F. A. Dearborn, Wayne's energetic real-estate dealer, sold a number of farms last week at good prices, among which was J. W. Campbell's farm northeast of the city, which he sold to Charles E. Couch of Illinois, for $5000 cash. He also sold an eighty acre tract of A. Shinn near Winside to H. T. Holm.

One Lee, by name, came to our city several days ago and maneuvered a large scheme. He would write up a bit of fat, show it to the person written about, and then sell him several copies of the paper in which it was to appear, at ten cents per copy, by which method he will secure a great sum of money, while the said write up is about the simplest thing of the kind we have ever seen attempted, and is of no practical benefit to any person whose name appears therein. The HERALD has never assisted any outsider to come in and work up a take, though it has had more than one opportunity.

Waugh! For the HERALD or any other paper to be jealous of the Democrat is enough to make even the Donkey of the Democrat smile. It can only see itself through its own eye-lashes and not as others see it. Yes, the HERALD stands for the almighty dollar; that's what we are here for, but we see no reason for the Democrat being so cranky because it has made a dismal failure along this line, though it has tried every plan imaginable to stand for the almighty dollar. Most people have found the HERALD to be tolerably independent, but not to the extent of idocy.

Mrs. Girten and Mrs. Vincent entertained their lady friends in a very delightful manner on Thursday evening, at the home of the former. The rooms were darkened and decorated profusely with flowers and potted plants. Old Glory reigned supreme as is usual on these occasions. After enjoying an hour or so in sociability the guests were invited to partake of a most elegant repast, including water and musk melon, which were enjoyed very much by all. The ladies were assisted by the Misses Anna Gamble, Gail Jones and Minta Girten. Those present were: Mesdames Main, Wheeler, Beebe, Phil-ipo, Frazier, Gamble, Williams, Anderson, Davies, Welch, Donnell, Ley, Corbit, Blanchard, Norris, Fuller, Edger-ton and Misses Corbit and Anderson.

Our esteemed contemporary the Street Journals his fellow publishers this week because they secured some business which he used to get. We seldom give heed to such spurts of nonsense, but for the edification of the said contemporary, and others who may be interested, we will simply state that the HERALD made a contract with the Bucklin Co. which calls for $200 per year more than our contemporary received for the same advertising the past year. Bucklin & Co. have advertised in both paper and having received better results from their advertising in the HERALD, decided to place their business with this paper, although they could have made a contract with the said contemporary for a less amount. Thus the great kick. THE HERALD accepts no advertising from any source that conflicts with our home merchants, and the advertising in question is taken for the benefit of the Wayne druggists.

MARRIED. GEARHART-CUNNINGHAM - Yesterday at high noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Cunningham, Miss Ellen Cunningham and Charles D. Gearhart were united in marriage. Rev. D. C. Montgomery performing the ceremony. Only a few of the immediate relatives were present. After a wedding lunch the bridal pair departed on the afternoon train for the west. The groom is pastor of the Congregational church at Pierce and is highly spoken of. The bride is one of Wayne county's splendid young women, and has for a number of years been a prominent teacher, and has a host of friends who will wish the happy couple a happy and prosperous life.

Notice. In view of the extraordinary crowd of visitors who will undoubtedly be in Wayne (today) Thursday, the 15th, the city should appear in holiday attire. The citizens are earnestly requested to decorate their stores and residences. H. LAY, Mayor.

Attend G. A. R. By an oversight the invitation to take part in the parade at the Peace Jubilee in our city on the 15th was not received at an early date as desired or a called meeting of the Post would have been had. The parade is to take place at 10 a. m. on the above date, and the veterans are to be accorded the post of honor, and all members are requested to meet at hall at court house not later than 9:30 a. m. Thursday, Sept. 15, to take part in parade. A. W. TAYLOR, Commander.

Barbecue Notes.

See program of the day in HERALD supplement.

The city is yours. Celebrate and have a good time.

The speaking will be held at the opera house and the barbecue at the big tent.

The weather bureau has promised perfect weather, and the people will do the rest.

There'll be a hot time in the old town today, with roast beef, beer and barley corn on top.

Everybody will be expected to watch the bear climb the pole and Goldie turn a somersault.

Roast beef, buns, bread and coffee free at the barbecue tent the chance of a life time. Take it in.

Watch for the great pyrotechnic and zig zag parade tonight. It will be worth a life time to see it.

Main street will be wired from First street to the Love hotel, to prevent teams from blockading the streets.

The republican and fusion candidates for governor, together with many other prominent politicians, arrived on this morning's train.

Jno. G. Whitelock of Ashland, Neb., has been engaged as chief chef in barbecuing the steers and began his work yesterday afternoon.

The ladies have completed all arrangements for serving dinner to the largest crowd ever assembled in the northern part of the state.

The gentleman from Ashland understands the business of barbecuing and will have the three fine steers roasted in a manner to tempt the gods.

Ran Frazier has been selected as Marshal of the day; Frank Fuller will deliver the address of welcome, and Harvey Ringling will organize the night parade.

The loss of the big tent in which the revival meetings were being held somewhat disconnected the plans arranged for the speaking, but there'll be plenty of music, and room on the bleachers.

Every citizen of Wayne should do his or her best to entertain the visitors today and make them feel at home and happy, that when they leave for their homes they may have a warm feeling of regard for our city.

The "LONGLEY HATS" Harrington & Robbins.

A CRITICAL TIME!

During the Battle of Santiago.

SICK OR WELL, A RUSH NIGHT AND DAY.

The Packers at the Battle of Santiago de Cuba were all Heroes. Their Heroic Efforts in Getting Ammunition and Rations to the Front Saved the Day.

P. E. Butler, of pack-train No. 3, writing from Santiago de Cuba, on July 23rd, says: "We all had diarrhoea in more or less violent form, and when we landed we had no time to see a doctor, for it was a case of rush, and rush night and day to keep the troops supplied with ammunition and rations, but thanks to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, we were able to keep at work and keep our health; in fact, I sincerely believe that at one critical time this medicine was the indirect saviour of our army, for if the packers had been unable to work there would have been no way of getting supplies to the front. There were no roads that a wagon train could use. My comrade and myself had the good fortune to lay in a supply of this medicine for our pack train before we left Tampa and I know in four cases it absolutely saved life."

The above letter was written to the manufacturers of this medicine, the Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by L. P. Orth.

Sacrificed to Blood Poison.

Those who have never had Blood Poison cannot know what a desperate condition it can produce. This terrible disease which the doctors are usually unable to cure, is communicated from one generation to another, inflicting its taint upon countless innocent ones.

Some years ago I was inoculated with poison by a nurse who touched my face with blood. The blood was unequal to the struggle, and his life was yielded up to the fearful poison. For six long years I suffered from the disease, and was covered with sores and ulcers from head to foot, and no language can express my feelings of woe during those long years. I had the best medical treatment, but all in vain. My only hope was in the S. S. S. for Blood. I bought a bottle and used it as directed. I had not used it long when I began to feel better. I had not used it long when I began to feel better. I had not used it long when I began to feel better.

Of the many blood remedies, S. S. S. is the only one which can reach deep-seated, violent cases. It never fails to cure perfectly and permanently the most desperate cases which are beyond the reach of other remedies.

Commissioners Convention.

A convention of the republican electors of the third commissioners district will be held at Carroll, Sept. 24, for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for county commissioner in the third district and transacting such other business as may come before the convention.

The district is comprised of the following precincts, which are entitled to the number of delegates designated: Hoskins 5, Hancock 2, Winship 2, Deer Creek 5, Chapin 2, Sherman 3, Garfield 2.

Geo. HARRISFIELD, Chairman.

Maine went republican as usual on Monday and all four congressmen were re-elected, but as the republicans practically made no campaign the vote was light.

The Empress of Austria was assassinated on Saturday evening by an Italian anarchist, who stabbed her to the heart with a file, while she was visiting at Geneva, Switzerland.

The "reform" song is getting to sound very hazy. It's the song of the fusion office-seeker who failed to get an office at the hands of the party to which he was formerly allied, but it will fool few people this fall.

Uncle Henry Miller is in a very sad plight; he who has cried reform so long, and has so bitterly denounced Fleek Hale, the fusion nominee for Senator, and Frank Fuller, the fusion nominee for county attorney. But then, Uncle Henry deals largely in inconsistency, and the characteristics of populism, so he'll swallow the dose.

The office-seeking populist of Wayne who goes around remarking that a "whole lot of republicans won't vote for Judge Norris," will discover that the fusionists will need his services as receiver when the votes are counted. Where one republican fails to vote for Judge Norris there will be ten farmers and business men vote for him that have voted the free silver fake heretofore.

President McKinley will have many grave problems to solve during the next year, and what he should have, is the loyal support of every American, and the warm endorsement of the republican party. He should have a republican congress at his back, and if there are any republicans in the Third congressional district thinking of voting for the fusion nominee for congress he should weigh the matter well before voting. Remember that a vote for Judge Norris is a vote to sustain the administration.

Judging from the amount of space a great many fusion papers are devoting to Judge Norris, Judge Robinson hasn't such a walk-away as they glibly splutter about, and that great mossbroke of all fusionists, Wilbur F. Bryant of Hartington, comes out and presents a list of the following questions to Judge Norris:

1. Do you believe in a protective tariff?
2. Do you believe in a tariff for revenue only?
3. Do you believe in free trade?
4. Do you believe in the free, unlimited and independent coinage of both gold and silver, at a ratio of 16 to 1?
5. Do you believe that gold only should be the measure or standard of money values in the United States?
6. Do you believe in an issue of paper money by the United States government redeemable only in revenue?
7. Do you believe in prohibition?
8. Do you believe in high whiskey?
9. Do you believe in free whiskey?
10. Do you stand on the state platform which declares for a gold standard?
11. Do you stand on your district platform, which is astraddle on the money question?

Sincerely, WILBUR F. BRYANT.

Now unholy Wilbur, the mud snoker of Cedar, and the laughing stock of the fusion outfit of the state—next to Bundeall, had better have Judge Robinson answer the above questions. When he has done so it will be due time for Judge Norris to do so if he sees fit, and he can do it; but we defy Judge Robinson to do so. Wilbur belongs to the anti-deluvian age, and he won't do now.

The Omaha Bee makes a good point when it reminds the critics and the yellow journals that they were all in a state of frenzy when they were urging the president to prompt action in going to Cuba and cleaning out the Spaniards. They wanted to get our army right into Havana, during the rainy season, next day after war was declared. They had no regard for the consequences which would come from sending an army, utterly unprepared for the vicissitudes of war in a deadly climate. They wanted then to embarrass the president, and that is their chief desire now. The people will not fail to discover their unholy political purposes before the campaign is over.—Fremont Tribune.

The fight in this congressional district is squarely between McKinley republicanism and free trade democracy. The issue is clear cut and cannot be avoided. Any man who votes for W. F. Norris indorses the present administration. Any man who votes for John S. Robinson votes to repudiate the present administration and indorses the times we had during Grover Cleveland's reign as president. Judge Robinson has always been a strong democrat and the fact that he sought the nomination on a free silver platform only adds another complication to his list.—Stanton Picket.

To be sure the sleek wire pullers have been buying their innings with the fusion regime, but the curtain will soon be drawn. The oily fellows have come to conventions without ever holding caucuses; the rank and file had nothing to say—they were not needed. It remained with the leaders of each ring of the triple alliance, some six or seven of each branch, to fix matters. They have done so to perfection, but they haven't fixed the voters yet. The day of reckoning is drawing very close. Mark our prediction.

Uncle Henry Miller, the father of populism in Wayne county, was bitterly against Fleek Hale for the fusion nomination for state senator, but he says he'll swallow the dose. How about you republicans, if there were any, who did not like the republican nominees for county attorney and congress. How do you like Uncle Henry's way of putting it? Don't you think you had better adopt his plan? If you do the fusionists will never carry Wayne county this time.

If the Stanton Register has any idea that Rosewater will "commit suicide" because of the election of Hitchcock of the World-Herald, he should let his mind rest. Dave Mercer will quietly lay Hitchcock away to rest and Mr. Rosewater will be in at the funeral. If the republican party in the state of Nebraska had given more heed to the warnings of the Bee in the past, Nebraska would not today be in control of the popocrats.

About the worst political treachery beard of for a long time, was when the fusion convention at Norfolk struck the knife into the ribs of Wm. M. Wright of this city, who had been promised the nomination for state senator. A leading democrat was heard to say since that they didn't care a continental, they proposed to nominate a democrat if they could. It must be a tough dose for Uncle Henry Miller and others.

The populists' organs of Nebraska that are fighting the Omaha stock yards company and supporting William A. Poynter for governor are merely doing exhibition turns in consistent inconsistency. And that's a populist act.—State Journal.

As the war investigation continues the contemptibleness of the yellow journals becomes more and more in evidence. By and by they will be compelled to swallow their doggerel in uncomfortable doses.

The Tekamah Burtonian issued a large and handsome edition last week containing a write-up of Bart county and many of her prominent citizens. The edition contained many fine illustrations.

One Minute Cough cure surprises people by its quick cures, and children may take it in large quantities without the least danger. It has won for itself the best reputation of any preparation used today for colds, croup, tickling in the throat, or obstinate coughs. Orth.

Branding a man populist, democrat or republican does not change his moral nature. This political organization in any state which attains a position of such domination that a nomination to office means an election will always most attract and best serve those men who seek office for a livelihood. Where the majority is so large that any nominee can be elected the quality of nominees declines in ability and integrity; and results soon achieve places where they plunder the public. Any party which attains a very large majority in any state is unfortunate because that party is sure to soon find assaults at its head; and mediocrity and knavishness directing its affairs toward certain merited defeat. All history verifies the statement that crime is non-partisan. The majority in each party in the United States is undoubtedly inclined to honesty and fair play. (Some leaders to each party, however, have been convicted of rottenness in office. But that does not make all members of all parties in the United States corrupt. There is no politics in larceny.—Conservative.

Judge Baker sent Bartley to the pen and the republican refused to nominate him for governor. Why didn't they endorse his work by nominating him?—Stanton Register.

The republicans desired to keep Judge Baker on the bench, because he is an able and honest Judge, as the Register practically admits, and he will be needed to fix a number of the fusion reformers(?) as soon as the republicans get control of the state house.

The Herald is as nearly correct when it states that the howl of the fusionists for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 has as much to do with lowering the price of wheat this fall as the fusionists papers are when they proclaim that the low price is free to the fact that there is no free coinage of silver.

POLITICAL POINTS.

Col. Roosevelt couldn't run at Santiago but if the republicans nominate him for Governor of New York, he will make one of the greatest runs on record.

Poynter is quite a stepper, but he wobbles on important issues, hence, he makes slow time and will be several lengths behind in the finish of the gubernatorial race.

Alger seemed to be all right with the grand army veterans at Indianapolis at the National G. A. R. encampment. But of course, the average fusionist will fail to see the point.

Judge Robinson will be obliged to remain in Nebraska. It won't do to send him to congress, for between him and Allen, owing to their conversational powers, they would knock out all chance for congress to transact business.

Judge W. F. Norris was nominated by the Republicans of this district for congress. He didn't have to use underhanded work to get the nomination either. He received it unsolicited. He is an honest man and will do what is right and just if elected.—Pierce Call.

When you think about the great(?) legal talent of one, Attorney General Smythe, who prosecuted Bartley and Moore, it should fill the average voter with that tired feeling, and cause him to resolve to vote for ex-district judge N. D. Jackson, who is a lawyer of ability and a man of integrity.

Judge Robinson will discover that he entered the warmest race he ever ran in, before the campaign is over, and there'll be mourning among the fusionists for the despicable manner in which they shelved Congressman Maxwell. The people have a way of rebuking leaders who get too gay.

We can't help but think that the democrat committee adopted the wrong course to promote harmony in the silver ranks. Cedar county belonged to the silver forces by over 300 votes, but they have made the republicans a present of a large percentage of the great majority.—Cedar County News.

When the contest in the second congressional district of Nebraska is over, Hitchcock of the World-Herald will know how it feels to be "whipped to a stand still." Dave Mercer will perform the knock-out in a fashion that will give the fake factory a great opportunity for writing up three column display heads.

The republican state central committee of Kansas has the names of 2,289 men who voted for Bryan in 1896 who have publicly renounced their allegiance to the free silver cause and will vote with the party of progress and prosperity. "These men, of course," adds the Nebraska State Journal, "constitute a fraction of the number in Kansas who will quietly change their political status with the coming election."—Sioux City Journal.

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs, and colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles of this great medicine, and have the satisfaction of knowing that it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, bronchitis, hoarseness and all diseases of the throat, chest and lungs are surely cured by it. Call on R. W. Wilkins & Co., druggists, and get a trial bottle free. Regular size 50c, and $1. Every bottle guaranteed, or price refunded.

UNLIMITED POSSIBILITIES.

Referring to the exhibit made by the industrial census of the American Protective Tariff League, the Popoka Capital says:

The American Economist, organ of the American Protective Tariff League and a very useful and sensible paper, always teaching the country facts and common sense, has made a valuable business census to show the change in conditions since the '93 election.

After quoting the Economist's summary of census results the Capital adds:

Such dry, terrestrial facts as these set as a heavy fall on the metaphysical kite flying of the Free-Traders. Their legs have never been fast enough to keep the Free-Trade kite from being jagged and mutilated by the hard facts along the high way of human experience.

Nevertheless the Free-Trade kite is still in the air; a little wobbly and uncertain in its flight, but sure, still in the air. In proof whereof witness the following from the Fort Madison, Iowa, Democrat:

"Protection has filled our country with tramps, suicides, insanity; filled our almshouses and prisons; has starved to a lingering death millions of our men, women and children.

Next to the destruction of half the natural money value of all our real estate and all the products of labor, by the demoralization of one of the precious metals, the "Protection" Tariff is the greatest crime of civilization.

If any difficulty is experienced in understanding how two such diametrical, if opposite views of the same subject can be entertained in the same general section, it must be remembered that everything is possible in a free country. Still beyond that possibility is the infinite scope and range of folly inherent in the combination of Free-Trade and Free-Silver. There is really no limit to the capacity for unique absurdity that resides in a brain capable of cherishing both of these doctrines at one and the same time.—American Economist.

Modern Woodmen Day at Omaha.

Preparations have been well nigh completed by the head camp of Modern Woodmen of America for a great celebration the Trans-Mississippi Exposition grounds on Woodmen Day, Thursday, September 22. A joint committee of the Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs camps is assisting in the work of arranging the details and the event will undoubtedly be an epoch in the history of Woodcraft.

Among the features of the program for the day will be speech-making, a parade, competitive drill and fireworks. In the forenoon exercises will be held in the auditorium. Addresses of welcome will be made by President Watlins on behalf of the Exposition association and by Governor Silas A. Holcomb on behalf of the state of Nebraska. Director A. R. Talbot and Supreme Oracle Mrs. Watts of the Royal Neighbors will respond, and Head Consul Northcutt will also make an address.

After the speech-making there will be a grand parade of Foresters, followed by a competitive drill for which the head camp will offer attractive prizes. In the evening there will be a brilliant display of fireworks. The set pieces will include fire portraits of Head Consul Northcutt and Head Clerk Hawes of the Modern Woodmen, and Supreme Oracle Mrs. Watts of the Royal Neighbors. Emblems of both societies will also be shown in fire.

Neighbors of the Modern Woodmen and of the Royal Neighbors in all parts of the country are expected to take advantage in large numbers of the low railroad rates granted for Woodmen Day, to visit what is conceded to be one of the grandest of the world's great exhibitions.

GETTING READY

Every expectant mother has a trying ordeal to face. If she does not get ready for it, there is no telling what may happen. Child-birth is full of uncertainties if Nature is not given proper assistance.

is the best help you can use at this time. It is a liniment, and when regularly applied several months before baby comes, it makes the advent easy and nearly painless. It relieves and prevents "morning sickness," relaxes the overstrained muscles, relieves the distended feeling, shortens labor, makes recovery rapid and certain without any dangerous after-effects. Mother's Friend is good for only one purpose, viz.: to relieve motherhood of danger and pain.

CHAPTER V.

Mr. William Moray, knocking at the door of his brother's lodgings, at about eight o'clock the same evening, is received by Mrs. Timson with a face of such portentous gravity that he is fain to observe—"Anything the matter?" he inquires, curiously.

"Matter enough," is the answer. "I've kept a lodging house now, on and off, for the last two-and-thirty year, but never in all my borned days did I have such a disagreeable night on my premises as took place here last night."

Then she tells him the whole story, winding up with the statement that Delia is left her husband. Almost before she finishes Mr. Moray has reached the third landing. He turns the handle of his brother's door and walks in. James is seated at the table, only partially sober, with his head bowed down upon his outstretched arms.

"Hullo!" exclaims William Moray, "whar, what's the matter now, Jim? The old woman down stairs has been giving me a garbled account of your wife leaving away from you—but it isn't true, hardly."

"Cursed if I know," rejoins the other. "She ain't here—that's very certain."

"How did it happen? Tell me all about it."

"I don't know how it happened. She aggravated me to that extent last night that she drove me to take a drop more than was good for me, I suppose, and I didn't wake till this mornin', and then she had been gone for hours—so the old cat tells me."

"Can't you intend to remain away?"

"She ain't here, I'm sure! I think she threatened me with something of the kind last night. Didn't you?"

"Yes, but I never imagined she was in earnest. Women say so many things that don't mean when they are in a passion. She's gone off, probably, to try and frighten you. She's sure to come back again. If she only to see the child—"

"If she'll see the child with her mother and every one of his clothes and all her own, besides every shilling we had in the house. It's cruel of her," says James, refusing into the fearful state which often succeeds drunkenness, "to leave me all alone here without a blessed coin in my pocket, and no one to see after me. I didn't think she'd do that."

William Moray whistles suggestively.

"Listen to me, Jim," he then says, "I want to speak seriously to you. Tell me the truth. Is that woman your wife or not?"

"Of course she's my wife!"

"I see no 'twice comes' in that. After that terrible scrape she got into at Glasgow you disappeared altogether from society, and never communicated with your family for four or five years. Then you suddenly turn up in London, and I find you living with a lady who you say is married to you, but who is not in the position for one of our standing usually choose their wives."

"Well! how could I help it?" grumbles James. "I couldn't get any employment after that cursed business in Glasgow, and Delia can make money, and how are we to live here? You wouldn't have me starve, would you? or break stones? If the governor hadn't got me a steady job, I'm forgiving, and cut me out of his will. I suppose we should have been living like other people. But anyway we were married fast enough at Chilton, in Berkshire, and we've got the certificate of it—at least, Delia has, for I suppose the judge has taken it with her."

"Do you think she can have lost anything of where we took the boy last night, and carried him off in consequence?"

"How can I tell? These women have bars all round, in my experience."

"Because that is rather an important matter to decide. You see, the case is, James, you can't afford to part with this woman just yet, and you must be sure."

"How do you mean?"

"Well, to speak plainly, you won't support yourself, and I can't support you. Therefore you must use every possible means to make her come back to you."

"But she ain't your wife, is she?"

"Well, James, you can't make her. She can't suppose she's got any money to support herself, and she knows how ill I am, that I'm unable to do any work or to stand any fatigue; and if she stays away and you won't make me an allowance, I shall starve or go to the workhouse, for there's nothing else left for me."

"Hush! don't talk such nonsense," interrupts his brother, authoritatively. "We must force Mrs. Moray to return to you, and we must do it by means of the child."

"But she's got the child."

"She has no claim to him. I think you told me he was seven years old on his birthday. You can legally take him from her again."

"But then I shall have to support him—and how am I to support myself?"

"I do wish you would bear me to the end, and not keep on interrupting so. The first thing we must do is to find out your wife's present address. That is easily accomplished by having her follow her mother from the theater. Then you must claim and take away the child. The mother is certain to follow it."

"But suppose she doesn't follow it?"

"Then I am prepared to carry out what I proposed to you last night, though I cannot say that my wife fell in very readily with my views. She considers the boy too plain. And I am sure she would never consent to receive him if she knew his mother was an actress, or even alive. I have represented him to her, therefore, as a worthless child of hers who has been abandoned and as such has no claim on her own side, and she has consented to my approaching the actress. But this very premature to talk of these things. Your wife appears round of the child, and I believe you have only to claim him as a common child of six years."

"Well, what am I to do till she comes back? She's taken all the money she had with her, and she'll draw her salary tomorrow evening, but not a cursed halfpenny of it shall I see. It's cursed of her to leave a fellow in such a plight!"

"Here! hold up, man! Don't snivel. I am going to settle the matter for you this week, and there's a sovereign to go on my word. I think your intentions are decided, and as such has no claim on her own side, and she has consented to my approaching the actress. But this very premature to talk of these things. Your wife appears round of the child, and I believe you have only to claim him as a common child of six years."

POINT WITH PRIDE.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY HAS OCCASION TO FEEL PROUD.

Never has a Party Had Better Reason to Parade Its Achievements—The Truth as to Army Mortality—McKinley Has Saved $500,000,000.

In the good old days when the assembling of a Republican convention was a sure prelude to the election of every one of the candidates nominated by it, the burden of the party platform invariably was, "We point with pride." The Democratic class that was predicted from the theater last night to find him gone from my lodgings—taken away—stolen—and not a word even to let me know where he is.

You came home from where?" demanded the wife of Mr. Moray, horrified.

"From the theater last night," replied the Corinthus. "I am an actress, I support myself and Willy, and have supported my husband for years past by my own labor. It is hard that the only regular he can make me is to steal my child, and that his wife is left to starve in the 'slavery'."

"William!" cried Mrs. Moray from the open door.

She has drawn her purple satin skirts closer around her as the awful truth of Delia's profession is made patent to her sensitive understanding, and now she summons her husband at once to her aid. He looks at her, and then at the child, and he is not to be true. "The mother of the child, sitting at her luncheon table, and the wife of her husband's brother, an actress, and actually standing within a few yards of her. If Mrs. Moray were good at fainting, which she is not, she would certainly faint at this moment. But she grows red as if angry in the face, and she says, "William!" at the top of her voice, and in another moment William Moray answers the summons.

GREAT DEMAND FOR PENNIES.

Philadelphia Mint Turns Out 4,000,000 a Month.

The most useful and hard-working member of the coin family consists of 45 per cent. of copper and 5 per cent. tin and zinc, and bears on its face the legend "one cent." It doesn't require a person of advanced age or long memory to recall the time when the humble coin was practically unknown west of the Mississippi. Now its use is well-nigh universal, and the demand for it is increasing so rapidly that the Philadelphia mint is compelled to turn out 1,000,000 pieces at the rate of nearly 4,000,000 per month to keep up the supply.

Two recent devices have been largely responsible for the increased use of our only copper coin. One is the penny-die slot machine, which has spread over the land like the locusts of Egypt within the past two or three years. A single automatic machine company takes in 500,000 pennies a day. As there isn't a crossroads village in the country that hasn't a chewing-gum, kineoscope, music or weighing machine operated in this way, the number of coins required to keep them all going is enormous. The other invention responsible for the rise of the cent is the "bargain counter." The craze for 40-cent and 90-cent bargain makes work for a lot of pennies.

A sub-treasury official says: "All through the summer the pennies accumulate on our hands, but when cold weather comes and the children get back to school and retail trade revives there is a great demand for them. The holidays demand a lot of pennies, and with the approach of Christmas our cent pile melts away amazingly. There is no better indication of lively trade conditions than the cent. During periods of dullness they always accumulate on our hands, and when trade revives they begin to circulate rapidly again." The figures of distribution kept by the mint are interesting as showing the localities where pennies are most in use. Last year the demand was greatest from Pennsylvania, which took over 13,000,000 of them. New York was the second largest customer, adding 10,000,000 to her supply.—Philadelphia Press.

A Bit of History.

The term, "middle of the road" Populists, had its origin in Williamson County, Texas. The year 1892 was the first the Populists, or third party, as it was then called, became a factor in Texas politics. In that year William Shaw, of Georgetown, conceived the notion of becoming a candidate for Justice of the Peace. "Uncle Billy" as he was called, avoided a direct expression of opinion concerning the new party, but in the heat of the canvass a mass meeting was called, at which the candidates were expected to declare themselves. Uncle Billy indirectly attended the meeting, and as it was drawing to a close was called to the platform. He made a few brief non-committal remarks, but some secret enemy called: "What's your politics?" This was the fated question that he had wished to avoid, but there was no escape now, so, facing the people, he said: "Gentlemen, you will always find Uncle Billy in the middle of the road." His happy evasion pleased the people, and he was triumphantly elected as the middle of the roader. When the St. Louis Populist convention nominated Bryan, Marlow Williams, editor of a Populist paper in Georgetown, bolted the action of his party, and through his paper advocated the calling of a convention and the naming of another candidate, who would be, as he expressed it, "like Uncle Billy Shaw, strictly in the middle of the road." The sobriquet as applied by Williams was taken up by the press and very quickly became a well-defined term in current politics.

Don't do things to-day so you'll have to do them over to-morrow.

or were in a dying condition. But the official figures do not differ from those of the best kept camps, where 75,000 men assembled and where the most of them remained for months. The mortality lists of the various corps are published daily. There the truth will be found. Something quite different is spread abroad in the pages of Democratic papers. They deal in glibly rhetoric for political effect. They minimize or omit favorable news from the army and catch at every exaggeration that drifts about. Their purpose is not to benefit the soldiers, but to tear down a cabinet and blacken an administration.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Protection and Expansion.

Some mugwump journals have insisted that the policy of expansion would be an abandonment of the protection principle. This assumption is based on ignorance of the protection principle and a misunderstanding of the McKinley and Dingley laws.

Colonel Albert Clarke, Chairman of the House Committee on Ways and Means in the Massachusetts Legislature and Secretary of the Home Market Club of Boston, in a recent interview explained why there can be no conflict between the historic American policy of protection and whatever annexation policy recent events or future events may lead to. Protection discriminates between the trade which is profitable to our people as a whole and that which is profitable chiefly to importers while free trade admits all things alike. This would not be changed if we became a world power. It would not be changed if we should annex the Philippines, Cuba, Porto Rico and San Domingo, France, Germany and Russia are world powers, and yet they all maintain a protective policy. Great Britain is the only world power which has a free trade policy, and yet all of her self-governing colonies except one are strongly protectionists.

Colonel Clarke holds that our interests in China may run parallel with those of other commercial nations. But this will not mean free trade or discrimination from any foreign power as to the fiscal policy of this country. The United States has like Great Britain, an increasing trade with China; but our trade has increased faster than that of Great Britain. The fact that England is a free trade country and the United States a protection country does not militate against us in foreign markets. As for reciprocity, Colonel Clarke says there is no danger that reciprocal arrangements will affect our relations with other countries. Reciprocity is between nations as a question of their respective interests.

Under the Dingley law half of our imports are admitted free of duty. Protection admits tea and coffee free because we do not and cannot produce them. Great Britain taxes them because they yield a large revenue. The fact that we annex of come into possession of coffee-growing countries will not change the status of our laws governing the importation at all. We tax imported wheat, wool and tin plate because we produce all of these articles, and we do not intend that other nations shall share our market without paying for it. A free trade policy would admit competing goods free. This would cripple the home market; would sacrifice farmers and home manufacturers in the interest of foreign manufacturers and ship owners. There will be no call for a change in this particular. We have always cherished all the trade that will profit our people as a whole, foreign as well as domestic. The fact that Cuba will become a self-governing colony or a republic under our protection will not change the principle. The expansion policy will be a protection policy.

His Staff and Support.

McKinley Saves $500,000,000.

The more fully the facts are developed the larger becomes the measure of praise due President McKinley for resolutely setting his judgment against the recognition of the Republic of Cuba. It cost a great effort for him to maintain the peace, but so well was he accomplished by so doing. Spain had charged against Cuba the great bulk of the cost of the Ten Years' War, and of the last one up to our intervention, a large amount of guaranteed bonds, and another huge sum of uncollected revenue. Grouping all forms of indebtedness growing out of mismanagement in Cuba during the past twenty years, the aggregate of bonds, interest past due, and other obligations is found to exceed $500,000,000. President McKinley declared that a recognition of the Republic would probably involve the Cuban debt; the annexation of the island certainly would do so. Spain ceded the United States the largest of this debt in terms of peace. She had otherwise become reconciled to the inevitable loss of Cuba, but she was unwilling to lose the island and pay its debts herself. No wonder Europe said Spain would have money by letting her colonies go—Saturday Evening Post.

What is Causing Good Times.

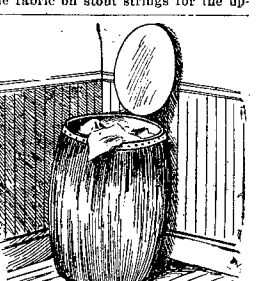

American manufacturers under protection not only have the home markets, but very largely are getting the terms of peace. They had otherwise become reconciled to the inevitable loss of Cuba, but she was unwilling to lose the island and pay its debts herself. No wonder Europe said Spain would have money by letting her colonies go—Saturday Evening Post.

THE HOUSEHOLD

For Soiled Clothes.

A place for soiled clothes may be made from a barrel. Sugar barrels are best because they are strong and well made. Have a cover made of wood and hinge to the barrel, then line the barrel and cover or any material preferred, and tack it securely in several places. For the cover select some strong, serviceable goods. Cover the top drawing the goods tight and tack securely on the under surface four inches from the rim and finish with a circular piece of lining to hide the raw edges. Gather the fabric on stout strings for the upper and lower edges and tack securely all around the top and bottom of the barrel, allowing enough fullness to give a fluted effect.

Cooking Meat.

A thick joint takes longer to cook than a thin one of the same weight. Meat with bone cooks more quickly than meat without. Put the meat on a hot dish and keep it hot while you make the gravy. Pour away the dripping into a clean basin. Pour a sufficient quantity of hot water or stock into the dripping tin. Add pepper and salt and a dredge of flour and boil up.

Caramel Ice Cream.

Take three pounds of dark brown sugar, stir in an iron saucepan over a brisk fire until it is liquid, add to this a pint of boiling milk, stirring until it curdles, strain off the liquid, put it aside to cool. When cold add this liquid to a gallon of cream or unsweetened custard, which it will both sweeten and flavor. It improves this ice cream to add a pound of almonds blanched and shredded fine when it is nearly frozen.

Blackberry Cordial.

Take any quantity of berries, wash and strain through a cloth. To quart of juice and three cents' worth of ground mace, three cents' worth of cloves and allspice mixed, three quarters pint of water, one pound of sugar. Boil slowly one hour; then add one quart brandy (or good whisky) to two quarts of juice. Let partly cool. Bottle and cork tight, but need not seal.

Duchesse Potatoes.

Blend with two cups of potatoes freshly boiled in salted water and beaten with a fork until light one-fourth their bulk in dry grated cheese and the same amount of peanut flour, add the yolk of an egg and a tablespoonful of flour. Form into small cakes, dollar size, place on a buttered tin brush with melted butter and toast a light brown in a hot oven.

Peach Dumplings.

Roll good puff paste into rounds six inches across. Shape the rounds into cups by pinching up the edges. Set the cups in a baking pan and put in each a big, ripe peach on the seed; also, a generous quantity of sugar and butter. If you like things rich, use sweet cake dough instead of puff paste. Cook the same time as biscuit.

To Prepare Tomatoes.

Every housewife knows that when a great pan of tomatoes must be skinned for stewing or canning it is the work of a few minutes only to pour scalding water over them, then cool them, when the skins will slip from them like magic. The same plan has been tried with peaches.

Nursery Furnishings.

Bread and milk tables are among the new nursery furnishings that commend themselves by reason of their practicality. They come in oak or enameled wood, and consist of a child's low table with vis-a-vis seats, the three pieces held together at the bottom by a wood rail.

Banana Croquettes.

Strip the skins from four bananas, cut in halves crosswise, make straight on ends, roll in powdered sugar, pour over the juice of three lemons and let stand covered in cold place for an hour. Dip in egg, then in bread crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Feed Cantaloupe.

Cut the melon pulp in uniform pieces, sprinkle lightly with a tablespoonful of sugar and saltspoonful each of salt and cinnamon sifted together, pack in freezer can, surround with ice and salt and let stand an hour.

How We Feel Pain.

It has lately been maintained by some French physiologists that the feeling of pain is a special sensation, apart from those of touch, sight, etc., and transmitted to the brain by a special set of nerves. When a boy falls and hurts his head, according to this view, he has two sensations, one of contact with the ground transmitted to the brain by the ordinary nerves, and one of pain due to the injury received, transmitted by the pain nerves. These sensations may not even reach the brain at the same time; in fact, the pain usually gets there later.

During the siege of Paris no fewer than 22,000,000 letters sailed out of the city in fifty-four balloons, dispatched between the 19th of September, 1870, and the 28th of January, 1871.

How Old She Looks

Poor clothes cannot make you look old. Even pale cheeks won't do it. Your household cares may be heavy and disappointments may be deep, but they cannot make you look old.

One thing does it and never fails.

It is impossible to look young with the color of seventy years in your hair.

Ajex's Hair Vigor

permanently postpones the tell-tale signs of age. Used according to directions it gradually brings back the color of youth. At fifty your hair may look as it did at fifteen. It thickens the hair also; stops it from falling out; and cleanses the scalp from dandruff. Shall we send you our book on the Hair and its Diseases?

The Best Advice Free. If you do not obtain all the benefits you expect from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it. Probably there is some difficulty with your general system which we will gladly treat.

CONSTIPATION

"I have gone 14 days at a time without a movement of the bowels, not being able to move them except by using hot water injections. Chronic constipation for seven years placed me in a terrible condition during that time I did everything I could but never found any relief, such as my case until I began using CASCOREX. I now have from one to three passages a day, and if I was rich I would give $100.00 for each movement. It is such a relief."

J. W. TOWER, Boston, Mass.

A remarkable act of pluck and bravery on the part of one of the gentler sex was displayed at Wissahickon station on the Reading Railway. A boy of young ladies, who were out on a chaste picnic from West Philadelphia, were waiting for a trolley car to convey them to Norristown. A man much the worse for liquor came walking along the station platform and just as a train was approaching attempted to cross the tracks. One of the young ladies saw his danger and quicker than a flash she jumped on the track, seized the unfortunate man by the nape of the neck and threw him out of harm's way.

The next moment the train rushed past. All the girls and the rescued victim got aboard the trolley car, and before they reached Roxborough the man sobbed up sufficiently to realize the peril he had been in, and to show his gratitude offered to marry the girl at sight. She, however, declined the plea that it was the first offer she had ever had.—Philadelphia Record.

The Exception.
She—a burned child dreads the fire. It is said.
He—Oh, I don't know; the majority of widows marry again.

stock, and here are the Durham cattle and the Gordon setters, and the high stepping steeds, by pawing and neighing, the only language they can speak, asking for harness or saddle and a short turn down the road. Then we go back to the house, and you get me in the right light, and show me the Kennets and the Biersquads on the wall, and take me into the music room and show me the bird cages, the canaries in the bay window answering the robins in the tree tops. Thank you, I never enjoyed myself more in the same length of time. Now, why do we do this with the characters of others, and show the bloom and the music and the bright fountains? No, we say: "Come along and let me show you that man's character. Here is a green scummed frog pond, and there's a fishy smell, and a green under that hedge; there must be a black snake. Come and let us for an hour or two regale ourselves with the nuisances."

Cover Up the Faults.
Oh, my friends, better cover up the faults and extol the virtues, and this habit once established of universal friendliness will become as easy as it is for a syringe to flood the air with sweetness, as easy as a quill to feather on the season for a quill, or a white pen from the mass of ink we hear something bad about somebody whom we always supposed to be good, take out your lead pencil and say: "Let me see!" Before I accept that baleful story against that man's character I will take off from 25 per cent for the habit of exaggeration which belongs to the man who first told the story; then I will take off 25 per cent for the additions which the spirit of gossip in every community has put upon the original story; then I will take off 25 per cent from the fact that the man who created the story is a liar, and I have taken off 75 per cent. But I have not heard his side of the story at all, and for that reason I take off the remaining 25 per cent. Excuse me, sir, I don't believe a word of it."

Our Best Friends.
The best friends we have ever had appeared at some emergency when we were especially embarrassed. There have been times in my life when unjust assault multiplied my friends, as near as I could calculate, about fifty a minute. You are bound to some people by many cords that neither time nor eternity can break, and I will warrant that many of the cords were twisted by lips unacquainted. Human nature was shipwrecked about fifty-nine centuries ago, the captain of that craft, our Adam, and his first mate running the famous cargo around on a snag in the river Hubbleck. But there was at least one good trait of human nature that waded safely ashore from that shipwreck, and that is the disposition to take the part of those unfairly dealt with. When it is thoroughly demonstrated that some one is being persecuted, although at the start slandering tongues were busy enough, do not be so finally galled around as the honeybees on a trellis of bruised honeysuckles.

If when set upon by the furies you can have grace enough to keep your mouth shut and preserve your equanimity and let others fight your battles, you will find plenty of affairs to do with a whole crew of allies. Had not the world given to Christ on his arrival at Palestine a very cold shoulder, there would not have been one-half as many angels chanting glory out of the hymnbooks of the sky, bound in black bills of midnight. Had it not been for the heavy and the light and the cross Christ would not have been the admired and loved of more people than any being who ever touched foot on either the eastern or western hemisphere. Instead therefore of giving up in despair because you have enemies rejoice in the fact that they rally for you the most helpful and energetic of admirers. In other words, there is no virtue that can hinder my text from coming true. "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly."

The Poise of the Head.
Now, supposing that you have a divine revelation got toward God and humanity, and you start out on your life's journey. "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly." Fulfill this by all forms of appropriate salutation. Have you noticed that the head is so poised that the easiest thing on earth is to be good and courteous, and selfish, and at once additional wrong done to the world on another layer on the wall of their exclusiveness and another bolt to the door that shuts them out from sympathy with the world? They get cheated out of $1,000 or misinterpreted or disappointed or betrayed, and they get the wall and faster goes another bolt, not realizing that they lock others out they lock themselves in, and some day they wake up to find themselves imprisoned in a dastardly habit. No friends to others, others are no friends to them.

Oceanic Tides of God's Grace.
Beware you begin to show yourself friendly you must be friendly to all, and heart right with God and man, and the grace will become easy. You may by your own resolution get your nature into a semblance of this virtue, but the grace of God can riverly lift you into it, sailing on the silver Thames two vessels abreast. The owners of one got 100 horses and pulled on the grounded ship and pulled it to pieces. The owners of the other grounded vessel waited till the tides came in and easily floated the ship out of all trouble. So we may pull and haul at our grounded human nature and try to get it into better condition, but there is no getting like the oceanic tides of God's uplifting grace. If, when under the flash of the Holy Ghost, we see our own foibles and defects and depravities, we will be very lenient and very easy with others. We will look into their characters for things commendatory and not condemnatory. If you would rub your own eye a little more vigorously, you would find a mote in it, the extraction of which would keep you so busy you would not have much time to shoulder your burden and go forth to spit on the beam in your neighbor's eye. In a Christian spirit keep exploring the characters of those you meet, and I am sure you will find something in them fit for a foundation of friendliness.

You invite me to come to your country seat and spend a few days. Thank you! I arrive about noon of a beautiful summer day. What do you do? As soon as I arrive you take me out under the shadow of the great elms. You take me down to the artificial lake, the spotted trout floating in and out among the white pillars of the pond lilies. You take me to the stalls and kennels where you keep your fine

Why not plant along the paths of others, the brightness instead of the gloom, to not prosperly misfortune. If you must be so set at naught, be blacked and not a Jeremiah. A father asked his little daughter, "Mary, why is it that everybody loves you?" She answered, "I don't know, unless it is because I love everybody." "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly."

The Spirit of Sacrifice.
We want something like that spirit of sacrifice for others which was seen in the English channel, where in the storm a boat containing three men was upset, and all three were in the water struggling for their lives. A boat came to their relief, and a rope was thrown to one of them, and he refused to take it, saying: "First I will give it to Tom. He is just ready to go down. I can last some time longer." A man like that, be he sailor or landsman, be he in upper ranks of society or lower ranks, will always have plenty of friends. "Who are the friends of God?" We must be the friends of God if we want him to be our friend. We cannot treat Christ badly all our lives and expect him to treat us lovingly. I was reading of a sea fight in which Lord Nelson captured a French officer, and when the French officer offered Lord Nelson his hand, Nelson replied: "First give me your sword, and then give me your hand." Surrender of our resistance to God must precede God's proffer of pardon to us. Repentance before forgiveness. You must give up your rebellious sword before you can get a grasp of the divine hand.

Improvements in Flying Machines.
Inventors are plenty who can make a machine that will fly in the air, but there has succeeded in making an apparatus that will guide it through the many currents of air. In this respect Hostetter's Stomach Bitters acts as a safe guide by curing indigestion, liver and blood diseases, giving a good appetite and a strong constitution.

Oldest English Business.
Probably the oldest business in England is an ancient linen drapery concern which has been in existence since 1600. Under the title of the Sign of the Crowne, the industry has been carried on in the old town of Bedford, Bedfordshire, upward of 300 years, for more than half of which time it has been in the hands of a single family in an almost direct line. Since 1750 this ancient drapery shop has been under the control of Cator & Sons, who occupy the original building.

Handsome Pictures.
Four Plaques of American Game Within the Reach of All.
Probably at no time in the world's history has as much attention been paid to the interior decoration of homes as at present. No home, no matter how humble, is without its handwork that helps to beautify the apartments and make the surroundings more cheerful. The taste of the American people has kept pace with the age, and almost every day brings forth something new in the way of a picture, a drapery, a piece of furniture or other form of mural decoration. One of the latest of these has been given to the world by the celebrated artist, Muville, in a series of four handsome porcelain game plaques. Not for years has any thing so handsome been in the way of a picture. The subjects represented by these plaques are American wild ducks, American pheasants, American quail and English snipe. They are handsome paintings and are especially designed for hanging on dining room walls, though their richness and beauty entitles them to a place in the parlors of any home. These original plaques have been purchased at a cost of $50,000 by J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., manufacturers of the celebrated Elastic Starch, and in order to enable their numerous customers to become possessors of these handsome pictures, they have had them reproduced by a special process, in all the rich colors and beauty of the original. They are finished on heavy cardboard, pressed and embossed in the shape of a plaque and trimmed with a heavy band of gold. They measure forty inches in length and are of such a nature as to require no reading matter or advertisement whatever.

Until Oct. 1 Messrs. J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co. propose to distribute these plaques free to their customers. Every purchaser of three ten-cent packages of Elastic Starch, either from your grocer, or by J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., is entitled to receive one of these handsome plaques free from their grocer. Old and new customers alike are entitled to the benefits of this offer. These plaques will not be sent through the mail, the only way to obtain them is by a return post card. Every grocery store in the country has Elastic Starch for sale. It is the oldest and best laundry starch on the market and is the most perfect cold process starch ever invented. It is the only starch made by men who thoroughly understand the laundry business. The only starch that will not injure the finest fabric. It has been the standard for a quarter of a century and as an evidence of how good it is twenty-two million packages were sold last year. Ask your dealer to show you the plaques and tell you about Elastic Starch. Accept no substitute. Beware that the cheap bolts place a short time only and should be taken advantage of without delay.

Selfishness.—Why are men crazed by misfortune, hopeless because of defeat, or so burdened with existence that they die by their own hands? They have lived for self, and when the props were knocked from under them, they fell.—Rev. J. K. Montgomery, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Expressions of Nature.—Acts are the language of nature. When let alone they are true to nature. As words express the inner, unseen exercises of thought, so the acts as the language of nature are the expressions, the visible images of the heart's—its exercises and states.—Dr. J. H. Hall, Newman, Ga.

The Universal Religion.—The partial in religion is giving way to the universal in religion, and the universal religion is to have its increasing number of teachers and is to build its churches, in which no man will be a stranger, and the gates thereof will not be closed by day.—Rev. J. Lloyd Jones, Chicago, Ill.

Consecration.—We consecrate a church; and we think that God, in some peculiar and special way, is there. We do not consecrate our homes, our offices, in such a way as to think that God just as really is there, and that in our business life we are in actual contact with him.—Rev. M. J. Savage, Unitarian, New York City.

Dangerous Experiment.—It is a dangerous experiment for men to reject Christ in this world with the hope of having a second chance after death. The way of salvation has been made plain and simple, and God is calling to men to repent of their sins and accept Jesus Christ as their savior.—Rev. P. C. Cromick, Methodist, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Treasure Trove.
Treasure trove interests everybody, says Andrew Lang in Longman's Magazine. Mr. Robinson tells of eleven crowns of gold set with precious stones found in 1888 by some Spanish peasants near Toledo. One of the crowns has the Gothic name of Suintilla, who reigned from 621 to 631. Who buried them? We shall never know. The brooch of Tara, Irish work of the seventh century, was picked up by a child on the seashore in 1858. It, without robbery, had been dropped it, by a king of the English kings was found in 1840 at Chard, where it had been laid in 1010! The ring of Ethelwulf of Wessex turned up at Lavestock on the coast. As to drawings, a friend of mine found one by an intimate friend of Michael Angelo, in a dirty little print shop, for half a crown. At Merton my friend Mr. Essoon found a treasure trove of old mezzotints, bequested in the attic over his college rooms. The letters of Warwick, the kingmaker, were discovered in a loft over a coach-house, by Mr. Maxwell Lyte. The magic crystal of King Lothaire, in the British museum, was sold by a curiosity dealer, inscription and all, for 10 francs. The museum paid $267.

It costs about $1,000 to build an electric car of the kind now in use in Paris.

MANY FEMALE ILLS RESULT FROM NEGLECT.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Ordinary Tasks May Produce Displacements That Threaten Women's Health.

Apparently trifling incidents in women's daily life frequently produce displacements of the womb. A slip on the stairs, lifting during menstruation, standing at a counter, running a sewing machine, or attending to the most ordinary tasks, may result in displacement, and a train of serious evils is started. The first indication of such trouble should be the signal for quick action. Don't let the condition become chronic through neglect or a mistaken idea that you can overcome it by exercise or leaving it alone.

More than a million women have regained health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice, and a few timely words from her will show you the right thing to do. This advice costs you nothing, but it may mean life or happiness or both.

Mrs. Mary Bennett, 314 Annie St., Bay City, Mich., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I can hardly find words with which to thank you for the good your remedies have done me. For nearly four years I suffered with weakness of the generative organs, continual backache, headache, sideache, and all the pains that accompany female weakness. A friend told my husband about your Vegetable Compound and he brought me home two bottles. After taking these I felt much better, but thought that I would write to you in regard to my case, and you do not know how thankful I am to you for your advice and for the benefit I have received from the use of your medicine. I write this letter for the good of my suffering sisters."

The above letter from Mrs. Bennett is the history of many women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

to use up clothes—rubbing them on a washboard, and washing them with harmful things. Unless you want to waste money, don't do either. Use Pearlline. Use Pearlline rightly, and there's no washboard needed. No rubbing to speak of. No wear. No hard work. As for the safety and utter harmlessness of Pearlline, let its twenty years of uninterrupted and constantly-growing success talk. Anything that hurts or weakens the clothes couldn't be used, year in and year out, by millions of careful women.

Beware of peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers who tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearlline." FALSE! Pearlline is never peddled; if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back.

Puzzled over the Horse.
Sandy McFadyen, a Forttashire farmer, had been spending an hour or two in the evening with a friend a couple of miles away. It was a moonlight night and Sandy, after partaking freely of his friend's hospitality, was riding quietly home across the sheep pastures on his "guld aud mair" when they came to an open ditch which the mare refused to cross. "Hobt awa, Maggie!" said the rider. "She wilsna dae. Ye manna just gang ower?" He turned back about a hundred yards wheeled round and gave the mare a touch of his whip. On she went at a brisker canter, but just as they reached the edge of the ditch she stopped dead, and shot Sandy clean over to the other side. Gathering himself up, Sandy looked his mare straight in the face and said: "Vera weel pitched, indeed, my lass. But hoo ye ye gaein' to get ower yerse!"—Pittsburg Dispatch.
