In severing my connections with The Herald, I wish to heartily thank the business men of Wayne and all who have in any way contributed to the success of the paper, for their liberal patronage and support. At times it is with a feeling of regret that I leave the newspaper work to take up the duties of the position to which I have been appointed. Having been connected with The Herald for the past twelve or fifteen years as employee and later as one of the proprietors, it seems like leaving the dear and familiar scenes of childhood and entering into a strange and foreign land. However, I believe that no mistake is being made on my part, and I trust the change may be beneficial to The Herald. The paper will hereafter be under the full control of Mr. McNeal, who will continue to give the people of the county a thoroughly reliable and up-to-date newspaper.

I wish to again thank the many friends of The Herald for their liberal patronage and hearty support in the past, and bespeak for The Herald a successful and prosperous future.

Very respectfully, CHAS. S. BEEBE.

Fined For Hauling Dead Carcasses.
Last Friday during the night Sheriff Cherry arrested five men on the charge of hauling through the country dead carcasses that had died from the effects of cholera or infectious diseases. The persons were placed in jail and given a hearing on Monday, but it was a difficult task to secure any witnesses, as any person giving away or selling any carcasses of dead animals that had died of contagious diseases is just as guilty as the person hauling them and the fine is $25 and not over $100 and ninety days in jail. One of the men whose name we did not learn was released, Mike Kek Sr. paid his fine of $25 and costs and Mike Kek Jr., L. Larson, and Peter Jensen each were fined $50 and costs, the former paid his fine, while the other three will board their fine out at the county jail. Three of the men were arrested at Owens' office and the other two when they came for their teams.

DEDICATION SERVICES
The new German Evangelical church recently completed in the southwest part of the city, was fittingly and appropriately dedicated on Sunday, January 7th. As the day was one of beauty the attendance was large, people of this denomination arriving from every direction. The services were begun promptly at 10:30 in accordance with programme and continued until after the noon hour at which time the congregation repaired to the old church building where a bounteous spread was served by the Social Club of the church. The time intervening before the continuance of the programme was devoted to visiting and discussing matters concerning the church and its future. The services in the new church were resumed at 2:30. Rev. Feik of Lincoln, delivered an able sermon in German, which was followed by an excellent address in English by Rev. Freund of Plattsmouth, after which short addresses in both German and English were made, interspersed with music, until 4:30 when the services were concluded. The church is a splendid structure, modern in every respect, and is a credit to the promoters and builders, and one the congregation can well afford to be proud of.

"PRESIDENTIAL YEAR."

In considering the business prospects of the present year it does not appear that the bright prosperity promise will have to be materially discounted because of the fact that 1900 is "presidential year." Business men in the past have not looked upon the year in which a national presidential contest is waged as being very particularly favorable to business. With so much of the public attention devoted to matters political it is perhaps on a natural that interest in business enterprises should lapse somewhat. This is especially true if matters of public policy, that may be construed as affecting the general welfare, are introduced into the campaign. In this matter as well as in other ways the approaching presidential contest is likely to be an exception to the general rule.

For one thing the old bugbear of the tariff has been eliminated from the consideration. The tariff may be considered out of the running this time. An effort to make the trust lobby take its place will doubtless be made, but the public has, so far, displayed no serious intention of getting worked up over hypothetical dangers the actual effects of which it has not yet felt. While Mr. Bryan and his friends do not admit that the currency question is settled and promise to push it during the campaign, the great body of public opinion under the present system and well understands that there is no danger of a change. The Philippine problem, over which so much ado is bound to be made, looks like a faraway matter to the business men of the United States. Regardless of his personal preferences on the "consent of the governed" principle, the American business man cannot avoid looking at the prospect retention of the islands as indicating business expansion. In regard to the selection of candidates there will be none of the strenuous and bitter strife that usually turns both of the great parties topsy-turvy about convention time.

All these considerations will prompt the business men of the country to go right along with their woadsawing operations, without stopping to watch or take an especially active part in the political game that will be in progress. Perhaps more important than any of these is the general impression that no matter what activity may be displayed during the campaign, there is practically no danger of a change of administration as a result of this year's political battle. That is the impression today, and is not likely to be changed during the year. At the close of the most prosperous year in the history of the country the mission of the men whose business it will be to persuade their fellow citizens that they need some sort of a change is bound to be a losing one. Active partisans among the "outs" may deny the prevalence of this sentiment of confidence, but the large majority of business men know it exists.

The conclusion appears to be entirely warranted that the political campaign of 1900 will interfere with business less than any presidential campaign of late years. It will be hard to improve on the splendid stride of 1899, but even that is a possibility likely to be little hampered by political developments. —Sloux City Journal.

There were no prayers for the success of the rebel cause at the great republican meeting in Minneapolis last night, says the St. Paul Dispatch, and no speaker will afterwards explain that he was late for the devotional part of the program. There were cheers for the flag, cheers for the men who bore it; there were cheers for the government and cheers for the hand that steers the ship of state; there were words of approval for the cause of liberty and civilization, and for the American patriots who are upholding the cause of America at home and across the sea. And instead of lachrymose sympathy for a ragged Malay pirate there was a money contribution for the widow of an American soldier who fell in the ranks in far away Luzon. That is the republican idea of patriotism, and a pretty good idea it is. —Winnipeg Free Press.

Old People Made Young.
J. C. Sherman the veteran editor of Vermontville (Mich.) Echo, has discovered the remarkable secret of keeping old people young. For years he has avoided nervousness, sleeplessness, indigestion, heart trouble, constipation and rheumatism, by using Electric Bitters, and he writes: "It can't be praised too highly. It gently stimulates the kidneys, tones the stomach, aids digestion and gives a splendid appetite. It has worked wonders for my wife and me. It's a marvelous remedy for old people's complaints." Only 50 cents at E. J. Raymond's drug store.

Senator Vest is soon to retire. This leaves Joe Bailey as the sole custodian of the sacred constitution.
Tabler's Buckeye's Pale Ointment is the only remedy for blind, bleeding or protruding piles, induced by physicians; cures the most obstinate cases. Price 50 cents in bottle, in tubes 75 cents, at Raymond's Drug Store.

Has any republican the right to claim now that his party is in favor of international bimetalism?—Colo. Blade.
Yes sir, if such a thing as international bimetalism was possible, but no republican is a silver monometalist, such as are the followers of Bryan.

I want to let the people who suffer from rheumatism and sciatica know that Chamberlain's Pain Balm relieved me after a number of other medicines and a doctor had failed. It is the best liniment I have ever known of.—J. A. Dodson, Alpharetta, Ga. Thousands have been cured of rheumatism by this remedy. One application relieves the pain. For sale at Raymond's drug store.

F. B. Thirkield, Health Inspector of Chicago, says, "Kodole Dyspepsia Cure cannot be recommended too highly. It cured me of severe dyspepsia." It digests what you eat and cures indigestion, heartburn and all forms of dyspepsia. L. P. Orth.

HIS START IN LIFE.

A STORY THAT A DISCUSSION ON RELIGION BROUGHT OUT.

It involved a Christian and an infidel and a Most Remarkable Coincidence, and the Narrative Pointed a Moral as Well.

The question of religion came up the other day in the Busy Men's Lunch club, and old Parmesan, who is senior warden of St. Cecilia's church and therefore constitutes himself a defender of the faith, remarked, "You may see what you like, gentlemen, but as a religious man I may say to help those who need it than an infidel." "I am a firm believer in Christianity," remarked Bilson, who has made a million or so in the Swamp during the last few years, "but I take exception to that statement. When it comes to helping a fellow who is down, it's about an even toss between a Christian and an infidel. You doubt it?" he continued as he saw old Parmesan shake his head. "Well, to prove what I say I will give you an episode in my own life. I came to New York in 1878 with a country suit and a common school education. I was a lank looking young fellow, with 'hayseed' written all over me; but like many another raw country lad, I was irresistibly attracted to the city, where I soon expected to strike the combination that would lead to fortune and fame. But before long my main thought was to keep from starving. I could get no work, and nobody would listen to me when I asked for it. I tried to keep up my courage, but in my heart I would have given anything to be back on the old farm again."

"Well, one day I grew especially desperate. The papers were full of the triumphant success of 'Billy, the Converted Bum,' who was holding revivals all over the country. And I asked myself why I, a clean, decent young fellow, who had never been a 'bum,' should be allowed to starve, while 'Billy' was living on the fat of the land. At first the wild thought came into my head to start out myself on a career of er— I mean of revivalism under the name of 'Charley, the Converted Boy Friend,' and 'take in the shackets' like 'Billy.' But somehow I felt I didn't get down as low as that. A brilliant thought struck me, however. I would state the whole thing in an advertisement, more to relieve my feelings than with any hope of getting an answer.

"So I scribbled enough money together to insert the following in one of the papers: 'If I were a drunken 'bum,' just taken out of the gutter, scores of kind religious people would stretch out a hand to help me. But as I am only a decent and self-respecting young man, with no vices or bad habits, I am without work and starving in this great city. And I added my initials and address.

"The next day I called to see if there might possibly be an answer and got two. The first one I opened read as follows: 'I was touched by your strange advertisement, as I myself was once in the same position. I found help through a noble Christian man, and if you will call and see me I will prove to you that there is a Christian who is able and willing to help you if you are worthy. Ask to see me personally, as I am sorry to say my partner is an infidel, and, though a good man, he might not be disposed to look at your case so kindly.'

"My heart jumped with joy on reading this kind letter, and for a little while I forgot the other one. But I soon opened it and read as follows: 'I was deeply stirred by the undertone of despair in your advertisement, as I was once as friendless as you are. I found a start in life through a noble man who, like myself, was an unbeliever. And if you will call and see me I will prove to you that there is an infidel who is both able and willing to do for you what you start in life if you are worthy. Ask to see me personally, as my partner is a Christian, and, though a good man, he might not be disposed to look on your case kindly.'

"Wonderful coincidence, wasn't it? But the most wonderful part of the story is yet to be told. These two men were partners. Each one of them was trying to do a good deed without the knowledge of the other.

"The end of the story? Well, that was interesting and remarkable too. After trying in vain to decide to which of these two gentlemen I should make myself known I determined to see them together and read the two letters to them. I did so, and you ought to have seen the look of blank surprise that came over the faces of both men as they learned that, though differing so widely in creed, they were at one in acknowledging the religion of humanity. They were silent for a few moments, and then the Christian, with tears in his eyes, grasped the hand of his partner and said: 'Brother, I have wronged you, for I have learned that, without knowing it, you are not far from the kingdom of heaven.'

"It is I who have wronged you," exclaimed his partner, "in assuming that you would not obey the teaching of your Master to feed the hungry and clothe the naked. Let us hereafter live as brothers indeed, even though we may not be able to profess the same creed. And may the unknown God whom ignorantly we worship accept us at the last!"

"These two good men gave me a start and were my dearest friends until they died. The moral of it all? Well, I think there is more goodness in the world than can be cherished in any creed, however true."—New York Tribune.
The manufacture of quinine was begun in Philadelphia by John Parr in 1820, the year of its discovery.
Have You the Gout?
The following cure for the gout is taken from an old work: First, the person must pick a handkerchief from the pocket of a maid of 50 years who has never had a wish to change her condition; second, he must wash her an honest miller's pond; third, he must dry it on a person's hedge who was never covetous; fourth, he must send it to a doctor who never killed a patient; fifth, he must mark it with a lawyer's ink who never cheated a client; sixth, apply to the part affected, and a cure will speedily follow.

An Act of Misfeasance.

Two passengers on an Atlantic liner, one an American and the other an Englishman, did not exchange the farewell courtesies when the steamer reached her pier usual between voyagers who have peopled adjoining staterooms and hobnobbed during an ocean voyage. A plausible explanation was vouchsafed by the American.

During the voyage the Englishman persisted in fraternizing with the American in a most obtrusive and annoying manner. Within two days of Boston the Englishman one morning hunted up the American and found him in apparent despondency, gazing seaward from the hurricane deck.

"Confounded be this morning, old chap. What's the matter?" And the Britisher slapped his companion on the back.

"Matter enough?" growled the American. "Ship's lost; captain don't know which way to steer. Forgot to wind the compass last night."

The Englishman listened with mouth agape, then rushed off to tell his friends of the consequential mishap. Evidently the glib Britisher was "pushed along" for some time until he found everybody gazing him.—Boston Post.

He Knew Playfair.

The manager of the phosphate mine was a Scotchman, tall, big boned, with the strongest Glasgow Doric in his tongue. At first he was abhorred and desired us to leave the ground and to drop the specimens which we had taken before he appeared. At last I addressed him in good Scotch and asked him whether he thought I was a mining adventurer. "Aye, that's just what you are."

"No," I replied, "I am a Scotch professor."

"Then, if ye are, ye'll be havin a name."

"My name," I said, "is Playfair."

"Man," said my Scotch friend, "are ye Lyon Playfair?" I assured him I was, but expressed surprise that he knew the name, to which he replied, looking from his 6 feet 2 inches with compassion on my 5 feet 4 inches, "Hoot, mon, yer name's traveled farther than yer wegs will ever carry ye."—Letters of Lyon Playfair.

ONLY ONE CURE FOR SCROFULA.

S. S. S. is the Only Remedy Equal to this Obstinate Disease.

There are dozens of remedies recommended for Scrofula, some of them no doubt being able to afford temporary relief, but S. S. S. is absolutely the only remedy which completely cures it. Scrofula is one of the most obstinate deep-seated blood diseases, and is beyond the reach of the many so-called purifiers and tonics because something more than a mere tonic is required. S. S. S. is equal to any blood trouble, and never fails to cure Scrofula, because it goes down to the seat of the disease, thus permanently eliminating every trace of the taint.

The serious consequences to which Scrofula surely leads should impress upon those afflicted with it the vital importance of waiting no time upon treatment which can not possibly effect a cure. In many cases where the wrong treatment has been relied upon, complicated glandular swellings have resulted, for which the doctors insist that a dangerous surgical operation is necessary.

Mr. H. E. Thomson, of Milledgeville, Ga., writes: "A bad case of Scrofula broke out on the glands of my neck, which had to be lanced and caused me much suffering. I was treated for a long while, but the physicians were unable to cure me, and my condition was as bad as when I began their treatment. Many blood remedies were used, but without effect. Some one recommended S. S. S., and I began to improve as soon as I had taken a few bottles. Continuing the remedy, I was soon cured permanently, and have never had a sign of the disease to return."—Swift's Specific.

S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD

—Is the only remedy which can promptly reach and cure obstinate, deep-seated blood diseases. By relying upon it, and not experimenting with the various so-called tonics, etc., all sufferers from blood troubles can be promptly cured, instead of enduring years of suffering which gradually but surely undermines the constitution. S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable, and never fails to cure Scrofula, Eczema, Cancer, Rheumatism, Contagious Blood Poison, Boils, Tetter, Pimples, Sores, Ulcers, etc. Insist upon S. S. S., nothing can take its place. Books on blood and skin diseases will be mailed free to any address by the Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.

Wm. Judas Bryan is the way Editor Hitcock has it figured out.

Silas A. Holcomb has assumed his duties on the supreme bench.

The Lyons Sun says that "before the war the south had lots of negroes, but none to burn."

Senator Allen says he is not a candidate for the Presidency. No, he is a great talker but the Senator is not looking for that kind of a breeze which bodles ill to populism.

The year 1899 was one in which occurred fewer railway bankruptcies than for many years. This in itself is one of the best evidences of prosperity, but that makes no difference to populocracy.

The fusion state committees assembled at Lincoln last Friday and decided to hold their state conventions at Lincoln March 19th, for the purpose of naming delegates to the national convention.

Judge Scott will no longer be able to fine men for "contempt of court" at his own sweet will. He has been reduced to the ranks and is naught but a private citizen now and there are none to mourn.

The year 1900 promises to be one of the greatest years in commercial expansion ever known in this country, and for this reason and many others, the people will retain President McKinley at the helm.

As time moves on the cause of expansion grows stronger and stronger. It has assumed such proportions as existed in the days of President Jackson, and he was an expansionist with a big E unless history is a myth.

The Herald would be pleased to publish a list of all the German farmers of Wayne county who are opposed to the gold standard. We doubt if there is a successful German farmer in the county who has in any way studied the question, who is opposed to it.

The Blair Pilot pertinently remarks that "Democratic papers are quick to resent the idea that the present prosperity and era of good wages are the result of a republican administration. But who would have come in for the blame in case no prosperity had occurred?"

The Dakota City Argus is in favor of smashing the tariff and suggests that it will smash the trusts. Cleveland tried that once and came very near smashing the whole country. It will not be tried again soon. But democracy is in a hard row for an issue and one thing is about as good as another.

Knowing the cost of producing advertising space is the great antidote for the rate-cutting disease. No publisher knowing that he pays, say, 3 cents an inch for the space at his command, will sell it to an advertiser, no matter how desirable the business, at say, 2 1/2 cents an inch. Such action would be equivalent to making the advertiser a present amounting to the difference between what he pays and what the space costs the publisher, plus the profit the publisher should receive. Yet the majority of the publishers go on year after year making presents to advertisers, simply because they lack the business sense to ascertain the cost of the commodity they sell and therefore do business blindly. Isn't it time publishers opened their eyes to the folly of their methods, or lack of methods, of space-selling?—Newspaperdom.

INDIANS.

Many, many moons ago there were two leading tribes of Indians in Nebraska who fought a common enemy for horses, plunder and scalps. Their antagonist was strong in numbers, villages, guns, powder and headmen and braves. But not in keeping their young men and warriors from committing depredations upon all surrounding territory nor to prevent them telling lies, breaking treaties and stealing all kinds of portable property.

The two tribes fighting these savages were about equal in numbers. But the older one of the two had more discipline, better organization and decidedly the best courage. It had certain adored traditions and legends as to what it was right to do and wrong not to do. For its inheritance of principles it had always been ready to fight even unto death at the stake. To battle whenever challenged, whether victory or vanquishment was assured, was the creed of that ancient clan. Scalps more than plunder were its inspiration.

But the younger tribe was after plunder not honor. And by infection it soon emulated the courage and love of principles of the older one. In six years it made the older one a toad and itself a serpent and then it eliminated the poor toad with nauseous saliva and swallowed it. Sometimes the serpent is sick at its stomach and wriggles terribly in its efforts to finally benevolently assimilate the ennobled allured and engulfed toad.

The old tribe was democracy; the new one populism; the common enemy republicanism.—Conservative.

Editorial Afterthoughts.
(Globe-Democrat.)

If we can drive the trusts into Canada it will at least show that we have some kind of control over them.

We are already far enough into 1900 to justify the deliberate conclusion that this is going to be another McKinley year.

During the year 1900 the American people will break the record by casting more votes for the Republican ticket than ever before.

Gen. Roberts is due at Cape Town January 12. It is to be hoped that he will be more punctual than Gen. Buller was in entering Pretoria.

Ex-Gov. Hoag declares that the cause of free silver is grounded in the affections of the masses. Yes, but the trouble is, it is back-grounded.

In his defense before the Government of Spain Admiral Montejó declares that he anticipated an attack by Dewey. Such being the case why didn't he get out of the way?

Nobody can tell what the democratic platform of 1900 will contain, but Col. Bryan is preparing for it by learning to do a bareback act on a stall-fed Texas ostrich.

If there are any gift swords left in stock one might very appropriately bestow upon young Mr. Brice who knocked an anti-expansion resolution out of the New York City Council.

The fact that Col. Bryan has been accumulating a menagerie in Texas may be taken as an indication that he intends to work the country with some kind of a striped fair racket this year.

His Wife Saved Him.

My wife's good advice saved my life writes E. M. Ross of Winfield, Tenn., for I had such a bad cough I could hardly breathe. I grew steadily worse under doctor's treatment, but my wife urged me to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me." Sewing on Trouble

There is an old proverb to the effect that every time you have a button sewed on the clothes you are wearing, the sewer sews on trouble. Whether this is true or not, it certainly TAKES trouble to sew up rips and on buttons. Good work won't rip—buttons well-sewed on won't come off. We try to do good work—we are ready at any time to make good deficiencies. WE WANT YOUR PATRONAGE.

Our beautiful weather has returned again and everybody is happy.

There will be a show here tomorrow night. Come to Carroll if you want something to go to every night.

James Worthen and James Hankens are digging a well for Mr. Yaryan. Any one wishing a well dog just call on the two Jims.

B. W. Wineland received a telegram Tuesday evening announcing the severe illness of his mother and requesting his immediate presence.

Mr. Merritt of Wakefield, is here closing up a deal that makes Mr. Thos. Sylvanus of Red Oak, owner of 160 acres of land two miles west of Carroll.

The protracted meetings are progressing nicely. All have listened to some very fine sermons and very deep ones searching out and explaining the mysteries of God so all could understand them.

The A. O. U. W. and D. of H. had a joint installation of the new officers, and a dinner supper this week. There were visiting members from Wayne and Randolph and a grand time was had by all.

The Hotel has gone into liquidation and the borders are scattered all over. This hotel is a nuisance. If some one would come here and build a good hotel, they would get all they could do and make money, too, right here in Carroll.

WINSIDE

Will Olmstead was in Wakefield, Sunday.

A. C. Goltz was a Laurel visitor Monday.

A. Woodward was in Winside, Thursday.

John Munday was in Wayne on Monday.

Mrs. J. S. Cookus went to Norfolk, Sunday.

Mabel Dodge came to Winside to visit old friends, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. L. S. Needham was called to Dubuque, Iowa, Thursday, on account of the sudden death of her nephew.

John Bender Station Agent here, is quite ill and has been compelled to have a relief agent take his place at the depot.

Herman Piepgras who formerly resided in Winside and knew working in a grist mill in Hanover, Kansas, was on our streets, Saturday.

Ray, Hagedorn pastor of the German Lutheran church here, went to Wisconsin, Tuesday morning. Rumor says he will bring a bride back with him.

Anders Christenson living northeast of Winside celebrated the 25th anniversary of the marriage of himself and wife on Monday by inviting a large circle of friends to enjoy their silver wedding with them.

Alva McClusky and Kathryn Chaplin were united in marriage at noon on Wednesday, Jan. 10, 1900, in the Methodist church here. Dean Connell an Episcopalian clergyman from Sioux City, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large audience. Both young people are well known here and the best wishes of many friends will go with them to their new home in Sioux City.

The small boys of our town have made themselves very dangerous citizens of late by the careless use of small guns which it is supposed their fond parents gave to them for their enjoyment. They have been practicing on almost anything animate or not as it happened around town whenever it was the property of themselves or others. Some considerable damage has been done and there has been much complaint but when they practiced on Will Trenn's covered carriage, Sunday they went too far and have the choice of buying a new top for the buggy or being arrested for malicious destruction of property. It is understood that they or their guardians will pay the amount demanded and many hope it will teach the boys a lesson which has been much needed by them.

The large and increasing circulation of the Iowa Homestead in this country is a matter for congratulation to the publishers and to good farming, for, of all the papers of its class in the country, it is easily the best and most helpful. Its special Farmers' Institute editions, issued with the regular edition the first week in each month, have been for years the admiration of all practical farmers. Written wholly by farmers, they are full of actual experience and smell of the soil. We have been fortunate enough this season to secure terms for the Homestead and its Special Farmers' Institute editions, together with the Poultry Farmer and the Farmers' Mutual Insurance Journal, four of the most valuable farm publications in the country, that enable us to offer the four in connection with our own paper for $1.25 for the entire five, one year. This is emphatically a good thing, and no farmer in this country should fail to take advantage of the offer. For a large line of thoroughly practical farm reading nothing has ever been offered before that equals it. A county paper, a farm paper, poultry paper, a farm insurance paper, and the Special Farmers' Institute, all for $1.25. Come in and order them.

Mrs. H. P. Hansen tells her friends how grateful she is for what Craig's Indian Medicine has done for her:

"We live on a farm 2 miles west and 1 mile south of Wakefield. For a long time prior to this summer I have been feeling poorly and this summer my health almost failed me entirely. My heart would flutter and I was so nervous that I could scarcely do any work. I had kidney and liver disease and female trouble. My limbs were swollen and veins black and varicose and I suffered from severe constipation of the bowels, sick stomach and headache. I suffered fearfully. My husband had spent a great deal of money trying to restore my health, but it was worse than wasted. Last spring when my sister, Emma Anderson, came home from teaching school she advised me to try Craig's Indian Remedies for she had taken them with splendid results and we ordered the first treatment from Sioux City. After taking it I felt so encouraged that I have continued the use of the medicine procuring it from the Craig Indian Medicine office at Wayne, Nebraska, and I rejoice to say that my troubles are fast disappearing. My limbs are not swollen, the enlarged veins have almost gone and I sleep much better. We now have a baby seven weeks old, fat and healthy. I took the medicine until the boy was born and have continued taking it since. There is something about Craig's Indian Medicine that puts new life into weak woman, and I feel it my duty to heartily recommend it to those that suffer. Yours respectfully, MRS. H. P. HANSEN, Wakefield, Neb.
