A HERALD reporter overheard one of our prominent farmers inquires of a member of the firm of Strahan, Grimsley & Co., yesterday, "where he could get hold of a hundred good sheep." Evidently he isn't afraid to look a sheep in the face now, and proposes to engage in the wool business. There will be money in it.

Eggs were 1 1/2 cents per dozen in Wayne on Tuesday of this week, while one year ago on the same date they were but 6 cents per dozen, hence they have almost doubled in price. On Tuesday one of the populist business men of Wayne was asked this question, "Why has the price of eggs increased so much?" His reply was "Because so many eggs had become rotten during the months of June and July." Another one of Mark Hanna's tricks. However, he and many other people will learn that the Dingley tariff bill is in existence.

POPULIST CONVENTION.

On Saturday afternoon Rundell held his convention aided by Uncle Henry Miller, and from the fields of 75 cent wheat in Wayne county came the faithful(?) burdened with the thought of 20 cent corn, $1.00 cattle, .04 cent hogs, 11 cent eggs, and other troubles too numerous to mention. Rundell was in his glory and his glass eyes fairly gleamed with intelligence as he beheld the almost famished condition of his fellow pops because of the miserably low prices of stock and farm products all because the price of silver and wheat keep pace with each other, and although the convention gave Rundell a severe slap or two his bristles were so stiff that a dig never phased him. They met, not to discuss "low prices" but to parcel out and dispose of the county offices according to fusion, or, in other words, "any thing to beat Grant," nevertheless they will be compelled to get the aid and consent of republicans if they elect any of their nominees.

The convention was called to order by the election of C. J. Rundell chairman, and E. W. Husted secretary. It was noticed that the chairman began to swell and fearing an explosion several of the spectators kept an eye on the door. From beginning to end, almost, Rundell had possession of the floor. He selected a committee on credentials and as few precincts had elected delegates it became the duty of the committee to select delegates for the precincts where none had been elected. The men selected were persons who had been urged to come to Wayne in the interest of certain candidates and in consequence John Coyle was almost defeated for the nomination for county clerk, and Elmer Lundburg, who knows more about educational affairs than the whole "caboodle" combined, was defeated for the nomination for county superintendent. The committee made a report which was adopted, and on motion E. G. Surber was elected permanent chairman and Husted secretary. Mr. Surber wasn't certain of his qualifications but was prevailed upon to accept. At Rundell's earnest solicitation a committee on resolutions was appointed with himself as chairman. It took the committee some time to construct the resolutions, although already prepared but finally the resolutions were read and adopted, without applause and yet the resolutions would sell readily as a curiosity.

In the mean time Uncle Henry Miller took advantage of the opportunity and read to the boys—no doubt thinking that many of them could not read something he had clipped from a dime novel or some other equally as valuable periodical; at the conclusion of his reading he looked wise as usual, flopped his wings, gave the republicans a jolt and sat down greatly relieved.

The following delegates to the state convention were selected: James Britton, E. G. Surber, Neal Nye, F. Bressler, C. J. Rundell, John Herron, W. E. Wallace, H. B. Miller, L. F. Rayburn, L. Diltz, and John Coyle. At this juncture Rundell reported the conclusion reached by the recent free silver conference in regard to the division of the county offices which was acquiesced in. A motion was made to proceed to an informal ballot for clerk the office of sheriff being passed. It was thought by some that nominations should be made but it was finally defeated. Up jumped Rundell who, in accents wild, proclaimed that nominations should be made and if not lots of fire oratory would go to waste. However, the convention had had enough of Rundell's clap trap slang, hence his old oratory was knocked out. The informal ballot for clerk resulted as follows: John Coyle 30%, H. B. Miller 20%, J. W. Agler 1, it was the intention of the convention, undoubtedly, to nominate Uncle Henry Miller, but the old war horse bit the dust and is doomed to go down to his grave without an office, for on the formal ballot Mr. Coyle received 29 1/2 to Mr. Miller 27 1/2. The vote on superintendent was Miss White 37, Elmer Lundburg 20. C. W. Watson was nominated for coroner by acclamation. A committee was named to endorse the nominees of the democratic convention which will be held on the 25. This the first act of the tripartite alliance ended and the curtain was drawn. But there are a large number of farmers in the county who will quietly put the fusion deal to sleep next November as they are not hankering for any 40 cent silver dollars.

Why wear shoddy, ill-made shoes when you can buy stylish, UP TO DATE footwear at prices that make competition climb trees at Maute's Shoe Store. The nine year old son of H. U. S. MARSHALS SLAIN

BLOODY FIGHT WITH MOONSHINERS IN ARKANSAS.

Party of Government Officials Make a Raid on Illicit Distilleries in Pope County with Tragic Results—Other Items.

Murdered by Moonshiners.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 26.—Six men were probably slain in the wilds of the mountains of Pope County Monday afternoon. Two were killed outright, two were fatally wounded and left for dead and two have mysteriously disappeared. The killed are: Capt. B. F. Taylor, a deputy marshal. Joseph Dodson, a deputy marshal. The fatally wounded are two brothers named Renfro.

The scene of the tragedy was a gulch or ravine in the mountains of Pope County, at a spot twenty-five miles from Russellville. Capt. B. F. Taylor, the richest man in Searcy County, and a man of prominence, determined to aid the officers in putting down crime in that section. He secured a commission as a deputy United States marshal and led the posse in the raid that resulted in his death.

DEFINES VALID MARRIAGES.

Pension Decision by the Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

WASHINGTON: Assistant Secretary of the Interior Webster Davis has rendered an important decision in a pension claim involving the definition of a valid marriage. The policy laid down affects a great number of cases. Mr. Davis holds:

"Where it is shown by the evidence that both parties fully intended and consented to the maintenance of bona fide marital relations and subsequent to the time when they were competent to sustain such status by removal of a pre-existing impediment, did consent to the maintenance of such marital relations by constant and continuous cohabitation, acknowledging each other as husband and wife, and being universally recognized as such by the community in which they lived, joining church membership, uniting in deeds and conferences as husband and wife and deporting themselves generally in accordance with good morals, a valid marriage is essentially established."

ESTIMATES ON THE CROPS.

Corn Belt Says Nebraska Wheat Output Is Placed Too High.

CHICAGO: The Corn Belt, a paper issued by the Burlington railroad, has published its report of the crop, which contains the following: "The actual facts, so far as Nebraska is concerned, warrant the assertion that the heretofore estimated wheat product of 40,000,000 bushels for the state is, if anything, too high. The average of 116 reports received shows a yield of 22.21 bushels per acre. A conservative estimate, based on the information we have received, places the probable acreage at 1,554,428. Our estimates on other yields are: corn, 200,000,000 bushels; potatoes, 23,000,000 bushels; 5,000,000 bushels; 11,883,000 bushels. The estimated yield of corn per acre in Iowa averages 37 bushels. Half of the crop, it is estimated, will be fed to cattle, hogs and sheep. The average yield per acre for hogs is 20 bushels; for pigs, 17; for calves, 14. Only eight out of over one hundred reports say the quality of the grain is poor."

Both the seventeenth and the naval reserve had participated in the Steubenville celebration and were returning home. A. H. Gould, a member of the Toledo national reserve, was arrested. He is heart-broken over the affair.

SMUGGLING OF CHINESE.

The Treasury Department Investigates the Matter.

WASHINGTON: The treasury department is conducting an investigation of charges that Chinese are being smuggled into the United States at Port Townsend, Wash. The reports upon which the investigation is based were received here about a week ago and indicate that the Chinese had made use of forged certificates, but no charges were made against the customs officials at Port Townsend except by implication. The secretary of the treasury and the attorney general have issued a joint circular to immigration inspectors and United States attorneys and marshals, instructing them in the future not to arrest Chinese whose papers give them prime facts rights of admission until they reach their ultimate destination in the United States.

Rare Operation Is Performed in a San Francisco Hospital.

SAN FRANCISCO: A very delicate and extremely rare surgical operation has been performed successfully at the French hospital in this city upon C. Normann, a young farmer. By it not only his life has been saved, but he is on the speedy way to recovery. In the latter part of July he sustained a compound fracture of the cervical vertebra, an injury nearly always fatal, which prevented the moving of his head in any direction. August 11 he was brought to the hospital, where the arch of the third vertebra and a portion of the second vertebra were removed. The patient rests on an inclined plane. The weight of his body acts as a counter extension to the weight applied to an extension apparatus which is attached to the head, and the patient is virtually suspended by the neck until he shall be restored to health.

STATE OF NEBRASKA

NEWS OF THE WEEK IN A CONDENSED FORM.

Republicans of the State Meet in Lincoln and Nominate Candidates for State Offices to Be Voted on This Fall—Other Items.

Supreme Court Judge, A. M. POST, Regents, C. W. VALEY, J. N. DIXON. The state convention of the Republican party was held in Lincoln, August 26. Aside from the applause which greeted the different speakers, there was no exciting incidents, the only thing approaching a sensation being the announcement of Senator John M. Thurston in his address to the convention that he would not again be a candidate for the senate.

Two Bodies were the Body Set for the convening of the convention, but it was three-quarters of an hour later when the chairman of the state central committee rapped for order. Rev. L. P. Ludden invoked divine guidance, and the chairman announced the selection of Hon. Norris Brown of Kearney as temporary chairman. Mr. Brown said, in part: "The debts of Nebraska are being paid because of the integrity and honesty of Nebraska debtors. If our people were to follow the political doctrines of their government they would adopt a policy of repudiation instead of liquidation. I begin to understand why you appear so well and happy. You are thinking of wheat and silver. They have come to the parting of the ways. The promises of the St. Louis platform have been kept. A Republican congress and a Republican president have carried them out. Will the redeeming of that promise prosperity indeed has come?" John L. McElhealy of Minden was elected permanent chairman over District Judge Ben S. Baker of Omaha. His speech of acceptance was brief.

Menaced by a Mob.

Dr. F. D. Reynolds, who has lived at Hayes Center for a year, was taken to the Red Willow County jail the other day to avoid a threatened mob. Last week the doctor married Miss Lillie Chauk, a pretty little country girl, after a brief acquaintance. A Mrs. Jennie Reynolds of Dillon, Mont., has now appeared with a marriage certificate and Reynolds was arrested for bigamy. Miss Chauk's friends were actively gathering up a mob and Dr. Reynolds was removed from the county jail.

York County to Have an Exhibit

At a meeting of the York County Farmers' Institute held in York, it was decided to take steps toward making an exhibit of county products at the Trans-Mississippi Exposition. A petition has been prepared for presentation to the county commissioners requesting an appropriation sufficient to defray expenses of collecting and caring for the exhibit. York County is well known to the advantages offered by the exposition and intends to do its share toward making a good showing for Nebraska.

Official Salary Not Enough for Him

F. W. Melcher, clerk of the district court at West Point, has been retained by the Warder, Bushnell & Glessner Company, whom he has represented the past four months, to travel for them. In consequence he has appointed Attorney J. C. Elliott his deputy in the district clerk's office during his absence. Mr. Melcher states that his reason for taking this step is the fact that the salary is not remunerative enough to justify him in devoting his entire time to the affairs of the office.

STEALS OVER 200 WHEELS.

Omaha Attorney Confesses to Many Thefts When Arrested.

Attorney A. R. Smith, of some standing, is in jail, an acknowledged forger, bicycle thief and all around associate of dangerous crooks. He had offices in the New York Life Building, and for a month dozens of wheels belonging to the lawyers of that building have been stolen in a mysterious manner. He became so bold that Saturday he took seven high-grade wheels from his room, pawned two of them in Omaha and shipped the others to Chicago auction dealers. The same day he forged a prominent business man's name to a $200 check and got it cashed. On his person were found lists of auction dealers in Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City and notes showing he had shipped them 227 wheels since January 1. These wheels are supposed to have been stolen at Omaha and elsewhere and shipped to Smith who was at the head of an organized gang of bicycle thieves. Smith confessed all when arrested.

Find a Dead Body Near Elkhorn

The dead body of a man, supposed to be Albert Brummer of Indianapolis, Ind., was discovered by Union Pacific Conductor McCaffrey lying at the foot of the embankment a mile and a half west of Elkhorn. In the pockets of the deceased were found $2.28, a razor, tobacco, etc., besides some letters. Whether the man was killed while walking on the track or fell off a moving train cannot be determined. There is unmistakable evidence, however, that the body rolled down the embankment. The man was of medium stature and had very dark hair and was attired in black clothes. Both his arms were broken. By the papers found on his body it was learned that he was an instructor on the mandolin and guitar. Among the letters was one addressed to him at Indianapolis and another at Kansas City, Mo. The last letter was postmarked "Kansas City, August 12." It was written on the letterhead of D. P. Erwin & Co., Indianapolis, Ind., wholesale dry goods.

THURSTON'S SURPRISE

Announces that He Will Not Again Be a Senatorial Candidate.

When Senator Thurston was called upon by the delegates of the Republican state convention at Lincoln for a speech he responded as follows: "Gentlemen of the Convention: It gives me great pleasure to again reappear assembled. I am glad to avail myself of every opportunity to meet you face to face, to render an account of my stewardship, to show you where and to assist you in every possible way in placing Nebraska once more in the republican column. Before proceeding to the discussion of any general issues, I desire to call your attention to a statement somewhat personal. I have felt it the greatest honor of my life to bear your commission as a senator of the United States. I never cherished but one real political ambition and that was to sit in the senate of my country. The republicans of Nebraska after a direct contest before the people elected me by the unanimous vote of all the republican members of the legislature, and I shall always remember with pride and gratitude that every vote was voluntarily cast in my personal solicitation on my part. In the senate of the United States I have endeavored to perform my duty to my constituents and to the state and endeavor to do so to the end of my term. I have always been in the habit of taking the people into my confidence, and I have done so now. I have given you careful consideration, and as the result of deliberate judgment, I hereby announce that I am not and shall not be a candidate for the senate at the next election of ever becoming a candidate for any other office. I shall be glad and content to live among you a private citizen and to once more take up my chosen profession while still in the prime and vigor of life, in reaching this conclusion and in making this announcement I have been moved by no unworthy or improper motives. I have no personal interest in the reputation of my state and of the nation. I am as strong an adherent of republican principles and doctrines as I have ever been, and I have no personal interest in the league in the senate. My relations with the present administration are most cordial and pleasant. I have every reason to be highly pleased with the treatment which the republicans of my state have received at the hands of our great president. I have not the least doubt that the republican party will return to power in Nebraska and I have every confidence in the wisdom and ability of our great president. I have never sought to avoid a public responsibility and shall not desert public post of duty. I have every confidence that there are many great republicans in Nebraska who can serve you acceptably in the senate. For myself I have a right to expect no comfort and no welfare and that of those who are dear to me. I do not like public life at the capital. I do love home life in Nebraska. I am a comparatively poor man. As your son I cannot expect to own a large estate, a house in Washington and another in Omaha. I cannot consent to give up my home in Omaha and establish my fixed residence in Washington. I can adequately provide for my family and myself in my profession; I cannot do so by continuing in the public service. I do not regret having been your senator. I do not regret my own participation in political affairs. I intend to retain as deep an interest and to devote myself just as ardently to the success of the republican party in Nebraska and in the United States as I would if I remained your representative. Whenever and wherever battle is to be fought for the republican party I will be found on the front lines. I will not shrink under any commander whom the republicans of my state may name. Many of my friends to whom I have addressed my views have urged me to remain silent for the present, and have suggested that circumstances may arise to alter my determination. I have felt it to be my duty to announce to you that it is the many things to do. I give the republican party much; the republican party owes me nothing. Whatever I have done for my party and the candidate has been done in the hope of doing good and the performance of what I deemed to be a high public duty. I believe it is right and proper that the republicans of my state should be made aware of my determination to remain silent for the present, and to others who may honorably aspire to succeed me in the senate that they should know the field is open. My only desire in the matter is that my successor in the senate may win his commission in the open field before the people and as the result of their honest judgment freely expressed. More than two years ago I reached the conclusion that the people of the United States desired that William McKinley should be their next president. I found, as I honestly believed, that ninety per cent. of the voters of the United States and of Nebraska were for his nomination; that his nomination meant certain republican success. The result has justified my judgment. I believe that the people wished McKinley I took up the battle for him with all my heart. In that contest the people had their will. Whatever criticism may have been passed upon my course, I will always be glad that I stood with the people and for the wishes of the people. It has been said that out of the contest for delegates to the last national convention, the result has been engendered factionalism in the republican party of Nebraska. If that is true, then those who sought to use the name of the republican party to divide the people must accept the responsibility for it. There is no act of the friends of William McKinley in the state of Nebraska which can be construed as a party or as any factionalism or which can possibly stand in the way of united republican action. There is no use disguising the real situation of affairs in this state. Our state government is in the hands of the opposition. Some of the republican officials have proven unfaithful to the public trusts and have brought disgrace and discredit upon the party. It will require united action by all the republican forces of Nebraska to redeem the state. It can be done. We will be together and we can grandly win this year, next year, and for many years to come. So far as I am concerned, so far as my friends are concerned, there will be no factionalism. My division is no favoritism. I am interested in the only test of republican qualification will be loyalty and devotion to republican principles and to republican interests. All I ask is that the wishes of the rank and file of the republican party may find full and free expression in every republican convention and in every republican election controlled by a republican majority. TREASURE STEAMER ARRIVES FROM THE GOLD REGION.

She Carried Thirteen Miners Who Bring About $75,000 in Dust and Nuggets - Earthquake in Japan Causes Loss of Life and Property.

Gold from Klondyke. The long-looked for Portland has arrived. The ship about which so many stories have been told since she left St. Michael reached Seattle Sunday morning.

The miners on board, with the amounts of their total mining profits, parts of which were brought with them, are as follows:

- J. Iowan, $50,000; James Bell, $45,000; Joseph Goldsmith, $35,000; N. W. Powers, $35,000; W. W. Caldwell, $35,000; W. O. ... $30,000; C. N. Zilly, $25,000; P. W. ... $25,000; A. ... $25,000; B. ... $25,000; M. S. Lansing, $15,000; R. A. ... $10,000; M. R. Camler, $15,000.

While the small amount of gold brought from the Yukon by the Portland was a disappointment to many, the miners who returned unite in saying that the country is fabulously rich. The claims which have been worked promise well, and in fact many of them give assurance of proving very rich.

Statements have been made that the steamer Portland on her next trip will bring fully $2,000,000 in gold, but the most reliable men from Dawson City say that no such amount of money will come, as it has not been taken out of the ground. One miner who came down places the outside figure at $1,000,000.

Hundreds of miners are looking toward the Stewart river, the second largest branch of the Yukon, and hundreds of prospectors will undoubtedly be on its banks and bars within the next few months.

From the mouth of Stewart over to the north fork the distance is estimated at 450 miles, and to the head of the river in this vicinity at 500 miles in all.

EARTHQUAKES IN JAPAN.

Great Loss of Life and Property is Reported.

A great earthquake occurred in Japan Aug. 15. It lasted eight minutes and was followed by a tidal wave which swept up rivers, following into the sea and caused great destruction.

Earthquake shocks of the morning of Aug. 5 varied from four to sixteen in number in various places. The movement being from east to west. Less than an hour afterward a tidal wave was felt in towns along the coast. For a week previously rains had fallen almost all the time and the rivers were already very high. The tidal wave raised them in so many instances from twelve to twenty feet higher.

THE WILSON TARIFF.

DIDN'T INCREASE OUR FOREIGN MARKETS.

Claim of Alleged Increase of Exportation of American Manufactures Contrived by Treasury Figures Showing Proportionate Increases Under Wilson and McKinley Laws.

Wilson Law Examined.

Special Washington Examination: It is now practicable to examine the claim made by the advocates of low tariff that the Wilson tariff law made an increased market abroad for American manufactures and thus was advantageous to them.

The opportunity which is offered to examine this question comes by way of the publication by the Treasury Department of its monthly summary for June, which covers the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900, and thus practically completes the record of the Wilson law.

That the exportation of manufactured articles did increase under the Wilson law is undeniably true. But that the importation of manufactured articles increased very much more than the exportation is equally true.

It is calculated that for 1897 and 1898 there will be a shortage of 50,800,000 hundredweights. The stocks remaining on hand from 1896 are approximately estimated at somewhere between 38,000,000 and 45,000,000. The total supply for the year, reckoning both the present stocks and the harvest, is estimated from 610,000,000 to 651,000,000 metric hundredweights.

It is thus apparent that the importation of manufactured goods practically doubled under the Wilson law since 1894, the last year of the McKinley law, and in 1897, the last year of the Wilson law, $804,647,104.

The exportation of manufactured goods during the fiscal years in question are given below. The list includes the important groups, or classes of articles exported where the amount in the end reaches as much as $1,000,000. It will be seen that in many cases the percentage of gain in exportation was much greater during the three years of the operations of the McKinley law than in the three years of the Wilson law.

Exports of articles manufactured in the United States in the fiscal years 1891, 1894 and 1897, the period between 1891 and 1894 being under the operations of the McKinley law; that from 1894 to 1897, under the operations of the Wilson law.

"Very well, Silas. This little machine I have here photographs purposes, motives, thoughts."

"Go long, Sen! You're jokin'?" "Indeed no, Silas. Every action of the brain, every pulsation of the nerves, affects the atmosphere and makes itself felt upon the sensitive plate of the camera. For instance -"

"Well, that beats all! But what did you come way out here, for?" "You see, Silas, I wish to secure a picture of the maddest, most evil purpose on record for my forthcoming work, 'The Psychology of Purpose.' To this end I have come out here, and if you will kindly take this red handkerchief and flag that bull down there until he charges into focus you'll oblige me and confer an everlasting boon upon literature."

"Reckon you don't know that bull, Sen. He's a reg'lar man-eater."

"That's just what I want," cried the professor, delightedly; "flag him on - be quick, Silas."

"He won't need much flaggin', I guess," muttered Silas, casting a vague look at his brother; "the flies have worked his dander up pretty well already. Keep your eye on the fence, Sen, and don't lose any time gettin' over it after you catch his purpose, 'cause he'll be about the maddest bull in Michigan. Watch your eye, now - I'm goin'."

Silas thereupon approached and made a few preliminary passes with the red flag. The animal stamped his forefoot, whiffled around and made a bee-line for Farmer Jones, who put for the fence.

"Don't wait till he gets in focus," cried Silas as he rushed past the professor; "take it now!"

But, like the elder Pliny, Prof. Jones was made of sterner stuff. He waited calmly, pressed the button not a moment too soon and started after his brother. The bull, however, had charged into focus altogether too late for the professor's well being. Seneca Jones had barely time to toss his instrument to Silas when - whizz - rip - w-o-w - ker thud! the learned man was tossed over the fence and landed in a heap by his brother's side.

"I told ye, Sen," cried Silas; "ain't hurt, be ye?"

"Hurt!" In an instant Seneca Jones had risen in all his wrath.

"Where is that four-footed whirwind of iniquity? Show him to me! I'll -"

Just then Silas inadvertently pressed the button of the instrument he was holding. It happened that it pointed straight at the professor who was, moreover, in exact focus. From these causes resulted a deplorable loss to science - the plate broke! - Detroit Free Press.

OF INTEREST TO

Keep Away from Street Cars.

The idiot who rides through the north or west side tunnel during the busy hours, says a Chicago paper, is in companion for the fool who gets in front of a street car on the level and grinningly keeps there until forced to vacate.

Next in asinine folly come those who race along side of or follow the cars. How so many of them escape broken bones is a mystery. In riding close to a car, either beside or in the rear, the rider cannot be too careful. There is no telling when a passenger may jump off or when some other cyclist may cut directly in front of the car, or cross directly in the rear.

Then, again, the car may come to sudden stop when the rider is wholly unprepared. The most dangerous riding of any is to follow a car between the tracks. It is true that on some streets this part of the highway is the most desirable for cyclists, yet another rider will find himself in a predicament. It is a fool's exploit to ride between the space when two cars are passing in opposite directions.

The slight swerve of the wheel is apt to mean a serious injury, perhaps a fatality, and in no circumstances are the conditions such as to warrant such a feat. It takes a steady head and a steady hand to steer a machine through such a tight place. There is no need of giving such a performance and the best thing is to let it alone.

Don't Wear Nasty Clothes.

The deplorable lack of taste shown by wheelmen in selecting their suits is matter of frequent comment. In no particular is this more conspicuous than as to sweaters. Recently two young fellows were seen in sweaters calculated to make the observer bilious.

One was of sickly green, the other of Chinese yellow. Either one alone would have been a horror in itself, but seen together the effect was so shocking as almost to provoke squeamishness in the spectator. Occasionally, too, a woman is seen in costume indicating total lack of good judgment.

A woman looks well on the wheel provided she is careful to dress in quiet colors with clothes that fit her. Quiet clothes are essential, and the leggings should come somewhat near matching the cloth. The hat should be a plain Alpine or Derby, or golf without ornamentation, so that there is nothing conspicuous about it. With these things and a fair control of the bicycle any woman will look well while enjoying the most invigorating exercise.

Dismounting in a Hurry.

A wheelman may ride for years without getting into a position where an emergency dismount is necessary, but when the necessity does present itself he needs the knowledge quite as much as a Texan under certain circumstances needs his gun.

The surest and safest way to dismount safely is to grasp the handle bars firmly and spring with both from the pedals off the seat backward, so as to land in the position one would be in when about to mount from the step. Hold fast to the handle bars. It is amazing how quickly one can stop in this way after a little practice. It possesses the advantage of bringing the wheel between one and an obstacle in front. Another dismount which one should practice is the right side dismount. It is often impossible to dismount from the left side when an obstacle comes suddenly from that side, and when one can dismount from the right as well as the left side it is a great advantage.

The First Attempt.

A blue asbestos rope, three-fourths of an inch in diameter, was weighted at one end with 220 pounds, and exposed to a constant flame from a large gas jet, so that a considerable portion of its length was surrounded by fire. It only broke after twenty-two hours. The asbestos rope has only two-thirds the strength of a new hemp rope, but as they grow older the proportion changes in favor of the former, since it is but little affected by the atmosphere. The blue asbestos fiber is also worked into mattresses for hospitals, which are cooler in summer and warmer in winter than those of animal hair or vegetable fiber. As an expedition fireman's apparel is being manufactured from the fiber. - Chicago Inter-Ocean.

PORTLAND IN PORT.

TREASURE STEAMER ARRIVES FROM THE GOLD REGION.

She Carried Thirteen Miners Who Bring About $375,000 in Dust and Nuggets - Earthquake in Japan Causes Loss of Life and Property.

Gold from Klondyke.

The long-looked for Portland has arrived. The ship about which so many stories have been told since she left St. Michael reached Seattle Sunday morning.

The miners on board, with the amounts of their total mining profits, parts of which were brought with them, are as follows:

J. Rowan, $50,000; James Bell, $45,000; James G. Smith, $25,000; N. W. Poy, $25,000; W. W. Caldwell, $25,000; W. O. C., $20,000; C. K. Zilly, $25,000; F. W. C., $20,000; M. S. Lansing, $15,000; E. W. Farman, $10,000; M. R. Carter, $10,000.

While the small amount of gold brought from the Yukon by the Portland was a disappointment to many, the miners who accompanied it in saying that the country is richly stocked with gold.

It is calculated that for 1897 and 1898 there will be a shortage of 50,800,000 hundredweights. The stocks remaining on hand from 1896 are approximately estimated at somewhere between 38,000,000 and 45,000,000.

The total supply for the year, reckoning both the present stocks and the harvest, is estimated from 610,000,000 to 651,000,000 metric hundredweights.

most reliable men from Dawson City say that no such amount of money will come, as it has not been taken out of the ground.

The mine who came down from the outside figure at $1,000,000. El Dorado and Bonanza Creeks, where the richest strikes have been made, have been staked for many miles, but desirable claims are scarce, and the prospectors are beginning to scatter out.

Hundreds of miners are looking toward the Stewart river, the second largest branch of the Yukon, and hundreds of prospectors will undoubtedly be on its banks and bars within the next few months.

Although the bars of the main river have been successfully worked for the last ten years, there has practically been no real prospecting done on the many important tributaries.

Everywhere that the explorers and scattering prospectors have gone in the Stewart and its branches gold has been found.

On many creeks the prospects were extra good. Several things have been reported to leave this field practically untouched.

The question of getting supplies is a very serious one. At the same time the few hundred men who have been on the Yukon up to last year have found sufficiently attractive diggings near to the older districts and closer to supply bases. The Indians also have a superstition regarding a powerful and savage tribe who live on the upper part of the river and whom they call the "Mahonies" and consequently will not go up the river any great distance.

From the mouth of Stewart over to the north fork the distance is estimated at 450 miles, and to the head of this fork in the vicinity of 500 miles in all.

The south fork is practically unexplored. One or two persons have been on it, and then not for a sufficient distance to determine its character or length.

The prospectors and those who have been on the river say that it carries a larger volume of water than the Polly river.

It is beyond doubt the second largest feeder of the Yukon. The first gold discoveries on the Stewart were made in 1855 on bars within about 100 miles from the mouth.

These were rich. During the fall, in less than fifty days' time, as high as $6,000 to the man was reckoned out.

In 1886 fully 100 men were working on the river bars with good success. Some went up the north fork nearly to its head.

Each succeeding season the bars have been worked until now they do not pay wages.

EARTHQUAKES IN JAPAN.

Great Loss of Life and Property Is Reported. A great earthquake occurred in Japan Aug. 15. It lasted eight minutes and was followed by a tidal wave which swept up rivers, following into the sea and caused great destruction.

Up to Aug. 10 it was known in Yokohama that over 5,000 houses had been inundated or washed away. Between 100 and 300 people were known to be drowned or seriously injured.

It was thought early to estimate the amount of damage done to railways, crops, roads, bridges and shipping.

It was reported from Hosokai that coal mines there were flooded by an overflowing river, drowning over 100 miners.

Earthquake shocks on the morning of Aug. 5 varied from four to sixteen in number in various places, the movement being from east to west. Less than an hour afterward a tidal wave was felt in towns along the coast. For a week previously rains had fallen almost all the time and the rivers were already very high. The tidal wave raised them in so many minutes from twelve to twenty feet higher. The Governor of Niigata prefecture reports that the Arakawa rose twenty feet at Nagayama. Fifteen hundred houses were flooded and thirty people killed or injured.

The waters rose so rapidly that over 100 people were afloat in their houses before they knew what had happened. These were all rescued with boats. Further down the same river twenty boats were swept away or washed and 2,000 filled with water.

Nearly 700 houses were wrecked and inundated in other towns. Reports from province of Rikyu state immense waves rolled in forty-five minutes after the earthquake and flooded eight fishing villages.

All official buildings and the railway station at Nagayama were flooded. Nine railway officials were carried down stream to sea in their houses. A steamer rescued them, but many smaller boats were swept away.

WORLD'S HARVEST SHORT.

Annual Estimate Furnished by Hungarian Authorities. The Hungarian Ministry of Agriculture has issued its annual estimates, in which it describes the world's harvest as "extraordinarily short."

The total yield of wheat is placed at 573,700,000 metric hundredweights, while the present annual requirements are estimated at 655,150,000 metric hundredweights.

It is calculated that for 1897 and 1898 there will be a shortage of 50,800,000 hundredweights. The stocks remaining on hand from 1896 are approximately estimated at somewhere between 38,000,000 and 45,000,000.

THE WILSON TARIFF.

DIDN'T INCREASE OUR FOREIGN MARKETS.

Claim of Alleged Increase of Exportation of American Manufactures Controverted by Treasury Figures Showing Proportionate Increases Under Wilson and McKinley Laws.

Wilson Law Examined.

Special Washington correspondence. It is now practicable to examine the claim made by the advocates of low tariff that the Wilson tariff law made an increased market abroad for American manufactures and thus was advantageous to them.

The opportunity which is offered to examine this question comes by way of the publication by the Treasury Department of its monthly summary for June, which covers the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, and thus practically completes the record of the Wilson law.

That the exportation of manufactured articles did increase under the Wilson law is undeniably true. But that the importation of manufactured articles increased very much more than the exportation is equally true. The exportation of manufactured goods in the fiscal year 1897 was in round numbers $93,000,000 greater than in the last year under the McKinley law, 1894, the figures for these two years being respectively: 1894, $183,723,808, and in 1897, $276,357,861.

The importation of manufactured goods during the same period increased $146,000,000, or nearly double the increase of the exportation of manufactured goods, the total imports of manufactured goods in 1894, the last year of the McKinley law, being $158,329,136, and in 1897, the last year of the Wilson law, $304,647,104.

It is thus apparent that the importation of manufactured goods practically doubled under the Wilson law since 1894, the last year of the McKinley law, and it is not surprising that the bringing in of over $300,000,000 worth of manufactured goods per annum drove the manufacturers of the United States to seek a market abroad at whatever price they could get, as the only means of escaping the necessity of closing their factories.

Another interesting point to be determined in regard to this question of exportation of manufactured articles under the Wilson law is whether the proportionate increase was more markedly rapid under the Wilson law than it had been under the McKinley law.

The following table gives the exportations in the fiscal years 1891, 1894 and 1897 of manufactures of the United States; 1894, it will be remembered, was the last year under the McKinley law, and by comparing the growth from 1894 to 1897, under the Wilson law, three years with the growth from 1891 to 1894, under the McKinley law, also three years, it is easy to determine whether the proportionate growth in export of manufactures was any greater under the Wilson law than under the McKinley law.

The exportation of manufactured goods during the fiscal years in question are given below. The list includes the important groups, or classes of articles exported where the amount in the end reaches as much as $1,000,000. It will be seen that in many cases the percentage of gain in exportation was much greater during the three years of the operations of the McKinley law than in the three years of the Wilson law.

Exports of articles manufactured in the United States in the fiscal years 1891, 1894 and 1897, the period between 1891 and 1894 being under the operations of the McKinley law; that from 1894 to 1897 under the operations of the Wilson law:

Jones' Dogmas. Senator Jones of Nevada has invented a new rallying cry for the silver orators who are to work among the farmers this fall.

He says that if we had the free coinage of silver wheat would be worth twice as much as it is now. Yet as it is conceded that the silver dollar would be only worth its bullion value under free coinage, as it is in Mexico to-day, and the farmers would thus be worse off if they got twice the present price of their wheat and got it in dollars worth only 43 cents.

Senator Jones has no means of substantiating his assertion that the price of wheat would double under free coinage except by admitting that the dollar which would be paid would be worth only half that which is now being paid.

In point of fact, it would be less than half, as is seen by the conditions of Mexico, where a dollar containing more silver than that in our own dollar is worth but 43 cents.

Senator Jones may be a great financier, but the average farmer is sufficiently well posted in matters of that sort to know that two 43-cent dollars are worth less than one 100-cent dollar.

MONTHLY SUFFERING.

Thousands of women are troubled at monthly intervals with pains in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides, hips and limbs. But they need not suffer.

These pains are symptoms of dangerous derangements that can be corrected. The menstrual function should operate painlessly.

Wine of Cardui

makes menstruation painless, and regular. It puts the delicate menstrual organs in condition to do their work properly. And that stops all this pain. Why will any woman suffer month after month when Wine of Cardui will relieve her? It costs $1.00 at the drug store. Why don't you get a bottle to-day?

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. ROZENA LEWIS, of Onaville, Texas, says: "I was troubled at monthly intervals with terrible pains in my head and back, but have been entirely relieved by Wine of Cardui."

Moments are useless if wasted away, and they are dangerously trifled if consumed by delay in cases where One Minute Cough Cure would bring immediate relief. L. P. Orth.

Premont Tribune: J. O. Milligan of Wakefield, president of the McKinley Club of that town, has just commenced the erection of an elevator at Pender. Having voted for prosperity he is going to turn up his tub and catch his share.

The indications are at this time that the campaign this fall will be interesting, but we believe in no wise personal, and in our opinion, if good judgment prevails at the republican county convention, the republicans will almost sweep the county.

The Sons of Herman had a very pleasant picnic at Grimsley's grove last Sunday afternoon. Many people from the city were there and enjoyed the hospitality of the Lodge. The singing of the quartette was splendid. The Wayne orchestra also furnished good music.

The HERALD hasn't done five cents worth of printing for the Fair, but it is a Wayne county paper and its columns have been freely devoted to advertising it and urging people to attend just the same. However, it is not always the best way to resort to the cheapest plan of doing business for any public exhibition or attraction.

To Whom It May Concern: I have been in the drug business for twelve years, and during that time have sold nearly all the cough medicines manufactured, and from my personal knowledge of such remedies, I say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other on the market.—W. For a number of years owners of the fastest horses have been trying to get under the two minute gate, and the wonderful feat was performed at Headville, Mass., last Saturday by Star Pointer, the great Chicago pacer. The mile was made in 1:58 1/4.

The HERALD can name a number of democrats in Wayne already who will no longer vote the Bryan regime and who propose to vote the republican ticket from top to bottom this fall. Some of them are among Wayne's successful business men, too.

The "Biologist's Best Friend" is a familiar name for DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, always ready for emergencies. While a specific for piles, it instantly relieves and cures cuts, bruises, salt rheum, eczema, and all affections of the skin. It never fails. L. P. Orth.

W. H. Bradford, manager of the Edwards & Bradford Lumber Co.'s yard at this place, expects to leave Wayne this week for Colorado where he will take charge of the Company's yard, and will for the present give up his residence in Wayne. Mr. and Mrs. Bradford have a host of Wayne friends who will wish their success and happiness in their new home.

The writer visited the Omaha stock yards Thursday and on every hand was evidence of increased prosperity. Everybody was rushing hither and thither and the yards were filled with cattle, hogs and buyers, and everybody was wearing a smile and talking of the return of prosperity. We met a former citizen, J. W. Perry, of the firm of Rice Bros. & Nixon, commission men who are, by the way, one of, if not the leading firm at the stock yards. Mr. Perry says they are doing an immense business, and he is jubilant.

J. W. Baggett of Oak Grove, Fla., had an attack of the measles nearly 3 years ago, and the disease left him with very severe pains in the chest. "I thought I would die," he writes; "but to my great joy I was saved by Chamberlain's Pain Balm." Pains in the chest nearly always indicate the approach of pneumonia, and by promptly applying this liniment on a flannel cloth, which should be bound on the chest, an attack of pneumonia may be prevented. It is always prompt and effectual. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by Orth.

W. B. Caldwell, cashier of the United States National Bank of Omaha, was the guest of H. F. Wilson on Friday. Mr. Caldwell drove over from Wisner and was astonished and greatly surprised with the excellent crops of Wayne county. He expected to find Wayne a town of about 1000 inhabitants and the farm land around Wayne comprised of a sandy soil as he had never been here before. He was well pleased with our city and surrounding country. Wayne county is one of the best counties in the state, and many other people would become convinced of that fact if they should visit it.

Charley Culler, accompanied by his mother, started from town Sunday afternoon to visit his brother George, who resides on N. Crimsley's farm southwest of the city, and when near the road going south between the Tracy and Frazer farms, the team became frightened at a bicycle, and jumping to one side ran into a ditch, upsetting the buggy and throwing Mrs. Culler out, who sustained a severe scalp wound. Charley had the misfortune to catch in the buggy top and was dragged some distance before the staves broke sustaining a fracture of the left collar bone. The buggy was damaged somewhat but the team was not injured. On reaching the city Dr. Blair was summoned who dressed the wounds and reduced the fracture.

SHORTEN.—At his home southeast of Wayne, Thursday, August 26th, 1897, Jas. H. Shorten, aged 29 years; death resulting from bright's disease.

Deceased was born in Iowa City, Dec. 18, 1867, and came with his parents to this county ten years ago. The funeral occurred Saturday afternoon, Rev. H. H. Millard preaching the sermon.

Small precautions often prevent great mischiefs. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are very small pills in size but are most effective in preventing the most serious forms of liver and stomach troubles. They cure constipation and headache and regulate the bowels.—L. P. Orth.

Pierce Call: The Wayne HERALD is a paper after our own heart. They have a fellow on the republican county central committee there of the autocratic, big "I," "do it my way or I'll smash things" stripe, and Bro. McNeal doesn't spare words or spare his feelings but takes a fall from the dictator in the most elegant shape imaginable. Something like that possibly might occur in Pierce county one of these days.

The officers of the Pennsylvania Pionio Association met agreeable to call of president with the following result: Mr. Grimsley's grove is the place, and Wednesday, Sept. 15 the date set for holding the annual picnic. The following committees were appointed: On grounds, W. B. Stambaugh, D. Cunningham; on program, E. Cunningham, Lombert Roe; on music, Geo. L. Cook; on finances, S. E. Russell, Geo. Fortner.

A Desperate Woman.

Experts in insanity tell us that when anyone goes to a physician for a whole nature is reversed. They do and say exactly the opposite things to what they would do in their same minds. A mother whose mind breaks down under extreme nervous tension may turn upon the one object in all the world most precious to her—her baby. The terrible nervous tension under which many women live and suffer because of some weakness or disease of their sex, keeps them on the very verge of insanity. The constant drag and drain upon the complicated and delicate organism affects the whole nervous system and works upon the brain with an average of ten to fifteen hours of suffering every day.

Thousands of suffering women have been literally saved from the insane asylum by the timely influence of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the one perfect and positive specific for every derangement of woman's specific organism. It is a scientific and permanent cure for those severe, chronic, complicated cases which doctors usually consider hopeless. It is the only medicine of its kind devised by an educated and skilled physician.

Mrs. Sarah E. Rains, of Dayton, Cass Co., Mo., in a letter to Dr. Pierce writes: "I was in the winter of 1896 that my sufferings commenced. It was close to my time of confinement. I took the grip, and that with the labor pains all went to my head. I felt as if I was going to die. I had a little boy, but I kept getting worse. I doctored but nothing did me any good. I had nervous spasms and was delirious. Oh, no doctor can express my sufferings. I was advised by a lady to try your medicine and I did. I got one bottle of your medicine, and I felt as if I was the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I had taken two-thirds of the medicine when it commenced its work. I began to feel better, and still continued getting better. In a short time I felt like another woman. I gained strength and flesh, and am now forty-one years of age. This is true, and it was your medicine that saved my life."

Dr. Pierce's 1000-page illustrated book, "The People's Medical Adviser," sent, paper bound, free for the cost of mailing (order on one-cent stamps; or, cloth-bound 31 stamps). Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Too Much Knife!

The use of the surgeon's knife is becoming so general, resulting fatally in such a large number of cases, as to occasion general alarm.

Mr. William Walpole, of Walshtown, South Dakota, writes: "About three years ago, there came under my left eye a little blotch about the size of a small pea. It grew rapidly, and shooting pains ran in every direction. I became alarmed and consulted a good doctor, who pronounced it cancer, and said that it must be cut out. This I would not consent to, having little faith in indiscriminate use of the knife. Reading of the many cures made by S. S. S. I determined to give that medicine a try, and after I had taken it a few days, the cancer became irritated and began to discharge. This after while ceased, leaving a small scab, which finally dropped off, and only a healthy little scar remained to mark the place where the destroyer had held full sway."

A Real Blood Remedy.
Cancer is in the blood and it is folly to expect an operation to cure it. S. S. S. (guaranteed purely vegetable) is a real remedy for every disease of the blood. Books mailed free; address Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Allen, and Isaac Miner were defendants, for the purpose of subjecting the real estate hereinafter described to the lien of certain notes in plaintiff's petition described, and on which the plaintiff did, on the 22nd day of October, 1896, obtain a decree for the sum of $640.00 and costs of suit, and upon which Bressler & Dearborn also obtained a decree for the sum of $240.00, and to be further directed in said decrees that in default of payment of said sums, that an order of sale to the sheriff of Wayne county, Nebraska, directing that said premises be sold as per execution to satisfy said decrees, which are still in full force and unsatisfied, I will therefore, sell to satisfy said decrees amounting in all to $880.00, and $18.05 costs of suit, and accruing costs, the real estate described in the said order of sale to-wit: that to-wit: two and one-half of lot eleven (n 1/2 of 11) in block three (3) in the city of Wayne, Wayne county, Nebraska, to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the office of the clerk of the district court, in the court house in Wayne in said county, that being the building wherein the last term of the district court was held, on the 4th day of October, 1897, at the hour of ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon of said day, when and where due attendance will be given by the undersigned.

Ed. Reynolds, Sheriff, Wayne County.

Too Much Knife!

The use of the surgeon's knife is becoming so general, resulting fatally in such a large number of cases, as to occasion general alarm.

Mr. William Walpole, of Walshtown, South Dakota, writes: "About three years ago, there came under my left eye a little blotch about the size of a small pea. It grew rapidly, and shooting pains ran in every direction. I became alarmed and consulted a good doctor, who pronounced it cancer, and said that it must be cut out. This I would not consent to, having little faith in indiscriminate use of the knife. Reading of the many cures made by S. S. S. I determined to give that medicine a try, and after I had taken it a few days, the cancer became irritated and began to discharge. This after while ceased, leaving a small scab, which finally dropped off, and only a healthy little scar remained to mark the place where the destroyer had held full sway."

The indications are at this time that the campaign this fall will be interesting, but we believe in no wise personal, and in our opinion, if good judgment prevails at the republican county convention, the republicans will almost sweep the county.

The Sons of Herman had a very pleasant picnic at Grimsley's grove last Sunday afternoon. Many people from the city were there and enjoyed the hospitality of the Lodge. The singing of the quartette was splendid. The Wayne orchestra also furnished good music.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

STATE, For Judge of the Supreme Court.

C. W. Kaley, Red Cloud

John N. Dryden, Kearney

Many farmers of Wayne county were hardly aware that when they were stacking wheat they were stacking up gold dollars.

If W. J. Bryan honestly thought the only road to prosperity lay by the way of free silver how he must be astonished now! -York Times.

The republican state convention selected the eagle as the emblem to be used at the head of the republican ticket on the official ballots.

The person who would listen to the delusion of Bryan this fall ought to be compelled to sell his wheat for Mexican dollars; that is, he should have to accept them as dollars of 100 cents each.

Apparently the foreign countries, at the suggestion of Mark Hanna, failed to raise a big crop of wheat this year expressly for the purpose of helping the republican party in this country. Nothing like it.

It will require more than the Rundles, the Henry Millers, and fusion leaders to make the farmers of Wayne county believe they are not getting some of the prosperity promised by the republican party.

The populist party is doing its best to make it appear that it's the shortage of wheat that makes good times and high prices. Is there a shortage in rye, corn, cattle, hogs, eggs, and almost everything raised on a farm? Such nonsense as the above will hardly fool the people again.

Republicans are not the party who declared when prices were low that supply had no effect upon demand, yet it was so declared. Neither do they claim now that it has not, but they do claim that by judicious management the demand can be increased, which naturally enough increases the price, and the people are pretty much all coming to that way of thinking.—Stanton Picket.

The deadly parallel could be drawn with good effect on some of the free silver papers which were assereverating last year that the only hope of prosperity lay in the opening of the mints to the free and unlimited coinage of silver, but which are now forced to publish columns of matter showing highly satisfactory and improving business conditions and arriving prosperity.—Hartington Herald.

A farmer over in Dodge county who took Bryan's word for everything hastened to contract his wheat when it was 52 cents a bushel. He believed that wheat and silver were inseparably linked and because the price of silver was declining he was sure wheat would decline also in price. Wheat is now selling at 80 cents and this farmer has, from practical experience, learned to heed less the teachings of a "wily politician."—Blair Pilot.

Last fall the calamityite told you that there was not enough money to transact the business of the country, but the story was like all the rest of the popocratic stories; it was full of wind. More than double the business is being done this year, and are you having any trouble in getting the money for your wheat, corn, cattle, hogs, etc? Every popocratic claim has been exploded by the return of the republican party to power.

Let us see, farmers of Wayne county, were you not told repeatedly last fall that the republican party would, in less than three months, have to issue bonds to maintain the government, if the party was successful and McKinley elected? What do you think of it now? What do you think of Bryan's or any popocrat's judgment of government affairs now? Are you not pretty well satisfied Bryanism is not the thing for you or for any citizen of Wayne county?

If prices were going down instead of remaining steady or on the upward move, it would all be on account of the republican party. But now that prices are going up, it's all because of the shortage of wheat in the old country. But that story last fall that without the free and unlimited coinage of silver farm products could not raise in price, does not agree with the above statement, but all of the populist statements of last fall do not agree with the present condition of things.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION

The Republican State convention held at Lincoln last Thursday was one of the most harmonious in the history of the party in the state. Every delegate attending reported good news from his county indicating that the wave of prosperity had struck every portion of the state. The speech of Senator Thurston well paid all those attending. Judge A. M. Post was renominated for Supreme Judge by acclamation, likewise C. W. Kaley of Red Cloud, for Regent of the University. John N. Dryden of Kearney was also nominated for Regent. The nominations are excellent ones and there is no doubt of their election.

Hon. Jno. T. Bressler of this city, at the solicitation of friends, was selected as a member of the state central committee from the Eleventh Senatorial district, comprising the counties of Wayne, Stanton, Madison and Pierce. The following platform was adopted:

The republicans of Nebraska reaffirm the principles enunciated by the national republican convention in 1896, and congratulate the country upon the triumphant popular indorsement of these principles in the election of Wm. McKinley and Garret A. Hobart.

We commend the tariff legislation enacted in the special session of congress at the instance of President McKinley as the most effective measure for vitalizing the patriotic principle of protection to American industries, through which American manufacturers are enabled to compete successfully with the imported products of foreign labor, American workmen are afforded an opportunity to secure employment at remunerative wages and American farmers secure the benefit of a market through increased home consumption.

We hail with joy the return of business confidence, financial health, and better prices for the products of the farm and factory, since the election of a republican president and congress.

We take this first occasion to express our abhorrence of the crimes committed by the late defaulting state treasurer and state auditor, which prove their recreancy to republican morals and their departure from republican teachings, and we urge their speedy prosecution and trial, and if found guilty, their severe punishment. We also demand that immediate steps be taken to recover all public funds that have been wrongfully diverted from the treasury. We condemn the governor for failing to exercise his prerogative in requiring the treasurer to make an exhibit of, and account from time to time for the public funds in his custody, and by reason of this palpable dereliction of duty he cannot escape his share of the responsibility for the treasury default.

We deplore the discredit that has been brought upon the state by ill-considered attempts of the present state administration to array class against class for partisan purposes, and to manufacture testimony to show that our farmers are paupers, and that the laws are unequal and inadequate for the protection of the interests of the laboring man.

We most earnestly denounce the attempt of the state officials in conjunction with the majority of the legislature at its late session to falsify the returns of the last state election on the proposed constitutional amendment increasing the number of justices of the supreme court.

The reckless disregard of law and contempt of public decency that characterized the action of the governor and the joint legislative committee that pretended to recount the ballots in their efforts to cancel and overturn by legerdemain, an overwhelming majority returned against the amendment, and to carry the same by star chamber proceedings, are without precedent in the political annals of the country.

We learn with extreme regret of the increase by the railroads of freight rates on grain transported between Chicago and the seaports, and we call on the inter-state commerce commission to investigate this advance in rates and take such steps as will protect the farmer and shippers of the west from the payment of unreasonable transportation charges. We also favor such amendments of the inter-state commerce act as will give the commission power to enforce its own orders.

The heroic struggle of the Cubans to achieve their independence and secure the blessings of liberty and self-government commands our warmest sympathy. We express our abhorrence of the cruel warfare of extermination waged by Spain against the Cuban insurgents, and we urge the speedy intervention of our government, before the island of Cuba is completely devastated either by according her belligerent rights or recognizing her independence as a free and independent nation.

We commend the fidelity and efficiency of Senator Thurston and Congressmen Mercer and Strode in the discharge of their official duties and their loyalty to republican principles. Resolved, That we heartily commend the attitude of our representatives in congress towards combinations of capital in restraint of trade, that seek in this or any other way to control the price of the necessities of life, and that the attention of the voters of Nebraska be called to the fact that the only federal statute that seeks to protect consumers from the ravages of trusts, was indited by the Hon. John Sherman, our present secretary of state, passed by republican votes and signed by a republican president, and has been sustained by the supreme court of the United States; that we commend the steps taken by the last congress to improve the effectiveness of the Sherman anti-trust law, believing in due time, the executive department of the present administration will be able thereby to successfully cope with all combinations that are in spirit or execution antagonistic to those well defined and cherished principles lying at the foundation of this republic.

During his speech, Senator Thurston stated that he was not a candidate for re-election to the U.S. Senate, and that he had no intention of ever becoming a candidate for any other office, which statement was listened to with regret by every delegate present. In reaching this conclusion Senator Thurston said: "I am entirely satisfied with the republicans of my state and of the nation, I am as strong an adherent of republican principles and doctrines as I have ever been; I am on excellent terms with all my colleagues in the senate. My relations with the present administration are most cordial and pleasant. I have every reason to be highly pleased with the treatment which the republicans of my state have received at the hands of our great president. I have not the least doubt that the republican party will return to power in Nebraska and I have no apprehension as to your continued indorsement. I have never sought to avoid a public responsibility and shall not desert a public post of duty, but I know full well that there are many great republicans in Nebraska who can serve you acceptably in the senate. For myself I have a right to consider my own comfort and welfare and that of those who are near to me. I do not like public life at the capital. I do love home life in Nebraska. I am a comparatively poor man. As your senator I cannot afford to maintain a house in Washington and another in Omaha. I cannot consent to give up my home in Omaha and establish my fixed residence in Washington. I can adequately provide for my family by the practice of my profession; I cannot do so by continuing in the public service."

Most of it was not marketable corn and could not therefore be quoted at any price. A gain of $880.00 for 5 months feeding, most of it profit, is certainly a good showing.

THE WIFE'S SECRET

CHAPTER XI.
If Lady Kildonan did not look like an invalid, she knew how to assume the air of one, and it was with the most affecting languor that she turned her pretty head on the cushion which supported it as the young doctor entered.

"Oh, Dr. Armathwaite, how do you do? I'm so glad you have come. What a nice time you had at the bank."

"And, apparently exhausted by the effort of shaking hands and inviting him to a chair beside her, she drew a long sigh, and let her arms fall at her sides with the abandonment of utter lassitude."

"I feel just like that," said she, raising her blue eyes and dropping the white lids over them again immediately, to indicate the completeness of the physical prostration from which she was suffering."

He felt her pulse as a matter of form, and could almost have laughed at the barefaced nature of the fraud she was carrying on so beautifully. Luckily, he was sitting with his back to the light, which fell full on the lady, so that any indiscreet incredulity which might peep out in his face could not be noticed by his interesting patient."

"I see," he said, with becoming gravity, "your case is very serious."

"Near life hypocrite as she was, this decision was too much for her equanimity. She opened her eyes to their full extent, and gazed at him with that child-like expression which only blue eyes have, and asked him in a soft tone of astonishment what he thought was the matter with her."

"That is what I want to know," he answered. "It must be mental trouble, and of some very acute kind, since it can prostrate you so entirely while your physical health is perfectly good."

"She lowered her eyes and sighed. "I have a great many worries, and troubles, too," she said, "but, of course, I couldn't think of troubling a doctor with them."

"At any rate, your gaiety became you so well that it is difficult to believe it was not natural to you."

"I have everything I can wish for, and I have everything that some people could wish for. I have a great, handsome house that some people might like, and a husband whom I made no objection to when they married me to him, and whom I've only one objection to now, but that one objection is fatal. A pause, during which Armathwaite still, while maintaining an attitude of respectful attention, asked no questions. She continued with a weary sigh. "He treats me like a child. I never have his confidence; I never have his trust."

Armathwaite was astonished. Remembering the way in which Lord Kildonan had spoken of her, had treated her; the friendly welcome he had extended to himself, a stray acquaintance whom Lady Kildonan had picked up in a particularly easy fashion; the kindness he had shown to the playfellow of her childhood; this charge seemed not only without foundation, but preposterous.

"I think," he said gently, "but with some decision, "that here is an ailment I can remove. If one of your troubles is the belief that your husband does not trust you in the fullest manner, I can relieve your mind by assuring you of my own knowledge that for this particular fear there is not the slightest foundation."

"You don't understand," she said, turning in her chair so that her great blue eyes, which shone with a radiance that seemed to throw a liquid brightness round them, like stars on a summer night, looked full into his. "When I explain the peculiar circumstances of our marriage, you will see what I mean. I was an only child, and inherited all my father's property, which was considerable. Papa was naturally anxious to marry me to some one who could look after my interests, and see that the estates were managed properly; that was comprehensible enough. But when he decided on Lord Kildonan, who had no money, or scarcely any, of his own, for my husband, papa was so delighted to have found such a pearl among men as he considered him to be, that he left the estates to him for life in trust for me and my children, if I should have any. So that you see, I was made dependent on my husband for every penny of my own money."

"But surely Lord Kildonan lets you have everything you want?"

"Yes, like a child for whom you buy a half-crown doll, though you won't let her have half a crown to buy a doll with. He has too much conscience to refuse to get me anything I want, but his Scotch instincts of carefulness over the funds will never allow him to put the money into my own hands and say, 'There, dear, buy what you have a fancy for.' Well, I dare say this sounds only like a trifling grievance after all, but it's galling, inexpressibly galling, when it goes on day after day, and month after month, over the smallest expense, and when you know that after all it's your own money."

Armathwaite was obliged to admit that it was an irritating thing, and he saw by the puckers of annoyance and almost of shame in the lady's beautiful face that in her pampered life this restriction attained the importance of a grievous affliction.

"But there is one lucky thing," he said, consolingly, "and that is, that being able to buy anything yourself cannot press very hardly upon you, as there is nothing to buy."

"At last he had touched the spring of one of her woes. She sprung up in her chair, the lace falling off her shoulders, and the golden hair loosened about her face, which had habitually become convulsed with excitement and indignation.

"No," she cried passionately, "but how hearing and her eyes flashing. 'Nothing to buy, nothing to see, nothing to do. And that is the life I am condemned to be chained to a man who doesn't understand that I am an active, pleasure-loving young girl. I can't read, I can't comfort myself with novels, and all that sort of thing. I want life and movement round me, but this dreary

AT SEA IN A STORM.

TALMAGE ON THE STILLING OF THE WAVES AT GENNESERET.

He Tells the Familiar Bible Story with Dramatic Interest and Power—Life's Stormy Voyage and How Shipwreck May Be Avoided.

Our Weekly Sermon.
This sermon by Rev. Dr. Talmage will be of great solace to people who are finding their life a rough voyage. Text, Mark, vi, 30. And there were also with him other little ships, and there was a great storm of wind. And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm."

"Oh, no, I am merely showing you how to cure him of it. If you care—and I am sure you do care, Lady Kildonan—to begin the cure by taking your husband for a long drive every day—three hours at the least, I promise you I will do my best to induce him to finish his cure at some foreign springs."

"No, I don't," said Armathwaite, smiling. "I mean a place with big hotels, and bands, and balls, and a promenade which shows off pretty dresses and their wearers."

"Agreed!" she said, hastily, and she gave him her hand to close the bargain just as a slow rat-tat was heard on her door. She ran to open it herself, and received her husband with an effusiveness which, to judge by the flush it brought to his plain face, was as unusual as it was evidently welcome. He took off his spectacles as she led him forward, leaning on his arm with a lithe, half-caressing inclination which had the appearance of rendering him stiff and constrained, but which caused his gray eyes to glow with tender light as he glanced shyly down upon her.

"No, I don't," said Armathwaite, smiling. "I mean a place with big hotels, and bands, and balls, and a promenade which shows off pretty dresses and their wearers."

"The Storm."
It seems as if we shall, have a quiet night. Not a leaf winked in the air; not a ripple disturbed the face of Gennearet, but there seems to be a little excitement up the beach, and we hasten to see what it is, and we find it an embarkation.

From the western shore a flotilla pushing out; not a squadron or deadly armament, nor clipper with valuable merchandise, nor piratic vessels ready to destroy everything they could seize, but a flotilla, bearing messengers of life and light and peace. Christ is in the front of the boat. His disciples are in a smaller boat. Jesus, weary with much speaking to large multitudes, is put into somnolence by the rocking of the waves. If there was any motion at all, the ship was easily righted; if the wind passed from one side, from the starboard to the larboard or from the larboard to the starboard, the boat would rock, and by the gentleness of the motion putting the Master asleep. And they improvised a pillow made out of a fisherman's coat. I think no sailor would have been so comfortable with the pillow, than he is sound asleep. The breezes of the lake run their fingers through the locks of the worn sleeper, and the boat rises and falls like a sleeping child on the bosom of a sleeping mother.

Calm night, stary night, beautiful night. Run up all the sails, ply all the oars, and let the large boat and the small boat glide over gentle Gennearet. But the sailors say there is going to be a change of weather. And even the passengers can hear the meaning of the storm as it comes on with long stride, with all the terrors of hurricane and darkness. The large boat trembles like a deer-at-bay trembling among the clangor of the hounds; great patches of foam are flung into the air; the sails of the vessels loosen, and the sharp winds crack like pistols; the smaller boats like petrels poise on the cliff of the waves and then plunge. Overboard go cargo, tackling and masts, and the drenched disciples rush into the back part of the boat and lay hold of Christ and say unto him, "Master, carest thou not that we perish?" That great personage lifts his head from the pillow of the fisherman's coat, walks to the front of the vessel and looks out into the storm. All around him are the smaller boats, driven in the tempest, and through it comes the cry of drowning men. By the flash of the lightning I see the calm brow of Christ as the spray dropped from his beard. He has one word for the sky and another word for the waves. Looking upward, he cries, "Peace!" Looking downward, he says, "Be still!"

Still the Waves.
The waves flat that on their faces, the foam melts, the extinguished stars relight their torches. The tempest falls dead and Christ stands with his foot on the neck of the storm. And while the sailors are hallooing out the boats and while they are trying to untangle the cordage the disciples stand in amazement, now looking into the calm sea, then into the calm sky, then into the calm of the Saviour's countenance, and they cry out, "What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him?"

The subject in the first place impresses me with the fact that it is very important to have Christ in the ship, for all those boats would have gone to the bottom of Gennearet if Christ had not been present. Oh, what a lesson for you and for me to learn! Whatever voyage we undertake, into whatever enterprise we start, let us always have Christ in the ship. Many of you in these days of revived commerce are starting out in new financial enterprises. I bid you good cheer. Do all you can do. Do it on as high a plane as possible. You have no right to be a stoiker in the ship if you can be an admiral of the navy. You have no right to be a colonel of a Regiment if you can command a brigade. You have no right to be an engineer of a boat on river banks or near the coast if you can take the ocean steamer from New York to Liverpool. All you can do, with utmost tension of body, mind and soul, you are bound to do, but oh, have Christ in every enterprise, Christ in every voyage, Christ in every ship!

There are men who ask God to help them at the start of great enterprises. He has been with them in the past. No trouble can overthrow them. The storms might come down from the top of Mount Hermon and lash Gennearet into foam and into agony, but it could not hurt them. But here is another man who starts out in worldly enterprise, and he depends upon the uncertainties of this life. He has no God to help him. After awhile the storm comes and tosses off the masts of the ship. He puts up his life boat. The sheriff and the auctioneer try to help him off. They can't help him off. He must go down. No Christ in the ship! Here are young men just starting out in life. Your life will be made up of sunshine and shadow. There may be in it arctic blasts or tropical tornadoes. I know not what is before you, but I know if you have Christ with you all will be well. From heaven might sweep through all our churches! Oh, for such days as Richard Baxter saw in Dun-deed. Oh, for such days as Jonathan Edwards saw in Northampton! I have often heard my father tell of the fact that in the early part of this century a revival broke out in Somerville, N. J., and some people were very much gratified about it. They said, "Oh, you are going to bring too many people into the church at once!" and they sent down to New Brunswick to get John Livingstone to stop the revival. Well, there was no better soul in all the world than John Livingstone. He went up. He looked at the revival, and he wanted him to stop it. He stood in the pulpit on the Sabbath and looked over the solemn auditory, and he said, "This, brethren, is in reality the work of God. Beware how you try to stop it." And he was an old man, leaning heavily on his staff, a very old man. And he lifted that staff and took hold of the small end of the staff and began to let it fall very slowly through between the finger and the thumb, and he said, "Oh, thou impatient, thou art falling slow—falling away from life, falling away from peace and heaven, falling as certainly as that cane is falling through my hand—falling certainly, though perhaps falling very slowly." And the cane kept on falling through John Livingstone's hand. The religious emotion in the auditory was overpowering and men saw a type of their own in the man who was trying to stop it. He stood in the pulpit on the Sabbath and looked over the solemn auditory, and he said, "This, brethren, is in reality the work of God. Beware how you try to stop it." until the knob of the cane struck Mr. Livingstone's hand, and he eluded it strongly, and said, "But the grace of God carries you as I stopped that cane," and there was gladness all through the house at the fact of pardon and peace and salvation. "Well," said the people after the service, "I guess you had better stop, Livingstone home. He is making the revival worse." Oh, for the gates from heaven and Christ on board the ship. The danger of the church of God is not in revivals.

Again, my subject impresses me with the fact that Jesus was God and man in the same being. Here he is in the back part of the boat. Oh, how tired he looks, what sad dreams he must have! Look at his countenance; he must be thinking of the cross to come. Look at him, he is a man—bone of our bone, flesh of our flesh. Tired, he falls asleep; he is a man. But then I find Christ at the prow of the boat. I hear him say, "Peace, be still," and I see the storm kneeling at his feet, and the tempests folding their wings in his presence; he is a God.

If I have sorrow and trouble and want sympathy, I go and kneel down at the back part of the boat, and say, "O Christ, weary part of Gennearet, sympathize with all my sorrows, man of Nazareth, man of the cross." A man, a man. But if I want to conquer my spiritual foes, if I want to get the victory over sin, death and hell, I come to the front of the boat and I kneel down and I say, "O Lord Jesus Christ, thou who dost wash away our sins, wash away all my sin." A man, a man, a God, a God.

I learn once more from this subject that Christ can crush a tempest. It did seem as if everything must go to ruin. The disciples had given up the idea of managing the ship, the crew were entirely demoralized; yet Christ rises, and he puts his foot on the storm and it crushes at his feet. Oh, yes, Christ can crush the tempest.

The Safe Harbor.
You have had trouble. Perhaps it was the little child taken away from you—the sweetest child of the household, the one you asked the most curious questions, and stood around you with the greatest fondness—and the spade cut down through your bleeding heart. Perhaps it was an only son; and your heart has ever since been like a desolated castle, the owls of the night hooting among the falling rafters and the crumbling stairways.

Perhaps it was an aged mother. You always went to her with your troubles. She was in your home to welcome your children into life, and when they died she was there to pity you; that old hand will do you no more kindness; that white lock of hair you put away in the casket or in the locked lid not look as well as it usually did when she brushed it away from her wrinkled brow in the home circle or in the country church. Or your property gone, you said, "I have so much bank stock; I have so many government securities; I have so many houses; I have so many farms; all gone, all gone."

Why, all the storms that ever trampled with their thunders, all the shipwrecks have not been worse than this to you. Yet you have not been completely overthrown. Why? Christ brushed the tempest. Your little one was taken away, Christ says, "I have that little one. I can take care of him as well as you can, better than you can, O bereaved mother!" Hush, hush the tempest! When your property went away, God said, "There are treasures in heaven, in banks that never break."

There is one storm into which we will all have to run the moment when we let go of this life and try to take hold of the next, when we will want all the grace we can have. We will want it all. Yonder I see a Christian soul rocking on the surges of death. All the powers of darkness seem to let out against that soul—the swirling wave, the thunder of the sky, the screaming wind, all seem to unite together, but that soul is not troubled. There is no sighing, there are no tears. Plenty of tears in the room at the departure, but he weeps no tears, calm, satisfied, peaceful. All is well. Jesus brushing the tempest. By the flash of the storm you see the harbor just ahead and you are making for that harbor. Strike eight bells. All is well.

Into the harbor of heaven now we glide. We're home at last, home at last. Softly we drift on its bright, silvery tide. We're home at last, home at last. Glory to God, all our dangers are over. We stand secure on the glorified shore. Glory to God, we will shout evermore. We're home at last, home at last.

Short Sermons.
The real object of life is living, and all may obtain their prize, just as all may lose it. Money, fame, social position, power of any sort whatever, in fact, may be the specific goal of a particular man. The real object is the same—to fill one's life full, to get that which gives satisfaction. Rev. Minot J. Savage, Unitarian, New York City.

Schemers.—The selfish manipulator is ever defensible. Though he operates with subtlety and becomes a past master in scheming to carry out his personal plans, he finds that the eye of the world sees pretty keenly and clearly, and though he has worked and fought behind a shield which he thought obscured his real motives, that shield, after all, has not been impenetrable. And he lifted that staff and took hold of the small end of the staff and began to let it fall very slowly through between the finger and the thumb, and he said, "Oh, thou impatient, thou art falling slow—falling away from life, falling away from peace and heaven, falling as certainly as that cane is falling through my hand—falling certainly, though perhaps falling very slowly." And the cane kept on falling through John Livingstone's hand. The religious emotion in the auditory was overpowering and men saw a type of their own in the man who was trying to stop it.

until the knob of the cane struck Mr. Livingstone's hand, and he eluded it strongly, and said, "But the grace of God carries you as I stopped that cane," and there was gladness all through the house at the fact of pardon and peace and salvation. "Well," said the people after the service, "I guess you had better stop, Livingstone home. He is making the revival worse." Oh, for the gates from heaven and Christ on board the ship. The danger of the church of God is not in revivals.

On next Sunday, Sept. 5th, the Y. M. C. A. will close its summers vacation and again open its Sunday afternoon meetings. This will be an open meeting led by Dr. E. S. Blair, the subject being, "The benefits of the Y. M. C. A." This we hope will be a very interesting beneficial meeting. Music will be furnished by some of the best talent. This is a work which deserves the encouragement and support of all. All denominations, laying aside creed, can join hands on this common ground and labor for humanity. We little know how far reaching are the influences set in motion by this association among young men and boys of our community. While perhaps it is not easy to estimate the direct good done here by the Y. M. C. A. There can be no such word as "fall" in regard to its work, for God has said that his word shall not return unto him void and this word has been sowed from Sunday to Sunday during the greater part of the past year. How many of the christians in Wayne are alive to the need of this work of looking after the young men? If we do not provide the entertainment the devil will and, in fact, he is continually doing it right in our midst, as any one who cares to notice well knows. If all will lend this cause their hearty support and encouragement by attendance and in other ways, it not be long before we will be able to erect a suitable and attractive building with baths, gymnasium, reading rooms and all other appliances which makes up the needs of a building of this kind. We all can see what an attraction and what a substantial benefit this would be to our city. Then let all hands join in this great work for men and boys and push it along with energy. All are most cordially invited to be present at next Sunday's meeting. All ladies are especially invited to meet with us in this meeting.
