The finest line of rockers in the city at Watson's furniture store. Call and see them.

Very few turkeys were hit at the turkey shoot yesterday, but the boys had considerable sport.

Eat Turkey Thanksgiving Day and go to Holiday Opening Friday and Saturday at Book and Music Store.

If you want a good corn sheller go and see Mark Stringer. He sells the "Keystone," one of the best shellers made.

Send in the news from your neighborhood. We want it every week. Stationery, etc., will be supplied on request.

Chas. Worth finished husking corn last Thursday having husked 2,500 bushels. Many others are finishing up this week.

The ladies missionary society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Spears on Friday, November 27th, at 3 o'clock p. m.

Wayne county teachers should not forget to attend the Teachers Association meeting at Pender tomorrow and Saturday. You will be greatly benefited.

The young people of the Presbyterian church will give a social at the parsonage this evening. Baked beans, pumpkin pie, apples and nuts will be served.

I have about 85 barrels of New York apples left, stored at the Raquet store, which I will for a few days sell at the rate of $2.15 per barrel. Clayton Kaufman.

The sidewalks have been covered with ice the past two days and every boy who owns a pair of skates or could borrow a pair has been enjoying himself immensely.

The members of the Minerva club meet with Mrs. Fletcher next Tuesday. The ladies are reading Longfellow's works and have prepared an interesting program for their next meeting.

Monday was Miss Rena Olmsted's fifteenth birthday and in the evening Mrs. Welch's Sunday school class, of which Miss Rena is a member, gave her a very pleasant surprise party in honor of the event.

Miss Maude Reynolds and Bessie Winterburn begin teaching their winter term of school next Monday. Miss Winterburn teaches in the Wadsworth district and Miss Reynolds in Dixon county.

Did you say apples! Well, it will pay you to call at Brookings if you want apples. He has many bushels which can be purchased at remarkably low figures. He also has many barrels of New York apples for sale at reasonable prices. You will find it to your advantage to see him before buying.

The seventeenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wright occurred last Thursday and in the evening they were somewhat surprised by the sudden appearance at their home of a number of Wayne friends. The evening was a most enjoyable one to all and a neat present was left with Mr. and Mrs. Wright as a reminder of the occasion.

Ford Wright, who was sent to the penitentiary from Dixon county some time ago for shooting a young companion, was given his liberty Tuesday, and there is no doubt one home, at least in Dixon county which will feel like returning thanks today. Young Wright is only seventeen years old. He was sentenced to two and a half years for manslaughter but his sentence was commuted by Gov. Holcomb to one year and four months. His time expired Tuesday.

The Holiday Opening.

CELERY! Three stalks for 10 cents. P. L. Miller.

Prevent disease by using Miller's Hog Fever Cure. R. W. Wilkins & Co.

David Baum has purchased a building of Wm. F. Lalk of Hoskins and will put in a meat market.

A new stock of first-class, low priced, eight-day clocks just received by Ingalls, the jeweler.

A number of the high school pupils serenaded Prof. Boner last Friday night in honor of his birthday.

Grace, the little daughter of D. N. Connable has a badly sprained arm, the result of a fall received Tuesday.

It is about time to be ordering those storm windows. Leave your order with Edwards & Bradford Lumber Co.

Miss Mary Coyle entertained about a score of young friends last Saturday evening. The evening amusement was a "taffy pull."

A disagreeable mist fell most of the day Tuesday and yesterday and the sidewalks became so slippery that it was almost impossible to walk on them.

If you are fond of mince-pies just step into P. L. Miller's and get a jar of fine mince meat. He has just received some of the best mince meat ever sold.

The fifth anniversary of the Nebraska Normal College will be celebrated at the opera house Saturday evening. It is expected that Gov. Holcomb will be present and make an address.

When asked what was going to be done at the college anniversary Saturday evening one of the young lady students remarked that "Gov. Holcomb is going to speak and I am going to play."

Miss Anna Bowman, a former Wayne girl, and Mr. Jay Hamlin, a prosperous young farmer of Dixon county, were married at the home of the bride's parents near Concord, Wednesday, Nov. 18.

Johnny Price met with a painful accident Tuesday evening. He was coasting down hill near the school house when his sled ran into a tree throwing him off and breaking an arm. He was taken to Dr. Williams' office where he received proper treatment and was made as comfortable as possible.

Wayne will not have a curfew law. The ordinance introduced and read at the meeting of the city council Monday evening was voted down. There are a great many young boys who should be at home nights instead of running the streets, but a majority of the council seemed to think that the curfew ordinance was not the proper remedy.

The entertainment given at the M. E. church Saturday night by Miss Lillian B. Jones and Miss Eugenia Brinkhaus was highly appreciated by the people in attendance. The violin selections given by Miss Brinkhaus were especially pleasing and some excellent recitations were given by Miss Jones. But when it comes to musical or elocutionary entertainments the Wayne talent is just as good as the best of them.

A very pleasant surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Brenner Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ingalls, the date of their tenth anniversary. The evening was delightfully spent in playing high five until 11 o'clock, when the guests were ushered into the dining room where refreshments were served. Just prior to the departure of the guests Mr. and Mrs. Ingalls were presented with beautiful silver spoons as a reminder of the event, and with many good wishes for numerous anniversaries yet to come they bade them good-night.

An excellent article on the Nebraska Normal College appeared in last week's Wakefield Republican of which the following is a portion: "The value of the College to Wayne, educationally, socially and financially, is very great. It is an institution whose rapid growth at once proclaims to the visitor, the new comer or to the pilgrim that it is located in a progressive, highly intelligent and thriving community. The value of farms is really greater because the College was founded; they are worth more. As old Father Time proceeds in his flight the College will grow in relative importance, and ever attract the better class among those of our young people who have the privilege of attending the higher schools. There the better to equip themselves for the struggle sure to overtake them a little later on in life."

FOR RENT.

Good five room house. Dr. H. G. LEISENING.

Fresh oysters at Hoover's restaurant. Utter sold all his Holiday Goods last year.

Dorr Carroll was down from Winside Saturday.

Canvas leggings for snow in all sizes. Harrington & Robbins.

A severe snow storm is in progress at hour of going to press.

The attention of our readers is called to the inside pages this week.

The boys are having an endless amount of sport skating and sled riding today.

There has been several pleasant skating parties at the lake east of town the past week.

Special prices in overcoats and suits between now and Christmas. Harrington & Robbins.

Go to the ladies exchange at E. P. Olmsted & Co's. Saturday, for your baked beans, pies, etc.

A. B. Clark is building a large hotel and restaurant at Winside and L. Needham is erecting a large residence.

Mrs. J. J. Williams entertained a number of lady friends last Thursday evening in honor of Mrs. J. E. McFarland.

One week from tomorrow night, Friday, December 4th, the senior grade of the high school will give their first public rhetorical. Remember the date.

Miss M. Katherine Williams assisted by Miss M. K. Gibson, give an elocutionary and musical entertainment at Randolph tomorrow evening.

If you are going to build a corn crib, a chicken house, or a mansion, you will find just what you need at Edwards & Bradford Lumber Co's, and they will use you right too.

If there is a reliable man among our readers who can sell Minnesota grown trees, he can secure steady employment and good wages by writing the Jewell Nursery Co., Lake City, Minn. 44.

We understand that Andrews, the clothing man who burned out here five years ago Thanksgiving night, has just succeeded in getting the insurance on his stock of goods. The insurance amounted to nine thousand dollars.

Hereafter the ladies of the M. E. church will have their exchange located at the hardware store of E. P. Olmsted & Co. Every Saturday they will have for sale baked beans, bread, pies, cakes and numerous other articles. Orders may be left one Saturday for anything you want the next Saturday.

The number of cattle that are being fed in Wayne county at the present time is much larger than for two or three years past and as a result it will, in a degree, stimulate the home corn market. It would certainly be a most fortunate thing if there were enough cattle in the county to create a demand for the entire product.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather only a small audience greeted Prof. E. M. C. Ezerman and Edw. C. Kuss at the opera house last evening but the entertainment was one of the very best ever given in the city. Prof. Ezerman has improved greatly and his work at the piano elicited earnest and well deserved applause, especially "Romanze by Gernsheim." The singing of Edw. C. Kuss it may be safely said has never been excelled if equalled in this city. He has a wonderful voice and every selection was greeted with applause. The entertainment will be repeated tomorrow evening and those who attend will be well repaid.

Motion to adjourn carried.

CHAS. S. BEEBE, CLERK.

THE ELEMENTS REIGN.

Heavy Rain Followed by Freezing Weather Causes Vast Destruction to the Trees About the City.

ICE KING VISIBLE EVERYWHERE.

The Storm the Worst Ever Known in Wayne County.—Telegraph Wires Down All Along the Line.

The question might arise, as one looks over the vast field of ice and the destruction visible everywhere, what have we to be thankful for this morning? Yesterday was a misty day and along towards evening a heavy rain set in accompanied by thunder and lightning. The weather report indicated that there would be a change of twenty degrees in the weather before morning and by nine o'clock it was dangerous for people to walk along the sidewalks owing to the limbs of the trees hanging to the ground covered with ice. This morning the people, as they looked out, saw trees everywhere broken down, limbs broken off, the walks blocked and a scene that would put to envy one in the polar regions.

The trees near the residences of Eli Jones, Jno. T. Bressler, J. W. Jones, A. L. Tucker, C. O. Fisher, in fact, everywhere about the city, are almost ruined. It almost makes one sick as he views the wreck.

The telegraph wires along the railroad are broken in hundreds of places we are informed by the operator but trains are running on schedule time.

The farmers will be unable to complete husking corn for some time, and there is at least one-fourth of the crop yet in the field.

Stock suffered more or less but up to the time of going to press we have received very little information from the county.

Cure disease by using Miller's Hog Fever Cure. R. W. Wilkins & Co.

The famous Ottumwa Quartette will be in Wayne December 15th under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Remember the date. It will be a first class entertainment.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will give a mite box opening social at the home of Mr. Tucker on Monday evening, Nov. 30th, at 7:30 o'clock. Arrangements for an enjoyable evening have been made. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Program below:

Opening of mite boxes.

An up to date quartette.

A SAD DEATH.

McDONNELL—At the Love hotel in Wayne, Sunday morning, Nov. 23, 1896, Phos. McDonnell, age 40 years, Cause of death, inflammation of the bowels.

Deceased has been a resident of Wayne for a number of years and had made many friends who mourn his death. He was a hard working and trustworthy man and it is probable that death was the result of necessary things denied himself on behalf of his family who reside in Mankato, Minnesota, where his wife went some time since owing to ill health. He was taken sick Tuesday of last week and suffered incessantly until a few minutes before his death which occurred at five o'clock. Deceased was a member of the Catholic church.

The remains were taken to La Seur, Minnesota, Sunday afternoon by his sister Miss Kate McDonnell who arrived Friday evening.

MARRIED.

NEEDHAM—WOOD—At the Boyd hotel Tuesday, November 24th, Judge Martin officiating, George M. Needham of Sioux City, and Miss Flora Lee Wood, of Hot Springs, South Dakota.

Thanksgiving services will be held at the M. E. church Thursday morning at 10:00 o'clock. Preaching by Rev. Mueller.

Mr. Honey and his boys disposed of a lot of turkeys today by raffling them off. Carroll is a great place for sport and politics.

Beecher as a Slave Auctioneer.

Even people of mature years whose memory is clear about matters before and during the War have practically forgotten that Henry Ward Beecher used his pulpit in Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, as an auction block for slaves. The most famous of his "slave sales" was that of the beautiful girl, Sarah, and it was upon this occasion that the most exciting scenes ever witnessed in Plymouth Church, or in any other American church for that matter, occurred. Mr. Beecher was unusually dramatic; he put a fire into his words, as he stood the slave girl on the platform beside him, which fairly burned into the hearts of his auditors. It was not long before the people became almost hysterical with excitement. But Beecher kept on until he was ready to pass the collection baskets. Then the auditors gave vent to their feelings, and not only heaps of money were put into the baskets but men and women took off their rings, unfastened their watches and threw them into the baskets and on the platform. It was a remarkable scene, and such a one as probably will never be equalled in this country. Mrs. Beecher recalls the event with wonderful vividness in her article in the Christmas Ladies' Home Journal, when she tells the whole story of "When Mr. Beecher Sold Slaves in Plymouth Pulpit." The scene itself is remarkably well brought to the eye of the reader by a striking illustration made by De Thulstrup from material furnished the artist by Mrs. Beecher.

Nebraska Dairymen's Association.

The annual meeting of the Nebraska Dairymen's Association will be held in the chapel of the State University, Lincoln, on December 15, 16 and 17, 1896.

The opening session will be in the evening of the 15th. At this meeting the papers read and discussions had will be altogether on subjects of a practical nature and of interest to all engaged in the dairy industry. Peculiar interest attaches to this meeting from the fact that on this occasion will take place the formal opening of the Dairy School, a new branch of education in connection with the work of the State University. The dairy building is on the state farm and one session of the annual meeting will be held at that building.

In connection with the annual meeting will be held a dairy exhibit and liberal prizes are offered for competition both for creamery and dairy products. All sessions of the annual meeting are open and free, everyone interested is cordially invited to attend and take part.

For programs or other information, address the secretary, Gibbon, Neb. E. F. Howz, Crete, Neb., Pres. S. C. BASSETT, Gibbon, Neb., Sec'y.

VOTE FOR PRESIDENT

FIRST APPROXIMATELY COMPLETE RETURNS.

Captain General Weyler Is Back in Havana—Is Said to Have Retreated in Hot Haste From Pinar del Rio in Confusion in Havana.

Popular Vote for President. New York: Following are the first approximately complete returns on the recent presidential election from all the states:

Table with columns for State, McKinley, Bryan, Palm'r. Lists states from Alaska to Wyoming with corresponding vote counts.

Total vote, 7,500,000. McKinley, 3,221,552; Bryan, 3,221,552; Tilden, 1,056,896.

Weyler Back in Havana. HAVANA: Capt. Gen. Weyler arrived here Monday evening on board the cruiser Legasi, from Mariel.

New York: A dispatch to the World from Jacksonville, Fla., says: A cipher cablegram from Havana to a Cuban leader here says that General Weyler has been forced to return to Havana, and that the city is in great confusion.

Steam Launch Blows Up. CAROL, Ill.: The steam launch Pilot, on which C. Bryan, H. M. Mitchell, C. N. Peterson and Daniel O'Daly, all of Chicago, were preparing to take a pleasure trip to New Orleans, blew up here Monday afternoon.

World Bar Tights and Bloomers. MOSTONARY, Ala.: Representative Timberlake of Jackson, has introduced a unique bill in the assembly. It provides that no female shall appear in any public place dressed in a garment which appears to the unaided eye to be a tights and bloomers.

He Left the Sad Behind. LEANON, Pa.: The amount of the defalcation of Cashier Hoiler, of the First National Bank, will reach $100,000 or more, according to his confession.

Loses a Foot by the X Rays. BIWAH, Kan.: Miss Carrie Liebenood, who submitted to an x ray experiment on her leg by the late Dr. A. C. Love, lost a foot after the test an abscess began forming, and the pain finally became unbearable.

Love Triumphs Over Buckshot. PERRY, Oklahoma: At McKinney John R. Grogan, a farmer, emptied a load of buckshot into the back of R. V. R. Ellsworth, who was clogging with Grogan's daughter Ella. Nervousness the couple escaped and were married.

Expect Little Legislation. WASHINGTON: Members of the Senate are arriving daily. From interviews it is apparent that they expect little save routine legislation, including the passage of the annual appropriation bills, at the coming session of Congress.

Whisky Marker Is Active. CINCINNATI: Whisky was again abnormally active Saturday and sales of 9000 barrels are reported. This, continued with heavy sales Friday makes the total for the two days 21,700. This sudden activity is apparently owing to the anticipation of an increase in price very shortly.

To Succeed Bishop Keane. BALTIMORE: A cable from Rome says: Rev. D. Thomas H. Connolly, rector of the Church of the Sacred Heart of Worcester, Mass., has been named by the pope as successor of the Catholic University at Washington, to succeed Bishop Keane, resigned.

World's Wheat Conference.

WASHINGTON: A conference of nations on the subject of the world's wheat market is understood to be desired by at least one of the great foreign wheat growing empires. It is stated in official circles here that Russia is particularly friendly to such an idea, and is believed to have invited, not only to the United States, but to England, the Argentina Republic and Australia, which are the principal wheat growing nations of the world.

The idea suggested as outlined is: that these nations, should they see fit to unite in an agreement upon the subject, could fix a price for wheat to be maintained uniformly through various seasons of overproduction and unsatisfactory crops, caused by drought or continual rain, and thus make the principal grain staple upon which the millions of consumers depend for food, almost as unchangeable in value as gold itself has become.

Suddenly an Heiress. GRANDVILLE, Mich.: Little Spafford, a domestic, will work no more. Fifteen years ago her mother died in poverty.

St. Louis: A special from Hannibal, Mo., says: Five children of Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, living fifty miles north of the city, were burned to death. The barn dwelling was burned while the parents were attending a dance. They had eight children. The oldest, a boy 10 years, and a baby accompanied the parents to the party.

Frolic Ends in Tragedy. MEMPHIS, Tenn.: A special from Birmingham, Ala., says: A party of a dozen young people who left Ensley City in a wagon for a hay ride had their merriment transformed into death and disaster before they had proceeded a mile on their journey.

Ten days ago a new bridge was completed across Village Creek and while crossing this stream the structure gave way, precipitating the wagon and its load of human freight fifteen feet below the water. Not a person in the vehicle escaped uninjured. The strikers of the bridge were too short and by constant jarring they gradually worked off the sills. The jar of the wagon caused them to fall, letting the entire span down.

French Catholics Dissatisfied. MONTREAL, Quebec: The terms of settlement of the Manitoba school question, as agreed upon by the Dominion and Manitoba governments, are far from giving satisfaction to the Catholics of Quebec.

A Threatened Lynching. RICHMOND, Mo.: There was a demonstration in the lives of Jesse Winner and Lon Luckey, who are in the county jail charged with the murder of Winner's wife and her two little children. A crowd of about 100 men, some of them armed with shot guns and pick axes, came in from the country district in which the winners lived and made a demonstration at the jail, demanding the keys to Winner's cell. Sheriff Holman and Deputy C. C. Marshall Murphy were alone at the jail, but they met the mob bravely and the prisoner would be protected and after some loud talk the crowd withdrew.

Die in Each Others Arms. VALLEY CITY, N. D.: A man and a woman registered at a hotel here as Thomas Owens and wife of New Rockford. The room was entered the next morning after their arrival and they were found dead in each other's arms. They had taken a quantity of a note contained money for burial, and said: "Though separated in life, we are sure in death. Make no inquiries as to us."

Big Cleveland Fire. CLEVELAND: A fire destroyed the five story building at No. 149 to Superior Street, occupied by W. H. Lester, grocer and Co., wholesale and retail hardware and paints. The fire was confined to the building in which it originated, which was entirely consumed. The loss is $350,000. Three men were rescued from the building, badly burned and almost asphyxiated. There are rumors that several employees are missing.

Throws Vitrol on Him. CHICAGO: George H. McClusky, a ticket broker, who until recently resided in St. Paul, was badly burned by vitrol thrown at him by his wife. Mr. McClusky left the woman some time ago and she followed him to this city. She saw him in a hotel in Plymouth Place and at once hurled a bottle of vitrol at him. He managed to protect his eyes but his face and neck were terribly burned. The woman escaped and was not arrested.

Three Killed at a Crossing. CONCORD, Ky.: A. D. Pollock, a young lawyer, and Lulu and Luzzo Land, while crossing the railroad track in a carriage, were struck by a train and all fatally killed.

Complete Wyoming Returns. CHEYENNE, Wyo.: Complete returns from every county in the state give the Bryan electors majorities as follows: Van Meter, 180; Martin, 400; Quayle, 383.

Weekly Bank Statement. New York: The weekly bank statement now shows a reserve balance of $4,482,200,000, an increase of $200,000,000 in excess of the legal requirements.

Bradstreet's Review.

New York: Bradstreet's says: Jobbers and other wholesale dealers in general merchandise do not report the anticipated increase in the volume of goods distributed this week. There were increased purchases of holiday goods and the tons of tinware and hardware in one of encouragement. The tendency of hides and leather to advance checks orders for shoes, and while the dry goods market is firm and dealers are hopeful, print cloth has weakened on the reaction in the price of cotton. The strength of raw wool is maintained and orders at the second quotations have been received. Iron and steel industries in some instances have perfected pools for the allotment of production and maintenance of prices. While the latter are firm and may go higher the demand is temporarily checked. In addition to changes in the prices noted, the week is marked by reactions in quotations for wheat, corn and oats, for sugar, turpentine, pork, lard, coffee and petroleum, and for flour in prices, and also several varieties of lumber, iron sheets and tobacco.

There are 903 business failures in the United States this week, 15 fewer than in the corresponding week last year.

To Contest in Kentucky. LOUISVILLE, Ky.: Secretary Richardson of the Democratic state committee, announces that the party has definitely decided to contest the election of eleven McKinley electors in Kentucky. The Democrats concede the election of Cash, who ran 24 votes ahead of Smith, the leading Bryan elector, who in turn ran ahead of his associates by over 2,000, the other eleven McKinley electors receiving a greater number of votes than the other Bryan electors.

The grounds of the contest are alleged to be irregular and fraud in a large number of counties. The Republicans make as their charges of irregularity and fraud as the Democrats. The state contest board is composed entirely of Republicans.

Forger Cooper Confesses. FRUIT, Mich.: Benjamin F. Cooper of Willis H. Conners, under which name he worked in Ohio and Indiana, is in jail here for forging bank checks. He has a confession to the effect that he operated in the name of the Conners, and that he was convicted and whose forgery were worked upon hotel men in Indiana, Ohio, New York and Michigan by himself, Walter B. Peters, the Chicago lithographer, and W. H. Smith, the "kid" who made his escape from jail at Kingston, N. Y., after having been caught at his crime.

To Tie Up State Mines. LEADVILLE: It is reported that the striking miners, in view of the threat of the Governor to suppress violence summarily, have decided to play a trump card which they hope will bring the mine owners to terms; that is to secure a sympathetic strike, tying up all the mines in the state. In this connection it is stated the managers of the Montana mines have decided to reduce wages 50 cents a day. This is expected to precipitate a strike. If this occurs it will cut off the liberal contributions which the Montana miners have been making to the Leadville strike fund.

Postoffice Robber Caught. ST. JOSEPH, Mo.: Postoffice Inspector Reid of St. Louis, has captured the leader of a gang of postoffice robbers who have been operating in northwest Missouri for some time. Joseph McHenry, aged 28, is the name of the prisoner, and he confessed his guilt. Other arrests will follow for the Denver, Mo., postoffice robbery.

Jennie Has Not Returned. PERRY, O. T.: Jennie Metcalf, nee Stephens, a female territory outlaw and bootlegger, has again been arrested in the Creek Nation, charged with peddling whisky to Indians. Jennie was released from the Boston Reform School a month ago, when she announced that she had returned.

Another Football Fatality. CHICAGO: During a football game David M. Wright, 17 years of age, was tackled around the neck and thrown to the ground, the other players piling on top of him. The right arm of Wright's neck was snapped and he received a concussion of the brain.

To Succeed Labanoff. LONDON: The Chronicle's St. Petersburg correspondent says that the czar has invited Gen. Count Veronoff-Dashkoff to succeed the late Prince Labanoff as minister of foreign affairs.

Spute Release from Jail. DENVER: Andrew J. Spute, who was charged by the district attorney with having murdered his wife and five children by causing them to drown, has been released from jail under a writ of habeas corpus on a $5,000 bond.

DELUGE IN THE WEST

RAINS AND CHINOOK WINDS CAUSE FLOODS.

Towns Almost Swept Out of Existence—Business Houses and Residences Crushed Like Paper by Mass of Drifting Debris.

Sad Scenes of Destruction. Never before has Western Washington had such a visitation of floods as now prevail. A Tacoma dispatch says that there is water everywhere.

The Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Canadian Pacific Railroads are blockaded, and it will be several days before traffic can be resumed. The floods have been caused by the four days' almost continuous rain, together with chinook winds which have melted the snowfalls in the foothills. The total damage is estimated at $2,000,000. Business has not suffered alone, for scores of houses are floating about in the devastated fields. Many families have barely escaped with their lives by means of boats. Steamers were sent out in Snohomish, Columbia and Cowlitz Valleys to rescue persons who would otherwise have drowned.

The steamer Florence Henry went down Snohomish River and rescued twenty-five families living on marsh and low lands. In Snohomish County the damage is estimated at $400,000. A Snohomish special says the river there is now twenty-one feet above the regular water mark at high tide. Henry Johns, a rancher, was crossing the river with his wife and three children when the canoe upset and all were drowned. Peter Jackson, a logger, fell from the boom of a cherry picker and was drowned. Many families have remained in the upper stories of their homes and are safe for the present. Several houses went whirling down Snohomish River and were destroyed by crashing into the bridge near Snohomish City. At Lowell both the Great Northern and Monte Cristo floods were washed out. Many log booms have been broken and the logs are being swept into the Sound.

Between Snohomish and Everett the river is six miles wide, being two feet higher than ever before. A Mount Vernon special says Skagit River is ten inches higher than ever before in the history of the county. Dykes are nearly all washed away. Avon is under water. Men were working day and night making dykes to keep the town from being overflooded. Beaver and Olympia marshes are inundated. No trains are running, the track being under water. The Great Northern Railroad bridge is in a precarious condition. West Mount Vernon is flooded. Families are fleeing to the hills to escape the water. Many head of stock are drowned, and the farmers will suffer untold losses. The Cowlitz, Chehalis, White, Nooksack, Stillaguamish and Snohomish Rivers are all from a half mile to two miles wider than usual. Hundreds of head of cattle and horses are drowned. Millions of feet of logs have been lost through the breaking of jams at Kelso, on the Cowlitz River. Two million feet of logs and 3,000 cords of single bolts are missing. The houses and buildings of August Juliusberg at Stockport are gone, and thirteen head of cattle are drowned there.

Portland was directly in the storm center, and the temperature fell to 34 degrees, an almost unprecedented low temperature for this time of the year. The rainfall during twenty-four hours was 2.66 inches.

MORTON MAKES HIS REPORT. Work of the Department of Agriculture Set Forth.

Secretary Morton, in his fourth annual report, shows that with $280,000 which may be saved from the appropriations for the current fiscal year, there will have been covered back into the treasury since March 7, 1893, over $2,000,000 out of total appropriations of $11,179,455.45. That this great economy was effected without any loss of efficiency he attributes in a large degree to the improvement in the personnel of the force under civil service rules. The inspection of animals intended for food is treated at length. The total number of ante-mortem inspections of cattle, sheep, calves and hogs during the year was 35,947,470, an increase over the previous year of 50 per cent. The total number of post-mortem inspections was 23,164,858, an increase of 25 per cent. The total number of abattoirs under inspection in 1893 was 102 in twenty-six cities; in 1892 there were but twenty-eight in twenty cities. Clearances were issued to 819 vessels carrying cattle and sheep. Of cattle there were fagged and exported 377,639, and 422,003 inspected sheep were exported. The percentage of loss in transit was considerably less than ever before. Mr. Morton urges strongly that Government inspection should be extended to all animals intended for human food, whether for consumption in the United States or abroad. The cattle and meat trade of Great Britain is reviewed at length. Of live meat arriving in the United Kingdom during the first six months of 1893, the United States supplied 70 per cent of the cattle and 45 per cent of the sheep. The testimony of the department representatives abroad is that cattle from the United States arrived in English ports in

ITALY IS BEATEN.

King Menelek Has Won in the Abyssinian Struggle.

Congratulations to King Menelek, the dusky sovereign of Abyssinia. He has rescued his country from the avaricious grasp of Italy, which having radiated upon that country the greatest military disasters ever sustained by a European nation in Africa. A year and a half ago the Italians occupied by a military force the northern province of Tigre in Abyssinia, intent upon the actual enforcement of a protectorate, which they had already proclaimed, over the kingdom. For a time, these forces met with success, defeating the scattered troops of the Abyssinians; but after a time King Menelek got a powerful and well-equipped army into the field and inflicted defeat after defeat on the Italians. And then came in March last the utter rout of the Italian army of 20,000 men under Gen. Baratieri. The Italians lost 3,000 men in killed, while 2,500 were taken prisoners, together with large military stores. Since then no hostilities have taken place, the Italians having evacuated Tigre. Now they have recognized by treaty the complete independence of Abyssinia. King Menelek frees the Italian prisoners who have been in his hands since his winter and spring victories and it is to be indemnified by Italy for their support while in captivity.

BUSY WITH HIS MESSAGE. Grover Preparing His Annual Address to Congress.

A Washington correspondent says that President Cleveland is busy writing his annual message, and Secretary Carlisle is equally busy with the preparation of his annual report, which should be laid before Congress on the first day of the session. An unusual degree of interest attaches to both of these forthcoming documents, on a number of accounts, not least among which are the probable recommendations of the President and the Secretary of the Treasury in regard to revenue and monetary legislation. As to the latter, it is by no means improbable that the recommendations of last year will be renewed.

As to revenue legislation, the case is somewhat different. Unless some men who are usually well informed and are generally supposed to enjoy the confidence of some of the higher officials of the administration, if not of President Cleveland himself, are at fault, Congress is to be asked to take early steps to provide more revenue. That this recommendation will coincide with the lines of the Dingley emergency revenue bill, which passed the House of Representatives last winter and was "held up" in the Senate, is not to be expected. The provisions in that measure affecting wool and woolen goods alone would probably have provoked a veto if the bill had passed the Senate at the last session, and may do so if it should pass at the coming session.

From trustworthy sources it has been learned that both the President and Secretary Carlisle are strongly inclined at this time in favor of an increase of the internal tax on beer from $1, the existing rate, to $2 a barrel. It is also understood that the Secretary is somewhat inclined to consider favorably a Assistant Secretary Hamlin's proposition to impose a revenue duty on tea and coffee imported from foreign countries. At $1 a barrel, the internal tax on fermented liquors amounts in round figures to $32,000,000 a year. On the same output and consumption the tax at $2 a barrel would amount, of course, to $64,000,000 a year, and add $32,000,000 to the total annual revenues.

It is contended, however, by the opponents of the proposition to double the tax, that it would neither double nor greatly increase the revenue, especially in the first year after it should become operative.

Moses Thatcher has been ordered to appear for trial before the twelve justices of the Mormon church at Salt Lake City for violation of church discipline. The case originated last year when Mr. Thatcher was a candidate for the United States Senate before the people without taking counsel with the church authorities.

One of the elevators in the American Tract Society's building at the corner of Spruce and Nassau streets, New York, fell twelve stories to the cellar, a distance of 140 feet. There were eleven persons in the car at the time, including the attendant, and those who escaped in injury were badly shaken up.

LOOPHOLE IN THE LAW.

Train Wrecker Davis May Get Out of the Nebraska Penitentiary. After one of the most memorable fights in the history of criminal jurisprudence on the part of counsel for a man charged with murder in the first degree, George Washington Davis, the negro convicted of murder in the second degree for causing a wreck on the Rock Island, a gust of wind now likely to be turned loose from the penitentiary at Kearney, Mo.

Interests Nebraska Farmers. The American Cheyenne Company has issued a circular to all cheyenne farmers fixing the price to be paid for the roots at $9 per ton at the factory at O'Neil. The circular calls attention to the clause of the contracts which fixes the price at $9 per ton, "if no bounty is paid the company," and the provision requiring the farmers to refund the sum of $1.50 per ton if they shall have received $10.50 per ton for the roots.

Rural Delivery Pleases Farmers. The free rural mail delivery has now been carried on the quantity of 120 bushels for two weeks and the carriers are thoroughly conversant with the work dependent upon them. The territory covered by these carriers is a part of Nemaha county, outside of the corporate limits of Tecumseh and the entire price is in process under the supervision of the Post-office Department at Washington for experimental purposes.

Wants Stockholders to Pay Up. Receiver Hill of the late Lincoln Savings Bank says that the bank owes its depositors $182,462.01. Other debts aggregate $78,857.98. The assets consist of real estate, stocks, bonds, furniture, notes, etc., of uncertain value. These are now absolutely unsalable, and cannot be realized on for a long time to come.

Felt His Disgrace Keenly. Fred Holken was found dead on the bank of the Nemaha River near Talmage by his father. He was arrested Saturday night for disturbing the speaker at a religious meeting and put in jail. He was released the next morning, and he informed several persons that he was going to take the law into his own hands.

Beet Growers Kept Waiting. Beet growers in the vicinity of Norfolk report that pay months has been the best they have been offered by the beet sugar company until a decision has been rendered by the supreme court upon the question now pending. Under the terms of the contracts the growers are to receive $4 per ton for beets in the event of the company not receiving the bounty and $5 in case the bounty is paid.

Beet Sugar Men. The third annual convention of the Nebraska Beet Sugar Association was held at Grand Island this week. The delegates visited the Grand Island beet sugar factory while the plant was in full operation. Reports were received showing the beet crop in Nebraska this season to be exceptionally fine.

After Bootleggers. United States Marshal Boehme was at Osceola the first of the week looking after some of the fellows who have been bootlegging for the past few months. It is reported that he gathered in four or five cases to take before the grand jury at the next meeting. It has been proved that a person to get a drink here, provided they had the cash to pay for it.

Young Kamban Shot. Member reports have reached Hemingford of what is supposed to be the fatal accidental shooting of Tru Miller, the son of Dr. W. K. Miller, county coroner. There is no charge of a large stock ranch about thirty-five miles west of Hemingford.

Osceola's Creamery Burns. The only creamery in Polk county, located at Osceola, caught fire and is a total loss. It was worth $100,000.

Contagious Blood Poison.

Mr. Frank B. Martin, who is engaged in the jewelry business at 926 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington City, where he is well and favorably known, was a victim of that worst form of disease—contagious blood poison. He realized that his life was about to be blasted, for this terrible disease has baffled the skill of the physicians for ages, and they have never yet been able to effect a cure. His mental despair can better be imagined than described.

In a recent letter he says: "About four years ago I contracted a severe case of contagious blood poison, and it was not long before I was in a terrible condition. I immediately placed myself under treatment of two of the best physicians in Washington city. Their treatment, which I took faithfully for six months, cost me just three hundred dollars, and left me worse than when I began it. My condition can

Sheriff's Sale.

Nov. 19-5 w.
By virtue of an order of sale issued by the Clerk of the District Court of Wayne county, Nebraska, on the 14th day of September, 1896, and to me directed, in an action wherein George Bogart was plaintiff, and Peter Dall, Cecilia Dall, W. M. Wright and H. B. Hoyd, defendants, for the foreclosure of a mortgage upon the real estate hereinafter described, the defendant, W. M. Wright, upon his cross petition on the 14th day of April, 1896, obtained a decree for the sum of $187.20 and $15.50 costs of suit, and that the premises be sold to satisfy the same, the day of April, 1896, and that the real estate described in the said order of sale to wit: The southeast quarter of section eighteen (18), Township twenty-six (26), range two (2), of the 11th T. in Wayne county, Nebraska, to the highest bidder for cash in hand, on Monday, the 21st day of December, A. D. 1896, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m. and day at the south front door of the court house in Wayne, Nebraska, when and where due attendance will be given by the undersigned. Dated at Wayne, Nebraska, November 18th, 1896. ED. REYNOLDS, Sheriff.

Chattel Mortgage Sale.

Nov. 26-1 w.

The Strength of Nature.

According to the ancient mythology, when Hercules wrestled with Antaeus, every time he was thrown he jumped up again stronger than ever, gaining fresh strength from every contact with the earth. Hercules conquered him at last only by holding him in the air—away from the source of his strength, until he grew weaker and weaker and finally became exhausted. Antaeus is a perfect symbol of mankind. Nature is the real source of health and vigor. The closer we keep to Nature's laws the stronger and healthier we grow. When we get away from them we are sure to be overcome by weakness and disease. When sicknesses hold of a man the only remedy to really cure him must be a natural remedy. Must be according to natural laws and bring him right in touch with Nature. Any unnatural stimulus or mere temporary "appetizer" does no permanent good to a person who is debilitated and "run down."

In these conditions the most perfect natural strength-builder is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts directly upon the natural nutritive processes, and creates solid, permanent strength and vital force in the same way that Nature creates them. It capacitates the stomach and liver to vitalize the circulation and feed the nerve-centres with pure, healthy blood. This is exactly Nature's way of curing nervous exhaustion, debility, indigestion, and neuralgia. During the past 30 years, Dr. Pierce's medicine has become recognized standard remedies throughout the world. His "Pleasant Pellets" are a perfect and permanent cure for constipation.

Sister Eliza L. de Falcon, of Corpus Christi, Nueces Co., Texas, writes: "This is to tell you that I have been ill for twenty-one years and was finally cured by medicine called Golden Medical Discovery and Favorite Prescription. I was completely cured after taking the medicine."

Comfort to California.

Every Thursday morning a tourist sleeping car for Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, and Los Angeles leaves Omaha and Lincoln via the Burlington Route. It is carpeted, upholstered in rattan, has spring seats and backs and is provided with curtains, bedding, towels, soap, etc. An experienced excursion conductor and a uniform Pullman porter accompany it through to the Pacific Coast. While neither as expensively finished nor as fine to look at as a palace sleeper, it is just as good to ride in. Second class tickets are honored and the price of a berth, wide enough and high enough for two, is only $5.00. For a folder giving full particulars, write to J. FRANCIS, Gen'l Pass' Agent, Omaha, Neb.

A Furnace

FOR $30.00
Is something almost unheard of in the history of heating but we have been making a Splendid Economical Furnace for that money for three years with a steadily increasing business. Over thirty of them in use in the city of Norfolk and every one of them working satisfactorily. We make them in three sizes—small enough for a cottage or large enough for a church or store building. It does not make any difference whether your house was arranged for it when it was built or not. If you want to heat the second story of your house and do not want the large hot air pipes going to the upstairs through your rooms, we will heat the second story with one of our combination Hot Water and Hot Air Furnaces. We will give you net price on your heating plant complete. All you need to do is to "touch the button." Correspondence solicited.

$1800.00 GIVEN AWAY TO INVENTORS.
$25.00 every month given away to any one who applies through us for the most meritorious patent during the month preceding.
We secure the best patents for our clients, and the object of this offer is to encourage inventors to keep track of their brains. At the same time we wish to impress upon the public the fact that IT IS THE SIMPLE, TRIVIAL INVENTIONS THAT YIELD FORTUNES, such as the combination lock, the safety lid up and down without breaking the passenger's back, "saucy-pan," "collar-button," "nut-lock," "bottle-stopper," "ice cream scooper" and other little things that most any one can find a way of improving; and these simple inventions are the ones that bring largest returns to the inventor. Try to think of something to invent.

IT IS NOT SO HARD AS IT SEEMS.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice in the "National Recorder," published at Washington, D. C., which is the best newspaper published in America in the interests of inventors. We furnish a year's subscription to this journal, free of cost, to all our clients. We also advertise free of cost, the invention each month which wins our $250 prize, and hundreds of thousands of copies of the "National Recorder" containing a sketch of the winner, and a description of his invention, will be scattered throughout the United States among capitalists and manufacturers, thus bringing to their attention the merits of the invention. All communications regarded strictly confidential. Address JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, 618 F Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

best be appreciated, when I state that my throat and mouth were full of sores and my tongue was almost eaten away; I had not taken solid food for three months. My entire body was covered with red blotches, my hands and feet were sore and my hair was falling out rapidly. I was in a truly pitiable condition.

"I felt that I was incurable, and was in great despair, when a friend recommended S. S. S., stating that it would certainly cure me. I began its use, and when I had finished the fourth bottle, I began to improve, and by the time I had finished eighteen bottles, I was thoroughly rid of the disease; of course, I was not sure that I was cured, but am now convinced, as no sign of the disease has ever returned for four years. S. S. S. is the best blood remedy in the world, and my cure was due solely and alone to it."

Contagious blood poison is the most horrible of all diseases, and has been appropriately called the curse of mankind. It has always baffled the doctors, and, until the discovery of S. S. S., was incurable. For fifty years S. S. S. has been curing this terrible disease, even after all other treatment failed. It is guaranteed purely vegetable, and one thousand dollars reward is offered for proof to the contrary. S. S. S. never fails to cure contagious blood poison, or any other disease of the blood. If you have a blood disease, take a remedy which will not injure you. Beware of mercury; don't do violence to your system. Our books on blood and skin diseases, will be mailed free to any address. The Return of Prosperity.

It is sure that some weeks, and possibly some months, must elapse before the country at large can feel all the good effects of the revival of trade; but the revival is a certainty, not a speculation. It already is in progress. Dun's Review, a trade journal utterly without politics, reports that 300 establishments that were idle before the election have resumed work since Tuesday, Nov. 3, and 300 have increased the number of persons employed. "Every day," says Dun's, "adds thousands to the number of those who are able to buy a week's supplies, and gradually to make up for months of enforced economy." The last clause of the sentence is significant.
"Months of enforced economy" were often months of accumulating debts;
these must be paid before the old-time purchasing power again manifests itself.

The return of prosperity comes in better guise in that it does not wear the robes of speculation. "Business men," says the Weekly Review of Trade, "are anxious to prevent anything like frotitious excitement. There is a greater demand for supplies, materials and products. The speculative markets have been reacting, which is merely natural." We may add that it is as healthful as it is natural. Excepting a return of panic, nothing could be more injurious to the commonwealth than an eruption of speculative fever.

Trade is in a convalescent condition,
and will acquire new strength daily.
All is as well as is possible after two years of panic and nearly two of stag-nation. But while these cheering signs are plainly visible, there are not wanting a few malicious politicians and agitators who are circulating false stories of decreased wages and of discharges of numbers of persons from great works. Chicago has been made the center of this storm of falsehood.

As a matter of fact, none of the great industries of this city have reduced the wages of operatives or diminished the number of them. Chicago is sharing in the prosperity of the whole country, and is finding daily new employment for the thousands that long have been unwilling idlers.—Inter Ocean.

It is more than probable that no man feels happier because of the election of McKinley than Tom Watson.

W. D. McHugh of Omaha, has been appointed by President Cleveland as United States district judge to succeed
E. S. Dundy who died a short time ago.

The people of Kansas may have a chance to use free silver dollars. Some of the members of the legislature of that state are talking of making the Mexican dollar a legal tender.

The official returns of the recent election foot up a total of 230,592 in Nebraska, an increase of 15,891 over 1890 when it was 214,821, the greatest vote ever polled until the election of 1896.

Bryan killed a deer in his recent hunt in Missouri and it is said that the animal was kind enough to stand still until the bullet did its deadly work.
It is not said whether the deer was lariated or not.

The count has been completed.
Bryan gets Wyoming and South Dakota by a very small vote and one elector in Kentucky. The electoral vote now stands as follows: McKinley 272, Bryan 175; McKinley's majority, 97.

From the year 1890, the year in which the largest vote was polled in the state, prior to the presidential election of 1896, the gain in Wayne county was 735,
Dixon 633, Dakota 260, Cuming 438,
Knox 680, Madison 750, Pierce 503,
Stanton 541, Thurston 635, Cedar 135.
Madison county is the only one of the surrounding counties making a larger gain than Wayne, and that is only 15.
The per cent. of gain in Wayne county was 55, the largest per cent. of gain in any county in the state.

NEBRASKA OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT.

Indications Are That Next Year's Crop
Will Exceed That of 1896.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 19.—All the conditions of soil and climate in Nebraska at this time seem to indicate a crop for next year that will equal, if it does not even eclipse, the bumper crop of 1896.
Since the middle of October nearly ten inches of moisture has fallen, and the soil is in splendid condition.

Winter wheat never looked finer at this time of the year, and there will undoubtedly be found a large increase in its acreage. Farmers are busy at work husking some of their big corn crop for the market. Most of it is showing up sixty to seventy bushels to the acre. Immense quantities are being shipped from stations along the Burlington and Missouri Railroad, but a great deal will be fed to stock, which is being brought in from various western points to be put in good condition for the markets at Omaha, Kansas City and Chicago.

The farmers are more hopeful over the prospect for next year than they have been for several seasons past.
The steady stream of new settlers and the increasing inquiries from the people who rent farms in the East is an unfailing indication that the days of cheap farms in Nebraska are fast going and that the opportunity to possess them at their present low values is not going to last much longer.

Considerable interest is being taken in the great number of farmers' institutes to be held throughout the state during the winter months, as soon as the farmers have got their corn husked and marketed. They are genuine schools for farmers, where each may profit by the experience of his neighbor.—Inter Ocean.

The Battle in Nebraska.

(Sioux City Journal.)

NORFOLK, NEB., Nov. 12.—To the Editor: I want to thank you for the article in yesterday's Journal in regard to the battle that was fought in the recent election by the republicans of this and other states west of the Missouri. Few eastern newspapers can comprehend the odds at which Nebraska republicans fought. They faced for the first time in their history a compactly united and determined opposition. In no state in the union was fusion between the populists and democrats carried to such completeness in every detail. It not only comprehended everything on the ticket from presidential electors down to clerks of election, but in some counties the principal court house plums were parceled out for two years to come.
Every bribe of this nature that could be used was placed in the scale, while federal patronage was peddled out with a lavish hand. Against this gigantic force, backed by the cohesive power of public plunder, the republicans of Nebraska made the bravest and hardest fight that was made in any state in the union. And that they battled not without results is shown by the records.
Four years ago Gov. Crouse received 78,000 votes; the populists polled nearly 69,000, the democrats 44,000. On a combined opposition vote the republicans were in the minority by 35,000. This year the republicans have polled very close to 103,000 votes, while the opposition polled very close to 115,000. The republican vote has increased 35,000, the opposition 2,000, or a net republican gain of 33,000 in four years. As you say, we were "not disgracefully beaten" —not by a long shot—except as the word "disgraceful" might apply to the methods by which our defeat was accomplished. Instead, we have achieved a victory, and if the republicans will keep up their splendid fighting organization with unrelaxing vigilance, Nebraska will be wrested from populist control in the next state campaign.
Nebraska should not suffer by reason of the populist victory this year.

The Right to Preach.

If the Clergy are to attack sin—and it is a popular idea that that is what they are here for—they cannot avoid attacks on that kind of politics which is obviously opposed to patriotism and honesty and all good living. Generally the fines are drawn so faintly that there are two good sides to every issue;
and in those cases they had better pray without specifications and sing so small that they won't wake anybody up. But there are exceptions; and, after all, clergymen are citizens, not slaves.—

many each week of the year, but it certainly is poor taste in fact, nonsense for any paper to take up such subjects and ways them before the people instead of working to bring about prosperity. Tearing down will never bring success or prosperity.

The total vote cast in Nebraska this year amounted to 230,592. The highest vote ever before cast in the state was in 1890, when there was not only a state election, but when the question of prohibition was before the people. That year the vote reached 214,816, or nearly 15,000 less than recorded this year.
It was generally supposed that the population of Nebraska has been decreasing during the past five years, but these figures prove the contrary. Where all these votes came from appears to be something of a mystery. The republican campaign managers figured out about how many votes their ticket would get—and it got them. But there were thousands of votes recorded for the fusionists which could not be discovered before election day. We hope there is a full grown man in Nebraska for every vote cast, but there are strong suspicions of fraud in a good many places. Unknown fusion votes were dug up at every election precinct in Nebraska, and this at least attests the fine Italian hand of those in charge of the campaign.—Fremont Tribune.

CHAPTER XVII

An after meal custom of the two ladies was that Mrs. Grace should sit in her easy chair at one side of the window in summer, and Edith at the other, while the girl read the paper aloud.

The old woman's eyes were open. She was broad awake, but not listening for word that Edith read. The girl's voice had a pleasing soothing effect, and she was sadly fancying how they two could manage to live on the narrow means now adjudged to her by fate.

Suddenly there was a sharper, brisker sound than usual in the street. The old woman awoke to observation. The sound approached rapidly, and suddenly stopped close at hand with the harsh, tearing noise of a wheel-tire grating along the curbstone. Mrs. Grace leaped forward and looked out of the window. A cab had drawn up at the door, and a man was alighting.

There's the gentleman who was here yesterday with Mr. Leigh," said Mrs. Grace, drawing him back from the window. "If you please, Mrs. Grace, Mr. Hanbury has called and wishes to see you," said the landlady's daughter from the door of the room.

"Mr. Hanbury wants to see me!" said the old lady in astonishment. "Will you kindly ask him to walk up? Don't stir, darling," she said as Edith rose to go. "No doubt he brings some message from Mr. Leigh."

With a listless sigh the young girl sank back upon her chair in the window place. "I feel," said the young man, as the door was closed behind him, "that this is a most unreasonable hour for a visit of one you saw for the first time yesterday. Mrs. Grace's last night I made a most astounding discovery about you."

"Pray sit down," said the old lady graciously. "I am glad to see you. A visit from the distinguished Mr. Hanbury would be an honor to any house in London."

The young man bowed and sat down. In manner he was restless and excited. He glanced from one of the women to the other quickly and with flashing eyes.

Edith leaned back on her chair and looked at the visitor. The girl could in no way imagine what discovery of this impetuous, stalwart, gifted young man concerned Mrs. Grace and Edith.

"Yes, yes," said the old woman, impatiently. "That is quite right. I had a letter from Mr. Couch this morning saying the Graces had left the place long ago, and owned no property in the place. Have you any other—any better news?"

"Not respecting the Graces of Gracedieu, as far as your questions go."

"Oh," said the old woman, and with a sigh she sank back in the chair, her interest gone. "My granddaughter has just lost all her little fortune. I was anxious to know if there were any traces of her property."

"It was not very much," said the old woman, becoming garrulous and taking for granted Hanbury's intimate acquaintance with Edith and her friends, "and the loss of it was what made my granddaughter accept the companionship of old Mrs. Leigh down at Eitham House, near Millway. Miss Grace could not endure Mr. Leigh, and left, without her luggage, a few hours after arriving there."

"Mr. Couch, the attorney of Castleton, told me that a few weeks ago you caused inquiries to be made in his neighborhood respecting the Grace family. Now, it so happened that this morning, before the city was awake, I started for Castleton to make inquiries about the Grace family."

"What, you, Mr. Hanbury! Are you interested in the Grace family?" inquired the old woman, vivaciously.

"Intrinsically," he answered. "When I had the pleasure of seeing you yesterday I did not take more interest in Castleton than any other out-of-the-way town of which I knew nothing, and my only interest in your family was confined to the two ladies in this room. Last night a document was given me by my mother, and upon reading it, I conceived the most intense interest in Castleton and Gracedieu, and the family which gave that place a name."

He was very elaborate, and seemed relieved upon telling his story in a way he had arranged for his eyes were not so much concerned with Mrs. Grace and Edith as with an internal scroll from which he was reading slowly and carefully.

"I went this morning to Gracedieu to make inquiries as to a branch of the Grace family."

A CALL TO YOUNG MEN

THEIR OPPORTUNITY, SAFETY, DEFENSE AND DESTINY.

Rev. Dr. Talmage Says a Good Home is a Mighty Defense, and So Are Its Distinctive Habits, but He Insists That Religion Is the Strongest of All.

Our Washington Pulpit. A resounding call goes out in this sermon of Dr. Talmage. If heeded, it would be revolutionary in scope. His subject is "Young Men Challenged to Nobility," and the text II. Kings, vi. 17. "And the Lord opened the eyes of the young man."

One morning in Jerusalem a young man, logical and earnest, was looking through the outer fold which he caught by the inner one. Having settled this screen to his satisfaction he left the room and descended once more. "My clock," he thought, "will be enough for fame. I will not meddle with this Miracle Gold. I am committed to nothing, and anything Timmons says will be only slander, even if he did dare to speak."

He reached the street, and wandered on aimlessly. "Hey!" cried a man's voice in alarm. He looked up. The chest of a horse was within a hand's breadth of his shoulder. The horse's head was flung aloft. The horse, snorting and quivering, and bearing back upon his haunches. Leigh sprang aside and looked around. He had almost been ridden over by a group of equestrians. The gentleman whose horse had nearly touched him, took off his hat and apologized.

"You stopped suddenly right under the horse's head," said the gentleman. "I am extremely sorry."

Leigh raised his stick to strike the head of the horse. The rider pulled his horse sharply away and muttered something under his breath. "I think the best thing I can do is to tell you all I know, as briefly as possible."

"It was a French nobleman who fell in love with Kate Grace, the beauty of this place in those times. He made love to her, and she ran away with him, and was married to him in the town of Derby, as the register, my father says, shows to this day. Subsequently she went to London and lived with him as his wife. He sent a substantial sum of money to his father-in-law, and an assurance that Kate had been legally married, but that, for family reasons, he could not acknowledge his wife just then, but would later. Subsequently he went to Russia. He had not been long in St. Petersburg when his wife, Kate Grace, died; they said or a broken heart. It seems that my father was the nobleman's intimate friend. From documents he left and just read by me I find that quite an estate in France is awaiting the claims of the nearest heirs of dead Kate Grace's husband, and that means you, Miss Grace, if I am not mistaken. Have I your permission to continue the quest and secure your rights, if they really amount to anything?"

The old woman held out her hand to the young girl's in it, and Hanbury stood up and bent and kissed the two hands. "We shall be good friends," Hanbury said, smiling upon Edith.

"Yes," she said, simply. "You must know that the man I came with yesterday told me if I accompanied him he would show me something more wonderful than Miracle Gold."

"Yes," she said, for he pined, and her answer by some word or note was necessary to show she was hearkening. "And I came and saw you."

CHAPTER XVIII. The elderly man, shabbily dressed and wearing blue spectacles, who followed Timmons when he went to keep his appointment with Oscar Leigh was Tom Stamer. He suspected that Leigh was not honest and that he might, as he had warned Timmons, even murder the latter. He had followed for the latter's protection, and had sat in the public-house shadowing the place opposite, and waiting for Timmons to come out after his interview with the hunchback.

The next night earlier he returned to the same place. He was with satisfaction that Oscar Leigh was sitting at the top window opposite, working away with a pen on something held in a little vise fixed on his clockmaker's bench.

Oscar Leigh, at his bench in the top room of Forbes' bakery, overlooking the street, was fitting vigorously a bar of brass held in a little vise attached to the bench. He was unconscious that any one was watching him. He was unconscious that the file was in his hand, and that the part of the bar on which he was working gradually grew flatter and flatter beneath the fretting rancor of the file. He was at work from habit, and thinking from habit.

Oscar Leigh was thinking of gold—Miracle Gold. Stamer had resumed his blue spectacles. He was furtively watching out of the corners of his eyes behind the blue glasses the man at the window above, too, was thinking of a metal, but not of the regal, the imperial yellow monarch of the Plutonian realms, but of a livid, dull, deadly, poisonous metal—lead, murderous lead.

The gold-covered dust fell from the dwarf's file like a thin, down-driven spurt of auriferous vapor. "Miracle Gold," he thought, "Miracle Gold. All gold is Miracle Gold when one tests it by that only great regent, the world. The world, the world. In my Miracle Gold there would be found an alloy of copper and silver. Yes, a sad and poisonous alloy. Copper is blood-red, and silver is virgin white, and gold is yellow, a color between the two, and infinitely more precious than they, the most precious of all metals is gold."

"Miracle Gold! Miracle Gold does not need making at my hands. It is made by the hands of others for all who will stretch forth their hands and take it. It is ready made in the palm of every hand that touches yours in friendship. It is the light of every kindly eye. It is on the lips of every friendly tongue. One touch of God's alchemy could make it even in the breast of a hunchback if it might seem sweet to one of God's angels to find it there!"

Stamer took in all that eyes could see in the gable of Forbes' bakery. Then he passed slowly on. It might almost be fancied from his tedious steps that he had hurt his back or his legs in his fall, but he did not limp or wriggle or drag his legs.

had rather be an ox than an eagle; plain and plodding and useful rather than high flying and good for nothing but to pick out the eyes of carcasses. Extraordinary capacity without work is extraordinary loss. He began life resolved to live by his wits, for the probability is that he has not any. It was not safe for Adam, even in his infallible state, to have nothing to do, and therefore God commanded him to be a farmer and horticulturist. He was to dress the garden and keep it, and had he and his wife obeyed the divine injunction and been at work they would not have been sauntering under the trees and hankering after that fruit which destroyed them and their posterity—a proof positive for all ages to come that those who do not attend to their business are sure to get into mischief.

I do not mean that the prodigal in Scripture, would ever have been reclaimed had he not given up his idle habits and gone to feeding swine for a living. The devil does not so often attack the man who is busy with the pen, and the book, and the trowel, and the saw, and the hammer. He is afraid of those weapons. But woe to the man whom this roaring lion meets with his hands in his pockets. Do not demand that your toil always be elegant and cleanly and refined. There is a certain amount of drudgery through which we must all pass whatever be our occupation. You know how men are sentenced a certain number of years to prison, and after they have suffered and worked out the time, then they are allowed to go free. So it is with all of us. God passes on us the sentence, "By the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat bread." We must endure our time of drudgery, and then, after awhile, we will be allowed to go into comparative liberty. We must be willing to endure the sentence. We all know what drudgery is connected with the beginning of any trade or profession, but this does not continue all our lives. It is the student's, or the merchant's, or the mechanic's life. I know you have at the beginning many a hard time, but after awhile those things will become easy. You will be your own master. God's sentence will be satisfied. You will be discharged from prison.

Bless God that you have a brain to think and hands to work and feet to walk with in your constant activity. O young man, is one of your strongest defenses—your trust in God, and do your best. That child like it right when the horses ran away with the load of wood and he sat on it. When asked if he was frightened, he said, "No, I prayed to God and hung on like a beaver."

A Recreative Day. Respect for the Sabbath will be to the young man another preservative against evil. God has thrust into the toil and fatigue of life a recreative day when the soul is especially to be fed. It is no new fangled notion of a wild brained reformer, but an institution established at the beginning. God has made natural and moral laws so harmonious that the body as well as the soul demands this institution. Our bodies are seven day clocks that must be wound up as often as that or they will run down. Failure must come sooner or later to the man who breaks the Sabbath. Inspiration has called it the Lord's day, and he who devotes it to the world is guilty of robbery. God will not let the sin go unpunished either in this world or the world to come.

This is the statement of a man who has broken this divine enactment: "I was engaged in manufacturing on the Leigh River. On the Sabbath I used to rest, but never regarded God in it. One beautiful Sabbath when the noise was all hushed, and the day was all that loveliness could make it, I sat down on my piazza and went to work inventing a new shuttle. I neither stopped to eat nor drink till the sun went down. By that time I had the invention completed. The next morning I exhibited it and boasted of my day's work, and was applauded. The shuttle was tried and worked well, but that Sabbath day's work cost me $30,000. We branched out and enlarged, and the curse of heaven was upon me from that day onward."

While the divine frown must rest upon him who tramples upon this statute, God's special favor will be upon that young man who scrupulously observes it. This day, properly observed, will throw a hallowed influence over all the week. The song and sermon and sanctuary will hold back from presumptuous sins. That young man who begins the duties of life with either secret or open disrespect to the holy day, I venture to prophesy, will meet with no permanent success. God's curse will fall upon his body and his soul. The way of the wicked he turneth upside down. In one of the old fables it was said that a wonderful child was born in Bagdad, and a magician could hear his footsteps 6,000 miles away. But I can hear in the footsteps of that young man on his way to the house of worship to-day the step not only of a lifetime of usefulness, but the unerring step of eternal ages of happiness yet millions of years away.

An Infallible Defense. A noble ideal and confident expectation of approximating to it are an infallible defense. The artist completes in his mind the great thought that he wishes to transfer to the canvas or the marble before he takes up the crayon or the chisel. The architect plans the entire structure before he orders the workmen to begin, and though there may for a long while seem to be nothing but blundering and rudeness, he has in his mind every Corinthian wreath and Gothic arch and Byzantine capital. The poet arranges the entire plot before he begins to chime the first canto of gurgling rhythms. And yet, strange to say, there are men who attempt to build their character without knowing whether in the end it shall be a rude Tartar's tent or a St. Mark's of Venice—men who begin to write the intricate poem of their lives without knowledge of the meter. It shall be a Homer's "Odyssey" or a rhymester's lute.

Nine hundred and ninety-nine men out of a thousand are living without any great life plot. Booted and spurred and planned, and urging their swift course in the hottest haste, I ask: "Hello, man! Whither away?" His response is, "Nowhere." Rush into the busy shop or store of many a one and taking the place out of the man's hand or laying down the yardstick, say, "What man, is all this about—so much stir and event?"

The reply will stumble and break down between teeth and lips. Every day's duty ought only to be the filling up of the man plan of existence. Let men be consistent. If they prefer misdeeds to correct courses of action, then let them draw out the design of knavery and cruelty and plunder. Let every day's falsehood and wrongdoing be added as coloring to the picture. Let bloody deeds red stripe the picture, and the clouds of a wrathful God hang down heavily over the canvas, ready to break out in clamorous tempest. Let the waters be clarified and froth tangled and green with innumerable deaths. Then take a torch of burning pitch and scorch into the frame the right name for the soul's suicide. If one entering upon sinful directions would only in his mind or on paper draw out in awful reality this dreadful future, he would recoil from it and say, "Am I a Dante that by my own life I should write another 'Inferno'?" But if you are resolved to live a life such as God and good men will approve, do not let it be a vague dream, an indefinite determination, but in your mind or upon paper sketch it in all its minutiae. You cannot know the changes to which you may be subject, but you may know what always will be right and always will be wrong. Let gentleness and charity and veracity and faith stand in the heart of the sketch.

On some still brook's bank make a lamb and lion lie down together. Draw two or three of the trees of life, not frost-stricken, nor ice-frozen, nor wind-stripped, but with thick verdure waving like the palms of heaven. On the darkest cloud place the rainbow, that pillow of the dying storm. You need not print the title on the frame. The duldest will catch the design at a glance and say, "That is the road to heaven." Ah, me! On this sea of life, what innumerable ships, heavily laden and well rigged, yet seem bound for no port and are swept away—whither of wind and wave, they go up by the mountains, they go down by the valleys, they are carried to their wits' end. They sail by no chart, they watch no star, they long for no harbor. I beg every young man to-day to draw out a sketch of what, by the grace of God, he means to be. Think no excellence so high that you cannot reach it. He who starts out in life with a high ideal of character, and fails in its attainment will find himself incensed from a thousand temptations. There are magnificent possibilities before each of you, young men of the stout heart, and the boyant spirit, and the bounding spirit. I would marshal you for grand achievement. God now provides for you the field and the armor and the fortifications. Who is on the Lord's side? A captain in ancient times, I encourage his men against the immense odds on the side of their enemies, said, "Come, my men, let us follow in the face. They are 6,000; you are 300. Surely the march is even." That speech gave them the victory. Be not, my hearers, dismayed at any time by what seems an immense odds against you. Is fortune, is want of education, are men, are devils against you, though the multitudes of earth and hell confront you, stand up to the charge. With 1,000,000 against you, the march is just even—now, you have a decided advantage. If God be for us, who can be against us? If thus protected, you need not spend much time in answering your assailants.

Cling to the Cross. You may now have enough strength of character to repel the various temptations to gross wickedness which assail you, but I do not know in what strait you may be thrust at some future time. Nothing short of the grace of the cross may then be able to deliver you from the lions. You are not Moser than Moses, nor holier than David, nor more patient than Job, and you ought not to consider yourself invulnerable. You may have some weak point of character that you have never discovered, and in some hour when you are unsuspecting the Philistines will be upon thee, Samson. Trust not in your good habits, or your early training, or your pride of character—nothing short of the arm of Almighty God will be sufficient to uphold you. You look forward to the world sometimes with a chilling despondency. Cheer up. I will tell you how you may make a fortune. "Seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all other things shall be added unto you." I know you do not yet know the man in this matter. Give God the freshness of your life. You will not have the heart to drink down the brimming cup of life and then pour the dregs of God's altar. To a Saviour so infinitely generous you have not the heart to act like that. That is not brave. That is not honorable. That is not manly. Your greatest want in all the world is a new heart. In God's name I tell you that. And the Blessed Spirit presses through the solemnities and privileges of this holy hour. Put the cup of life eternal to your thirsty lips. Trust it not back. Mercy offers it—bleeding mercy, long suffering mercy. Reject all other friendships, be ungrateful for all other kindness, prove unrepentant to all other bargains, be indignant to God, be your immortal soul—do not do that.

I would like to see some of you this hour press out of the ranks of the world and lay your conquered spirit at the feet of Jesus. This hour is no wandering vagabond staggering over the earth; it is a winged messenger of the skies whispering mercy to thy soul. Life is smooth now, but after awhile it may be rough, wild and precipitate. There comes a crisis in the history of every man. We seldom understand that turning point until it is far past. The road of life is forked, and I read on two signboards: "This is the way to happiness" and "This is the way to ruin." How apt we are to pass the fork of the road without thinking whether it comes out at the door of bliss or gates of sorrow. On the anniversary platform with a minister of Christ who made this remarkable statement: "Thirty years ago two young men started out in the evening to attend the Park Theater, New York, where a play was to be acted in which the cause of religion was to be placed in a ridiculous and hypocritical light. They came to the steps. The consciences of both smote them. One started to go home, but returned again to the door, and yet had but courage to enter, and finally departed. But the other young man entered the play. That was the turning point in the history of these two young men. The man who entered was caught in the whirl of infamy. He sank deeper and deeper in infamy. He was lost. That other young man was saved, and he now stands before you to bless God that for twenty years he has been permitted to preach the gospel."

Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth; but know that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment. Every man has some peculiar train of thought which he falls back upon when he is alone. This, to a great degree, moulds the man.—Dugald Stewart.

God is God, and long is eternity.

George III. and Despotism.

George III. had at last reached his aim. In the early days of his infancy (which began in that year) his influence was felt to be predominant. In his later and more disastrous days it was supreme; for Lord North, who became the head of the ministry on Graton's retirement in 1770, was the mere mouthpiece of the King. "Not only did he direct the minister," a careful observer tells us, "in all important matters of foreign and domestic policy, but he instructed him as to the management of debates in Parliament, suggested what motions should be made or opposed, and how measures should be carried."

He reserved for himself all the patronage, he arranged the whole cast of the administration, settled the relative place and pretensions of ministers of state, law officers and members of the household, nominated and promoted the English and Scotch Judges, appointed and translated bishops and deans, and dispensed other preferments in the church. He disposed of military governments, regiments and commissions, and himself ordered the marching of troops. He gave and refused titles, honors and pensions. All this immense patronage was steadily used for the creation of a party in both houses of Parliament attached to the king himself.

George was, in fact, sole minister during the fifteen years which followed, and the shame of the darkest hour of English history lies wholly at his door.

A Great Battle. My young friends, there is no way to genuine success except through toil either of head or hand. At the battle of Croy in 1346 the Prince of Wales, finding himself heavily pressed by the enemy, sent word to his father for help. The father, watching the battle from a windmill, and seeing his son was not wounded and could gain the day if he would, sent word: "No, I will not come. Let the boy win his spurs, for, if God will, I desire that his day be his with all his honors." Young man, fight your own battle all through and you shall have the victory. Oh, it is a battle worth fighting! Two monarchs of old fought a duel, Charles V. and Francis, and the stakes were kingdoms, Milan and Burgundy. You fight with sin and the stake is heaven or hell.

Do not get the fatal idea that you are a genius, and that, therefore, there is no need of close attention. It is those who are self-ignorant who are the most successful. The geniuses—men with enormous self-confidence and egotism and nothing else.

HERALDRY.

One View of the Shorthand of History and Chronology.

Heraldry can make the world a glorified world. It is a quarry where every one may dip his oar, and if heraldry became again a fine art she could be once more the bride of history, while art with her tumult of enthusiasm alone can deck her fittingly. Without art heraldry is an uncouth and dead thing; with art she liveth for every one and is truly a science.

Heraldry creates intelligent curiosity and stimulates historic imagination. She awakens interest in generations gone by and should be taught, says Mr. Ruskin, to the young men and maidens of the street and lane, for heraldry helps to decipher the forgotten handwriting on the wall and the glorious record of our ancestors' doings and strivings and progress and upward climbing in the long crusade against tyranny and slavery and ignorance and intolerance.

That heraldry is the shorthand of history and chronology seems to be now allowed; and heraldry, in a sense, should be the application of the fine arts of sculpture and painting to family history. It is the silent language which Christendom adopted and developed at the time of the crusades. In silence and in hope she spoke, through the eyes, to the heart of Christendom, of the noble deeds of her children, and she is altogether indispensable if the heraldic allusions in Dante, Chaucer, Spenser, Shakespeare, Scott, etc., are not to be entirely lost.

Heraldry has received the sanction of centuries, and a herald of the true strain is neither finicking, fretful nor faulty, but full of godly joy and at times even of pious mirth. And if some peep and mutter at abuses, forgetting that the abuse of anything is no argument against its proper use, others see and learn that heraldry has educational value, is to many a race a wayside sacrament and blazes broad its potent influence—namely, that nothing must be done to tarnish the family escutcheon.

In England, also, in the absence of hereditary rank, coat armor is the only distinctive mark of birth and high blood for the untitled nobility.—Nineteenth Century.

Heavy Justice.

It seems that abnormally stout people have their uses in this world as well as other things. The other day, as an exceedingly corpulent old gentleman was leisurely proceeding along Regent street, a detected pickpocket, who was fleeing at the top of his speed from two myrmidons of the law, violently collided with him, and the pair rolled over in the gutter together, the stout gentleman on top.

The pickpocket made strenuous but unavailing efforts to extricate himself from under the mountain of flesh, but the corpulent gentleman remained a fixture until the pursuers came up and captured the rascal.

Then the fat man picked himself up, nothing the worse for his mishap and moved off with the remark that so long as he had breath in his body, his weight would "always be" thrown on the side of law and justice.—Pearson's Weekly.

Artificial Halos or "Sun Dogs."

An experiment which illustrates in a very curious manner, the actual philosophy of the formation of halos or "sun-dogs" has been made by Drs. Brewer and Dixon and is explained by them as follows: Take a solution of alum and spread a few drops of it over a pane of glass. It will readily crystallize in small, flat octohedrons, scarcely visible to the eye. When this pane of prepared glass is held between the observer and the sun, or even a candle (with eyes very close to the smooth side of the glass), there will be seen three different but distinct and beautiful halos, each at a different distance from the luminous body.—St. Louis Republic.
