It is very pleasant when those who can, do open their doors for the entertainment of the young people as Mrs. O. W. Long did a few evenings ago, when she gave Miss Carol Marrott the pleasure of inviting her visitors and a few others there to spend the evening. The out-of-town guests were Miss Helen Northrop of Wayne, and Misses Arlene and Amy Hanson of Seattle. With piano music and dancing and refreshments the young folks enjoyed the evening very much and left with the wish that Mr. and Mrs. Long "may live long and prosper" and still remain young folks themselves.—Wakefield Republican.
Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McNeal arrived home Sunday evening from Michigan, where they visited with relatives, enjoying the cool air off Lake Michigan, fishing, boating, climbing the pine clad bluffs, chewing sand hill cherries, also the famous Michigan apples, peaches and pines direct from the tree, viewing the great yacht races at Ottawa Beach, with its brilliant illuminations at night, enjoying wienersroasts on the lake front, and so many other pleasant things that the time passed away before we were aware of it. The trip was the most delightful of the writers' experience and we were loath to leave for home so soon. As we left the harbor at the mouth of the Kalamazoo on the lake steamer "Bangatnok" for home at 7:00 o'clock Friday evening, old Lake Michigan was raging, the first time since our arrival there, and, as the steamer shot out into the lake a huge wave struck the vessel pushing the bow high in the air and without a moment's warning it dove downward as if making for the bottom of the lake. About twenty passengers on the upper deck in the bow, we among the rest, were spilled promiscuously over the floor, somewhat dazed, and still alive but not on earth. In a little while there was a rush for state rooms and other places of refuge, few people caring to retain their snuggly owing to the swelling in their bosom and the tangled condition of their feet. Fortunately the writer, with the aid of a little greenbriar, made a tack and did not suffer the terrors of sea sickness, although the forepart of the night was a terror, and it was a happy sight when we reached that dear old Chicago at five o'clock a. m. We are glad to be at home again and feel like a "new man" ready for another year's struggle along the products necessary to life.

It is a trifle too warm yet to start in to the campaign.

John L. Webster has endorsed by the republican state convention as a vice presidential candidate.

Nebraska ought to give about 22,000 republican majority this fall. It may be less and it may be more.

All the three candidates on the Republican state ticket are sons of farmers, and as boys worked on the farms.

The republican state convention did business in a manner highly satisfactory to every republican in the state. What more could have been done.

President Roosevelt sent his young son into the Black Hills hunting and fishing, that he may become initiated into true western life. The President is a lover of the great west.

The county tickets of both parties have been named, and it remains with the voter to do the rest. Let it be a good natured campaign when it does begin and to the victor naught but good will.

When a good man is found the republicans of the state realize it. H. G. Lindsay was elected state chairman by the republican state convention. He is the right man in the right place.

And now all the fusion regents of the State university are accused by their party organs as being simply republicans in disguise. Strange what contact with the fonts of education will do.—Bee.

The republican judicial convention of the eighth district held at Wakefield, nominated C. J. Robinson, of Hartington, for judge of the district, the vote standing: Robinson, 32, and Young, of Stanton, 25.

Loa Dillon, the gallant mare, broke the world's trotting record at Readville, Mass., on Monday, by going a mile in two minutes flat. Even the American horse is bound to keep up with the procession of achievements.

Judge J. B. Barnes of Norfolk was nominated by acclamation for Supreme Judge by the republican state convention at Lincoln. It was but a fitting tribute to Nebraska's able jurist and citizen and his majority this fall will be exceedingly large.

Reliance won easily in the great international yacht race Saturday, defeating Shamrock by eight minutes and seventeen seconds. On Tuesday, the second race was won by Reliance by one minute and 17 seconds. Sir Thomas Lipton is game, but Yankee ingenuity, pluck and shrewdness is a little too much for the best of them, and Lipton is among the best and most worthy as he is a true sportsman.

"It is the easiest thing in the world to find fault with the way the other fellow does it," says the York Times, "but it is quite a different thing to do it better yourself. The kicker has the easiest time in the world. All he has to do is to take a note of human imperfections and call attention to it. This has always been the province of the democratic party. It never ventures to do anything, and very rarely to suggest how anything should be done. Its only argument is that the republican party has failed to do something as well as it might have done, or that the republicans can not always see in advance as well as they can after it is all over."

The republican state convention at Lincoln nominated for associate justices of the supreme court, John B. Barnes, of Madison county, and for regents of the university, Charles S. Allen of Lancaster and W. G. Whitmore of Douglas. The convention was entirely harmonious. Beginning at two o'clock in the afternoon the convention transacted its business and was ready to adjourn three hours later. President Roosevelt received a hearty declaration for his renomination. The unexpected feature of the convention was the adoption by a unanimous vote a resolution declaring John L. Webster of Omaha, of the delegates to the convention, and one of the well known party leaders of the state, to be the choice of Nebraska republicans for vice president in 1904. Mr. Webster expressed his thanks for the honor in a speech of considerable length. The report from the committee on resolutions was adopted without change. The platform begins with congratulations on the overthrow of Bryanism in the home of its activity and congratulates the people on the prevailing prosperity. On national isues the convention congratulates the people that the administration of national affairs "are being conducted by the courageous conduct of a president who knows no fear, who courts no favor, but who loves peace crowned with honor and in whose charge we have feeling of perfect safety and security, the president whom the American people now desire to honor with a second term as chief magistrate of the greatest and grandest nation on earth, Theodore Roosevelt.

The nomination of Judge Barnes by acclamation at the republican state convention was a well merited compliment. The naming of the candidate was conceded to the north part of the state and the choice fell on the Judge; he now being on the supreme court commission and having a large acquaintance in the state, and being very popular in his own congressional district, made him an available candidate. No better choice could have been made.—Burt Co. Herald.

London says she is not interested in the Wall street flurry. She has no special need to be. England owns comparatively little American speculative properties at the present time. There was a day, and that not very remote, when British investors had very large holdings of property on this side of the Atlantic. They owned so many stocks and bonds in the United States, in fact, that some timid or bited persons feared that England would soon dictate the politics and shape the social life of this country.

The panic of 1893 led to vast sales of American properties by British owners. In the crash at that time English investors, who had been rendered especially nervous by their losses in Argentina's smash up in 1890-91 and in the wreck in Australia in 1892, believed there was to be a general cataclysm in the financial world, and they disposed of their American securities in 1893-95 at great losses, Americans, in most instances, being the buyers. In the convulsion, which lasted till the Republicans entered power in 1897, many hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of American properties thus came into the hands of American owners, and in the advance that set in immediately afterward Americans were large gainers.

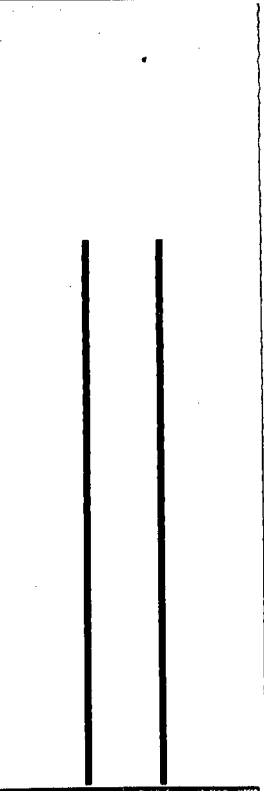

Here is the principal reason why London is expressing no alarm over the little disturbance on Wall street. The United States has also a good reason for unconcern. No serious consequences are likely to come from the break in stocks. The crops are good, all the leading industries are busy, and the general business public throughout the country is confident. Nobody is frightened at the outlook. The wise owner of stocks will hold them. At present prices most of them are a very good investment. An advance is sure to come before long, for the situation has bullish factors which must soon assert themselves. No financial convulsion ever took place when the general business conditions were as solid and safe as they are at this time.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Democratic County Convention

Pursuant to call the democrats of Wayne county held their convention at the court house Saturday afternoon. P. H. Kohl was elected temporary chairman and Walter Gaebler, secretary. Credentials were filed for different precincts represented, after which the temporary organization was made permanent. The convention then proceeded with the work of nominating candidates for the different county offices. Henry Kloppling and J. M. Cherry were placed in nomination for county treasurer, the first ballot resulting in favor of Cherry by a vote of 30 to 23. Chas. W. Reynolds was nominated for county clerk by acclamation, also H. H. Moses for county judge, Jas Hamilton of Winside for Sheriff, and Chas. Wilson of Hoskins, for county superintendent. Jake Ziegler, Theo. Barnhardt and W. F. Assenheimer were nominated for county assessor, the vote resulting in favor of Ziegler for clerk of the district court, Ben Skiles, A. L. Houser and Roy Surber were placed in nomination, the first ballot resulting Skiles 18, Houser 10, Surber 10. On the 6th ballot Skiles received a majority and was declared the nominee.

A committee of five consisting of F. A. Berry, Ed. Carroll, Robt. Skiles, G. H. Drewson and June Conger were appointed a committee to present a list of names to the convention as delegates to the state and judicial conventions. The committee made the following report which was adopted: State, P. H. Kohl, Joe Dobbins, Robt. Skiles, W. S. Goldie, Geo. Druson Jr., Henry Kloppling, J. H. Mitchell and Theo. Barnhardt. Judicial, Wm. Buetow, Elmer Lundburg, F. A. Berry, Ben Skiles, E. R. Surber and A. J. Reicheit.
