "the election a failure." If Stevenson had succeeded it would have been worth more to the confederates than a battle in which they could kill 50,000 union soldiers—St. Louis City Journal.

A terrible battle occurred near the city of Pittsburgh yesterday, between Pinkerton detectives employed to protect the Carnegie Iron and Steel Works, and the Homestead strikers. Nine of the Pinkerton men and eleven strikers were killed and nearly one hundred wounded. The affair is deplored by all American citizens. Just why such an organization as the Pinkertons should exist no one knows. They breed nothing but trouble, and their employment should be prohibited.

"Weaver separately, or Weaver with any other good-loyal man was all right, but when Weaver is to be forced to cast our votes for an ex-confederate general, who in the event of his election and Weaver's death would become president, I want nothing to do with the ticket any portion of it, and you will find that mighty few men who were soldiers on the right side will be re-marked a well known old soldier in this city yesterday—Lincoln Journal.

The national convention of the people independent party placed in nomination for President at Omaha, Monday, that time tried officer, Gen. J. B. Weaver, of Iowa, a man who has affiliated with every political organization in his time, and sought office in all of them, yet to no avail, having been defeated in nearly every instance except during the greenback years in Iowa. Having assembled the convention was forced to nominate some one, and no other man would accept. Gen. J. G. Field, of Virginia, was nominated for Vice President and the convention then passed into history, having declared that the country is in a state of ruinousness. Where is there a man who can prove that the nation was ever in a more prosperous condition than at present, or a period when times were better, taken as a whole. One thing sure is, that the farmer or laborer who reads and carefully studies the issues of the day, will, this fall, cast his ballot for the republican party, a party to his nearest neighbor, that is no political organization without its faults) of any in the history of the United States, President Harrison will be re-elected by a much larger electoral vote than before.

FROM COON CREEK. What is the next question? The next question is, will we protect the Union men in the South? I tell you the white Union men have suffered enough. It is a crime in the Southern states to be a republican. It is a crime in every Southern state to live in this country and believe in the sacred rights of men. The colored people have suffered enough; they have been owned by two masters for two hundred years, and worse than that they have been forced to keep the company of their owners. It is a terrible thing to live with a man who steals from you and has you suffered for two hundred years, and branded like cattle. Yes, for two hundred years every human tie was torn asunder by the cruel hand of avarice and greed, for two hundred years, when sold from their fathers, husbands from their wives, brothers from brothers, and sisters from sisters. There was not during the whole rebellion a single negro owned by two masters. We are willing to be reconciled. In our Southern brethren when they treat our friends as men, when they will be just to the friends of this country, we will have no quarrel with them. Every American citizen his rights, then will we be their friends. We are willing to trust them with the nation's affairs when it is proven that they have the good of the nation, we are willing to trust them with liberty when they believe in liberty, we are willing to trust them with the negroes when they cease rasing in the darkness of their hearts, when they cease to be the hat of the freedman, and notwithstanding the prayers and supplications of his family, shoot him down. When they cease to consider the negro as a human being, when they cease to be human, I say, we will then be their friends.

Gen. John Bidwell, of California, was nominated for President by the national prohibition convention at Cincinnati Thursday, and J. B. Cranfall, of Texas, Vice President.

The republican state convention to place in nomination state officers, will be held at Lincoln, August 15. According to the appointment Wayne county is entitled to six delegates.

The enthusiasm over the nomination of Cleveland is all in Europe; where he is recognized as a name to American interests. It is American, however, that will do the voting.

Cleveland was put up to fight the milk "knocking" demagogues and unscrupulous and Stevenson to propitiate the unscrupulous, shirt-sleeved demagogues. A more incongruous pair was never joined together.

The grace and apparent ease with which others bring and Witterson took their Cleveland medicine has never been excelled in American politics.
