THE ORIGINAL CABIN.

A propos of the coming of Montgomery Bros. Pavilion Uncle Tom's Cabin Company, Mrs. Stowe's greatest work, a short story of the original cabin may be of interest. The people about Naabitoohes, La, have long insisted that Robert McAlpin was the original Simo Legree. His house and plantation were the only ones fitting the description in the book, on the Red river, and he the only man in the state who "blinded the bill." He was intemperate and meretricious, and died before the war, leaving a memory for brutality that is even now mentioned with horror. On his place lived a faithful old negro said from Ken tooky, who suffered everything except actual torture to death. Mr. S. Chopin, the present wealthy owner of the estate, has preserved the cabin with great care, in the confident belief that in time it would become an object of natural curiosity. The cabin is of cypress logs covered with cypress boards, and sound as when built, some forty years ago. It is presumed that Mrs. Stowe used the novelist's privilege of combining the experience of several negroes in one, but simply as a relic of old slave times. The cabin will present great interest. Montgomery Bros. Greater Famous Pavilion Uncle Tom's Cabin Co. will show under a big tent in Wayne next Saturday night, July 5. Watch for big parade at noon.

People shake hands on mighty small provocation. M. O'Connell was in Wakefield on business Monday afternoon.

Dr. Hammond came in from Carroll Friday afternoon, where he had been called on veterinary work.

About six weeks after the wolf appears at a man's door, it looks to him as if it was holding a family reunion. Do you want to be an unusual person? Give, when called upon to do so in a worthy cause, without that funny look in your eyes.

The heavy rains of the past week has caused a tremendous growth of vegetation. The hay lands were never in better condition and all other crops are progressing in a manner that makes the farmer wear a decidedly pleasant smile.

The newest creation—The Epitaph Moving Pictures—at every performance with Montgomery Bros. Great Famous Pavilion Uncle Tom's Cabin Co. Prices 15 and 25 cents. One grand night performance at Wayne July 6.

About a score, more or less, of the ladies society of the Wayne Presby-terian church dined yesterday and took dinner with Mrs. Geo. Phillo, and called on other old Wayne friends. Miss Maggie Peters went to Wayne yesterday to consult a dentist. Doc Hammond the Wayne veterinarian, was in town yesterday.—Carroll Index.

Not long since while buying some fish at a market I observed that the fishmonger soiled the fish with a new currycomb. The way the scales got off that fish was a sight. Housewives who have to prepare fish often will do well to get a cheap currycomb for soiling them. This implement will not soile the prices any. Prices are in sympathy with beef.—Homestead.

Mother Always Keeps It Handy. "My mother suffered a long time from distressing pains and general ill health due primarily to indigestion," says L. W. Spalding, Verona, Mo. Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once, and now at the age of seventy-six, eats anything she wants, remarking that she fears no bad effects as she has her bottle of Kodol handy. Don't waste time doctoring symptoms. Go after the cause. If your stomach is sound your health will be good. Kodol rests the stomach and strengthens the body by digesting your food. It's nature's own tonic.

A question in a Sunday school class recently had more significance than one is liable to see at first sight. One of the pupils asked why the wise men came from the east, in connection with the birth of Christ. The teacher said it was because they were wise. I don't know whether Horace Greeley's saying will work in this case or not. All wise men have not come from the east but all wise men who came from the east came because they were wise.—Homestead.

Fred B. Woolstoo, who has been the very efficient deputy postmaster here the past five years has decided to try and advance in the business and has accepted a position at Omaha under the civil service rule, to which place he went on Tuesday to take up his duties. His numerous friends here will wish him success in the new field and will be glad to hear of his rapid advancement. Miss Logan, who has been deputy of the Ponce office for several years, has accepted the deputyship of the Wayne office, and with the best of recommendations.

A greater interest is now being manifested throughout the entire county over the play of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" than at any time since its dramatization. Just to what this may be attributed we do not know, unless it be owing to the simple fact of its being one of those plays which never die, and like wine, grows better with age. Reliable reports say that the Montgomery Bros' Greater Famous Pavilion Uncle Tom's Cabin, which exhibits here in its moister water-proof tent, at Wayne, July 5, is the biggest and best company on the road, playing this grand old play. The prices have been reduced to 15 and 25 cents, so that all may attend.

A Postmaster Writes. "I wish to add my testimony to the genuine merit of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I have tried many remedies but have found your Syrup Pepsin superior to all other laxatives and stomach medicines. My wife and I both use it and know that it does all you claim for it." Yours, C. O. KINNE.

G. H. Albers brought to town on Wednesday some branches from an apple tree in his orchard as samples of his prospects for fruit. The apples, which are now about the size of crabs, grow in clusters of from three to six on every twig. Last year the trees were loaded in the same manner, making it necessary to prop up the branches. Mr. Albers does not know the name of the variety, but they resemble in size and color the Dan Davis. They are an excellent apple and well adapted to this locality. Mr. and Mrs. Dan McManigal and son Morton went to Blair Thursday to attend the funeral of Mr. McManigal's brother who died the first of the week at Shawnee, Okla. This was the sixth funeral of relatives that Mr. McManigal had been called to attend within a period of ten days at Blair, in Illinois and Iowa.—Winnipeg Chronicle.

What makes the happy relation between man and woman, is an eternally interesting question, and a clever discussion of why marriages fail, presented by Rufford Pyke in his article "The Woman's Side," is certain to receive the very wide consideration which has been given to the author's previous articles on the discussion of woman versus man. The July Cosmopolitan seems to be almost equally divided in interest between men and woman. "An Experiment in Domestic Finance" is another entirely novel article which will appeal to woman, while some twenty pages devoted to the "Captain of Industry" will receive the consideration of men in all classes of business. The Cosmopolitan has undertaken to present a series of brief sketches of the men who are leaders in finance, manufactures, and commerce, prepared in an offhand way, but by writers of the greatest ability who have a knowledge of their subjects. The series thus far produced has attracted the widest attention. The industrial changes which have of late been occurring with such rapidity have the widest possible interest for all classes. The knowledge of these men, their derivation, leading characteristics and weakness throws much light upon the news of the day in which their names constantly recur.

Purging The System. It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities. Constipation keeps these poisons in the system, causing headache, dullness and melancholia at first, then unlighty eruptions and finally serious illness unless a remedy is applied. DeWitt's Little Early Risers prevent this trouble by stimulating the liver and promote easy, healthy action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work. Never gripe or distress. Orth.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For Governor, JOHN H. MCKEY.
For Lieutenant Governor, E. G. MCGILTON.
For Treasurer, BETER MORTENSON.
For Secretary of State, G. A. MARSH.
For Auditor, CHARLES WESTON.
For Superintendent of Instruction, WILLIAM K FOWLER.
For Attorney General, E. N. PROUT.
For Commissioner Public Lands, GEORGE D. FOLLMER.
For Congress, Third District, J. J. McCARTHY, of Dixon County.
For County Attorney, H. E. SIMANS, of Winfield.
For County Commissioner, 3rd tri, R. C. RUSSELL.

An excursion train was wrecked Sunday near Colorado Springs because of a broken rail. Seven cars were destroyed, one person killed and thirty four injured.

The republican party in Nebraska does not propose to be satisfied with less than six republican congressmen this fall, and all fusionists are requested to fall in line and aid in making it practically unanimous.

The Panama Route has been selected by the U. S. Senate for the interoceanic canal, although President Roosevelt is empowered to build the Canal at Nicaragua if he cannot satisfactorily negotiate for the Panama franchise.

The Union Pacific Machinists to the number of 1500 went out on a strike Monday in response to an order issued by president James O'Connell, of the International Association of Machinists, at Washington. Both sides are confident of success, a matter which time will tell.

Harry Lindsey was re-elected chairman of the republican state committee and a wiser selection could not have been made. The two campaigns he has made in behalf of the party have been decidedly successful. He is a man whom all republicans can approach and receive courteous treatment and a fair hearing.

W. H. Thompson confided in a friend in Lincoln before the convention that he did not want the nomination for governor unless it should come to him as the unanimous sentiment that he was the man upon whom all could agree. He said that in such an event he would be glad to accept and he would put $5,000 into the campaign and give the republicans a chase that they would remember.—Nebraska State Journal.

It is impossible for all candidates to be nominated for the same office, and it is just as fair for a candidate in one county to use all honorable means to secure his nomination as it is for a man in any other county. This being true, it is unreasonable for any set of delegates from other counties to display spite work against a citizen of a neighboring county who dares to use the right of a free and independent citizen in casting his ballot for the nomination of any man that he chooses to vote for.

Next year there is a district judge to be elected in this district and it may be that Wayne County's help won't be needed but her treatment by other counties at the recent convention will not be forgotten. Wayne County voted seven consecutive ballots for Judge Robertson for governor at Lincoln and only changed when it became certain that his nomination could not be made. In return for her seven ballots Wayne county's candidate got stuck in the back and by a county that has every reason to have at least divided her vote in behalf of Wayne.

The ticket nominated by the republican state convention is an unusually strong one. Especially is this true in regard to the nomination of John H. McKey for Governor. The nominee is a man of most excellent qualifications, thoroughly fitted to fill the position with credit to the state and honor to the party he represents, a man who will not be surpassed by being nominated to the position but will recognize each and every citizen the same as every other citizen. Mr. McKey is a farmer, a banker, an old soldier and a pioneer of Nebraska, and his election is just as sure as it is that the sun rises in the morning.

Bryan, of course, was wise in refusing the Nebraska fusion nomination for governor. He knew his party would be defeated in any case, and a defeat for him at the head of the state would hit his prestige pretty hard. The fact, however, that both elements of the coalition wanted Bryan to accept, and the further fact that the Democracy and the Populists in Kansas were overwhelmingly Bryanite in sentiment, show a situation to the reorganizers Bryan will never be President, but he cannot will throw doubt on the way of any anti-Bryan Democrat who attempts to reach that office in the next few years.

Demey Downes the Anti-Imperialist.
Admiral Dewey gives the finishing stroke to that anti-imperialist fiction that he recognized the so-called government Aguinaldo. He has just made a statement before the Senate committee on the Philippines in which he showed that Aguinaldo had no hand in the capture of the city of Manila and that he gave no countenance at any time or in any shape to the notion that the rebel chief was to be considered in any official capacity. Aguinaldo was not with Dewey at the time of the battle and did not arrive until later. The Filipino rebellion against the Spaniards, which Consul General Wildman told Dewey would take place immediately after Dewey's victory, did not occur. The actual capture of the city was a strictly American achievement.

The admiral's extirpation of the anti-imperialist will not surprise any Americans who have kept informed in regard to events in the islands. The rebellion which Aguinaldo started in the Philippines a few years before the war began between Spain and the United States was ended before the first shots were fired in that war. Aguinaldo was bought off by the Spanish government and was in India at the time Dewey sailed from Hong Kong just before attacking the Spaniards. Neither Dewey nor anybody connected with the government at Washington paid any attention to Aguinaldo at that time. The war, so far as it would be waged in the Philippines, was to be between the United States and Spain. The ex-rebel chief did not enter into the calculations of the Americans at all until after the victory at Manila bay which put the city of Manila in the power of the Americans.

No recognition was given to Aguinaldo's pretensions as a head of any sort of a so called government by Dewey or by any of the American military commanders. The islands were made part of the United States by the treaty with Spain before Aguinaldo rose against this country and the treaty was on the eve of ratification. Aguinaldo became a rebel against United States authority. His pretended government never had the slightest shadow of existence. A few thousand in Luzon, who remembered his participation in the extinguished rebellion against Spain, were apparently devoted to him even after the United States came into possession of the islands, but the masses of the people in that island and the whole of those in the rest of the 1000 or 1500 islands were apathetic. The rebellion which he started in February, 1890, has been surpassed, he is a prisoner in United States hands, and American authority in the islands is accepted by practically the entire population of the archipelago.—Globe Democrat.

London Names in London.
If London street names are not always what they seem, the names of the great packages usually are. Take Lambeth, for instance. That vast district has retained its name practically unaltered since the days of Edward the Confessor, who granted a charter in which it is styled Lambeth. Some illiterate scribe, who helped in the making of "Domesday," did, indeed, make an effort to obliterate it's real name by calling it Lanchel, but his efforts were, fortunately, in vain. William Rufus, in another charter named it Lambeth, since when it has kept its title unaltered.

In the old days Lambeth (from hithel, a haven) was the great river port where agricultural produce was ferried across the Thames to the more populous county opposite. There are still many "hithes" left us, such as Queenhithe and Rotherhithe, and although their original functions have gone, there still remains a shadow to remind us of their departed glory.—London Chronicle.

How to Make Chop Steak.
For those who like or who think they would like the famous Chinese dish, chop suey, the following recipe, which our intelligent housewife can follow, was given by W. E. S. Fales, for several years vice consul at Amoy:
"For four persons two chickens' livers, two chickens' gizzards, one pound young, clean pork cut into small pieces, half an ounce of green root ginger and two stalks of celery. Slice this in a frying pan over a hot fire, adding four tablespoons of olive oil, one tablespoon of vinegar, half a cupful of hot water, one teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, half a teaspoonful of salt, black and red pepper to taste and a dash of cloves and cinnamon. When nearly done, add a small can of mushrooms, half a cupful of dry bean sprouts or French green peas or string beans chopped fine or asparagus tips. The soy sauce which is eaten with this delectable dish can be procured at any Chinese grocery."

Be Prepared.
Daniel Webster once told a friend that his great speech in reply to the Breckinridge eloquence, but which at the time was supposed to have been delivered without preparation, had been substantially prepared long before. When called upon suddenly to reply to the fiery Carolinian's attacks, which so alarmed the New Englanders at the capital, he was entirely at ease and ready for the fray, for, as he said, he had long been to turn to his notes tucked away in a pigeonhole, and refresh his recollection. "If I may," he said, "I tried to make a speech to fit my notes, he could not have hit them better. No man is inspired by the occasion. I never was."

Calling the Hours.
There is one place in London, and only one, where the ancient custom of keeping a watchman to call out the hours is still maintained. This is at New Inn, which in spite of its name is one of the oldest inns of court. The servants there are quite proud of the age of the place, and it was one of them who said one day:
"Why, sir, this inn was here in the time of Charles I."

Some very curious notion of the disturbance which intervened between the two reigns had probably been floating through the man's mind, but how an existing institution could possibly have dated from the reign of Charles I. without coming down through the reign of Charles II. he failed to explain. Beginning at the stroke of 10 o'clock every night, the watchman in the yard of New Inn "calls the hour" in a stentorian but musical voice:
"Ten o'clock, and all's well!"
The words are heard in the adjoining chambers and offices. Tenants in Clement's Inn, whose rooms look into the pretty yard and garden of New Inn, may hear these words every hour through the night if awake.—New York Times.

The Indian Duck Trick.
A little tin or earthen pan or sometimes half a coconut shell supported on three stones is filled with water on which is sprinkled a red powder, rendering it practically opaque. A little duck of wood or porcelain is placed upon the surface, where it at first dangles, but at the command of the performer suddenly dives, remaining submerged until again ordered to rise. The very ingenious trick depends upon the fact that in the bottom of the vessel there is a minute hole through which passes a hair. One end of this is attached to the duck; the other remains at the disposal of the performer and is attached by means of a pellet of wax, to his thumb or to one of the hands with which he beats it. When he wishes the duck to dive, he pulls the hair. When he desires it to rise, he relaxes the pull.
There is naturally some amount of leakage through the pliable, and to cover this the performer takes care, when filling the pan, to accidentally (?) spill a little water. The ground being thus already wetted, the fact that it gets a little more is not noticed.—Chambers' Journal.

The Dear Old Frauds.
Those old, pleasant, innocent frauds of the circus are not practiced now; the imposing, five barred gates that, as the horse approached them, were sloped into insignificant wattles and the rings through which the signorina purposed to leap, but which in reality were insubstantiated over her by compliant attendants. And then there was that venerable jockey performance, the culmination of which was a leap from the ring to a standing position, albeit at an angle of 30 degrees, on the horse's back. In the olden times it was the custom of the horseman to miss the cowboy jump two or three times in order that a mereer flame of interest might be kindled in the audience. At last or two failures the hand would stop (always the presage of a moment of strain, surprise, the horse's head would be tossed, he would be urged to a greater pace, and the feat would gloriously succeed. Then what a crash of brass and outburst of delight in the building, involving even the staff and ringmaster in the expression of ecstasy. Those old, simple days!—Continent.

Making It Clear.
To confuse a witness is generally an easy task, and lawyers know no easier way than to make a witness explain the meaning of his words, knowing that very few people can do so without getting excited. Occasionally a victim resorts to this amazing and answers in a spirit and unexpected manner. A lawyer was cross examining a young girl of rather scanty talents. She had testified that she had seen the defendant "shy" a book at the plaintiff, and the lawyer had asked on the stand:
"Shy—shy a book? What do you mean by that? Will you explain to the court what the word 'shy' means?"
The girl leaned over the desk beneath the witness box, picked up a lawbook and threw it at the lawyer's head, who dodged just in time.
"I think the court now understands the meaning of the word 'shy,'" said the judge gravely, and the girl was allowed to finish her testimony without further interruption.—London Tit-Bits.

Inquisitive Penguins.
We often met companies of six or eight or more penguins promissory on the arctic ice pack in the sunshine. When they saw us, they generally exhibited curiosity and approached to get a nearer view. I do not know if these birds have the instinct of the naturalist and take a lively interest, doubtless philosophic from their point of view, in everything new which presents itself or if the object of their investigations is entirely practical, but they certainly came near us with a distinct purpose of making examination. But if we had the misfortune to excite much curiosity, they became aggressive. One would first come close to us and others would advance with a menacing air, and the battle began, a battle in which we sometimes had trouble to demonstrate effectively our superior strength.—Geographical Magazine.

A City of Padlocks.
Irkutsk, Siberia, is a city of padlocks. There are more padlocks on the shutters and doors of an Irkutsk shop than can be found in an English city of 200,000. There are as many as three padlocks on some shop doors, and every lower story shutter bears from one to five. The padlocks weigh from one to fifteen pounds. The poplar size is five pounds and two and one-half inches thick.

Impressive Condemnation.
Speaking with a farmer about one of his neighbors, I said, "So-and-so is a good man." He looked at me steadily without making any reply.
"So-and-so is a good man," I repeated in a louder tone, fancying; he must be deaf.
Then the farmer answered, "I heard what you said."—New York Herald.

Terrific Effect of Eloquence.
An unfortunate man had obtained access to rich Baron Ruyin's ear. He depicts his misfortunes, his misery, in so moving a manner that the earl, with tears in his eyes and his voice choked with sobs, called to his servant:
"Jean, put this poor fellow out in the street! He is breaking my heart!" Exchange.

Turner's Toast.
Turner, the painter, was a ready wit. Once at a dinner of artists an literary men a minor poet, by way of being facetious, proposed as a toast "The health of the painters and glaziers & Great Britain."
The toast was drunk, and Turner, after returning thanks for it, proposed "The health of the British paper stainers."
The laugh was turned against the poet.

Some night when the moon is at its full and the air is free from haze go outdoors with a hand mirror and hold it so that the moon's image will fall on it. Make the experiment, preferably, when the moon is well up in the heavens.

Instead of seeing one image, as you will expect, you will see four.
One of these images will be very bright, but the other three will be dull, like unburnished silver.
They will be in a straight line, one of the dull images on one side of the bright image and two on the other side of it. Turn the mirror slowly around, and the images will appear to revolve around on a common center.
The explanation of this queer little phenomenon may be found in the fact that there are two surfaces in a mirror, one in front and the other in the back, where the quicksilver is.
The brightest of the images is from the moon itself. The others are what are known as secondary images, reflected from the front to the back of the mirror and thence to the eye.
A similar experiment may be made with the planets Venus, Jupiter and Mars or with any of the first magnitude stars, such as Sirius, Capella, Arcturus, Vega and Antares.
The planets and the stars, however, make only three images, the number of images depending on the breadth of the object. A perfectly clear night is essential.—New York Herald.

A Certain Business Man Needed.
A certain business man noted for his grasping methods came into his office one day and told his partner that he was very happy because he had done three good deeds that morning. "At the first place," he said, "I met a poor woman who was weeping bitterly because she had lost the $4 with which she had intended to pay for the baptism of her baby. I gave her a ten dollar bill, telling her to have the child baptized and give me the change as I came from my club. Charity was my good deed. Saving the child's soul was the second."
"And what was the third?" asked the partner.
"Oh, the third was that I got six good dollars for my green goods tin."

The Black Maria.
The following is given as the origin of the term "Black Maria." When New England was filled with emigrants from the mother country, a negro named Maria Lee kept a sailors' boarding house in Boston. She was the wife of a man who was a frequent frequenter of the police court. Maria Lee came to be known as "Take him to jail." British seamen were often taken to the lockup by this amazon, and the stories they spread of her achievements led to the name of Black Maria being given to the English prison van.

EDWARD IS BETTER.

SURGEONS REPORT KING'S CONDITION FAVORABLE.

Patent Able to Eat and Smoke and to Make Satisfactory Progress and Medical Advisors Say Monarch Is Discharging Great Recuperative Power.

King Edward's recuperation was reported to be much improved Sunday, he was thought to have safely passed the crisis and there was a wide assumption that nothing was to be expected but honorably and uneventfully.

His recent habits are in his favor, for it is a fact, although not known to many outside of the royal household, that the King is, and has been for a long time, most abstemious as to his diet.

Of course, the magnificent coronation, which was to have been the most splendid spectacle of the modern world, has vanished forever. No attempt will be made to have a great celebration for King Edward will not be doing for many months to endure any trying ordeal.

Freedom before in so striking a manner has the uncertainty of London events been so firmly fixed upon the minds of the people that the King's illness is not readily distinguished from appendicitis.

The King's ailment is what is known as peritonitis. It is an inflammation of the tissues around the vermiform appendix and in the popular mind is not readily distinguished from appendicitis.

Disappointment and Sympathy. London had a million foreigners with invitations for the coronation and four more millions were ready to cross her threshold from the United Kingdom.

Rites Over Abandoned Festivities. The abandonment of the coronation festivities has led to a number of these different phases. The worst occurred at Waterloo, where when it was announced the dinner for the poor and the distribution of stilles and stipples to children had been abandoned a mob stampeded and wrecked the shops of the members of the committee having the affair in charge.

The rioters lit a bonfire that had been prepared to celebrate the event, over which the police, and threw the officers' helmets into the fire. Hundreds of other looters were summoned, but they, too, were overpowered. There was desperate fighting and many persons were seriously hurt. A number of shops were sacked and set on fire.

GREAT PROGRAM ABANDONED.

List of Coronation Events Which Had Been Planned.

The list of coronation events which had been planned beginning Tuesday, June 24, and extending until Saturday, July 6, preparatory for which had been completed at a cost of several million dollars, are all included in the following department.

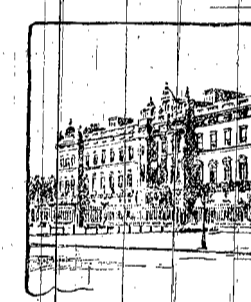

First on the program was to have been the reception of the King and Queen to the special foreign dignitaries and deputations to the coronation with a state dinner at Buckingham Palace. This was the event scheduled for Tuesday, the opening day of the great festival.

Thursday was to have been the coronation at Westminster Abbey, the climactic event of the week. The program for Friday, June 29, included the procession through London, which was to have been a military pageant two miles long, containing troops from all the dominions of the kingdom.

Tuesday, July 1, there was to have been held the golden party at Windsor Castle. Larch preparation had been made for this event. The next day was set for the departure of foreign princes and envoys and the dinner of their majesties at London City House. Services for their majesties at St. Paul's Cathedral and lunch at the guildhall was the program for Thursday, July 3.

Losses are enormous. The coronation has not been definitely figured. The official statement for the cost of the first week's festivities is $2,000,000. This, of course, includes expenses of the government alone.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE, LONDON.

Buckingham Palace, King Edward's London residence, is in St. James' Park, in the western part of London. The coronation procession was to have started from here.

Paris who hold heavy portfolios on the King's life. These portfolios are said to aggregate $20,000,000. They in London season only just been in earnest.

Nature of the Operation. The loss to those who created hands will run into millions. It is estimated that forty were built in connection with the coronation.

Prominent Chicago Doctor Describes How the Surgeon Worked. Operations such as King Edward underwent were described by a Chicago surgeon as follows: The patient is prepared for the operation by a thorough scrubbing of the body.

Dr. Cyrus Edson of New York explained the King's illness and the operation as follows: Peritonitis is inflammation, including the formation of an abscess of the tissues around the vermiform appendix.

KING AND QUEEN IN CORONATION ROBES.

CHRONOLOGY OF THE KING'S LIFE.

Born in Buckingham Palace, London, Nov. 9, 1841, in the fifth year of his mother's reign. Second child and first son of Alexander Victoria, Queen of England, and the Prince Consort, Albert of Saxo-Coburg and Gotha.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

Alexandra Carolina Marie Charlotte Louise Julia, Queen of England and Empress of India, was born Dec. 1, 1844, the oldest daughter of Prince Christian, now King Christian of Denmark, and is therefore 58 years old.

Queen Alexandra, who made herself an Englishwoman, and who is the most popular woman in the kingdom, is the only Queen Victoria. Though it is pretty generally known that her married life has not been happy, she has been a loyal wife and a devoted mother.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate on Monday a motion was entered for the purpose of discharging the committee on territories from further consideration of what is known as the omnibus territorial bill—a measure to admit as States the territories of Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona.

On Tuesday the Senate passed bills creating a national forest reserve in the Southern Appalachian Mountains and authorizing the agreement between the Government and the Indians of the Indian Territory and the United States.

In the Senate on Wednesday the conference report on the sundry civil bill was agreed to, as was that in the army appropriation bill, the House receding from its announced purpose not to consider the Senate amendment.

At Cleveland the storm broke as the funeral of Mrs. Mory Earle was being held. The roof of an adjoining house was blown away, and a part of the house was hurled through the side of the house.

Quite unexpectedly, a sharp debate arose in the Senate on Friday on the question of Cuban reciprocity. Mr. Teller, at whose instance the committee on Cuban relations made its investigation of the subject, delivered a spirited speech in opposition to reciprocity.

Leaders in both branches of Congress hope to adjourn July 3. Pension roll has almost reached the million mark and is likely soon to pass it, as list is constantly increasing.

New Department of Commerce and Industry not likely to be authorized at present session; Chicago may probably still be head of it ultimately.

COMMERCIAL FINANCIAL.

Trade at the East is more quiet owing to the advancing season, and the bad effect of prolonged labor controversies is being felt in certain lines.

Trade this sums up the situation. Uncertainty regarding their ability to secure pig iron at reasonable prices is making producers of steel cautious in accepting contracts that call for delivery at some remote dates.

Rheumatism

The liniment bottle and flannel strip are familiar objects in nearly every household. They are the weapons that have been used for generations to fight old Rheumatism, and are about as effective in the battle with this giant disease as the blunderbuss of our forefathers would be in modern warfare.

Rheumatism is caused by an acid, sour condition of the blood. It is filled with acrid, irritating matter that settles in the joints, muscles and nerves, and liniments and oils nor nothing else applied externally can dislodge these gritty, corroding particles. They were deposited there by the blood and can be reached only through the blood. Rubbing with liniments sometimes relieve temporarily the aches and pains, but these are only symptoms which are liable to return with every change of the weather; the real disease lies deeper, the blood and system are infected. Rheumatism cannot be radically and permanently cured until the blood has been purified, and no remedy does this so thoroughly and promptly as S. S. S. It neutralizes the acids and sends a stream of rich, strong blood to the affected parts, which dissolves and washes out all foreign materials, and the sufferer obtains happy relief from the torturing pains.

SSS

S. S. S. contains no poisons or other mineral, but is a perfect vegetable blood purifier and most exhilarating tonic. Our physicians will advise, without charge, all who write about their case, and we will send free our special book on Rheumatism and its treatment.

THE LEGION OF HONOR AND HOW IT WAS FOUNDED.

Despite the Ridicule the Project at First Invited Its Inauguration Proved That Napoleon Knew French Human Nature.

France owes the Legion of Honor to Napoleon. All orders of civility had been abolished by the revolution and had left a gap which it was not easy to fill. "They are mere beggars," said Monge, the chemist, who had taught the revolutionists how to make gunpowder out of plaster of Paris. "Gee-awts, if you will," the poet consulted answered, "but people like them." Let us approach the question frankly. All men are enamored of decorations—the French more than any. They positively hunger for them, and they have always done so.

This was at Mulmuison in 1802. In May the conseil d'etat was invited to consider the project of the institution of the Legion of Honor. It was ridiculed by many, notably by Moreau, who as victor of Hohenlinden was bitterly jealous of the victor of Marengo. At a dinner party he sent for his cook and said to him in the presence of his guests: "Michel, I am pleased with your dinner. You have indeed distinguished yourself. I will award you a sauceman of honor." Mme. de Staël was also satirized upon the subject. "All one of the decorated?" she used to ask each guest who was shown into her salon.

But Napoleon had gauged human nature correctly. His Legion of Honor did meet a felt want, and it was definitely inaugurated on July 14, 1804. Among the eminent men of science and men of letters on whom it was then bestowed were included Laplace, the mathematician; Lalande, the astronomer; Cuvier, the naturalist, and Legouviez, the poet. The most notable name omitted was that of Bernardin de St. Pierre, just then in disgrace for championing Mme. de Staël, whom Napoleon had banished, but he got the decoration later on the entreaty of Queen Hortense.

After Jena Goethe was decorated. A little later high promotion in the order was given to General Lamarque, to whom Sir Hudson Lowe had surrendered at Capri. "What did you do with him?" asked Napoleon. "The king of Naples had him exchanged for a Neapolitan general who was a prisoner in Sicily." "Very well; there is no harm in letting this English colonel go. He is not dangerous." It seems not unlikely that Sir Hudson Lowe remembered this sarcasm when he was Napoleon's jailer a few years afterward.

After Napoleon's downfall the question of suppressing the Legion of Honor arose. Chateaubriand, whom Napoleon had not decorated, strongly urged its abolition. So did Puzos, de Broze, Marshals Victor, Marmont and Macdonald opposed. After debate it was decided to recognize and retain the order, not on any high moral or patriotic grounds, but because Louis XVIII. could not afford to make himself more unpopular than he was already by stripping people of their decorations. Chateaubriand and Lamartine consented to accept the red ribbon, but it was also conferred upon a great number of worthless personages and so brought into contempt.

There have been many Legion of Honor scandals since those days, but one of them surpasses all the others in magnitude. This is, of course, the Wilson scandal, the history of which, though intricate, is worth recalling. The trouble may be said to have begun on the day on which Mlle. Alice Grey fell in love with an opera singer who he had not mentioned before. He wanted to marry her, and she wanted to marry him, and the papers were beginning to couple the two names in a manner most embarrassing to the president, when he sent the opera singer about his business and found his daughter another husband, not a very good husband, but the best husband he could procure on the spur of the moment. His choice fell upon M. Daniel Wilson, who had long been one of M. Grey's political supporters and was a financier of some mark.

No sooner was M. Wilson established at the Elysee than he proceeded to entice himself by various means. Among other things, he founded a paper called Le Moniteur de l'Exposition Universelle, which really covered a traffic in decorations. The whole story came out in a state trial toward the end of 1887. It was proved that Wilson had made a regular practice of selling the Legion of Honor, or rather of inviting people who wanted it to bribe him to use his influence to obtain it for them. His overtures were presented through his broker, Etienne d'Audlan and Caffregel and Mmes. Linossier and Ratazzi, and the whole party had to stand in the dock together.

Wilson was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, a fine of 3,000 francs and five years' deprivation of civil rights. He appealed, and the court of cassation annulled the judgment. The accused, said the judges, was obviously guilty of everything that he was charged with, but as his offenses were not anticipated by any punitive law he could not be punished. So he retired to the country and tried to live down his bad name. As he ultimately got himself elected conseiller general, one must suppose that he succeeded in this object.—Fall Mail Gazette.

His Mission.
A lawyer was passing along the street carrying under his arm a law-book when he was accosted by a self-righteous individual: "Eh, Mr. Blank! And where are you going to preach to-day?" "I don't preach, I practice," replied the lawyer.

Ungrateful.
A Marysville school-teacher was teaching her class the mysteries of grammar.

"Now, Johnny," said she, "in what tense do I speak when I say, 'I am beautiful?'"

The little fellow answered quick as a wink: "The past."—Kansas City Journal.

Because papa gets so mad when we make a little bit of noise.
What makes him that way?
Mamma says it's dyspepsia makes him act so crazy.
That's about the way it strikes the small boy. The dyspeptic has no idea of his own unreasonable or harshness. Little things are magnified and seem to justify his quick anger.
There's health for the dyspeptic and happiness for the family by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and restores perfect health and strength by enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.
"I have taken one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for indigestion and liver complaint," writes Mr. M. M. Wilson, of York College, Davidson, N. C. "I have had no bad spells since I commenced taking your medicine—in fact, have not felt like the same man. Before I took the Golden Medical Discovery I could not eat anything without awful distress, but now I can eat anything I wish without having unpleasant feelings."
