In all probability Judge Boyd will hold the next term of court in Wayne county, as Cones was only appointed to fill a vacancy until his successor was elected. The HERALD is just as well pleased to see Cones beat out of his job as Cones was to beat the HERALD out of $72 that rightfully belonged to it. It isn't the first time the HERALD has had this satisfaction and it may not be the last.

Several worthy and timely suggestions have been made to the HERALD during the past month that a decided improvement could be made in the interior of the opera house for the benefit of its patrons. The proprietors of course are the judges, but by a little effort they might make it a paying investment to fix it up. The public is the source from which their revenue is derived and the warmth and comfort of those attending is certainly deserving of consideration. A little investment along the lines mentioned would be no loss to Wayne or the proprietors. It is a public institution and the papers have a right to speak of the wishes of the people.

There is some talk of using the surplus steam at the waterworks for the purpose of heating the business houses as well as the dwellings throughout the city. It is practical and would be a grand, good thing for everybody unless it be the coal dealers. The general opinion is favorable to the scheme.

An interesting meeting of the Baptist Young people of Wayne and surrounding towns was held at the Baptist church, of this city, last Saturday and Sunday. Though the bad weather prevented many from coming there was a fair attendance from outside points. The papers and addresses were of high order. Messrs M. G. Macleod and J. Frank Carpenter of Omaha, and Rev. A. Weaver of Creighton, were among those who delivered addresses.

The HERALD has been frequently asked the question of late, What is the population of Wayne? As yet no report has been made from the government, and until then the exact number as known by the recent census will remain unknown, but it is quite certain that it will be in the neighborhood of 2,000. Wayne's growth during the past ten years has been a very substantial and steady one; one that is very gratifying to all citizens who take great pride in the leading city of Northeast Nebraska. It is a fact, too, that her improvements have been very large and of the kind that speaks well for a thriving and growing city. The future of Wayne depends largely upon the liberality of her people and a continuance of the pluck and enterprise of the city officials, who in the future, as in the past, must endeavor to overcome all obstacles and opposition to needed improvements that tend to build up a city. Petty jealousness must be thrown aside and a united effort made to build up instead of tearing down. If this is done there can be but one result. The HERALD in the future, as in the past, shall ever encourage such officials and will devote its best interests for the upbuilding of the city and county as well, at the same time acting along conservative lines, but with a firmer determination than ever to issue a newsy and representative paper that can be placed in the home of any citizen in the county.

GETTING BIGGER

EVERY DAY!

We have been in Wayne fourteen months and our business has been growing every month. The first month of the second year shows an increased trade at this store of 36 per cent and the second month we have an increased trade of 52 per cent. Persons who have not investigated our plan of doing business may not understand why it is that this store is meeting with such favor in Wayne county. We realize how hard it is for some to go into a new store and get acquainted but it is the only way that anyone can keep up with the times. If you will get acquainted with this store you will at once see why it is being so well patronized. It is hard to quit an old habit. It is natural to believe that where you have been trading for years is the best place to trade; but it is a duty you owe to yourself to investigate this store. If this store was like other stores in Wayne there would be no good reason for you to get acquainted with the new method that this store is using in buying and selling clothing. Here buying is done by expert clothing men who have had over twenty years experience in buying clothing. Here goods are bought for the lowest cash price and sold the same way. Here every good suit has a written guarantee sewed in the pocket, that you get another one if it goes wrong. Here you can buy Staley All-wool Underwear that we have sold for twenty years, and found always the same. Here Men's and Boys' Shoes are sold and warranted by men who are expert shoe men and know how to fit you. Here you find the largest stock and the most complete as well as the best stock ever brought to Wayne county. Here every article is marked in plain figures and sold at one price only. Here you can buy fine goods not usually found in a town this size. Here we speak three languages, including German and Swede. Here is a store that has everything up to date, insuring you the latest styles and no old styles to show you. Here is a store that is growing and will this year sell more clothing than any other store in Wayne county. Don't you think it will pay you to investigate this store and be satisfied that you are trading at the right place? It will cost you nothing to get acquainted with these facts, and if after you have thoroughly looked into these claims you still believe you have been trading at the right place you will be better satisfied and we will certainly feel grateful to you for making our acquaintance. This store is full of things you want to keep you warm and at prices that will surely please you. NO CLOTHING FITS LIKE OURS. Come and see, we will do the rest.

THIS MAN BULLET-PROOF.

Scotch Soldier's Experience in the Battle of Athara. A letter written by Corporal Lippie of the Scotch Highlanders to his sister, describing the battle of Athara, says: "I suppose you have seen me reported as slightly wounded and pictured me as an interesting invalid. Well, I was struck, but the effect was so small that I have often been worse than in a bad-day match. During the rest of the day and for some days afterward I have been all objects of interest, and have been questioned by almost every officer and man in the battalion, referred to as the bullet-proof man, and asked if I would mind letting a section fire a few rounds at me to see if they could do me any harm. The fact is that I sat most of the corners of my clothing shot off, with personally I was unharmed.

HOW FARMS ARE RUINED BY CARELESS TREE CUTTING.

The farmer, when he cuts down a tree, is not only cutting down a tree, but he is cutting down a farm. The tree is the backbone of the farm, and when it is cut down, the farm is ruined. The farmer must be careful of his trees, for they are the life of his farm.

THE COST OF LIVING.

Uncle Sam has been looking up the subject. The cost of living is a great problem for the people of the United States. Uncle Sam is looking for ways to reduce the cost of living, so that the people can have a better life.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION.

The number of plants known to commerce is placed at 4,200, and of these 320 are applied to the making of perfumes. Our lovely strawberry plant has been trained into an upright form by a Frenchman, M. Their demands are sometimes difficult to fill. The father of a family is often embarrassed by his children. They want things that are expensive, and they want them now. The father must find a way to satisfy them, or else he will have a very unhappy family.

THE COALING OF A BIG LINER.

How Fuel is Dumped Into the Transatlantic Steamships. Comparatively few people have knowledge of the labor of coaling a modern transatlantic steamer. The Coal Trade Journal, New York, has recently made some researches into the question and presents an interesting array of statements. That paper takes the Deutschland as an example. That steamer carries for a six-days' trip 5,000 tons of coal and consumes from 750 to 800 tons a day, at the rate of one and one-half tons an hour for each knot of her speed. On one day recently that steamer burnt 832 tons of coal in twenty-four hours.

STIRROD OF BEEF.

The origin of the word "stirrod" of beef is a story that is very interesting. It is said that a man named King James I. of Scotland was once hunting in the forest of Balmoral. He was very tired, and he was very hungry. He found a piece of beef, and he ate it. He was very satisfied with it, and he called it "stirrod" of beef.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

Congress convenes one week from next Monday.

Fisheism is about as dead as it was. It was very badly stepped upon.

We don't know of anyone here that is losing any sleep over imperialism or militarism.

The fusion legislators will look like 30 cents around the state house this winter. What's the use?

Governor Poynter's Thanksgiving proclamation sounds just a little like having been issued by one of the dead, but it is a solemn thing to think of for a man to return thanks at his own obsequies.

There are those who can't yet figure just what made the election go as it did. The real cause was because the people did not propose to be lincensed by the paramount issues of militarism and imperialism. That's all.

Assistant Secretary of War, Melkiohn, is strongly mentioned as a candidate for one of the Senatorial positions from Nebraska, and there are a host of people in North Nebraska who would like to see the Secretary fill one of them.

Hon. George D. Melkiohn will be the choice of the republican caucus for U. S. Senator notwithstanding the assertion of the representative elect from this district to the contrary. We are of the opinion our boastful contemporary will not lose in the next legislature.—Fullerton News.

Edward Rosewater, editor of the Bee will be a prominent candidate before the legislature for one of the U. S. Senatorships. The Bee was one of the leading factors in securing the splendid victory in Nebraska and Mr. Rosewater merits recognition at the hands of the party in some form or another.

Everybody that is personally acquainted with Governor-elect Dethlefs are very pronounced that he will make one of the very best governors the state of Nebraska has ever had. What more do you want. When men or parties have to resort to the contemptible methods of attacking a man's personal character and private affairs in order to defeat him it generally proves a boomerang.

Under the efficient management of L. A. Williams, editor of the Blair Pilot, the press bureau was one of the strong features for success of the republican ticket in Nebraska. It enabled republican papers throughout the state to publish facts which could have been obtained by them in no other way. The service furnished was also superior to anything of the kind previously furnished. Not only was this true but Mr. Williams was at all times during the campaign courteous to callers and did all in his power to advance republican interests.—Stanton Picket.

Now look at this: Col. Bryan asked people to vote for him because he promised if elected to reduce the standing army to 25,000. Under the present law it will be reduced to 27,000 next July unless congress sees fit to pass a new law in regard to it which that body would be just as likely to do under Bryan as under McKinley. For this decrease of 2000 in the standing army he asked the people to forego the prosperity which he admits they enjoy, and vote for principle—the great principle of 2,000 difference in the number of soldiers we employ.—York Times.

The McKinley Majority.

President McKinley has the distinction of receiving the largest popular majority of any candidate for the presidency. In his first campaign he came next to the highest. In the last he touched high water mark. Until the 6th inst. the majority received by General Grant over Horace Greeley stood at the head. On Tuesday of last week his record was broken by an excess of 79,000, the McKinley majority reaching 840,000.

The returns show that while the states of the east which gave such phenomenal majorities four years ago out them down this year their falling off was more than made up elsewhere. In the east some were drawn to democracy on the fear of "imperialism" but many times more went back into the party to be there with the "regulars" when the battle was over and the party was ready for a reorganization on old lines. In the west, the section in which Bryan had previously been strongest, the people turned a deaf ear to his entreaties. Every northern state west of the Mississippi either increased its majority for McKinley or out down Mr. Bryan's. These states increased their majorities approximately 650,000. This western country furnished the troops that did the bulk of the fighting in Cuba and the Philippines. They were unwilling to yield for which their sons had fought. They were also in favor of expansion, and these things proved too strong for the new discredited silver issue which gained such a hold in the west four years ago. These things explain the McKinley majority, the largest, on record.—Fremont Tribune.

McKinley carries Nebraska and the state having the highest per cent of educated people has shown to the world that an appeal to the stomach has greater weight than an appeal to the mind.—Stanton Register.

Well wouldn't the above freeze you? Perhaps the people have lost their education. The fact of the matter is, the people like to be humbugged once, but they prefer not to have it rubbed in.

W. W. Young, senator-elect of this district received 125 majority in his home (Stanton) county, and majorities of 195 in Wayne and 107 in Madison, a total of 488. Mr. Tawney's lead in this county was 235, leaving Senator Young a majority of 253 in the district. Mr. Young is the gentleman the pops of this county thought to be such an easy mark.—Pierce Call.

Edward Rosewater has justly earned the position of United States Senator, and he is abundantly able and competent to fill it with credit to himself and honor to the great state of which he is so important a factor. It is time now for Omaha to quit her mean petty jealousies and present a united front for him.—Columbia Times.

Many people worry because they believe they have heart disease. The chances are that their hearts are all right but their stomachs are unable to digest food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and prevents the formation of gas which makes the stomach press against the heart. It will cure any form of indigestion. L. P. Orth.

At the time it happened the Tribune spoke of the nomination of J. F. Boyd for the district judgeship in the Allen-Robinson district as a wise thing. Mr. Boyd has wrested the district from the control of the old ring by a substantial majority. He will be the Abraham Lincoln of the Nebraska bench.—Fremont Tribune.

The next Nebraska legislature will be republicans by a majority of 9 out of joint ballot and two Republican U. S. Senators will be elected. There are 18 republicans in the senate and 15 fusionists. In the House there are 63 republicans and 47 fusionists.

Chairman Lindsay of the state republican committee prophesied that Nebraska would give McKinley from 5,000 to 8,000 plurality. His prophecy was not of the Croker brand.

Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota can now be classed among the states that have come back into the union and they are about the best in the United States.

It must have been a bitter pill for Bryan when he learned that he had failed to carry either his precinct, city, county, state or the United States.

McKinley has 292 electoral votes to Bryan's 155, a majority of 137. His plurality of the popular vote was 821,138. In 1896 it was 603,104.

If you have ever seen a child in the agony of croup you can realize how grateful mothers are for One Minute Cough Cure which gives relief as soon administered. It quickly cures, coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles. L. P. Orth.

WANTED HIS FARE RUNG UP.

An Italian Who Demanded Music of the Street Car Conductor.

The conductor of a Brooklyn trolley car had a peculiar experience with an Italian one night last week. The Italian wanted to ride with music thrown in for his 5 cents. A passenger described the incident.

"I boarded the car with six other passengers, including an Italian, at the suburban end of the road on one of the late trips. The car had gone a short distance when the conductor began to collect the fares. The Italian was on the rear seat, and his money was collected last. Everything went well for about half a mile, when the Italian jumped to his feet and waved his hands at the conductor. The conductor went to the excited man and asked him what the trouble was. The Italian said: 'Me wanta my fiva cent back.' 'The conductor told him that he could not have the money. The Italian insisted: 'Every body gotta music for a fiva cent; me no got.' 'The conductor grasped the situation at once, and, seeing that he was accused of 'fitching,' started to clear himself. He showed the Italian that there were seven passengers on the car and that that number of fares were registered. He also explained why the Italian did not get any music for his nickel. He said: 'While collecting the fares in the front part of the car I rang up one fare too much, and if I rang up yours I would be out 5 cents.' 'While this explanation was going on the man from Italy was still shouting for his 'fiva cent' and did not stop until he got off the car farther down, still jabbering at the conductor.'—New York Sun.

SHE WAS ABSENTMINDED.

A Quarter Which a Beggar Was Not to Spend For Drink.

"For God's sake give a hungry man a little money to buy something to eat," entreated a beggar of a woman in West Third street. The beggar was by no means absentminded, but the individual to whom he spoke was. She passed on several yards without noticing him, when it suddenly occurred to her that to a man, perhaps starving, who had asked her to give him a stone, or at least a story, she had taken 25 cents from her purse and, turning quickly, hurried after a man passing down the street.

"Here," she said, touching him on the arm; "here is a quarter for you, and I hope you will not buy liquor with it." Before the astonished person to whom she had given the money could utter a word she had departed.

"I am sure I don't know why young women should run after me on the street to give me money," ejaculated the man, "but I will spend it for drink since she particularly requested me not to."

A few steps farther on he was met by a seedy looking fellow who began, "For God's sake, give," etc. "Yes, my man, I think this was intended for you. A young woman sent it to you, but you are not to spend it for drink." And he passed on with a light heart, while the beggar tested the quarter suspiciously, casting an eager glance ahead at the nearest saloon.—New York Press.

He Dressed.

There is a young man in Brooklyn who needs a tonic of some kind, else he would not have failed to embrace an attractive opportunity as ever comes to one. He accompanied a charming young woman to a church wedding on the park slope and arrived at about the time the bride and groom were due. The young woman with whom he was dressed somewhat as the bride was expected to be clad, and as she walked up the main aisle of the church with her attendant, he organized a band to play the wedding march. The couple, however, instead of going on to the altar, stopped in one of the pews not far from the front. One of the ushers came forward and told them that the clergyman was waiting for them, and their friends near, perceiving the situation, urged them to respond to the summons. The young woman said she was ready and willing to go, but the young man, to his everlasting disgrace, refused to move, and if he lives to his dying day the people who know the girl say that Hight will not have another such chance for happiness.—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE HARDY GOAT.

It Can Be Made Valuable as a Dairy Animal.

The usefulness of the goat in clearing foul lands and the profitableness of the animal for its hair, skin and even carcass are becoming pretty well understood. But the goat is valuable as a dairy animal. If the cows, for instance, are being used for supplying a city with milk, the keeping of goats for the home milk supply would be an excellent plan. The goat will live where a cow would starve, and, while it, like every domestic animal, will do best on good pasture, it will live and yield milk on astonishingly little food.

The animal and its milk are almost entirely exempt from disease. The milk is more nutritious than that of the cow and agrees with stomachs that cow's milk frequently offends. The animal requires only the cheapest kind of shelter, but it needs shelter from the storms and in winter. If by reason of drought soiling is necessary, leaves, vegetable refuse, peelings of the apple or potato, bread crusts or stale bread, if they are sweet and clean, will be all the feed that is needed.

All goats, however, will not eat the same food, and the feeder will have to study the appetites of the individual animal. Frequent feeding and a variety of food in winter will be found beneficial. Roots, oilmeat, oats, corn (of the latter in the whole state the goat is very fond), are proper feed, especially for the milking goat. Rock salt is greatly relished. The flavor of goat's milk cannot be distinguished from that of cow's milk if it is properly cared for. From three to four pints a day is the average yield of a good milker. The milk is so rich and of such a character that in making pastry it will take the place of eggs.—Epitomist.

SIVA AND DEVI.

The Fearful Devil of the Hindus and His Principal Wife.

Siva is both typical of destruction and of reproduction. But the latter attribute was doubtless a later addition to the sum of his qualities. The original conception of this deity was that of a power delighting in destruction, in the achievement of physical evil and wrong and in hurrying death and devastation upon the people and their lands. He is represented in the sacred books of the Hindus as "the terrible, the terrible one who delights in the destruction of men." But in all this there is no whisper as yet of any moral qualities of evil. The conception is entirely one of physical power, used with the utmost malevolence and injustice against men.

Along with his principal wife, who is variously called Devi, Durga, Uma and Kali, he is portrayed as the incarnation of physical evil, wrong, injustice or misfortune. In the "Puranas" Siva is described as wandering about surrounded by ghosts and goblins, incubated, naked and with disheveled hair, covered with the ashes of a funeral pile, ornamented with human skulls and bones, sometimes laughing and sometimes crying. Devi, his consort, is represented with a hideous and a terrible countenance streaming with blood, encircled with snakes, hung round with skulls and human heads and in all respects resembling a fury rather than a goddess. The only pleasure which Siva and Devi feel is when their altars are drenched with blood, which, of course, could not be shed without the destruction of some form of life.—Westminster Review.

Pilkerton Won the Race.

At one of the regattas of the National Association of America, Oarsmen during the early twenties James Pilkerton, for many years the champion sculler of America, was matched to row double against another team. He and his mate were the champions, and the general belief was that they would win without effort. But the night before the regatta public opinion suddenly and mysteriously changed. Mr. Pilkerton knew that this was not caused by any new development of strength in his opponent or any loss of skill on his own part. After making some quiet inquiries he discovered that there was talk of his rowing mate having been bought up by the other side and of an arrangement to throw the race.

He didn't say anything about his suspicions, but when the two men were seated in the shell and were well out into the deep water he leaned over to his mate and said: "Look her, you blooming cutthroat! You've got to swim, drown or with this race! You know me?" He won.—Saturday Evening Post.

Watch Springs.

The watch carried by the average man is composed of 48 parts, and its manufacture embraces more than 2,000 distinct and separate operations.

Halfpenny wire weighs one-twentieth of a grain to the inch. One mile of wire weighs less than half a pound. The balance gives five vibrations every second, 300 every minute, 18,000 every hour, 432,000 every day and 157,080,000 every year.

The value of springs when finished and placed in watches is enormous in proportion to the material from which they are made. A ton of steel made up into halfpennies when in watches is worth more than 250 times the value of the same weight in pure gold.

NEWSPAPER SCOOPS.

THE BANE AND THE NIGHTMARE OF A JOURNALIST'S LIFE.

What a "Beat" Means to the Man With a "Nose For News"—The Peculiarities of Securing Inside News by Washington Correspondents.

They were all newspaper men, and they were all so united on the proposition under consideration that they did not interrupt the man who was doing the talking.

"Scoops," said the sharp nosed reporter to the others, "are the bane and the nightmare of a newspaper man's life, from the proprietor and managing editor down to the Maltese office cat. Many a man occupies a 'desk' today because of a good 'beat,' and many another man is engaged in a more humble occupation because he failed to see one. Scoops constitute the seamy side of journalistic life.

"A newspaper man is as touchy on this subject as a woman on her back hair; justly so, because a standard is formed by which his journalistic talents are judged, and his salary is accordingly. If a city editor asks him to often why he 'didn't get it,' he finally 'gets it' where the fowl gets the ax, and a new man appears on his former assignment.

"Editors, however, are usually considerate with a good man, for the latter will scoop his rival as often as he himself is scooped—perhaps oftener—and it thus even itself up. Sometimes, however, the wielder of the blue pencil has an attack of acute indigestion, like the rest of us, and things are apt to be unpleasant.

"A good, big 'beat' fills the entire office with hilarious joy, and particularly the lucky reporter rejoices. It oftentimes means an increase in salary. The office of the chief rival contemporary is thrown into corresponding gloom.

"The city editor is the adjudant general of the force. Usually he is as considerate as his duty to the proprietor permits. Nearly all are graduates of the matter of 'advertising news.' 'Newspaper story' writer finds the city editor he usually portrays has always been a deep, dull mystery to me. He may 'treat outsiders' (to be kind to the magazine story writer) as their 'stories' sometimes relate, but to his force he does not darry a drawn sword in his left hand and a pen dipped in red-hot caustic in his right. He knows that of the men under him many are his peers, capable of taking his desk at a moment's notice and running it as well as he.

"The 'now you have it and now you haven't' in our profession is well illustrated by a little occurrence that happened in Washington a few years ago, and it proves the element of luck in the matter of advertising news.

"It was undecided whether congress would pass a read a certain very important national measure. The New York papers were especially 'anxious' about it. The drift of opinion among the correspondents was that it would not so pass. On Monday night, say, the correspondent of one of the metropolitan morning dailies wired his paper that it positively would not go through. This paper had been 'talking that end' of the bill all along.

"The correspondent of a rival morning paper had drawn the same conclusions from his day's investigations at the capitol. He was on his way down the west main steps when he met a member of the senate on the probable fate of the bill, his attached great weight. The member declared that the bill would positively be passed, unamended and unchanged, at the opening of the session the following day.

"The correspondent cast his own contrary opinions and those of the members he had interviewed to the winds. He wired that night that the bill would certainly pass the following day. It did. Its passage was a surprise to the country.

"Before night the other correspondent was 'relieved' of his position by telegraph. One made a bold hazard guess of another and won. The other conscientiously obeyed the dictates of his conclusions, based largely upon the opinions of men who were in a position to advise him correctly, and lost.

"This case also illustrates the peculiarity of securing news by Washington correspondents. It is sul-generis. Rules which obtain in other cities are inapplicable here. Most of the correspondents are picked men, who earn and command good salaries. But one of their most important functions is to make acquaintances with men in official and congressional life. It is an important element in his profession to know who to 'scoop' about a piece of news, and the little interview in question between the correspondent and the congressman on the west steps is but an example of everyday episodes in the life of a Washington correspondent.—Washington Star.

"You need a change," said the doctor. "I think you should take a trip to Europe."

"Well, doctor," said the man with a large and expensive family, "you need a change, too, I'm thinking."

Robbers Blow Safe.
Our neighboring town of Carroll put on metropolitan airs Saturday night or rather Sunday morning. In having a genuine case of safe blowing W. B. Hornby & Co. were the victims of the "crackers" job and from what we can learn it was pretty thoroughly done, but the money secured scarcely guaranteed the fellows for the risk they assumed. They effected an entrance to the store by cutting out a glass in the front door and then unpeeling same and entering. Ed. Zeilke, owner of the building has living rooms in the back part of the store and heard the noise of the fellows at work but supposed it was Mr. Hornby in the store and paid no attention to it for a time. They secured a brass cold chisel and hammer from the new school house being built in the town and drilled two different holes in the door of the safe and set three discharges before they succeeded in getting it opened, the last one blowing it entirely free from the safe. Mr. Zeilke heard the explosions, but the first two were so light that he thought it was Mr. Hornby letting the trap door to the cellar fall and paid no attention to it, but the third one left no doubt in his mind that something was wrong and he grabbed a gun and went to the front door and just as he got to the front the safe blowers emerged from the door and took to their heels in a pretty lively manner. Zeilke fired two shots after the fleeing rascals but failed to stop them. He then roused Hornby and upon entering the store, found it filled with smoke from the explosion, the door of the safe and the money drawer gone. The money drawer contained something like $11, Mr. Hornby having taken the balance of his money home. The episode caused quite an excitement in the town. All kind of theories were put afloat, but up to date the burglars have not been apprehended and the prospects of their being captured are not very bright.

It has been decided by the mayor and city council that the pumps at the water works have become insufficient for the needs of the city, though having well served the city in the past. Instead, with the enterprise that has been marked with the present mayor and council in the past, they have decided to make a change and have ordered a new compound, duplex engine which will be put in at once. In the spring a reservoir will be constructed which will enable the city to fight any fire that may ever originate here. It will also provide for the clearing of the water for private use. That is the kind of city officials Wayne has and they are all right. It takes push and grit to make a live city, well managed.

The fusionists of Cuming county intend to turn heaven and earth to prevent A. R. Olson from going to the legislature. He was elected state senator in his district, Cuming and Burt counties, but a constitutional question which has been raised may prevent his being seated. A merry fight may be looked for, for the fusionists have already secured a restraining order commanding the county clerk not to issue a certificate of election. "The story that a Washington woman sent notices to the ministers of the capital of the opening of her summer home with the request that they be read from the pulpit may be a libel, although I have been told that it is a fact," said a man who has been in Washington for several months, "but I'll tell you what I have seen there—men and women carrying kodaks into their pews on Sunday. Not to take a snap shot of the minister, but the Washington kodak fiend stops on his way to church to make shots, and after the service he lingers on his way home to do likewise. Peculiar Problem.
Subtract 45 from 45 and have 45 left. It can be done, strange to say. Here is the method: Put down the numerals 1 to 9 in a row in reverse order; underneath place the same numerals in regular order. The sum of the figures in each row is 45; subtract the lower row from the upper:

9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1 = 45
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 = 45

8 8 4 1 9 X 6 3 1 2 = 45

The sum of the third row of figures is also 45. Thus you have taken 45 from 45 and have 45 as a remainder.
