Hooray for the court house bonds, they did run! The farmers did it with their little ballots and Wayne is proud of it. The majority for the bonds was very decisive, showing that the citizens of Wayne county had come to know their needs and what was for their best interests. As a general thing, everything good comes when republicans are victorious. With a fine new court house, electric lights, and a handsome church building such as the Presbyterians are building, the citizens of Wayne and the county have a right to feel pretty good, and they do.

PUBLIC SCALES.

The question of public scales is again being agitated, and deservedly too, by the farmers tributary to Wayne. If a public scale system was in effect in this city a vast amount of trade that does not now come to Wayne because some of the farmers believe they do not get fair treatment, would come here. It would at least do away with a great deal of the distrust felt by the producers and create a much friendlier feeling between the people in the country and the business men of Wayne. It's a good time to discuss the matter at least.

HOT EDITORIALS.

From the Wayne Herald: Judge Norris has it all his own way so far as Robinson is concerned in the congressional race.

Northrop is gaining rapidly and to all appearances will be elected county attorney by a handsome majority.

The voters of Wayne county do not propose to be fooled this fall and the republican majorities will range from one to two hundred.

The farmers in this county are somewhat interested in having clean stockyard laws, that fair treatment may be accorded them? Hence they will give their votes to such men as Hayward Jno. R. Hayes, and Louis Smithberger.

Wouldn't they almost sink a cork?—Democrat.

Did you notice the cork sink, Walter, dear?

WEDDING BELLS.

(Cheban, Wash., Leader, Nov. 4.) Married, in Cheban, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 28th, 1898, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. Arthur H. Miller, and Miss Edith M. Hopkins. The ceremony was performed in an impressive manner by Rev. R. D. Osterhout of the M. E. church, Mrs. John Isenhart playing an appropriate wedding march. The bride who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hopkins, lately of Iowa, wore a gown of cream albatross, trimmed with lace and ribbons, carrying a bouquet of white roses and, and looked the ideally charming bride that she is. The handsome groom, tall, stately, dignified, popular, was appropriately dressed for the occasion.

Both are well known and experienced teachers, having taught in Iowa and Nebraska as well as on Lake Cheban. At the conclusion of the ceremony an elegant wedding supper was served, a generous share of the wedding cake coming to the Leader office the next morning.

The wedding was private, only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties being present. The happy young couple have taken up their residence in Lakeside, where they will be "at home" after Nov. 15th. The Leader extends sincere congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Miller and wishes them all the joy and happiness allotted to mortals here below.

DIED.

Chas. Bard, one of the well known and respected farmers of Logan precinct, died at his home on Tuesday evening after an illness of several days. The funeral will be held at Wakefield today.

Deceased has been a resident of Wayne county for thirteen years. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his untimely departure. The family have the sympathy of the community in their hour of bereavement.

FUSION DIDN'T FUSE!

Nebraska Republican.

BRYANISM DEFEATED!

Four Republican Congressmen Elected.

Burkett in the first district, Mercer in the second, Hinshaw in the fourth, and Adams in the fifth. Judge Norris made wonderful gains in the third, but Robinson carries it by a small majority.

The republicans carried Iowa by 60,000 and elect every republican congressman, South Dakota goes republican by 1,500, North Dakota 5,000, Indiana 20,000, Kansas 13,000, Michigan 70,000, California 10,000, Pennsylvania 125,000, Illinois 35,000, Delaware 2,000, New Jersey 10,000, Wisconsin 20,000, Massachusetts, 85,000, New York 20,000.

The results of the election insure a majority for the republicans in the U. S. senate, and a small but safe majority in the lower house.

Smithberger is Elected Representative by a Majority of 48.

The republicans have carried the legislature, having elected seventy-four members to the fusionists fifty-nine, insuring the election of a United States Senator to succeed W. V. Allen.

The republicans carried Iowa by 60,000 and elect every republican congressman, South Dakota goes republican by 1,500, North Dakota 5,000, Indiana 20,000, Kansas 13,000, Michigan 70,000, California 10,000, Pennsylvania 125,000, Illinois 35,000, Delaware 2,000, New Jersey 10,000, Wisconsin 20,000, Massachusetts, 85,000, New York 20,000.

The results of the election insure a majority for the republicans in the U. S. senate, and a small but safe majority in the lower house.

In Minnesota the republicans elected the congressmen and all state officers with the exception of governor, Lind, the fusion candidate being elected.

Allen, Hitchcock and Towne, went down in the wreck. Peace to their ashes.

Wayne County in Line.

Official returns give the republican ticket majorities averaging nearly 100.

The court house bonds carried by a vote of 757 to 363. See tabulated statement of the county vote on eighth page.

ELECTION NOTES.

And it snowed.

What's the matter with Northrop? He's all right.

The republican victory is something to feel good over.

Say Goldie, what was that you said about "Schmidtberger?"

A light vote was polled throughout the county, which reduced the republican majority somewhat; but it is a good victory.

Judge W. F. Norris should have received a better vote in Wayne than he did. However, he ran ahead of his ticket.

Wayne county did her share nobly for the representative, senatorial and congressional districts.

Incomplete returns at the time of going to press give Robinson about 600 majority over Norris.

The total vote polled in Wayne county was 1626, the normal vote is about 2,000; which indicates that about one-fifth of the voters did not go to the polls.

A. A. Welch delivered the last speech of the campaign Monday night at Hoskins and there was a large audience to hear him.

Hoskins is the banner republican precinct in the county. She's a hummer.

M. S. Moats, the republican nominee for commissioner of the Big Third district, was defeated by only 16 majority vote, and had Deer Creek and Hoskins republicans done their duty, he would have been elected by a handsome majority.

If the Democrat had howled just a little harder about the war record of the administration, it would have succeeded in defeating Ed Carroll for county commissioner.

Everybody knew that the Golden couldn't get a girl to stay, or one that would suit them if she would stay. That was the family worry from January to December—how to secure competent help. A few girls stayed the month out, some only half a month, the majority a week or less and there had been known cases where the girl left the day after she arrived. It must not be supposed from this that the Golden were bad people to get along with. Mr. and Mrs. Golden were nice, quiet people of an easy-going nature, and the two daughters were just as affable and good natured as any two girls in the city. Young George Golden was rarely at home except during sleeping hours, and Willie, who attended school daily, did not interfere with the secret girls at all. The family always provided a good table and paid fair wages for help, while the house was so large as to frighten a girl accustomed to a reasonable amount of work.

But inside of twelve months the Golden family had had English, Welsh, Scotch, Irish, Dutch, Danish, Swedish, Norwegian and colored girls. Those that weren't lazy were dirty or cheeky. The English girl was found by Mrs. Golden stretched at full length on the parlor lounge reading a cheap novel, while the girl who remained unattached around her, the Scotch girl, had such a thick brogue that it made her interference and made it almost impossible for her to be understood. The Welsh girl was addicted to drink, and the Irish girl was decidedly too familiar and acted as if she was mistress of the house. The Danish girl didn't speak English at all. The Swedish brook almost everything in the house, including a few commandments, and the two Norwegian girls were lacking in neatness of appearance and general cleanliness. As for the innumerable colored girls that had been employed by the Golden family, they were in the aggregate lazy, dirty, cheeky, parsimonious in the matter of the truth, and generous in the dispensation of groceries and other trifles to their relatives and friends.

The great cardinal virtue in the Golden household was scrupulous cleanliness, and had that been the prominent characteristic of any one of the girls it is likely that her other shortcomings would have been overlooked and that she might have stayed in the position. As it was, however, the only two of the entire bunch that kept the house even passably clean were slow and always behind with their work.

One day Mrs. Golden returned home from the "intelligence" office by the way, and on each door they call these headquarters of ignorance "intelligence offices"—in quite a flutter of excitement.

"I do believe," she declared, as she took off her hat and wrap, and seated herself in her favorite armchair, "I do believe that I have secured the right girl at last."

"Yes, we have heard that very often before," remarked her husband, complacently; "they are always the 'right kind of girls' until they get here, and then they turn out wrong."

"But this one is really different from all the others," said Mrs. Golden.

"Different in what appearance, manners or accomplishments? Is it impossible for her to oversleep herself in the morning, burn the toast, or tell a lie? Doesn't she break crockery, give cheek, or read novels? Is she fonder of work than of gossiping, or what kind of a freak is she?"

"She's just a plain, ordinary-looking girl—but she's an American—first American we have had yet, remember, Joseph, and she looks clean, moves quickly, and talks well. She wants $20 a month, which shows that she has a high appreciation of her own worth. Oh, they all have that—one of them are too modest in their claims of what they can do. Twenty dollars is a mere bagatelle if she is worth it, but we have not had a girl yet that was worth half of it."

"Well, she's coming this afternoon, and we'll see how she gets on. For my part I believe the girl will give complete satisfaction to us all. I believe I have captured a new gem at last!"

"What's her name?"

"Annie Rooney."

"Good gracious!"

"Sure enough Annie Rooney assumed her new duties in the Golden household that afternoon, and somehow there was that in her appearance which inspired confidence in every member of the family as soon as they saw her."

At the table she was a jewel. Little, active, alert—swift to see what was wanted and quick to supply it, she had earned the admiration of all before the evening meal was over. She was up early in the morning, lighted the fire noiselessly, started breakfast in the way, and then commenced to clean the dishes and everything in it; as she expressed it, the place "wasn't fit to be seen with dirt."

"Joseph," said Mrs. Golden to her husband, shortly after breakfast, "Annie has gone to do the upstairs work, and I just want you to come down and look at her kitchen."

Mr. Golden softly followed his wife down stairs, and the pair quietly tip-toed into the kitchen. The greasy, grimy look on the walls had disappeared, the paint looked fresh and gleam, the tin and agate ware shone brightly, as did all the metal work about the stove and kitchen shelves, the crockery dresser glittered and glistened in the morning sunlight, the linoleum on the floor was spotlessly clean.

"There's her morning's work before breakfast," said Mrs. Golden, "wonder how ever she did it in the time?"

"Here's the answer," replied her husband, sententiously, as he pointed to a package that stood near the sink. "The girl is a gem, as you said, my dear—she uses Sapollo."

"But I should think it would take time—"

"My dear, Annie Rooney evidently knows the difference between time and Sapollo."

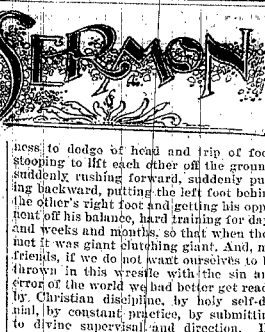

"What do you mean, Joseph?"

"Time, my dear, was made for slaves—Sapollo has abolished slavery—in a household."

Mrs. Goldens' humanity.

"Oh, you 'what' talk," said the indignant wife. "What would you be doing if it weren't for my money, I'd like to know?"

"I really don't know, my dear, but I'm inclined to think I would be a back-eler."

"Gold moribund," and every night a "Good night." Christmas trees and May Queens and birthday festivities and the laughing and merry-making around loaded tables. But that husband and father, coming into formal acquaintance who leads him in circles too convivial, too late honored, too gaudious. After awhile, his money gone and not able to bear his part of the expense, he is gradually showed out and ignored and pushed away. Now, what a disappointed home is his! A dispirited life always shows itself in faded window curtains, and impoverished wardrobe, and dejected surroundings, and in broken palings of the garden fence, and the unshining gate, and the dislocated and the disappearance of wife and children from the scenes around which they shone the brightest; and laughed the gladdest. If any man was ever down, that husband and father is down.

The fact is he got into a wrestle with evil that pushed and pulled and contorted and exhausted him worse than any other plan game ever devised by the devil, and he was thrown—thrown out of prosperity into gloom, thrown out of good association into gloom, thrown out of health into invalidism, thrown out of happiness into misery. But day while sinking through one of the back streets of a town, he was recognized, a good thought crossed his mind, for he had heard of then being flung rising again. Arriving at his house, he calls his wife in and spits the doom, and says, "Marv, I am going to do differently. This is not my life. I promised you when we were married, but I have never done it. I will now and have done everything, although I would have had no right to complain if you had left me and gone home to your father's house. It seems to me that once or twice when I was not myself I struck you, and several times I know, I know you had had a terrible time. I am going to do differently. I am going to do better, and I want you to help me." "Help you?" she says. "Bless your soul, of course I will help you. I knew you didn't mean it when you treated me roughly. All that is in the world for me is to get you back to your old self again. To-day let us begin again."

Sympathizing friends come around and kind business people help the man to something to do, so that he can again earn a living. The children soon have clothing so that they can go to school. The old man, which the wife sang years ago, goes back to the old home and begins again over again at the cradle while preparing the wondrous meal. Domestic resurrection! He comes home earlier than he used to, and he is glad to spend the evening playing games with the children or helping them with their homework or reading with them. He is not a man who can talk, but the good news is that he can do a thing to say, that is to say, fit you for the struggle into which you are to go with a smile on your face and illumination on your brow. But out of which you will not come until all your physical and mental and moral and religious energies have been put to the test, and you have not a nerve left or a thought unexpended or a prayer unaided or a sympathy unmet. In this struggle between right and wrong accept no challenge on platform or in newspaper unless you are prepared. Do not misapprehend the story of Goliath the giant who was slain by David. David was not practicing with a sling on doves and wolves and banquets, and a thousand times had he swirled a stone around his head before he aimed at the forehead of the giant and tumbled him backward, otherwise the big-foot of Goliath would almost have crushed the crushed form of the son of Jesse.

Notice also that the success of a wrestler depended on his having his feet well planted before he grappled his opponent. Much depends upon the way the wrestler stands. Standing on an uncertain piece of ground or leaning all his weight on one foot is not the way to win. A wrestler is not ready. A slight ruff of his antagonist will capsize him. A stroke of the heel of the other wrestler will trip him. And in this struggle for God and righteousness, as well as for our own souls, we must have our feet firmly planted in the gospel. We must not be like the millions of Bibles that have been printed within the last twenty-five years, not one chapter has been omitted, and the omission of one chapter would have been the cause of the rejection of the whole edition.

Alas, for those who while trying to prove that Jonah was never swallowed of a whale, or that the resurrection of the whole of unbelief, which discredits but never ejects its victims. The inspiration of the Bible is not more certain than the preservation of the Bible in its present condition. After so many centuries of assault on the book would it not be a matter of economy, to say the least, to have a copy of printers' ink—if the batteries now assailing the book would change their aim and be aimed against some other books, and the world shown that Walter Scott did not write "The Lady of the Lake," or Homer "The Iliad," nor Virgil "The Georgics," nor Thomas Gray "The Elegy," nor Washington's farewell address was written by Thomas Paine, and that the war of the American Revolution never occurred. That attempt would be quite as successful as this long time attack on the Bible, and then it would be with the ignorance and the wretchedness of the world unless you feel that both feet are planted in the eternal verities of the book of Almighty God!

Science of Wrestling.

Notice also that in this science of wrestling, to which Paul refers in my text, it was the third throw that decided the contest. A wrestler might be thrown once and thrown twice, but the third time he might recover himself, and by an unexpected twist of arm or curve of foot gain the day. Well, that is broad, smiling, unmistakable gospel. Some whom I address through ear or eye, by voice or printed page, have been thrown in their wrestle with evil but have not recovered.

Now, what has been thrown twice, but has not recovered, has been thrown once, and you are thrown forever! I have no authority for saying how many times a man may sin and be forgiven, or how many times he may fall and yet rise again, but I have authority for saying that he may fall 499 times, and 499 times get up. The Bible declares that God will forgive 70 times 7, and if you will employ the rule of multiplication you will find that 70 times 7 is 490. Blessed be God for such a gospel of high hope and thrilling encouragement. A wrestler might be thrown once and lose sleep brought home on shepherd's shoulder, and the prodigals who got into the low work of putting husks into swine's troughs brought home to Jewels and banqueting and hilarity that made the rafters ring.

Three sketches of the same man: A happy home, of which he and a lassie taken from a neighbor's house are the united family. A man of business and a father of a family of happiness. Stars pointing down to activities. And whether announced in greeting or not every morning was a

ENDURED FOR SLAVES

REV. CALVIN FAIRBANK'S WORK FOR THE NEGROES.

It Brought Him Seventeen Years' Imprisonment and During the Term He Received 35,105 Stripes from a Strap—A Remarkable Career.

The world has not produced a more heroic character than Rev. Calvin Fairbank, who died recently at his home in Angelica, N. Y., aged 82 years. He was one of the most noted of the famous abolitionists who conducted the "underground railroad" before the war, but unlike his associates, he suffered with the slaves and knew what it was to feel the lash. During his lifetime Mr. Fairbank aided forty-seven slaves to escape from Virginia and Kentucky, not one of whom was ever recaptured. For this he was twice imprisoned in Kentucky, in all seventeen years and four months. He was frequently beaten by the prison overseers, and during eight years of his last term, from March 1, 1854, to March 1, 1862, he received 35,105 stripes from a leather strap fitted to eighteen inches long and one and a half inches wide and from one-quarter to three-eighths of an inch thick.

This was during the period when Zebulon Ward and J. W. South were in charge, and the whipping grew out of the inability of Mr. Fairbank to perform the task assigned him. His daily task, timed by the hour, was 208 yards of sacking, or 37,440 shots of the shuttle by hand. He could never weave more than 165 yards. The result was that he was whipped every day except Sunday and the Fourth of July. He was never whipped less than twice a day, and in most cases four times. The number of stripes ranged from 65 to 108, according to the whim of the overseer. Sometimes so terribly were the lacerations of the cuts on his bare body that the walls of the prison were splattered with flesh and blood.

Mr. Fairbank was born in the woods of Wyoming County, New York, Nov. 3, 1816. He united with the Methodist Episcopal church in boyhood, and in 1844, the year that the church divided on the question of slavery, he became a

HOWARD GOULD AND HIS BRIDE.

Now that Katherine Clemmons is Mrs. Howard Gould people will watch her as they have watched Edith Kingston since that actress became Mrs. George Gould. The newest Mrs. Gould's maiden name was not Katherine Clemmons at all. That was her stage name. Her true maiden name was Viola Dayan, and she was born in San Francisco. She is a strikingly pretty woman and holds her beauty well. She is much older than her rich husband, but his infatuation was such that she could not very well escape. She tried for a year to get out of marrying him, but had to give up the fight at last. It is all over now. She is one of the Goulds.

sympathizers among prominent men in Kentucky. One of these was Lieut. Gov. John J. Jacob, son-in-law of United States Senator Thomas H. Benton of Missouri. Gov. Bramlett was called by President Lincoln to Washington in April, 1864, to answer charges, and during his absence Jacob, as acting Governor, pardoned Mr. Fairbank, who went at once to Ohio, where he stopped for some time with Levi Coffin and other friends. In June he was married to Miss Tlesston, a New England girl, to whom he had been engaged during all the years of his imprisonment, and who had done much to provide for his comfort and to secure his release. His wife died in 1876. For some years Mr. Fairbank made his home at Angelica, N. Y., where he died. His name, work and the story of his suffering for humanity will long have a place in American history.

CHINESE TROOPS IN PORTLAND.

Oregon City Has a "Brigade" Composed of American-Born Celestials.

Portland, Ore., boasts the only organized military organization in the country composed exclusively of American-born Chinese. It is called the "Chinese brigade," although it has but thirty-seven members. It is as patriotic as any other military company, its well drilled, bears arms as national guardsmen do, and altogether is one of the singular warlike bodies of the land. It is the direct outgrowth of the war with Spain. The members include young men of 21 years and several boys of 7. Yet all are eager to learn the white man's method of making war, and the company is looked upon with great favor by the citizens of Portland.

The brigade was organized in June, while the war clouds were most ominous, by Captain Seid Back, Jr., with Captain B. F. Jones of the Oregon National Guard as drill master. On July 4 the organization was sufficiently well drilled to give a public parade in honor of the victory over the Spanish at Santiago. The entire thirty-seven members turned out and the reception was such as to do honor to an organization of more pretentious character. What mattered it if, after marching for two solid hours, some of the younger members of the organization were picked up by carriages? They deserved as much credit as though the entire brigade had been able to march for three hours and then back to the army from which they started. It showed that the spirit of Americanism and of freedom was Methodist preacher. He was a radical abolitionist. His attitude on slavery was largely influenced, he said, by an incident which occurred when he was a boy. He went with his father and mother on one occasion to attend a quarterly meeting, and with them was assigned to the good, clean house of a pair of escaped slaves. One night after dark he went to the hearthstone before the fire and listened to the freed woman's story of sorrow. It covered thirty years. She had been sold from home, separated from husband and family, and all ties of affection were broken. Fairbank's young heart wept, his anger was kindled, and antagonism to slavery was fixed upon him. "Father," he said, on going to his room, "when I get bigger they shall not do that." Aid that resolution he put into action whenever he had an opportunity. He was utterly fearless, and often risked his life where others would have hesitated. He not only never refused to heed the cry of the slave himself, but he sought opportunities to aid those who had no thought of the possibility of escape. Once he paid $1,485 for a beautiful and accomplished girl who was only one-sixty-fourth African, and who was being sold at public auction with appeals to the basest passions of possible purchasers. The girl's father, who had educated her as one of his own family, and sold her because of his financial embarrassments, gave Fairbank $100 toward her purchase.

Fairbank was first arrested in October, 1844, for assisting a colored family named Hayden, of Lexington, Ky., to escape. He was sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary, and served nearly five years, when he was pardoned Aug. 23, 1849, by Gov. John J. Crittenden. In November, 1851, after assisting a slave woman named Lamar to escape from Louisville to Indiana, Mr. Fairbank was kidnaped and carried to Kentucky, where he was tried, convicted, and in March, 1852, was sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary at hard labor. His fame became widespread. He was the best known prisoner of his day, and he was often urged to speak in public, even by his keepers. He finally consented, and on Feb. 1, 1858, addressed a gathering composed of the elite of Kentucky, including the Governor, State officers, members of both houses of the Legislature and eminent citizens, who packed the jail yard. He was introduced by Mr. Whiteside, who said: "Your excellency, ladies and gentlemen: This is our distinguished prisoner, Mr. Fairbank. You will hear him."

Mr. Fairbank began his address, which held his audience for an hour, with these remarkable words: "Governor, ladies and gentlemen: A war is inevitable, and let it come, I repeat it, let it come! And Kentucky will be the theater, and you'll fight horse-brute deep in blood, and slavery will melt away like a hoar frost; and out of it will spring a government of all the people, of all the people, for all the people." Gov. Morehead congratulated Mr. Fairbank on his speech, but said: "Fairbank, you are crazy. The Yankee won't fight." Well, Governor, you'll go right Mr. Fairbank, and he did so. This speech, delivered three years before the war, was reported in the papers and made a deep impression. Mr. Fairbank had a few friends and just as strong, if not stronger, than in any corresponding number of white Americans in Portland or in Chicago or San Francisco on that day.

"I tell you what," remarked A. D. Charlton, "it was as inspiring to see the American-born Chinese brigade march up Morrison street to the people of Portland as the return of the rough riders to the residents of New York."

In military training and instruction Captain Jones found the boys character-

ed for vengeance, sought out Gen. Maceo and offered her services as a soldier. Although a woman and a young and beautiful one, her desire was granted and she became an officer under the noted unslain warrior. In a short time she had the opportunity to display her courage and skill. She succeeded in both, but paid for her heroism with her life.

Maceo sent her with a small detachment to check the advance of a Spanish column while some much-needed ammunition was carried to a safe place. She and her comrades repeatedly charged the Spaniards and held them back while the general drew off and secured his munitions of war. In the last charge before the detachment—those who survived—was recalled, the brave woman fell while urging her troops to greater exertion.

Dewey's Expedition.

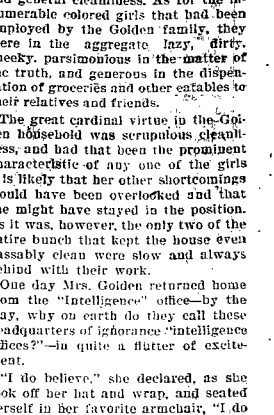

Admiral Dewey's expenditure in powder and shell to sink the Spanish fleet at Manila, according to his own official report, was about $45,000. The cost for the same item in disposing of Admiral Cervera's fleet off Santiago is between $90,000 and $100,000. Experts regard the figures in both cases as surprisingly low.

No man is out of a job who wants one and to the average person it would seem that prosperity is visible everywhere and will visit all with proper management. John Harder, one of the prosperous and whole souled German farmers of North Wilbur, has just completed a large and commodious residence, one of the largest farm residences in the county, and the carpenter work speaks well for Ernest Piepenstock, the contractor and builder. In honor of the completion of the building Mr. Harder invited in a large number of friends and neighbors on Sunday to aid him in dedicating his home and the evening was a delightful one for the guests. Wakefield Republican: While in Wayne Friday afternoon we noticed signs of a good business in that handsome little city. Some new buildings, and good ones too, are going up, merchants reported trade good, a great deal of grain was coming in; farmers reported yields of wheat of 24 bushels an acre around Wayne, and everybody seemed busy and contented. It was different two years ago. There's a new man at the helm at Washington, boys, and that accounts for much of the difference for the better in business conditions. Give us a few years of good crops and work, let the currency alone just as it is, and we'll all wear diamonds in Northeast Nebraska, and don't you forget it.

FROM MANILA

Another Interesting Letter From Elmer Lundburg.

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 18th, 1898. Special to THE HERALD: I am writing this letter at Salvation Army quarters, to take advantage of its accommodations. This is the only society that has established reading rooms here as yet. These are cool and pleasant quarters. I received some mail via Hong Kong on British battleship Powerful, the largest war vessel afloat. News is a very scarce article here. We are compelled to wait for Frisco papers, and to think, it is forty-five days since we got one of them,—that is, the last one was that old today. Products on these islands have no market,—your home papers are full in their descriptions of them. I have been asked what prospects were for money-making here. Well, it is this,—opportunities in retail business of any kind are exceedingly slim; the Chinese have crowded the city with their little joints and sell everything imaginable and at a price no white man could live on, in competition. Exporters undoubtedly have good opportunities, but it requires large capital and those running steamship lines would have a decided advantage. The only chance is as leaders in the development of resources and means of production, as well as utilizing the mineral deposits which no doubt are rich. It is unsafe for a single man any distance from Manila because the people are comparatively wild, and only large bodies of men could make explorations. The climate is not adapted to people from a temperate climate. Few Spaniards remain here more than five years. Tuesday, Sept. 20.—I picked up a couple of Chicago Daily Records of July 28 and 29, so that is, where my time was spent instead of writing. I am writing at barracks. This is a big custom house storeroom. We had piles of manila hemp for bunks at first, now we have regular cots, constructed of hard wood, topped with heavy canvas. The floor is of stone, and the windows are heavy wooden doors inside and iron bars outside, hence the building from without has the appearance of a prison, in fact all the houses look like jails. Our building is about forty feet high, the second story being only a sort of a gallery around the wall. When lying in my cot I see above me the roof, which is of galvanized corrugated iron. When it rains, as it often does in torrents for a whole night, the noise on the roof is simply fearful. But it is nicer to listen to that noise, than to feel the water all over you as we did at Camp Dewey. So while these quarters are not as beautiful as those of other regiments, they are cool and pleasant, and I believe in the most favored location in the city; for it is the center of activity, right along the wharves, which are crowded from early morn till night by hordes of Chinese and natives loading and unloading ships and barges. Large steamers taking as much as twenty-two feet of water can come up the Pasig river almost to the bridge and tie to the wharf. The wharves are built of granite and form the right bank of the river, being built downward from twenty five to thirty feet, filled in, and paved over with cobble stones. The opposite bank of the river from the fort of the walled city, past the Lunetta, out into the bay, is constructed likewise. So the Pasig river is confined to its banks as it enters the bay, but the tides often reach the tops of the wharves and then again it is almost ten feet to water. There are a score of sailing vessels and a dozen big steamships that ply the China sea to Hong Kong lying at anchor in the stream now. Flaks of every European and Asiatic nation fly from ships in the bay as well as from over buildings in the city. The Chinese, Japanese, and English, as well as people of other countries, who have settled in Manila, have gathered themselves in different parts of the city, and each live in the styles and keep up the customs and habits peculiar to their native country. So one might travel through quite a number of lands and yet see but little more than can be found right here. Manila with all its European, oriental,—and now occidental—Influences can properly be classed a city of the world. In public improvements it is dilapidated and neglected. The only buildings really kept up properly and which present an attractive appearance are either those of the few wealthy residents or the abodes of the foreign consulates. The most beautiful street in the city is that of the English houses. Wednesday, 21st.—The transport Rio Janerio leaves for the states in the morning. It will carry back mail, and 119 sick soldiers. One goes from our company, Day Cures, of Battle Creek, Nebraska. I was out to the Rio with three of the boys to bid him good-bye. They go to Hong Kong where they stop two days before leaving for San Francisco, where it will arrive about Oct. 15. When we visited the Rio this afternoon we were also aboard the monitor Albatross. It has four ten-inch guns and they are awful to look upon. If they make as much noise in proportion to their size as do our Springfield—excuse me, let me get on the other side of the earth first, before they shoot. The boys on board were very sociable and showed us over the boat and below the decks. You would think it a new boat, just put into commission as everything is kept so clean, polished and painted. We are going on board the Powerful and Olympia in a few days. I have been appointed trumpeter

An explosion and fire on Sunday evening wrecked the Supreme Court room at the National Capital, and did an immense amount of damage, besides destroying a great many valuable records and a library of law reference books containing about 20,000 volumes. The loss amounts to over $200,000.

The Spanish cruiser Maria Theresa, sunk in the naval engagement off Santiago, and afterwards raised by Lieutenant Hobson, was engulfed in the Atlantic during a severe storm on Tuesday of last week, while being towed off Wallings Island. The vessel sank in three miles of water and is gone forever. Everything Spanish has a downward tendency.

Proof has been established that Bachelor Weyler of Cuban fame, looted the Philippine treasury, while other men were sent to prison for his crimes. But such a thing will hardly surprise any American citizen. When ever there is a mention of the Maine Weyler will ever be remembered, and as sure as fate the exact cause of the destruction of the battleship will be unearthed.

The business men of Binghamton, N. Y., have fallen into line and formed what they call the Advertisers' Association. The object of the association is to protect its members from bogus advertising schemes, such as programmes, conventions and the like, upon which they have been wasting their money. Hence and outdoor advertising generally should be included in the tabo, but we see no mention made of them in the published reports.—Guide.

A few more days and corn husking will be over and the industrious farmers of Wayne county will not be sorry. For the most part they have labored hard and faithfully this season and their labors have been rewarded with bounteous crops. The grain market is good; cattle and hogs are bringing good prices, while the merchants of Wayne are selling goods at such reasonable prices that there is every reason for citizens of the county to feel encouraged and happy. Wayne county is in a prosperous condition and her citizens are proud of it.

The Conservative rejoices in the triumphs achieved by the Omaha Exposition. It was a complete and perfect representation of the industrial capabilities of the mid continent West. Its success was due, very largely, to the ability and executive force which managed its "promotion" and publicity bureau. And it will not be charged that the writer hereof is moved by either personal relations or political obligations in declaring that to Mr. Edward Rosewater, editor and proprietor of the Omaha Bee, more than to any other man, the Omaha Exposition owes its phenomenal success. Mr. Rosewater has brains and energy, and the tirelessness of metal moved by steam.—The Conservative.

THE GOSPEL OF FAILURE.

Is this nation a failure? It would appear from the lugubrious contentment of the political pessimists that American civilization is running to smotherings.

The majority, if they are right, is always wrong.

The American people, if there are to be believed, have lost their address. They fumble everything they touch.

The majority is made up of two classes, knaves and fools, the latter the tools and victims of the former, and wisdom is driven to the woods of popocracy.

The times are out of joint. Prosperity is a reminiscence. Freedom is a mockery. The government is a humbug. American statesmanship is a fraud.

Not only the constitution but the flag needs amendment. It should read "the land of the thief and the home of the slave."

Our victories are defeats. Our successes are failures. Our wisdom is folly. Our strength is weakness. Our wealth is poverty. Our liberty is slavery. Even the multiplication table is a mistake.

This is the essence of the opposition's political teachings. It is appeal to prejudice and discontent and envy and malice—to all the littleness of mankind and to all the ignoble passions of the heart. It is uncomplimentary to American sense and American patriotism. It is calculated to dash faith in our institutions. It is throwing dirty water upon national hopes and aspirations. It is the gospel of failure, the tidings of calamity. It is a good platform not to stand on, a good ticket not to vote.—Sioux City Journal, Nov. 3.

Farm and Dairy School at the University of Nebraska.

The University of Nebraska has just issued a very attractive pamphlet descriptive of the School of Agriculture. Every farmer should write for one. This course in agriculture is altogether the most complete, practical and common sense thing of the kind that has ever come under our observation. It is something that no farmer's boy or girl of any ambition can afford to miss. The people in charge of the school realize the fact that most farmers' sons and daughters cannot afford to spend the time and money required in the preparation for and completion of the regular college course, but believe that in farming, as in every other business, education and training pay.

Keeping this in view they have prepared a short, practical course of three months, beginning January 3, 1908, and ending March 17. It provides for the following studies: Soil tillage, diseases of farm animals, stock breeding and judging, feeding cattle and hogs, dairying, horticulture, carpentry and blacksmithing.

An explanation given in the circular of the manner in which the instruction is given, shows that the student obtains much of it by means of actual practice and observation. Not that he will be expected to do the work of the farm with which he is already familiar, but such operations as stock judging, milk testing, creamery operations, tree-grafting, treating sick animals, etc.

No examinations are required for entrance. There is a registration fee of $1.00. The cost to each student last year for room rent, table board, books, etc., was about $26.00.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident of which John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continual in back and sides, no appetite, gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying Electric Bitters, and to my great joy and surprise the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c, guaranteed at Wilkins & Co.'s drug store.

Our Greatest Music Offer.

Send us the names and addresses of three or more performers on the piano or organ and twenty-five cents in silver or postage and we will send you all of the following copies of our latest and most famous popular pieces among which are "The Flower That Won My Heart," one of the sweetest songs ever written and now being sung by the most popular singers, "The Convention City Two-Step," by Rad Knauer, composer of the famous "Battle of Manila" Two-Step, acknowledged to be one of the best piano pieces written in years and now being played by all the leading bands and orchestras; also our great song, "Bring Our Heroes Home," dedicated to the heroes of the Spanish war, "Mullaly's Grocery Bill," the wittiest song ever written and seven other pages of popular songs and marches, all full sheet music arranged for piano and organ. Write at once and mention this paper. Address: Popular Music Co., Dept. C 4, Indianapolis, Ind.

Infant mortality is something frightful. Nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, one-third before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen! The timely use of a White's Cream Vermifuge would save a majority of these precious lives. Price 25c. Wilkins & Co.

Superintendent's Notice.

I will be in the office Mondays and Saturdays. Examinations the third Saturday of each month and Friday preceding. CHARLOTTE M. WHITE, Supt. of Public Instruction.

When you ask for DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve don't accept a counterfeit or imitation. There are more cases of piles being cured by this, than all others combined. L. P. Orth.

The Biggest and Best.

All our former readers should take advantage of the unprecedented clubbing offer we this year make, which includes, with this paper, The Iowa Homestead, its Special Farmers' Institute editions, The Poultry Farmer, The Farmers' Mutual Insurance Journal and the Humane Alliance. The subscription price of these five publications amounts to $2.50, while our own paper is $1.00, a total of $3.50. We are prepared to send them all, including our own paper, to any farmer in this county for $1.45, which is only 45 cents more than our own subscription price. Never before has so much superior reading matter, of the most practical and useful character, offered for only $1.45. The first four of the papers named are so well known throughout the West that but little need be said of them. They commend themselves to the readers favorable attention upon mere mention. The Humane Alliance is devoted to humane education, and should be in every farmer's family, so that the boys and girls on the farm may early imbibe the principles of a broad humanity that shall include all God's creatures, and learn the wickedness and brutalizing tendency of cruelty of all kinds. Scrofula to Consumption.

Any one predisposed to Scrofula can never be healthy and vigorous. This taint in the blood naturally drifts into Consumption. Being such a deep-seated blood disease, Swift's Specific is the only known cure for Scrofula, because it is the only remedy which can reach the disease.

Scrofula appeared on the head of my little grandchild when only 18 months old. Shortly after breaking out it spread rapidly all over his body. The sores on his arms would not of on the slightest touch, and the odor that would arise made the atmosphere of the room sickening and unbearable. The disease next attacked the eyes, and we feared she would lose her sight. When a physician from the surrounding country was called, he could do nothing to relieve the little innocent, and gave it as their opinion that the case was hopeless and impossible to save the child's eyesight. It was then that we decided to try Swift's Specific. That medicine at once made a speedy and complete cure. She is now a young lady, and has never had a sign of the disease to return.

Mrs. RUTH BERKELEY, 1234 N. 10th St., Omaha, Neb.

Scrofula is an obstinate blood disease, and is beyond the reach of the average blood medicine. Swift's Specific is the only remedy equal to such deep-seated diseases; it goes down to the very foundation and forces out every taint. It is purely vegetable, and is the only blood remedy guaranteed to contain no mercury, poison or other mineral substance whatever.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer of 1125 Howard st., Philadelphia, when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this royal cure: "It soon removed the pain in my chest and I now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like singing its praises throughout the Universe." So will everyone who tries Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the throat, chest or lungs. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Wilkins & Co.'s drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

All Eyes Turned to Lincoln

The Omaha exposition has closed and all eyes are now turned toward Lincoln, the capital city, where the legislature will soon meet. The installation of new state officers, the election of a United States senator, and other matters of much importance will make Lincoln the center of state interests and every Nebraskan will want to read the old, reliable standby, The State Journal, during the coming year. As a special inducement to secure new readers, the Semi-Weekly Journal, printed every Tuesday and Friday, will be mailed from now until January 1, 1908, for $1.00. This is a mighty long time for the money and the sooner you send your dollar the more papers you get. There isn't any other paper in Nebraska that gives so much for the money. It is twice as good as the old fashioned weekly. Try it. Address, The State Journal, Lincoln, Neb.

From New Zealand.

REERTON, New Zealand, Nov. 23, '08. I am very pleased to state that since I took the agency of Chamberlain's medicine the sale has been very large, more especially of the Cough Remedy. In two years I have sold more of this particular remedy than of all other makes in the previous five years. As to its efficacy, I have been informed by scores of persons of the good results they have received from it, and know its value from the use of it in my own household. It is so pleasant to take that we have to place the bottle beyond the reach of the children.

WINSIDE.

A. C. Goltz went to Laurel Friday. John T. Bressler was in Winside Friday. Joe Bayas made a visit to his people here on Saturday last. F. M. Northrop and George Harrigfeld were in town Saturday. The Bayes home is having an addition built which will add to its comfort. John Bender has traded his store and stock of goods in this place for a farm west of Winside. Election Tuesday was very quiet. The republicans have made large gains since last election. Mrs. Bender, mother of station agent Bender, and Miss Maggie Reed went to Norfolk Thursday. R. Karo, formerly residing here, now a resident of Norfolk, made a visit in Winside on Friday. Wm. Trenn, jr., went to Ponca and Newcastle to visit friends last Saturday, returning Monday. George Meilke and Miss Grace Christenson were married at noon on Tuesday, and will go to keeping house soon. Miss Eureka Schultz is very ill from typhoid fever at the home of A. H. Carter. Her sister, Miss Anna Schultz, is caring for her. Wm. Hagedorn was ordained as pastor of the German church at this place on Sunday, and will take charge of the services from now on. He and his mother are occupying the parsonage. A team of Mr. Spohmann's ran away Tuesday. A little girl and boy were thrown from the wagon but not perceptibly injured. The wagon was destroyed and one of the horses seriously injured. George Colbert and family returned from their visit to Mr. C.'s old home in Cass county on Friday last. Their little girl, Maud, is now suffering from an attack of scarlet fever which was well under control before their return. There came near being a serious fire at Claus Rathman's farm, one day last week. A large straw stack was burned and also part of a stack of wheat. The threshing outfit of Henry Moeding was on the place at the time and came near being destroyed by the fire. There was what purported to be a populist rally here last week. A very small crowd was in attendance. The speakers were O. H. Williams, C. J. Rundell and H. B. Miller; those familiar with two of these speakers can guess as to what was the drift of the argument. Young Mr. Pickard, one of the members of Co. G, 3rd Nebraska regiment, came home Saturday night. Harry Brower, of the same company, came home last week. Both of the boys were mustered out with honorable discharges and will stay at home instead of going to Cuba.

OPERA HOUSE!

Thursday Evening, November 17.
 On the above date the people of Wayne and vicinity will have an opportunity of witnessing, for the first time the production of drama "Pygmalion and Galatea." The caste of characters is comprised of home talent who have spent some time in preparing the play for presentation in this city. Following is the cast: Pygmalion, Sculptor Frank Nangle; Galatea, Art patron Thos. Holts; Laurence, Soldier Geo. Whittier; Agnesinos, Chryso's Slave Ted Phillo; Mimos, Pygmalion's Slave, Clyde Whitburn; Galatea, Animated Statue, Maude Britton; Daphne, Chryso's wife, Jennie Mottian; Myrline, Pygmalion's sister, Louie Sullivan; Cynisca, Pygmalion's wife, Edna Britton. Some new and up-to-date specialties will be introduced by home talent. Seats will be on sale at the Star Grocery on and after Monday next. General admission 25c. Reserved seat 35c. Children and gallery 15c. Among the specialties will be a male quartette, song by Mr. Pritchard with autoharp accompaniment; song by Mr. Reed; Mandolin music, and songs by Miss Hattie Weber and little Freda Ellis, which are alone worth the price of admission. Secure your tickets early.

COLLEGE.

Examinations begin Thursday. The new term begins next Tuesday. Many of the students have planned to spend their vacation at home. Miss Lookbill is among the students this week. The Y. W. C. A. will have an open meeting Sunday.

CARROLL.

Hurrah for Nebraska. Enos Davis is sick with the measles. Tom Evans was in Wayne Saturday. Joe Jones has two children sick with measles. Mr. Davis was a passenger to Wayne Saturday. Dr. Williams of Wayne, was in the city Tuesday. The election is over, and a good many "I told you so's" are very much in evidence. Mr. Bryan's regimentals on election failed to convince voters or the "bad times". The Baptist ladies served oysters in R. D. Merrill's hardware store on election day. Chas. Merrill who has been teaching the Root school, left for his home in Hartington Saturday. A. J. Honey returned from his eastern trip Saturday bringing with him several cars of stock cattle. Bertie Garwood who has been very sick with typhoid fever, is much better and his recovery is looked for. John Haines has rented a half section of land northwest of Bloomfield and may move on the same this fall. Mr. Eby moved to Coleridge the first of the week. Tom Delong and Charley Robinson hauled his goods for him. Arthur Parry is building a house on a farm just south of the Welsh congregational church. Charley Jones is doing the work. A small chunk of Klondike atmosphere must have broke loose Monday night. Tuesday it was very comfortable with overcoats and other winter apparel. There were quite a number of stay at home voters in this precinct—about 25 in all; notwithstanding the republicans and fusionists had teams on the road all afternoon. There has been a noticeable increase in the number of traveling men that have been stopping at this place lately. Surely there must be some business done in this vicinity. Farmers are busy husking one of the largest crops of corn ever raised in Wayne county. If the present fair weather continues for two weeks the corn will all be husked. A. J. Honey brought his engine in town Tuesday and hauled the granary that he had on his lot back of the store building out to his farm. Rumor has it also that Mr. Honey is contemplating moving his store building to the farm. The lumber yard at this place has made some noticeable improvements in and around their yard. A high picket fence now incloses the yard and padlocks are found on the gates every night. Parties that were in the habit of borrowing lumber by moon light in the "wee sma' hours" of the morning will now call on the proprietor if they desire any lumber. Several parties raised a purse Tuesday night to pay the telephone Co. at this place for election returns, having the promise of general news from all the states. But the operator either failed to catch it, or the people at the other end of the line must all have been fusionists, for after waiting until 11:30 p. m. the crowd left in disgust, the operator giving out the information that no news was to be had.

ASSASSINATIONS.

The debating society met for the first time last Tuesday evening. Miss Cecelia Miss Schreine and Mr. Siebold were called on for impromptu speeches, beside the debate in which all took part. A dictionary and holder was presented to Prof. Fild Tuesday by the students and teachers. The orations of the graduating class will be delivered Friday evening in place of the usual literary program. The following is the program: Program Friday evening by first section of graduating class. Music. A Knowledge of Government, Miss Batchelor. Evolution of Government, Miss Sewell. FOUND.

Many a household is saddened by death because of the failure to keep on hand a safe and absolutely certain cure for croup, such as One Minute Cough Cure. See that your little ones are protected against emergency. Orth.

SOOTHING, HEALING, CLEANSING, DeWitt's

Witch Hazel Salve is the implacable enemy of sores, burns and wounds. It never fails to cure Piles. You may rely upon it. L. P. Orth.

STRAYED OR STOLEN.

From my feed yard, a black mule steer, with slit in right ear and branded with letter C behind left shoulder. Weight about 1,000 lbs. Any information regarding same, or return of steer will be paid for. F. M. HOOPER, 3t. p. Wayne, Neb.

CONSTITUTION PREVENTS THE BODY FROM

ridding itself of waste matter. DeWitt's Little Early Risers will remove the trouble and cure sick headache, inactive liver, biliousness, and clear the complexion. Small, sugar-coated, don't gripe or cause nausea. L. P. Orth.

A SURE SIGN OF COUG.

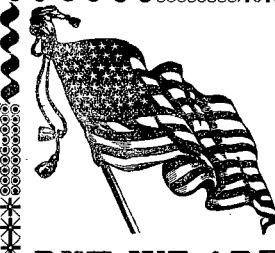

Hoarseness in a child that is subject to croup is a sure indication of the approach of the disease. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has appeared, it will prevent the attack. Many mothers who have croupy children always keep this remedy at hand and find that it saves them much trouble and worry. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant to take. For sale by L. P. Orth.

STRAYED.

From the feed yard of Baker Bros., a red steer, weight about 900 lbs. Horns straight and animal vicious. Information or return of steer will be rewarded. 3t. p. NICK AND CHAS. BAKER.
