The annual election of officers of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will take place at the home of Mrs. H. Ley next Wednesday afternoon. All ladies of the congregation who are interested in the society are urgently requested to be present.
It so happens that the enlistment blanks were sent to W. F. Norris who in turn was authorized to turn them over to Ed. Reynolds, therefore there was no mistake between the name Reynolds and Randall. Some men must be hit with a club before they tumble.
Captain Reynolds had enlisted about forty members of his company when he received a telegram requesting that eighteen of the men be sent to Norfolk to enlist in Company L, the number of each company having been increased to 81. Four of the boys from Carroll who were first to respond, succeeded in getting in, the others being notified not to come.
Deputy Dan Ziegler of Beemer, reorganized the Tribe of Ben Hur here at Masonic Hall on Saturday evening, at which time a very good meeting was held. He has succeeded in enlarging the membership to a very satisfactory number. During the evening the ladies of the order treated their brothers to ice cream and cake. The next meeting will be held May 10th.

Whether the heavy firing off Manila by Wherry's squadron causes the continuous rains is a matter of conjecture. At any rate it continues to rain and the wheat continues to stool, indicating that about three heads of wheat will appear now where one usually appears when the weather is unfavorable.

A paper from South Riverside, California, states that the sugar beet crop in that state owing to drouth is almost an entire failure this year. We had been led to believe that there was no possibility of a failure of the sugr beet crop in that country, and the fact that such is true will be a surprise to the people here.

Mrs. Mattie Quinn Carey captured the people of Rooky Ford Friday evening at the opera house. The elocutionary recital which she gave was of a very high order. Her recitations showed versatile ability—the humorous prattle of a mischievous child, and Shakespeare's noblest creations being rendered with equal fidelity.—Rooky Ford Enterprise.

S. H. ALEXANDER, Pres.

The report that the Oregon had been taken created quite a ripple of excitement yesterday, but when B. F. told Axtel Koefoed the news he said he didn't believe it because, said he, "there are twenty Danes on board the Oregon who would never be taken alive," and the blow almost killed Feather and the kodak story.

At the meeting of the city council Monday night saloon licenses were granted to Herman Mildner, and Frank Kruger. J. H. O'Hara who has been engaged in the business here for a number of years having decided to go out of business. O. H. Burson sold the furniture and saloon fixtures to a Mr. Wells of Omaha, who with Herman Mildner will run the saloon and no doubt it will be conducted in an orderly manner. Mr. O'Hara expects to leave tomorrow for his old home in Connecticut. The best wishes of Wayne friends accompany him.

While fishing for minnows one windy day last week Oliver Burson became very thirsty, took his hat off, lay down and took a drink of water—a rash act—water is something he has not been used to drinking for many years. After quenching his thirst he reached for his hat, but it was gone! After a good deal of worry he discovered it sinking out of sight near the opposite shore of the Logan. As he looked at the relic of former days gradually disappearing from view in the turbulent waters, he shed bitter tears, (and his clothes), jumped into six inches of water, four feet of mud, bones, tin cans, and other things, and rescued the hat and live stook from a watery grave; and while he scraped the mud from himself with the bottom of an oyster can, and very much resembled a North American Indian painted for war. The hat is now enclosed in a glass case and can be seen by all who once admired it.

NEBRASKA NATIONAL GUARDS.

The Arrival at Lincoln.—Interesting Notes of Camp Life. The Wayne Boys Faring Well.

[FROM ELMER LUNDBURG]

LINCOLN, Apr. 27.—[Special to The Herald.]—We arrived here at 6:00 this evening and went into camp at the old fair grounds, but as they had to put up tents, etc., Berry and I got permission of the captain to go up town and will stay tonight with Rollie Ley and Ben Skiles, reporting in the morning at 6:00 o'clock. Lincoln is full of soldiers tonight, and the fair grounds a mass of white tents. Ours is Company F, 1st Reg. C. A. Vickers is captain, is a fine fellow and stands as one of the best drilled men in the state. Companies of militia from Madison, Columbus, Fullerton and two other towns, made a special train from Valley over the U. P. Crowds of people at every town, with bands of music and streaming flags greeted the train. Every farmer in the field along the way through his hat into the air or waved it and yelled. At Columbus the Mayor of the city met the Allen Rifles at the depot and took us all to the hotel for dinner.

Expect we will be served with uniforms and mustered in in a few days. May stay here six weeks or more, can't tell. Have been out visiting the University boys from Wayne.

At Camp Alvin Saunders.
May 2—I have been detailed today as Orderly for Colonel Bratts, of our Regiment, with another young fellow of Company G. All we have to do is to stay around Reg. Headquarters and perform the duty of messengers for the Colonel. He is a very nice man, smiling and kind all the time. I am sitting on a real chair for the first time while in camp. The Colonel has a table and several chairs in his tent, we have the ground and some straw but sleep on Government blankets. The duties here relieve me from drill today, but my arms are sore from yesterday's vigorous exercise with the gun and so thanks.

There is lots of fun going on here all the time. A dago got into a fuss with one of boys of a company near us and struck him with a cord stick poked up from the wood pile near by. Then he defied the crowd of soldiers standing around, but they ran him a ways, caught him and then initiated him into the "grass hopper lodge" by batting him against a big box a dozen times. Came very near tearing off all his clothes. The dago told them they were a set of cowards for having twenty men to one, and that he could whip any of them, one at a time. One of the boys got boxing gloves and put them on with him, and in three rounds the dago knocked the soldier out. Then there was nothing too good for the dago. They nearly wore him out shaking his hand and had him remain and made their dinner a banquet for him.

Berry was run in the guard house last night for rubber-necking out of the lines. He may have to do police duty today as punishment—sweep the camp streets or wash dishes. He is on the hospital squad from our company, and wears the bandage of the red cross. About all they have to do is to sympathize with the fellows who have the stomach ache. The queer thing about Berry being detailed for this work is that the head surgeon's call was for "men of intelligence and good character." Inexplicable indeed. The first soldier Berry saw with a canteen he asked me what that fellow carried a big clam strapped to him for. Then he asked the soldier who told him it was a canteen.

Orders are that Camp Saunders will be broken up in the morning and both regiments go to Omaha by way of the U. P. to locate at Fort Omaha. The Lincoln company are the envy of the whole camp because of what they get to eat. They are provided with all the luxuries and delicacies of the season by the ladies of Lincoln. But they also furnished the whole camp with sweets and fruits one evening. They were greatly cheered by every company when they came amongst them. We have bacon or beefsteak, potatoes, beans, coffee and bread for each meal. It is a great change for some to come down to this and nothing else, but no one grumbles, for who is but willing to change all the comforts of a dining room for a tin pan with wholesome food and a cavernous appetite. I never thought these things could taste so good till I got down here! The officers and men eat side by side and apparently no man is better than another in this respect, unless it is the Lincoln boys.

W. J. Bryan was riding a coal black, prancing steed about the grounds, viewing the boys in line. He stopped in front of the Colonel's headquarters and I gave him the salute, which he returned in true military style. It is the Orderly's duty to salute all ranks of distinction from the Lieutenant up. Affairs assumed a pretty lively condition last Friday evening. The Band played for the new company of National Guards which Judge Norris and Mr. Reynolds are organizing while the company was being drilled by Harvey Ringland and Mr. Reynolds. A Lodge of Rebecca was being organized at the Masonic hall; the Angells were entertaining a crowd at the opera house with their new play "A Yankee down in Cuba," which was well received; the young people were enjoying a social old dance at the corner hall; and the firemen were called out by an alarm turned into the central telephone station about 9:30 o'clock from Robt. Melior's residence. The fire was in the building on the corner just west of T. W. Moran's residence, and resulted in the burning of a curtain in one of the upstairs rooms. No other damage occurred. The hose cart was on the way to the fire in less than a minute after the alarm was given.

MORE MONEY FOR WAR

BOTH HOUSES PASS EMERGENCY WAR BILL

The Amount Appropriated by the Measure Is $35,720,945 - Naval Officers Don't Believe Dewey Threw Petroleum Bombs.

Money for the War

WASHINGTON: Several war measures were passed by the senate Monday, and notwithstanding their importance, not one of them elicited the slightest debate. Probably the most important measure passed by the senate was the emergency war deficiency bill, carrying $35,720,945. Senator Hawley secured the passage of a bill providing for the enlistment of a volunteer brigade of engineers and of 10,000 men in the south who are immune to yellow fever, these enlistments to be in addition to those provided for in the president's call for 125,000 volunteers. Some amendments had been made to the appropriation bill in the senate and a conference was agreed to between the two houses. The conference soon came to an agreement and the bill was then passed by the house carrying the amount above stated.

DISCREDIT MADRID REPORTS

Not Believed that Dewey Threw Petroleum Bombs Into Manila.

WASHINGTON: Naval officials are inclined to discredit the statement in dispatches from Madrid that Admiral Dewey employed petroleum bombs in the reduction of the city of Manila. In fact, no definite information could be obtained that the American squadron was supplied with such instruments of destruction. The belief is prevalent in official circles that if a fire occurred the Spaniards, confronted by the inevitable fall of the city, themselves applied the torch, thereby carrying into effect the threat which they have made concerning both Manila and Havana that the cities should never fall into the hands of the Americans except at the cost of smouldering ruins.

CHASKA CUTS HIS THROAT.

Cora Belle Fellows' Former Husband Tired of Life.

YOUNG HARBOR, Neb., Samuel Campbell, or Chaska, the half-breed Indian who made fame ten years ago by marrying Cora Belle Fellows, cut his throat Sunday morning while in the cell of the county jail. A few weeks ago he was arrested for stealing harness of his Indian friends to the amount of $75, and he was held to answer to the May term of the district court. Various attempts have been made, but none up to the present time has been satisfactory to the county judge. Becoming discouraged, he attempted to take his life, and declares he will succeed another time.

IMPORTANT SEIZURE.

Steamer Argonauta Captured by the Gunboat Nashville.

KEY WEST: One of the most important captures made since the outbreak of hostilities was that of the Spanish Argonauta by the gunboat Nashville, news of which reached here when the warship arrived. The Argonauta had on board Col. Corfio of the Third Spanish cavalry, his first lieutenant, a surgeon, a major and ten privates and non-commissioned officers. All were held as prisoners of war. The steamer also carried a large cargo of arms and ammunition. She was bound from Batelano, Spain, for Cienfuegos.

Cattle to Feed the Miners.

TACOMA, Wash.: At least 2,000 steers will be driven over the Dalton trail to Dawson, starting from Pyramid Harbor in June. C. V. Thebo, representing Butte City men, has purchased 1,200 head and Jack Dalton is gathering 700 more for the same purpose. Thebo has shipped over half his stock to pastures between Tacoma and Puyallup, where they will be fattened. The balance will arrive within a week. They have been selected with great care and will average 1,500 pounds each when shipped from here. Each head of 100 cattle will be in charge of six Montana cowboys and each cow-boy will be provided with a saddle horse and a pack horse to carry his food for the entire journey. This arrangement will require seventy-eight rickled cowboys and 156 horses.

Murder by Striking Miners.

STEVENSVILLE, Ohio: Five of a party of Slav miners were shot at from ambush as they were going to work. One was fatally wounded. The miners have been on strike. Three hundred tried to go to work and because they insisted on going into the mine the shots were fired by a party of strikers.

A Town Nearly Wiped Out.

WICHITA, Kan.: A Canada, Texas, special says: The town of Mobeetie, Texas, was almost totally destroyed by a cyclone Sunday morning. John Stocker, Mrs. B. Wright, Mrs. Rufus Kitcher and baby Patterson were killed, and many injured. The population of the town is 200.

Elevator and Warehouse Destroyed

AUGUSTA, Ga.: The Georgia railroad elevator and warehouse, capacity of 150,000 bushels of grain, and the warehouses of Busey & Carwell, burned to the ground Monday. Total loss estimated at $200,000. All the stock was comprised of grain and provisions.

Belongs Explosives from England

NEW YORK: The Atlantic transport line steamer Michigan, which arrived Sunday night from London, brought 566 cases of cordite addressed to the commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard.

Nominated for Congress

DELLEWILLE, Kansas: The Republican congressional convention of the Fifth Kansas district, unanimously nominated W. A. Calderhead of Marysville.

Prof. Carl Betre Dead

KANSAS CITY: Prof. Carl Betre, originator of the system of calligraphies taught in the public schools, died here, the result of an operation.

Shenandoah Reached Liverpool

LIVERPOOL: The American ship Shenandoah, reported captured by the Spanish some days ago, arrived Friday afternoon.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

Opening of the War Has No Appreciable Effect.

NEW YORK: Bradstreet's says: The lack of excitement, nervousness or interruption to the ordinary orderly conduct of public affairs, and particularly business operations, with which this country has passed from peace to war, seems likely to become hysterical. When contrasted with the records, where extent of business conditions are periods in the country's history, when war was the final result of the strained relations, the temper with which the country has recognized the outbreak of hostilities with a foreign power is not only proof that the dullness and depression of the past six weeks have largely discounted the effect usually witnessed, but furnishes a valuable index to the general point of view taken by the business community as to the outcome of the pending war. Little or no effect upon general trade distribution of an unfavorable character is perceptible in the reports of the past week.

Perhaps the most notable, because most uniform feature, has been the unanimity with which the fluctuations of leading staples have been marked up. These advances, too, have not been confined to food products, but include many widely differing articles, alike of home and foreign growth.

MILITIA "TURNED DOWN."

The Organization Is Ignored by Gov. Leedy of Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kansas: It is clearly the purpose of the state administration to "turn down" the state militia, and the three regiments from Kansas must be made up largely of raw recruits. Gov. Leedy received a message from the war department authorizing him to organize the state troops to suit himself. Immediately upon telegraphing to the captain of every Kansas militia organization, directing that all arms, accoutrements and equipment belonging to the state or federal government, be forwarded at once to the adjutant general in Topeka. This step in effect disarms the militia and has raised a storm throughout Kansas. Following this action Gov. Leedy named five recruiting officers, assigning them by congressional districts, and these officers will enroll the Kansas volunteers. Gov. Leedy orders that after the companies are recruited they shall elect their own company officers. All regimental officers the governor will appoint, and the suggestion is that the national guard will be all but ignored.

RUSSIA IS AGGRIEVED.

Accuses America of Ingratitude for Past Favors.

LONDON: The Moscow correspondent of the Standard says: "Public opinion in Russia is far as it is expressed, is against the United States. Apart from the courage that ventures upon a conflict with an overwhelmingly superior antagonist, Russia has received a severe blow in the suspected friendly agreement between the United States and England. The Russians do not forget placing their fleet at the disposal of the north in the war of secession in 1861, and they are bitterly aggrieved that the United States is not equally mindful of this service now."

Indians Refused the Cattle.

BROWN'S VALLEY, Minn.: A. S. Crossfield of this city and Joseph R. Brown, Chief Two Stars and D. K. Simon, of Sisseton Indian reservation, started for Washington Friday morning to make a demand on Uncle Sam for a portion of the money due the Indians under treaty. The government has offered the Indians a payment of $100,000 in cattle, but the reds have refused this, and will insist upon a cash payment.

Abandon a Barge in a Storm.

WILMINGTON, N. C.: The tug John Harland, towing the barge Carrie L. Tyler, with a cargo of phosphate rock, encountered a gale off Cape Lookout on the 27th. The barge became unmanageable and with five men on board was abandoned. The tug, which was light with water and dragged ashore at Lookout light. The crew of the tug was rescued, but it is feared the men on the barge were lost.

Blanco's Conscription Decree.

WASHINGTON: Secretary Quesada, of the Cuban legation here, said that Gen. Blanco's order conscripting Cubans between the ages of 15 and 51 in the Spanish army showed the dire extremity to which the Spanish commander was driven. Señor Quesada said that up to this time the Spanish authorities had not utilized the services of a single Cuban company or regiment.

Searching for Russian Embezzlers.

CHICAGO: The police of this city are searching for Gabriel Ribine and Theophile Przilenski, who are said to be fugitives from St. Petersburg, Russia. Ribine is accused of embezzling $900,000 from a Russian estate, while he was employed in the Russian court of wards. Przilenski is charged with stealing $75,000 from the Russian government.

Tanner's Hopes Shattered.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.: Gov. Tanner's hopes of leading the Illinois troops to the front were dashed to pieces by word from Washington that he would not be placed in command by McKinley. As a result Col. J. R. B. Vanetue, inspector general, has resigned. Tanner and his general officers held conferences, and there may be other resignations.

New York Exceeds Its Debt Limit

NEW YORK: Comptroller Coler has issued a statement of the city's finances, showing that the city has exceeded its debt limit by over $125,000,000. Mr. Coler includes, however, $27,765,813 for lands acquired and not paid for and $15,112,115 for contract liabilities, which may not have to be met for some time.

Slain by Chinese Brigands.

VANCOUVER, B. C.: Oriental advisers say a party of twenty brigands attacked a hamlet near Taipeh, China, March 31, killed Kank Kiu Shang, his wife, mother, children and servants, numbering fifteen, who resisted the attempt to rob their house, and assaulted their daughters. The robbers then fired the house.

Bank Wrecker Gets Four Years

COLUMBUS, Kan.: Alexander Warner, a Republican leader in the state legislature, who was recently convicted of having wrecked the bank at Baxter Springs, of which he was president, was sentenced to four years in the state penitentiary.

Railroad Deal.

DENVER: A deal involving about $3,000,000, it is said, between the Union-Pacifie and the Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf railroads, has been consummated here by the latter company securing control of the Union Pacific shops in this city.

A TORNADO'S HAVOC.

First Twister of the Season in This Latitude.

SIoux CITY: Specials on Sunday record the disaster wrought by the first tornado of the season in this latitude. It was not nearly so severe as some which have visited the northwest, only three fatalities being reported.

The storm seems to have formed between 4 and 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Dixon County, Nebraska, and crossed the Missouri into Union County, South Dakota, going eastwardly, crossing the Sioux at Akron into Plymouth County, crossing the Sioux City and Northern at Maurice, in Sioux County, the Omaha road at Ashton, in Osceola County, and thence southeastwardly through O'Brien County and into Buena Vista County.

Another storm is reported at about the same time in the vicinity of Oto and Smithland, Woodbury County, but no news of important damage has been received.

Near Elk Point considerable damage was done. Many buildings were razed to the ground, and the house of Lewis Johnson was sitting on the north side of the storm. It was found twelve rods from the building, lying dead in a ditch by the side of the road. A piece of timber had entered his head behind the right ear, making a hole in which one could put his four fingers. The storm then crossed Bruce Creek, sweeping everything before it. It then crossed the Big Sioux River, moving in the direction of Akron, Iowa.

The wind caused great destruction in this locality, it is said. A great many of the tall trees were of the size of lemons. The trees and windmills and other things in the path of the storm suffered greatly.

At Maurice, Iowa, the depot was blown down. Houses, barns and elevators suffered the same fate. Nearly everybody in town had taken refuge in storm caves, or there undoubtedly would have been numerous casualties.

At Whiting the new house of James McClain was turned bottom side up and completely demolished. Mrs. McClain saw the storm coming, and ran out of its course, thus saving her life.

The storm passed one mile west of Sheldon, demolishing farm buildings and injuring six persons.

Several buildings were blown to pieces in the vicinity of Alta.

Later dispatches from points in the path of the storm show the damage was greater than first reports indicated. O'Brien County, Iowa, seems to have suffered more than any other section. At the Leokan's place, eight miles south of Sheldon, two children were killed. No other fatalities are reported in Iowa.

BANK PRESIDENT A DEFAULTER

Examiner Laid a Trap Which Disclosed Peculation.

WASHINGTON: The completion of the survey has received a telegram from Bank Examiner Ewer, stating that he had taken charge of the Hampshire County National Bank of Northampton, Mass. The president, who the examiner says, is a defaulter to the amount of $75,000 or $100,000, is reported as missing. The president of the bank is said to be also president of the Hampshire Savings Bank, and the discovery of the default was made through a ruse. The government examiner made an arrangement through the state banks at the same time. They are located in the same building, and by this scheme it was made impossible for those in charge to transfer funds from one to the other to cover up shortages. The last statement of the officers of the National Bank reported: Capital, $250,000; deposits, $320,000; surplus, $50,000.

GRAIN FOR SOUTH AFRICA.

Ship with 75,000 Bushels Aboard Clears from Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, Ore.: The German bark Amazona has cleared for East London with the seventh cargo of grain that has left Portland for South Africa this season. She was dispatched by Silson & Kerr and carried 75,000 bushels of choice winter wheat, valued at $93,500. The British bark Semantha also completed her cargo, and cleared for Queenstown or Falmouth by orders, with 133,079 bushels of wheat valued at $119,775. She was loaded by Eppinger & Co. The grain trade with South Africa is much larger this season than in any previous season. In addition to the seven cargoes that have left Portland for South African ports, four vessels have cleared for there from Tacoma.

Telephone Service on the Field.

WASHINGTON: For the first time in the experience of any army in actual service the commanding officers of the United States troops will have complete outfits for maintaining telephonic communication with the various brigades, regiments, etc., that go to make up divisions or corps of any army. For this the officials are indebted to Gen. A. W. Greely, the chief signal officer. By means of the communication thus afforded commanders will be able to immediately send instructions to subordinates in the field and to receive reports of movements. Gen. Greely also has equipped a company for service his field telegraphic outfit.

Chinese May Go Back.

SEATTLE, Wash.: Unexpected complications affect the disposition of forty-eight Chinese which are now on the Japanese liner Yamaguchi Maru, lying in this port. The party of Celestials was brought over for the Trans-Mississippi Exposition at Omaha. When notified of their arrival the manager of the exposition replied, stating that he did not want any more Chinese. They were not allowed to land and it is believed the steamship company will be required to carry the party back to China.

Extra Guards for Powder Houses

ST. LOUIS: Owing to the suspicion that the recent destruction of the powder mills at Santa Cruz, Cal., and Dover, N. J., by explosions, may have been the work of Spanish spies, the managers of the eight big powder companies having headquarters in this city have placed a double guard at all points where powder is stored or manufactured. There are five powder storehouses near here, carrying thousands of tons of explosives.

Set Back for Drunkenness.

WASHINGTON: Lieutenant Commander Charles A. Adams, attached to the receiving ship Independence, at Mare Island, was convicted by courtmartial of intoxication and sentenced to dismissal. The president has mitigated the sentence by dropping the officer forty-nine numbers, putting him at the foot of the list of lieutenant commanders. The commutation was made because of the court's recognition of Adams' long service in favor of the officer's splendid record.

STATE OF NEBRASKA

NEWS OF THE WEEK IN A CONDENSED FORM.

Nebraska National Guard Ordered to Rendezvous at "Camp Alvin Saunders," Lincoln, for Muster Into United States Service.

National Guard Movement. The long season of anxiety in the Nebraska state guard was ended at 6 o'clock Monday evening, when the following message was received from Washington: "To the Governor of Nebraska, Lincoln, Neb.: The number of troops from your state under the call of the president, dated April 23, 1898, will be two regiments of infantry. It is the wish of the president that the regiments of the National Guard, or state militia, shall be used as far as their number will permit, for the reason that they are armed, equipped and drilled. Please wire as early as possible what equipments, ammunition, arms, blankets, tents, etc., you have and what additional you will require. Also please state when troops will be ready for muster into United States service."

Later an order was received from Washington, designating Lincoln as the place for rendezvous.

The orders to the guard were all prepared and sent out at once. The camp will be named "Camp Alvin Saunders," in honor of Nebraska's war governor.

By nightfall Wednesday nineteen of the twenty-four companies of Nebraska militia reported at Camp Saunders. The day was devoted to drills and the pitching of tents. The controversy over the places of mobilization is little changed. Gov. Holcomb insists that the troops remain at Lincoln until mustered in, and then if necessary be transported at Omaha. Private advices from Washington indicate that the governor's wishes will be respected.

The program of the daily camp life will be as follows: 6:45, first call for reveille; 6:50, march; 6:55, reveille and assembly; 7:00, call immediately after reveille for policing the camp; 6:20, mess call; 6:50, sick call; 7:00, first call for drill; 7:05, assembly; 8:05, recall from drill; 8:45, first sergeant call; 9:50, drill call; 10:00, assembly; 11:30, recall from drill; 12:00, noon mess call and assembly; 1:00, drill call; 1:30, assembly; 3:00, recall; 4:30, drill call for poling; 4:50, first call for mess; 6:00, assembly; 6:20, mess call; 6:30, recall; 6:45, first call for quarters; 11:00, taps.

ATTORNEYS ASK A CHANGE.

Want a Present Supreme Court Rule Amended Somewhat.

A number of attorneys who have practiced before the supreme court are anxious that one important change be made in the rules of the court. During the sittings as now conducted the judges listen to the submission of cases in the forenoon and retire to the private room in the afternoons to work on the opinions that are to be handed down. This only gives three hours each day in which the attorneys can get their cases heard, and the last on the call are compelled to remain day after day waiting for their cases to be heard. The complaint is that of hotel bills and the loss of business at home. The wish expressed by the attorneys who come from a distance to attend court is that submission of cases be allowed, both forenoon and afternoon, until all are heard, so that those who have cases in charge may get back home sooner.

Verdict for Defendants.

The case of J. W. Darrah against G. W. Cornish, Edgar Ferneau and Otto Juel at Auburn, Ky., damages in the sum of $5,000, was heard before Judge Baker of Omaha, presiding, instead of Judge Stull. Over a year ago the city brought suit in ejectment to oust Otto Juel from the possession of Seventh Street in Auburn, and obtained a judgment in its favor, which Juel promptly appealed to the supreme court, and while this appeal was pending, Mr. Darrah, who is the mayor, ordered the street to be opened, and the marshal and street commissioner went there for that purpose, when Mr. Juel, acting upon the advice of his attorney, Mr. Cornell, had them all arrested and put into jail, and it was for this arrest that Mr. Darrah claimed damages. The case was tried before a jury and a verdict was returned for the defendants.

School of Domestic Science.

The Nebraska university regents have decided to open a school of domestic science next year with Miss Rosa Bouton, for several years one of the instructors in the department of chemistry, as instructor in charge. The design is to make this school similar in its work to the school of agriculture for young men. An ordinary English education will be sufficient for admission to this department. It will be thoroughly practical in all its work and will aim to give scientific training in the practical field it centers upon.

Farm Work Well Advanced.

Farm work is pretty well advanced in the vicinity of Fremont. Small grain is all in and some of the corn planting has commenced. The corn is in only fair condition at this time. The American Cattle Co. has contracted for a much smaller acreage of beefs than last season, owing to its stock on hand. The price paid is the same as last season—$7.50 a ton at the factory. A much larger acreage could have been secured.

Skimming Station Opened.

The Beatrice Creamery Company of Beatrice, opened its skimming station at Republican City, recently. The creamery officials appear very well pleased with the beginning, and the prospects are favorable for a very bright future in the dairy business.

Attempted Intimidation.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to burn the Omaha elevator at Silver Creek the other night.

Burglars at Decatur.

The hardware store of James Ashley was broken into at Decatur and a quantity of knives, saws, revolvers and other stuff taken. The thief or thieves have not been discovered. The entry into the building was made through a window.

Burglars at Exeter.

When the store of W. H. Taylor at Exeter was opened a few mornings since it was found that one or more persons had been in during the night and had gotten away with somewhere between $75 and $100 worth of jewelry and other goods.

Dismissed by the Court.

County Attorney Martin dismissed the case against Frank Fulthoft, who was arrested on the charge of breaking into H. Blumenthal's store at Fremont and stealing a large quantity of goods, and he was released. The county attorney gave no reason for dismissing the case and it is very doubtful if Blumenthal files another complaint against him. The case has attracted a great deal of attention on account of bloodhounds being employed to trace the thief and the good standing of young Fulthoft in the community. The general opinion is that he was innocent of the burglary and had no knowledge of it. The alleged stolen property which was found at his house he claims he purchased at the store over a year ago.

Free Beet Sugar Seed.

Persons wishing to experiment this year with beet growing can obtain free sample seed, sufficient for planting one-twentieth of an acre, by addressing Prof. H. H. Nicholson, State University, Lincoln, Neb. Early application should be made, as the amount of seed available is not large and requests will be honored in the order of their reception. Analysis of beets raised will be made free of charge by the department of chemistry. Brief directions for planting and cultivating and blank forms for reporting results will be sent with each package of seed.

Skeleton Key Found.

While on his regular guard at Ashland, William C. Ayres, night policeman, heard a man give a shrill whistle and dart through the alley leading past Ed Swanson's saloon. He followed and found that a skeleton key had been inserted in the back door, with the evident intention of robbery. The key, when tried, unlocked the door of nearly every business house on Silver Street. The would-be robber escaped.

Trenton's School Exhibit.

Mrs. Stella Smith, with the assistance of Prof. French, has been laboring faithfully for several days getting the school exhibit of Trenton in shape to forward to the exposition managers. While the neighboring towns have not assisted as was desired the exhibit will be a superior one and will give to the state and country at large a good idea of the excellent work being accomplished in that part of the state.

York Women Organize.

The members of the Woman's Relief Corps of York have organized for the purpose of furnishing aid to the volunteer army of the United States in the way of supplying the wounded and hospitals with bandages and other necessary supplies of that nature. The action was taken in accordance with the request of General Manderson, who said Nebraska be the first state to organize such aid societies.

Principal Re-Elected.

At the last meeting of the board of education at Blair W. K. Fowler, who has been superintendent of the city schools for the last four years, was re-elected to that position for three years longer with an increase of salary. Blair has eighteen school rooms, with nineteen teachers and a high standard in the city schools has been attained under Superintendent Fowler.

Requestion for William Smith.

Governor Holcomb has issued a requisition for the return of William Smith from Sioux City. Smith is wanted in Gage County, where he is charged with burglary and larceny, having broken into a slaughter house and stolen thirteen beef hides. J. W. Ashenfelter, deputy sheriff of Gage County, was made the agent of the state to go after him.

Marketing Corn at Mead.

The elevators at Mead are paying 26 cents a bushel for corn and thousands of bushels have been marketed in the last few days. The Farmers' Grain and Stock Company shelled out two cribb's first of the week and Condit & Co. will shell all they have cribbed the last of this week.

Bridge Collapses.

While Alonzo Sulton was driving his herd of steers across the Middle Loop bridge at Loop City the two north seventy-eight-foot spans collapsed and fell into the river. A call for a meeting of the county supervisors will be made at once to take action to have the proper repairs made.

Wants a Saloon.

John Pisar of Wymore is endeavoring to secure enough petitioners to an application for a saloon license to open a saloon in Blue Springs. A high license council was elected this spring, and if successful Mr. Pisar will have the first saloon operated in Blue Springs for several years.

Good Crop Prospect.

There is every prospect for a bountiful crop of wheat, as the stand of wheat is excellent and recent rains have given it a healthy color. Farmers are almost through plowing for corn planting. All farm work is much farther advanced than it was at this time in 1897.

Farmer Shoots Himself.

John Jeneczek, a Bohemian farmer, whose home is eight miles northwest of Wilber, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head and breast. Poor health is given as the cause.

Creamery Nearing Completion.

The new co-operative creamery at Wymore is nearing completion and the machinery will be put in some time this week. It is expected to have the creamery in operation by May 15.

Old Administration Steps Out.

Mayor Lanham and the old city administration at Harvard have closed their official year and turned the "keys of the city" over to Mayor G. A. Herceop and his associates in office.

Boy Breaks an Arm.

Frank, the 10-year-old son of H. C. Clark of Boemer, while playing leap-frog on the public school grounds, broke his arm just above the wrist.

Nebraska Short Notes.

A dog visited the hog pens of James Mann, east of Johnson, and as a result two shots are dead, one is missing and thirteen head, ranging in size from one to 300 pounds, are badly bitten and torn.

Officials in the range, cattle country are taking steps to remove obsolete brands from the records.

A thousand head of southern cattle have been unloaded at Burwell to graze on Garfield County ranges.

The poison weed has already begun to get in its deadly work this spring in the vicinity of Kimball. Several reports of cattle losses from this source have been made. It is proposed to get a sample of this weed to send to the State University to be classified and learn if possible what will counteract the poison.

Washington Gossip

Responding to a resolution of inquiry in regard to the enforcement of the liquor law in Alaska, Secretary Gage sent a statement to the Senate, in which he says that, notwithstanding the efforts of the department, it is still a fact that the law is openly violated. It has, he says, been reported to the department that forty saloons do business in Juneau, a town of less than 4,000 inhabitants, while in Sitka, which contains less than 1,000 white inhabitants, there are twelve open saloons. "The universal public sentiment in the territory," says the Secretary, "is bitterly opposed to the enforcement of the liquor law, and the efforts of the officers are met with intimidation, threats of violence and attempts at bribery." The Secretary closes with the statement that it is impossible to enforce the present law against the existing public sentiment.

Officials of the money order department are somewhat at a loss to understand why a formal prohibition should have been issued forbidding the further exchange of money orders between this country and Spain, except upon the assumption that the order follows some prescribed form previously used. The fact is, there has never been any interchange of money orders between Spain and the United States. The Spanish Government has shared with Mexico and the South American States the distinction of never having sought to establish a money order system within its own borders, and therefore has never been in a position to negotiate a money order convention with the United States.

Patriots in the employ of the Treasury Department who desire to enlist in the army or navy for service against the Spaniards are to receive encouragement from Secretary Gage, who has had a circular prepared to be used in replying to the numerous inquiries coming in from employes of the department throughout the country. It promises that those who desire to leave the service temporarily for the war may be reinstated under existing civil service rules at any time within twelve months from the date of separation from the service.

The model of the battleship Maine which has been on exhibition in the corridors of the Navy Department and has been surrounded by a crowd of tourists almost continuously since the explosion at Havana, has been removed to Omaha, where it will be exhibited this summer at the exposition. One of the messengers estimates that the model has been inspected by an average of 1,000 persons a day since the 15th of February.

Over 600 doctors have applied for appointment as temporary surgeons in the army for the war, although for months there have been several vacancies in the regular service which are permanent and carry with them a pension. The difficulty is in passing the examination imposed by the medical board. It is so severe that few young men can pass it, although there is always an abundance of candidates.

VENGEANCE FOR THE MAINE.

Madrid Admits Crushing Defeat and the Loss of 200 Men.

Our Asiatic Squadron Almost Annihilates the Spanish Fleet in a Terrific Battle Off Cavite, Near the Capital of the Philippine Islands—One of the Great Naval Engagements of the Age. The Reina Maria, Christina and Castilla Are Burned—While the Don Juan de Austria Is Blown Up—Others Are Sunk to Save Them from Being Captured.

The first battle of the war for Cuban freedom has been fought and victory crowns American arms. The Maine has been remembered and its murdered seamen have been avenged in far away waters. The Asiatic squadron of the United States, Commodore Dewey commanding, engaged and completely defeated the Asiatic squadron of Spain in the harbor of Manila, in the Philippine Islands.

Reports of the terrific battle at the time this was written are meager. From the general drift of the dispatches it would appear that Commodore Dewey, with his fleet of five cruisers—the Olympia (flagship), Baltimore, Boston, Concord, and Raleigh—and the gunboat Petrel apposed of the shore under cover of the darkness on Saturday night and at daybreak Sunday morning steamed into Manila Bay, where he found himself confronted by the Spanish fleet, which had not sailed away, as had been stated, and the shore batteries. Numerically the odds were against him. To our six cruisers and one gunboat were opposed eight Spanish vessels, including the Reina Maria, Christina and Castilla. The American guns were stancher and stronger, and the American seamen and gunners there are no better in the world. The action began at once and there were no engagements during the day, the result of which was the destruction of the Reina Maria, the flagship of the Spanish squadron, the Don Juan de Austria, the Castilla. Madrid dispatches say that others were sunk to avoid capture and that the American fleet was severely damaged. There are no intimations, however, that any American vessel was destroyed. If there had been the news would have been sent out by the Spaniards speedily and exultantly.

Under the protection of the guns of the Manila fortifications the Spanish warships opened fire on the American fleet. For several hours the harbor resounded with the roar of the guns, the crashing of steel and timber, the shrieks and groans of the wounded. Thick clouds of smoke at times almost obscured the opposing fleets from each other. A well-directed shot from the iron cruiser Don Juan de Austria, a vessel of 1,100 tons, a terrific explosion followed and the ship was blown up. All the time during the first engagement the American ships were under way, their maneuvering being intended to render the marksmanship of the Spanish gunners less effective.

There was a heavy loss of life among the Spanish. Captain Cadarza, commanding the Reina Maria, was killed. Commodore Montoia, commanding the fleet, shifted his flag from the Reina Christina to the Isla de Cuba, a much smaller steel protected cruiser, just before the Christina sank. The blowing up of the Don Juan de Austria was attended by a great loss of life among the crew, her commander also being killed.

From the tenor of the dispatches it seems certain that the Spanish Asiatic fleet has been wiped out and that all that was saved was Spanish honor, a flimsy sort of salvage, which will not prove specially consoling to the Spanish people.

This crushing defeat is but the beginning of the end. If the Spanish vessels which left Cavite are crossing the ocean, which is doubtful, they will never go back. Spain will lose another fleet. Meanwhile the North Atlantic squadron will tighten its grip upon Cuba, redoubling the fortifications of Havana as it has those of Matanzas and Cabañas, while it opens up communications with the insurgents under Gomez and Garcia and supplies them with the arms and munitions they so sadly needed. The battle in Manila Bay is the first chapter in the story of Cuban freedom. The story will not be a long one.

WASHINGTON WILD WITH JOY.

The national capital was deluged with joy Sunday night over the news of the glorious naval victory in the Philippines. The bulletin boards in front of the newspaper offices were surrounded all the evening by enthusiastic cheering crowds, and at midnight the broad avenues were still thronged with excited groups discussing the meager details of the battle, while hordes of scrambling newsmen filled the city with the noise of their cries of extras.

Not since the dark days of the great civil conflict of a third of a century ago have the people of the capital city been so profoundly moved by war news. Said President McKinley when he was shown the Madrid dispatch regarding the engagement between Dewey's squadron and the Spanish fleet off the Philippines, "That looks favorable. If the Spaniards admit that much, Dewey must have won a substantial victory."

When the news came indicating a great victory for the American squadron the enthusiasm of the people was not less and the streets of the city rang with cheers throughout the night. The first news of the battle received in Washington came in a brief cablegram from Madrid about 8 o'clock Sunday evening. As the night wore on the cable continued to sing the news of victory for the squadron of Admiral Dewey and the interest grew into tremendous excitement. Ordinarily, Washington is the quietest of cities on Sunday, but as bulletin after bulletin was posted in front of the newspaper offices, each successive one conveying information more gratifying than its predecessor, the crowds in the streets became uproarious.

COST OF TWO MONTHS' WAR.

The increased expenditures will be approximately $90,000,000. The Secretary of War estimates that the deficit in appropriations required for the use of the War Department for the remaining two months of the present fiscal year will aggregate $34,013,937. The several items in the deficiency appropriation asked for are as follows, cents omitted:

|--|--------------|
| Signal service of the army | $21,000 |
| Pay, etc., of the army (volunteers) | 5,786,000 |
| Pay, etc., of the army (regulars) | 2,750,047 |
| Subsistence of the army | 1,000,000 |

Blow Up Wreck of the Maine.

The State Department learned Sunday through its secret agents that the wreck of the battleship Maine, lying in Havana harbor, had been destroyed by the Spanish authorities. It is supposed by officials of the administration that this action had been taken to prevent raising of the wreck after the capture of Havana. This information has intensified the desire to "avenge the Maine."

Terror Taken a Prize.

The United States mounting Terror captured the big Spanish steamer Guido, bound from Coruna, Spain, for Havana. The prize had on board a large cargo of provisions and money intended for the Spanish troops in Cuba. The capture took place ten miles off Cardenas, after a desperate chase, during which the Terror and the gunboat Machias fired, blowing the Spaniard's pilot house into the water. The crew of thirty-eight was taken on Key West. The Guido is a vessel of 2,005 tons net, and is one of the richest prizes captured.

A shrapnell shell exploded above the New York, and one shell exploded just beyond the stern. All others were wasted. The batteries were reduced in just twenty minutes. The final shot from the enemy came from Rubal Cava, and drew from the Puritan a reply from one of her twelve-inch guns, which struck the battery and blew up a section of it. The United States ships did not retire until the Spanish refused to renew the engagement. They left the batteries in ruins. During the engagement not a soul could be seen on the shore, and the puffs of smoke came up from the batteries as if by magic.

During a dance in a Spanish ballroom a heavy plaster cast fell from a bracket, and would certainly have injured one of the host's daughters had not her partner warded it off with his arm. The accident frightened the girl a little, for she was extremely nervous, but the gallant who was dancing with her insisted on continuing the waltz, and assured her that he was not in the least hurt. Accordingly the couple kept up to the music for fifteen minutes or more, and their consummate dancing drew admiration from every one in the room. The girl was the first to plead fatigue, so her partner led her gracefully to a seat, and went off, ostensibly to get refreshments, but really to find a doctor, for his arm was broken in two places, and his shoulder was dislocated. With remarkable endurance he had refrained from mentioning the injury which the plaster cast had done him, and had suffered acute agony for fifteen minutes rather than alarm the sensitive daughter of his host—Tit-Bits.

Record of a Russian Hospital. Moscow has a hospital large enough to hold 7,000 persons. It was founded in 1704, and at present takes in children at the rate of forty a day, or about 15,300 a year. There are twenty-six physicians and about 900 nurses. During the first century of its existence the hospital received and brought up no fewer than 468,500 children. New York, Puritan and Cincinnati Are the Vessels Engaged in the First Serious Engagement of the War—Spanish Land Defenses Seriously Damaged and Loss of Life of the Defenders Is Reported—No Casualties on Fleet—Morro Castle Fires.

The flagship New York, monitor Puritan, and cruiser Cincinnati, under Admiral Sampson, on Wednesday afternoon bombarded the Spanish batteries that were in position and in course of construction at the entrance to Matanzas harbor. They were pretty thoroughly destroyed.

The flagship was first fired upon by the batteries on Point Rubal Cava and Point Maya, while the Puritan, New York and Cincinnati were reconnoitering for the purpose of locating and ultimately destroying the works the Spaniards were building.

During a dance in a Spanish ballroom a heavy plaster cast fell from a bracket, and would certainly have injured one of the host's daughters had not her partner warded it off with his arm. The accident frightened the girl a little, for she was extremely nervous, but the gallant who was dancing with her insisted on continuing the waltz, and assured her that he was not in the least hurt. Accordingly the couple kept up to the music for fifteen minutes or more, and their consummate dancing drew admiration from every one in the room. The girl was the first to plead fatigue, so her partner led her gracefully to a seat, and went off, ostensibly to get refreshments, but really to find a doctor, for his arm was broken in two places, and his shoulder was dislocated. With remarkable endurance he had refrained from mentioning the injury which the plaster cast had done him, and had suffered acute agony for fifteen minutes rather than alarm the sensitive daughter of his host—Tit-Bits.

Randolph Reporter: Mrs. Jas. Britton and little boy of Wayne, have been visiting at the home of Fred Fox. They returned home Thursday. The Randolph boys who enlisted in the Wayne company, returned home this morning and are loud in their praise of the hospitality shown them by Captain Reynolds. Mr. Reynolds will be in Randolph the first of next week to drill the boys.

Mr. John Peterson of Patoutville, La. was very agreeably surprised not long ago. For 18 months he had been troubled with dysentery and had tried three of the best doctors in New Orleans, besides half a dozen or more patent medicines, but received very little relief. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy having been recommended to him, he gave it a trial and to his great surprise three doses of that remedy effected a permanent cure. Wm. McNamara, a well known merchant of the same place, is well acquainted with Mr. Peterson and attests to the truth of this statement. This remedy is for sale by L. P. Orth, druggist.

What's the matter with your Uncle Samuel. He's all right.

Everybody will be privileged to the of Manila wrapping paper now.

Governor Wright would sound better on Bill, but then, what's the use?

is now a question whether or not Spanish can keep out of danger.

Spain is about to explode. The Dry seems to be doomed and there's time in old Madrid.

was to have been expected, about body now commends President Dewey's course in the present war.

will worry Spain a great deal to that of her present trouble with "honey." There will be a pretty good dose of humiliation to swallow at the time.

A leather renovator is in operation Milligan building just north of Herald office. It's a great opportunity for the fusionists, the old rats which they have fallen need renovating.

The Madison Reporter springs our fellow townsman W. M. Wright, for the nomination for governor. William is a great politician, but we don't see why A. P. failed to trot out James Britton.

The Blade believes it voices the sentiment of the majority of the voters in this section of the country when it says Judge Norris is the most available nominee for congress from the Third district on the republican ticket this fall.—Bancroft Blade.

Nebraska will become a summer resort this year. People will be here from the far east to enjoy the choicest climate granted to mankind and will be permitted to partake of the choicest products grown on the best soil the sun ever shown on.

All the United States needs to develop men of the ability of Generals Lee, Grant, and Admirals Farragut and Porter, is an opportunity, but to all appearances Spain cannot even knock the chip off of Uncle Sam's shoulder, let alone putting up any kind of a fight.

A question of doubt is now raised as to whether there is any war or not, but if Spain will only send her canary birds over to protect the "Gem of the Antilles," Uncle Samuel will spring his Sampson upon them and treat them to a touch of high life. The American seamen are spoiling for a mark to shoot at.

There will be no staying hand until the proclamation of the great American people has been carried out and the oppressed Cubans given their freedom and the right to engage in the peaceful pursuits of wealth and happiness in free Cuba, the new republic of the Western hemisphere.

McKinley is the first war president who ever had experience in war. The country has had ten soldiers in the presidential chair, but never before did it have one there to carry on a war. Undoubtedly his experience in and observations of the horrors of war have served to make him conservative and hesitate to sacrifice the lives of our citizens. The policy at Havana appears to have been suggested by a man who knows the value of human life and who shrinks from needlessly hazarding it. A surrender will be sought through a blockade instead of a bombardment. Undoubtedly as far as the president can decree it the war will be as bloodless as possible to accomplish the desired end.—Present Tribune.

The Press and the Exposition.

While in Omaha last Saturday, the editor of the Advocate, as secretary of the Northeast Nebraska Press association, called at the Department of Publicity of the Trans-Mississippi Exposition to ascertain what the management proposed to do for the newspaper men of our district in the way of admission to the grounds. Edward Rosewater was not at the department but his assistant said he was only authorized to say that the publishers who were liberal in spreading news concerning the great fair and took an interest in it because of the benefits that would accrue to Nebraska would be treated very liberally by the Exposition management. It follows that those who do little may expect little. In answer to our inquiry as to what there was to the "deal" that provoked the tirade against the Bee, the clerk said it was proposed to let the Bee pay a part of its $5,000 subscription to the Exposition in special advertising apart from the columns of free work it was giving gratis every day. The writer suggested that the World-Herald was also doing this free advertising. His answer was that the Board was justified in letting this special work to the Bee because it had subscribed $5,000 and the World-Herald only $1,000 to the Exposition. Upon visiting the Exposition grounds, the writer was struck by the magnanimity of the buildings. They were as substantial as they were grand. For the most part the grounds and buildings are modeled after the World's Fair plans. All of the main buildings face an oblong lagoon, or lake, which is about 10 rods wide by 100 rods long. The Exposition will not have a ferris wheel, but the "midway" will be there and in enormous proportions. Work on the grounds is being pushed as rapidly as possible in order to get everything in readiness for the grand opening, June 1st. There is no time to be wasted. No exhibitors are yet on the ground, but committees were laying off floor space for exhibitors in several of the main buildings. Those who come to Nebraska to see the Trans-Mississippi Exposition will not go away disappointed. Those eastern lords who come with the expectation of seeing only a big "wild-west" show will lose their eye-sight when they behold the exhibits and see to what a high development the West has attained in agriculture, manufacturing, dairying and the arts. Nebraska will be the summer resort this season.—Laurel Advocate.

Wallace's Farmer says that "the greatest obstacle in the way of a good corn crop is weeds. The problem, therefore, of how to grow a good crop of corn is synonymous with that of how to kill weeds. The way to kill them most effectively is to prepare conditions that will favor their germination and then kill them by the wholesale as soon as growth has begun, by the use of the harrow. The harrow is the great weed destroyer. It is very easy to kill weeds just after they have fairly started to grow; it is very difficult after they have become well established. If the ground is plowed either in the fall or spring and harrowed thoroughly every week, nearly all the weed seeds that are brought near enough the surface to grow this season, can be sprouted and destroyed by the time the corn is fit for working the first time. To allow a piece of land that has been fall plowed to lie until immediately before planting corn, then harrow and plant, is only encouraging the weeds to grow in the corn. A very little more labor will start their growth in time to have a large proportion of them destroyed, and after that cultivation of corn is simply the preparation of a mulch of dry earth needed for the conservation of moisture. The beauty of it is, that while you are killing the weeds as above suggested, you are preparing the seed bed in the best possible way; you are also preparing the ground for the most efficient conservation of moisture. Thus, all things work together for a good corn crop. We were amused the other day in seeing a letter in a paper of a different state, written by an Iowa farmer, in which he said he did not know any thing about the conservation of moisture or about capillary action, or bacterial goings on, but he had always raised a good big crop of corn by plowing his ground in the fall or early in the spring, keeping it thoroughly harrowed and cultivated until planting, in order to kill the weeds and get a good place to plant his corn, and then cultivating it as shallow as possible. This man may not know the scientific terms for the operations that he is performing but his methods are in strictest accordance with scientific teachings. We advise our readers to do likewise.

Very much of the prosperity of the farmer for the year to come will depend on the condition in which he gets his corn crop in the ground, and no man should be unwilling to learn either from the teachings of science or the experience of his neighbor. It is impossible, under ordinary conditions, to grow a first-class corn crop without putting a good deal of labor on the field in the way of preparation. If we get our corn in a seed bed suitably prepared, the weeds being killed in advance, we are very sure to get a good crop if anybody in the neighborhood does. If we fail to do so we are very sure the crop will be a light one."

DISKING FOR CORN.

A few years ago planting corn on ground which had been prepared in any other way than by plowing with the stirring plow, and then smoothed and reduced to good tilth with the roller and harrow, would have been regarded as an agricultural heresy, but now it is not uncommon to see farmers who are growing corn after corn in a six or even a four crop rotation, prepare the ground with the disk instead of the plow. If the land has been in clover and only one corn crop taken from it since the clover was turned under, it will be in fine condition to prepare with the disk and many claim that better corn can be grown with this kind of preparation than when it is done in the usual way with the plow. Some farmers do not think this kind of preparation effects much saving of labor while others do. Many do not keep a large enough force of teams to work a disk as it should be worked, while others do not follow a rotation that keeps the ground clean enough for this kind of preparation. They hitch two horses to a plow and work day after day until at length they are ready to plant. In disking one can disk twice or double disk as may be preferred, there being no difference except that with double disking there are no ridges or "dead furrows." The stalks must be broken before the frost is all out of the ground or harrowed on a dry day and raked and burned, otherwise the corn will not work so well, nor will the cultivator when the time comes to use it. The field is prepared a day or two before planting time and is then harrowed two or three times before planting. Sometimes the season is such that the planter marks should be cultivated out after planting, although this is not often necessary. If not, then it is harrowed well a time or two after planting, and is ready for the cultivator, which will do much better work when the ground is prepared in this way. In some respects preparation with the disk is preferable to that with the stirring plow, but foul ground should not be prepared in this way, nor ground that has not recently been in clover or grass. Neither is it suited to poor, thin soil nor clay. It is a good method, however, with a good, rich, lively loam, and the nearer it is to a clover crop the better. Where potatoes are grown largely it is a good way to prepare land on which corn is to follow potatoes.—Iowa Homestead.

Upon motion it was resolved that the commissioners clerk be authorized to pay $12.50 from the fees of his office for extra help 5 1/2 days on assessors books.

Upon motion board adjourned to June 1, 1898, at 9 o'clock.

ONE OF TWO WAYS.

The bladder was created for one purpose, namely, a receptacle for the urine, and as such it is not liable to any form of disease except by one of two ways. The first way is from imperfect action of the kidneys; the second is from careless local treatment of other diseases.

CHIEF CAUSE.

Unhealthy urine from unhealthy kidneys is the chief cause of bladder troubles. So the womb, like the bladder was created for one purpose, and if not doctored too much is not liable to weakness or disease, except in rare cases. It is situated back of and very close to the bladder, therefore any pain, disease or inconvenience manifested in the kidneys, back, bladder or urinary passage is often, by mistake, attributed to female weakness or womb trouble of some sort. The error is easily made and may be as easily avoided. To find out correctly, set your urine aside for 24 hours; a sediment or settling indicate kidney or bladder trouble. sure suit, and the sheriff's writ comes down, and the day of sale arrives, and away goes the homestead, and the creditor buys it in at half price." Honest? When he loaned the money, he knew that he would get the homestead at half price. Honest? But he goes to the insurance office to get a policy on his life and tells the doctor that he is well when he knows that for ten years he has had but one lung. Honest? Though he sells property by the map, forgetting to tell the purchaser that the ground is all under water, but it is generous in him to do that, for he throws the water into the bargain.

"Ah, my friends, there is but one standard of the everlasting right and of the everlasting wrong, and that is the Bible, and when that principle shall get its pry under our commercial houses I believe that one-half of them will go over! The ruin will begin at one end of the street, and it will be crash! crash! crash! all the way down to the docks. What is the matter? Has there been a fall in gold?"

"Oh, no." "Has there been a new tariff?" "No." "Has there been a failure in crops?" "No." "Has there been a failure in the market?" "No." "This is the secret: The Lord God has set up his throne of judgment in the exchange. He has summoned the righteous and the wicked to come before him. What was 1857? A day of judgment! What was 1857? A day of judgment! What was the extreme depression of two years ago? A day of judgment! Do you think that God is going to wait until he has burned the world up before he rights these wrongs? I tell you, nay! Every day is a day of judgment.

The fraudulent man piles up his gains, bond above bond, United States security above United States security, emolument above emolument, until his property has become a great pyramid, and as he stands looking at it he thinks it can never be destroyed, but the Lord God comes and with his little finger pushes it all over.

You build a house, and you put into it a rotten beam. A mechanic standing by says: "It will never do to put that beam in. It will ruin your whole building." But he puts it in. The house is completed. Soon it begins to rock. Call in the mechanic and ask: "What is the matter with this door? What is the matter with this wall? Everything seems to be giving out." Says the mechanic, "You put a rotten beam into that structure, and the whole thing has got to come down." Here is an estate that seems to be all right now. It has been building a great religion as though it were a refined imbecility, as though it were a spiritual chloroform, that the people were to take until the sharp cutting of life were over. The Bible, so far from this, represents the religion of Christ as robust and braving—ransacking and upsetting 10,000 things that now seem to be settled on firm foundations. I hear some man in the house say, "I thought religion was peace." That is the final result. A man's arm is out of place. Two men come, and with great effort put it back to the socket. It goes back with great relief. Then it gets well. Our world is horribly disordered and out of joint. It must come under an omnipotent surgery, beneath which there will be pain and anguish before there can come perfect health and quiet. I proclaim, therefore, in the name of my Lord Jesus Christ—revolution!

The religion of the Bible will make a revolution in the family. Those things that are wrong in the family circle will be overthrown by it, while justice and harmony will take the place. The husband will be the head of the household only when he is fit to be. I know a man who spends all the money he makes in drink as well as all the money that his wife makes, and sometimes sells the children's clothes for rum. Do you tell me that he is to be the head of that household? If the wife have more nobility, more courage, more consistency, more of all that is right, she shall have the supremacy. You say that the Bible says that the wife is to be subject to the husband. I know it, but that is a husband, not a masculine nature. There is no human or divine law that makes a woman subordinate to a man unworthy of her. When Christianity comes into a domestic circle, it will give the dominancy to that one who is the most worthy of it.

As religion comes in at the front door, mirth and laughter will not go out of the back door. It will not huddle the children's feet. John will laugh just as much, and George will jump higher than he ever did before. It will steal from the little ones neither ball nor hoop nor kite. It will establish a family altar, angels will hover over it. Ladders of light will reach down to it. The glory of heaven will stream upon it. The books of remembrance will record it, and titles of everlasting blessedness will pour from it. Not such a family altar as you may have seen where the prayer is long and a long chapter is read, with tedious explanation, and the exorcise keeps on until the children's knees are sore, and their backs ache, and their patience is lost, and for the seventh time they have coughed all the rings in the chair, but I mean a family altar such as may have been seen in your father's house. You may have wandered far off in the paths of sin and darkness, but you have never forgotten that to family altar where father and mother knelt imploring God for your soul. That is a memory that a man never gets over. There will be a hearty, joyful family altar in every domestic circle. You will not have to go far to find Hannah reading her Samuel for the temple or a grandmother Lois instructing her young Timothy in the knowledge of Christ, or a Mary and Martha and Lazarus gathered in fraternal and sisterly affection, or a table at which Jesus sits, as at that of the manna, or a home in which Jesus dwells, as in the house of Simon the tanner. The religion of Jesus Christ, coming into the domestic circle, will overthrow all jealousies, all jinglings, and peace and order and holiness will take possession of the house.

Again, Christianity will produce a revolution in commercial circles. Find me fifty merchants, and you find that they have fifty standards of what is right and wrong. You say to some one about a merchant, "Is he honest?" "Oh, yes, the man says, 'he is honest, but he grabs the fees of his clerks! He is honest, but he exaggerates the value of his goods. He is honest, but he loans money on bond and mortgage with the understanding that the mortgage can be quiet for ten years, and then when it gets to the mortgagee to record it and begins a foreclosure chapel." The mission chapel has become the kitchen, where the church does its sloppy work. There are hundreds and thousands of churches in this country—gorgeously built and supported—that even on bright and sunny days are not half full of worshippers, and yet they are building mission chapels, because by some expedient of implied regulation the great masses of the people are kept out of the main audience room.

Now, I say that any place of worship which is appropriate for one class is appropriate for all classes. Let the rich and the poor meet together, the Lord the Maker of them all. Mind you that I say that mission chapels are a necessity, the way churches are now conducted, but may God speed the time when they shall cease to be a necessity. God will rise up and break down the gates of the church that have kept back the masses, and woe be to those who stand in the way! They will be trampled under foot by the vast populations making a stampede for heaven.

I saw in some paper an account of a church in Boston in which, it is said, there were a great many plain people. The next week the trustees of that church sent out a paper and said it was not so at all; "they were elegant people, and highly conditioned—people that went there." Then I laughed outright, and when I laugh I laugh very loudly. "Those people," I said, "are afraid of the sickly sentimentality of the church." Now, my ambition is not to preach to you so much. It seems to me that you must be faring sumptuously every day, and the marks of comfort are all about you. You do not need the gospel half as much as do some who never come here. Rather than bridging myself on a church in front of which there shall half fifty splendid equipages on the Sabbath day I would have a church up to whose gates there should come a long procession of the suffering, and the stricken, and the dying, begging for admittance. You do not need the gospel so much as they. You have good things in this life. Whatever may be your future destiny, you have had a pleasant time here. But those dying populations of which I speak, by reason of their want and suffering, in whatever may be their future destiny, in perdition now, and it is there a comfort in Christ's gospel for God's sake give it to them!

Revolution! The pride of the church must come down. The exclusiveness of the church must come down! The financial bonstings of the church must come down! If monetary success were the chief idea in the church, then I say that the present mode of conducting finances is the best. If it is to show many dollars you can gain, then the present mode is the best. But if it is the saving of souls from sin and death and bringing the mighty populations of our cities to the knowledge of God, then I cry revolution! It is coming fast. I feel it in the air. I feel the rumbling of an earthquake that shall shake down in one terrific crash the arrogance of our modern Christianity.

The day of which I speak will be a day of great revivals. There will be such a time as there was in the parish of Shotts, where 500 souls were born to God in one day—such times as were seen in one day—such times as were seen in one day, when Edwards gave the alarm, when Tennent preached, and Whitefield thundered, and Edward Payson prayed; such times as some of you praise was heard in theater and warehouse and blackshop and factory and engine house, and the auctioneer's cry of "a half, and a half, and a half," was drowned out by the adjoining prayer meeting, in which the people cried out, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?"

In those days of which I am speaking the services of the church of God will be more spirited. The ministers of Christ, instead of being anxious about whether they are going to lose their place in their notes, will get on fire with the theme and pour the living truth of God upon an aroused auditory, crying out to the righteous, "It shall be well with you," and to the wicked, "Woe! It shall be ill with you." In those days the singing will be very different from what it is now. The music will weep and wail and chant and triumph. People then will not be afraid to open their mouths when they sing. The man with a cracked voice will sing, and "Windmill" and "Grainmill" and "Old Hundred" and "Oration" will find their place for his grandchild in the hymnbook, or the little child will be spectacles for the grandfather. Hosanna will meet hosanna, and together go climbing to the throne, and the angels will hear, and God will listen, and the gates of heaven will be open, and it will be as when two seas meet—the wave of earthly song mingling with the surging anthems of the free.

Oh, my God, let me live to see that day! Let there be no power in disease or accident or wave of the sea to disappoint my expectations. Let all other sight fail my eyes, rather than that I should miss that vision. Let all other sounds fail my ears, rather than that I should fail to hear that sound. I want to stand on the mountain top to catch the first ray of the dawn and with flying feet bring the news. And, oh, when we hear the clattering hoofs of the King's chariot may we be ready with the ring of the bell that will hand on the rope of the bell that will sound the victory, and with wreaths all twisted for the way, and when Jesus dismounts let it be amid the huzzas! huzzas! of a world redeemed!

We are and when will that revolution begin? Here and now. In your heart and mine. Sin must go down, our pride must go down, our worldliness must go down. Let Christ may come up. Revolution! "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." Why not now let the revolution begin? Not next Sabbath, but now. Not to-morrow, but next you go out into commercial circles, but now.

Archias, the magistrate of Thebes, was sitting with many mighty men, drinking wine. A messenger came in, bringing a note of warning of an enemy to be met. Archias took the letter; but, instead of opening it, put it into his pocket and said to the messenger who brought it, "Business to-morrow." The next day he died. Before he opened the letter the government was captured. When he read the letter, it was too late. Today I put into the hand of every man and woman who hears or reads these words a message of life. It says, "To-day, if ye will hear the voice of heaven, do not put it off. Do not put away the message and say, 'This business to-morrow.' This night thy soul may be required of thee!"

When one is overtired or worried and cannot sleep, being gently rubbed all over with a towel wrung out of hot salted water generally has the desired effect.

PAYING THE PENALTY

CHAPTER I.

Before the days of colossal fortunes in America the Great Western Bank of Chicago was noted as one of the solid financial institutions of the country. Why should it not have been when its cash capital approximated five hundred thousand dollars?

Stephen Z. Kellogg of the North Carolina Kellogg family, who had migrated West in the early thirties, was the trusted president of this bank from the day its doors were thrown open in the fall of 1842 until they were closed to business some fifteen years later.

Stephen was the eldest of three brothers, the other two being Amos D., a cotton factor of Wilmington, North Carolina, and Andrew, who died in 1852, leaving a widow, his second wife, and a stepson, Earl.

Andrew, in fact, had left little else than Jacob Kellogg, the father of the three named, had left them joint heirs to his estate.

Under the management of Stephen and Amos, their inheritance had quadrupled, while Andrew was doomed to see his snug fortune dwindle into insignificant proportions; so insignificant, in fact, that the appointment of an administrator was deemed unnecessary—there would have been nothing save a small amount of personal property for him to have administered upon.

The one article that Andrew did leave behind that was prized above all others by his widow was a letter directed to Stephen, the Chicago banker, requesting him to look after the future of his wife and son.

"Stephen is a banker and very wealthy," he had said to his wife not a week before his death, "and Earl will stand a better chance of advancement in the West than here in North Carolina. Amos would employ him and see that you did not come to want, but I would prefer that after I am laid in the grave, you go to Stephen and leave the scene of my misfortunes behind."

So it was that when the doorbell of the banker's residence on Dearborn avenue was sounded on the evening of the ninth of August, 1853, Julia, the homeliest of the presence of the banker, who on this occasion was the only occupant of the spacious parlor of his residence, his sister-in-law and her son, neither of whom he had ever before beheld.

Mr. Kellogg had his guests be seated while he perused the letter the widow had handed him. He was aware that his younger brother was dead, Amos having written of his demise immediately after its occurrence; but he had received no intimation that the widow of this brother, together with her son, expected to visit Chicago with a view of becoming members of his household, and that Andrew had left a letter requesting him to look to their future. The widow had taken care that he should not. Amos was not made aware of the existence of this letter until the date of the departure of Mrs. Kellogg and her son for Chicago.

The madam had decided that the most certain way to attain her object would be to present her letter in person. "If I write and send it," she had thought, "it may not receive a satisfactory reply. Perhaps a vice would be all. Perhaps a check for a hundred or two. Maybe the words, 'I will see what can be done.' Our course is to go and go quickly. Once there, something will be done. I will take no chances."

Tears filled the eyes of the banker as he perused the last words written by his younger brother, and if he felt annoyance over any part of the contents of the letter, appearances did not indicate it.

For a moment he sat as though lost in thought, then, rising from his chair, he cordially extended a hand to each of his visitors.

"It will be a pleasure to me, madam," he said, "to fulfill the last request of poor Andrew. For the present, at least, your home shall be beneath my roof. I will see that Earl is established in business, and if he has good habits, capable and economical, ere many years will be my offer you a home of his own."

"Oh, sir," began the widow, rising to her feet, while with her left hand she raised a convenient handkerchief to her eyes, "we can never—"

"There, there, my dear madam! Dry your eyes and give yourself no further annoyance. Earl will be fully able to repay me for all I may do for you. I am engaged in a business that requires trustworthy men, and may be able to find a place for your son in my bank. How would you like to learn banking, my boy? No training as yet in that direction, I suppose; but I judge you are somewhat older than I thought."

"I have passed my twenty-second year," replied Earl. "I was graduated from the North Carolina University two years ago. Since that time I have been engaged in trying to straighten out the tangled affairs of my father; but, alas, it was too late. We were able to save nothing from his estate."

"Amos wrote me to that effect," said the banker. "It is many years since I last saw my brother. He was a poor manager, I fear, for we inherited equal amounts from our father's estate."

"I shall endeavor to do my duty in any position in which you may see proper to place me," observed the young man. "And as to my competency, you can soon judge."

"Yes, yes. Well, I will have you located in a week's time. Why, here we are talking of matters that may well be deferred for a day or two, and you people fatigued from your long journey."

At this point Mr. Kellogg sounded the bell that stood on the center table, and Julia appeared.

"You see," continued the banker, "my wife is an invalid, so that you will not see her to-night. My son and daughters are out for the evening. Julia, however, will attend to your comfort. Why, you have not dined."

"Oh, yes," exclaimed the widow. "We patronized the dining car before entering the city."

"Well, Julia, this lady is my sister-in-law, Mrs. Kellogg; this young man is my nephew. You will conduct Mrs. Kellogg to the room next my daughters' on the second floor; Earl to the room opposite. Tell Aunt Eliza to prepare tea for them. See that their rooms are aired and made comfortable. I must go up and inform my wife of your arrival. Ah, by the way, my baggage?"

"At the depot as yet," said the young man.

"Hand me the checks and I will send for it at once."

The noble Julia conducted her charges to the floor above, calling "Tom, the coachman, as she passed through the hall, to whom the banker gave the checks with instructions.

"A remarkably well preserved woman is my sister-in-law," quoth Mr. Kellogg, as he ascended the stairs. "She must be all of forty. Humpf! She hardly appears twenty-five. Yes, she is quite a beauty."

"Let's see what was her name before Andrew married her? I have it—Newberry. Now the widow Kellogg. Married twice. Oh, well, she may marry again. Poor Andrew—perhaps his second wife helped dissipate his fortune."

"The young man looks bright and smart. He must be all right or Amos would have written me about him. Strange he didn't mention his intention of coming here."

Here the banker entered the room of his wife.

"Ah, Thalia, dear, reading? You must be feeling better to-night. We shall soon have you down stairs now. Our family has suddenly increased by two, and I will venture a five-dollar bill you will never guess who the newcomers are."

"I will not try, Stephen—it is too much trouble. But stay! You say that our family has increased by two, your brother Andrew left a widow and son."

"A step-son."

"They are the newcomers."

"The five dollars is yours, Thalia."

"Oh, I have more money now than I can spend, my dear husband; but neither this widow nor her son have claims against me. I had supposed he was Andrew's son."

"She was my brother's wife, dear. He died insolvent. I can't understand it. He brought a letter from Andrew requesting me to take them under my protection. We could not do less. The poor woman is in great trouble. I am quite sure you will like her. The boy is of Robert's age—dark complexion—hair and eyes the same. No resemblance to the Kelloggs there."

"I may be able to use the young man in the bank. If not, I can easily locate him somewhere. He is a college graduate, and I feel confident has no bad habits."

He may have a good influence on Bob— you know Bob is a little wild at times, else he would be the cashier of the bank to-day, instead of Lawrence Terry."

"Oh, Robert is so young, Stephen! I have no fears for Robert. And as for Lawrence Terry—if he is to be our future son-in-law, he should have the preference above all others. You know Lawrence is three years older than Robert."

"True; but I am as yet uncertain as to his becoming our son-in-law. I have not seen him for some time."

"Oh, but you will! Laura would do it if you should refuse to. But we have diverged from the subject. I am quite content with your receiving your brother's widow and her son. Now remember that, and don't refuse your sanction to the marriage of Lawrence and Laura."

"You don't care to see our guests to-night?"

"No, no, Stephen; I have talked too much now."

"Well, you will see them to-morrow. Of course they stay with us may be but temporary. After a time Earl will be able to provide a home for his mother. I will see about Lawrence and Laura."

"I knew you would, dear. Well, good-night."

"Good-night, my dear wife. And may you look bright and fresh in the morning." And imprinting a kiss on the lips of the one he had led to the altar thirty years before, the banker left the room and descended the stairs.

CHAPTER II.

It was about eight o'clock when the widow and her son arrived at the banker's residence.

A half-hour later when Julia entered the madam's room with a tea tray on which was an urn of tea and a dainty repast, she found Earl assisting his mother in the unpacking of one of the three trunks that had constituted her baggage.

"Oh, that was entirely unnecessary, Julia," said the madam. "I informed my brother-in-law that we had died, and that we were quite well, and that we were to be invited to the banquet. I find this northern air quite a stimulant to one's appetite. Place your burden on that table beneath the chandelier."

"Is you from de Souf, Missus?"

"Yes, Julia, we are from North Carolina; so you see we are accustomed to the attendance of colored people."

"Dar'n't no colored people down Souf, Missus—da's niggers—poor' misable nigger slaves—dat's all da's. Da's colored people up yere down, fer true?"

"Are there many colored people in Chicago, Julia?"

"Lor, no, Missus! How could dar be when da's all down Souf? But Mrs. Stephen say one of dese days da all gwine fer; den I see da come up yere."

"Well, you need not wait for the tray, Julia. My son is assisting me to unpack, and we shall be quite hungry for a time. These rolls look excellent."

"Da's de best out. My mammy made dem, an' Mrs. Stephen say she's de best 'coken goin'." You see, Mrs. Stephen bid 'mammy an' me in Baltimore when I was 'bout seven year old. I spec I nigh 'bout twenty now."

"He bought you South?"

"He did dat, Missus; but we's free as de air now—Mrs. Stephen say so, an' da know. He pays mammy an' me he good money."

"How much, Julia?"

"Bress you soul, Missus, I ain't know dat; but he pays us lots; I spec 'bout sixteen dollars."

The madam smiled as she raised a roll of red ribbon from the tray of her trunk and handed it to Julia.

"You may be able to use that," she said; "and you may go now. Tell your mother we are much pleased with her tea, good-night."

"Lordy! Dat red ribbon is des de thing I's been wantin', an' mammy woudn't let me buy none—she say it's straiten. Thank you, Missus, thank you! Won't I cut de shine off on dat Larkins gal dis?"

"Well, Julia, this lady is my sister-in-law, Mrs. Kellogg; this young man is my nephew. You will conduct Mrs. Kellogg to the room next my daughters' on the second floor; Earl to the room opposite. Tell Aunt Eliza to prepare tea for them. See that their rooms are aired and made comfortable. I must go up and inform my wife of your arrival. Ah, by the way, my baggage?"

The widow and her son for a moment could not restrain their mirth.

"Africa's children are the same the world over," Mrs. Kellogg remarked presently. "Well, let us discuss the contents of the tray, and at the same time profit a confabulation over the present aspect of our affairs."

"Agreed, mother," said Earl, rising from his knees, in which position he had been at the side of the trunk.

They were soon seated at the table with the tray between them, and the widow proceeded to pour the tea, while her son helped her to the wing of a chicken.

"We are at last looking after there is a desirable outlook," the madam said after a little. "There is finally a prospect of some of my fond hopes being realized. As you are aware, my life's ambition has been to be the possessor of great wealth, and to see you a wealthy man. It was with that end in view that I, six years ago, married Andrew Kellogg, believing him to be a man of fortune. I made a woeful mistake. He was worth but a paltry fifty thousand. Stimulated by me he strove to increase his means by speculation, with what result you know. He lost all."

"All, mother?"

"Well, nearly so. Certainly I saved something from the wreck, for Andrew had placed ten thousand in my credit the day I married him. For a time I speculated with it with varying success. Finally I invested it in such a manner that when I withdrew it from my hands, it was beyond my reach, whether or not we shall in the future realize on the investment, time alone can tell—you know how it is invested."

"Yes, I know, mother. But you never can—you—"

"Wait! I am not so certain as to that. But the time is not yet. Now this banker is wealthy. He may be a millionaire. The position for you is that of cashier of his bank."

"I am well aware of that, my dear mother, and I may in time attain it."

"Nay! You must. Of course you may enter the bank in a subordinate position, and there you must perform every duty with an exactness not to be surpassed. You must please your uncle. No matter how particular he may be, you must not leave a stone unturned to court his favor."

"My uncle?"

"Yes, henceforth your name is Earl Kellogg. You shall drop the name of Newberry. I shall request Mr. Kellogg to introduce you as his nephew. You will receive more consideration from those you come in contact with if they believe you his nephew."

"Mother, there is one very great obstacle that may stand in my way. For the moment I had forgotten it. Stephen Kellogg has a son, and that son may be cashier of the bank."

"I had thought of that. 'Home was not built in a day.' There are ways, and then there are other ways! You must, and shall, become cashier of that bank. If Robert Kellogg occupies that place at this time, we must bring about the change."

"I am favorable; but how?"

"We will let that rest for the present. He may not even hold a position in the bank. There are other matters. You, as a good-looking young man, Earl, with your athletic figure, your dark complexion, your black hair, mustache and eyes. And remember, you will soon be twenty-three."

"Why, mother, what on earth are you driving at now?"

"You must marry—one of Banker Kellogg's daughters."

"That would not be a bad scheme. But, mother, we can hardly plan until we have been here a week or so."

"True; but we must lose no time. There is another thing. Mr. Kellogg's wife, it seems, is an invalid. I must be very attentive to her. She may die—I had not thought to marry again after having made two failures, but—ah, well, we shall see."

"Mother, you are a great schemer."

A Small Matter.

An 11-year-old lad, while studying his history lesson last week, learned that Saturday would be President McKinley's birthday, and thought it would be a nice thing to send the chief magistrate a birthday card. The one he secured and mailed contained the following good advice: "In whatever station you are, God has called you to fill the place, and you should do your duty."

Saturday's mail brought the boy a White House letter, addressed to Mr. . . . It was from Secretary Foster, who said he had been directed by the President to acknowledge the receipt of the birthday token and to convey the President's thanks for the remembrance. The youth was delighted with the attention, but was disappointed that the President should think he was a man and was anxious to rectify the mistake.

The President was to leave for Philadelphia at 10 o'clock Monday morning, but notwithstanding the pressure of official and private matters, the youth was admitted to the President's room when he presented himself about 9 o'clock that day.

As long as he lives he will not forget that audience. The President thanked him for his thoughtfulness, and presented him with the rose which he wore in his buttonhole. "It was a happy boy who returned home, and told of his success.—Washington Star.

It actually makes me blush to think that there is need to talk to Christians about the right or the wrong of this thing. It began as a fad, a makeshift of those who could find no other way of obtaining company. Now it is a curse—ordinary gambling."

WAISTS FOR SPRING.

BLOUSE EFFECT STILL HERE, BUT IN NEW FORMS.

The Most Recent Fashionable Bodices - New and Inexpensive Materials for Summer Wear - Capes Are More Attractive than Coats.

Fashionable Vernal Attire. New York correspondence:

CHARACTERISTICS of the blouse linger in fashionable bodices, although such blousing has been stylish for so long a time. But at this late day it is highly desirable that the blouse arrangement take either a new or a recently adopted form, for the original cuts of it, are quite out, and their immediate predecessors are already hopelessly common. Happily the entirely safe sorts are not a few, and among the newest of them an especially attractive one is in vogue. Its blousing is very slight, no more than results from gathering in at the round belt. The blouse portion of the bodice is cut low under the arms, and rises back and front, narrowing by gracefully graded points towards the top, which comes just where the top of the bib to a nice apron would come. The edges are finished with tastefully arranged braid and the rest of the bodice is of silk in color contrasting with blouse, skirt and sleeves. Any blouse tends to give length and slenderness to the figure, and this design most happily suggests both. A few perpendicular lines the darkening is from the belt up. A double frill at the sleeve is made of the dark and the light, and the stock scarf shades prettily towards the ends. Such a bodice, whether worn with skirt to match or not, is dainty and cool for summer, and suitable right now for house wear. There is a variety to choose from, but the one at the left in this large picture was extremely tasteful. It was scarlet and green chiffon over scarlet taffeta, with scarlet taffeta belt and epaulettes. The current favor-

PLANNED TO COVER A BLOUSE BODICE for yellows, particularly orange shades, is expressed in these waists, and the stylish but unbecoming blues are also employed, but should be discarded for something less trying unless you are sure that your complexion will stand it. Another wrinkle turned by the shift of styles in summer dressing is in the economical woman's favor. For years summer materials have been dainty and inexpensive, but there was never

A WOMAN'S BURDEN.

From the Evening News, Detroit, Mich. The women of today are not as strong as their grandmothers. They are bearing a burden in sleep that grows heavier day by day; that is sapping their vitality and clouding their happiness. Mrs. Alexander B. Clark, of 417 Michigan avenue, Detroit, is a typical woman of today, suffering as thousands of her sisters have suffered, she almost despaired of life and yet she was cured.

"For five years I suffered with ovarian trouble," is Mrs. Clark's own expression of the story. "I was not free one single day from headache and intense twitching pains in my neck and shoulders. For months at a time I would be confined to my bed. At times black spots would appear before my eyes and I would become dizzy. My nerves were in such a state that a step on the floor unsettled me."

"Eminent doctors, skillful nurses, the best food and medicine all failed. Then I consulted to an operation. That, too, failed and they said another was necessary. After the second I was much better. It was then I heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I heard that they had cured cases like mine and I tried them. 'They cured me!' They brought sunshine to my life and filled my cup with happiness. The headache is gone, the twitching is gone, the nervousness is gone, the trembling has ceased, and I have gained twenty-six pounds. Health and strength is mine and I am thankful to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People for the blessing."

These pills are a boon to woman-kind, acting directly on the blood and nerves, they restore the requisite vitality to all parts of the body, creating functional regularity and perfect harmony throughout the nervous system. The color of the cheeks is changed to the delicate blush of health; the eyes brighten; the muscular gray elastic; ambition is created and good health returns.

PRINCE OF WALES.

Who Began for a Living and Does It Smoothly.

The Prince of Wales is back at his old haunts around 23d street. His royal appellation does not indicate his station in life, for he is a professional beggar, but his nationality, for he is extremely English. The title was bestowed upon him by his fellows in pauperish craft, of which he is an eminent exponent. His method is to approach a passerby, preferably one in evening dress, and say:

"Excuse my pardon, but I say, sir, could you tell me of an English organization in this city?"

If the other refers him to the St. George Society, he says:

"Ah, but they don't meet until next month," giving the exact date.

In case he is referred to the British Consul, he says he has been there, but could not see the Consul; then launches out a story of his misfortunes. It's the usual thing. Son of a wealthy Manchester manufacturer; come here to see life and buy a stock farm; remittances failed to come; very hard up and no friends in town; would be glad of any pecuniary assistance, however trifling. Often he concludes by saying insinuatingly:

"You're an English gentleman yourself, aren't you, sir?"

This is his trump card, and with youthful citizens is sometimes very successfully remunerative. The Prince of Wales is short, plump, neatly dressed, suave and mild of manner and rather nervous and jerky of speech. It is more than a year since his last previous campaign in this city. - New York Sun.

More than Lavoicte. "Henriette," said Mr. Meekton, "you know you said almost two hours ago you were going to tell me just how much you thought the average man amounted to."

She turned upon him a look of silent inquiry.

"You have said absolutely nothing since then."

"Well," she answered, "that's what I think he amounts to." - Washington Star.

ATTRACTIVE WOMEN.

Fullness of Health Makes Sweet Dispositions and Happy Homes.

[EXTRACTS FROM MRS. PINKHAM'S NOTE BOOK.]

Woman's greatest gift is the power to inspire admiration, respect and love. There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study. At the first indication of ill health, painful menses, pain in the side, headache or backache, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and begin its use. This truly wonderful remedy is the safeguard of women's health.

Mrs. MABEL SMITH, 345 Central Ave., Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: - I can hardly find words with which to thank you for what your wonderful remedy has done for me. Without it I would by this time have been dead or worse, insane; for when I started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was in a terrible state. I think it would be impossible for me to tell all I suffered. Every part of my body seemed to pain some way. The pain in my back and head was terrible. I was nervous, had hysterics and fainting spells. My case was one that was given up by two of the best doctors in Brooklyn. I had given up myself; as I had tried so many things, I believed nothing would ever do me any good. But, thanks to your medicine, I am now well and strong; in fact, another person entirely."

If you are puzzled about yourself, write freely and fully to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and secure the advice which she offers free of charge to all women. This is the advice that has brought sunshine into many homes which nervousness and irritability had nearly wrecked.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; a Woman's Remedy for Women's ills of braiding on the skirt complete the result.

The example of this dainty design that is presented here was of golden brown cashmere, the top of the bodice being a much darker brown silk. Brown silk braid was used, and the brown of the silk belt matched that of the silk in the bodice. Such a gown may be made of any of the popular canvases, in which case it must be lined throughout with silk to match the upper portion of the bodice. The belt must match the yoke, and may be finished with sash ends at the back. It is satisfying to notice that none of these very latest models shows an exaggeratedly small sleeve.

The chiffon bodice not only appears in a perfect frenzy of puffs, frills and shirring, but is pretty under the simplest treatment. Ombre or shaded chiffon, which is offered this season as one of the prettiest novelties, lends itself charmingly to simple use. Ombre chiffon comes with color deepening from one selvage to the other, and in making the color is arranged to suit your taste, the deeper shading usually coming at the front, though sometimes such a lot of adorable madras, barred muslins and lace effects as this season. Madras is shown cross-barred with ribbon stripes that is so pretty that to see it is to make up your mind that you cannot get through the summer without one - five at least, so many and so charming are the effects of color. The ground may be any shade and the stripes any other, but linen color barred with cerise, green, pale blue or yellow is a delight. Madras is heavy enough so that there need be no lining. Dainty embroidered edges come in colors to match the material, and gowns are made in all sorts of quaint effects, with little old-fashioned draped collars and bands of ribbon to match the stripe.

For such gowns the blouse bodice prevails. It is made like the one pictured here, with only the under-arm seam, a draw ribbon being set in at the back. This ribbon is loose the rest of its length, and ties about the waist, drawing it into shape, all of which facilitates washing. Linen color madras brightly barred is so pretty that a waist of that material was chosen by the artist, the striping being pale blue. The collar was finished with a ruffle of linen embroidery, and next to this linen insertion, light blue ribbon banding it and forming loops at the shoulders. Even barred muslin in spick-and-span white is made up in this way and trimmed with Hamburg edge. Such a gown white and crisp from the tub offers a dainty contrast to the soft grace of a chiffon or silk muslin dress, and she is a wise as well as a lucky girl who includes both in her summer wardrobe.

Since blouse bodices hold their own in the summer and spring fashions, spring wraps have been conformed to the requirements of the dress to be beneath, and with very attractive results. The artist presents in her next sketch a very pretty coat model that fastened at one side, the whole front being cut in panel fashion and allowed to hang straight and loose outside the belt, which held down back and sides to a snug fit. Brown broadcloth was the material, brown braided silk galloon trimmed it, and brown satin lined it. Copyright, 1895.

WINSIDE.
Chas. Warner of Wayne, is doing some mason work south of Winside this week.

J. W. Tillson has just returned from a sojourn of about six months in Dakota and Minnesota.

The residence of W. I. Lowry is almost completed and himself and family will soon move into it.

Our farmers are waiting for the rainy spell to be over before planting corn. Plowing is about done.

Richard Karo and family have just moved from this place to Norfolk where they will reside in the future.

Our people are putting down many new sidewalks this spring and so improving the appearance of the town.

Diphtheria has kept many children from school southwest of Winside. Some families are afflicted with the disease and others are afraid to send their children to school for fear of contracting it.

Winside Council of Knights of the Forest was organized here last week with the following officers: Commandeer, John F. Crosby; Lieutenant, A. L. Muirhead; Sec'y, W. L. Smith; Treas., J. C. Bender; Chaplain, F. M. Wright; Herald, W. M. Gue; Guard, Ed. Cullen.

J. J. WILLIAMS, M. D., Physician & Surgeon.
