When a woman's house is perfectly spotless, she likes to greet company with: "Come in if you can get in through the dirt."

A good many people were in the city Saturday in spite of the rain and the fact that Pawnee Bill's show attracted a large crowd here Friday.

Do you think you have a right to your opinion? If you do, just remark in the company of warblers that you do not care to hear women sing.

Mother writes us that they have solved the problem of keeping their children well. Give them Rocky Mountain Tea each week. A blessing to mother and child.

Sis Marling, 1012 Howard St., Port Huron, Mich., writes: "I have tried many pills and laxatives but DeWitt's Little Early Risers are far the best pills I have ever used. Never gripe, Orth."

Post office inspector Swift was here Friday and inspected the post office which he found in excellent condition. Wayne's post office takes front rank with the leading offices in the state. In fact the postmaster and his able assistant have reason to feel pretty good.

Last week I went about Fall of troubles and doubt. Now I'm smiling and dance with delight.

I had some Rocky Mountain Tea last night.—As your druggist.

The county Sunday School Association will hold its annual convention in the Baptist church of Wayne, on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 24 and 25. Every Sunday School in the county is entitled to, and should send one delegate, besides pastor and superintendent who are considered delegates.

E. B. Young, Sec'y.

Last week Tuesday, Nels Harsted, who resides near Concord lost eight stacks of wheat by fire. An employee was burning a lot of weeds in a slough when the wind came up and the fire spread to the stubble field, with the result above stated. John Grim also lost two stacks and but for the timely arrival of assistance, a great deal of damage would have resulted. Mr. Harsted fortunately had his grain insured.

If republicans will continue to listen to the stories of democrats whose stock in trade consists in telling what this and that republican is going to do for this or that democratic nominee, for the express purpose of creating dissension in republican ranks then the party is to be pitied. These stories for the most part, are fakes pure and simple. As the HERALD has said before, if the democrats are to manage the republican campaign, and people will listen to this "twesdie dum and twesdie-dee" what is to be expected? Is the republican party to be hooded again by the manager of fusionism in this county?

Arthur Oliver of Winslow, was a Wayne visitor Thursday.

Mrs. Bert Mapes of Norfolk, visited with Mrs. J. G. Mines last week.

Mrs. Chas. Leidtke entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the German church Friday afternoon.

Editor Arthur P. Childs of the Carroll Index and wife attended the wild west show here on Friday.

J. B. Taylor and Joel Hancock of Carroll, have been plastering the new German church here the past week.

Regular meetings of Casey Post, No. 5, G. A. R., at the Masonic hall on the first Saturday evening of each month.

Mr. and Mrs. Rob't Mellor returned from Omaha Friday where they went to attend the funeral of Mrs. Fred Castle.

Potatoes threaten to be so scarce this winter that women will use them to bank the mantles at afternoon receptions.

What a man says between hiccoughs is the result of a drop too much, but not the kind of a drop the man should take to himself.

In all probability the friends of Jno. Coyle will remember the wife used two years ago by the present democratic nominee for clerk.

An English association regarding woman's happiness has offered a reward of £500 for a greater blessing to woman than Rocky Mountain Tea. Seizable move. Ask your druggist.

A fine rain fell nearly all night last Friday and most of the day Saturday, putting the ground in splendid condition for fall plowing in addition to proving of untold value to pasture lands.

W. D. Harris of New Market, Iowa, and Mrs. A. D. Long of Gravit, Iowa, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Beale the latter part of last and the first of this week.

O. D. Franks begins this week, the erection of a brick building on the corner of Main and First where the corner restaurant is and when completed will be occupied by Mr. Franks as a saloon and restaurant.

Geo. W. Lane, Pawnee, Mich., writes "Your Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the best remedy for indigestion and stomach trouble that I ever used. For years I suffered from dyspepsia, at times compelling me to stay in bed and causing me untold agony. I am completely cured by KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE. In recommending it to others who suffer from indigestion, I always offer to pay for it if it fails. Thus far I have never paid." Orth.

The HERALD has several hundred dollars due on an subscription which would materially benefit us if paid, and we hope our readers will kindly bear this in mind during the next 30 days.

Pawnee Bill's show has come and gone and with a good many dollars. Perhaps as a "wild west show" it was a success, and all it is pictured to be, but the opinions as to its merits widely differ. It was a wild looking outfit indeed, but what else was to be expected. The grafters, if there were any with the show, did not ply their work here and there were no rows of any consequence. Marshal Miner was obliged to make two arrests owing to disorderly conduct on the streets. His prisoners were put in the cooler south of the track, but owing to the horrible condition of the place, was obliged to take one of the men to the county jail. The authorities should make an effort to procure at least a decent place for prisoners.

When the fusion managers in this county held a "fixed" convention they expected later to find serious disagreement in republican ranks but in this the HERALD believes they will be disappointed; at least we hope this will be the case. It is not our purpose to make a personal campaign against the opposition, for all are citizens of Wayne county who doubtless are interested in the welfare of the county, but this much we do expect: If the republican nominees named by the convention were the whole of the convention and there is a republican majority in Wayne county (and we believe the republican are in the majority in the county) they should receive the united support of party, and all fake stories circulating from the opposition forces should be discontinued. Every man placed in nomination by that convention has a right to expect the hearty co-operation of every member of it in bringing about the election of the convention's nominees. That is just what the fusion forces will do. Personalities should be avoided, and a clean cut, straightforward effort made to elect and re-elect the republican nominees.

ABOUT BABIES.

FROM THE ALTON, IOWA, DEMOCRAT.

"Can't you lift the little angel, honey?" The speaker was a spindle legged sun-browned girl of tea with stringy, unkempt hair and a flimsy, calico dress that looked as though it might have been a better fit eight years before. When I got to the alley down which she was calling, I discovered that "little angel" was a wee mite of humanity, sprawling face downward on the ground with a mouth and both hands full of ashes. Standing beside its prostrate form was the object referred to as "honey"—a bow-legged chunk of a boy scarcely larger—trying to set "little angel" on its feet. He was clasping "little angel" around the stomach and was thereby barely able to lift the middle of "it" off the ground. But both ends persisted in remaining on the earth. "Him won't dit up!" blubbered bowlegs as he proceeded to churn "little angel's" head in the ash heap—at which "little angel" set up a howl and kicked its heels in wrath. Tears and slobbers, mingled with ashes, coursed down its face and even its nose contributed to the general scene of overflow and devastation. Down about its feet was the cause of its downfall—a wad of swaddling clothes which should have been at least a foot higher up. Just then "little angel" was anything but a beautiful child, but—being a baby—I was sorry for it.

The woes of "little angel" led me to a consideration of the vicissitudes of a baby's life. It has been computed that 30,000,000 babies are born into the world every year—enough, if laid end to end, to girdle the earth. And among all this host of tots not one is understood or given credit with its true importance. They are brought into the great cold, cruel world without the consent of the governed. In nine cases out of ten I imagine the babies if consulted beforehand would rather one of their brothers or sisters were born. But they have no voice in the matter. They open their eyes on now, strange scenes and they feel lonesome and friendless like a poplart in congress and wish they had been twins or triplets. The new born baby sees a lot of dressed up guys glaring at it as if it were a freak and it feels embarrassed at having forgotten to provide itself with a wardrobe. Then it cries and gets spanked and regrets that it came to town. On various occasions my sainted grandmother used to improve my reckless manner of speech by telling me I ought to be ashamed, whereupon I cautioned her to hold up her hands in holy horror by telling her: "I am ashamed—I was born that way—I came into the world with a blush on and the first thing I did was to crawl under the sheet."

One thing that always hurt me when a baby was the fact that no one ever seemed to know or care whether I was a male or female, but all seemed satisfied to call me "it." This alone is enough to wear out the patience of any self-respecting baby and throw it into spasms of rage. Many a time when they thought I was saying "goo-goo" I was swearing softly to myself because they were all such dad-darned fools. Think of a future president of the United States being referred to as "it" or having its sex called into question! Of course I never had any presidential aspirations myself, so it didn't matter so much if they did call me "it" and "girlie" and a lot of other absurdities, but I was misunderstood in many other ways that were fully as exasperating. I remember distinctly that when I was about three months old I had an incoming toothal that hurt me like the dickens, and they kept me with paracodyl! I fought against it and tried to convulse them I didn't want it, but they poked it down me. When my head ached they nearly always scratched my feet or trotted me up and down to make it ache worse. If a safety pin got to sticking me in the left hind leg they invariably put a mustard plaster on my stomach. After I had eaten two or three of the plasters they let up on me.

I believe few men ever get so far away from babyhood in a short lifetime as to be wholly out of sympathy with their little brothers and sisters. Viewed in the light of time and eternity it is but a day or so ago that all of us were babies. And yet it seems almost ridiculous to think of some men as ever having been chubby infants. Just think for instance of Mark Hanna once being called "tootsy wootsy" and "purty little fling." Think of Grover Cleveland being spanked with his mother's slipper only about sixty years ago. Why, today it would take a barn door to do the job and cover the territory thoroughly. McKinley was a baby one and went around for hours at a stretch without wiping his nose. Now he wants to wipe the nose of all creation. It seems impossible that only the thirty or forty brief years ago Sullivan and Corbett and Fitzsimmons and Sharkey were content to drink milk and rub their chubby fists in their own eyes. Today they drink horse liniment and yearn to rub their chubby fists in some other man's optics. Why, only twenty-five years ago young ladies thought nothing of taking me in their arms and smothering me with kisses! Today I can't get within a mile of their arms. Why, they even kissed my little pink feet in those days without my consent! Now they won't kiss them when I tell them to. People are so queer.

To residents of babyhood would say "don't emigrate to this vale of tears as long as you can help it," but if you must emigrate—take the advice of a man who was born once—and sit down and think it over. In this way you'll have less to regret in after life. In the first place I would advise you to be a boy—it will save you the inconvenience of dish washing and wearing curl papers. There's a gang of half-witted scientists who claim they can determine and control the sex of emigrants from baby land, but don't let that worry you for they are 18-karat liars. Go right on making preparations for whatever you want to be. Of course, if you'd rather be a girl go ahead and be one—but for heaven's sake don't come to town with red hair and freckles on your noselet. You'll have enough to contend with anyhow. If you can pick up a smile or two and a half dozen dimples, fetch 'em along. The face of the earth has none too many smiles and dimples on it and a girl who has them will get through the world somehow if she hasn't a rag to her back or a simoleon in her purse.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

STATE. Supreme Judge... S. H. Sedgwick. Regent... Carl J. Ernest.

COUNTY. Clerk... Bert Brown. Treasurer... W. M. Gue. Sheriff... Grant Meers.

Governor Shaw of Iowa, is of the opinion that it is too soon to hatch the presidential bird.

All over the nation in every church in the land fervent prayers were offered to God on Sunday for the recovery of McKinley, and thank God those prayers are to be answered.

In all probability the candidates on the prohibition ticket will not invest any coin in malt and vinous liquors. About the only reason for holding prohibition conventions is to make extra work for the printer of the ballots.

The election of Judge Sedgwick will send a man to the supreme court who will carry with him no political bias or prejudice, just such a Judge as the people want on the bench.

The Chicago Inter Ocean has promised Teddy Roosevelt the Illinois delegation for president three years hence. The vice president has a warm place in the hearts of his countrymen and that he will be the presidential nominee there is little doubt.

Senator Vest of Missouri admits Bryan to be a spellbinder but not a leader. He says McKinley is one of the greatest leaders the country ever saw, classing him with Jefferson and Lincoln.

The fusionists had Bartley a few years ago to help them into office, and this fall they wanted him to help them in again, but the republican state convention gave the plan a very black eye, yet no one ever believed any other result would have occurred, even had the convention not spoken.

Didn't the democrats tell us our sons would be drafted into the army if President McKinley was re-elected? You remember something of that kind don't you? Some of you believed there was something in it just as you have believed the other numerous fakes of the democrats. Are you onto them yet?—York Times.

The republicans never had better material from which to select a candidate for the supreme judge than it had this year, and it is conceded that no mistake was made in nominating Judge Sedgwick of York. He was a wise counselor, an able jurist and has the respect of all at the bar.

Chancellor Andrews of the Nebraska State University, made the following statement during the course of an animated conversation in a street car in Lincoln last Saturday night: "If there ever was a judicial murder it was at the hanging of the alleged Haymarket rioters in Chicago, and if there ever was a Christian act performed by any official it was the pardoning by Governor Altgeld of the men convicted of participating in the riot."

The selection of H. O. Lindsey to lead the republicans of Nebraska to victory again and giving him the power to choose his own assistants was one of the several good things done by the state convention. Mr. Lindsey proved himself an able general in the splendid fight of last year, when the whole country was amazed by the outcome in Nebraska. The majority for McKinley in this state was unexpected and no little share of the credit for it was given to Mr. Lindsey. Nebraska was the most talked about of any state after the returns were in, and the chairman of the state committee came in for his full share of the glory.

REGULATION OF TRUSTS.

Vice President Roosevelt's Declaration on the Subject.

Kansas City Star (Ind.). "Faithful are the wounds of a friend," said Solomon, the wise man of old. Under this head may be classed the utterances of Theodore Roosevelt in his address at Minneapolis on Labor day. Standing out strong and clear among all of the declarations which have been made on the subject of trusts are the following sentiments by the vice president: "We shall find it necessary in the future to shackle cunning, as in the past we have shackled force."

"The vast individual and corporate fortunes, the vast combinations of capital, which have marked the development of our industrial system create new conditions and necessitate a change from the old attitude of the state and the nation toward property. These are direct and pointed sentiments inspired by conditions to which no thoughtful and sober-minded man can be blind. They are not uttered in any spirit of intemperate agitation or with any purpose to excite false alarm for political purposes. They come from an influential member of the party which capital in modern years has regarded as its chosen champion. They do not proceed with a person who has excited the suspicion of the conservative element by the radical character of his opinions.

In admonishing the large capitalists of their duty Mr. Roosevelt is speaking to persons with whom he has been intimately associated. He is prominently identified with the social and political life of the richest community in America. He is a New Yorker by heredity. He is known and esteemed by the so-called money kings. He could have no possible motive in wishing to overthrow a fabric which would bring destruction to those who are of the same political household of faith with himself.

Mr. Roosevelt speaks as a friend to the rich men who are rapidly gaining control of the industries and the commerce of the nation. Will it not be infinitely wiser for them to hear him and to follow his counsel than to persist in their scheme of self-aggrandizement at the certain risk of inviting a violent and implacable conflict with avowed enemies, who have none of the regard for the rights of capital which Mr. Roosevelt has always shown?

Roosevelt on Reciprocity. The National Association of Manufacturers has determined to call a national conference "for purposes of clear comprehension and expression of public sentiment respecting reciprocal trade relations with foreign powers."

As the members of this organization are precisely those persons whom free-trade theorists and Democratic editors have been wont to call "the protective system's sole beneficiaries," their action is evidently of great significance. The reciprocity movement is in no sense an assault upon the protective principle. Reciprocity, as Blaine long ago declared, is the complement of protection. It is fundamentally the principle that leads the average man, while watchfully guarding the interests of his own household, to maintain friendly relations with his neighbors. It simply extends to the commercial relations of nations the method upon which every successful merchant does business.

The idea upon which the reciprocity policy rests was well defined by Theodore Roosevelt in his recent address at Minneapolis. "We have got to remember," he said, "that our first duty is to our own people, and yet that we can best get justice by doing justice. We must continue the policy so brilliantly successful in the past, and so shape our economic system as to give every advantage to the skill, energy and intelligence of our own farmers, merchants, manufacturers and wage earners, and yet we must also remember, in dealing with other nations, that benefits must be given when benefits are sought."

President McKinley, in several speeches during his recent journey across the continent, declared for an extension of reciprocity. None can suspect Mr. McKinley of the slightest leaning toward free trade, or of the remotest desire to weaken the protective system. That the present chief executive and the man whom millions of Republicans now expect to succeed him in the high office should be so thoroughly agreed upon this point argues well for the nation.

The sentiment in favor of reciprocity is growing. The President's and Vice President's recent utterances, the action of the manufacturers' association, the evident feeling of the people, show the drift of thought. With this sentiment, the Republican party must be prepared to deal frankly and fairly.

"It is not possible," as the Vice President has well said, "to dogmatize us to the exact way, and yet it may become advantageous to supplement our present policy by a system of reciprocal benefit." The manufacturers' conference may do much toward showing the way. That the Republican party must find the way or lose public confidence is now evident. The demand for reciprocity will not down.—Inter Ocean.

Consumption Threatened. C. Unger, 212 Maple St., Champaign, Ill., writes: "I was troubled with a hacking cough for a year and I thought I had consumption. I tried a great many remedies and was under the care of physicians for several months. I used one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. It cured me, and I have not been troubled since. Raymond.

It's the Hat that... Makes the Man.

If you don't buy anything else here you ought to buy your hat here. You can't afford to buy a hat out of style. There is something about a hat that gives man a respectable appearance. If it is out of date no matter how well you are dressed you will look wrong. Buy your hat here and you will feel comfortable in any society. Then there is the saving in price if you buy here. You can't afford to pay anyone more than we ask. You will not be certain that the style is right if you buy elsewhere. You are always certain that the price is right if you buy here. CRUCIAL CASES.

Mr. Edward Atkinson went, during his testimony before the Industrial Commission, he was confronted with the cold indisputable facts that there was no tin plate industry in this country previous to the putting of a tariff on tin plate by the McKinley law, and that immediately after the enactment of that law the industry sprang up and grew and flourished and has gone on growing ever since, replied that the case of the tin plate industry was "one of the crucial cases where during the existence of a high Protective Tariff a special art has made a very great advance," and stated that the industry would have been developed in this country if there had been no tariff on tin plate. There have been so many of these "crucial cases," so many industries which have just "happened," according to the Free-Traders, to be developed under Protection that, if the Free-Traders were to be believed, the history of this country would offer the most remarkable history of coincidences that the world has ever seen or the imagination conceived of.

If the Free-Traders would let go for a little while, their childlike faith in the omnipotent power of "coincidence" to explain every occurrence in the industrial world, and would give a little time to the study of cause and effect, they would rather see more relation between our Protective system and the development of our industries than they see now. If the Free-Traders are not the illogical unsubstantiated theorists which Protectionists consider them to be, they certainly are, by their own showing, hoodlums of the most effective kind; for, whenever they come into control in this country, business collapses, industrial prosperity comes to an end, and more often than not things wind up in a financial panic. They can take their choice as to names. The fact remains that Free-Trade means closed factories and idle workmen and the people of the country seem pretty unanimously inclined to steer clear of it in the future.—Economicist.

COLLEGE.

The school year opens with nearly a half more students than have enrolled at a corresponding time in previous years.

The base ball diamond is getting a rest for the present. Nevertheless, some of the boys are keeping their hands in shape by a little practice on the side.

A class in Parliamentary Law has been organized which meets on Fridays from 1:45 to 5:30 p. m. To this class any of the people of Wayne interested in the study are welcome.

Prof. Pile's mental arithmetic class numbers over forty. From the vigor and enthusiasm manifested it might better be called a physical arithmetic class. At all events, nobody sleeps in that class.

An unusual number of students of previous years are enrolled, most of them intending to complete either the Teachers or Scientific course. Both these classes promise to be record breakers in numbers.

The teachers after their vacations variously spent, have come back to their work with renewed vigor and determination to do better work than ever. Prof. Wolfe, the new commercial man, is proving to be a thoroughly capable instructor.

Rev. Bithell conducted chapel exercises Friday morning and gave the students a lively talk. On Tuesday Rev. Ringar came up and favored the students with a most instructive and timely discussion of the difference between anarchy and socialism.

The young men at the college are rooming in the new dormitory. The ladies dormitory is full to overflowing, necessitating a renovation of the old boys' dormitory and annex of it to the ladies. An eight-room addition to this building is now in construction under the direction of architect Rejyea.

3rd Commissioners District Convention. The republican delegates of the precincts comprising the 3rd commissioners' district of Wayne Co., are called to meet at Hoskins, Neb., at 11 a. m., Saturday, Sept. 23, 1901, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for commissioner in the District named.

Market Reports.

South Omaha, Sept. 11, 1901.

Receipts of cattle for the week are fair, still some 4000 less than last week. A good three-fourths of the arrivals are western rangers and the receipts of corn fed cattle is very light. On corn fed calves the market is slow and uneven, but on the whole the good ones sell about steady with a weak ago. Medium and common grades that come in competition with range beef is slow sale at weaker prices. Cows and mixed stock in very fair supply. Demand active and trading good at steady to strong prices. Stockers and feeders in good supply. The rain appears to have livened up trading as both heavy and light weight feeders that are good are bought up readily at higher prices than last week, although medium and common grades are very slow sale.

Receipts of hogs are light, about the same as last week. Today with about 300 on sale market opened slow, 5 to 7 1/2 lower and closed steady at the decline with everything finally sold. The range today is from $9.25 to $9.50, bulk $9.35 to $9.45. Today's market is 25c higher than last Wednesday.

Sheep receipts liberal, and market is slow but about steady.

YOUR EYES! Slight is the most formidable of all blessings, blindness the most awful of all afflictions. 95 per cent of all eye trouble is primarily caused by defective eye sight. Dr. Charles McCornick, a noted oculist of Chicago, says 98 per cent; Dr. P. C. Janyetere, an oculist of New York, says 99; Dr. J. E. Brown, oculist in charge of State Institution for Blind at Cleveland, Ohio, says 97 per cent. We all agree that a larger part of all the eye troubles come from refractive troubles. My experience as an eye specialist enables me to diagnose and treat those troubles very successfully, my methods are original and new. I use no poisonous drugs, spectacle lenses are my only therapeutic. Headache, nervousness, red inflamed lids, crossed eyes, squinting, itching or burning sensation, spots floating upon vision, dimness, blurring, etc., are all symptoms of eye strab. At the annual meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic at Cleveland on Monday, General Daniel Sickles, the aged veteran, said: "Comrades, let us thank God for the news from Buffalo. The Lord has heard the uplifted prayers of the civilized and uncivilized world. Christain, Mohammedan, Chinese and all people have united with us in prayer that McKinley might be spared to us. The prayer is answered. Blessed be the name of the Lord, who preserved that great personality to us." Then dropping his impressive manner, the general said: "I'll back McKinley's luck every time. The God of battles stood by him during the war, the God of good fortune has remained with him ever since. He cannot die at this time and under such circumstances."

Cornel Wishes to Retain His Salary.

At a meeting of the board of county of Grand Island the ordinance fixing the salaries of city officials, in compliance with the new charter, was placed on first reading. When the city sought the ordinance providing for the appointment of a city clerk, it was objected that something more could be done for the office for police and that the section could be removed only by a vote of the council.

Central City Farmer Robbed.

W. J. Bink, a farmer living near Central City, was a victim of his wretched horse, which was stolen from him Thursday. Bink was awakened by a stranger sneaking in from a gate, who represented that he owned the establishment. They talked about the fair and other things and finally the stranger suggested that they should get a drink of beer.

Two Convicts Escape.

Fred Peterson, under sentence of one year for forgery, committed in Lincoln County, and Newton Hoek, under sentence of three years for obtaining money by false pretenses, were committed in York County, escaped from the penitentiary Thursday night by climbing over the prison wall. Both were employed in the bakery. Bloodhounds were put on the trail, but they soon lost the scent.

Look Ahead, Girls.

If young girls would look ahead it would sometimes save them from serious collisions with the men they marry. It is here that ignorance is almost a crime. The young husband cannot understand why when the wife changes to a nervous, nervous, nervous woman, and the young wife does not understand it herself. She only knows that she is very miserable.

It is ever there is a time when nature needs help. It is when the young girl is adjusting herself to the new conditions of widowhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It promotes regularity, drives debilitating drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All womanly confidences are guarded with strict professional privacy. Write without fear or fee to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I will drop you a few lines today to let you know that I am feeling well now," writes Miss Annie Stephens, of Belleville, Wood Co., West Va. "I feel like a new woman. I took several bottles of the Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have no headache now, no indigestion, and no pain in any side of my chest. No bearing-down pain any more. I think there is no medicine like Dr. Pierce's medicine. I thank you very much for what you have done for me—your medicine has done me so much good."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

McKINLEY SHOT!

Victim of Bullets Fired by an Anarchist at Buffalo, N. Y.

THE WHOLE NATION MOURNS

Physicians Hopeful of the President's Recovery. President's Condition Improves Daily.

McKinley shot was the report that reached the HERALD office about four o'clock Friday, and while for a moment it seemed a joke, for none could realize that in existence was a human being who could attempt to take the life of such a grand and noble man as President McKinley, the idol of the American nation, but alas! it was too true. In a remarkably short space of time the HERALD had issued an extra informing the throngs of people that were here to attend Pawnee Bill's Wild West Show, of the terrible event. The news spread like wildfire. Grief was depicted upon every countenance. Strong men wept. A longing desire to get at the throat of the assassin followed and had the cowardly brute been in the west his life wouldn't have been worth a flounder.

Agent Moran received a later report from Omaha that McKinley had died, which caused consternation, but when it was later learned that the president was still alive, with the physicians' statement that his chances for recovery were good, a portion of the load of grief was lifted from the hearts of the people and fervent prayers of "Thank God" were heard on every side. It is impossible to realize that a fiend in human form with murderous intentions in his heart, could, while in the act of grasping the president's hand in friendship, fire the deadly missiles intended to end the life of so great a statesman, a man so beloved by the people. The fiendishness of the act appears to all, irrespective of party, nationality or anything else. In fact, it is impossible to find language to express an opinion of so dastardly a deed in a free country where every body is privileged to receive the right of free thought, the blessings of freedom and the enjoyment of happiness. The general sentiment is that the anarchist must go. There is no use for him in this nation and there will be no rest until he is wiped from the domain of Uncle Sam. Just retribution should be meted out to the fiend and there should be no mercy. There is nothing that will atone for the great calamity even though the president recover.

A complete account of assassination will be found on the inside pages of the HERALD.

EXCHANGE NOTES.

Pilger Herald: Willard Kreidler and Mr. Matland from near Wayne, drove to this city Wednesday morning and took the passenger to Lincoln where they took in the sights of the state fair.

Laurel Advocate: Miss Kathryn Ford went to Wayne yesterday for a brief visit with friends before entering her school duties at Hubbard next Monday. Mr. and Mrs. J. Tower and son and Mrs. J. J. Perry of Wayne were Laurel visitors Friday of last week. In conversation with the Advocate Mr. Tower intimated that it would not be surprising if he would move to Laurel in the near future, as he is financially interested in the mill.

Homestead: There seems to be enough feed in sight for the stock this winter. The situation seems to point to the fattening of fewer animals and wintering more. A large number will rough it through winter on whatever feed is at hand and with little grain as possible. Such cattle as are fed will be fed shorter periods and the weights of animals marketed will be lighter than usual. Everything points to fewer fat steers than last year. Prices may range higher; I believe they will. Now is the time for the cattle owner to do some hard thinking about the future.

Fremont Tribune: Governor Savage is in great demand these days at all kinds of celebrations, which Nebraska people are prone to hold when the corn is in the shock. The old settlers, the old soldiers, the secret societies, the county fairs, and all other kinds of gathering generally crave a celebrity to help draw. The governor is responding generously to the drafts on him and he is having a ray time of it. He is built on a plan to enjoy the free, informal and sociable style of outdoor doings and that make life happy and that bring people closer together in sympathy and sentiment. What better purpose can a governor serve than this mixing with the people, satisfying their curiosity and giving them social and mental uplifts?

Ponca Journal: Wm. Wheeler, late of the Wakefield Republican has purchased a newspaper at Oak Lake, Manitoba, and will take possession at once and will incidentally deal in land on the side. At the time of leaving Wakefield, Wheeler was the oldest newspaper man in point of continuous service, in Dixon county. He was a fine writer and an astute politician and we commend him as such to the good people of Oak Lake. Dr. F. E. Gamble, an osteopathic physician from Wayne, arrived here the first of the week and expects to remain permanently to practice his profession. Dr. Gamble is a very pleasant gentleman to meet and he reports very flattering prospects here for practice. His card appears in another column.

Conservative: The world is full of young men looking for jobs; jobs are standing open every day looking for young men. The reason that so many young people are out of employment is that so many people are so trying. A job is waiting somewhere for the right man. It was better that every young man attending school or college should direct his studies in some particular course—toward some particular branch of work which he proposes pursuing in after life. But this is not essential to success. What is essential however, is that he indicate some disposition to take hold right. But, it is asked, how is a fellow ever to make it if nobody will give him work to start at? In some incomprehensible way this question finds an answer in practical life. The employer in whose service it is worth while to be, knows his man by some sort of an instinct; he will sometimes take a young boy, whom he never saw before and who has no letters of recommendation in preference to a good looking youth with a pocket full of testimonials. And he doesn't make many mistakes. There is a young man who has a good position in this town now because he walked in one day and practically took possession of it without leave—laid violent hands on it, so to speak. The proprietor saw at once that a fellow who had that sort of a will and a way about him would do, that he had elements of usefulness in him, and it so turned out at once.

Homestead: When a lot of city or townspeople want to have a real good time they hire some teamster with a wagon and a hay rack, with some hay or straw upon it and they take what is known as a "hay rack ride" into the country. They drive out through lanes and highways in the country to some shady spot where they picnic in old fashioned style. They seem to enjoy the ride as well as the picnic. If city people see so much fun in this they should not a lot of farmers with their families do the same thing and find enjoyment in it? I believe a great deal of fun could be had in a ride of this kind, and especially if they had one or two funny men or women along with the crowd. This would be more enjoyable to me than a whole circus, with its elephants and red lemons. I don't believe we farmers get enough pleasure out of life. We don't get as much as we deserve or as much as we can afford. I would have nothing neglected in order to take this outing, and it seems to me that arrangements can be easily made for it.
