Madison Reporter:—No town in the state has handsomer or better papers than Wayne, and they are bound to keep to the front whether they make a cent or not, so following the example set by the other papers, the HERALD has enlarged to a seven column quarto and went them one better by sporting a new head. This indicates prosperity and few deserve it more than do Messrs. McNeal and Beebe.
Of late the HERALD is pleased to note that the boys about the city are finding better occupation than loafing around the streets; most of them are trying to earn from 25 to 50 cents a day, either at home or elsewhere. It is a good sign and we hope the boys will keep it up, for by so doing they will win the admiration of all. Of course there are a few exceptions, but the parents should give the boys an opportunity to earn a dime whenever they can. Let them know that they are working for something.

A COSTLY BLAZE.

Union Medium, Record 279, and Undine Lost in a Fire Which Destroyed the Barn at Frank Strahan's Ranch Sunday Morning. Loss $4,500, Partly Insured.
Last Saturday night, or rather about one o'clock Sunday morning, the large barn at Frank Strahan's ranch four miles west of the city, was destroyed by fire, the origin of which is unknown. At the same time Mr. Strahan's famous trotting stallion, Union Medium, record 279, one of the best horses in the west, was burned, together with Undine and two colts, the get of Union Medium, which he valued very highly; a large amount of grain and hay, three sets of harness, tools, and farm implements and a buggy were also destroyed. Mr. Strahan's loss is about $4,500, with $700 insurance. The loss of Union Medium is that which he most keenly feels. Otto Krempek, foreman at the ranch was awakened by the glare of light about one o'clock, and jumping up rushed out to the barn, but too late to do any good as the roof caved in just before he reached the barn. He then rang the bell to attract the attention of his neighbors who assisted him in preventing the other buildings near by from being destroyed, and luckily no wind was blowing. Fortunately the doors on the barn had been left open and five horses broke their halters and run out, only one of which was burned and that one not seriously. Just how the fire started is a mystery.
Killed by Lightning.
Last Friday night during the rain, lightning struck the wire fence of August Smuelsen, who resides five miles east of Wayne, and running along the fence killed a fine yearling bull and a heifer calf. Fortunately they were insured.
Dedication Services.
The German Theophelus congregation will hold services at the church six miles southwest of Wayne on Sunday June 20th, to dedicate the new six hundred pound bell just recently received. Services will be held at 10:30 A. M. and 2:30 P. M. Revs. Dales of Bergin, Mo., and J. Hawk of Lorton, and O. Selinger of Syracuse, Neb., will be present. Dinner will be served at 12:30 by the ladies society of the church.

Shafter's Troops Are Landing.

An Immediate Attack Will be Made on Santiago.
The troops under Maj. Gen. Shafter began landing yesterday morning at Juraguá, ten miles east of the entrance to Santiago harbor. Little resistance was offered and an immediate advance will be made and as soon as the military forces are in possession of the hills back of Santiago a combined attack by the fleet and army will be ordered.
Before Saturday Santiago with all its strong fortifications and the strong fleet under Admiral Cervera will, no doubt have fallen, either captured or destroyed.

Wayne County's Crop Condition.

Perhaps it is not just the thing to boast of, nevertheless we feel justified in making the statement at this time, after careful examination, that the crops of Wayne county are the very best ever known, so far as present conditions are concerned, and should the season continue favorable the crop yield this fall will be simply enormous. During the fine weather of the past week farmers have been very busy and there is not now a field of corn that has not been plowed one or more times, and the growth during that time has been amazing. Evidently every kernel of corn planted grew. A drive over the county will convince any one of the fact of our statements and the scenery is well worth the drive. In speaking of the hay crop we have heard many farmers say that they have never seen anything like it. It is very large and the tonnage per acre will be large. Especially is this true of timothy and clover. In fact, there is no crop that does not promise a heavy yield when harvested, or gathered.

Superintendent's Notice.

If your child has thin, pale cheeks, uncertain appetite and restless sleep, it has worms and curing with strong medicines only makes conditions worse by irritating its delicate stomach. Vermifuge Cream is mild but certain in effect, and is a superior tonic as well as a positive worm destroyer. Wilkins.

During the summer of 1891, Chas. P. Johnson, a well known attorney of Louisville, Ky., had a severe attack of summer complaint. Quite a number of remedies were tried, but failed to afford relief. A friend who knew what was needed procured him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which quickly cured him, and he thinks, saved his life. He says that there has not been a day since that time that he has not had this remedy in his household. He speaks of it in the highest praise and takes much pleasure in recommending it when an opportunity is offered. For sale by L. P. Orth, druggist.

Wakefield Journal:—C. P. Matheson received notice from Senator Thurston last week of his appointment as assistant paymaster in the U. S. Army, at a salary of $1,400 per annum, but at once telegraphed the Senator declining the honor. Dr. Rouse has been appointed army surgeon, leaving a vacancy in the Lieutenancy of Company G, which was filled by the promotion of Lieutenant Nelson to First Lieutenant. The place made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Nelson from second to first lieutenant will be filled by the appointment of Mr. Cereke, of Norfolk, formerly a member of company L, of that place, who was superior second lieutenant by Senator Alton's son when that company left for the front.

Eczema!

The Only Cure.

Eczema is more than a skin disease. The whole system is in the blood, and Swift's Specific is the only remedy which can reach such deep-seated blood diseases.

It once broke out on my daughter, and continued to spread until her head was entirely covered. She was treated by several good doctors, but grew worse, and the dreadful disease spread to her face. She was taken to two different hospitals, but received no benefit. Many patent medicines were taken, but without result, until we decided to try S. S. S., and by the time the first bottle was finished, her head was clean. A dozen bottles cured her completely and left her skin perfectly smooth. She is now sixteen years old, and has a magnificent growth of hair. Not a sign of the dreadful disease has ever returned.

H. T. Sproul,
2704 Lucas Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Don't expect local applications of soaps and salves to cure Eczema. They reach only the surface, while the disease comes from within. Swift's Specific is the only cure and will reach the most obstinate case. It is far ahead of all similar remedies, because it cures cases which are beyond their reach. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, and is the only blood remedy guaranteed to contain no potash, mercury or other mineral.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

It will be some time before Congress adjourns, if it adjourns at all before the war is over.

As fast as opportunity offers, American heroes arise, and they are always more than equal to the occasion.

The Stanton Register is for Boynton for the nomination for Governor and we hope its fond hopes may be realized.

Now you rags who whooped'er up for a popular loan have an opportunity to invest in government bonds. Step up to the counter and have a bond. There's millions in it.

The Republican majority in Oregon is now known to be more than 10,000. Our record breaking landslide has no present reason to be ashamed of for name.—New York Tribune

If Spain insists on pursuing the war to the bitter end there'll be a hot time in Spauldardown before the close of this century, for every time the opportunity offers the Yankees will remember the Maine.

The 2,500 troops on board the transports, the Peking, City of Sydney and Australia, arrived at Honolulu, June 1, where they were royally welcomed by the people of the Islands. The transports left for Manila on the 4th.

They are thinking some how of turning the management of the war over to the editors of the fusion press, who know so much about war and the so-called "slowness" with which the head of affairs send Spaniards to the place spoken of by Bob Evans.

The House by a vote of 200 to 91 passed the resolution of Congressman Newlands of Nevada, providing for the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands and the assumption by the United States of their debt of $1,000,000. The will of the majority of the people prevails.

The South Sioux City Argus speaks about the republicans carrying Oregon by only 2,000. That's about as near the facts as some fusionists can get. Bro. Wilbur is a few points behind the times. Don't try to deceive your readers in that way. They may take some other paper.

The populist state committee assembled at Omaha last Thursday and there was a stormy scene before the proceedings closed. Edminister has a gubernatorial bee in his bonnet, and he was after Holcomb's scalp, with the result that the party will lose not less than 10,000 votes this fall.

The Washington correspondent to the Chicago Times-Herald says that "Secretary McKeljohn has prospected his duties with great vigor and ability and the management of his special work has won him high praise. He is a Nebraska man, and westerners are gratified by his success."

The York Times puts it right in the following few words: "This fall the republicans of Nebraska must put up the very best ticket they can find. No personal ambitions nor friendships should be considered, but the interests of the state, through republican success should be alone considered. With a strong ticket and a favorable tendency of the times there can be little doubt of republican success."

Although Goldie of the Wayne Democrat, is generally looked upon as a harmless, eccentric sort of a crank, whose utterances are not taken seriously by anyone, his reference to the brave soldier boys who are willing to sacrifice their lives on the altar of their country as "cigarette fiends" cannot fail to excite the indignation of all patriotic citizens, even though coming from an individual of the calibre of the Democrat editor.—Emerson Enterprise

The Trans-Mississippi Exposition is proving successful in every respect and the attendance is gradually increasing and no doubt will continue to increase until fall, when Nebraska people after harvesting one of the most bounteous crops in the state's history, will turn out en masse and visit the big show. The newspaper men are receiving excellent treatment at the hands of the Exposition management, and we have here no reasonable pretense will be denied any editor who attends.

A COMMANDING POSITION.
The Dingley Tariff will have to be abandoned before we can consistently talk of a commercial alliance with Great Britain.—Detroit Free Press.

Will it, indeed? England is not stipulating for an abrogation of the policy which has made the United States so powerful and so prosperous that all the world seems to be seeking alliances of this sort with us. Free Traders need not lose any sleep on account of the abandonment of the Dingley Tariff.

Nobody except a few incorrigibles of the Manchester school expects that America will ever be so silly as to sacrifice her splendid position in the industrial and commercial world as the price of an alliance with any foreign power.

When it comes to arranging the terms of an international agreement it will be found that our Protective system is an element of strength which will give the United States an important advantage in any negotiations of this character. We have here the market that all the world wants and is willing to pay for, and under the Dingley Tariff with its reciprocity provisions we can name the price of admission to the privileges of that market. It is for this country to choose its friends and say who shall get the benefit of its Tariff concessions. A nation of seventy-five millions of people who can produce all that they require and who have that to sell which the rest of the world must buy whether it will or no, is not likely to submit to outside dictation as to its fiscal and economic affairs. It doesn't have to.—American Economist.

No town of the same size in the state can equal Wayne in regard to newspapers. The Herald is a hide-bound republican sheet and is ably edited by a man who believes that the administration of McKinley must always be in the right. The republican is much more independent and does not hesitate to attack its party if not suited with the way things are managed, either in the country, state or nation. The Democrat is issued twice a week and just that often puts out the hottest kind of demagogic logic and allows its one to infiltrate it or dictate its management. All for the three are well supported, are typographical models and their local department simply great.—Dixon Tribune

Within a few years our navy will rank second only to that of England. If this means anything it means that our merchant service will move up ultimately to the same place. Safety and dignity will be given to our trading ships by the presence in all waters of Government vessels. Capital will seek investment in shipyards and in ships, and foreign Governments will follow the lead of Russia by having their warships constructed here. This may seem a remote view to take of the situation, but it is one amply borne out by the facts.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The republican party of Nebraska should permit no quibbling. In convention assembled they must declare unequivocally for the gold standard. There must be no dodging the question. The humbug of "90 to 1" is a thing of the past. The prosperity that has followed in the wake of the republican victory, won because of the declaration for sound money and protection should be closely borne in mind. To turn from these lines would be but to invite defeat.

Of course in the eyes of the "anything to beat Grant" men, the fact that the harvesting of the biggest wheat crop ever known in this country has nothing to do with the reduction in the price of wheat, but to the man with a fair amount of brains the exact cause is known and the blatant demagogue cannot alter the case.

The rush to buy the new government bonds is something unprecedented. There must be something radically wrong with the theory about the security of money when people are tumbling over each other in their haste to subscribe for bonds bearing only 3 per cent. interest.—State Journal.

Uncle Sam is not asking the banks to buy his bonds. In fact, he is compelled to refuse the banks, for his people like those three per cent. bonds pretty well, and as to the amount, it makes little difference while Spain is having a hard time getting her pesetas.

When the Americans go gunning they always find the target and they are never satisfied short of hitting the Bulls-eye. That's the reason that the bull fights in Spain are getting fewer.

It will be no goose-eggs when Uncle Sam makes his three strikes. He will land at the Philippines, at Hawaii and upon the shores of Porto Rico.

No man or set of fair-minded men living ever expected that wheat would remain at a dollar, regardless of an enormous crop.

Uncle Sam will send a flying squadron to harass the shores of Spain, and the Canary Islands may also be attacked.

If Spain refuses to exchange Hobson and his brave comrades, there'll come a time some day when she'll wish she had.

Yesterday was Illinois day at the Exposition and the crowd was one of the largest that has yet attended.

Trans-Mississippi and International Exposition.
Omaha, June to November, 1898

OFFICIAL BIRD'S-EYE VIEW.

Situated upon a broad plateau, well within the city limits on the north side, the Exposition grounds are easily accessible from all points of the compass. Kenesaw tract, 670 feet wide, defined by Sherman avenue on the east, and Twenty-fourth street on the west, was selected for the focus of the group of main buildings. This ground is nearly half a mile long and in the center's rapid extends the greater share of the distance. This basin is 150 feet wide at the east end, while at the west end it runs into a trefoil or three-lobed lake four hundred feet across. On the east, lying at right angles to Kenesaw tract, is an area of sixty acres stretching along the Bluffs and over-looking the river and country beyond. The remainder of the Exposition ground lies north of the Kenesaw tract, west of Sherman avenue and includes the old fair grounds and the land beyond it, embracing in all about eighty acres. Two viaducts across Sherman avenue connect the bluff tract with the Grand Canal Court and with the large area to the north. The northernmost viaduct immediately connects two sections devoted to concessions, the one on the bluff tract lying parallel to Sherman avenue; the other being a connection with Twentieth street, which leads southward to the Grand Court. The main entrance is on the south line at the intersection of Twentieth street, through the Arch of States. On the old fair grounds site the live stock and irrigation exhibits, the sugar beet fields, the great display of agricultural implements, alfalfa fields, the amphitheatre and athletic fields are located. Trees will be made use of very freely in the form of parks and groves and for shading and ornamenting unsightly places.

At the west end the Mirror, with its cluster of artistic necessities, is to be the center of a beautiful park, whose winding walks and shaded arbors all lead to and frame this bit of water. Music pavilions, restaurants and other attractions will make the Mirror a favorite haunt for many visitors. Pleasure boats, launches and gondolas, as well as swans and other fowl, will add to the interest and help beautify the lake. In this Mirror will occur the water festivities, swimming and diving displays, etc., which can be observed from the colonnades and from the steps of the U. S. Government building, whose noble proportions are reflected by the sheet of water lying before it.

At the east end of the basin is a great lieder circle stairway, thirty feet in width, adorned on either side with a tower, which is crowned by a kiosk or pavilion. Sweeping out on either side and connecting these towers with others of like design, are graceful pergolas. Back of all this and rising in five gently graduated towers, and crowned with statues of heroic design, are the two great viaduct restaurants. They form a most beautiful and stately finish to the east end of the lagoon. The design is by Walker & Kimball, architects-in-chief. The towers and stairs will be tinted to an old ivory shade, decorated with dull Pompeian colors.

THE NEW WAR BONDS.

Small Investors Will Get Almost the Entire Issue.

That people want government bonds is clearly shown by the tremendous demand for them from every part of the country. The Chicago Times-Herald of Friday, in speaking of those hustling for bonds in that city, says: "The 100 investors who paid their cash in exchange for government receipts guaranteeing them the possession of bonds as soon as they could be brought from Washington, represented every phase of the industrious, economical, hard-working class. There were retail carriers and policemen, seamstresses and proprietresses of small 'neighborhood shops,' railroad men, street car men, carpenters, bricklayers and hod carriers. They made their payments in bills much crossed from long storage in hiding places at home, in silver, and once in a while pockets were emptied of fractional currency to complete the required amount." Evidently the people have great faith in the government, and administration at Washington. The following is a form of the application for bonds:

FORM OF APPLICATION.
SUBSCRIPTION FOR $500 OR LESS.

HON. L. J. GAGE, Secretary of the Treasury.

SIR—I hereby subscribe for ($.....) of the bonds of the three per cent. loan authorized by the Act of Congress to provide ways and means to meet war expenditures, and inclose herewith to pay for the same, subject to the provisions of Circular No. 101, dated June 13, 1898, issued by the Treasury Department.

When the bonds are ready please forward them to the following address:

UNITED STATES BONDS.

United States bonds are recognized as the most secure and stable form of obligation that investors can hold. They are attractive, not only because of the absolute security offered, but because there is at all times a public market for them on which holders can quickly sell; and they also offer the most desirable form of collateral if the holder wishes to secure a temporary loan. The fact that United States bonds are not subject to taxes of any character—Federal, State, or municipal—is a valuable feature of that form of investment. United States bonds are issued in both coupon and registered form.

COUPON BONDS.

A coupon bond is payable to the bearer. It may be bought and sold without formality as freely as any kind of property and without endorsements of any kind. Owing to the freedom of transfer, coupon bonds are usually preferred by persons who expect to hold them but a short time. Their disadvantage for the person who wishes to make a permanent investment lies in the danger that they might be lost or stolen, in which case the loss to the owner would be as complete as would be the loss of a bank note.

REGISTERED BONDS.

A registered bond is payable to the order of the owner, and can only be transferred by being properly indorsed and assigned by the owner. Such assignment is made by the owner filling in the blank form on the back of the bond, and must be witnessed by some officer authorized by the Treasury Department to witness assignments. The owner of a registered bond who wishes to part with it writes his name on the back of the bond in the presence of the officer; then the witnessing officer writes his name in its proper place and affixes an impression of his official seal.

When the owner of a registered bond disposes of it and has properly assigned it, he delivers it to the new owner, who should at once forward it to the Register of the Treasury for transfer on the books of the Department. The Register cancels the bond so forwarded and issues a new bond in the name of the new owner, and sends it to him by registered mail. The Department makes no charge for transferring bonds.

If the owner of a registered bond loses it, or if it is stolen from him, he should at once notify the Secretary of the Treasury. A stoppage will be entered against the bond, and, if it should be presented for transfer, the Department will hold possession of the bond until the ownership is clearly established.

Coupon bonds are issued in denominations of $20, $100, $500 and $1,000. Registered bonds are issued in denominations of $20, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000.

HOW TO SUBSCRIBE FOR THE NEW BONDS.

The war loan which is now being offered will be sold to subscribers at par during the period of subscription which ends July 11, 1898. The method of subscription has been made as simple as possible. Blank forms may be obtained at every money-order post office, and at most of the banks and express offices, and on these forms is clearly indicated all that is necessary for the subscriber to fill out. The subscriber may himself send to the Treasury Department at Washington the blank form filled out, together with his remittance covering the par value of the amount of bonds for which he wishes to subscribe. That remittance may be in whatever form best suits the subscriber's convenience—in currency, bank draft, check, post-office money order, or express money order. The day the currency is received, or the day the proceeds are received from the checks, drafts or money orders, the subscription will be entered and will immediately begin drawing interest. When the bonds are delivered a check will accompany each delivery covering the interest at 3 per cent. from the day the subscription is entered to the lot of August, the date of the bonds, and from which date the bonds will carry their own interest.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD!

OF INTEREST TO STOCK HOLDERS

Free Transportation to Attend the Annual Meeting at Chicago. Some Interesting Facts.
In order that stockholders of the Illinois Central Railroad Company may more readily attend in person the annual meeting, there has been printed to each stockholder of said company a notice to the effect that, in accordance with a resolution of the Board of Directors, there may be issued to each holder of one or more shares of the capital stock of the Illinois Central Railroad Company, as registered on the books of the Company, a ticket enabling him or her to travel from over the Company's lines from the station of the Illinois Central Railroad nearest to his or her registered address, to Chicago and return, for the purpose of attending in person the next Annual Stockholders' Meeting of the Company, which will be held at its General Office in Chicago on Wednesday September 28, 1898, at noon. Details as to the necessary procedure to obtain such ticket, the date of its issue and its limit, are fully set forth on the postal notices referred to. In this connection, it will be interesting to note that since, in 1892, the capital stock of the Company became full paid, a cash dividend, ranging from 4 per cent. to 10 per cent. per annum, has been paid semi-annually to every holder of stock, and that in no twenty years since the Company, in any year, paid less than 5 per cent. the present rate of distribution.

PAYING THE PENALTY

"He's ever captures the man under the conditions," said the inspector. "It will be because of future developments that we cannot foresee. Keep your eyes about you, but bring no more men here unless you find a good round sum of money in their possession and say they are unable to account for it."

"The reward had been offered for the apprehension of the criminal without stipulation of the funds," said the collector. "I'll be glad to see you in a week, and send him down next week."

"By Jove!" exclaimed the inspector. "That is a good round sum. Fifty percent of your loss will set every expert detective in the country at work. You cannot afford to neglect the reward. But what portion of the reward goes for the apprehension and conviction of Elsworth's assistant if the money is not recovered?"

"Not a dollar. One president in his communication states that as a safeguard and as a bar to an indictment on the part of an unscrupulous so-called detective, there shall be no reward for the capture of an innocent man. However, the reward will be paid only on conviction of the robber and restoration of the contents of that package."

"Which will result," observed the inspector, "in very few detectives engaging in the case. But suppose the criminal is convicted and but a part of the money is recovered?"

"There also," said the inspector, "if the money recovered exceeds the amount of the reward, the ten thousand dollars will be paid; but not otherwise."

"You need have no fear of unscrupulous detectives convicting an innocent man by reason of any incentive they will receive from the conditions under which the reward is to be paid, certainly," remarked Hunt.

"Certainly. Here is a correct copy. I hope it may be of aid to you."

"Why did you schedule those bills and not schedule the bill numbers?"

"I have a schedule of the bills of issue in my pocket. You see in these bills it is a matter of protection to the bank. The worthless bills of no defunct institution, or of one trembling on the verge of bankruptcy, can come back to us. You understand?"

"Yes, I understand. But—but—was the money present in the package and the teller when this package was made up?"

"The teller, Mr. Earl Kellogg, Banker Kellogg's nephew, was standing here, my elbow as he says does. The book-keeper was stationed at his desk where you see him. The porter was near the outer door."

"Earl Kellogg, the banker's nephew. This, then, is the young man who bears such a striking resemblance to the supposed robber?"

"Yes, I understand. But—but—was the money present in the package and the teller when this package was made up?"

"The gentleman in blue passed from the bank. (To be continued.)"

GOWNS FOR RESORTS.

WHAT TO WEAR WHILE ON AN OUTING.

The Summer Gown Is Now Preparing Either to Captivate the Masculine Reporter or to Meet Her Soldier When He Returns Home.

Fancies in Summer Apparel. New York correspondents.

RESORTS by lake, sea and mountain are now opening, and the summer girl is dressing herself for conquest. Accessories that the male resorter should carry when you want him to do so, and yet that are so delicate and elaborate as to keep him on his toes and damage less his delicate sensibilities, are the best of them.

At the top of this column is shown one that, worn with a plain gown, would fit it out daintily, yet that could, should it be desired, be changed into a more richly embroidered affair with a ruffled collar and a round yoke in back. The pointed front panel extends to the back, and were held with a large black bow and sash ends. To remove such a wrap and entrust it to an escort will be to stain him. He will realize from a slight of the plainness underneath that all the ornamentation he is in his hands, and that's enough to make the heart of a soldier man tingle.

There's another point that makes the summer girl anxious to look her best. She's convinced that the soldier boys will be home before the time for laying away warm weather finery. If she awaits him on the piazza, any one of the dresses that follow in these illustrations will do nicely, and they'll also be suitable for hotel piazza wear, or for any of the dressy open-air occasions of the summer season. The left-hand one of the three pictured together was in pleated black tulle over mandarin yellow silk. Bodice and sleeves were striped with bands of spangled lace insertion, the bodice being alike back and front with the exception of the butterfly jabot in front. The large lace collar outlined the bands but was detachable.

The loveliest of these three was styled a race net gown by its designer. It is in general service would prove a very swaggy afternoon dress. Nothing is better suited, however, to an interested observer—be it of home-coming recruit or winning jockey, it makes little difference—than the slightly trained princess effect which happily suits the poses a handsome young woman is pretty sure to assume in such occupation. This one was as simple as a wrapper, yet with its snugly laid revers, the in-set of the back and the lustre of its smooth silk was a fine affair. There was a pretense of an under gown along its entire length. Near the hem the opening widened a little and the undergown effect showed below the other all around. There is an extravagant fancy for making the petticoat the waist and was strapped together over the bust by frogs of red ribbon. A panel piece of white silk to match fell straight from belt to hem, widening downward. This was red, white and blue, but not "with a vengeance," as is usually the case when attempts are made to combine these colors.

She who thinks busy fingers are the best aids to a cheery mind can embroider herself one of those lovely old-time lawn gowns that are among the most beautiful offerings for the season. They are made of lawn as fine as Eastern mill. In the one chosen for illustration here the design started at the waist, giving petticoat effect, widening towards the hem and sweeping about the skirt in a wide panel. The front of the bloused bodice was embroidered, and sprays crossed the shoulders at the back. The bodice was made over a yoke that will come out. The lawn was white, over pale yellow, and yellow was used in the embroidery, which the tucked yoke matched. These elements are wisely made very full as to allow for changes of fashion should be allowed for in plenty of material. Under the lawn is worn silk of any delicate shade, but there is a preference for pale yellow, as in this one.

MEAT AND CLOTHING.

EFFECTS OF DIFFERENT TARIFF POLICIES CONTRASTED.

Exports of American Cattle Decreased and Their Price Went Down Under the Wilson Law; While Imports of Wool and Woolsen Goods Increased.

Facts Explain Theories. Facts sometimes explode theories. People differ very much upon theories of protection and free trade, tariff for revenue, with incidental protection, and other theories.

The effect of Democratic and Republican policies upon the cattle industry are not questions of theory. At the time the McKinley bill was passed there was a very slight duty upon the importation of cattle in the United States, and we were importing from foreign people from 50,000 to 100,000 head annually. The McKinley bill imposed a tax or duty of $10 per head upon cattle imported from foreign countries into the United States. The result is plainly shown. Under the last three years of the McKinley bill we imported 7,058 head of cattle, mostly for breeding purposes. We exported 1,149,977 head. The number of cattle in the United States under President Harrison's administration and the operation of the McKinley bill increased in number 2,764,529 head. Under three years of the McKinley bill we exported 1,034,739 head of cattle more than we imported. Prices remained good, the cattle industry was stimulated, we reduced our imports, increased our exports, and largely built up our own herds. We did business for ourselves in raising, fattening and exporting cattle.

In addition to this the activity given to other industries of the United States under the McKinley bill produced an enormous demand for feedstuffs, beef tallow and the cattle industry benefited in many ways.

This model is the third of today's pictures, and its patriotic touch was in the bodice, which was heavy silk drawn over red, the sleeves being hand-drawn yellow. Over the shoulders a flat skirt of white silk, narrowed to the same policy had the same effect upon the sheep industry. During the administration of President Harrison sheep in the United States increased in numbers 4,674,474 and in value $34,238,895. Under the administration of President Cleveland and the operation of the Wilson bill cattle in the United States decreased in number 10,354,910 and in value $90,744,529. During the same time the value of all classes of farm animals in the United States decreased in value in the enormous sum of $288,392,280.

Which policy do the people interested in the production of cattle and sheep prefer? You have the results of both. You will have an opportunity of expressing your satisfaction with either one at the coming election.

While our own sheep industry was depressed and the price of wool remarkably low, the people of the United States imported shoddy with which to clothe themselves in enormous quantities. Our importations of foreign wool increased from 4,107,438 under the McKinley bill to 17,074,615 under the Wilson bill, while our importations of woolen goods increased in round numbers $27,000,000 in one year. Under the McKinley bill we produced and wore our own people their own meat, their own woolen goods and clothing. Under the Wilson bill we destroyed our flocks and herds, turned our flockmasters and herders out of employment and shoddy meat and clothing, wool and clothing from foreign countries.

cents. Populists and silver Republicans combined to oppose the Republican party upon this subject. The result was that Governor Shaw was elected by a triumphant majority over all, and since then the silver question is considered dead in that State. In Ohio the issues were mixed with personalities, but notwithstanding this the sound money men carried the State, and no more questions that on a clear-cut issue would go for the gold standard. This year the first State to vote is Oregon and against every disadvantage of an off year it has decided in favor of the gold standard by a majority that is unprecedented even for a Presidential year.

The Oregonians are tired of this constant chaff about silver, and of "doing something" for a metal that in the nature of things can only be useful in the present. They are tired of the present silver standard, and the lukewarm Republican administration is well off if they ought to be well under cover.—Chicago Times Herald.

If It Were the Theorists. Theorists who insist that protection is destructive of foreign trade and themselves bothered to explain the increase in American manufacturing exports under the Dingley tariff. In the nine months of the present fiscal year these exports have increased $100,000,000 over the corresponding period last year, and for this entire year the promise to the industry in this country of the United States is that the American manufacturing industry will continue to grow in both ways. It would be of course to attribute all this to the tariff. Other causes such as increased resources, better organization, and the greater skill and activity of the lines of production have contributed to bring about the result. But the steady increase in manufacturing exports shows that extension of foreign trade is compatible with high duties, and that, too, when the country is not suffering from panic and depression.

Exports of Locomotives. Orders for seven locomotives were placed by the Government with the Baldwin Works. In addition to these the Baldwin people have for New Zealand, six for Spain, five for Argentina and one for Mexico. The Government has just received an order for seven locomotives from Japan, making a total of 27. One of the export orders in one week. The orders received by American locomotive manufacturers since August, 1901, bring the grand total up to 172, and still further contracts are pending for delivery of locomotives in Russia and Mexico. Another instance of the triumph of "intelligent labor" might be mentioned. It is the American policy which has made possible this successful invasion of foreign markets with American productions.

An Unquestionable Fact. Protection must first be extended to American ships in competition with foreign ships, in the foreign trade of the United States. Before American capital can be induced to invest in such ships for that trade. Perhaps in time the protection can be withdrawn, but that will be a matter for another time. It is an unquestionable fact that if American built American ships and American manned ships are to be placed in our foreign trade, they must be protected against the competition of foreigners, precisely as every other industry on the land is protected against foreign competition.—New York Times.

Works Well Both Ways. The American foreign trade for the past year, under the new protection, stands out in striking contrast with the corresponding story of the preceding year under the Wilson-Gorman tariff. Not only have our purchases of European goods, but our sales of manufactured goods to Europe have increased. The exports of domestic manufactures from the United States have increased during the nine months of the present fiscal year at the rate of nearly $1,000,000 per month, while the imports of manufactures have fallen off at the rate of over $3,000,000 per month.—Lawson Journal.

What It Would Do. There can be no doubt that the minds of observers that under such conditions the new tariff law would make time be bringing abundant revenues to the treasury.—Kalamazoo Telegraph.

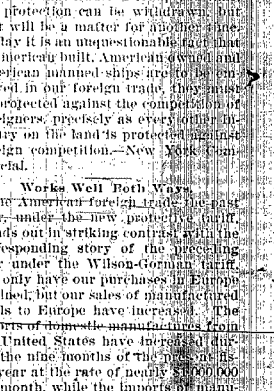

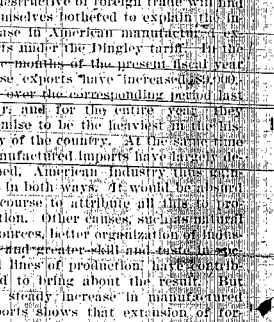

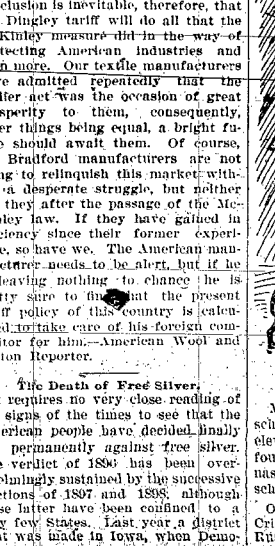

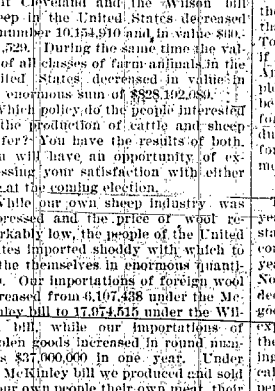

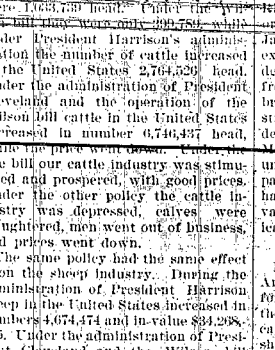

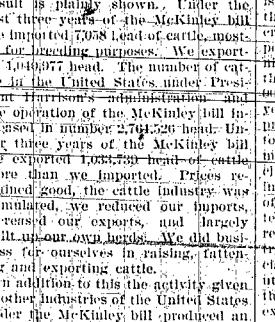

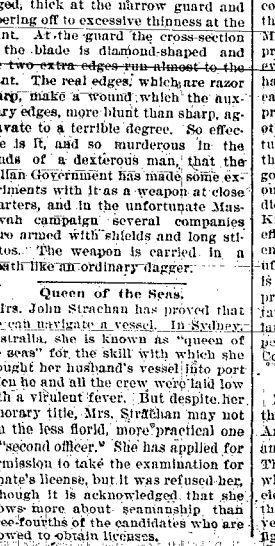

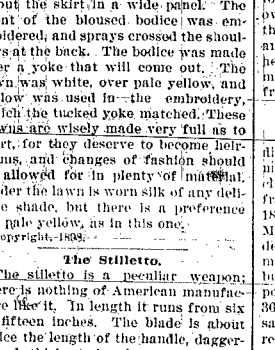

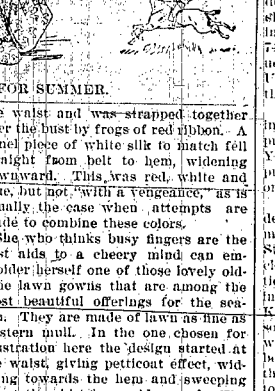

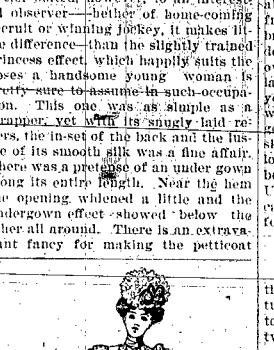

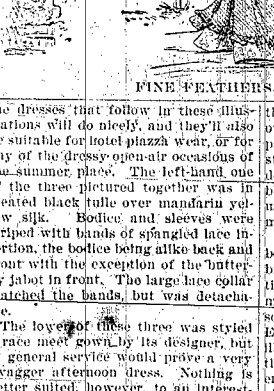

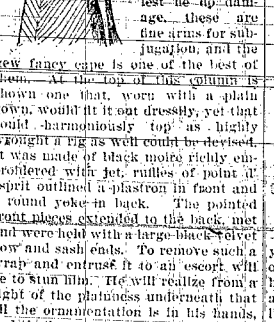

Hawthorne's Bear Story.

In "Hawthorne's First Diary," begun at his home in Raymond, Maine, when he was a small boy, he tells a bear story, which is vouched for by his editor. Hawthorne gives it as follows: Mr. Henry Turner of Otisfield took his six children out to look at some pine-trees. A man had just taken off enough of the snow to lay bare the roots of a part of the trees. Under a large root there seemed to be a cavity, and on examining it closely, something was exposed very much like long black hair. He put off the root, saw the nose of a bear, and killed him, pulled out the body, saw another killed that, and dragged out the carcass. When he found that there was a third one in the den, and that he was thoroughly awaked, too, but as soon as the head came in sight, it was split open with the axe, and Mr. Turner alone, with only an ax, killed three bears in less than half an hour, the youngest being a good-sized one, and what the hunters call a youngling.

This is a pretty good bear story, but probably true, and happened only a few days ago, for John Patch, who was here with his father, Capt. Len Patch, who lives within two miles of Otisfield, told me so yesterday.

Imaginative Eyeight. After General Forrest's raid into Memphis large stories were told about his heroism and the marvelous doings of his troops. One of the best illustrations of the admiration inspired by the general came from a negro soldier, who claimed to have seen him, as he rode up in front of the Gwyness Hotel. He began telling his companions how Forrest looked, and finally came to the appearance of his horse. "I was a stan-in' right in dis alley," said he. "When I seen him come up, he rid his horse right up to de hotel; and I'm tellin' you de truth—he hitched his horse right to de second-story balusters. I seed him. I tell you I seed him."—Youth's Companion.

THE ILLS OF WOMEN

And How Mrs. Pinkham Helps Overcome Them

Mrs. MARY BOLEINER, 1101 Marianna St., Chicago, Ill., to Mrs. Pinkham: "I have been troubled for the past two years with falling of the womb, vertigo, pains over my body, sick headaches, backache, nervousness and weakness. I tried doctors and various remedies without relief. After taking two bottles of your Vegetable Compound, the relief obtained was truly wonderful. I have now taken several more bottles of your famous medicine, and can say that I am entirely cured."

For a long time I suffered with chronic inflammation of the stomach, pain in abdomen, loss of sleep, fainting, was very nervous at times, and so weak I was hardly able to do anything. Was subject to headaches, also troubled with indigestion. After doctoring for many months with different physicians and getting no relief, I had given up all hope of being well again when I read of the great good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing. I decided immediately to give it a trial. The result was simply past belief. After taking four bottles of Vegetable Compound and using three packages of Sanative Wash I can say I feel like a new woman. I deem it my duty to announce the fact to my fellow sufferers, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable remedies have entirely cured me of all my pains and suffering. I have her alone to thank for my recovery, for which I am grateful. May heaven bless her for the good work she is doing for our sex."

Little Tricks of the Mind

One of the most curious factors in connection with the big brain workers is that they are generally to be floored over some trivial thing which might be conquered by a child of eight. For instance, one of our present-day writers confessed recently to an English reporter that from his earliest boyhood he has never been able to count anything in threes. All mental calculations he makes either in twos or fours, and he experiences the greatest difficulty in repeating the three-times multiplication table correctly from memory. Almost as curious is the difficulty of a clever north country, ex-Mayor, who cannot distinguish between a and z, and constantly interchanges these letters in writing—a failing which has caused him a life-long annoyance. Two public school examination failures last year were due to the world's "bald" being spelled "foll" and "toad" being spelled "toid".

It was discovered that the inability to spell this identical word, had gone against the boys on almost every former examination. Springfield, Union.

Swindled. "Don't you come around here with any more of your patent frauds," said Uncle Remus. "I've been snooked in once, but you ain't goin' to kech me agin."

"What's the matter?" asked the gentlemanly agent. "The lightning rods I sold you are all right, aren't they?"

All right? Well, maybe you call 'em all right, but they've been up for more'n six months now and the lightning hasn't lit 'em none."

A Ruminous Practice. "I thought you and I were partners in a law-partnership, didn't you?"

"We did form a partnership, but I kicked him out. A woman came in the other day to consult him and he told her she had to come before he had put in a single day's work on it."

I mean to make myself amiable, and if I succeed in that, I shall succeed in everything else.—James A. Garfield.

EVERY BRIDE

and wife should know about the preparation that for half a century has been helping expectant mothers bring little ones into the world without danger and the hundred and one discomforts and distractions incident to child-birth. It is applied externally, which is the only way to get relief. Medicines taken internally will not help and may result in harm.

Mother's Friend

fits and prepares every organ, muscle and part of the body for the critical hour. It robs child-birth of its tortures and pains. Baby's coming is made quick and easy. Its action is doubly beneficial if used during the whole period of pregnancy.
