I went straight to bed and was taken to the 2nd division hospital the next day; was discharged from there Feb. 1, and am on deck again ready for duty. I was very favorably impressed with what I saw of Havana; the streets are very narrow and paved with rough stone. The buildings are mostly two story, built of stone, with flat roofs. In the suburbs are some fine houses with gardens or parks around them. The walks are lined with shade trees, roses, climbing rines and all kinds of beautiful flowers. The windows have no glass but iron bars running up and down and when it raine a board is put in.

Some of us can speak for Jesus, if we only will; in our homes if nowhere else; in our consistent life, if in no other way.—Rev! J. H. Nies, Episcopallan, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A Man's Worth.—A man is to evidence the increment of gain. A man is worth what he is. What he owns, is only so much accumulated opportunity. It must be translated to manhood power, and men can be reduced to lowest terms.
