WHO TOUCHED ME?

DR. TALMAGE ON CHRIST AND THE INVALID WOMAN.

The Sensitive Character of Jesus Christ Unveiled from the Text by the Eloquent Brooklyn Preacher—A Story from St. Mark.

BROOKLYN, May 21, 1893.—Rev. Dr. Talmage to-day spoke for the subject of his discourse, the inquiry addressed by the Saviour to those who surrounded him, when the invalid woman having touched his garment, asked, "Who touched me?"

A great crowd of excited people elbowing each other this way and that, and Christ in the midst of the commotion. They were on the way to see him restore to complete health a dying person. Some thought that he could effect the cure, others that he could not. At any rate it would be an interesting experiment.

Oh, what comfort there is in this subject for people who are called nervous. Of course it is a misapprehension in that case, but I use it in the ordinary parlance. After twelve years of suffering, she had been told that a good deal of medicine taken if it does not cure leaves the system exhausted, and in the Bible in so many words she "had suffered many things of many physicians, but she was not bettered, but rather worse."

When I see this nervous woman coming to the Lord Jesus Christ, I say she is making the way for all nervous people. Nervous people do not get much sympathy. If a man breaks his arm everybody is sorry, and they talk and sympathize about it.

Now, I have a new prescription to give you. I do not ask you to discard human medication. I believe in it. When the slightest thing occurs in the system, you should at once resort to a tonic. Use all right and proper medicines. But if you want to bring your insomnia, and bring your irritability, and bring all your weaknesses, and bring with them touch Christ.

The fact is Christ himself is nervous. All those nights of doors in malarial districts where an Englishman or an American dies if he goes at certain seasons. Sleeping out of doors so many nights, he resisted the touch of the sea and the wilderness tramp, and the persecution and the outrage must have broken down his nervous system; a fact proved by the statement that he lived so short a time on the cross.

Notice that there is no addition of help to others without subtraction of power from ourselves. The context shows that Jesus felt that virtue, strength had gone out of him. No addition of help to others without subtraction from ourselves. Did you never get tired for others? Have you never risked your health for others? Have you never preached a sermon, or delivered an exhortation, or offered a burning prayer, and then felt afterward that strength had gone out of you? Then you have never imitated Christ.

Are you sick? I do not think you are any one of those that invent a lot of trouble. Have you had a long struggle? I do not think it has been more than twelve years. Is your case hopeless? So was this of which my text is the diagnosis and prognosis.

Is your trouble a home trouble? Christ shows himself especially sympathetic with questions of domesticity, as when he asked the lawyer, "Who is nearest to you?" He touched the other, and he was well. The mother-in-law of the Apostle Peter was suffering fever; brain fever, typhoid fever, or what, I do not know. Christ was the Physician. He offered no febrifuge. He prescribed no drops. He did not give any medicine. He touched her and she was perfectly well.

He touched her and she was perfectly well. Two blind men came stumbling into a room where Christ is. They are entirely sightless. Christ did not lift the eyelid to see whether it was cataract or ophthalmia. He did not put his hands to their eyes for a moment or four weeks. He touched them and they saw everything. A man came to Christ. The drum of his ear had

THE MISADVENTURES OF JOHN NICHOLSON.

Every day pleased our neighbor Jim. When it rained, he was contented. But said he, "I don't like rain. There is never so much rain for me, as there is for some other." "How is it?" "I don't like it."

And when at length his years were told, his body bent. And his strength all spent, and his hair was very weak and old. "I long have wanted to know," he said, "How it feels to die"—and Jim was dead.

At that stage a door opened below with a certain emphasis, and Mr. Nicholson was seen solemnly to descend the stairs, and pass into his own apartments. Alexander followed, quaking inwardly, but with a steady face. He knocked, was bidden to enter, and found his father standing in front of the forced drawer, to which he pointed as he spoke.

"I was afraid you would notice it," observed his son; it made such a beastly show of the table." "You were afraid I would notice it?" repeated Mr. Nicholson. "And pray, what may that mean?" "That I was a thief, sir," returned Alexander. "I took all the money in the house, the servants should get hold of it, and here is the change and a note of my expenditure. You were gone to bed, you see, and I did not feel at liberty to knock you up; but I think when you have heard the circumstances you will do me justice. The fact is, I have reason to believe there has been some dreadful error about my brother John. The sooner it can be cleared up the better for all parties. It was a piece of business, sir, and so I took it, and decided, on my own responsibility, to send a telegram to San Francisco. Thanks to my quickness, we may hear to-night. There appears to be no doubt, sir, that John has been abscondingly used."

"When did this take place?" asked the father. "Last night, sir, after you were asleep," was the reply. "It's most extraordinary," said Mr. Nicholson. "Do you mean to say you have been out all night?" "All night, as you say, sir. I have been in the telegraph and police office, and Mr. Macowen's. Oh, I had my hands full," said Alexander. "Very irregular," said the father. "You think of it one but yourself."

"I do not see that I have much to gain in bringing back my elder brother," returned Alexander, sheepishly. The answer pleased the old man; he smiled. "Well, well; I will go into this after breakfast," said he. "I'm sorry about the table," said the son.

"The table is a small matter; I think nothing of that," said the father. "It's another example," continued the son, "of the awkwardness of a man having no money of his own. If I had a proper allowance, like other fellows of my age, this would have been quite unnecessary."

"A proper allowance?" repeated his father, in tones of blighting sarcasm, for the expression was not new to him. "I have never grudgingly you money for any proper purpose."

James Quint, the actor, was extremely indignant at the success of Claverly and retired from the stage. The public mistook him, but to the extent he imagined, and he, therefore, became anxious to return. By way of hinting the possibility of such an occurrence, he wrote to Rich, the manager, a note remarkable for its brevity: "I am at Batli. Quint." To this an answer, equally laconic, came back: "Stay there, and be a d. Rich."

"German Syrup"

My acquaintance with Boschee's German Syrup was made about fourteen years ago. I contracted a cold which resulted in a hoarseness and cough which disabled me from filling my pulpit for a number of Sabbaths. After trying a physician, without obtaining relief I saw the advertisement of your remedy and obtained a bottle. I received quick and permanent help. I never hesitate to tell my experience. Rev. W. An Indian Trader tells his story of Kickapoo Indian Sagwa.

Cured of a Distressing Stomach Difficulty.

RUSHVILLE, NEB., July 5

Some time ago after suffering severely with stomach trouble and dyspepsia, which had been greatly aggravated by the alkali water of the western country, and when I had reached that stage where I could frequently hold nothing on my stomach, and would even throw up water as soon as drank, I learned from a Sioux Indian, who had been on a visit to the Kickapoo tribe, of a wonderful remedy called "Sagwa." I got him to procure some for me. The first dose was remarkable. I tried to get more from the Indian, but he would not let me have more of his. He prized it so much that he would not give it. I then learned that the Kickapoo of New Haven, Conn., had a bargain with the Kickapoo tribe, and was putting their remedies on the market. I next bought a bottle of the Kickapoo Indian Sagwa, and found it to be the same as that I had procured from the Sioux Indian. I got more, and used a few bottles. I was not only cured, but my entire system was cured, and have stayed cured ever since.

I can eat anything get before me and have no pain. I used to be most distressing effect. I can now eat and relish like an Indian.

I cannot speak too highly of the Kickapoo medicine, and cheerfully recommend it to all who are afflicted.

A ROMANCE.

She was strolling by the river. A small boat from across the water. And on eye as bright As the sunshine on her hair. And the lover's shining hair. And the lover's shining hair. And the lover's shining hair.

HER FAITH PROVED.

It was a case of phenomenal interest. Two young fellows of good family, companions since childhood, had set their hearts to earn fame and fortune, or the latter at least, in their native place—Albert Musgrave as an artist, Herbert Cadson as a doctor.

Their love for each other was brotherly, yet love proved the gulf that separated them. Both had been fascinated with the charms of a sunny-haired, bright-eyed, laughing picture of beauty.

Both revolver and cartridges were proved to have been bought by Cadson within twenty-four hours of the crime. He was known to have been at the house at the time of the murder, as nearly as possible.

The general evidence against him was so overwhelming there could be no doubt of the issue. The prisoner had condemned himself by his own admissions, yet he emphatically asserted his innocence.

The eventful day of the trial came. The breathless hush of suspense was oppressive. Presently a door opened. Twelve men solemnly took their seats.

"Guiltily or not guilty?" "Guiltily!"

A piercing shriek, awful from its burden of agony, rang through the court. Edna's unconscious form was borne out.

For the first time the prisoner quailed. Throughout the trial he had behaved with almost callous coolness. The sentence of death was passed, the judge's words being scarcely audible amidst women's sobs.

chief. I went to Laycock, the chemist. He examined his shop, but could not find a scent like it. I shot an arrow at a venture.

"You sold some to Miss Harvey. I think!"

"Oh yes, I know now. I got that especially for her. I am sorry I have none left."

"I recoiled out of the shop. I was on the track. 'P. H.' were Priscilla Harvey's initials, this was her handkerchief."

"I went straight to her house. During my stay I feligned having lost my handkerchief. She lent me the exact counterpart of the one I had found save that it was marked 'No. 7.'"

"I wanted to make her lodger a pair of slippers without his knowledge. She offered me a pair to measure. No, I knew he had a pair of goloshes somewhere."

"I took them to Musgrave's house; they fitted the prints exactly. I have had the scrapings of the sole and of the footprint analyzed by the chemist, who says they are identical."

"I have traced the suit of clothes and can prove the purchaser and the date of purchase. But one thing remains undone."

"I swore I saw Herbert three minutes after the murder close to the back of the house. As Herbert is dark and the culprit light he must have disguised himself, which proves despatch."

"A local hair dresser says he lent the same man some wigs, whiskers, etc., for private theatricals. Certainly no private theatricals have taken place, while he had them before and returned them after the date of the murder, so that they were in his possession then."

Now He Lets Others Worry.

Quite a new departure in the English cycling world has cropped up for the coming season. The liberty cycle, as he sips his cup of tea at the wayside inn, will no longer present to the impatient outsider a harrowing spectacle of uneasiness, amounting to an agony at the sonder of distant footsteps, nor start up like some galled, hunted creature at the approach of every stranger.

The Modern Shave.

"The nose-pulling barber is hard to find now unless one goes in the cheap shops," said George D. Hamilton of Memphis. "There was a time not so many years ago when a barber was taken by the nose if he had to shave your upper lip and almost pull the protuberance up by the roots. A friend of mine told me he went into a shop once, and the barber asked him if he would have a thumb of a spoon shave, meaning thereby that if my friend was fastidious about having the hair on his thumb in the corner of his mouth to extend his jaw he would use a spoon for that purpose. But those days are gone. Even the talking barber is a missing link between the new and the old tonsorial schools. All the disagreeable parts of a shave have disappeared, and the operation is now smooth and pleasant. The only people who find anything disagreeable in the process are those who shave themselves—who get a shave in a 5-cent shop."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Cat Jumps Twenty-two Feet.

There is a large Maltese cat making its headquarters at Seventh police precinct station that is bound to go on record as the smartest feline in town. Like all other cats it exhibits in capturing sparrows, but, unlike other cats, it has never been known to let a bird get away that it made up its mind to catch. Lieutenant Thompson is authority for the statement that the cat, perched on the cornice of the building, made a long jump of twenty-two feet, and caught a sparrow. The lieutenant had also watched the cat while bird-catching and had counted nine sparrows carried to a spot; and after the hunt was over devoured one by one. A peculiar trait of the cat is that, there is but one way to get to the station that the will make friends with, and he is, Patrolman Rowland. When he is on night duty the cat will follow him from the time he goes on duty until relieved next morning. All the dogs in the Newburg region have encountered the cat on several occasions. Like any other cat it is eight times canines that the other side of the street.—Cleveland Press.

Curiosities of Conscience Money.

Loads are frequently expressed as to the sanity of persons who indulge in the habit of permitting "conscience money" to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, but there can be no two opinions about an aged couple named Letoux, residing at Levallois-Perret, France, who are suffering from a highly interesting mania. Periodically they send to President Carnot sums of money varying from £20 to £50, in the imaginary belief that they are indebted to the state in regard to building material purchased by them from the historical Cateau de Blois. Needless to say that M. Carnot makes a point of returning these remittances through the medium of M. Guillien, to local Commissary of Police, who, however, experiences some difficulty in carrying out his instructions. On calling at the domicile of the Letoux with the last installment, he found the door locked, and had to force an entrance. The couple refused to speak a word to the representative of the law, who accordingly placed the bank notes in the mantle shelf and withdrew. M. and Mme. Letoux also send occasional remittances to the department of public estates, which is also obliged to use force in order to restore the money.

June 8th, is Nebraska day at the World's Fair.

Little Rhode Island came proudly to the front in the Republican ranks at the recent election.

The sounds heard around Louisville last week were not those usually made by attendants at a funeral.

What a picnic—$15,000 for the four attorneys for the state in the impeachment cases. $80 per day—Geochospital!

The Mississippi river appears to be as hard to control as the democratic party; and it is equally as dangerous when it happens to have its own way.

The Detroit Free Press says "virtue is a disinfectant." It may be true, but who is virtuous enough to go through a cholera epidemic with no other protection.

While General Van Wyck has many enemies politically there is scarcely a man who will not regret hearing that he is suffering from a stroke of paralysis, and will wish him speedy recovery.

It doesn't seem to be just the thing to do—to kick a man when he is down and that's why it seems strange to us that many of our exchanges have made the misfortunes of G. W. E. Dorsey so public even if any grievances existed.

A large discovery of tin ore, in apparently quantities, has been made in West Virginia, but its value may be largely impaired by the removal of the duty on tin by the democratic congress which West Virginia helped to put in power.

Republican editors might find better use for their space than bewailing the removal of republican officials by the administration. What right have republicans to expect that they will be kept in office by their political opponents?

Mr. Clarkson never made a truer prophecy than when he said the future welfare of the republican party was wrapped up in the young men of the country. Gain the votes of three fifths of those who will cast their first votes during the next three years and a republican president in '96 is assured.

If the south had more Judge Crisman the governors of its states would not have to ask why intelligent immigrants shun that section. Long live the man who dares to do his judicial duty regardless of consequences and may his tribe increase.

Nothing like being an all-arounder. Gen. Harrison was as much at home in making an address to the International Y. M. C. A. as in making those to a nation which have made his fame as a statesman world-wide.

Carl Schurz should have gone home as soon as he had eaten that White House dinner; then he would have escaped Carlisle's cold shoulder.

The Tariff Reform Club committee's cat show is so large that people not in a categorical mood would tire of it all. So one more specimen must suffice, although scores could be given.

This is one of the ways in which they demonstrate the absurdity and cruelty of their scheme in the supplement to their pamphlet.

Iron and Steel and Manufacturers of Value imports, 1892, $29,827,922. Duties collected, $16,519,826. Estimated value of 1894 imports, $55,120,000. Estimated duties (which they say must be had) in 1893, $13,480,000.

Their necessary increase of imports to gain needed revenue is $25,292,078, which represents that much added foreign debt and increased gold exports, and also some $22,000,000 less wages paid and spent in this country. By the plain statement of these facts by the committee, the bag is opened, and out runs a drove of big black and iron gray cats—lean thin hungry, ferocious as tigers, dangerous and unpleasant to look at.

Thanks, gentlemen for your kindness. We need not trouble you more for all the cats will surely get out in due time without any help, and you will agree with us in the wish that they were back again, and that bags, cats and all were sunk in water forty fathoms deep.—American Economist.

Wayne, Neb., May 13, 1893. I take pleasure in recommending the plan adopted by Prof. Hirschberg of sending competent ophthalmologists to their various agents and advertising dates to examine the eyes of the public and advise as to requisite glasses as the only scientific manner to secure glasses. W. A. Love, M. D.

A Victory for Wayne. Properly adjusted spectacles and eyeglasses are something that the people of Wayne has long been in need of.

Prof. H. Hirschberg the well known optician of 229 Olive St., St. Louis, has appointed J. G. Minns agent for his celebrated Non-Changeable Spectacles and Eye Glasses, where a complete assortment can always be found. Prof. H. Hirschberg will remain in Wayne June 2nd to 8th and all those in need of properly adjusted spectacles and eyeglasses should avail themselves of this opportunity. Examination of eyes free of charge.

EULALIE IS ON HAND.

HER VISIT TO THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

The Royal Train Great With an Immense Throng and Great Excitement—Secretary Gresham Does the Honors of the Occasion—A Chicago Divine Who is Pleading for Sunday Opening of the Fair—John D. Rockefeller Makes Another Gift to the Chicago University—A Cut Throat Run to Earth.

Arrival of the Infanta Eulalie. WASHINGTON, May 22.—The Infanta Eulalie and suit arrived in Washington Saturday and were met by Secretary Gresham on behalf of the president.

Before the train started from Jersey City a crowd of several hundred people had gathered about the special train, and more particularly about the private car Wildwood, which was set apart for the exclusive use of the young princess and her immediate suite.

So far as her habit was concerned she might have passed for a typical young American matron, but there was a hint of the Spanish leaning toward rich color effect in the small turban-shaped gray cap, neatly trimmed with blue lace and pronounced red and green tints.

The royal train arrived in Washington at 8:40 p. m. An immense crowd was in the vicinity of the station. The attaches of the Spanish legation were there as early as 7 o'clock.

Secretary Gresham and Assistant Secretary Gresham came shortly after the arrival of the cavalcade in Mr. Gresham's carriage followed almost immediately by a handsome barouche drawn by four magnificent bay horses.

The apartments occupied by the princess are the historic summer annex to the hotel, very near the white house. A large bunch of sweet peas stood on a table in the parlor.

It was 8:45 when the head of the column of troops, headed by Pennsylvania cavalry and came up to the hotel. The cavalcade moved quickly up the broad avenue, wheeled into line, coming to a dress parade.

A Divine Wants Sunday Opening. CHICAGO, May 22.—The Rev. John Henry Burrows, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, created a little surprise among those members of his congregation who attended prayer meeting last evening by coming out in pronounced terms with an endorsement of the world's fair directory relative to its latest action in opening the grounds and buildings Sunday.

That is why the First Presbyterian church was taken by surprise at Dr. Burrows' changed attitude. However, the liberal element in the church applauded Dr. Burrows' step cheerfully.

CLEVELAND'S POLICY.

THE CIVIL SERVICE RULE NOT CHANGED.

Removals Not to be Made for Political Reasons—Unless Offense Partisan is Shown—A Sensational Incident in Church Circles in Washington—An Inflow of Immigration to the Ceded Lands of South Dakota—Young Mrs. Blaine to Remarry—New York Democracy Arraigned.

How Cleveland Proposes to Conduct the Administration. NEW YORK, May 22.—The World this morning, in its editorial page prints the following in double leaded type, from its Washington correspondent:

The president's civil service policy has not changed since it was announced in the World on Saturday, May 13. A malicious report to the contrary was invented by a newspaper openly hostile to Mr. Cleveland and really antagonistic to the democratic party.

Mr. Cleveland has no intention of refusing to make appointments for political reasons. He will not make removals for political reasons, unless offensive partisanship is charged and proved. He will make and countenance however, a good many removals, and every vacancy thus made will be filled by a democrat.

Some of these men were in office when Mr. Cleveland returned to Washington. A few of them have been discharged and others will be. There is to be a great reform of this kind in the civil service. It is based on sound business principles.

The general summary of the report condenses the most important details of the year's work as follows: Number of missionaries, 1,723; number of missionary teachers, 373; additions on certified list, 10,028; additions on un-certified list, 6,838.

Hundreds of People Flocking to the Ceded Sioux Lands. CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., May 22.—Whatever may be the facts as regards other sections of the state, the inflow of immigration to the ceded Sioux lands continues in a manner most gratifying.

State Commissioner of Schools and Public Buildings. RUTH has been in the city and arranged for the surveying and platting of the school section which is located within the city limits.

Cause of Church Dissension. WASHINGTON, May 22.—The absorbing topic in church circles is a sensational incident which occurred yesterday morning in the First Presbyterian church, the pastor of which is Rev. Dr. Sunderland.

Dr. Smith had been invited to preach the sermon, and took for his text: "Beware lest ye be ensnared by the craftiness of men." He spoke at length on the evangelization of the masses, stating that one-half of our population was out of the church.

At the conclusion of Dr. Smith's address, Dr. Sunderland said: "I am sure we have enjoyed Dr. Smith's sermon this morning, but there is one important consideration which would be the cause of the dissension and distraction in the Presbyterian church at this time—the reason why the church has failed to accomplish what it ought to have accomplished here and now to state the cause.

New York Democracy Arraigned. NEW YORK, May 22.—The republican members of the last legislature have issued a voluminous address to the people of the state, arraigning the democratic party for authorizing the expenditure of $3,000,000 more than last year, for failing to pass a reformatory law bill, for denying home rule to cities, for refusing equality in election boards and for attempting to displace the farmer vote of this state.

Young Mrs. Blaine.

New York, May 22.—The Herald says: Young Mrs. Blaine is to change her name. She is going to be married to Dr. William T. Bull. There have been many rumors of engagement, but these have been denied until now, when the announcement is authoritatively made.

The wedding will not be long deferred. According to present arrangements it is fixed for early in June. It will be a quiet one, and may be followed by a trip to Europe.

Hosted by Phoebe Cousins. CHICAGO, May 22.—Phoebe Cousins has written a long letter to the Chicago Times, in which she energetically attacks Mrs. Potter Palmer and World's Fair Commissioners Massey, St. Clair and Lannon. She begins by saying that she is keeping quiet at present, for the reason that she must have breath like other mortals.

Referring to the report that a certain lady was blackmailed of the platform of the woman's congress, Miss Cousins says the lady referred to is no less a personage than Isabella Beecher Hooker. May Wright Sewall was notified by the president of the woman's management that this lady must be kept off at all hazards.

Missionaries in China. NEW YORK, May 20.—The Presbyterian board of foreign missions in addition to calling their missionaries in China, have sent letters advising them not to go into the interior until matters have become settled and to remain where they can be speedily reached.

All Newspaper Men Know Him. NEW YORK, May 13th.—There is a very interesting story connected with the 370 columns of advertising in last Sunday's "World," which, beating all previous records, shows the vitality and energy of its advertising manager, S. G. C. who, about a year ago, was given up as a hopeless consumptive, utterly unable to work.

Increased Rate of Insurance. NEW YORK, May 20.—The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the National Board of Underwriters was held yesterday morning. President D. W. C. Skilton of the Phoenix Fire Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., occupied the chair and delivered his annual address.
