THE FIRE FIEND.

About 1:30 Friday night the fire bell was heard to peal forth in angry tones arousing the people to the fact that the fire demon was at work in all his glory. The fire was at John Lewis' brick yard, where his man were burning a kiln of brick. When first noticed the blaze burst forth from the roof and in a very short time was a seething mass of flames. The son of John Lewis and Mac Miller, who were at the yards gave the alarm. A few men hurriedly pulled the hose cart to the scene and as soon as possible were throwing water, saving one of the large sheds and the drying sheds. The loss to Mr. Lewis was about $

It was a dark and dreary night, the firemen being obliged to fight fire and water both, as it began to rain before the work of rolling up the hose and taking in the apparatus to the engine house was completed.

Another fire occurred at the home of W. M. Wright north of the school house Sunday morning about 9:30, but the blaze had been extinguished before the fire department reached the house.

The house keeper should bear in mind that alum makes a cheap baking powder. It costs but two cents a pound, while cream of tartar costs thirty. The quality of the powder, is, therefore, usually indicated by the price.

Gov. Mickey and wife were the guests of Prof. M. S. Snodgrass, Saturday and Sunday. The Governor while here was much pleased to greet the old soldiers, many of whom he had become acquainted with during past visits here.

The Dale Theatre Company was greeted with a large audience Saturday night and judging from the frequent applause the play was very satisfactory. The members of the company are pleasant people and their entertainments gave entire satisfaction throughout the week.

Among the numerous visitors here Decoration Day from the surrounding towns was noticed Landlord Mossman and wife, Jas. Stanton and Editor Lundberg of Carroll, Messrs Haskell and Shumway of Wakefield, Jas. Fox of Randolph, and Star West and wife of Wausa.

I believe we farmers would have been much better off if such a thing as a sweat pad had never been invented. There is a tendency to depend too much on the pad and not enough on fitting the collar to the shoulders of the horse. Many old pads should be burned. They are hard, filled with gum and dirt and occupy a space on the collar that is only cumbersome. I would rather have a canvas collar that will fit a particular horse than all the sweat pads that could be offered.—Homestead.

DECORATION DAY.

Although the roads were in bad condition, owing to dreary rains the day and night before, many visitors from surrounding towns and many farmers from the country came to Wayne to attend the exercises on Decoration Day. The business houses had been decorated with flags and bunting and the proceedings of the day were carried out to the letter. Governor Mickey and wife arrived on the 10:00 o'clock train, where they were met by committee in charge, and were driven to the home of Prof. Snodgrass. At 1:30, Casey Post formed and followed by citizens marched to the cemetery where the graves of departed comrades were strewn with flowers and the Grand Army ritualistic work performed in charge of the firing squad. After the exercises the procession returned to the opera house where an excellent address was delivered by Governor Mickey to a large audience, many people being unable to secure even standing room.

TO SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS.

GENTLEMEN:—A meeting of the Wayne County School Officers' Association is called to meet in the Court Room at Wayne, Tuesday, June 9, at 2:30 p. m.

The purpose of this meeting is to consider the advisability of appointing a county trustee officer, adopting a course of study and transacting any other business that may come before the association. Teachers' Institute will be in session that week and you are invited to come early and spend the day visiting the institute. State Superintendent Fowler will be here to address you. Let every school board in the county be represented. Wayne, Neb., May 18, 1903.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The Wayne County Teachers' Institute will be held at the Court House at Wayne, June 8-12, 1903. The following instructors have been secured: Supt. W. M. Kern, of Columbus, Neb.; Prof. J. M. Pile, Miss Edith Stocking, and Miss Ludwig of Wayne. Announcement sent out soon. C. H. BRIGG, Co. Supt.

The lecture on "Imperial India" by Frank R. Roberson is a revelation in the information it affords on the land of the Hindoos, and is so recognized by the teachers of the State Association who were privileged to hear it at the recent meeting in Lincoln. For clearness and beauty of coloring the stereopticon views used are far above the ordinary, while the language of the speaker is pleasing and the delivery forceful. We consider the lecture one of the best on the American platform. F. M. GREGG, M. H. SNODGRASS.

We Know How.

When God made man he done a good job. Every man would be successful and happy if he understood the business he was engaged in. It is not given to man to know what God intended him to do. Therefore man often makes mistakes in selecting his business. Some men change their business when they find out they have made a mistake. Some never succeed in finding the business they were intended for. Very few men start in the business for which they were intended, and for that reason very few make their business a success. Only those who find the business they were made for and make it a life work succeed. They learn how to do it. Many people in Wayne county wonder why this store is so successful. We were lucky in selecting the business we were intended for and we have made it a life work. We learned how to do it. We sell more clothing than any other store in Wayne county because we know how; we sell more men's and boys' shoes because we know how; we sell more rubber boots and sell a better quality because we know how; we sell more hats and sell the Hawes hat because we know how; we sell more underwear and sell Staley because we know how; we please more people and give better satisfaction than any other store because we know how; we sell clothing cheaper and a better quality because we know how. If you will give this store a trial you will know how we do it. You will know how to do it and will save money and get better satisfaction if you trade here. We will give another suit if a suit goes wrong. We sell because we know how. We don't know how we can get you to come here but we know how we can keep you for a customer if you once trade here. Give this store a trial because we know how to buy and sell clothing and you will know how to save money on clothing bills. It costs nothing to try us.

The road south of the city between the bridge and Nangle's corner, is in a frightful condition making it almost impassable. Farmers are becoming very indignant over the matter and they are entitled to. Whose ever duty it is to look after the matter should do so and do it at once, either the county commissioners or the road overseer in that district. The business men of the city should interest themselves in the matter, too.

On Sunday evening, a large audience assembled at the Methodist church, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, to hear Governor Mickey who delivered the baccalaureate address for the graduating class of the Wayne high school, who occupied seats on the platform. The music rendered was of an exceedingly high order, and the Governor's address, which was delivered more in the manner of a talk in behalf of "Character building," was listened to with close attention throughout.

S. E. Soace went to Sioux City yesterday morning.

It is pretty well defined rumor that is floating around that the Wayne Herald's laud endorsements of B. Cunningham for county treasurer this fall is as sincere as the Herald's pledges usually are. We have it straight as the crow flies, that the Herald is putting up a party to Mr. Cunningham but intends to boost August Wittler on the sly and if these two contending gentlemen should find it hard to settle the matter, Bert Brown might be prevailed upon to sacrifice himself in the interests of harmony. This is all right except the part of making a fool of Mr. Cunningham that cannot be done.

The above appeared in the Republican of May 22, but from what source the editor, Bro. Gibson, obtained his "well defined rumor" the Herald can not imagine, for the reason that the editor of the latter has not spoken to August Wittler concerning the treasurer'ship since last fall, when he informed us that he was not a candidate and would not be. In calling our attention on Monday to the above item in the Republican, which we had not noticed, Mr. Wittler made the plain statement again that he is not and will not be a candidate. Therefore "aforesaid rumor" has a sticky look. As to B. Cunningham's candidacy; the gentleman sometime since informed the Herald that he would be a candidate for the nomination for county treasurer. At the time we told him we did not think the Herald would take any part in the contest, but whether it did or not we would do him no harm. The Herald has not endorsed Mr. Cunningham "loquidly," or any other way but has mentioned all candidates we have heard of so far, any of whom would make very good officials so far as we know or care, even if it were Bro. Gibson himself.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Prof. Pile delivered a commencement address at Waterbury, Dixon Co., Wednesday night.

Lyman Lockwood was a college visitor this week, having closed a very successful term of teaching in Burt Co.

John Wilson, at present principal of the Belden schools, has been elected to take charge of the schools at Bassett next year.

Will F. Richardson gets the principalship of the Carroll schools next year. He has been attending the Normal all year and will finish the Teacher's Course in August.

The summer term begins next Tuesday. Everything is in readiness for a terms work, and is looked forward to with eagerness, as a considerable number of old students have signified their intention of being with us. An unusually full attendance is confidently anticipated.

Since the resignation of Miss Stewart in March, the music department at the college has been most satisfactorily conducted by Mrs. Jas. Miller, who consented to fill the position temporarily. Mrs. Miller is one of the old students of the N. N. O., and one of whom the institution has always had reason to be proud, and to whom it now feels under obligation.

After a guest of some months, the gentleman has been selected to assume charge of the music department of the school, Prof. Hiram P. Dilworth. He is a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory, and supplemented with a year under the ablest pianist in Paris. For the past two years he has been following his profession in New York City. Prof. Dilworth is a young man, and is a product of the Bukeye State. He is expected to arrive in Wayne Saturday of this week.

JUNE MILLINERY.

Ladies, June is the crowning month of the year, when nature's beauty is considered and it is so in our millinery department.

Mrs. Wilson, assisted by an expert trimmer from St. Louis, give this department their undivided attention and you cannot fail to be pleased with patterns shown.

Come in and see them and you will readily see the season's experience is all condensed in the workmanship and designs.

Yours respectfully,

TORTURING DISFIGURING Skin, Scalp and Blood Humours

From Pimples to Scrofula
From Infancy to Age
Speedily Cured by Cuticura
When All Else Fails.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in Eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalded head; the facial disfigurements, as in acne and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, caused by crabs, letters and itching humors—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not substantiated by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy, have made them the standard skin cures. Blood purifiers and humor remedies of the civilized world.

Apply the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crabs and scales and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to slay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe the hot, and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent, to cool and cleanse the blood. This complete local and constitutional treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning and scaly humors of the skin, scalp and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent and economical cure when all else fails.

FELT THE SECOND TOUCH.

It was for $5—First Was an Experiment.

The man who is always embarrassed financially, but in no other way, dropped into the office of his friend, the architect, and made himself at home with a lean on the drawing board. He picked up a pair of compasses, and fiddled with them with seeming aimlessness.

"George, I want to try an experiment on the sense of touch," he said so suddenly that the architect made a blot on his drawing.

"I don't give a hang," declared the architect, "but get your ideas more slowly and not all in a bunch, as you did this one."

"I'll only take two minutes. Don't be a grouchy, George."

"What do you want me to do?"

"Just shut your eyes and hold out your hand!" said the man who was experimenting.

"You won't hurt me?" said the architect.

"Of course not; but keep your eyes shut!"

He opened the dividers until the points were half an inch apart and held them lightly on the back of the architect's hand. "Tell me," he said, "how many points can you feel?"

"One," said he.

The friend spread the dividers an inch, and again put down both points.

"How many?" he asked.

"Only one," said the architect. "You can't fool me."

Open your eyes. You were wrong, of course. I gave you both points each time. You sense of touch is poorly developed."

There was silence for a minute. Then another outburst from the friend: "I say, George, loan me $5."

"Why, this is the second time this week you've touched me for five."

"So it is, George. I just wanted to see if there was more sense of touch in your pocketbook than in the back of your hand."—New York Tribune.

EXPERT TESTIMONY.
Coffee Tried and Found Guilty.
No one who has studied its effects on the human body can deny that coffee is a strong drug and liable to cause all kinds of ills, while Postum is a food drink and a powerful restorative that will correct the ill effects of coffee when used steadily in place of coffee.

An expert who has studied the subject says: "I have studied the value of foods and the manufacture of food products from personal investigation and wish to bear testimony to the wonderful qualities of Postum. When I was a doctor, I knew you were a coffee drinker, although I knew it to be a slow poison. First it affected my nerves and then my heart, but when I once tried Postum I found it easy to give up the coffee, confirmed coffee fiend though I was.

Postum satisfied my craving for coffee and since taking Postum steadily in place of the coffee all my troubles have disappeared and I am again healthy and strong.

"I know that even where coffee is not taken to excess it has had effects on the constitution in some form or other, and my conviction, by my investigation, that the only thing to do to health and happiness of any value to one is to quit coffee and drink Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

RULED BY A WOMAN

BY FRANK H. STAUFFER

CHAPTER XVII.—(Continued.)
Brice and Barbara resumed their journey homeward, he selecting a road which he had never traveled, and trying his best to make the occasion a pleasant one.

Croylands reached, the horses were placed in charge of a domestic, and Brice and Barbara walked slowly to the house. "Miss Bradleigh, you did not say that you would stay?" he reminded.

"Didn't I?" she asked, with a demure glance. "I'd leave Croylands with much regret. It is not that answer enough?"

"There was a paper which you wanted," Brice said.

"What paper?" asked Barbara, her eyes upon his face.

"The one mother sent you after. The mortgage," particularized Brice.

"Oh!" ejaculated Barbara, a little apprehensively.

"I didn't sign it," Brice said. "Here it is. Take it, and advise mother to that effect."

"You didn't issue another? You didn't borrow the money?"

"I wish you to understand," Brice said, in all soberness, "that I treated you, I wasn't unreasonable, after all. I thought it over, and yielded to your wishes."

It was a great surprise to Barbara. She had triumphed when she had supposed herself defeated. She took the mortgage, and she was shaking. Her face beamed with pleasure. Brice was more than repaid by the soft, thankful, appreciative light which came to her handsome brown eyes.

On the porch they found Mr. Gilmore North in waiting. The gentlemen had never met and Barbara introduced them. "So to see you alone some time during the day," Mr. North said, his eyes resting upon Barbara with admiration. "A fine old place," addressing Brice.

"Yes," Brice said.

"How many acres?"

"Fifty, and about twenty without the woods, of which there are about thirty acres. I'll take pleasure in showing you over the place."

"Agreed," rejoined Mr. North. "I never saw scenery so diversified. It will be a relief to me. I got out of town so seldom."

Barbara watched them from the parlor window. They had strolled together, just like old acquaintances, so far as their animated conversation could indicate.

"Has Mr. North come with news about—about—little Ethel?" she thought, her changing face betraying her agitation.

"This has been an eventful day. Brice didn't issue the mortgage but carried out my wish, and he has an influence here, it seems. At the deserted forge he called me 'Barbara' and 'Darling.' I heard him, though I don't think he knows I did. Oh, I'm sure I love him, however he may be."

She colored violently, trembled, then accused herself of being needlessly excited and a little silly besides.

CHAPTER XVIII.
Brice and Mr. North seemed brought naturally into close fellowship. There was much about the young attorney that gave evidence of mental ability, united with much that was gentle.

"Miss Bradleigh is one to make friends wherever she goes," replied Brice. "She enjoyed Brice's confidence, I believe."

"And that's why he left his money to her," Mr. North said.

"Did he have his life insured?" Brice asked.

"I didn't say it was left to her absolutely," Mr. North said. "At least I don't mean in that way, he added with a smile, qualifying his words.

"Quite a Boy Yet"
Two elderly men were conspicuous the other morning in a street avenue. They entered at opposite ends of the car. One was short, slow and heavy of tread, and yet obviously anxious to appear spry and youthful. The other was tall, spare and active, and only gave token of advanced years by the fustiness with which he dusted the car seat before settling down to his morning paper.

As the crowd thinned out at Park place the two men caught sight of each other and the tall one moved over to a seat alongside his friend.

"How spry you are for your age," remarked the short one, with a symptom of envy in his tone.

"Age?" exclaimed the other. "Why, I have not begun yet to grow old. I am only 74."

"Well, well," puffed the stout one, "are you 74? I didn't think you were older than I am. I am only 68."

"Why," exclaimed the lean one, according to the New York Times, tapping his companion playfully on the knee, "you are quite a boy yet."

Large Connection.
An amusing story is told of Robert Simson, who was professor of mathematics at the University of Glasgow, and an eccentric in some ways as he was brilliant in others. He always counted his steps on the street, and allowed nothing to interfere with this valuable practice. If any one spoke to him during the process he requested the number of the last step taken, and stopped short until he could resume his count and walk on.

One day he was accosted by a man who knew him by sight, but had never been told of the professor's habit of counting steps.

"I beg your pardon, professor," he said, at which the mathematician halted, murmuring, "573."

"May I have a word with you?" asked the man.

"Well—573."

"You are too kind, but knowing your acquaintance with the late Dr. B. I venture to ask whether I am right in saying that he left five hundred pounds to each of his nieces?"

"Precisely—573."

"And there were four nieces, were there not?"

"Exactly—573."

The man stared at the professor, and then murmured, "573." He must be crazy," he made a hasty bow and started away.

"No, no," cried the professor, taking a step as he spoke, "not five hundred and seventy-three nieces—four. '573!'"

Two Birds.
Two birds flew out of the South one day, And over the joyous world Each flung a melody loud and sweet And gladly its tired wings furled.

And one bird high on the tallest tree A place for its nesting found, While hunched by the other built its home Low down on the common ground.

A Shrike flew by and it saw the nest That swayed in the branches high, But the low built nest of the humble bird He saw not and passed it by.

Which points the moral I wish to slow; Though fortune has cast your lot Low down in the world with the humble ones, The ill that strike at the mansion oft pass over the humble cot.—San Francisco Bulletin.

AN IMPORTANT DISPATCH

THE Embassy Ball at Carlsruhe was a very brilliant affair. Cecil Ackerson, who hated bulls and that sort of foolery, and only attended them because he was obliged to do so by the office which he held, had come to-night for a purpose. Cecil Ackerson was a strong man.

It was not till late in the festivities that he was able to approach Helena Goringe, acknowledged beauty of the English colony at Carlsruhe. She was engaged to young Vincent Kenyon Carstairs, who had been only six months appointed to a post at the embassy. Ackerson was aware of the engagement, but the knowledge did not trouble him.

"If you don't mind, Miss Goringe, I would rather not dance," said he.

Through the curtains that shaded their retreat five minutes afterward she could catch a glimpse of the lighted ballroom. Then Cecil Ackerson was telling her that he loved her. His words came quickly, but his voice was very firm, and she was unable to stop him. He said that he had never been a woman's man, and he had never met a woman like her. His vehemence frightened her, but she rose and turned on him with blazing eyes, telling him of her engagement to Carstairs.

Cecil Ackerson laughed and took her back to the ballroom. On the morning after his astonishing behavior to Miss Goringe Ackerson walked savagely to and fro in his private room at the embassy. He thought of innumerable schemes, but at length only came to the conclusion that Kenyon Carstairs was in his way.

The next day or so Cecil Ackerson had to leave such thoughts alone, for relations were a little strained with the home country. The country of which Carlsruhe was the capital was small, but important. The question of war even hinged on the proper conduct of these negotiations. And then the idea came to him by which he might put his young rival right out of the running. He sent for Carstairs. The latter came at once, wondering for what purpose his chief wanted him.

"I have an important dispatch here for home, and I have selected you to carry it. You will take the dispatch when you leave this evening. You will start to-morrow morning, and you should reach the coast by night. I find there is a night boat from Hamburg, so you will have to stay there the night. I need hardly counsel you to take great care of the dispatch, Carstairs."

"Yes."

"Very well. Come to me this evening for the dispatch."

Young Carstairs went to tell Miss Goringe he was going away for a day or so. He was full of his news.

"You look happy," said she.

"I am," Carstairs replied. "The chief had me up this morning and gave me instructions. I've got to carry," he paused for effect, "an important dispatch. Why, what's the matter? You seemed surprised."

"Oh, nothing," said Miss Goringe. "Did you say that Mr. Ackerson gave you the dispatch?"

"Of course; who else would?"

"Just an ordinary paper folded," said Carstairs. "Would you like to look at it?" He had been longing to show it all the time. He took the shallow tin case from his pocket and unlocked it, and handed the case to her.

She took it to the window to see it better, and for a minute her back was toward him.

"Let me look it," she said, and there was a little click. As she gave the case back she considered a little.

But when, later on, Carstairs waited downstairs to say good-by, she came suddenly into the dim hall.

"Wait a minute—here's something for you," and she put a tiny envelope into his hand. "It's a note from me, but you're not to read it till you're on the boat."

"What's all this mystery?" said Carstairs, laughing.

"Good-by," said Carstairs, and was gone.

At the Grand Hotel, Hamburg, Carstairs ordered dinner in a private room. Half an hour later the landlord came to him with a long face. His house was crowded, he had no room whatever, and a gentleman had just arrived after traveling all day; would Mr. Carstairs be so good as to let the stranger dine with him? He was extremely sorry to inconvenience Mr. Carstairs.

"Excuse me at all!" said Carstairs, and he sat down to dinner with a black-headed man who had small, keen eyes. Carstairs congratulated himself on having such a brilliant companion. The stranger seemed able to talk on any subject whatever.

After the meal they rang for coffee, and Carstairs got up from his chair and went to his overcoat pocket for his cigarette case. As quick as lightning the stranger leaned over the table and a little dark powder slid into the glass.

An hour had passed before Carstairs came to himself. He experienced a sickening sensation of weariness as he opened his eyes. Where was he? The litter of the dinner things still lay upon the table; two of the red-shaded candles had guttered out. There were unpleasant shadows now in the corners of the room, and knowledge crept steadily back to him. The queer taste of coffee he remembered, and there had been a stranger. Could it be possible? He sprang to his feet, with a white face, frantically unbuttoning his coat. Great heavens! the dispatch was gone.

UNCLE SAM'S QUERY.

"What's all this fuss about? Seems to me you've given a pretty good account of yourself whenever called on."

His thoughts went back to Nell Goringe, and then suddenly he remembered the strange number of her good-bye to him. He felt for the note in his pocket, and his face changed from night to morning as he read:

"Dear old Ken—I had a curious idea when you told me of your mission that you were rather too confident, and that something might happen to your dispatch. So I took a great liberty. Ken. When you put the tin case into my hands I took the paper; there was nothing inside it. And I have sown the dispatch inside the lining of your overcoat pocket."

NELL.

Carstairs darted to his overcoat, and his fingers tore at the lining of the pocket. Through the gap he made showed something white. The next minute he was waving the dispatch above his head in his excitement.

So the dispatch was carried safely to its destination, and Kenyon Carstairs and Nell Goringe were married in the spring.

HE HOLDS THE RECORD AS SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT

E. B. NEELEY has been public school superintendent of St. Joseph, Mo., for thirty-nine years and is still alive. Any man who is able to stand the criticism and backbiting of school teachers and the veiled hostility of conflicting interests in connection with the public schools for thirty-nine years and retain his popularity must have the patience of Job, the diplomacy of Talleyrand and the ability of a Gladstone.

Mr. Neeley took hold of the public schools shortly after the war, and his first pupils were lodged in buildings that had been used as stables by both Union and Confederate soldiers. Now St. Joseph has thirty-three modern schoolhouses with 280 teachers.

In spite of what he has gone through, Mr. Neeley is hale and hearty and seems gifted with perennial youth. He holds the United States record for long service in the position with which the citizens of St. Joseph have honored him.

Summer Catarrh Afflicts Men and Women.

HON. JUDSON W. LYONS, Register of the United States Treasury, in a letter from Washington, D. Two Interesting Letters From Thank of Women.

Miss Camilla Chantier, 5 West Lexington St., Baltimore, Md., writes: "Late summers gradually affected my digestion and made me a miserable dyspeptic, suffering intensely at times. I took several kinds of medicine which were prescribed by different physicians, but still continued to suffer. But the trial of one bottle of Peru-na convinced me that it would rid me of this trouble, so I continued taking it for several weeks and I was in excellent health, having gained ten pounds."—Miss Camilla Chantier.

Summer Catarrh.

Mrs. Kate Bolin, 1119 Willoughby Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I was troubled with frequent headaches, dizziness, strange feeling in the head, sleeplessness, sinking feelings, faintness and numbness. I had heartburn, my food would rise to my throat after every meal, and my bowels were very irregular.

"I wrote you for advice, and I now continue to take Peru-na. My food improvement is very great indeed. I did not expect to improve so quickly after suffering for five long years. I am feeling very good and strong, thank you so much for Peru-na. I shall recommend it to all suffering with the effects of catarrh, and I consider it a household blessing. I shall never be without Peru-na."

For those phases of catarrh peculiar to summer Peru-na will be found efficacious.

Peru-na cures catarrh in all places and stages.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Famous Cat's Life Ended.

A public career of ten years, during which time she had come into association with the famous of many countries, was ended recently when Mike, the cat at the Auditorium Hotel in Chicago, breathed her last.

Although she was of the feminine gender, the name of Mike, bestowed by a bellboy ten years ago, when she drifted into the hotel while a political parade was passing, always clung to her. She was given a little rug upon which she lay near one of the pillars in the lobby of the hotel, and became the favorite of employees of the house and a large share of the traveling public.

Mike had been held in royal array, having been petted by Prince Henry of Germany and the Crown Prince of Spain. William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, many United States Senators and Congressmen and famous actors and musicians had stroked her fur. Nordica, Fanny Davenport, Olga Kubersole, Emma Eames, Paderewski, Ketchick, Mascagni, Perugini and Mrs. Patrick Campbell were in the list, Mike had a special aversion for dogs, and among her famous combats were a fight with Mrs. Campbell's Pinky-Pony-Poo and Olga Nethersole's pet dog.—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE SPIRIT OF THE NORTHWEST.

When the new settler crosses the Rockies, the altitude, or the chilled atmosphere, or some vapor of the West yet unnamed by science, seems to endow him with the rosette vision, so that ever afterward all that he beholds is good and beautiful—and bigger than anywhere else. There is something refreshing and edifying in the way the Northwesterner shows off his town to the stranger; his boundless admiration for the new Episcopal Church; his pride in the paving of Main street; his brotherly interest in the development of the First National Bank; the imagination with which he pronounces the glorious future of the mines, and exhibits the acres and acres of desert and hillside which the town is presently to populate. It is an admirable visitor indeed who goes away without taking a deed or two for hopeful corner lots in the residential district.—Century.

A Sympathetic Chord.

"What did you do with that kleptomaniac in your literary club?"

"We didn't do anything. She made all weep by confessing that she had been led astray by having to pick her husband's pockets for pin money."

Will Sometimes Happen.

"You wouldn't believe it, Lieutenant, but only yesterday a lieutenant lay at my feet."

"Oh, yes! Lieutenants sometimes stumble!"—Fleecende Blaetter.

GRIPPE HURT KIDNEYS.

The lingering results of La Grippe remain with the kidneys for a long time. They suffer from over exertion and the heavy drugs of Grippe medicines. Doan's Kidney Pills overcome this condition.

ANKORA, NEW MEXICO.—I received the free sample of Doan's Kidney Pills which I ordered for a girl nine years old that was suffering with bed wetting, and she improved very fast. The pills acted directly on the bladder in her case and stopped the trouble. J. C. LUCAS.

BATTLE CREEK, MICH.—My husband received the sample of Doan's Kidney Pills and has taken two more boxes and feels like a new man. He is a fireman on the Grand Trunk R. R., and the work is hard on the kidneys. Mrs. Geo. GIFFORD.

PLINY, W. VA.—The free trial of Doan's Kidney Pills acted so well with me, I wrote Head the druggist, at Point Pleasant, to send me three boxes, with the result I have gained in weight, as well as entirely rid of my kidney trouble. My water had become very offensive and contained a white sediment and cloudy. I would have to get up six and seven times during the night, and thus the voiding would dribble and cause frequent attempts, but, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills, they have regulated all that, and I cannot praise them too much. Rescued from Suffering and Death by PAIN'S Celery Compound

THE GREAT MEDICINE.

MR. ALFRED BROWN, A Prominent and Popular Citizen, Says: "After the Use of Paine's Celery Compound, I Am Now in the Best of Health."

The greatest of modern physicians, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., after years of long practice and close scientific study, gave to suffering and diseased men and women his conviction and positive knowledge that it had peculiar virtues and ample powers to cure.

Thousands of the strongest testimonials from the best known and most reliable men and women of our country fully sustain the claims made by Dr. Phelps regarding his incomparable Paine's Celery Compound.

One of the most convincing proofs furnished, comes recently from a gentleman widely known in the capital city of the Dominion of Canada. We refer to Mr. Alfred Brown, 91 O'Connor St., Ottawa, Ont. Mr. Brown's letter fully demonstrates the fact that the greatest sufferer may cast off his or her burden of disease and become well, strong, and happy. It proves, too, that the great medicine maintains more fully than ever before its unrivaled place in the estimation of people of wealth and social standing as well as with the masses.

Mr. Brown says: "I was getting worse, and was told I was incurable. I was indeed in a critical condition. I could not go from the house alone, my feet were cold continually. I tried hospital treatment, but no relief or good results came to me. I could not sleep; anything that I ate increased my agonies. I was extremely weak, restless, tired, and despondent; was obliged to walk about with my hands pressed firmly into my left side to ease my pains; my feet and hands were cold continually; had inclination to vomit, had profuse cold sweats, quick breathing, and would be racked with painful hours at a time."

"After the regular use of Paine's Celery Compound for a time, I am now in the best of health, have good appetite, and can use any kind of food. I thank God I am an old self once more, all through the use of Paine's Celery Compound."

Tex on Babies. Extreme hot weather is a great tax upon the digestive power of babies; when puny and feeble they should be given a few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge, the children's tonic. It will stimulate and facilitate the digestion of their food, so that they soon become strong, healthy and active. 25 cents at Raymond's Drug Store.

Don't open a set of account books when you do a kindness for anybody.

Constipated Bowels. To have good health, the body should be kept in a laxative condition, and the bowels moved at least once a day, so that all the poisonous wastes are expelled daily. Mr. G. L. Edwards, 142 N. Main St., Wichita, Kansas, writes: "I have used Herbine to regulate the liver and bowels for the past ten years, and found it a reliable remedy." 50c at Raymond's Drug Store.

Kodol Gives Strength. By enabling the digestive organs, assimilated and transform ALL of the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that nourishes the nerves, feeds the tissues, hardens the muscles and reorganizes the organs of the entire body. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Catarrh of the Stomach and all stomach disorder. Sold by L. P. Orth.

A map can learn anything excepting to laugh at what the other fellows laugh at.

Ladies and Children Invited. All ladies and children who cannot stand the shocking strain of laxative syrups, cathartics, etc., are invited to try the famous Little Early Risers. They are different from all other pills. They do not purge the system. Even a double dose will not gripe, weaken or sicken; many people call them the Easy Pill. W. H. Howell, Houston, Tex., says nothing better can be used for constipation, sick headache, etc.

Every man who eats too much frequently runs across this maxim: "Short rations, long life."

A Splendid Remedy. Neuralgic pains, rheumatism, lumbago and sciatic pains yield to the penetrating influence of Ballard's Snow Liniment. It penetrates to the nerves and bone, and being absorbed into the blood, its healing properties are conveyed to every part of the body and effect some wonderful cures. Mr. D. F. Moore, Agent Illinois Central Railway, Milan, Tenn., states: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment for rheumatism, backache, etc., in my family. It is a splendid remedy. We could not do without it." 25c, 50c and $1.00 at Raymond's Drug Store.

Church people say a good deal about goodness counting for more than good looks, but it is worth mentioning that they select the prettiest girls to wait on the table at a church social.

Hot Weather Weakness. If you feel fagged out, listless and lacking in energy, you are perhaps suffering from the debilitating effects of summer weather. These symptoms indicate that a tonic is needed that will create a healthy appetite, make digestion perfect, regulate the bowels and impart natural activity to the liver. This Herbine will do; it is a tonic, laxative and restorative. H. J. Freagard, Propr. Grand View Hotel, Cheyenne, Wyo., writes: "I have used Herbine for the last 12 years, and nothing on earth can beat it. It was recommended to me by Dr. Newton, Newton, Kan." 50c at Raymond's Drug Store.

Worst Of All Experiences. Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For 3 years" she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by L. P. Orth, Druggist.

Things We Like Best Often Disagree With Us.

Because we overeat of them. Indigestion follows. But there's a way to escape such consequences. A dose of a good digestant like Kodol will relieve you at once. Your stomach is simply too weak to digest what you eat. That's all without the stomach's aid. Thus the stomach rests while the body is strengthened by wholesome food. Disting is unnecessary. Kodol digests any kind of good food. Strengthens and invigorates.

Beecher Changed His Mind. General James McLeer, a while post-master of Brooklyn in 1880, has refused $100 for a letter from Henry Ward Beecher which he never even published until recently. A note of Mr. Beecher's containing a check for $150 was returned from the dead letter office in Washington, and when he received the usual notice he sent this to the postmaster:

"Oct. 28, 1880. Colonel McLeer, Dear Sir—Your notice that a letter of mine was dead and subject to my order is before me.

"We must all die! And though the premature decease of my poor letter should excite a proper sympathy (and I hope it does), yet I am greatly sustained under the affliction.

"What was the date of its death? Of what did it die? Had it in its last hours proper attention and such consolation as befits the melancholy occasion? Did it save any effects?"

"Will you kindly see to its funeral? I am strongly inclined to cremation.

"May I ask if any other letters of mine are sick—dangerously sick? If any departs this life hereafter don't notify me until after the funeral. Affectionately, HENRY WARD BEECHER."

A Horticultural Lover. "Did Biffins ever tell you about his love affair?"

"Oh, yes! When he first met the girl, he thought she was a peach, and she soon became the apple of his eye, but he learned that she didn't give a fig for him, so it soon became a case of sour grapes."—Toluha Bee.

The Wonderful Starfish. There are scores upon scores of different forms of marine animal life that come within the category assigned to starfishes, but the most singular specimen in the whole group is the splendid astrophyton—the "sea basket" of the sailors. It is truly a wonderful specimen of marine life, having hundreds of long and short, straight, twisted and curled tentacles, and but for the geometric precision of the plan upon which the starfish "body" is fashioned might be mistaken for a miniature, circular specimen of the devilfish. The center of the creature, the "hub," from which the five stout arms radiate, is the body, head and "thinking machine" of our curious astrophyton.

The whole, not including the labyrinthine tentacles, which branch to all the points and intermediate points of the compass, looks for all the world like an animated Fourth of July fire-wheel. The five main arms are divided into three each within a short space from the astro's body, and these three are almost immediately subdivided into innumerable other arms and tentacles, the whole forming a net by means of which it captures its prey and holds its victims until the life has been sucked out of them.

A Grand Success. The story of a Scotchman who attended a funeral which lasted two days is told by a man who was present. On the second day, having tumbled too freely, he rose and proposed the health of the bride and groom.

A friend urged him to sit down, saying, "This is not a wedding; it is a funeral."

Presence of Mind. The Caller—Is Miss Araminta at home?

The Maid (who has received general instructions)—She is not.

The Maid (continuing)—Apt to be out when you call, sir—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Starting Evidence. Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentonsville, Va., serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by L. P. Orth's Druggist. Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00.

Do You Enjoy What You Eat. If you don't your food does not do you much good. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the remedy that every one should take when there is any thing wrong with the stomach. There is no way to maintain the health and strength of mind and body except by nourishment. There is no way to nourish except through the stomach. The stomach must be kept healthy, pure and sweet or the strength will let down and disease will set up. No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, sour risings, rifting, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles are quickly cured by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Sold by L. P. Orth.
