Special--this Week

$70.00 Solid Oak Cottage Organ... $39.75

Several took advantage of our low prices last week and secured a fine organ or piano at about one-half of the usual price. Our plan to furnish instruments at manufacturer's prices is strictly up-to-date, as the asking of 100 per cent profits on pianos and organs fails to attract buyers. We have secured the desired representation of the largest piano factories in the world, and shall have much to say and do in the piano business from now on--in other words, we are strictly in it.

Our line of Sheet Music is sold at one-half prices, and includes a good line of late popular pieces.

We carry Lyon & Healey Mandolins, Violins, Strings, etc., standard the world over.

By the direction of the Postmaster-General it is required that on Rural Free Delivery routes, those desiring the service must put a box approved by the department. Each family must have a separate box. These boxes are supplied through the postmasters, costing with lock, freight, etc., complete $1.90 to $1.75. Patrons are cautioned against buying any box but the approved kind. Please have your order at the post office so the postmaster can estimate how many will be needed.

A practical farmer in the Homestead says: Some one has said that next year there will be a large number of corn harvesters in fence corners that can be bought for a song. I can hardly agree with this, although there may be a few, as is always true of any kind of implements. Those who have bought and used them for the first time, will learn what value there is in the corn plant and it will be the means of an educator. If any reader can get hold of one that has been hauled out in disgust by the owner, he had better buy it. In a few years they will be as plentiful on farms as stalk cutters or any smaller implements are now, and as the corn harvester increases in numbers to that extent will the stalk cutter disappear.

MCKINLEY MEMORIAL.

Opera House is Filled With Citizens to do Honor to the Memory of Our Martyr President.

Thursday was a sombre day in Wayne. The city took on the air of mourning in commemoration of the day on which the mortal remains of President McKinley were consigned to their last resting place.

In response to the proclamation of Mayor Ley, business houses were closed during the afternoon and many were draped in mourning, while flag staffs floated colors at half mast. A large throng of people of Wayne and vicinity gathered at the opera house at 2:30 to pay a last tribute to the memory of the late president. The stage was appropriately decorated and contained portraits of the three martyr presidents, Lincoln, Garfield, and McKinley. On the stage was seated Casey Post No. 5, G. A. R., who had marched to the opera house in a body, and the speakers.

The audience was first addressed by John D. King who read the Mayor's proclamation, and then requested the audience to join with the choir in singing "America," which was followed by Scripture reading and a fervent prayer offered by Rev. Lloyd D. Cunningham.

The choir then sang another selection, Prof. J. M. Pile followed in an eulogy on "McKinley as a Citizen," Frank Fuller on "McKinley as a Soldier," Rev. C. R. Walden on the "Christlike Life of McKinley," and Prof. F. M. Gregg on the "Political Life of McKinley."

Geo. Wilbur favored the audience with a solo, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," at the conclusion of the addresses. The audience again joined with the choir in singing "Nearer My God to Thee," one of the late President's favorite hymns. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Karpenstein and the memorial service was over. It was an occasion the like of which it is hoped will never be necessary to report in this century, and will impress itself upon the memory of those who attended for some time to come.

Homestead. It will soon be time to get the old lantern fixed up for fall use. If the lantern is not safe it may be well to get a new one, than to have an expensive fire by reason of keeping an old treacherous one. Have a place to hang the lantern when in and out of use. It should be ready to use any time and upon the shortest notice. It is dark when it is needed and no one will have either patience or time then to fix it.

Randolph Reporter: Last Saturday, while on his way to Wayne to transact some business James Carmichael was the victim of a most severe accident which nearly cost him his life. When near the residence of S. R. Morris, northwest of Carroll, the front axle of his buggy broke, precipitating him to the ground and scaring the horses. Mr. Carmichael was rendered unconscious by the fall, but kind hands near by removed to the house and a physician sent for. Dr. Cook of Randolph, responded and hurried to the scene of the accident, and found the patient in bad shape. John Carmichael drove down Saturday evening and took his father home. Mr. Carmichael feels very thankful that he escaped with his life.

Wakefield Republican: The township meeting held on Monday for the purpose of disposing of the town hall question was well attended, about 115 being present. Some of those present were at first opposed to the township turning over the $1,000 to the enterprise, giving for their reason that the town might at any time be changed to a city and then the town hall would be of no use to them as they would have to hold their elections and meetings outside the city limits. This question was disposed of by the village agreeing to tuck back to the township the proportion of the $1,000 given by the township. This seemed to settle all differences and the township committee was elected to work in conjunction with the village committee as a building committee, and the work is to be pushed as rapidly as possible. Architect Stitt is now at work on the plans and will have them ready in about ten days.

Ed Stephens of Hoskins, was a Sun day visitor here.

For years I suffered from dyspepsia, at times compelling me to stay in bed and causing me untold agony. I am completely cured by Kodol Dyspepsia cure. In recommending it to others who suffer from indigestion, I always offer to pay for it if it fails. Thus far I have never paid." Orth.

Randolph Times: J. E. Everett landed two nice fat premiums at the Wayne fair last week. He got a ribbon on the best cow and on best calf.

Prouty has his short Horn outfit at the Cedar county fair at Hartington this week. Last week at Wayne Mr. Prouty carried off a number of premiums on his outfit. He got four firsts on bulls and second on herd.

Shan F. Bullock has written a collection of stories in his "Irish Pastorals" (McClure Phillips & Co.) which pluck the very heart out of the old country. They show her bog lands and her meadows, her grassy and dour mists, her beauty when the golden dowsy of sunset is here. We catch the laughter with the tear behind it, the shrewdness underlying all the extravagance of humors, the unutterable pathos of the nipped lips of these most pathetic of the earth's plodders. "Fourteen pence a day an' a shillin' in the winter, an' nothin' when it's wet, an' the milk of a cow between the seven of them an' rotten paratides' sew on half an acre o' ground."

The following is taken from the school laws of this state and may be of interest to our readers: "Every person having legal or actual control of any child or children not less than seven nor more than fourteen years of age shall each year cause such child or children to attend school for a period equal to two-thirds the number of the weeks the school district in which such person may live is required by the laws of the state to maintain a public school. District boards in districts other than city districts may appoint a truant officer. In any case where a district board shall not appoint any person as truant officer, the director shall act as truant officer. Boards of education in cities shall appoint one or more truant officers."

The HERALD believes the republican nominees from clerk to coroner are just as good men and just as well qualified to fill the positions as those who aspire, as any set of men ever placed in nomination in the county, and every republican vote should be cast for them. Just think this over, and while you may have a good friend on the democratic ticket, remember that your vote should be cast for your party.

The HERALD is not in the mud-slinging business, but when you know your party nominees are all right in every respect you should make your ballot count.

Josef Hofmann, the great Polish pianist, who first played in public when six years of age, and now, at twenty-four, is ranked as one of the greatest living performers, is a mechanic as well as a musician. Just now he is busy experimenting with electricity, and when not at the piano he may be found at work in his laboratory, perfecting a motor for increasing the speed of automobiles. He has applied for patents on this invention in the United States and Germany. Hofmann is gifted in many ways. An article in the Ladies' Home Journal for October on "Playing the Piano Correctly," shows him to be a writer of no mean merit, and the advice he gives is, of course, authoritative.

The Absence of It.
 It there is any truth in the saying that happiness is the absence of all pain, mental and physical, the enjoyment of it can only be found in heaven. But as far as the physical is concerned, it is within easy reach; at least, it is so, as far as cure will go. The sum of human misery in this time is made up of greater or less degrees of physical suffering. The minor aches and pains which afflict mankind are easy to reach and as easily cured. There are none in the whole category, which, if taken in time, cannot be cured. They must in some form afflict the nerves, the bones, the muscles and joints of the human body. They are all more or less harmful and wasteful to the system. St. Jacobs Oil is made to cure them, to search out hidden pain spots, and to cure promptly in a true remedial and lasting way. Very, very many will not know happiness for years till they used it, and very many are putting off cure and happiness because they don't see it.

A Story of Lady Beaconsfield.
 There were few more devoted attachments than that which existed between Lord Beaconsfield and his wife, Lady Beaconsfield usually drove with his lordship to the house, and was always awake to hear what success had been his and what speeches had told for or against his party. Once when setting him down at Westminster, as he was about to make some very important speech on a burning question of the day, her finger caught in the carriage door when the servant slammed it. No cry escaped her lips and the lady face smiled back at Disraeli unmoved by a sign of pain as he turned to enter the house. "Had he known how that hand was hurting me," she said afterward, "it would have upset him for the whole night. Quite time enough for him to be worried about it when he comes home." She lies in Hughenden churchyard, and in due time her husband was laid beside her. Long after her death he said of her: "The severest of critics, but a perfect wife."

Reasoning by Analogy.
 Willie—Pa, was Washington the father of his country?
 Mr. Reed—He was, my son.
 Willie—Then he was the stepfather of the Constitution, wasn't he? My history says the Constitution was adopted.—New York Journal.

An Incomplete House.
 We run wild over the furnishings of a house; its furniture, carpets, hangings, pictures and music, and always forget or neglect the most important requisite. Something there should be always on the shelf to provide against sudden casualties or attacks of pain. Such come like a thief in the night; a sprain, strain, sudden backache, toothache or neuralgic attack. There is nothing easier to get than a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, and nothing surer to cure quickly any form of pain. The house is incomplete without it. Complete it with a good supply.

Traymen Collect Their Own Dues.
 A trayman who survived from the primitive tradition of the clergy openly collecting their own "dues" in kind from the people may now be seen in full swing in the rural districts of Upper Saxony, in Switzerland. Every year about the middle of October clergyman, attended by youths bearing sacks and baskets, go from village to village, receiving the contributions of their parishioners. No sort of consumable commodity comes amiss, though money is most favored, and every evening the sack or basket goes back heavily loaded. These contributions are a popular sign of respectability, and among the peasants has been known to bring in the whole amount of her offering to the parochial incumbent.

An Ugly Weapon.
 The most vicious-looking weapon on record has been invented in New Orleans. It is a combination of a revolver, a row of ugly brass knuckles and a dirk knife, all in one, and each built for the transaction of business.

Alchiphon Mineral Industries.
 Dividends paid in Alchiphon mineral industries last year amounted to $114,000,000, or 5 per cent on $2,000,000,000, (two billion) 62 per cent of the amount, and Missouri's zinc and lead made a good showing.

A Distinguished Missionary.
 Washington, Ind., Sept. 23.—There is at present living at 106 E. 15th street in this city a most remarkable man, He is Rev. H. Thompson, and he came to Washington from Little York, Ind., a short time ago.
 Rev. Mr. Thompson spent many years of his long and useful life as a missionary among the Indians of the West. The great exposure and the drinking of so much bad water brought on Diabetes, and at Wagoner, Indian Territory, he was struck down while preaching.

Physicians, one of them a Chicago specialist, pronounced his case hopeless. Doctor's Kidney Pills were recommended, and as a last resort he tried them. He was completely cured, and restored to good health and his case and his cure has caused a sensation among the physicians.

A Point Overlooked.
 "What we want to do," said the kind-hearted "civilized" person, "is to treat you gently and make you happy."
 "Yes," answered the barbarian; "but you insist on forgetting that we can't be really happy unless we are killing off white people."—Washington Star.

IN NEW DRESS GOODS.

MANY NOVELTIES SHOWN BY THE MERCHANTS.

Considerable Skill and Taste Will Be Required in Making Selections—Some Ugly New Plaits—Velvet, Persian and Oriental Trimmings to Be Used.

Impression of positive ingenuity that they give. Then while many shaggy zibelines and camel's hair cloths are beautiful in texture and color, it is predicted that light weight cloths and suit color goods will lead them. Novelty will be furnished by the embroidery, applique, lace and stitching that will be used as trimming. Some very attractive effects are obtained in the less conspicuous of the zibelines, and for severe street wearing they are used quite successfully. Narrow stripes in red and black, green and black, or blue and black, thickly sprinkled with white hairs are among the most effective and least conspicuous of these rough goods. Plain greens and reds with the hairy effect in black are acceptable, too. Greens and reds are leading colors, and are more beautiful than they have been in many years. One green that is hardly brighter nor more novel, but a warm quiet shade between the two, appears again and again, but most frequently in combination with black. It should be a prime favorite, for it is becoming, inconspicuous and easily combined with other colors.

Perhaps the ugliest novelty materials are the new plaits. Now wavers ever dared put such designs on the market is hard to understand, for they are held at the high prices that usually pertain to new materials. Happily there are pretty new plaits, with sanction to employ them very sparingly in dress trimmings. In the accompanying small picture one method of utilizing them is shown. The dress goods here was robin's egg blue broadcloth. The plait showed red, blue and green, and folk of the goods and pink and white dress silk were other trimmings. This Robespierre collar is one of several stylish devices for making the shoulders seem wide, yet giving to them a long drop. Nothing will accomplish this better than a deep, flat collar falling from the base of the throat to well over the shoulders. Such collars in handsome heavy lace are almost the sole trimming of many soft wool gowns. Then triple collars of the sort called Currier collars and incrochable revers are means to the same general end. In other particulars than shoulders there is to be much dropping effect. Flowing skirts, esches, boas and fichus and drooping hat brims are what the fall and winter girl must display with drooping shoulders if she wishes to be up-to-date. Persian and oriental trimmings will continue in excellent standing, but no longer are to be considered as the newest garment. Tricks in velvet trimming are of later introduction, though there is more or less of trickery in this at all times.

to today's second illustration are one gown trimmed with Persian embroidery and two trimmed with velvet. The stylish value of the latter is about two to one of the other. The first gown was bisont broadcloth, the embroidery trimming the skirt and outlining a vest of white silk, outlined in silver. The second figure displays a coat of bronze taffeta trimmed with stitched folds of the silk and with black velvet. A cream lace bolero topped it. A green and pink pompadour silk was the fabric of the night. The gown, with selected bolero of black broadcloth velvet. Wonderful colorings and designs appear in the new pompadour silks. They are broadcloth, striped or dotted, and all will make stunning coats or dresses. Many are being used as foundation for chiffon, mousseline and other semi-transparent materials. Shirts flate with all possible freedom about the feet and fit very snugly at the hips. So much may be relied on as settled. As a result there will be resort to circular blouses and inset plaits of every sort. Plounced skirts are finished with inverted plaits at the back and are especially effective in rich silks, handsome cloth and velvet. The polonaise continues, but seems unlikely to have general endorsement. One of its prettiest forms is shown in the concluding picture, being sketched in delicate gray broadcloth silk, corn colored satin and cream and gold lace.

The Russian blouse more or less modified is the most popular model for a skirtless coat at present, and a large majority of the new fall suits take this form. The severe collarless blouse with a finish of embroidered band and wristbands ending the Bishop sleeves is used both for gowns and separate waists. Many flannel and cashmere waists are made after this model a stock and chemist's or yoke being worn. Another more elaborate blouse is laid in box-plaits. Over the shoulders and around the back is a deep triple collar, the two lower sections heavily stitched and the upper one embroidered and held together by a stitched box-plait that passes under the two lower collars and continues down the blouse to the waist line. Another feature of this form of blouse is the soft black satin skirt that usually passes around the throat and runs down either side of the front box-plait. It is slipped through broad eyelets in the goods and terminates in loops, flowing ends. Two dainty blouse modifications are shown here: The left hand one was snuff brown corded hair, with lace applique and white silk lining. The other was bright red broadcloth, lace covering the lower portion and appearing below the belt in plait pieces. Tucked yoke, collar and drapery were white satin. The vividness of some of the new rods is distressing, and in this respect the greens are worse, perhaps because golf has made us familiar with brightness in reds and scarlets.

Fashion Notes.
 Fashion prefers small umbrellas, with plain wooden sticks, with no ornamentation. Neither the perforated rings nor monograms in gold are strictly modish. There is a distinct revival of Spanish lace. White gowns have insertings of the lace, and entire gowns are made of it. On some of the hats of torador shape it is used mingled with chiffon. Its tiny buckles or buttons are much chosen now to set off the high belts which are made of velvet straps arranged in fan shape front and back. The buckles are placed at the points or extremities of the ribbon straps. Mock jewels of silk embroidery on black hose are among the latest fads. One extremely pretty pair displayed recently

A $10,000,000 HAY CROP.
 The alfalfa of Arizona will be worth That Much This Year.
 The great drought in the middle and west States and the consequent general scarcity of hay and grain is proving a blessing to Arizona. In this section the heaviest harvest of wheat and barley that has ever been known has just been gathered, and two crops of alfalfa of unprecedented size are stored away safely. It is this great crop of alfalfa that will be of particular value to the ranchmen of Arizona. Alfalfa which has heretofore been grown profitably, the land in most of the agricultural districts is being gradually given over to the more remunerative alfalfa.

Arizona supplies hay to nearly all of northern Mexico, part of New Mexico, and every state into California and the Northern States. By far the largest alfalfa section is about Phoenix. In this valley there are nearly 100,000 acres of alfalfa, and $2,000,000 is a conservative estimate this year of its value. From two to five crops will be gathered, averaging from one to one and one-half tons per acre. The price of hay is now at $7 per ton, and is rising. In other parts of the territory the average production will not be so high as in the valley, but $10,000,000 as the total worth of Arizona alfalfa will not be in excess of the figure mentioned. Heretofore Arizona's alfalfa market has been restricted by the size of the hay crop in the East and the low prices at which it could be supplied to the Southwest. There has always been a big profit, however, in putting it into the mining camps, where in some of the more isolated districts alfalfa has been sold at $60 per ton.

Weather Retards Ripening Corn.
 The government's weekly report says cool, wet weather has retarded maturing corn in the Northwest, but central and eastern crop is safe. Too much rain has fallen in upper Mississippi valley and parts of the South.

COLD RETARDS CROPS.

TEMPERATURE AND WET AFFECT MATURING CORN.

Central Crop, However, Is Safe—Too Much Rain Is Reported from Upper Mississippi Valley and Parts of the South.

The weekly crop report issued by the weather bureau says heavy rains have proved unfavorable to the central and western Gulf States, in portions of the Ohio valley, Tennessee and the upper Mississippi valley. The crop here has suffered from drought in the south Atlantic coast districts. East of the Rocky Mountains the temperature conditions have been favorable, except in the upper Missouri valley, where it has been too cool, and frosts were of general occurrence. In some instances, however, the plants were generally favorable conditions prevailed on the Pacific coast.

Cool, wet weather has retarded the maturing of corn in Nebraska and South Dakota, but in the central and eastern districts of the corn belt the crop is practically safe from frost and cutting is well advanced. Excessive rains in the central and western portions of the cotton belt have caused serious injury to cotton, and interfered with picking. Central and eastern Texas and portions of Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi have received from two to ten inches of rain. Over the western half of the cotton belt the rain falls have been moderate, or very light, with the coast districts receiving no appreciable amount; the staple has opened freely and picking has progressed rapidly. Reports of rust and shedding continue from the central and eastern districts.

Except in Kansas, where heavy rains have interfered with the cutting of tobacco, this crop is largely secured, and reports respecting it are generally favorable. All reports except those from Kansas indicate an exceptionally light apple crop, and high winds of the last week have blown down a large percentage of the crop in Illinois and Indiana. In Kansas an improvement in the condition of apples is reported.

The abundant rains of the last week have put the soil in excellent condition for plowing, and this work has been rapidly pushed, although retarded by excessive moisture in some districts. Considerable seedling has been done, and early sown wheat is coming up nicely in Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma.

State Crop Reports.
 Missouri—Good rains in nearly all sections revived pastures and late forage crops and early cutting of hay. Many flannel and cashmere waists are made after this model a stock and chemist's or yoke being worn. Another more elaborate blouse is laid in box-plaits. Over the shoulders and around the back is a deep triple collar, the two lower sections heavily stitched and the upper one embroidered and held together by a stitched box-plait that passes under the two lower collars and continues down the blouse to the waist line. Another feature of this form of blouse is the soft black satin skirt that usually passes around the throat and runs down either side of the front box-plait. It is slipped through broad eyelets in the goods and terminates in loops, flowing ends. Two dainty blouse modifications are shown here: The left hand one was snuff brown corded hair, with lace applique and white silk lining. The other was bright red broadcloth, lace covering the lower portion and appearing below the belt in plait pieces. Tucked yoke, collar and drapery were white satin. The vividness of some of the new rods is distressing, and in this respect the greens are worse, perhaps because golf has made us familiar with brightness in reds and scarlets.

Fashion Notes.
 Fashion prefers small umbrellas, with plain wooden sticks, with no ornamentation. Neither the perforated rings nor monograms in gold are strictly modish. There is a distinct revival of Spanish lace. White gowns have insertings of the lace, and entire gowns are made of it. On some of the hats of torador shape it is used mingled with chiffon. Its tiny buckles or buttons are much chosen now to set off the high belts which are made of velvet straps arranged in fan shape front and back. The buckles are placed at the points or extremities of the ribbon straps. Mock jewels of silk embroidery on black hose are among the latest fads. One extremely pretty pair displayed recently

LOSS BY STEEL STRIKE.

Effects of the Great Industrial Battle Are Far-Reaching.

The effects of the strike in the steel and iron rolling mills are so great and far-reaching that they can hardly be accounted with any reasonable degree of accuracy, because the fact results are felt as far away as the ore mining regions of Duluth, and through the network of trade from the manufacture of clothing and shoes down to the small shopkeeper in the strike-affected districts.

The losses of the constituent companies of the United States Steel Corporation have been very severe in the way of trade lost that cannot be made up, cost of maintenance of plants during enforced idleness when nothing was coming in, in interest on several months on a vast investment lying idle and loss of profit that would have been made had operations continued as in normal times.

A tonnage of upwards of 250,000 tons of tin plate, pipes and tubes, sheets, bars, cotton ties, skeps, puddled iron and finished products has been lost by the steel trust. An average of the selling price of the articles mentioned is $30 per ton, or $7,500,000—a terrible price to pay for a victory over a labor union.

The workmen have lost millions in the strike and gained nothing; in many cases their families are living in straitened circumstances with the winter at hand; the resources of all but a very few of the higher paid men have been exhausted and their bank accounts depleted.

The brunt of the trouble is borne by workers not concerned in the matter one way or another, such as machinists, electrical foremen, millwrights, shipper, transportation men, and the host of middle class labor that goes to make up the personnel of a steel strike.

As to the matter of wages, averages taken of the earnings of the skilled men, unskilled and artisans affected show that the average is close to $7,000,000, or nearly equal to the amount lost by the trust by reason of product not manufactured.

A summary of the Amalgamated losses is as follows: In funds, $150,000; a fourth of the mills, if those of the American Sheet and Tube Company, including the union, and the Amalgamated in the branch lost 1,300 members; a fourth of the strength in the mills of the American Sheet Steel Company has been lost, and 800 members have been lost in the sheet branch; in the National Steel Company 400 members have been lost, and 700 have been lost in the mills of the Illinois Steel Company.

This is a net loss of about 3,000 men, reducing the membership from 13,800 to 10,800, most of which is in the mills of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, and in important tin plate, sheet and hardware plants.

The losses in the individual companies are about as follows: American Sheet Steel Company, 25,000 tons; American Sheet Tube Company, 75,000 tons; American Tin Plate Company, 1,250,000 boxes; National Tube Company, 1,000,000 boxes; Illinois Steel Company, 50,000 tons.

There can no longer be any doubt that President Roosevelt was of great admirer and friend of President McKinley.

The cause of the recent cold snafu and frosts is now understood. It was the result of the fusion conventions down at Lincoln.

The Sohley controversy now holds the boards, but it ought never to have been so. There was glory enough at Santiago for all.

The anti-pass resolution was covered by a decidedly thick coat of frost when the Nebraska democratic convention got through with it, but that's the Bryano democratic way.

Leon Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley, was found guilty of murder in the first degree by the jury in the superior court at Buffalo Tuesday afternoon.

Everybody clearly recognizes now that the Republican national convention at Philadelphia made a most wise selection when it chose Theodore Roosevelt as its Vice Presidential nominee.

The trial of Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley was begun at Buffalo on Monday. The assassin had no defense to make and plead guilty, but the court set aside the plea and an entry of innocency was made.

Judge Jeremiah Wilson, senior counsel for Admiral Schley, died very suddenly at the Sherburne hotel on Tuesday afternoon. The court of inquiry was at once postponed by Admiral Denoy until the following day.

The interest in fustion in this state has become almost unnoticable. The people are too busy taking in dollars, as good as any other dollars on earth, for which they are disposing of their products of the farm at smiling prices.

State Treasurer Steuffer has invested over $800,000 of the permanent school fund during the first eight months in his official capacity. What's the matter with Steuffer? He has a record that has never before been equaled.

THE NATION MARCHES ON.

A good president has gone to his eternal reward. His mossoser, reverent and resolutely, has taken up the burdens of this great office. Having passed through the first shock of their grief, the American people look about and ask, "What of the republic?" And they see that with the commonwealth all is well.

First, as to things material, which, however fantastic idealists may scoff, are the foundations of the national edifice. The captains of industry and of finance have examined the horizon and see no cloud. The new administration will go straight ahead with those policies which have made this the most prosperous nation in the world.

The McKimley administration was successfully seeking to give safety to Cuba, or end freedom to the Phillipines and peace and prosperity to all our new possessions. These aims the Roosevelt administration will steadily pursue.

The McKimley administration was successfully seeking to give safety to Cuba, or end freedom to the Phillipines and peace and prosperity to all our new possessions.

the anarchists. And that problem is faced without fear and with an iron determination to defend civilization against all who willfully put themselves beyond its pale.

Therefore the American people may look from these present sorrow with well-founded and clear-eyed hope to the future.

WHY THE BOILER BURSTS. Scientific Explanation of Some Phenomena of the Kitchen. When you hear the kitchen boiler crackling, there is no cause for alarm.

The reason is very simple. As long as the boiler is kept full of water there is no room for steam. If you open the hot water cock, the water boils out, and steam rises from it.

When a kitchen boiler explodes, it is generally because a fire has been kindled in the range while the boiler was empty.

We have used the same cure for over 20 years and everybody is satisfied with our treatment. Over 500 men in Wayne county have taken our treatment and any one of them will be pleased to recommend us. All the doctors in Wayne will tell you that our treatment is proper. It costs you nothing to get our advise and it costs you nothing to use our treatment, and it can not harm you. The treatment can only be had at this store.

But some will say, "I can't wear wool." We will say right here that we have never found a man that can't wear Staley all-wool Underwear. Staley underwear is not like any other underwear. The wool is treated different and Staley uses a different kind of wool than other underwear manufacturers. Wool doesn't hurt any one. It is the foreign matter in the wool that hurts people, and all foreign matter is taken out of the wool used in the Staley underwear. Some will say, "All my wool underwear shrinks so I can't wear it." We give printed instructions with Staley underwear, and if you obey the instructions in washing Staley underwear it will not shrink. It will cost you nothing to see the Staley underwear. We can fit anyone no matter how large. We will be glad to explain to your entire satisfaction why Staley underwear should be worn by all, and can satisfy you that you can wear it comfortably. Ask any one wearing Staley all-wool underwear and they will recommend it. Ask any doctor if you ought to wear Staley underwear and he will recommend it. Delegates were here from Carroll and Winside and a number of country points. Officers were elected as follows: Benj. McKee, president; Rev. C. J. Ringer, vice president; E. B. Young, secretary; R. D. Merrill, treasurer; superintendents of departments: normal, Geo. Philiso; home, Rev. Chas. Welden; primary, Mrs. W. D. Welker.

Republican: Mrs. John Baker and daughter, Bertha, of Leslie, went to Shenburne, Minn. Monday, to visit the mother and brother of Mrs. B. Through the efforts of Geo. C. Terwilliger sufficient funds were secured and an excellent bell purchased for the new M. E. church. It arrived Monday and is the "Blymyer" bell, manufactured by the Cincinnati Bell Foundry. It is a monster, being 46 inches across its base, and will give forth a sound that can be heard for miles around when it sends forth its invitation to come. The six year old son of Daniel Bayer living south of this city, fell from a wagon Monday, and broke his left arm just above the wrist. Dr. Leisenring reduced the fracture.

Pierce Call: The soldier of the Civil War is fast being called to the final muster call. There are 7000 less than last year and the number is being more rapidly diminished as the years roll on. It won't be very long until the old soldiers are as few as those of the Mexican war. The veterans of the war of '61-'65 have done a glorious work for our country and this should be kept in mind long after they are gone. As it is today they teach the rising generation loyalty to the country and its flag. As long as the youth of the country reverence their country and its institutions and prize highly its liberties, so long is the punishment safe. God bless the old veterans and may their remaining years be spent in peace and quietness.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

The first formal cabinet meeting under President Roosevelt in the White House

The first formal cabinet meeting under President Roosevelt in the White House was of the necessity of things, distinctively a routine affair. The President for some time to come will be obliged to go into the details of every matter presented to him for his original action.

The most important report made at the first cabinet meeting under President Roosevelt

The most important report made at the first cabinet meeting under President Roosevelt was that made by Secretary Root, who spoke of the present conditions in the Philippines and in Cuba. He pointed out the fact that the new electoral law provided by the Cuban constitutional convention calls for six general elections each year, and this was regarded by the President and the members of the cabinet as an unfavorable sign.

President Roosevelt spent his first night in the White House Monday

President Roosevelt spent his first night in the White House Monday. Mrs. Roosevelt and the children arrived Wednesday, coming directly to the White House from the train, and Wednesday evening saw the entire family comfortably established in the presidential mansion.

Throughout the larger part of the year the White House is a magnet for cranks

Throughout the larger part of the year the White House is a magnet for cranks of all sorts and descriptions, male and female. In the main they are harmless and their idiosyncrasies are on the minor side.

President Roosevelt has no notion of guarding himself from the bullet of an assassin by any extraordinary means

President Roosevelt has no notion of guarding himself from the bullet of an assassin by any extraordinary means. From the time of his arrival at Buffalo the President has persistently frowned down upon the well-meaning efforts of the secret service to take other officials to provide him with a bodyguard.

Va. in which State she resided as one of the leaders of society until her widowhood, about three years ago, when she went to Washington. By every personal grace of mind and body, Mrs. Blackburn is fitted for her position in senatorial circles, and will easily become one of Washington's social favorites.
