WISCONSIN FATHER CONFESSES HIS INHUMAN CRIME.

England's Coast Swept by a Furious Gale-Many Vessels Wrecked and Twenty-Five Lives Reported to Have Been Lost.

Father's Inhuman Crime.

Oconnowec, Wis.: Ernest Cornell has confessed that it was he who slaughtered his two innocent children one week ago last Saturday morning, and after committing the deed he attempted suicide. The victims of Cornell's rash act were a son aged 6 and a daughter aged 4 years and they were killed with blows from a hammer on the head, after which he cut their throats.

In many places it was almost cyclonic in its violence and the long list of disasters includes a large loss of life, many wrecks of large vessels and the loss of scores, if not hundreds, of smaller craft, with serious damage to property ashore at many, important towns. In the north the wind was accompanied by blinding snow and hait that hid the lights, immensely increasing the difficulties of navigation. Many ships are known to have foundered, in most cases with all on board, it is feared.

Scarcely a town on the coast has escaped without more or less in jury, falling walls and flying debris adding to the loss of life. There have been rocket and life boat rescues almost without number. Stories of thrilling escapes come from all points. Twenty-five lives are reported to have been lost.

MURDERER TRIES TO SUICIDE

William Carr Swallows Pounded

William Carr Swallows Pounded Glass, but Doctors Save Him. Libearry, Mo.: In the county jail Monday afterneon, William Carr, nuder sentence to be hanged next month for drowning his 3-year-old child in the Missouri River, tried to commit suicide by swallow-ing, a quantity of pounder glass. Although two hypodermic injections were administered Carr failed to vomit the stuff! The county physician thinks he will recover, because of his giant strength. Carr fought like a fiend while the physicians were administering the injection and was only-conquered by being choked until he was black in the face and begged the jail officers to choke him to death. Since his fficers to choke him to death weeks ago, Carr has grown more sullen daily and has repeatedly expressed a de-Vanderblit Interests Are Said to Have a Hig Scheme on Foot.

CHARLESTON, W. Va.: The Vanderbitt interests have a scheme on foot aiming at the control, through the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, of the soft coal markets of both the east and the west. Every part of the enterprise, from the ownership of the coal lands to the final delivery of the product, will be managed by one head, representing one company.

About two months ago the amouncement was made by the Hon. John McGraw of Grafton, W. Va., that he had sold to a syndicate, including in its membership Cornelius Vanderblit, H. McK. Twombly and H. Seward Webb, a tract of coal and timber lands in the northeastern part of West Virginia. The same people bought other small tracts, making their holdings hearly half a million acres.

The railroads now controlled by the syntages.

The railroads now controlled by the syn dicate will be completed to these con lands, connecting them with the Chesa peake and Ohio, and through it with the east and west. It is also stated that the Vanderbilt interests have secured control of the Hocking Valley road, and it will be extended to Huntingdon, W. Va.

WINTER SWOOPS DOWN

Stinging Cold Sweeps Over the Country from the Northwest.

Old winter started across the country and North Dakota, tingled the ears of St. Paul, and by Saturday moraing was blowing its wintry breath on Chicago, causing the mercury to drop over 40 degrees in less than twenty-four hours.

Medicine Hat was proud of itself Friday. It had the reputation of being the coldest town on the continent, and it stuck itself full of plumes. The mercury went into its burrow for the winter's hisernating. It got as far as 22 degrees below zero, and during the day never got its head out of its hole, for the highest point it reached was 12 degrees below zero.

Medicine Hat is just across the line itself, for its silver column actually got as high as 0 during the day.

But Medicine Hat's glory may be short lived. Away off to the northwest are the stations of Battleford and Edmiston, which generally held the second. Edmiston has long had the reputation of being the breeding place of the blizzard, but that distinction may be wrested from it when the wires bring Dawson City and Point Barrow within hearing distance. At Calgary, west of Medicine Hat, and at Swift Current on the east the thermometers registered 20 below, while Winnipeg came trailing after with a record of 12 below. FACTS ABOUT THE NAVY.

Secretary Long Gives to the Public His Annual Report, Secretary of the Navy Long, in his re-port to the President, declares that the prime need of the naval service is not new prime need of the naval service is not new ships, but new docks, wharves, munitions, men and facilities. He says in part:

"Hitherto for more than a decade the increase of the navy has very properly been in the line of new ships, and wisely so, as this has hitherto been the vital need. In the opinion of the department the time has now come when that increase should be on adjunctory lines in order to bring our naval facilities up to the same line of advance. The principal need of to-day is that of sufficient docks, of which there is a deplorable lack; of adequate supplies of the munitions of war, which should never be at the land-to-mouth stage; of an equipment of our navy yard equal to the demand upon them of the increased number of our ships, and of an enlarged corps of officers and men to do

"Additions to our fleet may be hereafter necessary to bring it in case of an emergency to an extent commensurate with the growing necessities of the country, esthe growing necessities of the country, especially in view of the development of Alaska, which is a confinent in itself, and of the possible annexation of islands in the Pacific. On the other hand, it is a mistake not to recognize that our naval power has more than doubled within the last few years; that the case of any emergency beyond our present resources is the very rare case; that thill it comes ships very rare case; that until it comes ships will be gradually taken out of commission and put into reserve in order to reduce running expenses, and that a due-regard is necessary to the relation of the national expenditures to the national revenues.

"The department therefore recommends ship for the Pacific coast, where, after the five now under construction are completed, there will be only two, while on the Atlantic coast there will be seven; and also to a few torpedo boats and torpedoboat destroyers, both of which are comparatively of little cost, and more of which are desirable in order to bring this swift, mobile and handily effective arm of the service up to its place in the general scheme for coast defense.

The present effective fighting force of

The present effective fighting force of the navy consists of four battleships of the first class, two battleships of the secreted monitors, one ram, one dynamite gunboat, one dispatch boat, one transpor steamer and five torpedo bonts. There are under construction five battleships of steamer and new torpede boats. There are under construction five battleships of the first class, sixteen torpede boats and one submarine boat. There are sixty-four other naval vessels, including those used as training, receiving and naval-reserve ships, tugs, disused simple turried monitors and some unserviceable craft.

"There is, further, the auxiliary fleet, This consists, first, of more than twenty subsidized steamers which comply with the requirements of the postal act of March 3,1891, with regard to their adaptability to naval service, and to an armament of main and secondary batteries; second, of a very much greater number of large merchant marine steamers, which can be availed of lat any thing of need. These auxiliaries, ranging from 2,000 to 12,000 tons, will, it occasion require, form a powerful fleet of occan cruisers, capable of-swift and-formidable attack upon an enemy's commerce. Their great coal carretter will also set by them to remain enemy's commerce. Their great coal ca-pacity will also enable them to remain a long time at seg in search of the where abouts of hostile vessels.

"The country is to be congratulated up-on the results obtained in the rebuilding of the navy While its ships are not at of the navy. While its ships are not as many—and it is not necessary they should be—as those of some other great powers, be—as those of some other great powers, they are, class for class, in power, speed, workmanship and offensive and defensive qualities the equal of vessels built anywhere else in the world."

The Secretary recommends that naval officers who were discharged under the act of 1882 be restored to the service after examinations, and that the complement of enlisted men be largely increased to man the new ships.

Officials on the Yukon Urge the People to Flee from Certain Suffering and Disease-Notice with Startling Words Is Posted.

Must Go or Die.

Famine and starvation are threatening the people of the Yukon River between Minook Creek, Alaska, and Stewart River, Northwest Territory. There are over 1,000 persons in Dawson City without provisions. An equal number, including women and children, are lying in tents, and a heavy snow has fallen. Men are arriving at the rate of seventy-five a day, many of whom have less than half enough rations to last through the winter. Beans, flour, rice, hacon and other provisions are selling from $1.25 to $1.50 a pound. Jack Dalton of Juneau and one or two other stockmen arrived lately with a few hundred head of live stock and temperature prelieved the situation.

The gold commissioner could not get ranough provisions to feed his office force and was compelled to send several clerks and assistants down to Fort Yukon, where 1,000 tons of tood is stored. The winter has commenced. On the Alaska side of the Yukon River there are fully 3,500 people, and there is less than 1,200 tons of provisions to feed them. The Dominion police are sending scores of men down the river to Oircle City and Fort Yukon to relieve the local situation. In Circle City a week or two-ago-two stramers, the P. B. Weare and the Bella, were stopped by thirty men armed with rifles and relieved of thirty tons of provisions. There is no concending the true status of affairs. Before spring thousands of men and scores of women and children will be suffering from the pangs of hunger and disease.

Provisions will be needed in February and March—to—prevent great suffering. The commercial companies are doing what they can to relieve the situation by equalizing the division of food supply. Hundreds of men are in camp with a sack of flour each, forty pounds of bacon, twenty-five pounds of beans and five pounds of coffec to last until next June. A GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY.

California to Commemorate the Min eral Discoveries in That State

California to Commemorate the Mineral Discoveries in That State.

Although California no longer has a monopoly of the precious mineral it is still called the "Gold State." California has produced more than $800,000,000 of gold since the first discovery of it in 1848. The exact date of this discovery has been fixed officially as Jan. 19, and some Californians. are now preparing to celebrate the fittieth anniversary of that day on Jan. 19, 1898. It is intended to erect a monument designed to perpetuate and further extend the distinction of California as a State rich in minerals and to revive some of the earlier memories of the Argonauts who poured into California in the winter of '49 and the spring of '50 after the fame of California's gold fields had become national. The monumenties to be composed of as great a variety of mineral substances produced in the State as is possible. It is assumed that the orea, building stones, etc., will be given freely by counties, communities and individuals, and for the artistic features of the monument it is proposed to raise a fund of $100,000.

ment it is proposed to raise a fund of $100,000.

The mineral wealth of California, though chiefly, is not wholly gold. The silver product of the State, though not as large as that of Nevada or Colorado, is considerable, and California produces more than one-quarter of the whole world's supply of quicksilver; Copper and antimony are also produced, though not in amounts as large as in some other States.

The monument for which the founda-tion will be laid on Jan. 19 will not be the only feature of the proposed observance of this anniversary, for there is also in view the establishment of a permanent museum of minerals, designed to show not only what California has done in this line, but what, also, it is likely to be able to do in the future.

Some remarkably impressive figures are set forth in a series of articles pub-lished by the "Town State Register," on the subject of "Farmers' Losses by Free Trade." - From figures taken from official statistics of the Treasury Department and prepared under a free-trade administration, the "Register" obtains some startling conclusions. For example, it finds that in the four years of 1893 to 1896, inclusive, the de-creased consumption of wheat and corn directly attributed to hard amounted to a total of 3.257. 416,072 bushels, representing a farm value of $664,558,239, or an export value of more than $1,000,000,000.

The loss on farm animals for the same four years is shown to be $2,500,422,968, and on eats and hay over $000,000,000. These are monstrous prices to pay for the experiment in free trade covariant. free trade covering the period between March 4, 1893, and March 4, 1897. It to the losses of the farmer, estimated the Legislature of every semblance of right to exercise individual choice in deflance of the party wish, as clearly expressed by the election." Senator Mason, of Illinois, said: "I do not believe there is perfidy enough to induce one Republican to vote against Mr. Hanna for Senator. Every Republican in the Legislature is instructed to vote for him, and to violate that instruction would be such a betrayal of party trust as to put the betrayer outside the pale of civilized politics. It would be exactly the same as if he had been sent to the Electoral Col-lege, to vote for McKinley, and then, under some pretense of personal disappointment, had voted for Brynn, I am proud, as an American citizen, to say that no such person has ever been found in American history on either ide or in any party, and they will not find him in Ohio:"

Senator Burrows said: "I give no credence whatever to the newspaper reports from Ohio that the Republican Legislature will not select and return Senator Hanna to the United States Senate. First, he was indorsed unani mously by the State convention, which amounts tacitly to an instruction to the Legislature from the highest possible political organization in the State. Hanna led the fight for the party for the whole ticket, and won a high place in the affections of the people of Ohio in the affections of the people of the country for his splendid campaign, and I cannot believe that any Republican member of the Legislature will disobey the instructions of the party or fail to recognize the splendid service of the Senator. I am confident he will be re-elected by the solid Republican vate. Any other result Republican vote. Any other result yould overthrow the Republican party in Ohio for a quarter of a century, and do incalculable harm to the party at

Senator Fairbanks said: "I cannot believe there is any foundation in fact for the report that there is to be any opposition within the Republican party the return of Senator Hanna to the Senate. His indorsement by legislative conventions and by the State convention and by the Republican press of the State was unqualified and enthusiastic. He has made a campaign character-lzed by exceptional bitterness on the part of the opposition, and in all fair ness he should now enjoy the fruits of the victory he has won."

attention to the extraordinary in-crease in the wealth of the farmer as shown in the effect of protection upon the values of the sheep and wool of the United States. Ewes which in 1894 sold in Ohio at 69 cents each now bring 33 to $4, while lambs and bucks have advanced in equal proportion. The Madison, Wis., Journal has the following to say about the report of the secretary of the Kansas City Live Stock Exchange on the great increase in the Exchange-on-the great lincrease in the market values of live stock:

It is not from wheat alone that the Western farmers are reaping prosperity this year. The values of live stock of all kinds have increased on an average of about 25 per cent, and from the great-stock yards of Kansas City $40,000,000 more than in 1896 will be distributed among the producers. This is a statement made by the secretary of the Live Stock Exchange of Kansas City after careful calculation, and taking into consideration both the rise in values and the increase in receipts. Every steer now sold at the stock yards in that city brings from $6 to $8 more than the same kind of a steer brought a year ago; every calf, from $2 to $3 more; every hog, from $3 to $3.25 more, and every sheep, $1 more. The ptain value of all the live stock handled at that market this year will reach $125,000,000 and more. With these increased profits from his live stock, added to the large returns for his wheat, the Western farmer is enjoying a senson of remarkably good fortune and prosperity, and has good cause for rejoicing.

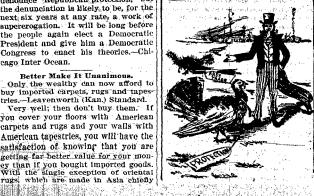

The whole country has good cause for rejoicing, for prosperity begins at the farm and extends through every branch of human activity. When its harvest for the year 1897 shall have market values of live stock:

Calamity Croakers.

An increase of about 40 per cent. In the customs revenue for October as compared with the preceding month of August ought to quiet the deficit apprehensions of any but the most hysterical among the calamity croakers. Nothing can quiet the apprehensions of that class of cranks. They would joy fully welcome a bankrupt national treasury, no matter from what cause, if they could only twist it into a free trade argument.

lost of the Fashionable Street Garments Are Loose, While Presenting a Very Sung Appearance to the Beholder-How to Alter Tight Jackets.

Fads of Fashion

T is not possible to treat of the current fashions without devoting a deal of attention to blouses, for these garments are the most characteristic feature of the winter styles. Blouse effects get into all the outer garments for our upper halves, dom abounding in jack ets and even an pearing in full-length coats, and making in the blous-ed ulster about the comfortable garment that has invented for a long, long It may be fur-lined, or have only a cosy-looking fur collar, but its looseness and snugness a rare combination—will make it at once becoming and comfortable. This garment, which is shown in the accompanying small picture, is made of covskirts slit that they might spring at the hips without fullness, the edge being followed all around with braiding. Elaborate braiding is a feature of the blouse over garment, and is many cases narrow straps of fur are applied quite as braid might be, with excellent effect and an apparent increase in the warmth of the garment that is more comforting to the observer than the wearer. When the blouse comes from chin to belt, the fur edging as a rule, stops at the belt. So, too, if the blouse turns back to show an under effect, turning back extends only to the belt. It is a fad just now to braid gar ments in designs that appear to extend from the bust out upon the sleeves in unbroken effect, and an added width is thus given to the upper part of the figure. A blouse of delicate gray cloth lined with a darker shade of gray suede and finished with chincilla and apilque designs in narrow straps of the species to such a such are in variety, but almost all of them flare at the back and about to the ears a snug inside collar showing in front are several new models of the tight

ert cloth, of any heavy wool cloaking, or of tweed or boucle, or, if it is to be lined, of broadcloth or a light ladies' cloth. It crosses completely over in a generous double-breasted effect, the corner, turning back in a fur-faced rever. Inside the fur collar shows the dann't stork buy that we are all wear dainty stock bow that we are all wear ing now. The garment is made with-out darts, but is not bulged into a pro-nounced blouse, and is drawn to the figure-by a belt-that droops just the least in front. The opening below the belt is well at the side, is held snugly by big hooks, and so trim-is the effect that you almost seem to have on a skipt and blouse, except for the little fur edge that peeps along the opening. Such a garment is an entire costume, with the right sort of hat, gloves and shoes as accessories, and the gown be neath really makes very little differ ence. When winter jackets are reached, it will be found in any stylish collection that light-fitted ones are rare. A great variety in the arrangement of the blousing will be found, but few of hese garments are made without some modification of the blouse. The three from the hem to the bust. Then garment became still more double breasted and lapped away over to the right side. Such a design has the effect of making the waist seem small and adding to the breadth at the chest. The collar should be close and tailor made. These snug jackets and coats are not as warm as they might be, but the fashions endorse going without a jacket altogether, so that point doesn't count much against them. In reality the endorsement is a fake, for the the endorsement is a fake, for the jacket is there, only the general effect is that of a dress worn without an over-garment. The skirt is made with a slik walst of some sort or with a French flannel bodice, which may either blouse or fit closely. For the street is added a blouse that disappears at the walst line under a belt, and so seems one with the skirt. The blouse is not baggy, but is merely made without darts, and is either split down the front to show the under bodice, or turns away in a deep rever. The turns away in a deep rever. The sleeves are carefully made on bodice and not coat lines, and there is no coat collar, this difficulty being gotten over by cutting the blouse down at fackets in the next illustration are significant of the fact that the craze for a front contrasting with the rest of the bodice has been carried into the jacket department. Lots of blouse jackets turn back in a deep rever down the front, to show either a simulated waistcoat, a soft bloused front, or the under bodice. The latter effect inter-feres with warmth, but this very point keeps most women from wearing such jackets, which are thus made unusual enough to please the women who care more for exclusive style than for protection. A vest of white cloth was included in the graphs of this sort place. tection. A vest of white cloth was in-cluded in the garment of this sort pic-tured here, its goods being plain colored cloth, Persian lamb and soutache embroidery trimming it. Every effort is made to have the skirts below the beit ile flat, no matter how baggy the blouse may be above. This jacket's trick to that end was in having the throat and allowing the under bodice to show in yoke fashion. The effect is exactly that of a dress worn without exactly that of a dress worn without an overgarment.

Two such costumes are shown here, one of green broadcloth simply trimmed with braid and worn over at tight bodice of lighter green French fiannel, the other dark red cloth almost covered with ampliqued braid, and showing a scarlet silk blouse. From this last model it will be seen that the blouse may have skirts, yet if the under the bodice shows as waistcoat and yoke, the no-jacket suggestion will be

The greatest claims for S.S.S. (Swift's. Specific) are made by those whom it has cured, and after all' the most valuable reputation is one which is given by those who speak from experience. We could publish a page of what we claim S.S.S. will do, but the people prefer to read of what it has done, and hence we give the testimony of reputable, well-known people in different parts of the country, who gladly tell of how S.S.S. has cured them of blood diseases, after trying other treatment in vain.

No wonder S.S.S. has such staunch friends. The experience of those who take it to day will be the same as of those who twenty years ago found it the only cure. Blood diseases are obstinate, and cannot be cured by one medicine in a dozen which claims to cure them; so when S.S.S. is taken with satisfactory results, after a disappointing experience with other remedies it is not ABRIVES. Thus writes Henderson Dale, Druggist, of Carmi, Ill., to the Bradfield Regulator Company, of Atlanta, Ga., the proprietors and manufacturers of "Mother's Friend." This successful remedy is not forme of the many internal medicines advertised to do unreasonable things, but a scientifically prepared limiment especially effective in adding strength and elasticity to those parts of woman's organism which bear the severest strains of childbirth. The limiment may be used at any and all times during pregnancy up to the very hour of confinement. The earlier it is begun, and the longer used, the more perfect will be the result, but it has been used during the last month only with great benefit and success.

It not only shortens labor and lessens the pain attending it, but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child, and leaves the mother in a condition more favorable to speedy recovery.

HOW TO FIND OUT,

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate, or pain; in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine, and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinste. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sont free by mail. Mention The Wayne Health and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

The Thurston county records will b examined by T. J. Welty of Ponca. If he will examine closely he will discover that that part of Thurston county for merly the east portion of Wayne coun ty, pays the bulk of the taxes in com parison with the other portions of that county, and there are few tax-payers in that district who do not wish they were back in Wayne county.

Many Wayne county farmers have had their farm loans renewed, while others have wiped the debt out entire In the case of the renewals, in al most every instance, the farmers have cut the loan down by the payment of a considerable portion of it. These are facts that can be substantiated, and if you don't call it prosperity, it goes a long way toward it.

THANKFUL KANSAS.

The Governor of Kansas put a spe clause of thanks in his Thanksgiving Proclamation this year for the prosper ity and good times that had come to Kansas. The Governor was elected on the ticket which supported Free Trader Bryan and his un-American policy of giving the American market to foreignrs, and on a platform which denounced the American system of Protection and prophesied calamity if the great leader of Protection were elected to the presidency.

But the actual existence of prosper-ity on every hand is a fact which even man elected on a Free-Trade ticket neat Thanksgiving edition; also the is obliged to recognize. Kansas owes Wakefield Republican her present prosperity to the victory her present prosperity to the victory won by Protection. For, though the demand for American cereals in foreign markets has been a great element in the good times which have come to Kansas yet it must be remembered that even that demand could not have brought prosperity if the home demand had been cut off because the people were without work and therefore without wages with which to buy.

Protection has made factories hum all over the country and has provided an army of workers to consume the Kansas farmer's products

If Kansas likes the good times she has had this year, let her help to estab-lish Protection for American workmen and so create a home market great enough to take all her products every year, irrespective of what in demand may be.—Economist.

Why Not Receive Honestly?

George McDonald in one of his books says, "To receive honestly is the best thanks for a good thing." There be many in this land feeling the influence of restored confidence and coming pros perity who make it a business to slur and belittle every report or statement as to the advent of better times or im provement in business. Those who blindly followed Mr. Bryan seem to feel that they are not performing their duty to him and not holding fast to their populistic ideas unless they re fuse to believe the reports of activity in business and unless they declare that all signs of returning prosperity are misleading.

These people do not receive honestly. They are still at their old business of undermining confidence, of breaking down prosperity. Why not change the programme today, and in accepting what has been accomplished, in admit ting that they, as well as their neigh bors, are in better circumstances under the McKinley administration than they were under the rule of Cleveland and free trade, "best give thanks for a good

The times are better. There has been mprovement in business. The people as a mass are more hopeful; are looking forward with more confidence to the future. There is more courage in the hearts of the people, and therefore greater capacity to accomplish. A timid, discontented, discouraged people is like a defeated, demoralized army unable to take advantage of opportunity, unfit for venture or enterprise. The fact that the people have more confidence, more courage, is in itself an inspirer of new activity in all depart ments of business. Why not admit this; why not receive honestly the truth, and in this way "give thanks for a good thing?"—Inter Ocean.

I am afraid I drank my tea at the risk of scalding myself—at any rate I refused a second cop. Inday Ishmere, who guessed my impatience, soon set me free. I hurried down to the beach—the most likely place. I thought, to find the cousins. I saw a gentleman in summer attire lying on his back with a broad bat over his eyes. Seated by him, on a hillock of sand, was Claudine. I knew her a quarter of a mile away, and noticed with Joy her start and look of pleasure as she recher start and look of pleasure as she rec-ognized me. CHAPTER XI.

After pleasure, duty—a convenient and not uncommon reversal of an old saying. Claudine has gone to pay long-promised visits. Gone after the usual yows, promvisits. Gone after the usual yows, promises and adieus. Gone, but leaving me the dearest recollection of the truest, most trusting look of the sweetest eyes in the world, that ever in some degree consoled an absent lover. But duty, duty. There is a retired general or major general—anyhow, I shall call him general when I see him, so it must be right. There is this distinguished military officer living at Cheltenham, him I must see, and speedily. He is Claudine's guardian, and for twelve months, until she comes of age.

Down to Cheltenham I went the next-morning. During the journey I thought over the best way of opening operations, and concocted dignified, yet amatory, sentences suitable to the occasion. Gen. Gore was the foe's name. I walked about the fashionable watering place, and timed myself to arrive at Gen. Gore's at half past two.

I was shown into a drawing room, and from the fact that every window was shut, and from an odor of sandalwood which stole from a variety of carved knick-knacks scattered about, I knew I had guessed correctly when I said the general was Indian. In a few moments he made his appearance. He was a terrible old man. His face showed he had no liver, and my instinct told me he had no leart. A tall, weather-beaten old man. with the sternness of an old soldie and the precision of a martinet. Claudine! Claudine! this is too much.

their accompaniment from my card.

I bowed. If he had chosen to read

"Mr. Peter Nokes, St. Giles," I should not have ventured to contradict him.

"One of Hampshire Norrisses," he con-tinued.
"No," I said; "my family lives in Devonshire."

"Narris is not a Devonshire name," said the general, severely. "Now, sir, what is your pleasure with me?"
The general's enormously magnified eyes-looked at me in such a searching manner that I felt uncomfortable and embarrassed.

was dusty.

He had devised the color scheme in a moment of inspiration. The idea was suggested by the sight of a foriorn, old Italian woman who had on her head offered all the money he had for that head dress, and she looked at him affrighted and ran away. So he hastened to his studio and with the memory of sun-beaten silk in his artistic soul, he dashed off that inspired pastel. He placed it near the green plush hangings which he had bought for a song, and its answering glow. All else seemed brightened and beautified by the presrose-like tints seemed to send back an answering glow. All else seemed regress." said that artist man. "Behold a milestone! He sat in his shirt sleeves the other morning, when there came a knocking at his studio door, and there entered Abraham, who sells clothes.

"Nothing to-day, old man," said the rtist. "Dead broke."

"You surprise me," rejoined Abraham, for he deals exclusively with artists and knows their ways as well as the value of pictures. "Have you any paintings you would like to trade?"

Abraham, clothier and art critic, wept the room with his keen eyes. He unrolled a bolt of cloth and draped the fabric over his arms. "It suits you well," he said. "It is superb. You know that I have always fitted you. Thirty-two dollars. Give Benominational Papers.

Each denomination must have its own journal, set apart especially to present the charities, explain the work and forward the interests of that particular sect. The death of one denominational journal is a calamity to all the other denominations. I would almost feel that a great misfortune had happened me if The Christian Intelligencer of the Reformed church (my mother church) did not come to my house every week, for I was thought up on it, and it has become a household necessity. Such a denominational journal had better and it has become a household necessity. Such a denominational journal had better be edited by some one who rocked in the cradle of that church and, ordained at her altars, having become venerable in her service, sits spectacled and wise and, with heart full of; sacred memories, addresses the living of to-day. In the most sacred crypt of our memory stands the statue of the rolligious editors Abel Stevens and Joshua Leavitt and the royal family of the Primes, freancies and Eusebuta, white others linger on the banks of the Jordan, where they will not have long to wait for Elijah's chariot, and when they go up, if will ery out in the memorable words, y father, my father, the chariot of iel and the horsemen thereof!"

The Undenominational research Undenominational journalism is absortely necessary to demonstrate the unity of the Christian world. Wide and despera preacher of another sect addresses the people in his shirt sleeves. Some of your denominations have the majestic dominant in the service and others spontane-ity. Some of you think that from all eter-nity some were predestinated to be saved and that from all-eternity others were doomed." Now, it is the business of Young Men's Christian Associations and tract societies and Sunday school unions and pronounced undenominational iontract societies and shudary school unions and pronounced undenominational journals to show the falsity of the charge that we are fighting among ourselves by gathering all Christian denominations on one platform or launching the united sentiment of all Christendom from one style of religious printing press.

Unity, complete unity! Never was any other start of centre, a thorography united.

other army on earth so thoroughly unite other army on earth so theregally united under one flag and inspired by one senti-ment and led by one commander as is the church milliant. Christ commands all the troops of all denominations of Chris-tians, and they are going to shout togeth-er in the final victory when the whole world is redeemed.

But we have in all our denominations got tired of trying to make other people think as we do on all points. The heresy hunters in all denominations are nearly all dead, thank God, and we are learning an ueut, mans tyon, and we are learning that when men get wrong in their faith, instead of martyrizing, them by arraign-ment we do better to wait for the natural roll of years to remove them. Men die, but the truth lives on. We may not all agree as to the number of teeth in me jawbone with which Samson slew the Philistines, or agree as to what was the exact color of the foxes which he set on fire to burn up the corn shocks, but, on the vitals of religion, we all agree.

If we could call into one great convention the 645,566 Episcopalians, the 1,420, 905 Lutherans, the 1,403,446 Presbyterians, the 4,153,857 Baptists, the 5,653,289 Methodists, putting unto them the following questions, we would get unani-

Again, on this seventh anniversary of a cellgious publication I notice that there is an especial mission for a religious journal truthfully optimistic. The most opti-mistic book I know of is the Bible, and Its most impressive authors were all opti-mists. David an optimist. Paul an optimist. St. John an optimist. Our blessed Lord an optimist. I cannot look upon a desert but I am by the old book remindod that it will "blossom like as the rose I cannot in a menagerie look upon a lion and a leopard but I am reminded that ought to be optimistic. Not only should-all ministers and all religious editors have their heart right, but their liver right. The world has enough trouble of its own without our giving them an extra dose in the shape of religion. This world is going to be saved, and if you do not believe it you are an infidel. None of us wants to get on board a train which, instead of reaching the depot, is surely going down, the embankment.—All—aboard for the millennium!—For the most part-in a religious journal let the editorials be cheerful and the pictures cheerful. Publish in it more sermons on texts like "O give thanks" unto the Lord, for he is good," and fewer on texts like "Qut of the depths of hell have I cried unto thee, O Lord."

If any one has anything gloomy to say, of heir have the time thee, or Lord.

If any one has anything gloomy to say, let him say it to himself. If he must write it, let him not send it to editorial rooms, but put it in the pigeonhole of his own deak.

Prayers for Religious Papers.
Pray for the religious newspaper of America because of the fact that if they have the right spirit each one does as much good as 5 or 50 or 200 churches. What are the 500 or 5,000 people making up a Sabbath audience compared with the 10,000 or 50,000 or 200,000 that the religious journal addresses? Such journals are pulpits that preach day and night. They reach weekly those who through invalidism or through indifference never enter churches. They reach people in their quietude, when their attention is not distracted as in church by the fine millinery that appeals to the eye or the rustle or quietude, when their attention is not distracted as in church by the fine millinery that appeals to the eye or the rustle of attitue that attracts the ear. It will always be our duty and our privilege not to forsake the assembling of ourselves together, but I believe the consecrated printing press is the chief agency under God to save the world.

Fray also for the religious newspapers of America that they may resist the temptations to become acerb, harsh and damnatary of those who think differently from themselves. Fray also for religious journalism that it may be alert—not abreast of the times, but ahead of the times. The secular newspaper gives the secular newspand does not pretend to give its religious meaning. The religious press ought to put all the events of the day in companies, regiments and brigades and show what victories for God and righteousness, they will win. The Christianized printing press is to do in our time on a large scale what the battering ram did in olden time on a smaller scale. That old warmachine was a stout timber, hung by chains to a beam suported by posts, and many men would lay hold of the stout. machine was a stout timber, hung by chains to a beam suported by posts, and many men would lay hold of the stout timber and swing it backward and forward until, getting under full momentum, it would strike into awful demolition the wall besieged. God grant that all of us who have anything to do with the mighty battering ram of our century, the printing press, may be clothed of God with especial strength and one ess of purpose, and that, having pulled it back for one mighty a sault, we may altogether rush it forware crushing into everlasting ruin the la-wall of opposition and the last fortress Editorial Responsibility.

And now let all of us who are comes ed with either scalar or religious journs is memember that we will be called in final account for every word we write editorial or reportorial or contributor column, for every type we set, for every press we move and for the style of seculi

A Telling Illustration.

The round, good natured face of a popular priest was seen in the midet of a small group of laughing men in the rotunds of a Columbus, Ohlo, hetel one day hast week. His reverence was telling a new batch of stories for the collection of which he is famous. One of these concerned a brother who was eigners were said to be sadly in need of his spiritual guidance. He found them singularly unresponsive and none of his fervid eloquence appeared to move his hearers or to make the slightest impression on them. At length he saw that he would have to increase his vehemence and exaggerate his figure of speech. He was describing hell, and he reached his climax by these words: "You men have no idea of the tortures of hell. It is hotter than can be de-scribed by mortal man. You may have some time put your hand in a pail of boiling water and know how hot that 46. It is 212 degrees, as science measures it. You have all looked into which cracks the skin and sears the eyeballs. That is 3,000 degrees in intensity. But, my friends, that coke oven fire is nothing compared with hell. Three thousand degrees! Why, 3,000 degrees is only ice cream for those devils down there!" This proved a clincher. The coke workers saw that hell vas something to be avoided and that the good father could help them to do

A Missionary Medicine.

Cleanliness begins within. If a man isn't clean inside, he is far from Godliness. A constipated sinner is a stench in the nostrils of the Delty. A man whose flood sours in his stomach, and whose liver is leaden, can't help looking at the world intefully with jaundiced eye, and conjuring up evil thoughts in his fortured brain. Cleanliness of person begets cleanliness of thought. Cascarets, Candy Cathartic are the missionary medicine which purifies men's bodies and minds. Pure, fragrant, palatable, mild and positive, they clean out the intestinal canal, stimulate the liver and strengthen the bowels. A Missionary Medicine they clean out the intesting cours, samelate the liver and strengthen the bowels. Then a man enjoys again a feeling of charity and bretherly love for his fellows and recommends others to take Cascarets and be as happy as he.

She shook her head slowly, and did not look at him. The policeman passed on, and the next moment there were two quick pistol shots, a scream, and a stampede. The officer ran back, fighting his way through the swirling crowd. He found the woman, pistol in hand, bending over a man lying upon the pavement. The officer seized her wrist, and, looking at him with a strange smile, as she relaxed her hold on the ristol, she said:

While discussing the merits of Ripans Tabules recently, in a conversation with a friend, a surgeon who is employed by the Long Island Railroad, and who has a large private practice among people of social and business prominence in Brooklyn, the City of Churches, expressed himself quite forcibly, saying: "I don't wish my asme to appear as an indorser of a medicine that is advertised to the public at large, between the same of the property of the same of the property of the same of the spring as has been usual, and two of them I found had been taking Ripans early much interested in their cases, because the illness from which they had suffered was of a sort from which a doctor is in more free than other people are. It was dyspepsia, and I knew by my own experience just what that was and how difficult is to treat it successfully. I finally tried Ripans Tabules myself and, 'by singer, they are all the circular pretends them to be. They are a first-class article, I can hearilly indorse, them. The formula is an old one, but with one or two gifts changes that seem to add an effectiveness that was never before to be relied new with so much certainty."
