HAPPENINGS OF THE PAST WEEK.

THE CITY CAUCUSES.

The war is now on and the result will be a "survival of the fittest." The two caucuses for placing in nomination candidates for city offices have been held, and with but one or two exceptions possibly, the candidates of each caucus are men who have the welfare of the city at heart, and there are men of both parties on each ticket. Great interest in the selection of members of the school board was noticeable in each caucus.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.
The republican caucus was held Friday evening at the court house at which time U. S. Conn was elected chairman and E. Laughlin secretary. Everything passed off harmoniously until the selection of members of the school board. J. Stringer, Captain Matthews, J. W. Alter and Dan Harrington were placed in nomination for Mayor, the vote being about a tie the first ballot. Mr. Stringer receiving a majority on the third ballot.

I. W. Alter and E. Laughlin were placed in nomination for City Clerk, the first ballot resulting in a tie, Mr. Laughlin receiving a majority of three on the second ballot.

Lambert Roe was nominated by acclamation for City Treasurer and A. T. Witter secured the nomination for Police Judge.

Then came the tug of war. A. F. Brenner, R. C. Osborn, I. W. Alter and W. H. Bradford were placed in nomination for members of the school board to be selected from the second ward. After considerable wrangling and with much dissatisfaction it was decided that the two receiving the highest number of votes should be declared the nominees for the two and one year terms. Seventy-six votes were cast, Brenner receiving 35, Osborn 31, Bradford 29 and Alter 21. Brenner being the only one receiving a majority of the votes, the voters desired to vote again on the other three for the one year term, but were not privileged. A previous motion had been made to nominate Osborn by acclamation but was defeated by a rising vote of 33 to 10. Brenner and Osborn were declared the nominees. A motion was made to nominate E. D. Mitchell by acclamation for a two year term from the third ward but the motion was opposed and Dr. J. J. Williams was placed in nomination. Mitchell won by a majority of two. Dr. Williams and H. Ley were then placed in nomination for the three year term, Mr. Williams receiving a majority of five on the second ballot. E. Hunter and J. D. King were placed in nomination from the first ward for a three year term, King receiving the nomination.

CITIZENS' CAUCUS.
The citizens' caucus was held at the court house Saturday night and many of the republicans attending the previous caucus were present. The following men were placed in nomination with little opposition: H. Ley, Mayor; Will Rickabaugh, City Clerk; Nelson Grimsley, Treasurer; and A. T. Witter, Police Judge; many of the republicans participating.

The selection of members of the school board was again contested. C. O. Fisher and J. S. Lewis were nominated by acclamation for the three year terms. A motion was then made to nominate A. F. Brenner and E. D. Mitchell by acclamation for the two year terms but this was opposed. Brenner was nominated by acclamation, and J. P. Gaertner and Mitchell contested for the place, Gaertner receiving the nomination by a vote of 61 to 37. Osborn, Bradford and M. P. Savidge were placed in nomination for the one year term, the first vote resulting Osborn 44, Bradford 35, Savidge 15. The next ballot resulted: Osborn 59, Bradford 43, Savidge 2.

WARD CAUCUSES.
The republicans placed J. H. Goll in nomination in the First Ward, D. C. Main in the Third, and Ben Prazier in the Second. The nominees are all good men and there is not much chance for making a mistake in voting. The citizens' placed in nomination C. B. Owens in the First Ward, and Mr. Main and Ben Prazier were endorsed in their wards.

The right of a lot of college students who are not voters in the city, to vote in the caucuses, is questioned.

This course has been decided upon because many of the young lads announce to their parents their intention of attending the association at night for the purpose of reading, yet do not, but instead run at will about the city. Because of this the officers received the censures of parents and for that reason the order had to be made.

It seems that some of Mueller's horses which are turned loose to run at will, were a source of annoyance as well as damage to Mr. Knouse, who finally locked them up in his stable yard. Mueller came after the horses but Mr. Knouse refused to let him have them until he paid damages. Mueller left threatening to return, which he did in a short time, brandishing a revolver, and after firing a shot, succeeded in getting his horses. Mueller was arrested with the result as above stated.

DEATH OF MRS. H. D. POST.

Democrat, Freeport, Ill., March 19.

Last night about 8:30 o'clock, one of the most gracious of the younger generation of Freeport matrons, Mrs. Herbert D. Post, passed into her eternal rest after an illness that lasted but a few hours.

The news of Mrs. Post's death, which became current a short time after it occurred, caused the sharpest surprise, for such a possibility had not occurred to those who knew her and were accustomed to seeing her frequently, and expressions of the deepest regret came from all quarters. The details of the almost tragic ending of her young life were not learned until this morning, and they did not lessen the sorrow that friends and acquaintances felt, except that they were thankful that death came quietly and unaccompanied by suffering. Mrs. Post had not been entirely well for some days, and yesterday morning she was lying down in her room the greater part of the time. However she arose and dressed for dinner, at which she entertained two of the ladies of the Rockford minstrel company, who were particularly warm friends of hers, and others of the young ladies called at the house during the afternoon. Mrs. Post laughing and talking with them gaily, and looking the picture of health and contentment. Her husband was at the house until two o'clock and Mrs. Post spoke to him about attending the minstrel rehearsal in the afternoon, as she felt she would be unable to do so the evening. He advised her not to do so, but said if she did go to telephone for a carriage.

Mr. Post went to the store, leaving his wife with her friends, who remained some time longer, and though she finally determined, not to attend the rehearsal, she invited two of her friends to return to her home and spend the night with her, which they agreed to do, and it was only when they had started for her home after the performance was over, that they learned that she was dead.

In what way Mrs. Post spent her time from the hour her guests left until she was found swooning on the bed in her room by a servant a little after 6 o'clock is not definitely known. The frightened domestic telephoned Mr. Post at that time, who hurried home and immediately sent for Drs. Hayes and Burbank, who worked with all their might to save the patient. Dr. Caldwell also being called in after supper. But their best efforts were fruitless, and she sank steadily and surely until 8:30 o'clock, when the end came. The physicians spoke of her death as the result of a complete collapse, though of what nature and what cause, they were not prepared to say until after an autopsy had been held.

During the time that she was slipping steadily away from life in spite of the efforts the physicians were making to save her, Mrs. Post recovered sufficiently to tell her occupation just previous to her sudden illness. She said she was in her room with her year old baby sitting on the chair in front of her. In wriggling around it was about to fall, which frightened her, and she sprang up quickly, caught the child and straightened up with it and carried it to the bed, upon which she fell fainting.

At the request of Mr. Post, and to satisfy themselves as well, Drs. Hayes, Burbank and Caldwell made a post mortem examination of Mrs. Post's body this morning at 11 o'clock and found that death had come from an internal hemorrhage, resulting from the rupture of a small artery in the abdomen. One of the physicians stated that a gallon of blood was found in the abdominal cavity and that death could not have been prevented. The presumption is that when she made the sudden movement to catch her child the blood vessel burst, being weakened by her previous illness, and she slowly bled to death. With the instincts of a mother, Mrs. Post saved her baby from a threatened injury, but lost her own life by so doing.

Mrs. Caroline E. Post, nee Wise, was but 28 years old at the time of her death, and no purer, sweeter woman than she was, has her home in Freeport. She was rarely beautiful in the truest sense of the term, with regular features, a prettily curved red lipped mouth and remarkably fine eyes; a graceful well developed figure, and most charming of all, a gracious dainty manner that was wholly attractive. She was thoroughly liked by everyone who came in contact with her, and to her friends was the embodiment of those qualities that make a good and lovable woman. Her kindly nature and affectionate disposition were shown in her treatment of all with whom she dealt, and particularly in her care for her little stepson, to whom she was all that a mother could have been. She led a rather quiet home life, but had delightful social talents and accomplishments.

Mrs. Post was born in Belle Plaine, Ia., and was well educated and developed unusual ability as a reader and elocutionist, her first introduction to Freeport being as a reader. At the time, a little over two years ago, her home was in Sioux City, Iowa, but she was then living at Rockford with a sister, now dead, and had a large class in elocution and Delsarte exercises. Her marriage to Herbert D. Post occurred at the home of his uncle, H. D. Cook, of Chicago, January 29th 1895, the Rev. Edgar P. Hill performing the ceremony. Since that time she has lived here. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church and an active worker in the societies connected with it. Mrs. Post leaves her husband and 13 months old boy, Joseph W., her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wise, of Council Bluffs, Ia., one brother, Willard Wise, there also, a sister, Mrs. McNeal, of Wayne, Nebr., a sister, Mrs. Wallace and another brother at Houston, Texas.

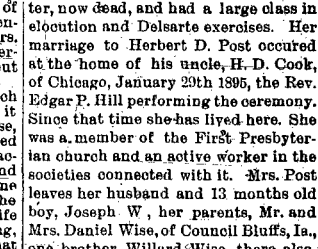

Mrs. Post was a member of the Freeport Woman's Club.

The Rockford Star of this morning, speaking of her death, says: "Mrs. Post was well known in this city. As Miss Caroline Elizabeth Wise she came to this city four years ago and spent an entire season here. She was a rarely beautiful woman and in addition possessed unusual talent as an elocutionist. She organized a large class here and made friends rapidly. She was loved wherever she was known, and her death will bring pain to many hearts."

A SAD DEATH.

A very sad affliction came to the family of Hon. J. R. Manning in the death of his daughter Mary, aged 16 years, on Friday night, March 19th. Deceased had been suffering from measles with two others in the family. She had so far recovered however, that no alarm was felt concerning her. She had taken nourishment throughout the day and retired apparently much improved. During the night her mother noticed her moving and found her worse. The family was called and in five minutes she had breathed her last. It is thought that heart failure was the immediate cause of her death. At the funeral service Sunday afternoon the church was packed with sympathizing friends. The sermon was preached by Pastor Theobald of this city.

BY STORM AND FLOOD.

TREMENDOUS DAMAGE OVER A WIDE AREA.

Wisconsin, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi and Alabama suffer from the greatest visitation in years.

And the Floods Came. The peculiar meteorological conditions of the past few weeks culminated Friday and Saturday in floods which for vastness of volume and extent exceed anything in the history of the country.

Of Northern cities, Milwaukee was the worst sufferer. The district of the city known as the Menominee Valley, was submerged to a depth of over ten feet, and a large number of people were imprisoned in their homes.

At Laverne, Minn., the Little Rock River was a mile wide, pouring a vast volume into the Sioux. A dozen bridges in Southwestern Minnesota went down, and all traffic on several branches of the Great Northern, Northwestern and Milwaukee lines running Northwest Iowa and Eastern South Dakota was suspended.

Advices from Omaha say: "With every stream in Nebraska and Western Iowa pouring a flood of unusual proportions into the Missouri River and the enormous volume of water coming down from the north from the tributaries of that stream, the indications are that one of the most disastrous floods in this region of the Missouri valley is certain."

From the north to the south, the life of Nebraska the Missouri is full of heavy ice and in some places, the channel is solidly blocked with enormous gorges of ice. The frequency with which these gorges are forming and giving way in the Missouri and its Nebraska tributaries is causing the volume of water to fluctuate in the most remarkable manner.

Thus far the damage in the interior of the State as a result of the swollen streams is much heavier than along the Missouri where the real force of the flood has scarcely yet been felt. The damage along the Missouri is confined very largely to the Iowa side, where the land is much lower than on the western shore.

United States Weather Observer Welsh of Omaha said Friday night: "I do not see how, in some places, the channel is solidly blocked with enormous gorges of ice. The frequency with which these gorges are forming and giving way in the Missouri and its Nebraska tributaries is causing the volume of water to fluctuate in the most remarkable manner."

The ice is soft in the Missouri at Sioux City, and the river is rising rapidly. Gorges are forming and the people living along the lowlands are vacating their homes and moving their property to higher grounds.

At scores of points large forces of men are at work with dynamite breaking up the ice masses. At Sioux City, the Sioux city and Northern bridge went out, and all other structures over the flood from Le Mars down. The Big Sioux passed all previous marks, entirely flooding the village of Westfield and making a clean sweep of Milwaukee and St. Paul bridges and culverts.

In the Minnesota-South Dakota affected districts, many towns were submerged, and all rail traffic stopped. Laverne, Spring Valley, Faribault and Preston, in Minnesota, and Centerville, Vermilion, Pembina, and Jamestown, in the Dakotas, all suffered severely.

In Tennessee, Memphis was high and dry, yet surrounded by water; and the city was overrun by thousands of refugees, brought in by steamers which had navigated over what is ordinarily fertile territory. These refugees were in the most abject destitution, nearly all colored, and very muddy. Relief from outside will surely be needed.

Chicago's particular portion of these remarkable conditions took the form of enormous quantities of water, and a Stygian darkness at mid-afternoon Friday. Business stopped with a jolt. Blackness and an impenetrable pall of fog made electric headlights of motor cars invisible across the street. Sixteen-story buildings were hidden from sight. In all districts a semi-panic prevailed, for remembrance of the St. Louis cyclone was vividly awakened. People scurried like frightened rabbits into any burrow that promised protection. This condition lasted but a few minutes, but was repeated several times, when ensued a down-pour resembling a cloudburst, followed later by violent electric storms, raising dire confusion in the alarm and electric light stations. Aside from flooded basements no damage is reported.

Representative hall at Lansing, Mich., was closely packed by members of the Legislature and citizens of Michigan who participated in a celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the State capital at Lansing and the sixtieth anniversary of the admission of Michigan to the Union.

Mrs. Mollie Grady died at Knoxville, Tenn., from a peculiar trouble. She had been unconscious for ten days. One hour before her death her skull burst open. Then her feet and hands turned, reversing their natural position.

JAMES J. CORBETT, EX-CHAMPION.

ROBERT FITZSIMMONS, CHAMPION.

FITZ WINS THE FIGHT

KNOCKS OUT CORBETT IN A LIVELY BATTLE.

Cornishman Is Loudly Cheered—Big Crowd Is Present—Estimated that at Least $500,000 Was Staked on the Result of the Contest.

Fought Fourteen Rounds.

Robert Fitzsimmons defeated James J. Corbett in the fourteenth round in the pugilistic championship of the world. The decisive blow was a left swing on the pit of Corbett's stomach. He fell on his face in the center of the ring and was unable to regain his feet in the specified ten seconds.

The result of the battle came like a bolt of lightning to Corbett's friends, who deemed him literally invincible. The knickerbocker should net $100,000 to each pugilist, in addition to which Fitzsimmons receives the purse of $10,000 and Corbett's side bet of $5,000. There were about twenty women present. Fitzsimmons weighed 167 and Corbett 183 pounds.

Time was called at 12:07. The lanky pugilist refused to shake hands with Corbett. The opening sparring was cautious, but the Cornishman soon began to force Corbett, trying a left swing.

For thirteen rounds the two men swayed and shifted pythoonlike around the white rosined floor, watching each other like two great eagles. Then the hell clang for the fourteenth, and up they came again, light-footed, wary and aggressive. Fitzsimmons was bleeding badly at the mouth. Four thousand spectators roared around the ringside like a troop of lions.

Hundreds of men became hoarse and hysterical with howling.

Fitzsimmons' small, ferrety eyes twinkled in his pink and applelike face like little bits of shiny glass as he swayed up to Corbett for the final round.

Champion Is Fallen. Corbett darted forward and drove his long left in Fitzsimmons' stomach. The latter grunted and swung back with three hard raps on the Californian's jaw. The finish followed, like a thunderbolt. Fitzsimmons sprang forward with a great right-handed smash over Corbett's heart. The blow would have finished an ordinary man. It only staggered the tremendously muscular fighter. That momentary stagger, however, was sufficient; Fitzsimmons rushed in with a left fist into the pit of the Californian's stomach. Down went the big fellow on all fours, like a stricken beef. All his grand strength had vanished. Fitzsimmons, with his face still contorted in that red and featureless smile, stepped away at the order of the referee, who sprang between them. With a roar like that of a whirlwind 4,000 spectators sprang to their feet, turning over chairs, crashing over boxes and pouring flood-like down the yellow pine slope toward the ringside.

It is estimated that not less than $500,000 changed hands all over the country on the result of the fight. Most of this money was wagered at Carson City, New York and San Francisco. Corbett wagered nearly $5,000 on himself in addition to the stake of $10,000 a side. Fitzsimmons did not bet any money, for the reason that he had none to bet. His stake money, even, was deposited by two New York and one Detroit sporting men. Martin Julian, his manager, is financially as bad-off as his brother-in-law.

The fight was for a purse of $15,000 and a wager of $10,000 a side, the winner to take all. It was announced for the championship of the world, but as the championship of the world has never been technically held by one man, the title is not generally looked upon as settled by the fight.

GRANT'S TOMB READY.

Mausoleum Vios in Grandeur with Those of Great Kings of Old.

In Riverside Park, New York, will be witnessed on Tuesday, April 27, one of the greatest civil and military displays in the history of the world. The demonstration on land will be accentuated by a naval display on the river, 130 feet below, the like of which has seldom been seen in any part of the world.

On that day the seventy-fifth anniversary of the birth of Ulysses S. Grant, the magnificent mausoleum erected to perpetuate the memory of the great Union general will be dedicated. The New York Legislature already has designated it to be a State holiday, and, by the plans which are now under way, it will be a national holiday as well in fact if not in law.

It has taken twelve years to bring about the erection of a tomb for the soldier-statesman that would be accepted as a fitting acknowledgment of a nation's debt to a nation's hero. The magnificence of the pile on which the finishing touches are now being put in Riverside Park is a sufficient answer to the cynical. One republic, in one instance at least, has proved itself not ungrateful, and all the world is expected to bear witness to the consummation of the proof.

It is expected that President McKinley, Vice-President Hobart, Speaker Reed, the Governor of every State in the Union, the representatives of every foreign nation at Washington, the United States Senate, the House of Representatives, the State Legislatures and the heads of the principal public organizations of every character in the United States will participate in the dedicatory ceremonies. The Federal troops, the National Guard from a score of States, the North Atlantic Squadron, together with many vessels from the navies of foreign nations, will join in the demonstration. Already those in charge feel safe in predicting that more than 250,000 men, including thousands of soldiers who followed Grant to victory thirty-two years ago, will seek places in the parade.

Carter Harrison, II, Is the Candidate on the Democratic Ticket.

Carter Harrison, the Democratic nominee for Mayor of Chicago, is 37 years old.

CARTER HARRISON.

He was born in the Harrison homestead at Clark and Harrison streets. He attended the public schools. He was taken to Germany and put into the gymnasium of Altenburg. This preparatory course fitted him for college, and he graduated from St. Ignatius, Chicago, in 1881. He studied law two years at Yale. He practiced five years after 1883, and formed a real estate partnership with his brother until his father bought the Chicago Times in 1884. He filled nearly all the managing positions on the paper until the sale in 1894. His family consists of Mrs. Harrison, Carter III, who is a rousing boy, and Edith, the baby.

BISHOP B. W. ARNETT.

Presented McKinley with the Bible on Which He Took the Oath. Bishop B. W. Arnett of Wilberforce College, Ohio, who presented President McKinley with the beautiful morocco bound Bible which he kissed on taking the oath of office, is one of the leading lights of the African Methodist Episcopal Church in America. The bishop's son, Henry Y. Arnett, took a leading part in the late campaign. He was chairman of the Afro-American League of Ohio, and did splendid work among the colored people of his State. The Bible was given to President McKinley by the Afro-American of Ohio. It is bound in crushed blue leather, the covers lined with satin and the edges gilded. There is a gold plate on the first cover with an appropriate inscription. The book was opened, and as the new President kissed it his lips met this verse: "Give me now wisdom and knowledge, that I may go out and come in before this people; for who can judge this, Thy people, that is so great?" It is the tenth verse of the first chapter of Second Chronicles, and contained, certainly, a very fitting sentiment for the occasion. The volume was opened by Clerk McKinney without reference to any special place, and the presidential or accidental selection of the verse in question was as happy as any that ever befell Haroun al Raschid and his Koran. It is the custom for the Supreme Court to furnish the Bible for the presidential swearing in, and this Bible and the one used by ex-President Cleveland have been the only exceptions to the rule. The little red Bible used by Mr. Cleveland was given him by his mother when he was a boy. The book used by President McKinley will be valuable to him as a souvenir.

and an excellent diplomat. For four years he was President Lincoln's secretary, except for the time he spent in the army, which, although it was short, was sufficient for him to become a major and a brevet colonel. He was secretary of legation at Paris and at Madrid and later was charge d'affaires at Vienna. He is erudite, suave, polite and skilled in the understanding of even small things—qualities that go far toward making up the diplomat. He studied law, although his life has been mainly given to literature. Col. Hay is 59 years old, and lives in Washington. Col. Hay has been actively interested in politics since 1875. He was assistant Secretary of State under President Hayes.

BOTH ARE EXECUTED

SCOTT JACKSON AND WALLING DIE ON ONE SCAFFOLD.

Former Made Another Confession Declaring His Companion Innocent, But Took It Back—Justice Avenge the Murder of the Housier Girl.

Were Strangled to Death. Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling were hanged in Newport, Ky., Saturday for the murder of Pearl Bryan, of Greensburg, Ind. Both were strangled and died in great agony. Both declared their innocence after the death warrant was read. On arriving at the scaffold the prisoners stood with bowed heads while a prayer was said. At its conclusion they bid farewell to those grouped about them. Pastor Lee was overcome after his prayer at the final scene on the scaffold and had to be carried away.

not guilty. This proceeding stopped the march to the gallows. Sheriff Plummer called in Walling's attorneys and they wired Gov. Bradley. Jackson broke completely down just as the march to the gallows was ordered to start, and wept like a child as he cried out that Walling was not guilty. Gov. Bradley, on receipt of the dispatch, called up Circuit Judge Helm by telephone and had an extended conference with him. The Governor expressed the belief that Jackson's confession was only intended to gain time; that it meant nothing, as it simply stated that Walling was not guilty of murder. The Governor decided to let the execution proceed, and wired the Sheriff that if Jackson made a statement on the gallows exonerating Walling to suspend Walling's execution until further directions.

Would Not Clear Walling. After coming from the consultation with the Governor Judge Helm told Jackson that he must hang and if he allowed Walling to hang with him he would have to answer to his Maker for a double crime. He also impressed Jackson with the fact that if he went before his Maker with a lie on his lips he would be doing a double wrong. He then gave Jackson five minutes in which to make up his mind leaving him unattended except by the death watch. At the expiration of the time Jackson said that he could not say that Walling was innocent. This settled the fate of both prisoners. Just before leaving the cell Walling said: "I will tell you now at the last moment of my life that I was not there and I am innocent of the whole crime. Jackson has said as much, but it seems it will not save me. I cannot say any more. I will say no more on the scaffold."

An immense crowd was present, but was not allowed to see the bodies after they were taken down. The funeral of Jackson was held at Newport, and that of Walling at Hamilton. Jackson's remains were buried at Wiscasset, Me. The directors of the cemetery at Greensburg, Ind., where the remains of Pearl Bryan rest, refused to let Jackson's body be buried there.

REVIEW OF THEIR WORK AT WASHINGTON.

Detailed Proceedings of Senate and House—Bills Passed or Introduced in Either Branch—Questions of Moment to the Country at Large.

The Legislative Grind.

The House did nothing Tuesday, awaiting the action of the Ways and Means Committee on the tariff bill. In the Senate to-day 438 bills and eight joint resolutions were introduced. They embraced nearly every phase of public business. Mr. Allen's batch of bills numbered about seventy-five. They included bills directing the foreclosure of the government lien on the Union Pacific road; to prevent professional lobbying; defining the powers of the judiciary; for service pensions, etc. Mr. Lodge's bills included those to amend the immigration laws and for a Hawaiian cable. Bankruptcy bills were presented by Mr. Nelson, of Minnesota, and Mr. Lindsay, of Kentucky. Mr. Morgan reintroduced the Nicaragua canal bill before the last Congress, and also a joint resolution to abrogate the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. A resolution by Mr. Frye, of Maine, calling for information as to the operation of civil-service rules to river and harbor work was agreed to after some criticism of civil-service operations.

Mr. Frye said it was a step toward abolishing those rules so far as they related to common labor on engineering work of the government. The Senate adjourned until Thursday, as did the House. The session of the Senate Thursday was brief. A smile went around the chamber when Mr. Stewart, a resident of Carson City, Nev., where the pugilistic contest occurred, offered a bill for the relief of one Corbett. It proved to be a private pension bill. One of the measures introduced by Mr. Walling proposed an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting legislation in behalf of any religious denomination. Mr. Turpie, of Indiana, gave notice of a speech "on the election of Senators by popular vote" and introduced a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution for the purpose. The first report of the session was presented by Mr. Gear, of Iowa, from the Committee on Pacific Railroads and was favorable to the bill for an adjustment of the Pacific Railroad debts by a commission consisting of the Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of the Interior and Attorney General. A resolution by Mr. Lodge, of Massachusetts, was agreed to instructing the Committee on Foreign Relations to inquire whether the islands of St. Croix, St. Johns and St. Thomas of the West Indian group could be purchased by the United States, and, if not, the probability of their sale to other powers. At 1 o'clock the arbitration treaty was reported and debate began. Speaker Reed was definitely decided that for the present at least he will not appoint any of the regular committees of the House beyond the three already announced. In this way all miscellaneous legislation will be blocked and the entire attention of the House focused on the tariff bill. The bills, which are being introduced by the hundreds, will have to wait until the committees to which they would go under the natural course of things are appointed.

Immediately after the reading of the journal in the House Friday Mr. Dingley presented the anti-trust bill. Mr. Bailey secured unanimous consent that the bill be reported two days the time in which the minority report may be filed. The sundry civil bill, carrying $53,147,551, and the general deficiency bill, carrying $8,166,214, were passed. The Senate open session lasted fifty minutes and was given almost entirely to the introduction of bills. Most of the day was spent in executive session, the international arbitration treaty being under discussion. The Senate confirmed the nominations of John Hay of the District of Columbia to be ambassador of the United States to Great Britain, Herbert Porter of New York, to be ambassador of the United States to France; Henry White of Rhode Island, to be secretary of the embassy of the United States to Great Britain; Perry S. Heath of Indiana, to be first assistant postmaster general; C. U. Gordon, to be postmaster at Chicago. The Senate adjourned till Monday.

The House Saturday pushed through the two remaining "left over" appropriation bills according to Friday's schedule, the agricultural bill carrying $3,182,000, and the Indian carrying $7,670,220. After the appropriation bills were passed a resolution for extra mileage and stationery for this session of Congress was adopted. The debate on this resolution was rather lively, and a question as to whether Mr. Holman, the "watchdog of the treasury," who opposed it, had taken the extra mileage voted by the Fifty-third Congress was used to greatly embarrass the economist. He finally declined to answer it on the ground that it was "impertinent."

Molly's fatal answer, inclosing Stella's letter, arrived at Torrensuir, and these letters Ralph handed to his brother-in-law. That night when Stella went to her husband's room he handed her the envelope containing the letters and bade her read them.

With trembling fingers she opened the envelope and took thence those two piteous little letters to John Hannington. She tried to read the first and loved, but also in such perfect faith and hope, but they dashed before her eyes.

"You have read them?" said Alan's voice at last. "You have read them?" "I remember what I said," returned Stella, with difficulty.

CHAPTER XXI. Mr. and Mrs. Hannington found the check sent by Alan Moncrieff very acceptable indeed. Most of it went for John Hannington's delectation, it was true; but Molly got some sea breezes, and was glad that her husband was in better temper than he had been for some time.

"You?" said Rutherford, in a choked voice. "If you could only make me useful—if you could send me anywhere or tell me to do anything for you—"

"There's that fellow to be punished!" Bertie burst out in a fury. "I'll go myself. I'll telegraph to father—he deserves a thorough horsewhipping."

"Thank you, yes—directly. Wait a moment. You must not think things worse than they are. I provoked him—and he had taken too much wine." She began to tremble as she spoke.

Every year witnesses improvements, both in the methods and practice of education; yet it may be that in the multiplicity of the various branches, and the necessary efforts to master more complex systems, some of the underlying necessities of every-day life may be passed over too lightly.

A Millionaire's Start in Life. A well-known millionaire arrived at Johannesburg in the early days of the mining boom, with no assets save a tin of condensed milk and a needle. It was not long before he became a wealthy capitalist.

A GREAT SACRIFICE.

REV. DR. TALMAGE ILLUSTRATES THE ATONEMENT. He Explains the Theory of Vicarious Sacrifice—The Blood of Christ—Cases of Substitution—Life for Life—Frequency of Suffering for Others.

Our Washington Pulpit. From many conditions of life Dr. Talmage, in his sermon, draws graphic illustrations of one of the sublimest theories of religion—namely, vicarious sacrifice. His text was Hebrews ix., 22, "Without shedding of blood is no remission."

Voluntary Suffering. In order to understand this red word of my text we only have to exercise as much common sense in religion as we do in everything else.

At 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon go among the places of business or toil. It will be no difficult thing for you to find men who, by their looks, show you that they are overworked. They are prematurely old. They are hastening rapidly toward their decease.

At 1 o'clock to-morrow morning, the hour when slumber is most uninterrupted and most profound, walk amid the dwelling houses of the city. Here and there you will find a dim light because it is the household custom to keep a subdued light burning, but most of the houses from base to top are as dark as though uninhabited.

A Sacrificing Mother. Or perhaps a mother lingers long enough to see a son get on the wrong road, and his former kindness becomes rough reply when she expresses anxiety about him. But she goes right on, looking carefully after his apparel, remembering his every birthday with some memento, and when he is brought home, worn out with dissipation, nurses him, and expects, and prays and counsels, and suffers until her strength gives out and she fails.

of war soon vanished and left them nothing but the terrible prose. They wended knee deep in mud; they slept in snow-banks; they marched till their feet tracked the earth; they were swarmed out of their honest rations and lived on meat not fit for a dog; they had jaws all fractured and eyes extinguished, and limbs shot away. Thousands of them cried for water as they lay dying on the field the night after the battle and got it not. They were homesick and received no message from their loved ones. They died in barns, in bushes, in ditches, the buzzards of the summer heat the only attendants on their obsequies.

Cases of Heroism. But we need not go so far. What is that monument in Greenwood? It is to the doctors who fell in the Southern epidemics. Why go? Were there not enough sick-to-be attended in these Northern latitudes? Ah, yes! But the doctor puts a few medical books in his valise and some vials of medicine and leaves his patients here in the hands of other men who take the rail roads. Before he gets to the infected regions he passes crowded train, regular and extra, taking the flying and afflicted populations. He arrives in a city over which a great horror is brooding. He goes from couch to couch, feeling of the pulse and studying symptoms and prescribing day after day, night after night, until a fellow physician says, "Doctor, you had better go home and rest. You look miserable." But he cannot rest while so many are suffering. On and on, until some morning finds him in a delirium, in which he talks of home, and then rises and says he must go and look after those patients.

He had slain the entire Van Nest family. The foaming wrath of the community could be kept off him only by armed constables. Who would volunteer to be his counsel? No attorney wanted to sacrifice his popularity by such an ungrateful task. All were silent, save one, a young lawyer, with feeble voice, that could hardly be heard outside the bar.

When did attorney ever endure so much for a pauper client, or physician for the patient in the lazaretto, or mother for the child in membranous croup, as Christ for us, as Christ for you, as Christ for me? Shall any man or woman or child in this audience who has ever suffered for another find it hard to understand this Christy suffering for us? Shall those who sympathize have been wrong in the belief of an unfortunate fate, when we find that at one moment which was lifted out of all the ages of eternity was most conspicuous when Christ gathered up all the sins of those to be redeemed under his one arm and all his sorrows under his other arm and said: "I will atone for these under my right arm and will heal all those under my left arm. Strike me with all thy glittering shafts, O eternal justice! Roll over me with all thy surges, ye oceans of sorrow!"

That is what Paul means, that is what I mean, that is what all those who have ever had their hearts changed mean by "blood." I glory in this religion of blood. I am thrilled as I see the suggestive color in sacramental cup, whether it be of burnished silver set on cloth immaculately white, or rough hewn, or earthenware, or unglazed, or in presence of the sun and earth and hell—yet all worlds witnessing—the price, the bitter price, the transcendent price, the awful price, the glorious price, the infinite price, the eternal price, was paid that sets us free.

What Riskin Did. In the realm of the fine arts there was as remarkable an instance. A brilliant but hypercritical painter, Joseph William Turner, was met by a volley of abuse from all the art galleries of Europe. His paintings, which have since won the applause of all civilized nations—"The Fifth Plague of Egypt," "Fishermen on a Lee Shore in Squally Weather," "Cleopatra," "The Sun Rising Through Mist"—were then targets for critics to shoot at. In defense of this outrageously abused man, a young author of 24 years just one year out of college, came forth with his pen and wrote the ablest and most famous essays on art that the world ever saw, or ever will see—John Ruskin's "Modern Painters." For seventeen years this author fought the battles of the maltreated artist, and after, in poverty and broken heartedness, the painter had died, and the public mind was again in a state of torpor, he had written him a big funeral and burial in St. Paul's Cathedral, his old-time friend took out of a tin box 19,000 pieces of paper containing drawings by the old painter, and through many weary and uncompensated months assorted and arranged them for public observation. People say John Riskin in his old days is cross, misanthropic and morbid. Whatever he may do that he ought not to do, and whatever he may say that he ought not to say, between now and his death, he will bestow his mind and his heart on any man's capacity to pay this author's pen for its chivalric and Christian defense of a poor painter's pencil. John Ruskin for William Turner. Blood for blood. Substitution!

Waterloo. Our great Waterloo was in Palestine. There came a day when all hell rode up, led by Apollyon, and the captain of our salvation confronted them alone. The rider on the white horse of the Apocalypse going out against the black horse, the army of death, and the battalions of the air, and the myriads of darkness. From 12 o'clock at noon to 3 o'clock in the afternoon the greatest battle of the universe went on. Eternal destinies were being decided. All the arrows of hell pierced our chief, and the battleaxe struck him, until brow and cheek and shoulder and hand and foot were incandescent with oozing life. But he fought on until he gave up the ghost. His body fell back in everlasting rest, and the victory is ours. And on the mound that celebrates the triumph we plant this day two figures not in bronze or iron or sculptured marble, but two figures of living light, the lion of Judah's tribe, and the lamb that was slain.

What an exalting principle! This which leads one to suffer for another! Nothing so kindles enthusiasm, or so awakens sympathy, or so quickens the sense of duty, as the principle of the dominant one in our religion—Christ the martyr, Christ the celestial hero, Christ the defender, Christ the substitute. No new principle, for it was as old as human nature, but now on a grander, wider, higher, deeper and more world-resounding scale. The shepherd boy as a champion for Israel with a sling toppled the giant of Philistine braggadochio in the dust, but here is another David, who, for all the armies of churches militant and triumphant, hurls the Goliath of perdition into defeat, the crash of his brass armor like an explosion at Heil Gate. Abraham had at God's command agreed to sacrifice his son Isaac, and the same God just in time had provided a ram of the thicket as a substitute, but here is another Isaac bound to the altar, and no hand arrests the sharp edges of laceration and death, and the universe shivers and quakes and recoils and groans at the horror.

All good men have for centuries been trying to tell who this substitute was like, and every comparison, inspired and uninspired, evangelistic, prophetic, apostolic and human, falls short, for Christ was the Great Unlike. Adam a type of Christ because he came from the same God, Noah a type of Christ because he delivered his own family from the deluge, Melchisedec a type of Christ because he had no predecessor or successor, Joseph a type of Christ because he was cast out by his brethren, Moses a type of Christ because he was a deliverer from bondage, Samson a type of Christ because of his strength to slay the lions and carry off the iron gates of impossibility, Solomon a type of Christ in the influence of his dominion, Jonah a type of Christ because of the stormy sea on which he threw himself for the rescue of others, but put together Adam, Noah and Melchisedec and Joseph and Moses and Joshua and Samson and Solomon and Jonah, and they would not make a fragment of a Christ, a quarter of a Christ, the half of a Christ, or the millionth part of a Christ.

What Christ Did. He forsook a throne and sat down on his own footstool. He came from the top of glory to the bottom of humiliation and changed a circumference scriptural for a circumference diabolic. Once waited on by angels, now hissed at by brigands. From afar high up he came down; past meteors swifter than they; past thrones, himself more lustrous; past larger worlds to smaller worlds; down stairs of firmaments, and from cloud to cloud, and through tree tops and into the camel's stall, to thrust his shoulder under our burdens and take the lances of pain through our backs, and the arrows of blame through our agonies, which we deserve for our misdoings, and stood on the splitting decks of a foundering vessel amid the drenching surf of the sea, and passed midnight on the mountains amid wild beasts of prey, and stood at the point where all earthly and infernal hostilities charged on him at once with their keen sabers—our substitute!

When did attorney ever endure so much for a pauper client, or physician for the patient in the lazaretto, or mother for the child in membranous croup, as Christ for us, as Christ for you, as Christ for me? Shall any man or woman or child in this audience who has ever suffered for another find it hard to understand this Christy suffering for us? Shall those who sympathize have been wrong in the belief of an unfortunate fate, when we find that at one moment which was lifted out of all the ages of eternity was most conspicuous when Christ gathered up all the sins of those to be redeemed under his one arm and all his sorrows under his other arm and said: "I will atone for these under my right arm and will heal all those under my left arm. A Land of Windmills.

Great flapping sails all over the land make Holland look as if flocks of huge seabirds were just settling upon it. There are said to be at least ten thousand of these windmills in Holland. They are employed in sawing timber, beating hemp, grinding corn, and many other kinds of work; but their principal use is for pumping water from the lowlands into the canals, and for guarding against the inland freshets that so often deluge the country. Many of the windmills are quite simple affairs, but some of the new ones are admirable. They are so constructed that by an ingenious contrivance they present their fans or wings to the wind in precisely the right direction to work with the requisite power.

HOUSEHOLD

Sanitary Value of Sunlight.

In a great many households as much pains is taken to exclude sunlight as if it were poison. This course is adopted because fears are entertained that the brilliant radiance will affect the color of carpets, furniture and other articles. But the fact is now coming to be widely known that sunlight is a wonderful minister of health, and this consideration leads well-informed people to welcome it, instead of trying to banish and exclude it. Many forms of disease to which man and beast are subject are due to the presence in the human system of microbes or bacilli; and it is now known that some species of bacilli are killed by strong sunlight. This is particularly true of the typhoid and anthrax germ.

Salt These Facts Down.

Salt puts out a fire in the chimney. Salt in the oven under baking tins will prevent their scorching on the bottom.

Salt and soda are excellent for beetings and spider bites.

Salt thrown on a seat which has fallen on the carpet will prevent stain.

Salt put on ink when freshly spilled on a carpet will help to remove the spot.

one end drops off, and cut out the sides as described in the picture. With single nails tack on a piece of broom stick for a handle, and—there you are.

Delicious English Muffins.

To make English muffins scald one pint of milk, and while hot add two ounces of butter. When lukewarm add half a teaspoonful of salt, half an ounce of compressed yeast dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of warm water, and two cups of flour. Beat thoroughly and stand aside for two hours; bake in greased muffin-rings on a hot griddle.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Lemon Pie.

The grated rind and juice of one lemon, one cupful of sugar, the yolks of two eggs, and one teaspoonful of cornstarch wet with a little cold milk, then stirred into a half cupful of boiling milk, and added to the other ingredients. Fill a deep plate lined with pastry, and when baked frost with the whites of two eggs, beaten with three tablespoonfuls of sugar, and brown lightly in the oven.

Orange Charlotte.

Make an orange jelly and use the pulp as well as the juice for flavoring, removing seeds and fibrous part of oranges. Line a mold, sides and bottom, with large, square crackers soaked in milk and sprinkled with coconut. Pour in the jelly and set it away to harden. Heap whipped cream over it when served.

Food and Drink Consumed in Lifetime.

The average man takes five and a half pounds of food and drink each day, amounting to one ton of solid and liquid nourishment annually. In seventy years he eats and drinks one thousand times his own weight.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Hints.

A dress pattern always makes a nice present, and can be bought in a box for that purpose.

Silver handles for tooth brushes are arranged so that the brushes fit into them, and can be renewed whenever necessary.

Electricity can be utilized for table decoration in wonderful ways. Miniature-leeches, surrounding an electric light, produce a beautiful effect, and lights can be arranged among ferns so that they resemble a cloud of fireflies.

Fresh stains upon wall paper where people have rested their heads can be removed by covering the spot with a mixture of pipeclay and water made into a soft paste and letting it remain overnight. Then brush it off with a stiff whisk broom.

A pretty and effective decoration for a scarlet and white dinner given recently was white anemones and branches of scarlet barberries. They were in clear white glass vases, one at each end of the long table. Sprays of small ivy were laid across the table and tied with knots of scarlet ribbons.

A very convenient article to have in a house is a smooth, strong stick about forty inches long, with a deep notch in one end. With this pictures may be lifted by the wires from their hooks, brushed and replaced, thus saving the climbing up and down on a step-ladder, which is so tiresome to a woman.

Among the latest uses to which fresh bread has been put is to furnish decorations in the way of artificial flowers. It is said that these bread blossoms are excellent imitations when first made and artistically colored. As the bread becomes old the flowers take on a faded look, which makes them still more true to nature.

BLOWS UP ON THE RAIL.

Boiler of the Locomotive of the Lake Shore and Eastern Express.

With a terrific crash that shook the earth for blocks around, the monster locomotive at the head of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern passenger train known as the Chicago and Boston special exploded as it was leaving Chicago on its journey eastward. Two lives were lost in the explosion. Engineer Frank was hurled, with the top of the cab, high in the air. The force of the drive sent the man's body through the skein of telegraph wires as though they had been cobwebs. The body fell, with the piece of shattered cab, fully 300 feet from the tracks, in a vacant lot that was half swamp. Fireman Smith was caught under the escaping steam, which poured out of the boiler with such force that it drove the tender back against the baggage cars. He was found bruised and torn and scalded. The death of both men is supposed to have been instantaneous.

The driving wheels of the engine were torn from their forged-steel axles. The steam-chest was gone. The valves and pipes were torn and twisted. Massive plates were driven into the stone ballast of the roadbed. The reversing lever, a solid steel piece four feet long, was thrown nearly a quarter of a mile and cut through the roof of George Brock's house, 6874 Calumet avenue, cleaving through shingles, lath and plaster, and falling at the foot of a bed. A plate of iron weighing fifty pounds wrecked the board fence in Mr. Brock's back yard.

In the coaches of the train there was felt a tremor and then the brakes, acting automatically, ground on the wheels. There was a muffled roar. The first three cars were jarrred from the track, and for nearly 300 feet pounded over the ties, pushing before them the wrecked locomotive. The passengers were not aware of what was going on. The train crew rushed out of the vestibule platforms and saw the cloud of steam into which they were being carried. Their hail of broken metal began to fall on the track and coaches. Soon all was excitement in the train.

Nobody can tell what caused the explosion. The company officials had no theories to offer in explanation of the wreck of one of the newest engines on the road.

FIRST LADY IN SOCIETY.

Mrs. Saxton, Who Will Probably Take Mrs. McKinley's Place.

Mrs. Maria Saxton, on whom it is believed, will devolve the chief social duties of the White House in the McKinley regime, is the aunt of the President's wife. Mrs. McKinley, owing to her delicate health, will not be able to attend to all of the obligations that fall to her lot.

MRS. MARIA SAXTON.

of the mistress of the executive mansion. Mrs. Saxton will reside with the McKinleys at the White House and will in all probability not only take the head of the line in state affairs, but will also find it necessary to look after the details of the household—a task which Mrs. McKinley will hardly be able to perform. Mrs. Saxton is an accomplished woman, used to the ways of society, and may be confidently relied upon by her niece to play the part of hostess with all the correctness the eminent position calls for.

IDAHO'S GERMAN SENATOR.

Henry Heitfeldt, Who Succeeds the Brilliant Dubois.

The senatorial election in the Rocky Mountain States, which attracted most attention was that in Idaho, where Senator Fred Dubois was battling for the republic. Dubois was one of the Republican who, opposing the silver cause, held the convention which nominated McKinley for President and was one of the most eloquent and persistent workers in Bryan's behalf. As a reward the Democrats and Populists were expected to return him to the Senate, but failed. After a deadlock of several weeks, late Senator Henry Heitfeldt was chosen to the upper house of Congress.

Heitfeldt is a Populist. He was born in Germany and came to this country as a young man. The accent of the Fatherland clings to his tongue. He is a prosperous farmer and has proven a clever politician.

REPORTER'S CHIPS.

From the Advertiser, Clinton, Iowa.

Every druggist in Clinton, Iowa, was interviewed to-day and had good words for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and not one of them had other than good results to report of those who had used them. One of the druggists referred me to a prominent merchant in Clinton, whose wife had for the last five years been badly crippled and at times nearly helpless from the effects of rheumatism. We were mutually acquainted with the family (Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bailey) and called on them this afternoon and found Mrs. Bailey very much improved since I was last there, and she was personally in good condition, and inquired as to what means had been used to bring about the good results. Mr. Bailey said that for years they had tried one thing after another, but had found nothing that afforded any relief, but they continued trying and finally a few months since some one spoke good words for the Pink Pills as a safe and reliable remedy for rheumatic troubles, and he bought a box. The Pink Pills were purchased, and although in her case there was no rapid recovery of health, there was a decided change for the better and a continual steady improvement from week to week, which has given them confidence in the remedy, and a belief that by their continued use she will soon be restored to complete health.

Mr. Bailey told me of another case with which he was personally acquainted, that of Mr. George Brenner, one of the city officials for many years, and that for the last two years he had been nearly helpless from rheumatism, but has at late date recovered his health by the use of the Pink Pills and had been wonderfully helped by using them. As I was also personally acquainted with him I went out to his residence to get his personal testimony as to what had brought about his happy recovery. He said, but he has just moved to Chicago, but I have every reason to believe that what Mr. Bailey told me were the facts of the case, as they were intimate friends. Every druggist reports good sales of the pills, but have but few facts outside of the demand for them, but the money in the money drawer, and that is in most cases all they know or care about. I have called upon quite a number of people who have been cured of nervous prostration and general debility and the universal testimony is that the Pink Pills accomplished all they are recommended for. I am personally acquainted with all the cases here mentioned in this letter, and the facts have been stated in each case.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood, and to restore exhausted nerves. They give a specific for troubles peculiar to females. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

He Took the Joke.

A good story is told of a certain prominent railway director, who is equally renowned for his ability to take or make a joke. A railway employe, whose home is in the country, applied to him for a pass to visit his family.

"You are in the employ of the company?" inquired the gentleman alluded to.

"Yes."

"You receive your pay regularly?"

"Yes."

"Well, now, suppose you were working for a farmer instead of the company, would you expect your employer to take out his horse every Saturday night and carry you home?"

"No," said the man promptly. "I would not expect that, but if the farmer had his horses out and was going my way, I should call him a mean fellow if he would not let me ride."

The employe came out three minutes later with a pass good for twelve months.

Merit Wins.

The invention of Alabastine marked a new era in wall coatings, and from the standpoint of the building owner was a most important discovery. It has branched out into every country of the civilized world. The name "Alabastine" has become so offensive to property owners that manufacturers of cheap kalsomine preparations are now calling them by some other name, and attempting to sell on the Alabastine company's reputation.

Through extensive advertising and personal use, the merits of the durable Alabastine are so thoroughly known that the people insist on getting these goods and will take no other kind of paint for a possible savings-out at the most but a few cents. Thus it is again demonstrated that merit wins, and that manufacturers of first-class articles will be supported by the people.

To the Pyramids by Rail.

There is to be a railroad direct to the Pyramids. The government has granted a concession to the Cairo Tramway Company to make a line to the Pyramids and to fill up the Khallig canal running through Cairo. The latter scheme will remove one of the causes of malarial fevers.

CORRESPONDENCE.

GARFIELD.

Mrs. H. Hutchinson is reported as convalescing. Miss Frankie Stinson made a short visit at Wakefield Saturday and Sunday. Miss Alice Macaulay spent Saturday and Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Bell. F. C. Schroer is talking of improving his farm with a new house this spring. Charlie Rotenburg is reported as no better as yet. There are little hopes for his recovery. Stephen Crosby of Pleasant Hill, Wisconsin, is visiting his old friend, Mr. Joslyn and family. L. M. Butler and family have moved from Pleasant Hill to the Maze district where he intends farming this year. Miss Kate Collins's school in Pierce county, has been closed again for two weeks, because of the bad roads. It is impossible for children to attend. A. A. Bell of Garfield precinct, is still buying cattle. He thinks there is more money in feeding than in selling corn at this day and age of the world.

LESLIE.

Charley Thompson whipped his fat cattle to Omaha a short time ago. Henry Slaughter who has been quite sick with lung fever is convalescent. Miss Enola Coffee was the guest of Miss Belle Killion Sunday of last week. George Baskirk is feeding over 100 head of cattle which he purchased recently. John Baker marketed two loads of 1800-pound cattle last week to Wayne buyers. A number of the farmers are busy cribbing their corn which was on the ground all winter. School began in the Russell district Monday of last week with Miss Belle Beswick as teacher. One wedding has taken place and another is booked for the near future. So Dame Rumor has it. Willie Kouth has moved on his farm occupied by Mr. Luhr. Mr. Luhr has moved on the farm recently vacated by Mr. Dolph. Mr. and Mrs. Ford of Missouri Valley, Ia., returned home the fore part of last week after a visit here with Mrs. Ford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wade. Sol Slaughter was at Sioux City last week and brought home 35 head of fine feeding cattle. Mr. Slaughter has now about 170 head of feeders in his yards. MARRIED—Amos Long of this county to Miss Emma Fry of Thurston county. The groom is one of the most energetic young men. Their many friends join in wishing the worthy young couple unbounded happiness. The Teachers' Reading Circle of District No. 4, under the management of J. L. Killion, held their monthly meeting in the Center school, last Saturday evening. The meeting was well attended by both teachers and patrons and a general interest manifested by all. The patrons are awakening to the fact that they owe more to the schools than simply paying their taxes—they are beginning to realize that their presence are required, occasionally at least, at teachers meetings and in the school room.

FAIRVIEW.

Mrs. Haines is on the sick list. The Moate school has no vacation. Sunday school starts the 4th prox. Our school begins again April 6th. Mr. Billiter was at Wayne Saturday. Grandma Stollenburg is slowly recovering. Mr. Clel Woods is down with the erysipilas. H. Porter went to Wayne to stay over Sunday. Sam Scott moves onto the Spencer place this week. Messrs. Haines and Blakesley dined at Mr. Moate's Thursday noon. The Woods school begins March 29. It was closed on account of measles. H. Young passed through here with 60 or 70 calves last Wednesday. He got them at the Wayne stock yards. Mr. F. Stewart informs us that Elkhorn valley climate is not agreeable to his wife and she is anxious to get to breathing Rocky Mountain air. Three of our neighbors are talking of building new houses this summer. They will all be fine large houses and houses of which Fairview may well be proud. Signs of the times, eh! Wm. Jackson has been canvassing the east end of the county for stock to pasture for the summer. His new windmill is built and until he gets his number no one need look for a better place to put stock. About twenty of our citizens waded through the rain and mud last Friday to catch the 7 o'clock train at Carroll. They were bound for Wayne to attend the lawsuit concerning the big pasture. The train being obstructed by an ice gorge somewhere above Randolph, the impatient excursionists had to wait for a special from the east. After a good square meal at the Carroll Hotel, they very gladly crowded into a caboose and were towed off to Wayne by a switch engine. Fairview is midway between Carroll and Randolph and the creamery men from both sides are making things pretty warm for us. Success to both parties in our sentiments. The cow is the best factory to put our produce through. Twelve couples of old folks took their well filled baskets and called at the home of Oliver Greno last Wednesday evening. It was a happy surprise on the family. Dancing was the order of the evening and when they departed at three o'clock everyone felt it was one of the good times of life.

COON CREEK.

J. Longuecker, who has been ill the most of the winter is slowly on the gain. Jack Ribold and Charley Putzier will move to the reservation to farm this year. Wm. Vincent returned home from Omaha Tuesday, where he has been doctoring his eyes. As Grant Myers was cutting wood the other day, his axe glanced off and inflicted a large gash in his knee.

Martin Muth killed his summer's meat Monday.

Jack Hosper has just finished his new barn. We expect a neighborhood dance soon. The chicken fight on the Creek last week was well attended and there was fun by the bushel. Martin Muth, who has been troubled with the toothache for some time, tried to pull his own tooth the other day. After pulling himself all over the house he gave it up for another day. There is a man on the Creek who tried to play "Rash" some time ago and it has leaked out. He will be watched and if anything of the kind happens again he will be sorry he ever tried it.

CARROLL.

C. H. Wolf shipped another car of hogs this week. George Stucker has been calling on old friends in these parts. Rev. Theobald of Wayne preached in the Baptist church Sunday evening. Mrs. Alexander and Miss Lena Hitchcock of Wayne, Sunday in Carroll. The washout on the railroad track created quite an excitement in Carroll. H. H. Krebs is rapidly improving after a serious illness with the measles. Robert Conklin departed today for Greeley, where he expects to work this summer. Charley McVay moved his family into the rooms over A. J. Honey's last Monday. The notice of the death of Miss Mary Manning appears elsewhere in the HERALD. Mr. Whitehead was in Carroll this week looking after his business interests here. Mr. Moore's son-in-law from Dixon, is visiting here for a few days on his way to Dakota. Mrs. Wolf has been enjoying a visit from her sister and brother-in-law of Dunlap-Iowa. Miss Duncan went home to Wakefield for a two week's visit on account of the measles. H. E. Evans passed through Carroll this week, on his way to Bloomfield, to look after his farm. There is a good prospect of Carroll getting a creamery this summer. Good for the enterprising men of Carroll and vicinity. The measles over-took Frank Bailey after all and he has been giving them quite a tussle but is much better at present. A couple of neighbors in this vicinity tried the Corbett and Fitz knock-out the other day with a man by the name of Jackson as referee, so we have been informed. Death visited our fair little village last week and took from our midst one of our business men in the person of M. Andrews, who died Saturday morning at 4:00 o'clock. He was 32 years old, and leaves a wife and two children to mourn his loss. Mrs. Andrews expects to run the drug store as she holds as fine a diploma as any one in the state. The following is the program for the Teachers' meeting to be held at Carroll April 17th: Opening Music. 1—State Course of Study. Its Use and Abuse, Mr. Manning. How I use the Course, Miss Kemp. Suggested change in Course, Miss Griggs. 2—History. What is History? Miss Lore. How to cultivate the Historic spirit, Miss Duncan. Teacher's daily Preparation, M. Williams. Teacher's moral Influence, H. Garwood. How to control Pupils' Thoughts, M. R. Blakesley. 3—Reading Circle Work. Each teacher study and outline lesson 9, of group 6, page 325, and be prepared to discuss same. 4—Child Study, Chapter III, Everybody. Opening of question box and discussion. H. V. Garwood, President. W. L. Robinson, Secretary.

BUSH UNION.

Rev. Miller will preach at the school house next Sunday at 2:00 o'clock and at the Frazier school house at 3:45. The farmers are finishing gathering corn and getting ready for seeding. The meadow lark is the most foolish bird yet; he thinks he can call Spring. H. V. Garwood began school again last Monday after a three weeks vacation on account of measles among the pupils.

COLLEGE.

Examination week!!! Prof. Pile returned from Lincoln last Thursday. Miss Wendt boarded the train Saturday for her home. The Crescents give a program next Friday night to which all are invited. Miss Ryan, a member of the teachers' class of '96, spent Thursday at the College. Mr. Wiseman, who has been teaching at Hoskins, passed through Wayne Saturday on his way home. Many are leaving for their homes, but their places will be more than filled by the incoming teachers. Miss Ryan seems also to have caught the "spirit of the hour," and is now recovering from the measles. Mr. Woodruff, a former student, visited College last week. He has been teaching the past winter near Pilger.

Miss Nelle Spears, a member of the Scientific class of '96, visited the College Wednesday. She has been teaching near Wakefield.

Last week a student was expelled from the College for misbehavior. It was a step much regretted by the faculty, but nevertheless a worthy one, and is upheld by the students.

McKinnle of Thayer precinct, was in Wayne last week and returned with the word that Miss Gertrude Love, who is attending the Normal at Wayne, was quite sick. Her parents here had some anxiety at first, but were satisfied to learn that she was improving Monday. B. F. McDonald was informed recently by letter, of the marriage of W. F. Ramsey to Mrs. Moody, now residing at Wayne. Both are former Penderites and well known by our citizens. The wedding occurred Tuesday, March 9th, at Elk Point, S. D. Mr. Ramsey has been in the employ of the Burt county Marble Works at Tekamah, and is the general agent for this section of Nebraska. A special from Norfolk Monday says that an unknown man on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha noon passenger went violently insane shortly before the train arrived in the city, and began breaking up the car furniture. He was overpowered by the trainmen, tied up with the tell cord and delivered over to the city marshal. He was taken to Madison and placed in the hands of the sheriff this evening. No information as to his name or home could be obtained. He boarded the train at Wakefield, and had a ticket from there to Kearney. An immigrant certificate was found on his person, made out to A. L. Johnson, from Sweden, and dated May 15, 1893. He also had a due bill of $115 from O. L. Collins, Wakefield. He is about 25 years old, and heavily built. He fought and raved continually, and his strength is so great as to require five strong men to handle him. A special from Randolph to the Sioux City Journal last Friday says: Word reached here this afternoon to the effect that Harry Faville was drowned in the north fork of the Elkhorn river, about two miles west of the Elkhorn ranch, in Knox county, while crossing the stream in company with W. R. Beckenhauer and Harry Blackmore, of this place and Harry Raymon and Robert Nett, of Creighton, about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Faville and Mr. Beckenhauer are masons by trade and the party drove out from the ranch a few miles to do some work on a building for the manager, J. B. Parks. During their absence the bridge which they crossed in going out had been overflowed, but thinking it still in place they drove on, upsetting the wagon, and they were thrown into the water which was filled with large cakes of ice. After a struggle of more than two hours all managed to reach land with the exception of Mr. Faville, who disappeared under the ice. A party of searchers has been out since, but no trace of the remains has been found. He leaves a wife and one child. Mr. Beckenhauer was formerly a citizen of Wayne.
