Norfolk News: To the Mayor and City council of Norfolk, Gentlemen: Your committee appointed to investi-gate the cost and advisability of estab-lishing a city electric light plant in the city of Norfolk, beg leave to submit the following report:

On June 14, 1900, Mayor Robertson and Councilmen Beck and Brammum went over to Wayne. We found a thriv-ing town of twenty five hundred peo-ple and were shown every courtesy possible by the officials and citizens. The town owns its own plant and es-tablished it in the year 1898 and oper-ates it in connection with the city wa-terworks. The town only uses three arc lights, and it had incandescent lights at each street intersection in the town (fifty in number). The incandes-cent lights are thirty-two candle power and the arc lights, the latest improved pattern of eight hundred candle power. We were there in the evening and there was no block in the town but was thor-oughly lighted, you could stand in the center of any block and see your shad-ow from the lights. They have a 125-horse power Corliss engine, also a 125 horse power upright boiler, which fur-nishes steam for waterworks pumps, a sketch of which is heretoattached. They have a thousand light dynamo with which they light the city, and ten miles of wire. They have eighteen hundred lights run almost exclusively on the meter system. They give a 12 o'clock service the year around, and in the winter time a morning service from five o'clock to 8 o'clock. The meter charge is ten cents per thousand watts, their flat rate is 50 cents per month for incandescent and six dollars for arc lights. We investigated very carefully the cost of lighting business houses and residences where meters were used and found that the dwellings had from ten to thirty lights, the low-est cost for any one month for the year 1899 on a residence was sixty-eight cents, the highest charge for any one month on a residence was one dollar and twenty-five cents. The largest church is the Presbyterian church, it has seventy-eight lights and the charge is on the meter system, it was complet-ed last fall and the average cost per month has been less than three dollars they use no other kind of lighting and the church is used for all church pur-poses. After paying all the operating expenses of the plant of every kind in-cluding repairs, salaries, etc., the plant cleared a thousand dollars. The cost of the plant complete was seventy two hundred dollars.

The 2 Johns! Take a Ride!

Yes, we took a ride to the country and on our trip took in that beautiful and thriving city of Winside. We saw much that pleased us and we hope the trip will do us good.

We noticed that in some fields the crops looked much bet-ter than it did in adjoining fields. Some corn was clean and much taller than corn in the next field. Some had good wheat while their neighbors had a poor prospect for a crop. Some oats were light while the next field was heavy. What is the reason that one farmer has good crops while his neighbor raises a poor crop? It is the same in business. One merchant has a good store and a good trade while others have plenty of goods but not much trade. The fact is we are not all alike. Some are successful where others fail. We don't know how we would succeed farming. We believe we would make a failure on the farm, because we have devoted our whole life to the clothing business and that is one of the reasons we have been successful. We are in many respects like the successful farmer. We sow good seed by selling only the best clothing. We fertilize it by the use of cash when we buy and that makes our business grow. We water it by advertising it and getting everybody to take some stock in it, by wearing Kuppen-heimer warranted clothing. We reap a good harvest by hav-ing everything wanted in season and cut prices to the lowest cash notch. We save our crop by selling for cash and help our neighbor to save his by making lower prices than he could buy on time. We market our crop in season and never carry anything over for the next year. We get a new crop of goods every year to please our customers. We are happy like the farmer because our business is growing and prospects are good. We are patriotic like the farmer and we want to get our work done by the 4th of July, so we can celebrate. We want every-body to visit us before the 4th and help us to clean up the bal-ance of our summer clothing and we will celebrate. We will have money left to celebrate with and so will you if you buy your outfit here. We will take our best girl and enjoy the day in one of Kuppenheimer's warranted suits, and you will do the same if you call on us before you buy.

When a few sulking republicans get through feeling good or bad over the imaginary delusion that they had "done up" some other republican, it would be well for the party here to begin to or-ganize for business. It's about time to devote attention to success instead of continually laboring to "do somebody."

CHOSEN BY ACCLAIM.

Vote of the Convention Unanimously Cast for Both Candidates.

Foraker Presents the Name of the President to Succeed Himself, and Late Young of Iowa Nominates Governor Roosevelt - Philadelphia Assembling Completes Its Work Amid Great Demonstrations.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 16.—The Republican national convention opened here this morning at 10 o'clock. The delegates, who were chosen by the voters of the various States, were gathered in the Convention hall, which is situated on the corner of Chestnut and Arch streets. The hall was filled with delegates from all over the country, and the atmosphere was one of great excitement and interest. The convention was presided over by Charles F. Johnson, of Michigan, who was elected by a unanimous vote. The first order of business was the reading of the report of the Executive Committee, which was presented by Charles F. Johnson. The report was a glowing one, and was received with great applause. The convention then proceeded to elect its permanent officers, and to adopt its platform. The platform was adopted by a unanimous vote, and was one of the most liberal and progressive ever adopted by the Republican Party. The convention then adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

country finds itself with responsibilities which did not exist before. It is stated that these responsibilities must be met, and comments the course which President McKinley has so far pursued in the matter. Porto Rico is grouped with the Philippine in the general statement that the Republican policy is in favor of giving both countries the largest measure of self-government that it is demonstrated the inhabitants are capable of receiving. The proposed plan to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans is called the Panama canal, in order to avoid binding the party to either the Nicaragua or Panama route, and advocates the building of a canal when the route is determined by the United States, and cannot be operated, owned, controlled and projected by this Government. The plank on the labor question advocates such legislation as will secure the greatest amount of employment at the best wages, and favors some plan of arbitration on labor disputes. Convict labor is denounced. A plank is also incorporated favor-

Or they have been of the nobler metals, of silver in several instances. This time the Rhode Island delegation presented to the chairman, through Delegate Child, a gavel made of bronze. It is a very ornamental piece of workmanship and suitably engraved, the ornamental work symbolizing the historical fame of the chairman's ancestry and the chief events in the history of Rhode Island.

Delegates Stand While "The Star-Spangled Banner" Is Played. Just before the convention was called to order the band broke into the stirring strains of the "Star-Spangled Banner." Gov. Roosevelt was the first on his feet in response to the national anthem. His rough ride had come off and he stood with head uncovered. Instantly the whole convention rose in mass. Ten thousand people stood while the stirring air was played and applauded it with a cheer as they took their seats.

WHEAT PRICES BOOM.

ADVANCE OF 16 CENTS A BUSHEL IN TWO WEEKS.

Heavy Demand for the Cereal by Shorts and Speculators—Northwest Reports Constant Rise in Prices—That the Price Will Reach $1.

Wheat advanced with giant strides on the grain exchanges of the country Wednesday. On the Chicago Board of Trade prices advanced nearly 4 cents, and the July delivery touched the high point at the close, 83½ cents, and later sold up to 85 cents. The close showed a jump of 16 cents in two weeks. In Minneapolis prices advanced 4½ cents. There was only 8½ cents between prices in Chicago and Liverpool, while the cost of shipping and selling is 16 cents. "Frustrated efforts on the part of those who were short to purchase the advancing cereal and a marked increase in the number of buying orders received from the country were phases of Board of Trade dealings. There has been no such excitement on the Board of Trade in ten years, says a dispatch. The pit was the scene of a struggling mass of shouting humanity yesterday, so crowded that it was difficult to get in. It became so large a market that individual operations cut no figure, and the big traders were lost sight of. High dry weather in the Northwest, and the reports from the Northwest of a serious drought, were reported at 10, is seriously affecting the spring wheat crop in the Dakotas and Minnesota, and well-posted men, who two weeks ago estimated the yield of the three States at 100,000,000 bushels, now say that there will be only 75,000,000 bushels. This makes the fall holders more confident of their position, and they are taking $1 wheat with much unconcern. Minneapolis and Duluth exchanges experienced a rising market and high prices. Reports from the Dakotas and Minnesota were worse even than former bulletins had reported. Correspondents from these regions said that instead of half a crop there was a strong probability that the yield would be less than one-third. They felt the influence of the advance in wheat and sold in Chicago at $4.25 a barrel. Conservative men who have studied the crop bulletins carefully did not hesitate to say that they would not be surprised to see one dollar wheat.

NOTICE OF AMNESTY.

United States Department of War. The War Department has made public notice of amnesty which was issued by Gen. MacArthur at Manila. By direction of the President, Military Governor MacArthur announces amnesty, with complete immunity for the past and absolute liberty of action for the future, to all persons who are now or at any time since Feb. 4, 1899, have been in insurrection against the United States in either a military or a civil capacity and who shall within a period of ninety days formally renounce all connection with such insurrection and subscribe to a declaration acknowledging and accepting the sovereignty and authority of the United States in and over the Philippine Islands. The privilege is extended to all concerned without exception whatsoever, excepting that persons who have violated the rules of war during the period of active hostilities are not embraced within the scope of the amnesty.

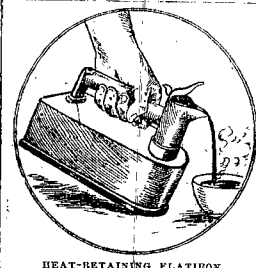

ETIQUETTE OF A MAN'S HAT.

Plays Greater Part in the Intercourse of Others than of Americans. "Walking up 16th street recently," said a Washingtonian who has traveled extensively, to a Star reporter, "I observed Secretary Hay remove his hat to two gentlemen, who returned the salutation in the same manner. They were members of the Diplomatic corps. "As all know, the American style of salutation when two or more gentlemen meet is an inclination of the head or a wave of the hand. The hat is doffed to the gentler sex only. On the continent it would be an insult for a gentleman to pass an acquaintance without removing the hat. If they are friends the salutation is even more formal, and includes a shake of the hand and the exchange of a few complimentary remarks. "The French are accounted the most punctilious and ceremonial of people. I think the Belgians are even more so. Their customs are French, however. They have a language of their own, but the names of the streets in Brussels are in both French and Belgian on the same signboard. "I spent a week in the Belgium capital, where a member of the American legation visited me about. I made the acquaintance of many Belgian gentlemen, and the salutation between my diplomatic friend and those he met was something like this: "Ah, count, I am delighted to greet you," a cordial smile, a ceremonious lifting of the hat, a hearty shake of the hand and an inclination of the body in a polite bow. "My dear Colonel—, the pleasure is wholly mine. I am rejoiced to see you. I trust you are very well." (Same formula.) "My friend, Mr. —, of Washington." (Same formula on my part and that of the count.) "After an interchange of mutually complimentary remarks the ceremonies attending the introduction were repeated as we respectively said 'au revoir,' and replaced our silk hats for the last time upon our heads. It was a novelty, but when I repeated it a fortnight ago I experienced a crick in the small of my back. "My friends explained to me that continental gentlemen of high social position were not pressed by political and financial affairs as are Americans in similar walks of life, and the hurry and haste we display is unknown to them."

Coffee Pot and Saffron.

Charles C. Turner, of Albany, Ga., has designed the combination daffron and coffee pot shown in the cut, the main object of which is to provide a means of retaining heat in the iron for a greater length of time than is possible in the ordinary iron. This aim is accomplished by tilting the internal reservoir with boiling water, which immediately heats the daffron to a temperature adapted to press clothing without the danger of scorching the fabric. As the iron cools the water is expelled out and replaced by boiling water from the teakettle when it is instantly ready to use again. To further aid in retaining the heat a covering of non-conducting material is placed around the body of the iron, being supported out of contact with the metallic surface, with an intervening air space to increase its effectiveness. When the utensil is utilized as a coffee pot it is filled with the ground coffee and water in the ordinary manner, and it goes without saying that the coffee will retain its heat much longer than in the common pots.

Rhubarb or Pieplant.

This common garden plant is delicious stewed as sauce, good baked in pies, nice half preserved in sirup and is good to eat for winter. A delicious ice can be made by stewing and straining, making the resulting syrup very sweet, and putting in a freezer, where it is treated like any other ice. Add the well-beaten whites of eggs, when the ice begins to thicken will freeze. A pretty pyrogone can be made of it by using common stewed rhubarb to fill a deep pie pan. Add the beaten yolks of two eggs, enough sugar to make quite sweet, flavor with lemon extract and bake in a crust till the mixture is set; then beat the whites of eggs to a stiff froth, add two teaspoons of sugar, beating it. Spread over the pie and brown delicately in the oven.

How to Sweep.

Nearly all housekeepers are troubled more or less with dust, especially in carpeted rooms and sleeping rooms. When I have dusty rooms to sweep I do not close the doors and sweep in a way to raise the fine dust to settle again over the room; neither do I use a wet broom or damped dust, but I choose a dry day when there is a strong breeze, then by opening doors and windows, I get a good current of air through the rooms. Beginning at the windward side, I sweep, raising all the dust I can. The fine dust, disease germ and impure air are carried out by the wind, leaving the rooms fresh and sweet. If there is dust on the furniture or walls, it is brushed off while the windows are still open.—Mrs. J. B. Green.

Grilled Lamb.

An old recipe for grilling a shoulder of lamb directs that it be scored moderately in checks an inch long, rubbed with yolk of an egg and melted butter over that, covered with powdered bread crumbs, sprinkled with salt, pepper and powdered sweet herbs. It should be well basted, and when done should be a light brown color. Gravy: Set over the fire a gill of hot water with the drippings from the meat; when it boils, thicken with a little flour and water, adding a tablespoonful of tomato catsup, the grated rind and juice of a lemon, with salt and pepper.

Stewed Raisins.

Stewed raisins will find a ready sale to be an excellent food for invalids. Take a pound of best raisins, pick them free from stalks, cover in a dish of cold water, steep all night, put them in a stew pan and bring the water to a boiling point, then simmer until the skins are quite tender. Turn into a dish to cool and they are ready for use. If half a pound of figs, each cut in four parts, be added, the liquor will be rich, syrupy and delicious.

Cleaning Stained Ware.

If a hard, dry coating remains upon the inside of iron or enameled ware in which food has been cooked fill the utensil with water in which a tablespoonful of soda has been dissolved, and allow it to boil until the coating is softened so as to scorb off readily. If tinware is much tarnished boil it in soda and water, and it will then be more easy to scorb and polish. To clean sieves, quickly scrub them in hot soda water, rinse well and shake dry.

Chocolate Biscuits.

Put one pint of milk in a double boiler. When hot add two ounces of grated chocolate or two heaping teaspoons of cocoa. Add half a cupful of sugar. Moisten three level table-spoons of corn starch with a little cold milk, add them to the hot milk and chocolate, stir until thick and smooth, turn into the mold and stand a minute to drain. Serve cold with cream.

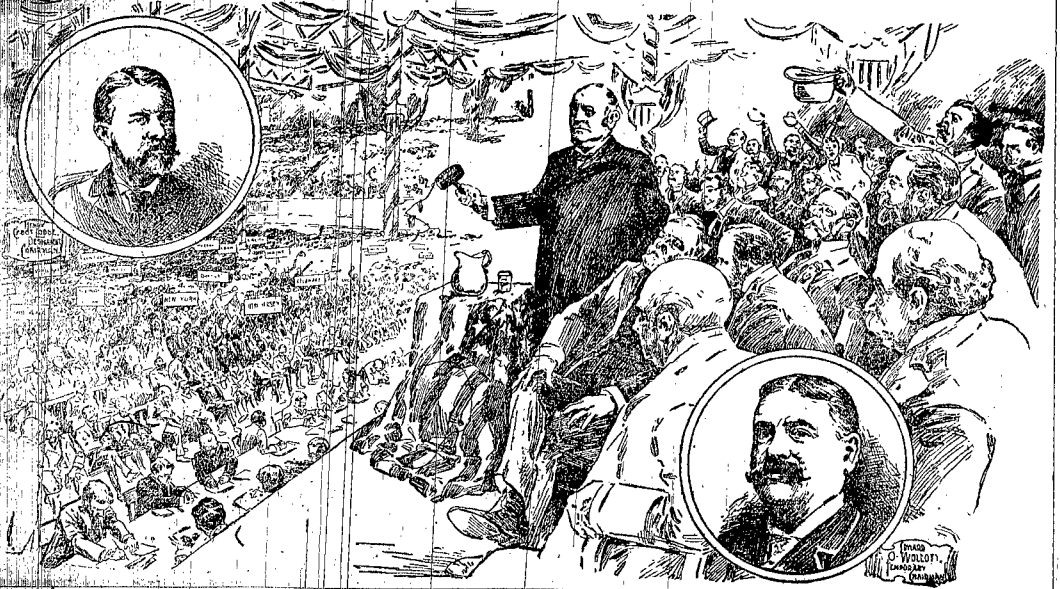

Vermont Maple Sugar.

Vermont turns out more maple sugar and syrup than all the rest of the country combined, though many other States make maple-sap products, especially New York.

Mortality in Rome.

The mortality in Rome has been reduced within a few years from twenty-five per 1,000 to fifteen per 1,000.

OPENING OF THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION IN PHILADELPHIA.

The late 1856 on a steamer attached to the steamer carrying the banner of the Republican Party. The distinguished delegates of the Republican Party, and leading members of the Democratic Party, were present. The convention was opened by the reading of the report of the Executive Committee, which was presented by Charles F. Johnson. The report was a glowing one, and was received with great applause. The convention then proceeded to elect its permanent officers, and to adopt its platform. The platform was adopted by a unanimous vote, and was one of the most liberal and progressive ever adopted by the Republican Party. The convention then adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

which would tend to an extension of the merchant marine interests of the United States. Sympathy is expressed for the Boers, and the present situation in China is referred to in a paragraph suggesting it to be the duty of the United States to protect the interests of its citizens wherever they may be. THURSDAY'S SESSION. It was nearly forty minutes after the scheduled time for beginning when Senator Hanna made for quiet while Archibald Kerrigan invoked divine blessing on the convention. After the full report of the committee on rules was adopted, Chairman Lodge announced that the next order of business was the nomination for President, and called on Alabama. This State elected Mr. McKinley a senator before the convention in a speech which was one of the most oratorical efforts that will likely appear has been made. He was repeatedly interrupted by the plaudits of his audience and in the conclusion of his address there was a wave of applause that required ten minutes to subside. Mr. Roosevelt, the choice for Vice-president, seconded the nomination in an oratorical effort, which captured the convention. Senator Foraker was also followed by John W. Yeakes of Kentucky, George H. Hays of California and Gov. Mann of Indiana. The delegates became more and more responsive to the vigorous demands Senator Lodge ordered the roll call, which resulted in every vote being cast for McKinley.

BUSY WITH THE CAMERA.

Every aspect of the convention and the assemblage has been preserved if the cameras have not failed. Every movement of Chairman Hanna was registered on the delicate plates. When the venerable chaplain, in the robes of his church, arose to pronounce the invocation, the well-known speaker has been made. He was trained upon him the camera had its machine delivered of temporary Chairman Wolcott's speech there were cameras directed at the delegates and across the convention hall at the people in the galleries. Three cameras did business during every hour of the opening session of the convention. When the ensemble of the hall was taken from every viewpoint the lenses

Form. The correspondents were within easy access to the tunnels which led to an immense roomed space back of the stage. Here were the quarters of the telegraph lines and of the messenger service. Pages and messengers were at hand at every moment.

Inauguration of Owen Post Kruger.

One of the delegates to the convention from Michigan is the inaugurator of Owen Post Kruger of the Transvaal. His name is W. H. C. Mitchell, and he is 76 years old. He has never been in Philadelphia since before that was in 1856, when he came to attend a convention of the American party.

Brisk Trade in Buttons.

The street vendors did a thriving business in buttons and badges. A lively trade was also carried on in cents for the convention at rates varying from 5¢ for a single session up to 80¢ for the three sessions.

Wonders of the Paris Exposition.

Electric ships on the River Seine that will go at the rate of fifty miles an hour. Palace of Light, with walls of glass and crystal, studded with diamonds and pearl draperies. Biggest wine cask in the world, forty-five feet high, with its top used as a dancing pavilion. Mosque of Omar of Jerusalem, which stands on the site of Solomon's Temple, to be reproduced. REVENUE AND SURPLUS.
Comparisons Which Appeal to Common Sense and Judgement.

After three years of experience under the Dingley Tariff law it is worth while to observe how absolutely these results have fulfilled the expectations of the statesman who framed that measure. No tariff act was ever more bitterly opposed by the Free-Trade men than that which passed Congress July 24, 1897; none ever so speedily confounded its enemies, or has any ever so happily surprised its supporters. The effects of its operation can be most clearly shown by a few comparisons between present conditions and those which prevailed four years ago.
On May 31, 1896, for example, the available cash in the treasury amounted to $267,193,211, but a large proportion of this was obtained by the Cleveland policy of selling bonds in time of peace. The balance steadily declined, however, and at the outbreak of the Spanish War in 1898 it had fallen to $215,510,822. Since then we have passed through a war involving the expenditure of $388,000,000, yet the cash in the Treasury on May 31 of this year amounted to $239,665,535, with the moral certainty of a still further increase. In May, 1896, the Government receipts amounted to $54,443,717, and the expenditures to $28,420,662, but in May, 1900, the receipts were $45,166,652 and the expenditures were $45,330,000, showing a surplus for May this year of $4,836,652, as against a deficit of $3,738,375 for the corresponding month four years ago. Or, to draw the contrast on broader lines, there was a surplus of $63,856,142 for the eleven months ending May 31, 1900, as against a deficit of $27,552,679 for the eleven months ending May 31, 1896.

These striking results are due almost wholly to the Dingley Tariff. For May 1896 the custom receipts amounted to $10,942,793, while for May, 1900 they rose to $17,396,573, and that, too, in spite of the fact that our imports last month were 30 per cent less than in the corresponding month four years ago. The Free-Trade contention that the enactment of the Dingley law would ruin our export trade is best answered by the fact that our exports which amounted to $807,538,135 under the Wilson-Gorman Tariff in 1875, rose to $1,327,023,803 under the Dingley measure in 1890. The balance of trade in our favor in 1896 was $102,882,264. For the year ending April, 1900, it was $513,812,893. These comparisons make their own appeal to American common sense and business judgement.—New York "Mail and Express."

The ticket named by the republican national convention at Philadelphia, is one of the strongest if not the strongest ever placed in nomination by a republican convention. President McKinley, the great soldier statesman, has won the admiration of the world by his administration of affairs in this great country during the past four years, bringing a country out of calamity and chaos into prosperity and happiness which is the marvel of the entire world, in addition to carrying on one of the most successful wars in the cause of humanity ever known. The president's running mate, Gov. Theodore Roosevelt, has become the idol of Americans. His glorious war record, his record as the governor of New York, his splendid administration of affairs during his services in behalf of the administration and his splendid Americanism has won for him a place in the hearts of his fellow countrymen that few men ever attain. McKinley and Roosevelt is a ticket that every republican can turn to with pride and it is one that will sweep the country from one end to the other.

Republican Judicial Convention.
The republican judicial convention for the ninth judicial district was held at Norfolk, Thursday afternoon June 21, A. A. Welch was selected as chairman and Jack Koenigstein, secretary. Mr. Welch could have had the nomination but owing to his largely increasing law business was obliged to decline it. The informal ballot was:
J. F. Boyd of Antelope county, 14 1/2; Sol Draper of Knox, 14 1/2; A. A. Welch of Wayne, 24 1/2; Wm. M. Robertson of Madison 4.
On motion the convention proceeded to the first formal ballot, which resulted: Boyd 28; Draper 23 3/4; Robertson 5 7/8.
The second formal ballot was announced as follows: Boyd, 32 2/4; Draper, 24 8/10.
On motion the nomination of Mr. Boyd was made unanimous.

The difference between John R. Hays and John E. Robinson is less perhaps in the character and ability of the two men than in the principles they represent. Mr. Hays is a gentleman, a scholar and possess unquestionable ability to creditably represent this district in congress. He is fully in sympathy with the administration of President McKinley and stands for a continuation of the present prosperous conditions that are now blessing our country. Mr. Robinson is also a gentleman and scholar but has placed himself on record as being opposed to existing conditions. He stands for a low tariff and is directly opposed to President McKinley and his administration. Men who desire a return of the ruinous times which are still fresh in all minds should support Judge Robinson. All others should support Judge Hays.—Antelope Floater.

"I had stomach trouble twenty years and gave up hope of being cured till I came to use Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It has done me so much good I call it the savior of my life," writes W. R. Wilkinson, Albany, Tenn. It digests what you like the smell!

IMPERIAL.
Allen, Pettigrew, and in short all the leading populists and Bryanarohists in the United States, denounce banks and bankers as menaces to the plain people. All of the large-brained, experienced and mature statesmen of the discontented school in the United States favor the policy of government itself doing all the bill-laying for the people. These learned and philanthropic benefactors would place the power to make paper-money in the hands of the congress of the United States and nowhere else. Under their scheme of finance there would be no plutocratic possibility of a "contraction" for the purpose of putting up the rates of interest. The plain people would be protected forever against the incursions and ravages of the omnivorous octopus.

THE DESPOT.
But the members of the house of representatives and of the senate of the congress of the United States would have unlimited power over the currency of the country. This power could be used and would be used by each succeeding congress to either expand or contract the monetary circulation. The caprice of congress and not the commerce of the country would determine the volume of circulating money that the American people might need.
Talk of imperialism, of centralized power, of despotism; where on earth can be found a more potent concentration of power than in the vested right to say how much money may circulate in a given country at any time? Congress would be a czar. It could limit or increase the currency at will. It could be, and would be, the vilest, cruelest, wickedest despotism on the globe. For it the populist party and all its allies labor.—Conservative.

The Bryan Vote.
Mr. Bryan has frequently made the claim that he received an unusually large popular-vote in 1896. Because of the oft-repeated assertions of this character, many people have been deceived into believing that Mr. Bryan proved an exceptionally strong candidate and would have been president if the popular vote instead of the electoral vote had determined the result. To correct an impression so at variance with the facts it is only necessary to refer to the history of the presidential elections.
Mr. W. H. Clifford has compiled the presidential vote, from the first campaign of Jackson in 1824 to the election in 1896. It will be a surprise to many an ardent Bryanarohist to know that the representative of the sacred ratio received the smallest per cent of the popular vote of any democratic nominee during the entire period. The defeat of Greeley has always been regarded as the most humiliating disaster to the democratic party. Greeley received 41 per cent of the popular vote. This record of Greeley was eclipsed by Bryan in 1896. Mr. Bryan received but 40 per cent of the popular vote. This showing ought to silence the absurd claims put forth by Bryanarohists, whose lack of judgement is in part compensated for an excess of enthusiasm. There is but one possibility for the democrats to duplicate the humiliating record of 1896 and that is by repeating the nomination made at that time.—Conservative.

It acts immediately and cures coughs, colds, croup, grippe, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles. L. P. Orth.

Politics and Business.
The attitude of Eastern Democrats toward the candidacy of Mr. Bryan presents a queer phase of politics. They do not want Bryan and the Chicago platform with its business-disturbing, panic-producing characteristics, but they cannot help themselves, for the situation long ago got beyond their control. Eastern Democratic delegations are going to holler themselves hoarse for nominee and platform, and the slate will go through with one great unanimous hurrah.

So much for the convention and the delegations. But what about the Democrats who don't go to Kansas City, but stay at home and devote their attention to making money? They were not heard from in the nominating convention, and they will not be heard from during the noisy campaign that is to follow. They are not saying a word now, and they are not going to say a word hostile to Bryan and the party.
To all outward appearances they will be Bryan Democrats, and they will keep right on making money and taking advantage of the opportunities for which they are indebted to Republican prosperity. Will they vote to change these conditions, to destroy these opportunities? They may encourage the belief that they are going to support the national party ticket, but will they? None but themselves can answer this question, and they won't tell. What the business Democrat has to say about the supreme folly of changing present conditions he will say secretly in the form of a ballot next September. Unless all signs fall what the business Democrat says on that occasion will be something that Mr. Bryan won't like.—American Economist.

A Life And Death Fight.
Mrs. W. C. Hines of Manchester, Ia., writing of her almost miraculous escape from death says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in consumption. Hundreds have used it on my advice and all say it never fails to cure throat, chest and lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Raymond's drug store.

Women Wonder Why
They are doomed to so much suffering. But are they doomed? Is not the suffering the result of conditions which under skillful treatment might be entirely cured? Thousands of women who had been great sufferers, have learned that suffering was unnecessary after using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It heals diseases of the delicate womanly organs and banishes the headache, backache and other aches which are the consequence of these diseases.
"Favorite Prescription" is absolutely a temperance medicine in the strictest meaning of the term. It contains no alcohol and is free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

Had hemorrhages for weeks at a time, and was unable to sit up for ten minutes at a time. You answered my letter, advised me to use your valuable medicine, viz., Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and 'Pessant Pellets'; also gave advice about injections, baths and diet. To my surprise, in four months from the time I began your treatment, I was a well woman and have not had a headache since, and now I put in sixteen hours a day at hard work."

REVENUE AND SURPLUS.

Comparisons Which Appeal to Common Sense and Judgement.

After three years of experience under the Dingley Tariff law it is worth while to observe how absolutely the results have fulfilled the expectations of the statesman who framed that measure. No tariff act was ever more bitterly opposed by the Free-Traders than that which passed Congress July 24, 1897; none ever so speedily confounded its enemies, or has any ever so happily surprised its supporters. The effects of its operation can be most clearly shown by a few comparisons between present conditions and those which prevailed four years ago.

On May 31, 1896, for example, the available cash in the treasury amounted to $267,193,211, but a large proportion of this was obtained by the Cleveland policy of selling bonds in time of peace. The balance steadily declined, however, and at the outbreak of the Spanish War in 1898 it had fallen to $215,810,622. Since then we have passed through a war involving the expenditure of $388,000,000, yet the cash in the Treasury on May 31 of this year amounted to $299,885,535, with the moral certainty of a still further increase. In May, 1896, the Government receipts amounted to $54,913,717, and the expenditures to $78,426,692, but in May, 1900, the receipts were $45,160,632 and the expenditures were $45,330,000, showing a surplus for May this year of $4,536,653, as against a deficit of $3,784,875 for the corresponding month four years ago. Or, to draw the contrast on broader lines, there was a surplus of $63,350,142 for the eleven months ending May 31, 1900, as against a deficit of $27,652,679 for the eleven months ending May 31, 1896.

These striking results are due almost wholly to the Dingley Tariff. For May 1896 the custom receipts amounted to $10,949,793, while for May, 1900 they rose to $17,396,573, and that, too, in spite of the fact that our imports last month were 30 per cent less than in the corresponding month four years ago. The Free-Trade contention that the actment of the Dingley law would ruin our export trade is best answered by the fact that our exports which amounted to $807,538,169 under the Wilson-Gorman Tariff in 1875, rose to $1,227,023,303 under the Dingley measure in 1890. The balance of trade in our favor in 1896 was $102,882,264. For the year ending April, 1900, it was $512,812,633. These comparisons make their own appeal to American common sense and business judgment.—New York "Mail and Express."

The ticket named by the republican national convention at Philadelphia is one of the strongest if not the strongest ever placed in nomination by a republican convention. President McKinley, the great soldier statesman, has won the admiration of the world by his administration of affairs in this great country during the past four years, bringing a country out of calamity and chaos into prosperity and happiness which is the marvel of the entire world, in addition to carrying on one of the most successful wars in the cause of humanity ever known. The president's running mate, Gov. Theodore Roosevelt, has become the idol of Americans. His glorious war record, his record as the governor of New York, his splendid administration of affairs during his services in behalf of the administration and his splendid Americanism has won for him a place in the hearts of his fellow countrymen that few men ever attain. McKinley and Roosevelt is a ticket that every republican can turn to with pride and it is one that will sweep the country from one end to the other.

Republican Judicial Convention.

The republican judicial convention for the ninth judicial district was held at Norfolk, Thursday afternoon June 21, A. A. Welch was selected as chairman and Jack Koenigstein, secretary. Mr. Welch could have had the nomination but owing to his largely increasing law business was obliged to decline it. The informal ballot was:

J. F. Boyd of Antelope county, 14%; Sol Draper of Knox, 14%; A. A. Welch of Wayne, 24%; Wm. M. Robertson of Madison 4.

On motion the convention proceeded to the first formal ballot, which resulted: Boyd 28; Draper 23 3-10; Robertson 5-10.

The second formal ballot was announced as follows: Boyd, 32 2-10; Draper, 24 8-10.

On motion the nomination of Mr. Boyd was made unanimous.

The difference between John R. Hays and John S. Robinson is less perhaps in the character and ability of the two men than in the principles they represent. Mr. Hays is a gentleman, a scholar and possesses unquestionable ability to creditably represent this district in congress. He is fully in sympathy with the administration of President McKinley and stands for a continuation of the present prosperous conditions that are now blessing our country. Mr. Robinson is also a gentleman and scholar but has placed himself on record as being opposed to existing conditions. He stands for a low tariff and is directly opposed to President McKinley and his administration. Men who desire a return of the ruinous times which are still fresh in all minds should support Judge Robinson. All others should support Judge Hays.—Stanton Pleket.

"I had stomach trouble twenty years and gave up hope of being cured till I began to use Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It has done me so much good I call it the savior of my life," writes W. R. Wilkinson, Albany, Tenn. It digests what you eat.

IMPERIAL.

Allen, Pettigrew, and to short all the leading populists and Bryanarohists in the United States, denounce banks and bankers as enemies to the plain people. All of the large-brained, experienced and mature statesmen of the discontent school in the United States favor the policy of government itself doing all the bill-paying for the people. These learned and philanthropic benefactors would place the power to make paper-money in the hands of the congress of the United States and nowhere else. Under their scheme of finance there would be no plutocratic possibility of a "contraction" for the purpose of putting up the rates of interest. The plain people would be protected forever against the incursions and ravages of the omnivorous octopus.

THE DESPOT.

But the members of the house of representatives and of the senate of the congress of the United States would have unlimited power over the currency of the country. This power could be used and would be used by each succeeding congress to either expand or contract the monetary circulation. The caprice of congress and not the commerce of the country would determine the volume of circulating money that the American people might need. Talk of imperialism, of centralized power, of despotism; where on earth can be found a more potent concentration of power than in the vested right to say how much money may circulate in a given country at any time? Congress would be a czar. It could limit or increase the currency at will. It could be, and would be, the vilest, coarsest, wickedest despotism on the globe. For it the populist party and all its allies labor.—Conservative.

The Bryan Vote.

Mr. Bryan has frequently made the claim that he received an unusually large popular vote in 1896. Because of the oft-repeated assertions of this character, many people have been deceived into believing that Mr. Bryan proved an exceptionally strong candidate and would have been president if the popular vote instead of the electoral vote had determined the result. To correct an impression so at variance with the facts it is only necessary to refer to the history of the presidential elections.

Mr. F. H. Clifford has compiled the presidential vote, from the first campaign of Jackson in 1824 to the election in 1896. It will be a surprise to many an ardent Bryanarohist to know that the representative of the sacred ratio received the smallest percent of the popular vote of any democratic nominee during the entire period. The defeat of Greely has always been regarded as the most humiliating disaster to the democratic party. Greely received 44 per cent of the popular vote. This record of Greely was eclipsed by Bryan in 1896. Mr. Bryan received but 40 per cent of the popular vote. This showing ought to silence the absurd claims put forth by Bryanarohists, whose lack of judgement is in part compensated for an excess of enthusiasm. There is but one possibility for the democrats to duplicate the humiliating record of 1896 and that is by repeating the nomination made at that time.—Conservative.

It acts immediately and cures coughs, colds, croup, grippe, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles." L. P. Orth.

Politics and Business.

The attitude of Eastern Democrats toward the candidacy of Mr. Bryan presents a queer phase of politics. They do not want Bryan and the Chicago platform with its business-disturbing, panic-producing characteristics, but they cannot help themselves, for the situation long ago got beyond their control. Eastern Democratic delegations in the Kansas City Convention are going to holler themselves hoarse for nominee and platform, and the slate will go through with one great unanimous hurrah.

As much for the convention and the delegations! But what about the Democrats who don't go to Kansas City, but stay at home and devote their attention to making money? They were not heard from in the nominating convention, and they will not be heard from during the noisy campaign that is to follow. They are not saying a word now and they are not going to say a word hostile to Bryan and the party.

To all outward appearances they will be Bryan Democrats, and they will keep right on making money and taking advantage of the opportunities for which they are indebted to Republican prosperity. Will they vote to change these conditions, to destroy these opportunities? They may encourage the belief that they are going to support the national party ticket, but will they? None but themselves can answer this question, and they wont tell. What the business Democrats has to say about the supreme folly of changing present conditions he will say secretly in the form of a ballot next September. Unless all signs fall what the business Democrats says on that occasion will be something that Mr. Bryan won't like.—American Economist.

A Life And Death Fight.

Mrs. W. O. Hines of Manchester, Ia., writing of her almost miraculous escape from death says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery which wholly cured me. Hundreds have used it on my advice and all say it never fails to cure throat, chest and lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Raymond's drug store.

Women Wonder Why

They are doomed to so much suffering. But are they doomed? Is not the suffering the result of conditions which under skillful treatment might be entirely cured? Thousands of women who had been great sufferers, have learned that suffering was unnecessary after using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It heals diseases of the delicate womanly organs and banishes the headache, backache and other aches which are the consequence of these diseases.

"Favorite Prescription" is absolutely a temperance medicine in the strictest meaning of the term. It contains no alcohol and is free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. "I write you for advice February 4th, 1896," writes Mrs. Louisa Hagsted, of Clearmore, Oregon. "I was racked with pain from the back of my head down to my feet. Had hemorrhage for weeks at a time, and was unable to sit up for ten minutes at a time. You answered my letter, advised me to use your valuable medicine, viz. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Golden Medical Discovery, and Pleasant Pellets, also gave advice about injections, baths and diet. To my surprise, in four months from the time I began your treatment I was a well woman and have not had the headache since, and now I put in six hours a day at hard work."

TERRIFIC HURRICANE.

Wind and Rain Visits this Section, Doing Considerable Damage.

WORST KNOWN IN YEARS

Trees Blown Down, Out-Houses, Barns, and Small Buildings, Blown Over.—Business Fronts Blown In. Crops Slightly Damaged.

Never in the history of our city has such a heavy wind storm visited this county as that which hurried itself with terrific force over this section yesterday morning. It was a regular old-fashioned hurricane. About six o'clock and with very little warning it came on in all its fury, and for a few moments nothing could be seen for the fearful clouds of dust that filled the air. People hurriedly dressed and made for cellars and grolone caves and were engaged in doing so. For an hour the wind kept up a terrific roar, accompanied by sheets of water. Trees all about the city were badly demolished, out houses and barns were turned over or moved off their foundations; fruit trees were relieved of their fruit; business fronts were partly blown in, and considerable damage resulted. In the country few windmills were left standing; barns and sheds were blown down or moved and grain suffered more or less, also corn, but the general belief is that the damage to grain will be small. The following is part of the list of damages: J. S. Lewis' brick yards, sheds torn to pieces, partly insured; Electric light plant, smoke-stack blown down; Roush Bros. barn demolished; French plate glass in August Piepenstock's and F. H. Jones' stores blown in causing considerable damage to goods; also at Fuchner, Duerig & Co's. store which was perhaps the worst damaged. A portion of the brick on top of the building was blown off and demolished the sidewalk to the south side of the building. A part of Richards Bros' livery stable succumbed to the wind, while numerous corn cribs south of the track were strewn in every direction. No less than 60 or 70 out-houses were turned over. Window glass in the fronts at The Herald and Democrat office were blown in and signs went sailing through the air. At the fair grounds Agricultural Hall was lifted about 50 feet in the air and there was little left of it when it struck the ground. According to reports not a farmer in the surrounding country failed to sustain some damage or other. Either a barn, out-house, shed or corn crib was blown over, or windmill or fruit trees broken down. None escaped entirely and yet the loss is not very heavy in any one case, but the losses are entirely too numerous to undertake to enumerate them.

STORM NOTES. Conrad Weischauser who resides five miles northeast of Wayne, had a cow killed by lightning during the storm.

The insurance agents are working vigorously since the storm. Many stirring tales are told of incidents occurring during the storm.

Everybody hereabouts was early in rising yesterday morning, and some people said it was the longest day they had ever seen.

It hit the just and the unjust just alike; the man who drinks beer, preaches for a living, plays poker or gambles on the Board of Trade during the wheat season, the ball field, horse race men, or any other old snicker.

DIED.

Mrs. Susan McMakin of old age on Friday, June 22, 1900, at the home of her son Mr. S. H. McMakin in the west part of town. Grandma McMakin was born in Maryland, April 27, 1804, aged 96 years, 1 month, 25 days, to which age very few people arrive. She had united with the Christian church in her earlier period of life, of which she continued a faithful member until she entered the Church Triumphant. The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon at the home of her son, conducted by Rev. J. C. Ringer, after which her body was laid to rest in the Wayne cemetery. She leaves two children to mourn her loss, Mr. S. H. McMakin, of this city, and Mrs. Hester Hopkin of Fullam Hill.

I spoke last night with severe pains in my stomach. I never felt so badly in all my life. When I came down to work in the morning I felt so weak I could hardly walk. I went to Miller's Pharmacy, they gave me and they recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I started this remedy and after one hour all my pains were gone and I felt as well as usual. I am sure that if I had not used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I would have been in a very bad way. I will be glad to give it to any one who is in need of it. MARRIED.

The marriage of Miss Cora Blanche Abel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Abel, of 1215 West Twentieth St., to Mr. Eugene Voorhees of Kansas City, Kas. was celebrated at the bride's home on Wednesday evening, June 20 in the presence of 100 guests. When all were assembled, Mr. DeWitt sang "Annie Laurie," and Mrs. Antonette Beaty, the groom's sister played Mendelssohn's wedding march. The parlors were handsomely decorated with palms and ferns, and promptly at 8 o'clock the bride and groom, accompanied by Miss Myrtle Abel, as bridesmaid, and Mr. F. Reitz, as best man, took their places beneath an arch in view of the entire company.

Rev. Mr. Motter, of the First Methodist church, of Kansas City, Kan., conducted the service. The bride wore white silk trimmed with lace and embroidery applications, and carried a bouquet of roses. Miss Myrtle Abel was attired in white mulla with Valenciennes ruffles and white ribbons, and carried pink roses. After the ceremony dainty refreshments were served in the dining room from a table decorated with sweet peas and amaranth. Miss Lou Alexander and Miss Florence Tinkham assisted in serving the guests. Many valuable gifts testified to the affection of hosts of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Voorhees left for a short wedding journey, and will occupy after August 1 their own home, which is being made ready for them at 519 State street, Kansas City Kan.

The democrats will nominate a man for president who resigned his position at the front and went to Washington.

A telegram was received from Lincoln by Mrs. J. G. Morrison Monday morning announcing the death of her husband who has been in poor health for several months. Mrs. Morrison departed for Lincoln on the 9-40 train and Mrs. J. Wentworth Jones left on the afternoon train. The many friends here deeply sympathize with the stricken relatives.

The assessors' books show that in 1899 this county raised 554,000 bushels of wheat, 739,074 of oats, 2,717,464 of corn and 26,077 of barley. The report of crops shown this year shows that 44,610 are in wheat, 92,078 in corn, 28,054 in oats, 2,491 in barley, 4,905 in millet, 1,039 acres in potatoes. The averages for last year's crops are wheat 11 5-6 bushels, corn 33, oats 36 and barley 33 bushels to the acre.—Republican.

The republicans of the Ninth judicial district have just named J. F. Boyd, of Oakdale, as their candidate for judge and it was a wise nomination. Mr. Boyd is an odd genius, as smart as tacks and always as cool as an cucumber. He is a lank specimen of a drawing Yankee who can see through a millstone as well as the next one. He is a good lawyer and has a way of getting into the people that is altogether likely to win him the election. The judicial ermine would just fit him.—Fremont Tribune.

any longer and the Carroll boys rightfully quit and the game at the end of the ninth inning with the score, by the umpire's rank decision, 9 to 3, when it should have been a defeat for the Wayne team by a score of 3 to 8. Tuesday night was the most uncom fortable night that Winside has known for years being salty beyond description. Wednesday morning a storm of wind, dust and rain struck the town, blew down chimneys, destroyed many fine trees, broke down corn cribs and out houses, blew many windows and did other damage, but it did not develop into a real cyclone and our people are thankful for the state of affairs after all. Wheat and oats are not very far advanced and it is thought corn will recover from the storm.
