The Melcher boys of Stanton, are in town this week cleaning wait paper. They are getting considerable business and are doing good work.

The citizens east of Main street speak of a beautiful aroma which arises from the stock yards south of the track, as the wind from the south blows it northward with vehemence.

Dr. W. A. Ivory will have charge of the Y. M. C. A. meeting next Sunday. Mr. Ivory has been traveling in Europe the past year and his talk will be on impressions received during the trip. It will be an interesting meeting. Come out.

Last Sunday the attendance at the Methodist Sunday school was 202. This is a large attendance and goes to show that a new church is almost a necessity. It is rather difficult to properly look after so many Sunday school scholars in a building the size of the one now used.

If you have any idea that we will get too much rain disabuse your mind at once. We can stand every month as much as we fell through the month of April, and have crops that will lay in the shade any crop ever before raised in the county, and that's what Wayne county is going to get this year—the best crop in her history.

Monday evening the old city council met and wound up the business of the year and it is but justice to them to say that the affairs of the city have been wisely administered for the past twelve months, and also that as mayor Thos. W. Moran has been a credit to the city from every standpoint, while the retiring officers Nathan Chace clerk, and F. L. Neely treasurer, have well performed their duty. The Herald predicts for the new council equal success in the management of the city's business. Mr. Stringer, the newly elected mayor, will no doubt, do everything in his power to advance the city's interests without listening to the twaddle of people who have nothing else to do but sing a song of nonsense. The new councilmen C. O. Fisher and Sim Richardson may be depended upon to use their best judgment where the city's interests are concerned and not for "polity's sake."

The cantata of Queen Esther will be presented next Thursday evening instead of Monday as first announced. Remember the date and be sure to attend.

At five o'clock yesterday the saloons of O. H. Burson and Kruger & Mildner reopened, after having been closed for two days waiting for the publication of the new ordinances.

The Marshal has been instructed to collect the dog tax according to the original ordinance which is $3 and $5. All parties owning dogs are requested to look after the matter at once.

The question presents itself, and very naturally too, why do people sign remonstrances against granting saloon licenses and then in the face of it ask that half of the license be placed for the use of the schools? "Oh, consistency, thou art a jewel!"

E. Beaumont King finished a very satisfactory term of school in the Henry Ankeny district last Friday, and on Saturday morning departed for Clarks Neb, where he has been engaged to give an entertainment. Mr. King will devote his whole time and attention to the entertainment.—Laurel Advocate.

The entertainment presented at the Presbyterian church last Friday evening by the Chicago Ladies Quartette was superior to any entertainment ever given in the city. The singing would have fit the ear of the most refined critic, while the impersonations of Miss Nettie Jackson were decidedly pleasing to the audience.

"David the Shepherd Boy" was presented at the opera house last Thursday evening, and those who came out in the mud and rain to hear the entertainment were more than repaid for their trouble. The solos, duettes, trios, quartettes, choruses, etc., were all excellent, and Prof. Keller is certainly to be congratulated on the manner in which the cantata was rendered.

The ice cream supper to have been served by the young people of the Baptist church last Friday evening was postponed on account of the weather until next Friday evening, May 8th. At that time they will serve ice cream and cake for 10 cents and strawberries and cake for 10 cents. Remember the time and place, Friday evening from 5 to 10, three doors north of Furchner Duerig & Co's store.

The old council met Monday evening and finished up their business for the past year and swore in the new members of the new council. Mayor Stringer appointed the following committees for the ensuing year: street and alley, Olmsted, Fisher and Volpp; Finance, Main, Piepenstock and Richards; Water, Piepenstock, Volpp and Main. George Miner was re-appointed chief of police and P. Coyle, water commissioner. Two new ordinances were introduced and passed. No. 91 fixes the occupation tax at $750 instead of $800 as last year and raises the license on shows of the first, second and third class. Ordinance No. 92 fixes the liquor licenses at $750 each instead of $500 as has been the custom heretofore. This was done for the purpose of assisting the school district which is in need of money. Petitions for the granting of licenses to three saloons were read, also a remonstrance against granting licenses to the saloons. Committees were appointed to investigate the petitions for saloons and also the bonds of the parties asking for licenses.

The marshal was instructed to notify the parties presenting the remonstrance to meet with the council Tuesday evening and show cause why saloon licenses should not be granted. The council met in adjourned session Tuesday evening. The reports of the treasurer, clerk and water commissioner were referred to the finance committee. The remonstrance against granting saloon licenses was voted down and licenses were ordered issued to O. H. Burson and Kruger & Mildner. The clerk was authorized to secure bids on lumber, hardware and printing for the ensuing year.

Ran Frazier shipped a special train of nine cars of cattle to Chicago last night. Gus Tracy went along to look after the cattle.

The attention of owners of bicycles is called to the new Rochester Combination Cleaning Rack, the finest thing in the market. For sale by the Phoenix Cycle Co.

According to reports Raymond Tracy was married to one of Wausa's fair maids Tuesday of this week. If this be true a host of Wayne friends will wish him a happy and prosperous married life.

The Woodmen gave the Royal Neighbors a hearty surprise Tuesday evening at the hall, which was greatly appreciated by the Neighbors. Ice cream and cake were very much in evidence and a royal good time was the effect resulting from the surprise.

Jacob Wingert expects to run the street sprinkler again this year and is ready to commence work whenever the merchants think it necessary. A large number thought it would be well to wait till June 1st, otherwise the sprinkler would be running now.

I wish to attract the attention of the Ladies to our late arrival of semi-porcelain dishes in white. It is a beauty and will please you; call and see it. Remember I carry the largest line of Crockery and Glassware to be found in this section of the state. P. L. Miller.

The annual meeting of the High School Alumni will be held at the residence of P. M. Corbit Saturday evening May 8th. An excellent program is being arranged and the members are doing all in their power to make the meeting one of the most pleasant ever held.

Landlord Beau, of the Hotel Boyd, Wayne, was observed hopping about the depot Monday morning. We surmise he was shadowing the culprit who attempted to reduce that hostility to ashes a few nights since while the guests were enjoying the peaceful realms of slumber, unmolested by his "bughip."—Emerson Times.

Randolph Times:—Dan Roush, one of the pioneers of Randolph, now of Wayne, passed through Randolph last week on his way to Bloomfield, where he and his brother have a contract for breaking some prairie. Dan has settled down in life, taken unto himself a wife and is one of the most highly respected citizens of Wayne. His old friends were exceedingly glad to see him.

The colonial reception and banquet of the M. P. F.'s was held at the home of Mrs. R. J. Armstrong on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The reception was complete and successful, and the well laid plans were fully carried out, and the members and the guests joined heartily in the pleasures of the evening. All appeared with hair dressed in old style, high shell combs and lace kerchiefs, in addition to their "molent" toilets. Some looked as though they had just stepped out of old family portraits. After seven games of whist had been played, a musical program was rendered. The singers were introduced by Mrs. A. F. Brenner with appropriate and complimentary remarks. The grand march was led by Mrs. Neely and Miss Lois Childs, who led the way to the dining and sitting room where tables were laid for refreshments. Mrs. Kortright won the club spoon, and Miss Maude Tucker the silver tray. All expressed themselves as having spent a delightful evening, and many were the compliments and good wishes for the future of the M. P. F.

History of Wayne County.

Miss White has this week commenced canvassing for the "History of Wayne County." The book will be published in elegant style as to paper, engravings printing and binding, and will give the past and present of the county, its settlement, growth and enterprises, its unrivalled advantages, its progressive cities and towns, together with notices and biographical sketches of citizens, portraits, views of residences, landscapes, etc. A similar history has been published for Dixon county, a copy of which Miss White will show as a sample of the kind of work to be done.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Andrew Watson was born in Paisley, Scotland in October, 1826. A portion of his boyhood days was spent in Ireland. In the year 1844 he came to America bringing with him a paper signed by the Presbyterian minister at Letterkenny, Ireland. This minister, (Andrew Sprat) has known him from infancy and speaks of his integrity and Christian character in the highest degree. He resided in New York for a few years, then moved to Galena, Ill. where he remained until the year 1849 when he went to California. In 1857 he returned to Galena, Ill. In 1858 he was married to Miss Sarah Hope. Five children were born to them, two sons and three daughters. Two of the daughters died in infancy. Mr. Watson and family spent a part of their lives in Virginia and Wisconsin before moving to Nebraska. They lived near Scribner, Neb., from 1885 to 1890. The remainder of his life has been spent with his family on his farm six miles north of Wayne, where he passed peacefully away May 5th, 1896. He has always been a devoted member of the Presbyterian church until he came to Nebraska, never uniting with the church in this state, but always remaining firm in his belief. All who knew him honored him for his integrity and honesty. His loss is deeply felt by his friends and neighbors.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Headquarters Grand Army of the Republic, Indianapolis, Ind., April 15th, 1896.

General Order No. 8.

1. The time is again at hand when inclination and duty call the Grand Army of the Republic to prepare for the solemn services of Memorial Day. In accordance with our rules and regulations, the thirtieth day of May is set apart for its reverent observance. This day is consecrated to the memory of our dead. It is the Nation's festival of remembrance, when a liberty loving and happy people, enjoying the blessings of peace and prosperity, cease from their labors and with grateful hearts pay loving tribute to the memory of brave men, who having finished their course with honor and crossed the star lit line, now rest peacefully under the shade of the trees on eternal camping grounds. Sweet be their sleep, un fading their glory, imperishable their fame. Cover the mounds above them with spring-time's richest offerings. Raise above them the Flag they loved. Let silvered age standing by their tombs feel that, with the dust of such men sleeping in our soil, the Republic will stand with its glory undimmed and its power unbroken. Let trusting childhood weave garlands for them, and at their graves receive inspiration that will keep them earnest in loyalty, pure in citizenship, and faithful to duty.

It has been our custom for years to gather in the churches of the land on the Sunday preceding Memorial Day for such reverent worship and instruction as becomes the occasion. We shall honor ourselves by a continuance of this custom as a fitting preparation for the solemn duties of the day, and invitations should be given to all soldiers, Sons of Veterans, Women's Relief Corps and citizens generally, to attend these services and unite with the Grand Army of the Republic in paying tribute to those who fell in defense of National duty.

2. The holding of patriotic services in the public schools on Friday preceding Memorial Day should be generally observed and Post Commanders will co-operate with the teachers and school officials in the performance of this duty. By command of
I. N. WALKER,
Commander-in-Chief.

In compliance with general order no. 8, issued at headquarters G. A. R., Indianapolis, Ind., April 15th, 1896, and general order no. 4, headquarters State House, department of Nebraska, Lincoln, accepted and complied with by Casey Post, No. 5, Department of Nebraska. Post commander Mark Stringer, appointed an executive committee to take full charge of all that pertains to Memorial day. Said committee have secured Rev. Theobald to deliver the Memorial sermon on May 24th, 1896, at the opera house, that being the Sunday previous. Also Judge Robertson of Norfolk, Nebraska, to make the only Memorial address, May 30th, 1896 at the opera house. He is said to be one of the best speakers in Northern Nebraska and by others the best that has ever come to Wayne on such an occasion—Judge Barnes says Robertson is the very best. Wayne has done herself proud by securing such a speaker.

All the Pastors and their congregations have kindly accepted our invitation to join with us in the Sabbath exercises, for which we feel thankful. The Wayne City Cornet Band have kindly given their services for that day.

One of Uncle Sam's Consuls.
 "A few months since," remarked a recently returned traveler, "I had occasion to hunt up the American vice consul at Luxor, on the Nile, in Egypt. He proved to be an Arab of probably Nubian blood, for he is as dark in color as the average colored man. He had never been out of Egypt in his life, could only speak Arabian and knew no more about the United States than the ordinary hog knows of Christmas. I had considerable fun, but could transact no business with him, for there was no one about the place who could talk anything but Arabian, and that was beyond me."

Extreme tired feeling afflicts nearly everybody at this season. The hustlers cease to push, the tireless grow weary, the energetic become enervated. You know just what we mean. Some men and women endeavor temporarily to overcome that

Tired

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken. When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first. No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

A MUSCATINE WOMAN

After Great Annoyance from Sciatic Rheumatism, at Last Finds Relief and to-day is Enjoying Full Use of Her Once Afflicted Limbs.

From the Journal, Muscatine, Iowa.
 On the second floor of one of our nearest business buildings, located at No. 123 West Front street, is the home of Constance and Mrs. M. G. Briggs, and it was visited to-day for the purpose of speaking to Mrs. Briggs on a question of considerable weight to her. The reporter upon calling found Mrs. Briggs a little indisposed and showed signs of the former complaint, but nevertheless in a very congenial mood. Upon inquiry as to the benefit she derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, she said:

"About eighteen months since I was taken down with sciatic rheumatism in my lower limbs, especially my right leg, and so fierce was the attack that I could not walk. After trying various remedies, all without avail, a lady neighbor of mine, Mrs. John Yoder, who, I think, is now living in Eldon, mentioned Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and said she had used them for similar trouble and had found them very beneficial. I purchased a box of pills at F. Nesper & Co.'s drug store, and before I had taken all of the first box I began to feel much improved and the pain began to ease. I continued to take them, buying a second box, and when I had nearly finished the second box I was able to walk about as ably as ever and have not had an attack since."
 I heartily endorse Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and feel confident that anyone afflicted as I was could be easily restored to their usual health by their use.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are a valuable agent for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of a gripe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Schenectady, N.Y.

How "the Butcher" Looks to a Correspondent.

"Weyler," says Elbert Rapplege, the well-known newspaper correspondent, "is one of those men who create a first impression, the first sight of whom never can be effaced from the mind, by whose presence the most careless observer is impressed instantly, and yet, taken all together, he is a man in whom the elements of greatness are concealed under a cloak of impenetrable obscurity. Inferior physically, unsoldierly in bearing, exhibiting no taste of reduced sensibilities nor pleasure in the genteel associations that others live for or at least seek as diversions, he is nevertheless the embodiment of mental acuteness, crafty, unscrupulous, fearless and of indomitable perseverance."

Then Mr. Rapplege proceeds to describe "the Butcher" of Cuba as he appeared the first time he saw him. "A little man. An apparition of blacks—black eyes, black hair, black beard, dark—exceedingly dark—complexion; a plain black attire, black shoes, black tie, a very dirty shirt and soiled standing collar, with no jewelry, and not a relief from the aspect of darkness anywhere on his person. He was alone, and was gazing facing the door I entered. He had taken a position in the very center of the room and seemed lost in its immense depths. It is capable of holding 400 people. Its vast marble floor is vacant of furniture, and its walls, of great height, are covered with portraits, larger than life, of the captains general of Cuba during 120 years. Voices echo in the cavernous chamber and the ancient personages looked down upon an invasion of their quarter almost as if they, too, were receiving, with the living picture, which will some day hang among them. It was like a stage-setting around this remarkable man."

"It is not remarkable that I momentarily hesitated to make certain that this was actually Weyler. Doubt was dispelled with a look at his face. His eyes, far apart, bright, alert and striking, took me in at a glance. His face seemed to run to chin, his lower jaw protruding far beyond any ordinary indication of firmness, persistence or will power. His forehead is neither high nor receding; neither is it that of a thoughtful or philosophic man. His ears are set far back, and what is called the region of intellect, in which are those mental attributes that might be denned as powers of observation, calculation, judgment and execution, is strongly developed. The conformation of his head, however, is not one that is generally accepted as an indication of any marked possession of philoprogenitiveness or its kindred emotions and inclinations. His nose is aquiline, bloodless and obtuse. When he speaks it is with a high nasal enunciation that is not disagreeable, because it is not prolonged; and his sentences justify every impression that has already been formed of the man. They were short, crisp, emphatic and expressive."

A Thoughtful Wife.
 The young physician was tired when he returned from his evening's calls, but as he settled back in his easy chair, and his pretty wife of only a month or two took a seat beside him, he asked affectionately:

"And has my little wife been lonely?" "Oh, no," she said animatedly; "at least, not very. I've found something to busy myself with."

"Indeed!" he said. "What is it?" "Oh, I'm organizing a class. A lot of young girls and married women are in it, and we're exchanging experiences and teaching each other how to cook."

"What do you do with the things you cook?" he asked interestedly. "Oh, we send them to the neighbors just to show what we can do. There's one lodging-house gets most of it. It's great fun."

"Dear little woman," he said, leaning over and kissing her. "Always thoughtful of your husband's practice. Always anxious to extend it."—Bangor Commercial.

An Accurate Diagnosis.

Children are, after all, your true impressionists, with undimmed perspicacity in taking original views of things. Small and hungry Jilla climbed to her seat at the ten table the other evening and exclaimed in most eager, delighted, exulting tones: "Oh, gelatine! We are going to have gelatine—I just like gelatine—but, mamma, what makes it so nervous?"

These stopped using soap, long ago.

This one stopped because—well, we'll have to guess why. Perhaps, because it gave him too much work to do. That's what everybody thinks, for that matter, when there's nothing but soap at hand, and there's a good deal of dirt to be removed from anything.

But this one stopped because she had found something better than soap—Pearline. Something easier, quicker, simpler, more economical. No rubbing to speak of, no wear—easy work and money saved, whether it's washing clothes, cleaning house, or any kind of washing and cleaning.

Cancer Of the Face.

Mrs. Laura E. Mims, of Dawson, Ga., says: "A small pimple of a strawberry color appeared on my cheek; it soon began to grow rapidly, notwithstanding all efforts to check it. My eye became terribly inflamed, and was so swollen that for quite a while I could not see. The doctors said I had Cancer of the most malignant type, and after exhausting their efforts without doing me any good, they gave up the case as hopeless. When informed that my father had died from the same disease, they said I must die, as hereditary Cancer was incurable. "At this crisis, I was advised to try S.S.S., and in a short while the Cancer began to discharge and continued to do so for three months, then it began to heal. I continued the medicine a while longer until the Cancer disappeared entirely. This was several years ago and there has been no return of the disease."

DON'T STOP TOBACCO.

How To Cure Yourself While Using It.

The tobacco habit grows on a man until his nervous system is seriously affected, impairing health, comfort and happiness. To quit suddenly is to sever a shock for the system, as tobacco to an inveterate user becomes a stimulant that his system continually craves. "Baco-Curo" is a scientific cure for the tobacco habit in all its forms, carefully compounded after the formula of an eminent Berlin physician who has used it in his private practice since 1872, without a failure. It is purely vegetable and guaranteed perfectly harmless. You can use all the tobacco you want, while taking "Baco-Curo." It will notify you when to stop. We give a written guarantee to cure permanently any case with three boxes, or refund the money with 10 per cent interest. "Baco-Curo" is not a substitute, but a scientific cure, that cures without the aid of will power and with no inconvenience. It leaves the system as pure and free from nicotine as the day you took your first chew or smoke. Cured By Baco-Curo and Gained 30 Pounds.

From hundreds of testimonials, the original of which are on file and open to inspection the following is presented. Clayton, Nevada Co., Ark., Jan. 28, 1885. Eureka Chemical & Mfg. Co., La Crosse, Wis.—Gentleman: For forty years I used tobacco in all its forms. For twenty-five years of that time I was a great sufferer from general debility and heart disease. For fifteen years I tried to quit, but couldn't. I took various remedies, among others "No-To-Bac," "The Indian Tobacco Antidote," "Double Chloride of Gold," etc., etc., but none of them did me the least bit of good. Finally, however, I purchased a box of your "Baco-Curo" and it has entirely cured me of the habit in all its forms, and I have increased thirty pounds in weight and am relieved from all the numerous aches and pains of body and mind. I could write a quire of paper upon my changed feelings and condition. Yours respectfully, E. H. MARRBY.

SOME PLAIN FACTS.

REVIEW OF DEMOCRATIC MANAGEMENT OF THE TREASURY.

National Prosperity Has Always Followed the Adoption of the Protection Policy, Free Trade Efforts Ever Accompanied by Disaster—Finances Failing.

The report of the secretary of the treasury for 1865 stated that on the 31st of October, 1865, the public debt, without deducting funds in the treasury, amounted to $2,808,549,487.55. Of this sum $1,144,072,100 was in 10-40 5 per cent and 5-20 6 per cent bonds, Pacific railroad 6 per cents, due in 1881, and 5 per cents, due in 1871, 1874 and 1880, the remainder being in temporary loans, treasury notes, compound interest notes, 7.30 notes and United States notes, one, two and three year notes and fractional currency.

The finance reports for 1868 state that the debt, less cash in the treasury, was $2,505,202,516.94.

The reports for 1871 state that the total decrease of the public debt from March 1, 1869, to Dec. 1, 1871, was $227,211,892.16. During the same period the annual interest had been reduced $16,741,436.04.

In the finance reports for 1873, on page 23, we find the following: "The country has exported during the 20 years ending with the last fiscal year gold and silver to the extent of more than $1,000,000,000 over and above the amount imported."

The finance reports for 1876, Secretary Morrill, show that on June 30, 1876, including accrued interest, less bonds issued to the Pacific railroad companies and less cash in the treasury, the public debt was $2,099,439,444.94, a reduction of the debt since Aug. 31, 1865, of $656,992,226.44, which was $223,144,011.07 more than was absolutely required by the sinking fund.

In his report for 1887 Secretary Manning said: "The grand total of $127,612,850 of 3 per cent bonds were retired in 1887, and after every possible obligation had been provided for the sum of $55,258,701.19 surplus was still in the treasury, which every day grows larger. A careful estimate shows that this sum will be increased to $140,000,000 at the end of this fiscal year under the operation of the present tariff and appropriation laws."

Secretary Manning further estimated that "the revenues by June 30, 1890, with the surplus revenue of 1889 and the surplus already accumulated, would be $228,000,000, which might be used in the next 18 months for the purchase of interest bearing debts."

This report was the last one made under Mr. Cleveland's first administration, and this showing was due to a Republican senate that would not reduce the duties on foreign imports, which a Democratic house had tried to secure.

In his report for 1889 Secretary Windom said: "The cash balance in the treasury, over and above all accrued liabilities, at the close of 1889 was $71,484,042.39. If to this balance there be added the estimated surplus for the current fiscal year, the amount that could be added to the purchase of bonds to June 30, 1890, will be $163,484,042.39."

Secretary Foster in his first report made the following statement: "The total reduction of the public debt, including amounts applied to the sinking fund, since Aug. 31, 1865, when the debt was at its highest point, aggregated $1,914,605,107.85, or $990,510,681.49 more than was required by the sinking fund act."

From the time the war closed in August, 1865, to the close of Benjamin Harrison's administration, a period of 23 years, the public debt was reduced at an annual average of $75,528,753, and in addition thereto the pension fund had been increased from about $16,347,656 to $134,583,052. The total interest bearing debt, as by Secretary Foster, was on Aug. 31, 1865, $2,881,530,294.96; on Aug. 31, 1892, it was only $685,029,330. According to these figures the interest bearing debt had been reduced $1,796,500,964.96 during 28 years under protection. Although the pension law called for from $130,000,000 to $134,000,000 annually from the treasury, yet President Harrison was able to reduce the public debt more than $61,000,000 yearly during his entire administration.

This was the condition of the treasury at the time of the election in November, 1892.

In the monthly statement of the public debt issued for the month of February, 1896, Secretary Carlisle makes the outstanding interest bearing debt of the government on March 1, 1893, $655,084,260; on March 1, 1896, $822,615,170. From these figures, furnished by Secretary Carlisle himself, the public interest bearing debt has increased $237,530,910 between March 1, 1893, and March 1, 1896, an annual average of $79,193,036, and for this amount the president and secretary have sold to home and foreign bondholders 4 1/2 per cent interest bearing bonds, which run for 30 years. According to the report of 1894, there was a deficiency in revenue of $89,805,260.58. Undoubtedly the president will be compelled to sell as many bonds during the last year of his term as he has for the year past, which will make an average increase of the bonded debt during his entire term of about $80,000,000 a year.

Under a protective tariff the public debt was reduced over $75,000,000 annually for 28 years, while under the Wilson-Gorman tariff bill Cleveland and Carlisle have increased the bonded debt about $80,000,000 a year. These figures clearly show the difference between protection and low tariff, but unfortunately for the people the effect of this latter policy has been far more disastrous to the industries of the country than it has been to the revenues of the government. Dr. E. F. MILLER.

M'KINLEY'S TRUE PROPHECY.

A Tariff For Revenue Is a Sure Forerunner of Hard Times.

A revenue tariff encourages no home enterprise; it supplies employment to no American workman; it takes employment from him because in the encouragement of foreign importations it diminishes the demand for American products. It is an enemy to the American shop and the American workman, to American prosperity and American industrial independence. It embraces not a single element of patriotism. It has no national spirit or instinct. To supply the needs of the treasury is its chief and exclusive concern; it has no other. It is a sure precursor to national poverty, national bankruptcy and individual distress. It is the forerunner of hard times. It is without a single worthy triumph. The years in which it has been tried in the United States excite neither our respect nor pride. It has furnished no inspiring page in our history. Its record has been one of deficient revenues, gathered bonded indebtedness and universal wailing among the people. —William McKinley.

The Vital Question.

I confess to you that this question of wages is to me the vital question. To insure our growth in civilization and wealth we must not only have wages as high as they are now, but constantly and steadily increasing. [Loud applause on the Republican side.] No applause for this sentiment I notice on the Democratic side. This desire of mine for constantly increasing wages does not have its origin in love for the individual, but in love for the whole nation in that enlightened selfishness which recognizes the great truth that your fate and mine, Mr. Speaker, and the fate of your descendants and mine are so wrapped up in the fate of all others that whatever contributes to their progress gives to us all a nobler future and a higher hope. —Hon. Thomas B. Reed.

A Strange Union.

Is it not passing strange that the Democratic laborers of the north, hundreds of thousands of them exiles from Ireland, forced from home by British free trade, should have joined hands with the Democratic planters and capitalists of the south in this shameful attempt to compel them to become hewers of wood and drawers of water for their slaves? If it were, I suppose, from force of habit. It was drawn yielding to brain. The wealth and intelligence, the political head of the party, was always in the south. The northern wing was always obedient to its imperious will. As in everything else, so in this. —Hon. William P. Frye.

X Rays on X Roads.

While our own mills are half idle and our own laborers working on part time with decreased pay, our British rivals are waxing fat over profits logged away from this market. It is a curious condition of things and interesting just as a study of the possibilities of human folly. We pass a tariff act to prostrate our manufacturing industries. We adopt a British financial system to run our farming industries. Then we borrow money with which to pay our running expenses, and finally we try to keep gold in the treasury by making agreements to pay out more than we take in.—Manufacturer.

A Neglected Duty.

The first duty of congress is to provide more revenue for the government. With a deficiency of $43,000,000 in the revenues for the last fiscal year, and with no authority in the treasury to make loans except upon a 30 year 4 per cent basis or to issue certificates in any emergency, congress is with criminal heedlessness facing the possibility of two foreign wars while considering in a routine manner the appropriation of $100,000,000, nowhere in sight, for coast defenses and new warships!—New York World.

The Japanese Iron Trade.

A company of Osaka capitalists, headed by Mr. Osazaki Eijiro, has been formed for the purpose of setting up iron works for the manufacture of boilers, locomotives, railway cars, bridges, etc. Up to date the Japanese railways have been supplied with locomotives from abroad. There are 100 American locomotives operating in Japan now, mostly of the Baldwin make, and the English builders, who used to have the exclusive run, are fighting hard.

The Gold Must Go.

London financial authorities figure out that the trade balance against this country now averages $5,000,000 a week—that is, we buy in Europe that amount more than we sell. This sum must be paid in gold or in American securities, and when the latter are not selling on the other side only gold will foot the bill.—Springfield (Mass.) Homestead.

Must Mind Our Business.

Had the United States senate devoted one-half the energy and attention to the Dingley revenue bill that it has given to the affairs of foreign countries, then the domestic affairs of our own country would be in a far better condition than they are.

Cancer Of the Face.

Mrs. Laura E. Mims, of Dawson, Ga., says: "A small pimple of a strawberry color appeared on my cheek; it soon began to grow rapidly, notwithstanding all efforts to check it. My eye became terribly inflamed, and was so swollen that for quite a while I could not see. The doctors said I had Cancer of the most malignant type, and after exhausting their efforts without doing me any good, they gave up the case as hopeless. When informed that my father had died from the same disease, they said I must die, as hereditary Cancer was incurable. "At this crisis, I was advised to try S.S.S., and in a short while the Cancer began to discharge and continued to do so for three months, then it began to heal. I continued the medicine a while longer until the Cancer disappeared entirely. This was several years ago and there has been no return of the disease."

Clayton Nevada Co., Ark., Jan. 28, 1895. Eureka Chemical & Mfg. Co., La Crosse, Wis.—Gentleman: For forty years I used tobacco in all its forms. For twenty-five years of that time I was a great sufferer from general debility and heart disease. For fifteen years I tried to quit, but couldn't. I took various remedies, among others "No-To-Bac," "The Indian Tobacco Antidote," "Double Chloride of Gold," etc., etc., but none of them did me the least bit of good. Finally, however, I purchased a box of your "Baco-Curo" and it has entirely cured me of the habit in all its forms, and I have increased thirty pounds in weight and am relieved from all the numerous aches and pains of body and mind. I could write a quire of paper upon my changed feelings and condition. Yours respectfully, P. H. MARBUAY, Pastor C. P. Church, Clayton, Ark. SOME PLAIN FACTS.

REVIEW OF DEMOCRATIC MANAGEMENT OF THE TREASURY.

National Prosperity Has Always Followed the Adoption of the Protection Policy. Free Trade Efforts Ever Accompanied by Disaster—Finances Failing.

The report of the secretary of the treasury for 1865 stated that on the 31st of October, 1865, the public debt, without deducting funds in the treasury, amounted to $2,808,549,487.55. Of this sum $1,144,073,100 was in 10-40 5 per cent and 5-20 6 per cent bonds, Pacific railroad 6 per cents, due in 1881, and 5 per cents, due in 1871, 1874 and 1880, the remainder being in temporary loans, treasury notes, compound interest notes, 7.30 notes and United States notes, one, two and three year notes and fractional currency.

The finance reports for 1868 state that the debt, less cash in the treasury, was $2,505,202,516.94.

The reports for 1871 state that the total decrease of the public debt from March 1, 1869, to Dec. 1, 1871, was $227,211,892.16. During the same period the annual interest had been reduced $16,741,436.04.

In the finance reports for 1873, on page 23, we find the following: "The country has exported during the 20 years ending with the last fiscal year gold and silver to the extent of more than $1,000,000,000 over and above the amount imported."

The finance reports for 1876, Secretary Morrill, show that on June 30, 1876, including accrued interest, less bonds issued to the Pacific railroad companies and less cash in the treasury, the public debt was $2,099,439,444.94, a reduction of the debt since Aug. 31, 1865, of $656,992,226.44, which was $223,144,011.07 more than was absolutely required by the sinking fund.

A careful estimate shows that this sum will be increased to $140,000,000 at the end of this fiscal year under the operation of the present tariff and appropriation laws."

Secretary Manning further estimated that "the revenues by June 30, 1890, with the surplus revenue of 1889 and the surplus already accumulated, would be $228,000,000, which might be used in the next 13 months for the purchase of interest bearing debts."

This report was the last one made under Mr. Cleveland's first administration, and this showing was due to a Republican senate that would not reduce the duties on foreign imports, which a Democratic house had tried to secure.

In his report for 1889 Secretary Windom said: "The cash balance in the treasury, over and above all accrued liabilities, at the close of 1889 was $71,484,042.39. If to this balance there be added the estimated surplus for the current fiscal year, the amount that could be added to the purchase of bonds to June 30, 1890, will be $163,484,042.39."

Secretary Foster in his first report made the following statement: "The total reduction of the public debt, including amounts applied to the sinking fund, since Aug. 31, 1865, when the debt was at its highest point, aggregated $1,914,605,107.85, or $990,510,681.49 more than was required by the sinking fund act."

The total interest bearing debt, as given by Secretary Foster, was on Aug. 31, 1865, $2,381,580,294.96; on Aug. 31, 1892, it was only $685,029,330. According to these figures the interest bearing debt had been reduced $1,796,500,964.96 during 28 years under protection. From these figures, furnished by Secretary Carlisle himself, the public interest bearing debt has increased $237,530,910 between March 1, 1893, and March 1, 1896, an annual average of $79,193,636, and for this amount the president and secretary have sold to home and foreign bondholders 4 1/2 per cent interest bearing bonds, which run for 30 years. According to the report of 1894, there was a deficiency in revenue of $69,805,260.58. Undoubtedly the president will be compelled to sell as many bonds during the last year of his term as he has for the year past, which will make an average increase of the bonded debt during his entire term of about $80,000,000 a year.

The Gold Must Go.

London financial authorities figure out that the trade balance against this country now averages $5,000,000 a week—that is, we buy in Europe that amount more than we sell. This sum must be paid in gold or in American securities, and when the latter are not selling on the other side only gold will foot the bill.—Springfield (Mass.) Homestead.

Must Mind Our Business.

Had the United States senate devoted one-half the energy and attention to the Dingley revenue bill that it has given to the affairs of foreign countries, then the domestic affairs of our own country would be in a far better condition than they are.

SHAH IS SHOT DOWN.

PERSIAN RULER THE VICTIM OF AN ASSASSIN.

Tragic Affair Pregnant with Serious Consequences—Hints at a Dark Conspiracy—Man Who Fired the Fatal Bullet Placed Under Arrest.

Deed of a Secret Agent. Nasr-ed-Din, the Shah of Persia, has been slain at Teheran, and in the diplomatic offices of the principal capitals of Europe there is serious perturbation. The tragic affair is pregnant with astonishing results. Once again England will surely have to fight a desperate diplomatic battle with Russia's czar for Asiatic territory.

It is known that the shah was arranging for a great celebration of his accession, and it appears that the conspirators were determined that he should not live to enjoy the event. While in a general way Nasr-ed-Din was a humane and a progressive monarch, as far as Asiatic rulers go, still his love for money and for jewels prompted many cruel acts of confiscation and of barbarous punishment that made him thousands of enemies in all classes of society.

It is feared that Russian intrigue will bring about disorders in Persia. It is known that the dead monarch coveted Herat, and made a foray in its direction, but a rebuke by the British brought him to his senses. Should the new ruler be tempted to make a similar hellish essay the results for all concerned would be extremely serious. Persia, Afghanistan, Britain and Russia would speedily become embroiled, and the result could not be predicted.

RICHARD P. BLAND.

Brief Sketch of Missouri's Candidate for the Presidency. Richard Parks Bland, whose presidential boom has been launched by the Missouri silver Democrats, is one of the most picturesque men in American political life. He has been called "Silver Dick," "Silver Dollar Brand," "Bullionaire Bland" and other sobriquets indicative of the interest he has taken in money matters and coin. Mr. Bland was born in 1835 near Hartford, Ky., in the Green River country. When about 20 years old Bland went to Missouri, where he lived five years and then went to California, and later to Utah. He practiced law among the miners and had ample opportunity to study the mineral interests and the relative output of silver and gold. In 1865 he returned to Missouri and settled in Rolla, Phelps County. In 1869 he removed to Lebanon, which is his present home. He was first elected to Congress in 1872. He took his seat the following year after the demonetization of silver. As early as 1877 Bland began to fight for free coinage. He was in Congress for twenty-two years, and his most noted measure was a bill providing for the free and unlimited coinage of silver, restoring 41 2/3 grains of standard silver as the dollar and the limit of value. The bill passed the House and was amended in the Senate. President Hayes vetoed it. Since his defeat in 1894 Mr. Bland has cultivated a farm near Lebanon, Mo.

Neighbors Gave Him a Skin Graft. A remarkable case of skin-grafting is reported from Kingman County, Kan. Several weeks ago J. H. Light was severely burned on the hands and face in a prairie fire. Physicians despaired of his life, and as the only hope the amputation of both arms was agreed upon. Dr. Buck persuaded the family to prevent amputation and try skin grafting. The physician consumed two days in the preparation of the invalid's hands and face. Eight citizens agreed to contribute the grafts. Rev. Mr. Henderson furnished 200 pieces of skin from his arms, another 150, another 100 and five others contributed a total of more than 200 grafts. All 637, which were placed on the afflicted parts.

Charles J. Bronston, of Lexington, Ky., who became somewhat famous by his recent leadership of the Blackburn forces in the Kentucky Legislature, is to be married to Miss Belle Wilson, the second daughter of Paducah's millionaire. Clarence Smith, a 19-year-old boy living at Elk Mountain, near Custer, S. D., was shot and instantly killed by John Sellers. The affair was the result of a quarrel between the families to which they belonged. Rev. Minot J. Savage was given a dinner in Boston by a club named after him.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAW-MAKERS.

A Week's Proceedings in the Halls of Congress—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—An Impartial Resume of the Business.

The National Solons.

In the Senate Saturday the sundry civil appropriation bill was completed and passed during the day. As it passed the House it carried about $30,000,000; as reported, to the Senate it reached $35,000,000, and with amendments added the total was raised to $37,000,000. Most of the time in the House was occupied with the general pension bill. The debate was generally formal in character. At half-past 2 o'clock, without concluding debate on the bill, the House entered upon the special order—the delivery of eulogies on the late Representative William H. Crane of Texas. Then the House, as a further mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, adjourned until 8 o'clock.

The debate on the adoption of a rule brought in by the Rules Committee in the House Monday for a vote on the Pickler general pension bill was rather sensational, though nothing was accomplished. The minority report on the Pacific Railroad bill was submitted to the House by Representative Hubbard of Missouri. It deals exhaustively with the financial conditions of the companies concerned in the proposed funding plan. It argues that the majority bill should not be adopted. The Senate did nothing of importance.

The Senate was plunged into an exciting financial debate Tuesday, after several weeks of serene and formal procedure on appropriation bills. The naval appropriation bill was under consideration, and the item of four battle ships, to cost an aggregate of $15,000,000, served as a text for a speech by Mr. Gorman pointing out that the revenues of the Government are less than the receipts. Mr. Gorman's statements brought on an acrimonious controversy, in which Mr. Sherman, Mr. Hale and Mr. Chandler joined issues with the Maryland Senator as to the responsibility for the failure of tariff legislation in the present Congress. The House passed the Pickler general pension bill by a vote of 187 to 54. The section which the bulk of the opposition was directed against provides that persons otherwise entitled to pensions shall not be disqualified on account of prior service in the Confederate army, provided they joined the Union forces ninety days before Lee's surrender.

Both House and Senate spent Wednesday in debate of various measures. Absolutely nothing of importance was done. The general debate on the bankruptcy bill was continued and concluded in the House Thursday. Mr. Bailey of Texas gave notice that he would offer as a substitute his voluntary bankruptcy bill. The Senate spent another day on the naval appropriation bill without completing it. Mr. Gorman further expressed the opinion that the appropriations already made would consume the balance in the treasury. A determination of the number of battle ships has not yet been reached. Mr. Chandler has proposed substituting thirty large and fast torpedo gunboats for two of the battle ships. The bill was passed increasing the pension of Brigadier General William Gross of the volunteer forces to $75 per month.

The Senate Friday discussed the naval appropriation bill. Mr. Gorman's amendment reducing from four to two the number of battle ships to be constructed was adopted in the Senate by a vote of 31 to 27. The House again devoted the major portion of the day to debate on the bankruptcy bill. Several amendments were offered, but none were adopted. A bill to provide for a delegate in Congress from the territory of Alaska was defeated by a vote of 60 to 44.

PARADOX OF EMIGRATION.

An Unexplained Circumstance About the Proportion of Sexes.

The publication of articles on the subject of European immigration into the republic of Venezuela has called attention again to one of the curiosities of emigration which has never been clearly explained and remains, therefore, something of an enigma. It is well known that the foreign immigrants into this country from the northern nations of Europe—Great Britain, Germany, Russia and Scandinavia—have, like the early colonists from the same countries, been pretty evenly divided between the two sexes. The migration from the southern countries of Europe, on the contrary, Spain, Italy, Greece and Portugal, has been chiefly male, and to this fact, perhaps more than to any other, is due the intermarriage of emigrants and natives in South and Central America and the general absence of such marriages in North America, particularly in the United States and Canada. The emigration from Ireland, for instance, for many years has been more largely made up of female than of male emigrants, while from Italy, on the other hand, the proportion for a period of more than twenty years is male, seventy-five; female, twenty-five.

The total number of emigrants to the United States from 1845, the first year of large emigration, to 1895 (a period covering half a century) was in excess of 10,000,000, and more than 40 per cent. was female; whereas the large Spanish and Italian emigration to South America has been almost exclusively male. As this matter is not one of early occurrence, but continues at present (the census figures resuming their old dimensions since the improvement of the times), it might be supposed that the number of women in those European countries from which there is and has been practically no female emigration would be much larger than in those countries which have suffered a steady diminution through the emigration of persons of both sexes. But the contrary of this is shown by the figures of the Almanach de Gotha.

In Italy, from which there is very little female emigration, the number of female inhabitants is actually less than the male inhabitants—in the ratio of 99 to 100. In Greece the ratio is 99 to 100. In Roumania it is 103 to 100. On the other hand, in Great Britain, from which the immigration of women has been continuous, they outnumber the men in the proportion of 104 to 100. In all the other countries of Europe from which there is and has been a large female emigration a majority of the inhabitants are women. In Russia the proportion is 102 women to 100 men, in Germany 104 women to 100 men, in Sweden 104 women to 100 men, in Switzerland 104 women to 100 men, and in Denmark and Austria 103 women to 100 men. In France and Belgium the equality of proportion between the sexes is very evenly preserved. Thus, in France there are 1,004 women to 1,000 men, and in Belgium the difference is smaller, there being 1,001 women to 1,000 men.

A still more peculiar manifestation of the same paradox, if it may be so considered, is found in the official reports recently published in England of the emigration from that country during the last quarter of a century. In 1860 48 1/2 per cent. of the population of Great Britain was male and 51 1/2 per cent. was female. Between 1860 and 1870 the female emigration was the larger, yet by the census of 1871 the female population increased the more rapidly. From 1870 to 1880 the male emigration was the larger, but the female population increased the more rapidly.—New York Sun.

Live Craters at Auction.

A curious piece of real estate soon to be auctioned off at the exchange in London comprises the free hold of the Island Volcano in the Mediterranean, with numerous mountains and two live craters. The island is one of the Aeolian group, off the north coast of Sicily, and is five miles long by two and a half broad. Vines and fig trees flourish on it, and the opportunity is a fine one for some rich man who loves the island, home all to himself—reclining on the mountain side, with our flocks feeding below and the blue Sicilian sea in the distance.

An Historic Bell.

The bell that still rings every Sunday in the belfry of St. John's Episcopal Church in Portsmouth, N. H., has a most entertaining history. When Colonel Pepperell led the colonial forces against the frontier at Louisburg, and the English had conquered, they came home triumphant. Among other trophies they brought a bell captured from a French cathedral at Cape Breton. The officers of the New Hampshire company presented the bell to Queen's chapel. In the fire which destroyed the chapel in 1806 the bell was cracked. In 1807 Paul Revere and son recast the bell.

He has twelve children, who constitute a brass band and travel the circuit with their father. There is another minister belonging to the same conference who has been preaching for forty years, and in all that time he never received the salary promised him excepting once, when he agreed to preach a year for $100.—Kansas City Star.

"Ah, me!" inspired the poet, as he finished a sonnet to his mistress' eyebrow, "what would be the condition of a country without women?" "Stagnation," softly responded the humorist.—Boston Courier.

DEMS IN THE DUMPS.

SPLIT PREDICTED IN THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

Chicago Convention Promises to Be the Hottest Since 1860—Free Silver Men Declare They Will Bolt a Gold Standard Platform.

A Red-Hot Convention.

The lines are certainly cast for the hottest convention at Chicago that the Democracy has seen since 1860. The followers of Cleveland and Carlisle have about given up all hope of stemming the free silver tide, and are now discussing the chances of a bolt.

Mr. Cleveland is quoted as saying that he considers the platform of more importance than the man that shall be named to stand upon it. It has long been the talk that the free silver faction would walk out of the convention if their demands were not accepted, but there is no longer more than a possible contingency that they will not be able to dictate both the candidate and platform. The Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post, who is generally accredited as the nearest to the Cleveland throne of all newspaper representatives there, says that several cabinet officers have declared their intention to at least bolt the ticket in the event of the Cleveland policy being turned down. Beyond that, calculations are being made as to the advisability of going still further. The New York Herald leads off in the suggestion that "true" Democrats should leave the convention and nominate a gold man on a solid gold platform, and accompanies the advice with the prediction that "the people, irrespective of party lines," would rally to its support with invincible force.

Whitney, who some time ago predicted a split, is of the opinion that the failure to control the convention should be followed by a call for another, in the name of "the sound money Democracy," but Hewitt has a still more comprehensive plan. Should the St. Louis convention fail to pronounce flat-footed for a single gold standard, he would have a convention of "business men" of both parties and a campaign that would carry the election of President into the House of Representatives.

A hot convention at Chicago is assured. There may be a bolt, and there may not be; but no amount of fighting or bolting will make it possible to draw Republican votes to a ticket manufactured by the leaders of free trade Democracy. Nor will any such allurement as that implied in the proposal of Abram S. Hewitt swerve the Republican convention into an abandonment of the party's established principles and settled policies. Democracy will have to settle its own quarrels in its own way. They have come about as a natural result of incompetency in government. The party has demonstrated its unfitness for public trust, and the leaders who have dictated the policies which have brought about its downfall will not be hoisted back to a position of influence and power by Republican strength.

Protect Our Hay Crops.

Farmers are appealing to Congress for increased protection for their hay. Thousands of petitions have been in circulation in the country in the past few weeks, signed by hundreds of thousands of farmers, asking Congress to increase the duty on hay, because of the enormous increase in the importations of hay, mostly from Canada, since the repeal of the McKinley law. The rate of duty on hay under the McKinley tariff was four dollars per ton. In the year following the enactment of that law the importations of hay dropped from 125,000 tons to 29,000 tons. The Wilson law reduced the duty to $2 per ton, and the result has been an enormous increase in the importations of hay.

The amount of hay brought into the country since the enactment of the Wilson law has been more than double what it was in the corresponding length of time under the McKinley law. The official figures for the first seventeen months of the Wilson law show a total importation of 378,800 tons of hay, against 140,083 tons in the last seventeen months of the McKinley law. This is an increase of 233,717 tons. It will thus be seen that the importations under the new law, by reason of the reduction in the tariff rates, have increased more than 150 per cent., and that nearly two million dollars, which would otherwise have gone to the farmers of the United States, have left the country for the benefit of foreign farmers.

Argument for Protection.

The closing down of the print works in this city means a good deal to a considerable number of the inhabitants of Lowell, and taken in connection with the fact that the duty on print cloth was reduced more than 25 per cent. by the Democratic tariff it makes a very tangible argument in favor of just protection to American industries which nobody can fail to understand. Lowell is not alone in suffering for the folly of the national Democratic party, for the same condition prevails wherever there are industries which could be reached by the mischievous tinkering of the tariff reformers in the Fifty-third Congress.—Lowell, Mass., Mail.

Great "Revival" in Business.

Total bank clearings aggregate $926,000,000 this week, thus continuing to reflect the slackening off in business which has been so conspicuous. The decrease as compared with last week is 2 1/2 per cent., and as compared with the week one year ago nearly 3 per cent. The corresponding week in 1894 was one of extreme depression, and this week's total clearings show an increase compared with it of 7 per cent. But when comparisons are made with like weeks in preceding years, continuous decreases are shown, 23 1/2 per cent. as contrasted with 1893, nearly 24 per cent. with 1892, and 12 per cent. as compared with the week in 1891.—Bradstreet's.

London Notes Our Wool Market.
Messrs. Helmut Schwartz & Co., of London, comment upon the fact so well known here, that the United States in 1895, in addition to the unprecedented imports of raw wool, also imported "manufactures of wool to the extent of over sixty million dollars ($60,000,000) as against less than seven hundred million dollars ($17,000,000) for the preceding year."

This increase in the American imports of woolen goods is roughly calculated as equal to 130 million pounds of raw wool, which is exactly the amount of the increase in the world's supply of the year 1895. If American wool had been used to manufacture the increased amount of imported woolens, more than one-half of the entire American clip would have been consumed in their production.

The increase in the imports of wool, including that used in the manufacture of woolens imported in 1895, over the average of the previous four years was over 257 million pounds (a quantity within 37 million pounds of the American wool production for 1895), an increase of about 114 per cent. The effect of this extraordinary increase in imports upon American prices is now being very seriously felt.

Reed Reviews Conditions.

We are nominally 70,000,000 people. That is what we are in mere numbers. But as a market for manufactures and choice foods we are potentially 175,000,000 as compared with the next best nation on the globe. Nor is this difficult to prove. Whenever an Englishman earns one dollar an American earns a dollar and sixty cents. I speak within bounds. Both can get the food that keeps body and soul together and the shelter which the body must have for 60 cents. Take sixty cents from a dollar and you have 40 cents left. Take that same 60 cents from the dollar and sixty and you have a dollar left, just two and a half times as much. That surplus can be spent in choice foods, in house furnishings, in fine clothes and all the comforts of life—in a word, in the products of our manufactures. That makes our population as consumers of products, as compared with the English population, 175,000,000. Their population is 37,000,000 as consumers of products which one century ago were pure luxuries, while our population is equivalent to 175,000,000.—Hon. Thos. B. Reed.

Hurt American Labor.

There was imported, during the month of February, $5,352,410 worth of manufactured woolens. This is more than double the imports of woolen goods during the corresponding month of 1892 under the McKinley tariff.

More Reciprocity Wanted.

The Isaac Harter Milling Company of Fostoria, Ohio, said: "Since reciprocity has been repealed we have practically lost all our Cuban trade, which amounted to about 75,000 barrels per year to this flour mill alone."

Sea Otters.

The dexterity of sea otters in turning and doubling upon their pursuers is due to the strength of their hind paws, which have five webbed fingers or toes, the center one being shortest, like those of a seal. Their tails are used as rudders, but are not so long as those of the common otter. Their love of life, their harmlessness, their innocence, their beauty, and their tender, tireless care of their babies also, should make man their friend and admirer. Perhaps he would be if love of money were not his supreme passion.

Common otters have short, webbed front paws that are used as deftly as hands by men, fins by fish, or feet by land quadrupeds; their hind legs are short, and are set well back for pulling swiftly. Their muscular tails serve as tillers, and are important parts of a machinery that overcomes distance with incredible rapidity. They are able to make abrupt turns and a thousand swift and graceful maneuvers when seeking their finny food or escaping from their natural enemies. They are said to be so untiring in the sea that fish never escape them.

Of course, it is only in zoological gardens that the shy and crafty habits of otters can be closely studied. In tanks of water they sometimes deftly catch and hold several fish at once, and often kill many more than they can eat, as if the mere occupation of fishing were a distinct pleasure and the destruction of their prey a keen satisfaction; so that their sportsmanlike tastes are near akin to those of men.

Sewing on Eyebrows.

It is said that a certain perfumer has found a new way of fixing eyelashes and eyebrows. Instead of painting them in the usual vulgar old style, he puts the genuine article there. The operator takes a hair from the head of the beauty—for ladies are his chief customer—or, if she does not like precisely the color of her own hair, she takes one of any other color that she likes, threads an extremely fine needle with the hair, runs it along inside the skin of the eyelid, sewing sailmaker's fashion, but leaving the loops sufficiently long to enable him to cut them afterward, so that they will form a range of beautiful fringe and look perfectly natural. The operation is extremely delicate, but painful. For eyebrows he does the same thing; but the eyebrow operation is, of course, less delicate. Arched eyebrows, bushy eyebrows, straight eyebrows, crooked eyebrows—all sorts of eyebrows, in any color or shade or form, this perfumer makes; and it is said that his success is astonishing.

Doing good will be found more profitable in the end than digging gold.

Millinery Modes.

New York correspondence:

PRING millinery is giving way to summer headgear, but the change is gradual and really means so little that it is hardly noticed by the general observer, though every purchaser of a summer hat realizes it and feels that the world ought to. As summer advances colors will be lighter and hats will be larger, but the present riot of blossoms and foliage will be kept up in the trimmings, and as the latter is the most distinctive feature of summer millinery, the change is just so much less apparent. Just now and for two months to come medium-sized hats like that of the initial picture will be much worn. The little boa shown in this picture is made to match the hat and is of a sort that milliners are dealing in almost exclusively. They are of closely woven leaves of silk from which all stiffening is omitted, but the coloring follows the coloring of the leaves used on the hat. The effect about the throat is comfortable, every bit as becoming as is fur or feather and not a bit warm. Such a boa and turban will serve charmingly now, or whenever you care to wear it during the summer, and it will be delightfully suitable when fall comes. The boa, for that matter, may be worn in any season.

In the final illustration behold the perennial, the ever-beautiful, the always new, the unfailingly alluring sailor. Each year the matron, each year a year older, says: "Now I am too old for a sailor." Then the sailor gets itself up in a new way, and the suave and insinuating milliner puts it on the matron's head, saying: "They are wearing sailors so much." You sigh, take a look, make up your mind that the year has, after all, made but very little difference, and the first thing you know you are trotting about topped by a sailor hat. To be sure, the sailor this year is prettier than ever, but then it always is that, and so, too, it is always trimmed in many new ways. This year it seems more than ever to make the oldish woman seem not so old, and yet not undignified by the attempt at dispensing with a year or two, and it makes the young girl seem very prettily and simply a young large for the one purpose, nor too small for the other.

Sailors this year are a little narrower at the back than at the front. The crown is often narrow and high, and is usually bound by a band of ribbon as wide as the crown is high. In the case of this second pictured model, there is another band a good deal narrower and made bigger round than the crown is, and this band is brilliant gold ribbon studded with jewels. This is merely the start for the hat, and one would hardly believe what a big bow could be put on, or of what wide ribbon it might be. It has many loops and a lot of ends, and, besides all that, there is room for a pair or so of chrysanthemums, whose variegated fringe shows just a little in front, so bespread are they over the back of the hat. Some grasses or an egrette or so complete the hat, except that you may put on a pair of bows against the hair to help fasten the hat in place if you wish them.

There is a kind of demure girl who is always too wise to attempt a dashing hat. The one fatal mistake this girl can make is to make herself pronouncedly stylish. To tell the truth, she is usually too smart, for all her demerit, to make this mistake, and no matter how many the new styles, her own dear little hat is adjusted so that it does not lose the individuality that is its and her charm, and yet so that it does not seem to be "last year's." Her hat this year is woven of very light wide chip, so thin that the straw resulting from its weaving seems feather-weight, and the hat so woven is soft and pliable. As seen by the next illus-

This is a conservative style and always becoming. It is pretty with an all white, an all black or a variegated dress. Then there are sailors that are all black, that push forward a little over the brow, and are a little wider in front than at the back.

A sailor of very unusual trimming is shown at the left side in the final sketch. It is set about with many colored popples, the brim is tipped well over the brow and at the back is tilted up correspondingly. Some curled cock feathers stand at the back, their iridescence being brought out by the popples with very artistic effect on a mixed straw. For late summer wear some delicious Panama and grass weaves are shown with wide flat brims and narrowing crowns fastened about with bandana scarfs. These promise to be much worn at the seaside and summer places, with morning and garden dresses. Sailors are also trimmed by a pair of heavy ostrich feathers, set with stems crossing at the back, and rich tips spreading to the side and bending to the front. at one side for relief, and have done it with all suitable adaptation to spring and summer needs. The very prettiest of these are made of solid foliage, especially those showing the variegated russet, bronze, red and green of rose leaves. These are set thick about the turban, or, as you will think from the pictured model, they make the turban. The leaves stand out loose and natural, the stems showing. At one side a few sprays of foliage lift prettily, the stems being natural color and the tints of the leaves being well-nigh perfect. The foundation for these pretty affairs is sometimes loose woven chip, or it may be a mere net or wire. The essential is that the turban should be a generous

Hints to Horse Breeders.

[From Breeder's Gazette.]

A visit to any of the great horse markets, particularly that of Chicago, will prove of marked benefit to any one who is now raising horses or expects to begin breeding them. Here six firms practically control the sales of a hundred thousand horses a year, and these men will all be found of one opinion as to the kind of horse which it will always pay to breed. They are unanimous in the belief that well-formed, heavy, weighty draft horses and stylish, breezy-looking coach horses of symmetrical build, with plenty of endurance and action, are going to be the high-priced horses of the future.

Mr. Newgass, who handles about 25,000 horses per year at the stock-yards in Chicago, recently told me that he had sold during the past year 800 coach horses at an average of $350 each; that he had a large retail trade in heavy draft horses which demands the best type of Percheron and would have no other breed, and that 75 per cent of the draft horses sold by him to the trade were Percherons. He said further: "Tell your customers to breed all the heavy Percherons they can, and at the same time not to forget the coach horse." Mr. Jacob Koehler, who sells 15,000 horses a year at the stock-yards, Chicago, says: "There are only two kinds of horses which the farmers can breed that will be sure to make them money—good Percheron horses and smooth, stylish-acting coachers. There is only one draft horse for this country, and that is the Percheron. Even the English and Scotch buyers take them in preference to the horses produced from English and Clydesdale stallions."

This statement was corroborated by Messrs. Blair & Evans, large operators in horses at the yards. Mr. Blair, who formerly was extensively engaged in the importation of English Shire and Clydesdale stallions, said "that the best selling horses on the market were Percherons, and that the English and Scotch buyers preferred them to the Clyde and Shire crosses; the farmers have stopped breeding geldings, a few, mostly mares are now coming—they will not last long—and then the man who has a good draft horse will get his own price for him.

F. J. Berry will handle 27,000 horses this year. He says: "Breeding has never been at so complete a standstill. Formerly there were only two or three mares to a car of draft horses; now the mares greatly outnumber the geldings, just at the very time when the farmers ought to be breeding good large horses that will command a price as high as ever they brought before. They can get them on the market if they begin now. For a draft horse the Percheron is the horse. Our cities all want them in preference to any other breed, and the foreigners are equally prejudiced in their favor. The English and Scotch were anxious to sell their hairy-legged horses but they don't care to buy them.

"The coach horses that come on to our market find a ready sale. Two good ones are wanted where one is found. They have had a boom in the last twelve months. These two kinds—good heavy drafters and coachers—are the best to breed."

J. S. Cooper is among the largest dealers in horses at the stock-yards. He says: "There is a perceptible falling off in quality from month to month, showing plainly that the supply of desirable horses is growing less. Another marked feature is the increasing percentage of mares on the market. Many of them should be kept for breeding, but it seems that the farmers now sell anything they can sell. If it keeps on this way we won't have any good draft horses in a short time. People complain of low prices, but for really good ones the price is not so bad. We sold a car load of Percherons last week for $148 per head, and I am sure inside of two years such a lot will bring $500 per pair. We recently sent out 25,000 circulars giving a summary of the market and its demands are urging upon farmers the necessity of breeding good coach and draft horses. In my opinion there has never been such an opportune time to begin breeding these two classes.

"For drafters the Percherons are the best of all breeds, and in our circular we recommended the use of stallions of this breed by stating: 'As foreigners prefer the Percheron breed and our own people at least are very partial to them, it will be well for the breeder to give them the preference.'
