LINCOLN CORRESPONDENCE

The House spent the greater part of last week in the consideration of the revenue bill, several evening sessions being held for that purpose. Great headway was made and it is expected that the house will finish the consideration of the bill this week and send it along to the Senate. The members of the latter body have been carefully watching the amendments offered by the House, and the general belief is that they will be generally accepted there, and the bill passed on short consideration.

Some of the objections urged against the new bill at the start-off were that it would increase the taxes of farmers by taking the valuation in the winter when they had a large amount of stock or grain on hand. This was changed by the House, and the date of assessment will be the same as under the old law. Stock under six months of age is expressly exempted from assessment. The proposition to make taxes a first lien on personal property from and after the first of April was changed, so that the date is now the first of October.

The principal contest in the consideration of the bill, therefore, hung on the proposition advanced by the democratic platform, that railroads should be assessed on the basis of their stock and bonds. The fusionists were all up on this question by their party whip, and some few republicans were also caught by the plausible argument. The debate on the question lasted two days, and on the final vote the fusion arrangement was defeated by a vote of 58 to 36, the Douglas county members generally joining with the democrats.

During the progress of the discussion on this bill it developed that the largest railroad system in the state would under the democratic experiment be assessed practically on a capitalization of $10,000, its stocks and bonds having been all withdrawn by the Northern Security company, a non-resident corporation. This and some other features of the proposition showed that the democratic amendment was either foolish or purposely vicious. The leading fusionists admitted that they were advocating it in order to furnish an issue for the coming campaign. The bill as finally amended in this section provides for arriving at the valuation of railroads from every obtainable source, being more stringent than the old law.

An attempt was made during the week to have a sifting committee appointed in the House, but the move was a failure. The members decided that the revenue bill was out of the way and a start was made on the regular appropriation bills, there was no need for the services of a sifting committee. It is expected that the appropriation bills will be taken up this week. There will be an effort to dispose of them and get them over to the Senate in time to avoid the haste and confusion which has always marred and sometimes disgraced the closing hours of past sessions.

The Senate has introduced 303 bills, and the House 487. Of these, 10 passed both houses and have been signed by the governor. One bill has received the veto of the executive.

The veto committee of the Senate comprises Warren of Dakota, Wall of Sherman, Day of Neokolls, Way of Platte, Hastings of Butler, O'Neill of Lancaster, Hall and Saunders of Douglas. It will be the duty of this committee to examine the bills on general file and decide each day which ones shall come up for consideration.

One of the bills "killed" out by the Senate committee is H. R. 136, providing for the depositing of county money in banks on the payment of 2 per cent. interest, and providing that the money be deposited in banks outside the county where county banks have been pooled and refused to pay interest (as has often been the case heretofore). There is no question that this bill will reach the governor in a few days and will result in the correction of the abuse of handling county funds.

ORGAN RECITAL.

Pipe Organ at the M. E. Church; Gift of Mrs. J. H. Pingrey. o o

The Methodist Church of this city became richer on Monday evening to the tune of $1800, on presentation, by Mrs. J. H. Pingrey, of a beautiful pipe organ which that venerable and generous lady together with her deceased husband had planned on presenting to the church some months before. The presentation occurred at the organ recital, Mr. E. T. Renssok making the presentation speech in a few chosen remarks in behalf of Mrs. Pingrey. Mr. J. D. King responded in behalf of the church in accepting the beautiful gift. The church was filled to overflowing with a large and most appreciative audience and never to the mind of the HERALD—was an audience in Wayne better entertained, nor a better entertainment given in the city than at the church on that evening. The music rendered on the organ by Prof. Edward D. Jardine, of Chicago, was superb, the audience remaining as if spell-bound during the rendition of the popular selections as shown on the program below. The beautiful vocal solos by Miss Hildreth Sisson, of Norfolk, won the applause of all and the recitals of Miss Colony greatly pleased the entire audience. Mrs. Pingrey occupied a chair on the platform beside Rev. Sisson, of Norfolk, and seemed to greatly enjoy the occasion. The first number on the program was the Coronation, played and sung at her request.

The following program was given complete, with one additional number:

Part I.
Coronation Song by Congregation.
Presentation of Organ.
Response by J. D. King.
Overture, Poet and Peasant, Auher.
Andante Grazioso, Tours.
Vocal Solo, Miss Sisson, Selected.
a. Minnetta. b. Fugue from Samsen, Handel.
March from Tannhauser, Wagner.

Part II.
Intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana, Mascagni.
Recitation, Miss Colony, Selected.
Overture, William Tell, Rossini.
Vocal Solo, Miss Sisson, Selected.
Grand Chorus, Gailman.

This organ was built by W. W. Kimball Co. of Chicago, Ill., builders of the great instrument in the Tabernacle and Temple at Salt Lake City, the Temple at Washington, Grace church at Chicago, and Rochester beside many others. It can be said that while this instrument of course, does not equal the above mentioned in size, yet it is not excelled by them in mechanical and musical excellence, for precisely the same improved construction is employed in its manufacture as in theirs. This is not the rule in instruments of other make. The action of manuels, pedals, and draw stops is on the Kimball duplex tubular pneumatic system, wherein promptness of speech, ease of operation and greatest durability are assured; no matter how many stops and compass are drawn, the touch remains uniformly easy and quick in response. A notable feature in the mechanical accessories, is the ascending pedal by means of which all the stops of the organ may be brought on or off individually, or all at once at the will of the organist; this device puts the organist in command without obliging him to remove hand from keys, yet does not interfere with any stops that may be drawn.

The voicing of the organ is admirably balanced, the individual tones colors of the flutes, strings and diapason stops, being carefully preserved, while all combine to build up a solid and brilliant full organ, supported by the deep tones of the 16 foot pedal board.

The case of the organ is of quartered oak displaying the large metal pipes of the 8 ft. open Diapason appropriately decorated, in gold and colors; these pipes are not merely ornamental, but form the base notes of the stops named above. All in all it is an instrument that Wayne may be proud of.

DeKALB FENCING,

Being composed of two wires uniformly twisted together, counter acts the expansion and contraction successfully, while fencing made of single wires does not. The connection of the pickets with the cables is such that it is impossible to separate one from the other, and yet enables the fencing to adjust itself to hilly or uneven ground without buckling. DeKalb fencing is made to stand both the animal and the elements.

WATCHING THE WATERS.

Situation in Lower Mississippi Districts Growing More Alarming.

The fact that several thousand convicts in Mississippi have been practically liberated has been practically liberating in guarding and strengthening the levees along the Mississippi river. It is becoming more and more apparent that the situation prevailing at present in the lower river country.

It may be surmised from the character of the precautions taken to avert disaster in times of previous floods, as well as from the tone of the dispatches from the Mississippi river, that the Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana lowland planters are doing little else these days and nights than striving with might and main to keep the river within bounds.

They know that the floods which have created alarm and even panic along the Mississippi and the upper Mississippi and tributaries will within a few days increase the volume of the already swollen lower Mississippi to the danger point, and that the safety of their crops, their homes, and even their lands, is dependent upon the stability of the embankment which confine the Father of Waters.

It appears that armed sentries are patrolling these embankments at various points between Memphis and New Orleans; that the planters are no less vigilant in the matter of guarding their interests against the treachery of the river than they are in protecting themselves against the treachery of the negro.

Tampering with the levees is one of the most serious and most infamous offenses that can be committed on the lower Mississippi, and the person who cuts one of these embankments takes his life in his hands. For there has been no doubt that the planters have organized the levees, for their own protection, will deliberately start a crevasse above or below them, thus endangering and ultimately imperiling the lives and property of their neighbors.

The fear which prevails that such acts of treachery may be committed at present, and the popular sentiment toward those who may be guilty of such perfidy, may be imagined when it is known that hundreds of the liberated Mississippi convicts are provided with guns and instructed with the task of shooting down any man, black or white, who is detected in an attempt to cut an embankment in the levee. The Mississippi levee board has taken the extreme measure of enlisting the services of ex-slaves and arming them with arms in sufficient to justify the belief that the worst flood the lower Mississippi country has known for many years is expected.

COAL MEN SET FREE.

Chicago Judge Instructs a Jury to Acquit the Coal Barons.

Judge Chelton, sitting in Campbell court, has instructed a jury to acquit the coal barons indicted by the grand jury for illegal combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade.

The case was taken away from the jury on an instruction to return a verdict of "not guilty," and the defendants were set at liberty. Judge Chelton's decision that the case was not a restraint of trade, he said, grew with much reluctance.

The defendants and their counsel, according to a dispatch, were the happiest of men that ever fled out of a criminal court with a verdict in their favor. When, during the course of Judge Chelton's reading, it became apparent that the case was not a restraint of trade, their spirits rose to such an extent that it was with difficulty that they were restrained.

The action of the court came as a surprise to many who have followed the case, and it was not followed by the prosecution, as it had failed on a technical case. Judge Chelton has decided that the defendants were amenable to the law, but said that they must be prosecuted if presented further at all, in the United States courts, as the State courts had no jurisdiction.

LIGHT OF LIBERTY IN RUSSIA

Clear Issues Most Progressive Decree Since Emancipation of Serfs.

Throughout Russia new hope is born by the Czar's decree granting freedom of religion to all the orthodox sects and establishing in some degree local self-government in all his domains.

Darkness has been thrown over the coming dawn of a new era, and the light of liberty is being kindled. They consider it one of the most important acts their father has ever performed. It is the most significant since the emancipation of the serfs. It part, the text of the decree reads:

"We, demanding the fulfillment of this our will, hereby decree that all orthodox sects be free to worship in accordance with their own faith, and that the same shall be free to elect their own ministers and to manage their own affairs. We hereby decree that the same shall be free to elect their own ministers and to manage their own affairs. We hereby decree that the same shall be free to elect their own ministers and to manage their own affairs."

The efforts of the state itself, and especially the nobles' and peasants' banks should be directed to strengthening and developing the welfare and fundamental pillars of Russian village life and that of the local industrial and agricultural life.

At the same time, the efforts of the state should be directed to the individual to sever connections with the community to which he belongs, and to be so desirous.

"Without delay measures must be taken to release the peasants from the present burdensome liability of forced labor, and to free them from the obligation to operate in the village, and to free the individual to sever connections with the community to which he belongs, and to be so desirous."

Without delay measures must be taken to release the peasants from the present burdensome liability of forced labor, and to free them from the obligation to operate in the village, and to free the individual to sever connections with the community to which he belongs, and to be so desirous.

Concerning the improvements to take place in village life, the measure says: "Through reform it is to be effected in the provincial government and district administration by the local representatives, while attention will be directed to securing close co-operation between the communal authorities and provincial institutions of the orthodox churches wherever possible. These principles marked out by us for the revision of the laws of the rural population are, when formulated in a reform plan, to be submitted to the local councils, so that with the consent of persons enjoying the public confidence, they may be further developed and adapted to the special conditions of individual localities."

MAY CALL CONGRESS.

Roosevelt Wishes Cuban Reciprocity.

It can be stated on authority, says a Washington correspondent, that President Roosevelt has not made up his mind definitely to call an extraordinary session of the Fifty-fifth Congress, but is considering the probability of doing so.

It was reported that it was the intention of the President to amend the Cuban reciprocity treaty at the next session of the Fifty-fifth Congress, and to call an extraordinary session of the Fifty-fifth Congress to consider the amendment.

Mr. Roosevelt, the correspondent says, is earnest in his desire to have the Cuban reciprocity treaty amended.

It can be said that so strong is this desire that he even has considered the advisability of calling Congress together in special session to consider the amendment.

THE SENATE IN EXTRA SESSION

Soon after the Senate met Tuesday Mr. Cullom, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, referred to the action of the committee in passing a resolution calling on the Secretary of State for the copy in Spanish of the Pan-American canal treaty.

"I have it," said he, "and I think it proper to present it. It is the original treaty signed by the parties in Spanish. Mr. Cullom had worked out the fact that the Senate was in legislative session, and was proceeding to discuss the document when Mr. Allison moved an executive session. During the last Congress Mr. Cullom was very careful to see that the treaty was not discussed except in executive session, and it was only by accident that it was discussed in the Senate."

At the opening of the session of the Senate Wednesday Mr. Frye, the president pro tempore, called the attention of Senators to the fact that under a certain resolution the Senate was in legislative session, and was proceeding to discuss the document when Mr. Allison moved an executive session. During the last Congress Mr. Cullom was very careful to see that the treaty was not discussed except in executive session, and it was only by accident that it was discussed in the Senate.

The open session of the Senate Thursday lasted five minutes. Mr. Keen (N. J.) reported back favorably from the committee on contingent expenses, the resolution introduced the previous day by Senator Allison to authorize the committee on foreign relations to receive the copy in Spanish of the Pan-American canal treaty.

Mr. Roosevelt, the correspondent says, is earnest in his desire to have the Cuban reciprocity treaty amended. It can be said that so strong is this desire that he even has considered the advisability of calling Congress together in special session to consider the amendment.

THE HEART OF THINGS

She had just returned from the crowded concert hall, where she had enjoyed a veritable triumph. Her face was flushed and smiling, and she still held in her hands the great bouquet of roses—her favorite flower—which had been given her as she left the platform. She was recalled to her surroundings by the voice of her maid, Fanchon.

"There is a telegram for madame on the table," she said. Denise picked it up; it was addressed to "Miss Fiddlen," which was unusual. She was known to the London world and her friends as "Madame Blom." She opened it sharply. "I think it is right to let you know that the boy is seriously ill."

Unconsciously she crushed the message in her hand, and her thoughts flew to the Lincolnshire village where it had been written.

"Bring me an 'A. B. C.' and pack a bag. I am going into the country."

"I wonder is he really very ill?" she pondered, as she sat in the train. "I think Michael would scarcely have sent for me unless he were. The meeting will be awkward and uncomfortable for him as for me. Poor little Michael, what a name to give a child!—I wonder what he is like now? He was not a pretty or interesting child. I remember he was always crying."

After a drive of nearly an hour she recognized a familiar gateway; she remembered the old coat-of-arms cut in the stonework, though she could not see it now, with the motto, "I live! I die!"

"Master is upstairs," old Hannah said distantly, in reply to Denise's greeting.

"I will go up at once if I may," and before Hannah could raise any objection she was half way up the stairs.

What a great room it was! And how solitary those two figures looked in it!

"I am sorry to trouble you, but I had said, getting up as she moved, 'I am afraid you have had a long, tired journey; but I thought you ought to know.'"

"Oh, you poor little soul!" she cried, a sob in her voice, and the next moment her arms were over the bed, and the little figure was gathered to her breast, where she crooned over it, calling him her baby, her little Michael, who she had treated so badly, reproaching herself and showering soft kisses on the wan face in the same breath.

"He is very weak; you must not excite him. A warning voice said: 'I shall not hurt him,' she said, holding the boy close to her breast. 'See, he is already more content.'"

The little face certainly looked less tired and troubled, and she wasted not a moment around her neck, while she made himself at home as a matter of course in those unknown arms.

"Has he been long like this?" she asked.

"He was never strong, as you may remember," he answered dully. "He does not take after my family; he pines for warmth and sunshine, as you did, particularly in the winter. I was not at all certain you would come now."

"Not come," she exclaimed. Then she remembered, "I beg your pardon." She said lamely, "you are quite right. It is I who am to blame—I who am in the wrong. But—but," her voice grew husky, "I did not know he should be so badly. I was so young when I went away—I am not very old now—and I did not understand many things. Perhaps if you had reasoned with me—if you had pointed out—"

"Do you think I wanted a captive in the house of a wife?" he asked harshly. "I saw you frosted and plied like a huge creature, I saw the hunted look in your eyes; I knew you would wear your life out in a little while if it went on."

"It was so dull—so dreary," she murmured, "and nobody wanted me, not even you. I think after a little while, I ought not to have married."

"No doubt it was a mistake, but in justice I must say that that was more my fault than yours. I was years older and I took advantage of your youth and ignorance to fasten myself on you of which you did not know the import. No doubt you were yourself better. You have the life of a child, you were free to go your own way."

"As you yours."

"As I unite," something in the voice made Denise wince uneasily. For six years the man and the child had lived here together; her husband, her child, for six years she had nearly forgotten both; not quite, though she had tried to do so. The man and the child had been growing old together—without love or happiness—while she had laughed and sung. There was nothing young in the house—not even the little form she held in her arms.

RHEUMATISM CURED AT LAST

Good News For all Who Suffer with Rheumatism, Free.

To all who suffer with Rheumatism I will gladly send free the wonderful story of how my mother was cured after years of suffering, together with the most elaborate treatise on Rheumatism ever published.

No matter what your form of Rheumatism is, whether acute, chronic, muscular, inflammatory, deformant, sciatic, neuralgia, gout, lumbago, etc.—no matter how many doctors have failed in your case—no matter how many so-called "sure cures" you have tried—I want you to write to me and let me tell you how my mother was cured.

I am neither a Doctor nor a Professor—simply a plain man of business—but I have a Cure for Rheumatism, and I want to tell everyone who suffers with Rheumatism all about it. I wish to be clearly understood, and trust that all who are suffering with this terrible disease, however apparently beyond the reach of cure, will write to me this day and I will send you by return mail this work of mine. I appeal especially to the "chronically ill" who are worried and discouraged with "doctoring" and to those who have been cast aside as "incurable." All you have thought about Rheumatism may be wrong. Let me tell you our experience. Surely, if you have Rheumatism, or have a suffering friend, it will pay you to investigate my offer, anyway, and prove yourself these claims I make.

Send me your address today—a postal card will do—and I will mail you this wonderful story. If you have any friends suffering with Rheumatism no matter where located send me their address, and I will mail them a copy. My address is Victor HARRINGTON, Bloomfield, Indiana.

Norfolk Suits For Boys!

THE "STRAND"

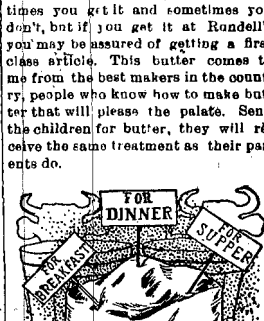

All summer is an outing to the boys, no matter where he is or what he does, there's no summer suit for him like the Norfolk—the suit with pleated and belted coat.

And there's no Norfolk like the "Twentieth Century" style known as the "Strand" which we show exclusively.

The "Strand" has some extra style marks—note the perpendicular breast pocket with flap, the handsome buckle, etc. It costs no more than the ordinary Norfolk which you can buy anywhere.

The "Strand" is dressy enough for any occasion and yet it's the ideal outing suit—a suit the boy must have too, if he's up to time on clothes.

See the "Strand," and you and the boy will agree on clothes, for once at least.

NEW GOODS!

$5,000 worth of Spring Goods received at Wilson Bros' within the Past 10 Days.

Never have we been able, heretofore, to procure such bargains. Our white goods, laces and embroideries, were never nearly so pretty; Colored Waist Goods galore in all range of prices; Walking Skirts at all prices both for ladies and Misses; Shirt waists of all kinds and especially strong on white ones; all kinds of novelties in the notion department; also pretty things in Silk Jackets, Silk Skirts and all kinds of ready-to-wear goods. In our shoe department we have lots of new and up-to-date styles, and would be very much pleased to show you them. In our Dress Goods stock are many new and novel things, in fact we never were as well prepared to take care of the trade as at the present time. Our Mattings are all in at present and we can suit you, we are the only firm in the city carrying them in stock. Our Spring Carpets will be here about the first of next week, or about March 10. Mrs. Wilson is in St. Louis now buying the Millinery and will have the largest and finest line she has ever had, will also have an expert trimmer to take charge of the work. Can serve the trade better than we ever have, this coming season. You are invited, one and all, to inspect our stock and pass remarks, we know we can suit you.

Yours for business.

WILSON BROS.

It is sad but lucrative.
"It is no wonder that I dress in black for my business is the selling of cemetery lots. Is there anything in the world more solemn?"

The speaker, a fat man, dazing his blacker the speaker:
"I don't believe I'd ever make a sale if I wore gay, joyous colors. For most of my patrons are people who have suddenly lost a near relative—couple—that have lost their first child, mainly—and their grief is profound. In such cases this gloomy business of buying graveyards ground, and it is my place to far on them as little as possible. Hence I wear black and look grave."

My work is sad, but it is saddest of all you could come to see by lots. A couple are acting on by years. One will soon be gone. It is necessary to be here in time. They make their selection with care, consulting one another carefully. They consider the view. It is best, they think, to be on an eminence. They consider the subject of shade. The fertility of the soil, also, is an important question, for they think that they will like flowers to grow on their graves.

"I admit," said the agent, "that I make a good deal of money. People, you know, are in no mood for driving bargains when they come to buy their graves, and I take advantage of that fact. But my work is so sad that it has to be very lucrative to keep me at it."—Philadelphia Record.

Secure.
"There," said Mrs. Curox, contentedly, "I don't think that people who visit my home will throw out any hints about things not being first-class and high-class."

"People will talk, you know," said her husband.
"This time they can't. I've left the place (on all the furniture) so that people can't see for themselves."—Washington Star.

Proof conclusive.
"I don't like pictures water her like anything."—Washington Star.

"I haven't," she told me she had offered four dozen."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The weary, worn-out, old-tired faces of the men who take the kidneys. When the kidneys are over-worked they fail to perform their duty. Nature has provided for them to do.

When the kidneys fail dangerous diseases quickly follow. Primary rheumatism, diabetes, dropsy, pneumonia, Bright's disease, Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney and bladder ills. Read the following case:
Victoria Joshua Heller of 706 South Walnut street, Chicago, Ill., writes: "In the fall of 1899 after getting Doan's Kidney Pills at Cummings Bros. drug store in Champlin and taking a course of the treatment I told the readers of this paper that they had relieved me of kidney trouble, disposed of a lame back with pain across my loins and beneath the shoulder blades. During the interval which has elapsed I have had occasion to resort to Doan's Kidney Pills when I noticed warnin'g of an attack. On each and every occasion the results obtained were just as satisfactory as when the pills were first brought to my notice. I just as emphatically endorse the preparation to-day as I did over two years ago."

MRS. RATH'S BABY
Tired Mother's Touching Story of Anxiety and Suffering.
Cuticura Brings Blessed Cure to Skin Tortured Baby and Peace and Rest to Its Worn Out Mother.
It is no wonder that Mrs. Helena Rath was taken sick. Single-handed, she did all the household and washed, cooked and mended for her husband, Hans, and their six children. After a plucky fight to keep on her feet, Mrs. Rath had to yield, and early in 1902 she took to her bed. What followed she told to a visitor, who called at her tidy home, No. 821 Tenth Ave., New York City.

Yes, that fat little boy by the window is Charlie, and his skin is as white as an egg. Thanks to the Cuticura Remedies. I think everybody should know about the Soap and also the Ointment, and if it is going to help other mothers with sick babies, go ahead and publish what I have told you. MRS. HELENA RATH.
The agonizing, itching, and burning of the skin as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair, and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurements, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum,—all demand a remedy of almost supernatural virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humor remedies of the civilized world.

THE POPULAR PULPIT

THE APPLES OF SODOM.
By Rev. W. H. Boye, of St. Louis.
"That they desire to be rich fall into a temptation and a snare and many foolish and hurtful lusts, such as devour men in destruction and perdition. For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil."

"BIRDS AND BEASTS OF SATAN."
By Rev. Dr. P. H. Swift.
Children of godly parents often grow up and go to the bad. Many church-goers are without the fruits of godliness in their lives. There are many nominal Christians whose souls are in peril of the fruits of the spirit.

But the others—and they are in the majority—the men and the women of the poorer class, the poorly educated, and those whose education, though qualifying them for the ordinary business of life, did not give them an insight into such manifold methods as have recently been exploited—these were the sufferers, and for them the greatest calamity must be felt.

A Charitable View.
There is more than the kind of charity. The sort displayed by an old lady in Spurgeon was well meant, even though it might fail of its purpose.

What He Paid For.
"This is a magnificently situated hotel. See the view across the water there!"

THE BOARDING-HOUSE SAGE.

POTENTIAL FADELESS DYES are fast to light and washing.
Positively Brutal.
Mrs. Digby—"A woman can make up her mind in less than half the time a man can."
Naturally. She devotes the most of her time to making up her face, and, moreover, she has less mind to make up.

No! Fire does not mean fire, and a does not mean sin, and death does not mean death, and hell does not mean hell, and lost does not mean lost, and damnation does not mean damnation!"

Alas, how often Satan blinds and utterly deceives the best and noblest of men. And so they try to vapor Heaven away. They tell us that Heaven is an adjective and not a noun, that it is a psychological and not a geographical term, that it applies to the mode and not the place of future existence, and that as a matter of fact it is merely a poetical or rhetorical flourish that may mean anything or nothing.

But Jesus in his deity, and eternity sweeps away all of these fine-point theories and thug cobwebs and ghastly apparitions and declares that Heaven is a place!

Never in the history of medicine has a remedy received such unqualified and universal praises as Peruna.

A New York Alderman's Experience.
New York City, as follows:
"When a pestilence overtook a people we take precaution at a nation to preserve the citizens against the dread disease."

But it is not these that are most to be feared. Carlyle was right when he said: "The good is the enemy of the best."

Spiritual lethargy is another of Satan's flock that makes sad havoc with the seeds of truth. "Use of love is the law of the universe."

Intellectual assent to truth is not Christianity. The doctrines of Christianity do not make a man a Christian. They should be a help in building him up.

The Bible.—From the apostolic age till the present hour have there been attacks made upon the Bible from every conceivable source. Where are the men and the books which have attacked it? They are dead. The book on any science written fifty years ago is out of date to-day. Meantime, what of the Bible? It has not been taken from it one "dot or tittle." The presses of the world can hardly keep pace with the millions of copies demanded yearly.—Rev. W. A. Bartlett, Congregationalist, Chicago, Ill.

The Grip Leaves Thousands in Its Path Weak, Nervous, Dyspeptic, Catarrh Wrecks.

"For Grip and the other ailments like dizziness, nervousness, dyspepsia and other catarrhal conditions resulting from the grip, in the entire Materia Medica I have found no remedy that equals Peruna for prompt relief."
—Dr. S. J. Hartman, President The Hartman Sanatorium.

LIKE A DEMON grip has crossed our country, leaving behind scores of physical wrecks.
"I should like to see our House of Health give it official recognition and have it used generally among our poor sick people in Greater New York."
—Joseph A. Flinn.

"Following a severe attack of grip I seemed to be affected badly all over. I suffered with a severe backache, indigestion and numerous ills, so I could neither eat nor sleep, and I thought I would give up my work, which I could not afford to do.

"One of my customers who was greatly helped by Peruna advised me to try it, and I procured a bottle the same day. I used it faithfully and felt a marked improvement. During the next two months I took five bottles, and then felt superb. Now my head is clear, my nerves steady, I enjoy food and rest, and my run has been worth a dollar a dose to me."—D. L. Wallace.

"I had a slight attack of grip and my appetite was lost, which drove the disease out of my system in a few days and did not hinder me from pursuing my daily work."

Results of your very valuable medicine in my case after repeated trials. First, I cured me of chronic bronchitis of fifteen years standing by using two bottles of Peruna in January, 1894, and so returned it.

A Congressman's Experience.
House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.
Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.
"I am more than satisfied with Peruna, and find it an excellent remedy for the grip and catarrh. I have used it in my family and they all join me in recommending it as an excellent remedy."

"If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will advise you by mail, and they will join me in recommending it as an excellent remedy."

Origin of a Slang Word.
The word "chestnut" as an expressive bit of slang has been of doubtful origin ever since it was first introduced into the English language a dozen or fifteen years ago, and although the Century dictionary gives it a place and numerous explanations have been offered in extenuation of its existence as a credited word, its origin has ever been in doubt.
