Water works have been placed in the Boyd hotel: an improvement long needed.

Arrangements are being made for a dancing party at Mellor's Hall Saturday night.

About four hundred students are now enrolled at the college. How is that for high!

Many farmers who thought they would have no corn now assert that they will have at least half a crop.

Purchase for cash one dollar worth of goods at R. W. Wilkins & Co's, and get a piece of sheet music free.

Wayne county may not have all the crops but she will have the largest percentage of any county in the state.

The statement of the first National Bank appears elsewhere in this issue and as usual it makes an excellent showing.

If you want a can of fine California Peas, Apricots, Blackberries etc. at 15 cents a can and upward, remember that Shane always has them.

We will give away with every dollar cash purchase an excellent piece of sheet music valued at from 25 to 50 cts., at R. W. Wilkins & Co's.

The street sprinkler has been much improved by placing it on a higher wagon. About double the surface is sprinkled now that was before.

Last week's Republican announced the republican county convention for Monday, August 13th. The convention is called for Saturday, Aug. 11, at 2:15 o'clock p. m.

A public watering place has been put in by the city just south of R. Philleo & Son's. This improvement has been long needed and the farmers, especially, will appreciate it.

W. M. Wright lost seven stacks of hay by fire on his farm two and a half miles from Winside last Thursday evening. The blaze was started by sparks from the engine of train No. eleven.

The Wayne and Wisner ball clubs will play a game of ball at the fair grounds in this city to-morrow afternoon. Wisner has one of the best clubs in northeast Nebraska and a close and interesting game will doubtless result.

Remember that on one thousand dollars assessed valuation it will cost you 75 cents per year for the first five years to vote the bonds suggested in the petition asking for a special election. Can farmers afford to run the risk of losing the records for this paltry sum?

Petitions will be presented to the Board of Commissioners Saturday, praying that a special election be called for the purpose of voting on the court house question. The duty of the commissioners where the names of a large number of citizens appear on a petition, is to grant the prayer thereof.

A fire alarm was turned in about 10 o'clock Sunday morning and as the whistle at Sherbahn's brick yard blew continuously, people hurried to the fire department building. It was soon learned that the fire was in the cemetery but had been extinguished before much damage occurred. About half an acre of grass was burned in the northeast corner. As everything was so dry, the fire would have burned over a large amount of territory from which considerable damage would have resulted had it not been discovered in time. How the blaze started is a mystery.

The Racket store is holding a novel sale from now till Aug. 15. They give a Ten Cent Coupon with every dollars worth of goods, redeemable in trade any time before September 1st. As their goods are all marked plain this is a clear saving of 10 per cent to the buyer.

Wakefield will soon commence putting in a water works system. The contract will be let to the A. F. Peige company of Sioux City.

The HERALD job department is getting out the programs this week for the graduating exercises of the Elocution and Scientific classes of the Nebraska Normal College.

Every committeeman in the county should see to it that his precinct is represented at the republican county convention Saturday, August 11. See call on fifth page of the HERALD.

Wakefield's post office was burglarized Monday evening and post master Hunter was loser to the amount of about $120 worth of stamps. No clue to the perpetrators has yet been discovered.

The Winside and Randolph clubs played a game of ball in Randolph Friday afternoon, in which the former came out victorious. Ten innings were played, the score standing 9 to 8.

Messrs Ed B. King and Dorr Carroll gave an entertainment at Pender Friday evening, which was a success both financially and otherwise. The music was furnished by Prof. Ezerman and Otto Voget.

G. W. Cooper, a coal man who travels all over the state of Nebraska, is visiting with R. J. Armstrong to-day. Mr. Cooper states that the corn crop in this section is far ahead of the crops in other sections of the state. Thus every day the reports of the HERALD are being verified.

An informal party was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blanchard last evening in honor of Henry Boyd of Illinois, who is visiting with his sister Mrs. Dearborn. The evening was pleasantly spent in card playing and the largest number of games were secured by Mr. Dearborn.

The school board last Thursday accepted the proposal of Otto Voget, of this city, to put in the steam heating apparatus in the high school building at a cost of $1,000. It is the opinion of the HERALD that the board were wise in their choice and that the contract will be fulfilled to the letter. It is the Boynton boiler, double pipe, steam heating system.

J. Singer & Co.
A number of traveling men were talking together on the depot platform this morning and the gist of their conversation was that in approaching Wayne from any direction the corn crops grow steadily better. The HERALD has ever been firm in the belief that Wayne county is the best county agriculturally in the state and at present our convictions are confirmed.

During a runaway near the residence of Rau Frazier Saturday evening, in which the buggy was torn to pieces, Bert Hyatt was thrown into a barb wire fence sustaining a number of severe though not dangerous cuts across the abdomen and right leg. He was taken to the office of Dr. Williams who dressed the wounds. Bert says the runaway was the result of his own foolishness.

The HERALD stands up for Wayne and Wayne county every jump, and that's what we are here for.

The HERALD's petition in last week's issue praying for rain has been generously granted since, therefore we will send it in another this week.

If there are any hard times or a lack of effort to attract trade to Randolph her worthy papers fail to indicate it; they are chock full of bright new ads.

A very pleasant impromptu dancing party was held at the Mellor hall Saturday evening. Excellent music was furnished by Prof. Tocci, of Sioux City, who has few superiors as a harpist.

The beautiful home of W. T. Cameron of Norfolk, was struck by lightning Tuesday morning about four o'clock and was reduced to ashes. Loss about $2,000. The family were out of the city at the time.

W. H. McNeal has in no way severed his connection with the HERALD, nor will he move to Winside as has been intimated, although, believing in the future of Winside, has purchased property interests there.

J. SINGER & CO.
The farmers are busy threshing these days and in most cases the small grain is turning out much better than was expected and the quality is excellent.

The dry weather of the past three weeks, however, has had a serious effect on corn and the crop will not be more than one-half to two-thirds on the whole. This is not the most pleasant thing to think of when realizing that less than four weeks ago the corn crop outlook in Wayne county was never better.

Yet, in comparison with other counties, Wayne is still in much better condition.
LATER—Two fine rains have fallen since the above was set in type and it's different now.

We have often wondered why there was no telephone line between Norfolk and Sioux City? It is a wonder that Sioux City' wholesale men have never made an effort to have one established. It certainly would be a great benefit to them; make it more convenient for their customers and derive a good revenue from its use between neighboring towns. Will not Norfolk, Wayne Wakefield and other towns between here and Sioux City interest themselves in the project?—Winside Watchman.

The many advantages to the business man that would result from a telephone system is certainly perceptible, and an effort should at least be made to place Wayne on an equal footing with towns along the Elkhorn road.

Dedication Postponed
Owing to the rain Tuesday night the programme for the dedication of the new fire department building and the parade was postponed for the present but it was decided to go ahead with the dance and accordingly the music commenced and the large crowds that filled the building danced until about one o'clock in the morning. It has been suggested that if the postponed programme should be carried out in the future, the exercises be held in the opera house.

The Author Entertainers.
Ella June Meade, Echo Vocalist, and Lu B. Cake, singing humorist, have been engaged by Superintendent White to give an entertainment before the Teachers' Institute Saturday, August 11th. They will appear in their own songs, specialties and character creations, and an evening of pleasure and improvement is guaranteed. The Author Entertainers appeared before the Institute at Tekamah and proved a grand success. The Chicago Inter Ocean in speaking of the people says: The program differed widely from the usual Lyceum Entertainments of the day, being a happy combination of new songs, original specialties and witticisms. Ella June Meade was heartily encored, and Mr. Cake's 'Big Nye' and 'Fun on the Farm' kept the audience in continuous laughter." Admission 25 cents. Remember the date.

CAME AT LAST!
For several days, about all one could hear talked of along the street was dry weather and the poor prospect for a corn crop. Opinions widely differed. A few declared they would be some corn whether it rained or not, while others believed there would be little if any. Happily the drought was broken last Tuesday morning by a nice shower, followed in the evening by the heaviest rain that has fallen this summer. It was a genuine soaker, pouring down for nearly an hour and reports indicate that it was general throughout the county. It was worth thousands of dollars to this section. It is now conceded that corn will average one-half to three-fourths of a crop, while the value to grasses can scarcely be estimated. The crop of small grain has been much better than expected, both in quantity and quality. To be sure some farmers will have very little corn but on the whole the people of Wayne County should be jubilant for there is no doubt she is in the best condition of any county in the state so far as crops are concerned and from all reports received we are conservative in our statements.

SHERBAHN'S BRICK YARD.
Wayne can now boast of one of, if not the largest, brick yards in the state. Last year John F. Sherbahn built large and extensive drying sheds and put in a large dry mud brick machine with a capacity of 20,000 brick per day. This year he is building and has about completed the largest continuous burning kiln in Nebraska, with a capacity of 300,000 brick. The kiln which is 100 feet long and 28 feet wide is divided into six sections on the floor. A large tunnel flue four feet wide and four feet deep runs through the kiln intersected by four cross flues 2x4 equal distances apart. The smoke stack will be a massive steel structure about 20 feet from the kiln. The first section is fired from the bottom and the others from the top. The kiln will be fired in sections and while one of the sections is burning the next is being dried by the smoke, while the green brick may be placed in the other sections farther away.

The cost of the new kiln will exceed $8,000. The institution furnishes employment for twelve men and Wayne can well feel proud that she has such an enterprising and worthy business man in her midst. Mr. Sherbahn will make all the brick he can this season, but does not know how large the number will be.

GROVER A DICTATOR.

ATTEMPTS TO OVERHAUL AND BROWBEAT CONGRESS.

The Present Executive Presumes the Right to Dictate to the Legislative Branch of the Government What Sort of a Tariff Bill It Shall Pass.

The Tariff Crisis.

The incompetency of the Democratic party to deal with the tariff, or with any great practical exigency, has reached a crisis. The crisis was marked by the reading of President Cleveland's extraordinary letter by Chairman Wilson, of the Ways and Means Committee, in the House, on Thursday, in closing the debate on the conference. The President's letter is the most extraordinary deliverance, both in contents and the plan of which constitutes a part, ever sent by a chief executive to Congress, for as is perfectly evident, it is not and never was, a private communication to Mr. Wilson, but a deliberate fulmination of a public character foisted in the guise of a private statement. It was undoubtedly prepared, probably in concert with Mr. Wilson, with a view to precisely the use he made of it. Concerning the present letter, the St. Louis City Post writes:

"This message, coming from the White House, so unprecedented in parliamentary history, is therefore full of significance. It can be interpreted on no other theory than that it is an acknowledgment of irreconcilable conflict within the Democratic party as the case now stands at Washington, a public confession of impotency to deal with the tariff; a definite consciousness that the party, although in full possession of the government, cannot act on the tariff. It is a declaration, for we must assume that it is made in concert with the leaders who stand with President Cleveland—on the part of one of the other side."

Any other explanation presupposes that the present Democratic Senators have not been sincere in their stand on the tariff; that they will concede to executive dictation in the present form ever exhibited; that they will recede from the line they have drawn and submit to the question today whether the party stands at the crack of the whip, and that they have been merely playing a part and not representing the interests of their constituents in demanding so strenuously modification of the Wilson bill as it passed the House. The President's letter is a challenge and Senators Hill, Gorman, Lodge and others in fact share their views, and are either to retreat, or there is no other alternative. It is inconceivable that they will retreat. If they take up the gage of battle so arrogantly thrown before them, then there can be no tariff legislation now, for in the part of the other side the President virtually announces, "No compromise."

It is the singular point to which the second year of complete Democratic control of the Government, following years of tariff agitation, pledges and pleadings, have brought the country. The Wilson bill itself, as the President confesses, is a violation in many fundamental points of the Democratic party, and yet it is a grave question today whether the party will break in twain or can put this mongrel measure on the statute book.

The situation of the Democratic party is critical. The question, however, must be met at once, and cannot be long postponed. We shall see, and the country will be looking with keenest interest.

The Chicago Herald rushes to the defense of the British mercantile marine, saying that the American Economist gave very little for the minting camp crowd, which is also spoken of as the "silver parasites."

Nothing can be more offensive to this class, which is so ably represented by the Chicago Herald, than an effort to reduce the price of anything Groceries, British receives in payment for goods sold. It is a tenet of the class represented by that paper that all raw material, which English manufacturers give in payment for finished goods, should be produced in great quantities and as many different places as possible, that the price may be low. On this subject, they write to the Chicago Herald, "The price of goods received for grain, etc., may be high."

When this policy is not only attacked, it does not matter whether it is in favor of American silver, wool or iron, but in addition an effort is made to secure additional differences and to bring British shipbuilders and shipowners to the $20,000,000 a year we are paying to them for vessel freights, and turn that immense sum of money to the service of American industries. The Chicago Herald calls the American Economist the "organ of the protectionists," and depreciates its effort to force England to adopt a policy favorable to this country.

The Chicago Herald has the same love for the interests of this country that Artemus Ward had for his wife's relatives.

The daily dispatches from Washington show that the bill is not being introduced in conference committee at all. The bill is being held in a secret chamber of a very small part of the membership of one party in the two houses, without the check either of publicity or of the presence of members of the opposing party. Against such an innovation the conservative sentiment of the country should make an emphatic protest. Among the conferees who have been excluded from the conference are Senators Sherman, Allison and Aldrich. These gentlemen are among the greatest tariff experts in the country. As economic authorities no Democrat on the committee is their equal. Their knowledge and counsel would be valuable in framing a tariff bill. —New York World (Dem.)

THE LATEST FROM WALES.

PATRIOTISM PROTECTION PROSPERITY.

We are asked to sing the praises of a Tariff for Protection. And had I been allowed to choose, no better a selection. Each I make; it is a subject that will stir the people of this country in this blessed land of ours. Since the smoke of battle rested on the brow of Bunker Hill, and the bullets of the British sought our fathers' hearts, and still we have been evolving notions. "Yankees not of us," and a faith in home Protection is by no means least of these.

But "Protection to domestic manufacturers" first received attention from that patriot whose tragic ending grieved the people of this nation. How cherished is the name of Alexander Hamilton, and how secure the fame.

Inspired by him, the Congress of the young Republic passed the first protective measure; do you think the people of this nation to Harrison—a century in a span. When prosperity is noted, "no protection leads the van. From the "Gates" of San Francisco to the "temple hills" of Malaga, let the eloquence of Webster and the rhetoric of Butler be heard. Tell the glories of protection; let a mighty people heed. The teachings of McKinley and the prophecies of Reed.

Raises your voices, all ye singers; let a diapason grand roll o'er mountain, forest and valley, fill the air with the praise of protection in a nation's wailing ears. How Columbia's brow will brighten as the welcome song leads. —LYSSA GRANT WAITE. Strange It Somehow. If the McKinley bill is worth what it cost in years of work and no end of money for hundreds of friends of the American people, and in the face of the wide and lasting disaster now in the country, and to last for at least three years, why should not our Senators at Washington defeat the bill now before them? They can do it with half the effort the silver men made for our silver. Of course there will be much discomfort to our Senators to remain through the hot summer, but what of the discomfort to millions of our people? I would suggest that every person write to at least two Senators and request, and urge that some friend shall also write to two Senators to fight the bill to death. Kill it as the Democrats killed the "silver bill." Talk it to death, obstruct it in every way and form, if even until December. The above remarks were made by Mr. Charles A. Dana, the editor of the New York Sun, when interviewed in Paris. Mr. Dana may be correct in stating "any great fall in the price of wheat is no longer possible," because farmers have seen the price of wheat tumble down to bed rock since the election of a Democratic administration, which was aided and abetted by the above remarks made by Mr. Dana. In fact, the consumption increases faster than the production. There was a surplus of wheat stocks throughout the world larger by 25,000,000 bushels, July 1, 1894, than on the same date two years ago; larger by 65,000,000 bushels than three years ago; larger by 80,000,000 bushels than four years ago; and larger by 80,000,000 bushels than five years ago, when the area planted to wheat was 5,000,000 acres greater than last season's area. Mr. Dana should not be led away by what statistical theorists. He should study facts.

Editor Dana's Ignorance on Wheat. Any great fall of the price of wheat is no longer possible, as the consumption increases faster than the production. The above remarks were made by Mr. Charles A. Dana, the editor of the New York Sun, when interviewed in Paris. Mr. Dana may be correct in stating "any great fall in the price of wheat is no longer possible," because farmers have seen the price of wheat tumble down to bed rock since the election of a Democratic administration, which was aided and abetted by the above remarks made by Mr. Dana. In fact, the consumption increases faster than the production. There was a surplus of wheat stocks throughout the world larger by 25,000,000 bushels, July 1, 1894, than on the same date two years ago; larger by 65,000,000 bushels than three years ago; larger by 80,000,000 bushels than four years ago; and larger by 80,000,000 bushels than five years ago, when the area planted to wheat was 5,000,000 acres greater than last season's area. Mr. Dana should not be led away by what statistical theorists. He should study facts.

"The Poor Man's Sugar."

If Mr. Havemeyer were really as solicitous for the welfare of "the poor man," as he would fain have had the Senate Investigating Committee believe, he would at once cancel the secret contract that now exists between himself and the wholesale grocers of the country, whereby special percentages and rates of discount are allowed them in return for their support and patronage, a system that has the practical effect of creating a trust among the grocery trade, and of preventing competition in the price of sugars related to "the poor man."

Democratic Lie Exposed. Free-traders lose no opportunity to misrepresent the McKinley act and to bewail its high rates of duty, whereas they are not high. An exact statement of the average rates of duties on all importations since 1861 is given below, and it should be preserved by everyone:

Table with columns: Year, Average Ad-Valorem Rates per Cent of Duty on Total Importations. Rows include years from 1861 to 1894.

Senate Junk Shop.

Mr. Cleveland's Nerve. The Constitution contemplates that when the President wants to address Congress he do it through a message, but Grover Cleveland treats this constitutional provision with contempt. His latest method of infusing Congress is wholly unprecedented, and recalls Oliver Cromwell's treatment of Parliament. He assumes the right to dictate to that body what sort of a tariff bill it shall pass, prescribing with unheard of arrogance what concessions must be made in conference. The Democrat in Congress may well ask, "Upon what meat has this our Caesar fed, that he has grown so great?" —Chicago Inter Ocean.

What's That Report? The country would like very much just now to read the report of the committee appointed to investigate the charges of bribery of United States Senators by the Sugar Trust. The committee has spent several weeks in the investigation, and it must have learned whether the charges are true or not. If they are untrue there is no reason why the committee should not say so. The only inference to be drawn from the failure of the committee to make a report are that the charges are true, and that the report is being held back because it would affect the sugar schedule of the tariff bill unfavorably, or else the committee is trying to shield the guilty Senators.

The People Not In It. A tariff bill was finally framed to suit the House, and now, after hard work, a tariff bill has been framed to suit the Senate. The next thing is to frame a bill that will suit the President. Framing a tariff bill that will suit the people is out of the power of this Congress. —Kansas City Journal.

Then and Now. While the McKinley bill was in preparation, it was said, there were no commonwealth armies, no idleness, no uncertainty, no depression, no reduction of wages, and no hard times. —Louisville Commercial.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

WHAT JOB KNEW ABOUT DENTISTRY AND ENAMEL OF TEETH.

A Narrow Escape. Rev. Dr. Talmage selected as the subject for his sermon through the press this week "Narrow Escapes," the text being taken from Job xiv. 20, "I am escaped with the skin of my teeth."

Job had it hard. What with boils and bereavements and bankruptcy and a fool of a wife he wished he was dead, and I do not blame him. His flesh was gone, and his bones were dry. His teeth wasted away until nothing but the enamel survived left. He cries out, "I am escaped with the skin of my teeth."

There has been some difference of opinion about this passage. St. Jerome and Schultens and Drs. Good and Poole and Barnes have all tried their forepaws on Job's teeth. You deny my interpretation and say, "What did Job know about the enamel of the teeth?" He knew everything about it. Dental surgery is almost as old as the earth. The mummies of Egypt, thousands of years old, are found to-day with gold filling in their teeth. Ovid and Horace and Solomon and Moses wrote about these important factors of the body. To other prevailing complaints Job, I think, has added an exasperating toothache, and putting his hand against the inflamed face he says, "I am escaped with the skin of my teeth."

A very narrow escape, you say, for Job's body and soul but there are thousands of men who make just as narrow escape from their soul. There was a time when the partition between them and ruin was no thicker than a tooth's enamel, but as Job finally escaped so have they. Thank God! Thank God!

Saved as by Fire. Paul expresses the same idea by a different figure when he says that some people are "saved as by fire." A vessel at sea is in flames. You go to the stern of the vessel. The boats have steered off. The flames advance. You can endure the heat no longer on your face. You slide down on the side of the vessel and hold on with your fingers until the forked tongue of the fire begins to lick the back of your hand, and you feel that you must fall, when one of the lifeboats comes back, and the passengers say they think they have room for one more. The boat says, "No, you drop into it; you are saved. So the men are pursued by temptation until they are partially consumed, but after all get off, "saved as by fire." But I like the figure of Job a little better than that of Paul, because the pulp is not worn out, and I want to show you, if God will help, that some men make narrow escape for their souls and are saved as "with the skin of their teeth."

It is as easy for some people to look to the cross as for you to look to this pulpit. Mild, gentle, tractable, loving, you expect them to become Christians. You go over to the store and say, "Grandson, joined the church yesterday." Your business comrades say: "That is just what might have been expected. He always was of that turn of mind." In youth the reason was, I describe was always good. He never broke things. He never laughed when it was improper to laugh. At 17 he could sit an hour in church perfectly quiet, looking neither to the right hand nor to the left, but straight into the eyes of the minister, as though he understood the whole discussion about the eternal decrees. He had no appetites for loss. He had no doubts that the kingdom of God so gradually that it is uncertain just when the matter was decided.

Here is another one, who started in life with an uncontrollable spirit. He kept the nursery in an uproar. His mother found him walking on the edge of the house roof to see if he could balance himself. The horse he rode had no rider; no tree he could climb. His boyhood was a long series of predicaments. His manhood was reckless; his middle life very wayward. But now he is converted, and you go over to the store and say, "Arkwright joined the church yesterday." Your friends say, "It is not possible. You must be joking." You say, "No, I tell the truth." He joined the church. Then they reply, "There is hope for any of us if old Arkwright has become a Christian!"

By the Skin of Your Teeth. In other words, we all admit that it is more difficult for some men to accept the gospel than for others. I may be addressing some who have out loose from churches and bibles and Sundays, and who have at present no intention of becoming Christians themselves, but just to see what is going on, and yet you may find yourself escaping, before you hear the end, as "with the skin of your teeth." I do not expect to waste this hour. I have seen boats go off from Cape May or Long Branch and drop their nets, and after awhile come ashore, pulling in the net without having caught a single fish. It was not a good day, or they had not the right kind of a net. But we expect no such excursion today. The water is full of fish; the wind is in the right direction; the gospel net is strong. O Thou who didst help Simon and Andrew to fish, show us today how to cast the net on the right side of the ship!

Some of you are coming to God will have to run against skeptical notions. It was useless for people to say sharp and putting things to those who reject the Christian religion. I cannot say such things. By what process of temptation or trial or betrayal you have come to your present state I know not. There are two gates to our nature—the gate of the head and the gate of the heart. The gate of your head is locked with bolts and bars that an archangel could not break, but the gate of your heart swings easily on its hinges. If I assault your body with weapons, and it would be sword stroke for sword stroke, and wound for wound, and blood for blood, but if I come and knock at the door of your home you open it, and give me the best seat in your parlor. If I should come at you to-day with an argument, you would answer me with an argument; if with sarcasm, you would answer me with sarcasm, blow for blow, stroke for stroke, but when I come and knock at the door of your heart you open it and say, "Come in, my brother, and tell me all you know about Christ and Heaven."

Three Questions. Listen to two or three questions: Are you as heavy as you used to be? Are you as happy as you used to be? Are you as believed in by the brethren of the Christian religion? Would you like to have your children travel on the road in which you are now traveling? You had a relative who professed to be a Christian and was thoroughly consistent, living and dying in the faith of the gospel. Would you not like to live the same quiet life and die the same peaceful death as that man? I am not willing to do the church or out of the faith. My state of uncertainty is one of unrest. Sometimes I doubt my immortality and look upon the deathbed as the closing scene, after which there is nothing. What shall I do? I have not done. "Ah, scepticism and doubt are a dark land. Let me say that this Bible is either true or false. If it be false, we are as well off as you. If it be true, then which of us is safer?" Let me also ask whether your trouble has not been that you confounded Christianity with the inconsistent character of some who profess it. You are a law-abiding man, your profession there is an end and dishonor to you. You are anything against the law? You are a doctor. There are unskilled and contemptible men in your profession. Is that anything against medicine? You are a merchant. There are thieves and defrauders in your business. Is that anything against merchandise? Behold, then, the unfairness of charging with Christianity the wickedness of its disciples. We gain some good charges against those who profess religion. Some of the most gigantic swindles of the present day have been carried on by members of the church. There are men in the churches who would not be trusted for $5 without good collateral security. They leave their business dishonesties in the vestibule of the church, and then walk and sit at the communion. Having concluded the agreement, they get up, wipe the wine from their lips, go out and take up their sins where they left off. To serve the devil is their regular work; to serve God, a sort of play spell. With a Sunday sponge they expect to wipe off from their business alike all the past week's inconsistencies. You have no more right to take such a man's life as a specimen of religion than you have to take the twisted iron and split timbers that lie on the beach at Coney Island as a specimen of an American ship. It is time we draw a line between religion and the frailties of those who profess it.

A Righteous Indignation. Again, there may be some of you who in the attempt after a Christian life will have to run against powerful passions and appetites. Perhaps it is a contest to anger that you have to contend against, and perhaps, while in a very serious mood, you hear of something that makes you feel that you must swear or die. I know of a Christian man who was once so exasperated that he said to a mean customer, "I cannot swear to you myself, for I am a member of the church, but if you will go down stairs my partner will swear for me." All your good resolutions heretofore have been torn to tatters by explosions of temper. Now there is no harm in getting mad if you only get mad at sin. You need to bridle and saddle these hot-breathed passions, and with them ride down injustice and wrong. There are thousands of things in the world that we ought to get mad at. There are many things to get mad at, you only bring to the forge that which needs hammering. A man who has no power of righteous indignation is an imbecile. But be sure it is a righteous indignation and not a petulance that blinds and unravels and depletes the soul.

There is a large class of persons in mind who have still in them appetites that were aroused in their manhood, at a time when they prided themselves on being a "little fast," "high livers," "free and easy," "hall fellows well met." They are now paying in compound interest for troubles they collected twenty years ago. Some of you are trying to escape, and you will be drawn narrowly, "as with the skin of your teeth." God and your own soul only knows what the struggle is. Omnipotent grace has pulled out many a soul that was deeper in the mire than you are. They line the beach of Heaven—the multitudes whom God has rescued from the thrall of suicidal habits. If this day turn your back on the wrong and start anew, God will help you. The weakness of human help! Men will sympathize for awhile and then turn you off. If you ask for their pardon, they will give it and say they will try you again; but falling away again under the power of temptation, they cast you off forever. But God forgives seventy times seven, even a hundred times, yes, though this be the ten thousandth time, he is more earnest, more sympathetic, more helpful this last time than when you took your first misstep. If, with all the influences favorable for a right life, men make so many mistakes, how much harder it is when, for instance, some appetite thrusts its way into the very recesses of the tongue and pulls a man down with hands of destruction. If, under such circumstances, he break away, there will be no sport in the undertaking, no holiday enjoyment, but a struggle in which the wrestlers move from side to side and bend and twist and watch for an opportunity to get in a heavier stroke, until with one final effort, in which the muscles are distended, and the veins stand out, and the blood starts with earthy habit falls under the knee of the victor—escaped at last as with the skin of his teeth.

A Trial Asked. In the last day it will be found that Hugh Latimer, and John Knox, and Huss, and Ridley were not the greatest martyrs, but Christian men who went unincurred from the contamination and perplexities of Wall street, Water street, Pearl street, Broad street, State street, Third street, Lombard street, and the bourse. On the earth they were called brokers or stockjobbers, or retailers, or importers, but in Heaven Christian heroes. No fagots were heaped about their feet, no inquisition demanded from their recantation, no soldier aimed a spike at their heart, but they had mental tortures, compared with which all physical consuming is as the breath of a spring morning.

I find in the community a large class of men who have been so cheated, so lied about, so outrageously wronged that they have lost faith in everything. In a world where everything seems so topsy-turvy they do not see how they can be saved. They are confounded and frenzied and melancholic. Elaborate argument to prove the truth of Christianity or of the truth of anything else touches them nowhere. Hear me, all such men. I preach to you no rounded periods, no ornamental discourse, but I put my hand on your shoulder and invite you into the peace of the gospel. There is a rock on which you may stand firm, though the waves rage against it harder than the Atlantic pitching its surf clear above Edystone Lighthouse. Do not charge upon God, all these troubles of the world. As long as the world stuck to God God stuck to the world, but the earth succeeded from his government, and hence all these outrages and all these woes. God is good, but man is wicked. The years he has been coaxing a dark land to come back to him, but the more he has coaxing the more violent have men been in their resistance, and they have stepped back and stepped back until they have dropped into ruin.

Try this God, ye who have had the bloodhounds after you, and who had thought that God had forgotten you. Try Him and see if He will not pardon. Try Him and see if He will not say, "The flowers of spring have no bloom so sweet as the flowering of Christ's affections." The sun hath no warmth compared with the glow of his heart. The waters have no refreshment like the fountain that will slake the thirst of thy soul. At the moment the reins descend with his lip and nostril busy with the hunter's horn, the hunter may be coming through the thicket. Without cracking a stick under his foot, he comes close by the stag, aims his gun, draws the trigger, and the poor thing rears in its death agony and falls backward, its antlers falling on the rocks, but the panting heart that drinks from the water brooks of God's promise shall never be fatally wounded and shall never die.

Coming Our Way.

Halley's comet is coming back—the comet which in the year 1066 shed a celestial splendor over the Norman conquest and whose terror-inspiring visit was commemorated by the hand of Queen Matilda in the Bayeux tapestry; the comet that in 1456, the year of the battle of Belgrade, scared the Turk and Christian alike, and was anathematized by a bull from the Pope; the comet whose strange scimitar form still chilled the marrow of the ignorant and superstitious at its latest return in 1835. It is yet far away, says the Providence Journal, but the eye of science sees it, already within the orbit Neptune, rushing onward and earthward with constantly increasing velocity as it falls along the steep curve of its orbit. And a call to arms, a call for preparation, has just been issued from one of the chief watch towers of astronomy. Prof. Glieseapp announces that the computing bureau established by the Russian Astronomical Society has undertaken the calculation of the true path of Halley's comet with a view to predicting the exact date of the next return. He hopes that astronomers, acquainted with unpublished observations of the comet will communicate the information to the society. After its perihelion the comet was watched retreating out into space until May, 1835, when it was finally swallowed from sight. It will be in perihelion again about 1911, but with the great telescopes now in existence and the greater ones that may thereafter be constructed, it is probable that the comet will be detected coming sunward a year or more earlier than that. The fact that the labor of computing the precise date of its return is already about to begin gives assurance that the next time it will not be a question of how many days but rather of how many hours or even minutes the calculation will be in error.

Pledges at the Mont de Piete.

A correspondent who interviewed the manager of the Monte de Piete, or big pawnshop of Paris, has published a rather curious list of various articles pledged during the year. The most popular among them were bed sheets, of which 91,194 pairs were pledged; there were 549 eider-down quilts, 254 fans, 382 boxes of mathematical instruments, 1,722 saucers, 460 sewing machines, 57 pianos, and 977 looking glasses.—Exchange.

A correspondent of the Indiana Farmer says: "To protect fruit trees from caterpillars take axle grease tar, or any other waxy substance, and apply on the limbs above the forks of the trees, and worms cannot cross and therefore will starve to death or drop off and not harm the tree. This is a cheap remedy for small trees, just beginning to bear."

Would that plenty would vie with poverty in remembering the poor.

CONVENTIONS.
Republican State, Omaha, Aug. 22.
Populist State, Grand Island Aug. 25.
There have been an unusual number of disastrous fires during the past week throughout the country.
W. H. Needham of Knox County is a candidate for State Senator. The HERALD trusts that success will crown his efforts.
Wayne has a lawyer (?) who aspires to the office of county attorney and his politics will fluctuate accordingly—it has somewhat already.
Anson A. Welch has been mentioned favorably by a large number of citizens as logical candidate for county attorney if he will accept the nomination at the hands of the republican county convention.
Henry Clews a little more than a year ago said: "the thing most needed to restore confidence is for congress to convene." He now says "the one thing the country now impatiently waits for, as a condition precedent to a more complete restoration of confidence is the adjournment of congress."
If democracy and its populist friends don't get a "swipe" this fall that will satisfy the people then we miss our prognostication. "Ge hue!" how the people do hanker for a vote and if democracy whatever that is thinks its coming their way, let 'em think so, but oh! just for a chance to vote.
Mark the HERALD's prediction: If the populist convention of this congressional district nominates a populist for congressman the democratic convention will not endorse him no matter who he is. Please bear this in mind. Neither will the democrats be able to deliver the goods in this representative or senatorial district, they will promise for support for Judge Robinson.
If there was anything at all wrong with the McKinley tariff bill it was because the rate of duties were not high enough. The same thing existed in '73 and '74, and democrats refer to '73 as a period of hard times under a republican administration and also how about—some of them the demonization of silver when there hadn't been a silver dollar coined for five years prior to the act.
The republicans of Arkansas are going to fuse with the populists on a state ticket. McNeal of Wayne should be sent down at once to show them the folly of such an action. Of course he would show the poor pops just how the G. O. P. would get pie and they the crust.
Pender Times.
The Times and Murray are "off" again as usual. The Republicans of Arkansas refused to affiliate with the pops. Fusing is a democratic principle and there are not many principles of democracy that republicans are borrowing just at present. Cleveland, Hill and the cuckoos like Murray of Pender, are about all there is left of democracy.

The Chinese and the Japanese.
We are a long way from China and Japan, and as a people we have not shown the highest respect for either nation. But Americans will make a grave mistake if they assume that a war between those two nations will not be a serious affair.

The Chinese and Japanese are both warlike people, and both nations have devoted much attention to modern warfare. They have studied the armament of Western nations, and have had the advantage of Western military officers in equipping and drilling their men.
China is one of the most populous countries on the globe, and with 400,000,000 population the Emperor could raise an innumerable army to take the field. But men are not all. China may be backward in many lines of civilization, but in military equipment that nation has taken advantage of the advancement made by Western nations. Within the last fifteen years China has secured a considerable fleet, and many of her most powerful ships were built in European yards.
The north coast squadron consists of four barbette sea-going armor-clads, three deck-protected cruisers, four torpedo cruisers, a torpedo flotilla, and eleven gunboats. The Foo Chow squadron has ten cruisers, nine dispatch boats and three revenue cruisers; the Shanghai flotilla, an armored frigate, a gunboat six floating batteries, and three transports; and the Canton flotilla, three deck-protected cruisers and thirteen gunboats. With millions of men, modern arms, and a modern navy, China is well equipped to go to war and continue it at such a sacrifice of life as few countries could long endure.

Japan also has a large army, well drilled by European and American officers, equipped with the best of modern arms and aided by a navy of remarkable power. Her modern ships are of steel, built in Europe and Japan under the direction of European skilled ship-builders. The navy of Japan is regarded as superior to that of China, but the island empire cannot compete with China in men to supply its armies.
Both are proud and powerful nations, and a war between them will not be a trifling affair. It would cost thousands of lives, probably close ports of large commerce, and be felt by the whole civilized world. It is no longer possible for America to lightly dismiss a war between Oriental countries as a matter that has no concern for this Nation. No great nations can now go to war without affecting our trade and our interests, which extend to the uttermost parts of the earth. This is one of the responsibilities of greatness, and America, as the greatest of nations, must suffer from a war in any part of the world. Inter Ocean.

The Wayne Democrat reiterates its charge made two weeks ago that the Call is trying to "delude the people." Now Mr. Democrat we are not trying to do anything of the kind. We are placing FACTS before the people and are not trying to mislead them as the party to which you belong has been trying to do from 1861 to the present day. We gave the total amount of MONEY in the treasury at the end of Cleveland's administration and Gen. Harrison's administration—not bonds deposited by national banks or gold or silver bullion, but MONEY. It also includes the "surplus," in fact the heading says "The amount of all kinds of money in the treasury." If the "depleted surplus" had been in another column, Mr. Carlisle would have mentioned the fact. You know there was a large surplus in the treasury when Gen. Harrison stepped out, and so does every Democrat that can read. The howl of a bankrupt treasury is a Democratic howl—a Democratic lie, and you can't expect any more from them, for they were never known to tell the truth. You say the "amount in the treasury never varies." We find in Secretary Carlisle's report that in March, 1893, there were $746,813,780. In September, of the same year there were $702,394,878—a deficit of $44,478,908. Does that look as if the "money in the treasury never varies?" Let us see you try to wriggle around that fact. In March, 1893, there were $218,378,233 of gold money in the treasury. In September, of the same year, there were $173,209,771 of gold in the treasury—a deficit of $45,168,462. Does that look as if the "money in the treasury never varies?" You must be "talking through your hat," Mr. Democrat. You should read the clipping, entitled "The story of a year," taken from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, which was published in last week's CALL and maybe it will pull the wool off your eyes so that you can see yourself as others see you.
Pierce Call.

The certain way to defeat Meiklejohn is for the farmers and business men and the laborers and all the people of the Third district who are opposed to Meiklejohn to put their votes together and elect a man who will fairly represent that district. World Herald.
Yes, for instance a man like Kern! The World Herald is noted for its wonderful facilities in dishing out advice. No one will question its ability in the line. It has sit astraddle of every known fence, and sits about there to-day. Take the World Herald and our own, Randall and there you have 'em "all in one lump sum".

The People Must be Heard.
Threatened Free-Trade, during the present Administration, has caused the most general depression and actual suffering known in a generation. Depreciation in values and lessened employment, the like of which has been seldom, if ever, known, followed the Free-Trade verdict of 1892. During this period of suspense awaiting foreign industrial invasion, the Free-Trade Wilson bill has reached its last stage of decomposition or power for destruction. The most careful legislators at Washington admit that the Wilson bill can be defeated, but add "it will probably pass."
Members of Congress to-day need the moral support of every true American who believes in the policy of Protection. THE AMERICAN PROTECTIVE TARIFF LEAGUE calls upon every friend to immediately urge the Members of the House of Representatives and United States Senators at Washington, that pending Tariff legislation be defeated or delayed until the people can give their instructions by their votes. Nominations are already made in many Congressional Districts, and, November 7, the people will decide whether they want Free-Trade and poverty or Protection and prosperity. The people must be heard.—American Economist.

Nebraska Republican Clubs
"I would esteem it an especial favor if every republican club in Nebraska would forward me at the earliest possible moment the following information:
"First—The name of its organization.
"Second—The chief officers of the same.
"Third—The aggregate enrolled membership of the same.
"Fourth—The name of some member of the league of your county whom your club would prefer to act as county organizer of the state league for your county.
"For this office no person should be named who is not an uncompromising republican, an indefatigable worker, an able organizer, and willing to contribute liberally of his time for the good of the party. In other words, in every county we want the right man, if he can be found, and we believe that he can be.
"I expect to be largely governed by the weight of opinions received as to this important position.
"Trusting that no republican club will fail to respond without delay, and that each of the above questions may be carefully answered, I am very earnestly yours,
F. W. COLLINS,
President Nebr. Republican League,
"Lincoln, Nebr."

A bill for the restriction of foreign immigration has been introduced by Congressman Meiklejohn, the salient point of which is that $100 shall be paid by every alien immigrant who shall come by steam or sail vessel from a foreign port to any port within the United States. A large and undesirable class of people will be shut out should this bill become a law, and there will be less of the red flag of anarchy and contagion that is brought to this country because of the cheap passage rates. The bill of Congressman Meiklejohn is a stroke in the right direction. Let the good work go on. People who are today the principle factors of the downfall of the American labor, a menace to the foundation of our government, and who undermine our social institutions, should be refused access to this country, let the cost be what it may.

The question has been politely asked "Who is delaying and obstructing congress now?"

FIRE FIEND'S FURY.

THREE TOWNS SWEEPED WITH THE BESOM OF DESTRUCTION.

Phillips, Wis., and Belle Plaine and Brooklyn, Iowa, Almost Annihilated—Thirteen Lives Known to Have Been Lost—An Unprecedented Disaster.

A Day of Horrors.

Thirty-nine buildings out of 700 stand amid smoke and ashes on the site of what was Friday the flourishing city of Phillips, Wis., the county seat of Price County, and one of the wealthiest and most prosperous of all the towns in the timber regions of Wisconsin. Three thousand people are homeless, and, except those who have been offered shelter in the neighboring towns, have no covering for their worn-out bodies. Worse than all, at least thirteen people are known to have lost their lives. The dead are: James Locke, butcher, wife and five children; Frank Ciska, in charge of the dry kilns of the John K. Davis Lumber Company, and 2-year-old child; Mrs. David Bryde, wife of the foreman of the Fayette saw factory, and two children. Mr. Bryde was also supposed to have died, but returned home that night, having been away from the city, only to hear that his family had perished.

All the dead were drowned in Elk Lake while trying to escape from the fire, except the unknown man whose body was found in the ruins of the house of F. W. Sackett, editor of the Phillips Times.

MAP SHOWING LOCATION OF FOREST FIRES.

The property loss cannot at this time be accurately estimated, but it will reach at least $1,250,000. The immense plant of the John R. Davis Lumber Company is a total loss, amounting to between $500,000 and $600,000. On this property there is an insurance equal to at least four-fifths the value of the plant. Of the rest of the city about half the property was insured. Many of the poorer people carried no insurance on their homes, and they have lost everything. There were many fine business blocks and private residences in the city, and every one was burned to the ground. Many of the residences cost upward of $3,000, and were handsome even for a Northern Wisconsin city.

Not since the cyclone of fire that wiped out the existence of the village of Peshtigo, when many people were burned to death, has there been a holocaust of the character of this one. Four gales of fire following each other, as soon as one had accomplished its work of destruction, cut four swaths through the city, leaving standing only the Lutheran church and some dwelling near the southern limits, and freakish jumping over the Wooster Town Hall and a group of dwellings in the very heart of the burned district.

A system of water works, which would ordinarily be ample protection against the blazing forests, was rendered useless by the burning of the pumping station in the first fire.

Relief come in the provisions consisting of bread, butter, coffee and canned articles had been received from Fifield, Prentice, Dorchester, Medford and Butternut. To grams were received from the mayors of Ashland and Stevens Point. The former telegraphed that he would send what was wanted, and a man was at once sent to superintend the shipment. Stevens Point sent a car-load of provisions. Saturday night eight car-loads of provisions had been received. Major Upham, who has had experience with the terrors of fire, telegraphed that relief was on the way from Marshallfield as soon as he arrived home from Milwaukee.

Governor Peck sent the following message from Oconomowoc: "Will bring you relief as soon as possible. Wire me at Oconomowoc. Keep a stiff upper lip. We are coming as soon as cars can run." A telegram was sent to the Governor in reply, asking him to send blankets and tents, together with mess tents, for 1,000 people. In response to this the Governor telegraphed that there were no tents available at present, but that he would be there in the morning with sheathing, hammers and nails, and to be ready to begin the construction of temporary quarters.

Central, sent the following telegram to all officers and agents:

You have heard of the disaster that has overtaken Phillips and other points on our line. Use your best efforts to get together supplies that will be immediately useful and forward them to meet the emergency. All supplies consigned to the authorized relief committee will be transported free, and you will give preference over other freight. If necessary, send supplies on passenger trains to meet immediate wants.

People Have Been Courageous.

In the face of the calamity that has befallen the people of Phillips they have manifested a courage that is remarkable, and have really seemed in good spirits. Every effort put forth has been to care for the immediate wants of the unfortunate. Mayor Koch of Milwaukee headed a fund with $100, and $500 city funds were temporarily used. Eau Claire, Wausau, and Chippewa Falls were among those contributing liberally of cash.

IOWA TOWNS SUFFER.

Belle Plaine and Brooklyn Lose Upward of Half a Million.

A fire which started in a Belle Plaine, Iowa, blacksmith shop, on Saturday afternoon resulted in the nearly total destruction of the business part of town, only three buildings remaining. The loss is estimated at $500,000, with perhaps insurance amounting to $200,000. The flames, owing to the buildings being very dry, were soon beyond control. From Knott's livery stable the flames leaped across the street into another livery stable and the engine house and spread up the main street west to the Henry Hotel; then across the street into a billiard hall, and continuing east engulfed the entire business part of the city, leaving ruin and ashes in its wake.

It was a terribly fierce fire, and with one engine, hook and ladder truck, hose carts, and other apparatus noting could be done to check the flames which speeded from building to building with great rapidity. People living in the upper stories of buildings were compelled to flee for their lives, and in one instance the family of John B. Leicht were rescued from the second story of the drug store of Vanmeter & Co. by means of ladders, so fast was the spread of the flames.

Brooklyn, Iowa, Stricken. A disastrous fire broke out in Wood & Kibby's furniture and undertaking establishment at Brooklyn, Iowa, Saturday morning, and in two hours every business building on Front and Jackson streets was in ruins, including the Chronicle office, the postoffice, and the opera house. The loss is over $150,000 and the insurance nearly $80,000. The National and Niagara Insurance Companies are the heaviest losers. Others are the Continental, Home, Hartford, Farmers' Council, Capital, North British, Etzas, and Phoenix.

The following are the losses, with the amount of insurance carried: Brooklyn Chronicle, $5,000, partly insured; Butts' barber shop $100, no insurance; Wood & Kibby $3,000, insurance $1,500; Drs. Conway and Busby $1,000, no insurance; Scott, Reed & Scott $300, no insurance; Poweshiek county Bank $3,500, insurance $2,300; Boston Clothing House $5,000, insurance $3,000; Postoffice $2,500, insurance $1,500; J. H. Wood $1,000, insurance $800; Rayburn & Lee $1,800, insurance $1,500; Dr. A. C. Luedes $150, insured; Charles West $700, insured; J. Talbot $500, insured; C. T. Rainsburg $700, insurance $3,500; Leonard Bros. $10,000, insurance $7,000; William Hankey $12,000, insurance $8,000; Graham Bros. $4,000, insurance $4,500; Dr. A. E. Anger $1,000, insurance $600; L. O. O. F. hall $10,000, insurance $6,200; George Kraft $3,000, by damage; Carr Bros. $1,000, insurance $1,000; J. W. Johnson $8,000, partly insured; Mills' variety store $2,000, insurance $800; Mustapher & Butts $1,000, no insurance; F. P. Shrader $5,000, insurance $3,500; W. L. Paul $800, insurance $600; I. L. Drake $15, insured; Will Manant $6,000, no insurance; Phil Kilmer $1,000, insured; Wood & Derrance $3,000, partly insured; Elbert Bank $100, insured; Sterling & Talbot building $100, insured; Sewers building $200, insured; Boughton, jeweler, $50, insured; E. R. Bizelew $400, insured; Westley Manitt $4,000, no insurance.

TWO MILES east of Eau Claire, I. T. Samuel Eckstein and Billy Narcome, two reeks, shot and instantly killed Frank Hawkins. A reward of $500 was offered for his body.

WAR OPENS IN COREA

COREANS ATTACK THE JAPANESE AND MEET DEFEAT.

Hostilities Begun Under the Direct Instigation of the Chinese—Japanese Cruiser Sinks a Chinese Transport in an Engagement.

Other Nations Concerned. Oriental civilization is to be put to the test of modern warfare, and before they are through, Russia, France, Germany, and England herself may be involved. Trade rivalry will have something to do with it, but territorial extension more. A dispatch received from Nagasaki, on the southwest side of the Island of Kio-Sioo, Japan, says that a detachment of Korean troops, at the instigation of the Chinese resident, attacked the Japanese garrison and were defeated. A later telegram says that a Japanese cruiser and a Chinese transport have been engaged, and that the cruiser sunk the transport. The British consul has received a telegram from the British charge d'affaires at Tokio stating that the Japanese have undertaken to regard Shanghai as outside of the sphere of operations. A special to Blocher's News Agency from Yokohama states that the Koreans and Chinese engaged in a battle with Chinese rebels, and a large number were killed. It is reported that the Korean king has been kidnaped by the Japanese. The Chinese Consul at Nagasaki has ordered all Chinese to leave their homes. Eight Japanese and three Chinese men-of-war and 20,000 troops are at Junzen.

So far as the case has been presented to American readers Japan has the set or side. Korea is the cause of the prospective war, and her commercial interests in the hermit kingdom are paramount. She has many of her subjects there, and the trade is largely in Japanese hands. She has a further grievance in the protection given to assassination by Chinese officials. China, on her part, has the claim, centuries old, of Korean vassalage. She can't let her vassal be invaded and subdued by another country, even though the dependency of Korea has been a tradition rather than a condition. China is the more powerful in numbers. Her soldiers are well equipped. Her people are the more warlike. But Japan has the better navy. She has also the benefit of western ideas in her navy. She would be the quicker to utilize all modern inventions of warfare, and the opinion of military experts is that the nation which is quickest to avail itself of these inventions is sure to win.

Japan was the first of the Asiatic nations to open her doors to western ideas. She encouraged intercourse. China is still closed except at a few ports. Her trade and commerce are undeveloped. The empire is less homogeneous than Japan. But she has her great chancellor, the Bismarck of the East, who will undoubtedly be able to have other nations fight Chinese battles. So it may be that the speck on the Oriental horizon will darken the European skies, and the long-postponed war, which will determine the strength of the triple alliance and place Russia and France side by side in the battlefield, may even now be rumbling in the East.

Cause of the Trouble.

A few weeks ago Japan demanded that China join her in imposing fiscal reform upon the country and in the correction of political abuses, so as to do away with the periodical insurrections that completely upset the country and inflict great annoyance and damage upon the people engaged there. This seems to be a progressive and a laudable idea, but conservative and suspicious China declined the proposal, with thanks. Her answer was that it is her traditional policy not to interfere forcibly in the internal affairs of a vassal state. Thereupon Japan replied that if China would not help her in this plan she would undertake the task herself. It is this new phase of Korean affairs that may lead to ugly complications, and make the Pacific border of Asia for awhile an object of particular attention to all the nations.

At this point Russia thought it timely to make a few remarks. She warned Japan that she would not be permitted to acquire territorial rights in Korea. Russia likes to include this fine peninsula in her Asiatic domain. Korea would give her the strategic and commercial position on the Pacific which the ice-bound northern coast does not afford.

CORN IS PARCHED.

Crops of All Kinds in Need of Rain—Wheat Yield Is Good.

The report of the United States weather bureau on the condition of crops, harvest, etc., throughout the country for the week shows that in many sections, notably Iowa, Minne-

ta, South Dakota, North Dakota, corn is suffering for rain, and in these and other sections fruit and late crops have been damaged by the storm.

Wheat, in the main did not fail fairly well, except Illinois, where the quality is good and the yield the largest in years. The report as sent out by the Chicago station is as follows:

Indiana—Hot and dry until Friday, when a heavy rain fell, benefiting corn in many belts; wheat and rye, oats and hay harvest continues with good yields.

Illinois—Rainfall except in a few sections, the normal, and badly distributed; temperature below normal and sunshine normal; where rain fell crop conditions improved; wheat yield and quality best in years; oats and rye harvest about over; more rain is needed.

Wisconsin—Drought continues, though partly broken by light showers; wheat, rye and barley crops in fair condition; crop light except early sown, which will average well; pastures burned up and potatoes suffering severely from drought. Merit was damaged by the storm; the thermometer ranging from 105 to 103 in the shade.

Iowa—Drought continues unabated; corn in better condition and damaged in some districts; stock suffering for food and water.

Minnesota—Warmer than usual, with unsteady drought, injuring corn, potatoes and pasture; wheat and rye harvest begun, and barley has had out harvest progressing with a yield rather light generally.

North Dakota—Except in western and a few eastern counties all crops injured, some permanently, by high temperature and dry atmosphere; some rye still in ground; wheat harvest advanced; berry good, yield light.

Kansas—Conditions generally favorable to corn, apples, melons and pastures; wheat of winter and oats in good yield; fair, with good berry; pasture hay being cut, quality good, yield fine.

Oklahoma—Temperature and sunshine normal; wheat and oats in good yield; have improved most crops; corn generally very poor, but cotton magnificent; melons and vegetables in abundance; grass and pastures poor.

Arkansas—Went excessively dry and all vegetation has suffered severely; corn seriously injured everywhere and many fields ruined.

Oklahoma suffered seriously from the drought, but reviving from rains; hay crop completed, with light yield secured in fine condition; oat harvest well advanced, but yield of winter wheat and oats promising out with large yield; late potatoes, tobacco and young clover and pastures damaged.

Missouri—Good showers in central and southern sections greatly benefited corn; in other sections drought continues, pastures failing, water scarce, and unless rain comes soon much corn will be ruined; crop light, but secured in good condition.

Michigan—Temperature and sunshine above normal, rainfall below; excessively dry and hot, but in some sections potatoes, garden truck and pastures; drought broken by general rain, which revived vegetation somewhat, but more needed; wheat cut and oats in good yield.

Arkansas—Weather favorable in all but northern portion, where crops are heading; cotton forming and fruiting well and have most excellent prospects; corn much improved and potatoes in good yield; late potatoes fine and second crop of Irish potatoes planted.

Kentucky—Cloudy and cool; drought broken by heavy rain; corn in good yield; the week's crop generally improved and outlook for corn fine, but tobacco still backward; early potatoes very short; hay harvest completed, with very light yield; melons and pastures poor.

North Dakota—Everything suffering for rain; harvesting of rye and barley commenced and hay nearly finished, with light crop; corn doing very well.

SENATOR HILL IS SARCASTIC.

Compares the President's Opponents with Conspirator Against Caesar.

Another dramatic scene occurred in the Senate yesterday, but President Cleveland, instead of being, as on the previous day, the object of attack by the leader of his party was defended with vigor and vim. Mr. Cleveland's champion was his old political rival and enemy, Senator David Bennett Hill, of New York. The New York Senator spoke for almost a full hour. Several times the presiding officer was unable to restrain the enthusiasm his remarks evoked, notably when Mr. Hill declared that personal considerations would not prevent him from defending the President when he was unjustly attacked. He defended Mr. Cleveland's right to be elected, and made a point against his adversaries who he pointed out that they criticized the President for siding with the House when they admitted that they had used all their influence to induce him to interpose in behalf of the Senate amendments to the tariff bill.

He took up Mr. Gorman's argument and made it point by point in a manner satisfactory to himself, at least, and concluded with a piece of satire that stung those on the floor and tickled the galleries immeasurably. Mr. Gorman compared Mr. Hill to Iago. Mr. Hill likened those who had joined in the assault on Mr. Cleveland to the conspirators who stabbed Caesar to death at the foot of Pompey's statue in the Roman Senate.

TO INVESTIGATE THE STRIKE.

The United States Commissioner of Labor Is Chairman of the Commission.

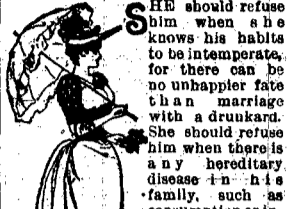

The chairman of the commission to investigate the recent strike is Carroll D. Wright, the United States Commissioner of Labor. Mr. Wright was born in Dunbart, N. H., in 1840. He received a good education at the Andover Normal School. Before finishing his studies he enlisted in the 14th New Hampshire Inf. He was made a lieutenant at Shenandoah Valley. In 1864 he received a commission as major in the 1st New Hampshire Inf. He was promoted to lieutenant colonel in the same regiment. He was discharged in 1865. He was appointed chief of the State bureau of statistics. While holding this office he received his present appointment. In 1870 he prepared an extensive report on the "Social System of the United States." This report attracted attention and made his reputation. His appointment as chief of the investigating committee gives universal satisfaction.

THOUGHTS FOR WOMEN OLD AND YOUNG.

A Type of True-hearted Woman—How to Make the Dining Room Attractive—Advice to a Girl Who Expects a Proposal—Feminine Gosip.

When She Should Say No.

She should refuse him when she knows his habits to be intemperate, for there can be no happier fate than a marriage with a drunkard. She should refuse him when there is a hereditary disease in his family, such as consumption or insanity, which would in all probability show itself and cause infinite misery in after years. She should refuse him when she sees he is in the habit of associating with bad companions, who may lead him into a gambling, drinking, and card-playing life. She should refuse him when she knows him to be that despicable thing, a male flirt; she should reflect that, as he has treated other girls so he may treat herself, and no woman cares to lay herself open to such treatment. She should refuse him when she feels she has no love to give him, and not marry, as many girls do, for a home. No marriage can be truly happy without love to sweeten the bonds. She should refuse him when he is proposing to her for her money or from pique. A girl can generally distinguish real love from feigned, and even if she cares for him should not accept him until convinced his motives are disinterested. She should not refuse him when she really cares for him and knows him to be a steady, faithful man, who will make her happy and not cause her heartbreaks, which, perhaps, one of her more brilliant lovers might have done.

Have Your Table Dainty.

It goes without saying that daintiness upon the dining table is regarded as a necessity in every well-ordered home. The two or three daily meals are often the only occasions when the entire household gathers together, and the mother knows that a prettily arranged table is really a powerful factor in forming the characters and habits of her children. Absolute cleanliness is, of course, the first essential. The cloth must be spotless and smoothly laid, the napkins must be neatly folded, and the glass and silver must be bright and sparkling. Good housekeepers nowadays place a pad beneath the tablecloth. This protects the cloth from contact with the table, greatly increasing its durability, and it insures perfect quiet and an elegant adjustment of the cloth. The use of "table millinery"—that is, strips of ribbon, plush or velvet and other decorations of a similar nature—is no longer approved, so that even at the most elegant dinners the trow of flowers in the center of the table is often the only ornament.

No rich dishes or accessories are seen upon the strictly modern table. The silver caster may be very beautiful in itself, but it has had its day. In its place small pepper and salt "shakers" are distributed at convenient intervals, two of each being sufficient for a family of six, while vinegar is placed in low glass bottles shapely like fancy pitchers with handles, long, slender necks, and large, ornamental glass stoppers. These bottles should not be more than three inches tall. Tall colory glasses are also in disrepute, as are also the silver water pitcher and high vases of flowers and tall flowering plants. The modern table is not disfigured by mats, which are never really ornamental, and are wholly unnecessary if a pad is used and the dishes are not heated.

Glass carafes are at present used instead of the water pitcher, and add much to the beauty of the table. They are by no means expensive, and those that have rather squat, broad bowls are to be preferred. Perhaps the most popular shape is that which looks as though pressure had been put upon the top and the bowl thereby bulged outward.—Delineator.

The Lords of Creation.

It is always amusing and at the same time very pathetically suggestive of masculine vanity to hear a woman who becomes his wife must be. It matters not to this person that this creature to be so honored may have a word or two to say concerning the type of life partner she would select. Oh, dear, no. A woman has no voice in the matter. Any man is sufficiently perfect to fill the roll of husband—that is, according to the egotistical view of life taken by the lords of creation.

A man, no matter whether he is lame, halt, or blind; a man, no matter whether he is able to earn his salt or not, always sets up an ideal that is to be his some day for the asking. He candidly admits that he may have to search a long while or her, because perfect women are so hard to find, but once he meets with this jewel she will at once fall into his arms, never questioning whether a little evening up of accounts would not be preferable to the one-sided perfection he demands.

So many men talk in this silly fashion that when a woman comes across one who reverences her sex in this entirety, regarding all woman-kind as so much better, nobler, and lovelier than man ever could be to her, she has no hesitancy in declaring that individual the one who she sincerely admires. It is such nonsense for the average man to praise perfect beauty of face, form and character as the requisites a wife of his must possess to win his fancy. He may think that he will not love until this ideal is found, but love is blind, and when once he meets the woman who pleases him it will not matter whether she possesses even one of the attributes that he declared were requisite. The perfect is not man's motto of perfection; he is himself, for all the talking, and the world would never convince outsiders that he possessed even a tith of the virtues he talks so glibly about.

Feminine Gosip.

Mrs. DANDRIDGE, the only surviving daughter of Zachary Taylor, has the widow of Gen. Boulanger intends, it is said, to spend the remainder of her life in the French colony at Tunis.

QUEEN VICTORIA is said to be a very bad speller and addicted to the habit of writing illegibly to hide errors in orthography.

LADY LANSDOWNE has presented a handsome silver medal to the Ladies Golf Club of Calcutta, of which she was formerly President.

Mrs. STEPHEN COOMBS of Rockport, Me., who is 93 years old, spun sixty-two skeins of yarn last winter and carded one fleece of wool.

MISS DR. HAMILTON of England, who is doctering the Ameer's family in Cabul, has a guard of natives to look after her. The Indian Government has disowned all responsibility for her safety.

SEVENTY-FIVE girls employed as waitresses in the Toledo (O.) restaurant struck rather than wear caps. They had submitted to various other regulations, but thought this order capped the climax.

Mrs. HENRY WARD BEECHER says in regard to woman suffrage: "I am unalterably opposed to woman suffrage. I cannot understand why women will not be satisfied with being women, without aspiring to man's estate."

There is one type of true-hearted, unselfish woman whom the world does not know how to appreciate at her full value. She is the plain sister in a family of pretty daughters. The fact that she is not a beauty is regarded by the handsome mother as a personal grievance and by the better looking sisters as an excuse for palming off on to her slender shoulders all the disagreeable burdens that they think are not necessary for butterflies to assume. Instead of being given the best in the way of clothing, in order that the meet of good looks which she possesses may be enhanced or any actually unpleasant physical defects may be hidden thereby, the ugly duckling is obliged to take the cast off garments of the favored one and wear them whether they are becoming or not.

When invitations come and the checker is rather slim the plain one remains at home, while the dainty, pretty creatures of good fortune are rigged out in new clothes and sent forth to enjoy the light and the music, while poor Cinderella remains behind in a chaos of ribbons, discarded shoes and heterogeneous toilet articles that she must straighten up before the belles return from the ball.

She is always expected to perform the services of maid, to be ever ready to wait on the others, preparing the goodies when company is expected, but never requested to join in the festivities she has slaved so hard to make a success. Sometimes a sensible man recognizes the worth of this youthful martyr and bears her away to a new home before the prettier ones have recovered from their astonishment at having been overlooked, but in too many cases the genuine beauty of character is hidden and unrecognized behind the flaunting, over-winding presence of beauty, face and form.—Philadelphia Times.

Fitting Up a Room. The side walls lighter than the floor, or floor covering, and the ceiling lighter than the side walls, is a rule used by decorators in fitting up a room. One coloring in varying shades is often chosen for the color scheme, and the contrast is introduced in the furniture, pillows, pictures, vases, and other objects necessary to the comfort or beauty of a room. Plain surfaces are artistic for floor covering, though to the housekeeper they are often objectionable, because they show dust more plainly than a surface covered by some sort of a pattern. When a patterned carpet or rug is used, let it be covered with anything except natural looking flowers and leaves, which one dislikes to tread upon, which will not be ignored, and which draw one's mind from the really attractive things in a room. Those who dislike walls with plain surfaces, which certainly are monotonous and unattractive unless the spaces are frequently broken by pictures, should select coverings having the lighter color for a background, patterned with a medium or darker shade of the same color. As the hangings form a part of the wall, they should also be somewhat lighter than the floor covering.—New York Mail and Express.

The Fox and the Mask.

A Fox entered the house of an Actor, and running through all his properties came upon a Mask, an admirable imitation of a human head. He placed his paws on it and said, "What a beautiful head, see it is of no value, as it entirely ways brain!"

A fair face is of little use without sense.

"Hello, Sam, what are you doing?" said a Blaine caller, who looked into the open door of the sanctum, where Damascus Blaine was sitting at his desk, evidently enjoying himself at his work.

"Building a pyramid," he said.

"What kind of a pyramid?"

"Oh, a pyramid of the states which, by the spring elections, so far have shown their disgust at the Wilson bill and other tendencies toward free trade manifested by the Democratic party."

"Well, how do you make it?"

"It's dead easy. Look at it."

And he showed over the paper, on which the following appeared:

The Leslie Blue Boys paid a visit to Wakefield last Saturday to play a game of ball with the Wakefield Seabs. They got together in the afternoon and played, the score standing, Blue Boys 23, Seabs 14. The Blue Boys only played eight innings and the Seabs were whitewashed five times. After the game was over the Seabs marched away in single file, looking like a funeral procession.
