

ALONE IN THE WORLD; or REAPING THE HARVEST

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER

CHAPTER XX.

"Rachel, my child, said Mrs. Damas, the next morning, they had breakfast together, and she said, 'Rachel, that was wonderful, considering that Rachel had not closed an eye during the long night; but she said nothing about it, only that she had rather a headache.'"

"I am glad to hear that," said Mrs. Damas, "but you must be quiet this morning and simply do nothing."

"I cannot think of the class," returned Rachel, "who had made herself of great use to her friend, who had just started an outside studio, to her own comfort and the comfort of everyone else in the house in South Washington Square."

"The class takes care of itself," cried Mrs. Damas, with a pleasant laugh. "Simply you've not got such a high and mighty opinion of yourself as to think we can't scramble on without you."

"Well, I hardly thought that," Rachel replied, laughing also, "only as you know, I had to give notice."

"You were restless about it, look up her picture and put a touch or two to the picture of herself, threw them down again, and finally dropped into a big chair, thinking over all that the old general had said the previous day. While she was still sitting there, she saw a man and woman walking to her door, and according to the habit of her head rather than her heart, the door was pushed very gently open and Harrington came in. Rachel did not hear him, so did not move."

"Rachel," he said, softly.

"What have you come?" she cried, for she saw from the hallway and joy upon her face that something had happened.

"I crossed the studio to her. 'The general sent for me—sent me to you. He said that he had seen you, and that he was right,' he said, eagerly. 'Oh, Rachel, my love, my love, you have been here! And now just, I dare say, but very hard. And now that I have learned my lesson thoroughly, you are going to be kind to me, are you not? Why—Rachel—don't you know, you cannot mean that you were wrong; oh, no, no, you couldn't send me away again—you couldn't!'"

"The general comes here," she said in a voice so sweet above a whisper, "and he has been here as well as if it had been his own. I could say nothing—nothing. He believes in you; he said that you were brave and frank and true—and good! And what could I do but let him say what he pleased and answer nothing?"

"All the radiance had faded out of his handsome face, and it grew as pale and full of pain as her own."

"He would not let me say a word, would not believe that I have made up my mind not to marry you. He wishes to be kind to me, but I never said one word that would justify him in sending you here—not one word."

"Do you mean that it is all no good, that you are still holding out against me?" he gasped.

"I shall always hold out against you," she answered. "I forgave you long ago, but forgiveness does not undo what is done. You are a broken, a beautiful, a good man, but I will not forgive you, for the forgiveness does not make the vase whole again. It is just so with you and me; you broke the vase of my faith in you, and though I forgive you freely and fully, the damage remains just the same. Oh, don't think that I should be passionate, but I think I would if I could—don't you see, and know that I love you still dearly? And yet if I were to marry you, I know as well as I know that we two are standing here now, that after a very little while we should be farther apart than if the whole world were between us."

"I should like to see the risk of that," he said, eagerly.

"No, I dare not do that; I dare not. I should begin by loving you, more perhaps than I have ever done, but I should never trust you—never. I should always be suspicious of what I dreamed would be true. I should always be asking you everything that you said, in everything that you did. I should grow suspicious of you impatiently. I wretched, perhaps, even jealous—you—oh, don't let me talk about it. It can never come to pass. I tell you I would give half my life and all I came to be able to believe in you as a lie."

"If you send me away now, Rachel, it is for the last time, remember. I shall never seek you out again; and if I go headlong to destruction you will always bear in mind, I hope, that it is your doing."

"My doing?" she echoed.

"Yes, your doing," he repeated, fiercely. "In a short time a man needs a good woman to keep him straight and stand between him and the world. I shall never try to marry any woman now. You could have done anything that you liked with me; I have always been like wax in your hands. Now it is all over—and when I go out of the world, you will be watched with nothing but the eye of heaven to keep me straight. I shall go headlong to perdition as fast as Gen. Vandeleur's liberal allowance will take me. The quicker I go the better I shall be pleased; and do you always bear in mind that it was you who sent me there."

"You come here," she said, "you, a man—a lord of creation—and you threaten me, a weak woman, with your destruction. I am ashamed of you, Valentine Harrington—more, I am ashamed of myself for having loved you. And I tell you that if, when you leave me to-day, you deliberately cast yourself headlong to your ruin, the sin will rest upon my head, but on your own. You are not a child of a weak boy, who does his bidding with a whim, but a man, in the very flower of your life. You are here and ask me to give my whole life into your keeping, you a man who can actually threaten me with your eternal destruction—oh, for shame! for shame!"

"I should like to see the risk of that," he said, eagerly.

"No, I dare not do that; I dare not. I should begin by loving you, more perhaps than I have ever done, but I should never trust you—never. I should always be suspicious of what I dreamed would be true. I should always be asking you everything that you said, in everything that you did. I should grow suspicious of you impatiently. I wretched, perhaps, even jealous—you—oh, don't let me talk about it. It can never come to pass. I tell you I would give half my life and all I came to be able to believe in you as a lie."

"If you send me away now, Rachel, it is for the last time, remember. I shall never seek you out again; and if I go headlong to destruction you will always bear in mind, I hope, that it is your doing."

"My doing?" she echoed.

"Yes, your doing," he repeated, fiercely. "In a short time a man needs a good woman to keep him straight and stand between him and the world. I shall never try to marry any woman now. You could have done anything that you liked with me; I have always been like wax in your hands. Now it is all over—and when I go out of the world, you will be watched with nothing but the eye of heaven to keep me straight. I shall go headlong to perdition as fast as Gen. Vandeleur's liberal allowance will take me. The quicker I go the better I shall be pleased; and do you always bear in mind that it was you who sent me there."

"You come here," she said, "you, a man—a lord of creation—and you threaten me, a weak woman, with your destruction. I am ashamed of you, Valentine Harrington—more, I am ashamed of myself for having loved you. And I tell you that if, when you leave me to-day, you deliberately cast yourself headlong to your ruin, the sin will rest upon my head, but on your own. You are not a child of a weak boy, who does his bidding with a whim, but a man, in the very flower of your life. You are here and ask me to give my whole life into your keeping, you a man who can actually threaten me with your eternal destruction—oh, for shame! for shame!"

"I should like to see the risk of that," he said, eagerly.

"No, I dare not do that; I dare not. I should begin by loving you, more perhaps than I have ever done, but I should never trust you—never. I should always be suspicious of what I dreamed would be true. I should always be asking you everything that you said, in everything that you did. I should grow suspicious of you impatiently. I wretched, perhaps, even jealous—you—oh, don't let me talk about it. It can never come to pass. I tell you I would give half my life and all I came to be able to believe in you as a lie."

"If you send me away now, Rachel, it is for the last time, remember. I shall never seek you out again; and if I go headlong to destruction you will always bear in mind, I hope, that it is your doing."

"My doing?" she echoed.

"Yes, your doing," he repeated, fiercely. "In a short time a man needs a good woman to keep him straight and stand between him and the world. I shall never try to marry any woman now. You could have done anything that you liked with me; I have always been like wax in your hands. Now it is all over—and when I go out of the world, you will be watched with nothing but the eye of heaven to keep me straight. I shall go headlong to perdition as fast as Gen. Vandeleur's liberal allowance will take me. The quicker I go the better I shall be pleased; and do you always bear in mind that it was you who sent me there."

"You come here," she said, "you, a man—a lord of creation—and you threaten me, a weak woman, with your destruction. I am ashamed of you, Valentine Harrington—more, I am ashamed of myself for having loved you. And I tell you that if, when you leave me to-day, you deliberately cast yourself headlong to your ruin, the sin will rest upon my head, but on your own. You are not a child of a weak boy, who does his bidding with a whim, but a man, in the very flower of your life. You are here and ask me to give my whole life into your keeping, you a man who can actually threaten me with your eternal destruction—oh, for shame! for shame!"

CHAPTER XXI.

"I am glad to hear that," said Mrs. Damas, "but you must be quiet this morning and simply do nothing."

"I cannot think of the class," returned Rachel, "who had made herself of great use to her friend, who had just started an outside studio, to her own comfort and the comfort of everyone else in the house in South Washington Square."

"The class takes care of itself," cried Mrs. Damas, with a pleasant laugh. "Simply you've not got such a high and mighty opinion of yourself as to think we can't scramble on without you."

"Well, I hardly thought that," Rachel replied, laughing also, "only as you know, I had to give notice."

"You were restless about it, look up her picture and put a touch or two to the picture of herself, threw them down again, and finally dropped into a big chair, thinking over all that the old general had said the previous day. While she was still sitting there, she saw a man and woman walking to her door, and according to the habit of her head rather than her heart, the door was pushed very gently open and Harrington came in. Rachel did not hear him, so did not move."

"Rachel," he said, softly.

"What have you come?" she cried, for she saw from the hallway and joy upon her face that something had happened.

"I crossed the studio to her. 'The general sent for me—sent me to you. He said that he had seen you, and that he was right,' he said, eagerly. 'Oh, Rachel, my love, my love, you have been here! And now just, I dare say, but very hard. And now that I have learned my lesson thoroughly, you are going to be kind to me, are you not? Why—Rachel—don't you know, you cannot mean that you were wrong; oh, no, no, you couldn't send me away again—you couldn't!'"

"The general comes here," she said in a voice so sweet above a whisper, "and he has been here as well as if it had been his own. I could say nothing—nothing. He believes in you; he said that you were brave and frank and true—and good! And what could I do but let him say what he pleased and answer nothing?"

"All the radiance had faded out of his handsome face, and it grew as pale and full of pain as her own."

"He would not let me say a word, would not believe that I have made up my mind not to marry you. He wishes to be kind to me, but I never said one word that would justify him in sending you here—not one word."

"Do you mean that it is all no good, that you are still holding out against me?" he gasped.

"I shall always hold out against you," she answered. "I forgave you long ago, but forgiveness does not undo what is done. You are a broken, a beautiful, a good man, but I will not forgive you, for the forgiveness does not make the vase whole again. It is just so with you and me; you broke the vase of my faith in you, and though I forgive you freely and fully, the damage remains just the same. Oh, don't think that I should be passionate, but I think I would if I could—don't you see, and know that I love you still dearly? And yet if I were to marry you, I know as well as I know that we two are standing here now, that after a very little while we should be farther apart than if the whole world were between us."

"I should like to see the risk of that," he said, eagerly.

"No, I dare not do that; I dare not. I should begin by loving you, more perhaps than I have ever done, but I should never trust you—never. I should always be suspicious of what I dreamed would be true. I should always be asking you everything that you said, in everything that you did. I should grow suspicious of you impatiently. I wretched, perhaps, even jealous—you—oh, don't let me talk about it. It can never come to pass. I tell you I would give half my life and all I came to be able to believe in you as a lie."

"If you send me away now, Rachel, it is for the last time, remember. I shall never seek you out again; and if I go headlong to destruction you will always bear in mind, I hope, that it is your doing."

"My doing?" she echoed.

"Yes, your doing," he repeated, fiercely. "In a short time a man needs a good woman to keep him straight and stand between him and the world. I shall never try to marry any woman now. You could have done anything that you liked with me; I have always been like wax in your hands. Now it is all over—and when I go out of the world, you will be watched with nothing but the eye of heaven to keep me straight. I shall go headlong to perdition as fast as Gen. Vandeleur's liberal allowance will take me. The quicker I go the better I shall be pleased; and do you always bear in mind that it was you who sent me there."

"You come here," she said, "you, a man—a lord of creation—and you threaten me, a weak woman, with your destruction. I am ashamed of you, Valentine Harrington—more, I am ashamed of myself for having loved you. And I tell you that if, when you leave me to-day, you deliberately cast yourself headlong to your ruin, the sin will rest upon my head, but on your own. You are not a child of a weak boy, who does his bidding with a whim, but a man, in the very flower of your life. You are here and ask me to give my whole life into your keeping, you a man who can actually threaten me with your eternal destruction—oh, for shame! for shame!"

"I should like to see the risk of that," he said, eagerly.

"No, I dare not do that; I dare not. I should begin by loving you, more perhaps than I have ever done, but I should never trust you—never. I should always be suspicious of what I dreamed would be true. I should always be asking you everything that you said, in everything that you did. I should grow suspicious of you impatiently. I wretched, perhaps, even jealous—you—oh, don't let me talk about it. It can never come to pass. I tell you I would give half my life and all I came to be able to believe in you as a lie."

"If you send me away now, Rachel, it is for the last time, remember. I shall never seek you out again; and if I go headlong to destruction you will always bear in mind, I hope, that it is your doing."

"My doing?" she echoed.

"Yes, your doing," he repeated, fiercely. "In a short time a man needs a good woman to keep him straight and stand between him and the world. I shall never try to marry any woman now. You could have done anything that you liked with me; I have always been like wax in your hands. Now it is all over—and when I go out of the world, you will be watched with nothing but the eye of heaven to keep me straight. I shall go headlong to perdition as fast as Gen. Vandeleur's liberal allowance will take me. The quicker I go the better I shall be pleased; and do you always bear in mind that it was you who sent me there."

"You come here," she said, "you, a man—a lord of creation—and you threaten me, a weak woman, with your destruction. I am ashamed of you, Valentine Harrington—more, I am ashamed of myself for having loved you. And I tell you that if, when you leave me to-day, you deliberately cast yourself headlong to your ruin, the sin will rest upon my head, but on your own. You are not a child of a weak boy, who does his bidding with a whim, but a man, in the very flower of your life. You are here and ask me to give my whole life into your keeping, you a man who can actually threaten me with your eternal destruction—oh, for shame! for shame!"

GOOD Short Stories

There has always been a little friendly enmity between W. S. Gilbert and a rival humorist, Sir Francis Burdett, the present editor of Punch. Once at a dinner table, some one said: "I suppose you often get good things sent in by outsiders." "Occasionally," answered Burdett. "Then why don't you print them?" said Gilbert.

One of the most striking anecdotes told in Hermann Klein's "Thirty Years of Musical Life in London," relates to Anton Seidl's first interview with Wagner, in the library at Wagner's. Seidl found the room dark, and, imagining nobody was there, he pulled open his letter of introduction, and began blithely rehearsing the speech he had prepared. Suddenly, from out of a gloomy corner, Wagner appeared, and Seidl was so nervous that he could not bring out a sentence of his speech. This proved to be his salvation, for Wagner, declaring, "I can work as well as you can hold your tongue, you will do," engaged him on the spot.

The veteran actor, Joseph Jefferson, is fond of relating this story of an election in Colorado, where the women vote of the subject. A lady came to the place of registration one morning, to qualify herself for suffrage at the coming election. "With what political party do you affiliate?" asked the clerk, solemnly. The lady blushed, started, and was evidently much embarrassed. "Must I answer?" she asked. "Yes, madam," said the clerk; "you must answer if you would vote." "Well," she replied, "I don't think I'll vote then, for it is nobody's business what the party's name is, but I don't mind telling you that he is a candidate for school trustee, and he is one of the nicest men I ever met."

A writer in Country Life in America relates the following ghost story, which he declares, is founded on fact. A young woman, at a country house party one Christmas, had been filled with delicious horrors by tales of ghosts and hobgoblins told by certain of her fellow-guests about a generous friend of hers, who had been killed by a ghost. The next morning she appeared at the breakfast table ready for departure, and when pressed to explain her reason for going, faintly confessed that she was afraid to sleep under that roof another night. She said that about midnight she was awakened by a stealthy step, and to her horror saw a specter, all in white, at the foot of her bed, and it raised its claw-like hands and actually drew the coverlet off the bed. There was no hallucination about it, for the coverlet was gone! While the interest was at its height, a belated breakfast appeared, and remarked, genially: "How cold it was last night. Knowing that the room next to mine was unoccupied, I took the liberty of helping myself to an extra covering from there!"

PEANUTS.
Most of American Crop Grown in Tidewater Counties of Virginia. The peanut counties of Virginia are the tidewater ones of Surry, Isle of Wight, Nansemond and Southampton; and these four counties probably produce more peanuts than any other area of equal size in the world. In Smithfield, Isle of Wight County—a historic little town, remote from the railway—is to be found the largest peanut factory in existence owned by one company, and the head of the firm, P. D. Gwynn, is known as the "peanut king of the world." The yearly output of this establishment averages 350,000 bags of peanuts, valued at $1,500,000. They are shipped by boat to Norfolk, which is the largest market for this product in the United States. This country furnishes about 100,000,000 pounds of peanuts yearly, which is one-sixth of the entire crop of the world. Small quantities of peanuts are raised in a number of other counties in Virginia, and the industry has attained considerable importance in North and South Carolina and in East Texas.

The home of the peanut or ground pea (also often called pinder and goober) is believed to be Brazil, although it very soon spread to Africa, China, Japan and India, and was recognized as a valuable agricultural product in these countries long before it was cultivated on a large scale in its native soil, which was not until the year 1870. In the Old World, however, it has always been planted and harvested for the sake of the oil that it yields; this is said to rival olive oil in quality, and to be used for the same purposes. The nuts raised in the East are far richer in oil than the American varieties.

The most popular of the American peanuts is the "Virginia running variety." The pod and nut of the Virginia variety are twice as large as those of the North Carolina or African peanut. The Spanish nuts, usually sold only after being shelled and salted, are still smaller, but of excellent flavor. Tennessee has two varieties, called the white and the red, the kernels of the latter having a dark-red skin.

Smithfield and the country surrounding it may be regarded as typical of the peanut section. Here many farms are from fifty to one hundred acres are given up to peanut culture. As the American trade demands a "bright-colored shell" and the pod takes on the color of the ground in which it grows, the soil necessary for the most marketable nuts is a light, sandy loam. Lime is an essential ingredient, and when lacking is often supplied by applying burned oyster shells. On the Smithfield farms and others in Eastern Virginia, the seed is often put into the ground early in May, the kernels being planted with the skins on; two bushels of nuts in the pod are required to sow one acre. The Virginia running variety is usually planted in rows from two and a half to three feet apart, the plants in the rows having an average distance of twelve to twenty inches. The vines are trained on a trellis, and the nuts are harvested by the use of a special machine, and by the use of the sickle, and covered with doll-like green leaves and yellow blossoms.

Art For Revenue Only.
So you could not get on with that eminent actor, Walker Fitzgerald? No, answered Stornborough Barnes, "our professional agencies had to cease." "The difficulty," he said, "is entirely due to his mysterious disposition. He returned a half interest in the business and insisted on his salary of $25 a week."—Washington Star.

All Important Weaknesses Condemned.
The following are the weaknesses of the human body:—

The poets mistake by the middle of October, when the harvesting season is past, and continues for about a month. Frost is fatal to both vines and nuts, which must therefore be out of the ground before there is danger from this source.—The Southern Workman.

SHOES BRING HIGH PRICES.
New York Physician Cobbler Gets $1,000 a Pair for All He Can Make. Shoes selling at a factory cost $100 a pair. To style it a pair would be to insult the artisans employed therein. They call it a "footgear institute," and the proprietor goes by no less a title than "curative orthopedist."

The wearing of these $1,000 shoes is, in the main, a hobby, and is based on nerves gone wrong. For there are some persons, it seems, who are plagued with sensitive nerves in their feet which ache so excruciatingly that nothing can assuage the pain but shoes "prescribed" by a physician-cobbler.

The learned cobbler listens to a tale of toeache, with attending nervous disturbances, and examines the patient's feet with critical scrutiny. Every hill and dale of the foot is inspected and studied, and especially is a sharp lookout kept for the sensitive nerves, which ultimately are sure to be found. A volume of notes is taken and the prospective customer naturally becomes impressed with the severity of his ailment. Next, and what is very important, a plaster cast of the foot is taken, and if the patient's purse is proportioned to his pain the physician-cobbler is apt to enter a new order on his book.

The shoes are made of good leather, but do not generally follow the lines of the latest fashion; rather the reverse. It all depends on the views of the healer. Some sufferers are so contentedly shut in exchange for $500, $250 or even $100; but those customers who prefer to pay the highest price are satisfied with nothing less than a $1,000 pair.

The shoe-bills of one New Yorker—a rich contractor—who rides the orthopedic hobby have footed up $500,000. Yet the shoes he wears are queer-looking contrivances.

The cobbler has made a fortune and employ additional assistants, and with his attendant train of nervous disorders, has suggested to him a new and profitable field. The only thing that perplexes him is whether to sell his shoes for $1,000 a pair, or to sell them for $100 a pair.

A LOST OPPORTUNITY.
What Happened to a Merchant Who Didn't Advertise.
"This," said the gentleman, "is a magic ring. Rub it and you can have anything you want."
"Do tell!" said the merchant. "I think I'd rub it and wish to have a lot of such rings. Then I'll start a jewelry store, and I'll get all sorts of prices for my goods because anybody who buys will be able to rub a ring and get his money back."
"All right," said the gentleman. "It's up to you."
About six months later the gentleman called around again. The merchant had opened a magnificent store, which was filled with rings. But there were no customers in sight.

One Death That is Pleasant.
Deaths come in many forms in the anthracite mines of Pennsylvania, but only one form is painless and pleasant, and to only one of the victims go unconsciously. It is the death of the burning culm. In such a death, recorded when the culm is such a large quantity is burning. The fire is not seen in the daytime and at night it shines only with a faint glow through the layers of ashes which separate the live coals from the outer air. To these burning banks tramps and other unfortunate, forced to spend a night in the open air, go when the nights grow chilly. The warm breath of the culm lures them on with a promise of a warm bed for the night, and they lie down to sleep in the comfortable atmosphere of the bank and never open their eyes again. The noxious gases emanating from the bank waft over them so softly that they are soon asleep, and suffocated during the night.—New York Sun.

Dangerous.
"An' how's yer husband the day?" asked Mrs. Rafferty of Mrs. Muldoon.
"Sure, an' he's no better," replied Mrs. Muldoon. "The doctor's afraid mortality will set in."

"An ill wind that blows nobody good."—Minneapolis Journal.

ENACTS NEW THEATER LAW.

Chicago City Council. After working on it nearly all night the Chicago City Council passed the theater ordinance early Tuesday morning by a vote of 47 to 8. Numerous amendments have been made to the ordinance, and the ordinance should make the management of the city theaters safe for their audiences. The new ordinance applies to existing theaters as well as those which are yet to be constructed.

The provisions in reference to seats, aisles, and exits, it is believed by many of the Aldermen, will reduce the seating capacity on the main floor of every theater in Chicago 20 per cent and prohibit the use of galleries entirely. If these provisions are made impossible of construction, in the opinion of some of the theater managers.

The provision that is fatal to galleries requires that the rise between banks of seats shall not exceed eighteen inches. In the tropics it was twenty-five inches, and in other theaters the rise is more than twenty inches. The ordinance requires that the seats be provided with an aisle leading direct to an exit, and that each five rows of seats. It also provides that no theater shall be allowed to exist whose lowest bank of seats is more than twelve feet above the street level.

MINE WORKERS MEET.

Fiftieth Annual Convention, Begins Session at Indianapolis. The fiftieth annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America opened in Tomlinson Hall, Indianapolis, Monday morning. Approximately 1,000 delegates were present from the various districts of the country. The convention was represented by the delegates who were to continue for ten days and followed by the annual joint conference between the miners and coal operators of the States of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and western Pennsylvania. It is at the joint conference that the wage scale for the ensuing year is fixed. The convention was in session for ten days and followed by the annual joint conference between the miners and coal operators of the States of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and western Pennsylvania. It is at the joint conference that the wage scale for the ensuing year is fixed. The convention was in session for ten days and followed by the annual joint conference between the miners and coal operators of the States of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and western Pennsylvania. It is at the joint conference that the wage scale for the ensuing year is fixed.

FEATURES OF THE NEW LAW.

Important features which are embodied in the new ordinance and for which the majority of the Aldermen were united throughout are:

Curtain—Steel curtains are specified which shall be in constant use as the regular curtain and act floor. Asbestos drop was defeated.

Floor levels—Lowest bank of seats in non-fireproof building cannot be higher than the street level. Fireproof buildings they must not be higher than twelve feet above the street level.

Galleries—Seats in galleries can not be more than eight or eighteen inches between the rows of seats.

Open spaces—Theaters hereafter built shall adjoin two public thoroughfares, but the audience room and stage must be surrounded on four sides by either open spaces or fireproof passageways at least eight feet wide in the clear.

Cross aisles—Cross aisles must be provided for every nine rows of seats in balconies and galleries and must run directly to exits.

Automatic sprinklers—Automatic sprinklers must be installed on all theaters, as required by the city ordinance, but around all parts of stage, dressing rooms and under stage.

Fire alarms—Fire alarm boxes shall be installed on all floors on the stage and in ticket office of every theater. Fire drills must be held twice a week and two or more firemen detailed to each theater, while one police officer shall prevent overcrowding at each performance. All fire apparatus shall be under control of the fire department. Fire marshal, building commissioner and chief of police are to have power to close buildings at any time for violations of this ordinance.

JAMES L. BLAIR PASSES AWAY.

St. Louis Man Under a Cloud Dies at Lucas, Fla. James L. Blair, former counsel for the world's fair and the central figure in a controversy surrounding the St. Louis and Chicago fairs, died at Lucas, Fla., Saturday evening.

He had previously been taken with a congestive chill and a fever, recovered. Mrs. Blair and their son, who were with him at the time of his death.

Mr. Blair, who had been one of the foremost lawyers and reformers in St. Louis, was charged with a short time ago by a former employer with the embezzlement of large sums of money that had been intrusted to him. Mr. Blair undertook to fight the charges and then broke down. It is alleged that he twice attempted suicide, but the fact has not been fully verified. His country house in the suburbs was dismantled and everything of value, including his horses and carriages, sold. Mrs. Blair, who was president of the board of lady managers of the world's fair, resigned and devoted herself to nursing her husband.

In the meantime insurance companies in which he carried nearly $1,000,000 worth of insurance began to contest the policies on the ground that he had taken them out for the purpose of defrauding the companies by killing himself. The cases are still pending in the federal courts.

Mr. Blair was born in St. Louis in 1854. He was the third son of Gen. Francis Blair and the grandson of Francis Preston Blair of Washington, D. C., a friend of Lincoln and Jackson.

FACE DEATH IN DARK CAVE.

Boat Capsizes in Mammoth Cavern, Kentucky. Only the coolness of the guide prevented the drowning of a party of eight persons, six of them children, in the Echo river in Mammoth cave Saturday afternoon. The party was in attendance at the commission merchant's convention which has been holding its sessions in Louisville and was exploring the cave when the boat capsized, throwing all the occupants into the water.

The roof of the cave over Echo river is arched, and the space in the center, owing to a rise in the river, was only two and a half feet above the water. In order to insure the passage of the boat the men and women were forced to crouch.

At one place the boat swerved to one side, raking the heads of the persons in the boat next to the bank. These leaned farther forward to escape striking their heads. This lowered one end of the boat and the water began to flow in rapidly.

The guide saw the danger and called to Mrs. Muehlbauer to jump and take the chain. This he did, landing on a deep bank, which offered only a slight foothold. Lying on his face, he held to the chain and pulled the boat toward the bank. The boat sank in eight feet of water, but farther back where Mrs. Muehlbauer was, the water is shallow, and she was able to get out.

A Lake Covered with Salt.
Probably the most remarkable lake in the world is the one which is covered with salt that completely conceals the water. It may be seen at day time during the year, fully exposed, being seen at its best when the sun is shining directly upon it. This body of water is one of the saltiest of the salt lakes, and is situated near Oudorsk, Siberia. The lake is nine miles wide and seventeen long. The salt crust increases six inches in thickness every year. The many islands with which the lake is studded are said to act as braces and to keep the arched salt crust in position.

A Dentist's Advice.

Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 25th.—Mr. Harry L. Lewis, Dentist, 607 Summit street, this city, says: "I certainly advise anyone, no matter how severe they may have Kidney Trouble, to take Dodd's Kidney Pills."

"I was troubled with Kidney Disease for several years and Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me. I had used many so-called remedies without any benefit. Four months ago, I was laid on my back with this painful trouble and must say that I almost gave up hopes of ever getting any better. Through a friend's advice I purchased six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

"At first I could see little benefit, but after two weeks, I could see an improvement. I had been getting up several times at night and pains in my back were very severe. When I had taken six boxes I felt better than I had for years. The pain had all gone and I was able to get up during the night at will. I continued the treatment until I had used several more boxes, and now I am glad to say that I am completely cured."

The Mistake.

In his biography of Alexander Dumas, Henry A. Spurr says that the improvident French author, who had an aversion, was once waiting in line for his clerk at a store, when he saw a millionaire give a tip of 50 centimes (10 cents) to the servant who handed out his palooka. Dumas, getting his cloak, threw down a 100-franc note. "Pardon, sir, you have made a mistake," I think," said the man, offering to return the note. "No, no, friend," answered Dumas, casting a disdainful glance at the millionaire, "it is the other gentleman who has made the mistake."

He Was Satisfied.

"Life," said the patient, "is made up of trials."

"Yes, and I'm glad of it," replied the lawyer.

Millions in Oats.

Salzer's New National Oats yielded in 1903 in Michigan 240 bu., in Missouri 255 bu., in North Dakota 310 bu., and in 30 other States from 150 to 300 bu. per acre. Grow the big Oats generally grown in 1904, will add millions of bushels to the yield and millions of dollars to the farmer's purse. Try for 1904. Largest Seed House in America.

Salzer's Speltz, Macaroni, Barley, Home Builder Corn, Macaroni, Wheat, Pen Oat, Billion Dollars Grass and Earliest Canada money makers for you, Mr. Farmer.

JUST SEND THIS NOTICE AND 10c in stamps to John A. Salzer Seed Co., E. Grove, Wis., and receive in return their big catalogue and lots of farm seed samples. (C. N. C.)

IT DOES ONE GOOD TO YAWN!

Medical Men Declare It Rests the Worried Muscles Greatly.
Yawning is not at all times an indication of a feeling of laziness. More frequently it is an evidence that certain muscles have been overstrained and require rest. Medical men advise that a yawn is nature's demand for rest. Some people think they only yawn because they are sleepy. But this is not so. You yawn because you are tired. You may be sleepy also, but that is not the real cause of your yawning. You are sleepy because you are tired and you yawn because you are tired.

Whenever you feel like yawning, just yawn. Don't try to suppress it because you think it is impolite to yawn. Put your hand over your mouth if you want to, but let the yawn come. And if you are where you can stretch at the same time that you yawn, just stretch and yawn. This is nature's way of stretching and relaxing the muscles.

Don't be afraid to open your mouth wide and yawn. Just stretch whenever you feel like it. Indeed, if you are very tired, but do not feel like yawning, there is nothing that will rest you so quickly as to sit on a straight-back chair and, lifting the feet from the floor, push them out in front of you as far as possible, stretch the arms, put the head back, open the mouth wide and make yourself yawn.

These tense nerves will relax, the contracted muscles will stretch and the whole body will be rested. Do this two or three times when you are tired and see what it will do for you!

DR. FRED HIMSELF.

Found the Food that Saved His Life.
A good old family physician, with a lifetime's experience in saving people finally found himself sick unto death. Medicines failed—but let him tell his own story. "For the first time in my life of 61 years I am impelled to publicly testify to the value of a largely advertised article and I certainly would not pen these lines except that, what seems to me a direct act of Providence, saved my life and I am impressed that it is a bountiful duty to make it known."

"For 3 years I kept falling stomach and liver disorders until I was reduced 70 lbs from my normal weight. When I got too low to treat myself, 3 of my associate physicians advised me to 'put my house in order' for I would be quickly dead if the worst of all things came. I thought that I was on a diet of Grape-Nuts prepared food. Curiously enough it quickly began to build me up, appetite returned, and in 15 days I gained 40 lbs. That started my return to health and really saved my life."

"A physician is naturally prejudiced against writing such a letter, but in this case I am willing to declare it from the house that the medicine did can find relief and health and, and promptly by Grape-Nuts. I am sure you know what to do. Sincerely yours, Fred Himself. Name of physician furnished on request. Forth Co., Battle Creek, Mich."

The famous little bag of Grape-Nuts, 10c.

From Far and Near.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lester of Ottawa, Kan., celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary here.

It is reported in New York that eight American archbishops have planned a trip to Rome to urge the Pope to create an American primate.

The intramural railroad at the St. Louis world's fair has been completed and is now being used in certain sections for switching freight cars.

Seven capitalists from Ohio are considering the project of establishing a poultry parking plant at Fort Worth, Texas.

A duel was fought near Paris between Captain Levi of the Fifth regiment of Engineers and Captain de Malmoir, and the former was wounded in the arm. The duel was the result of an altercation over the Dreyfus case.

A Rio Grande freight train was wrecked at Apollo, Colo., and the discovery that the apples and fish plates had been removed from two rails led to a belief that train wreckers intended to ditch the Pacific coast freight, which was derailed at the time of the wreck.

The United National and Colonial Bank of Cleveland has reported a loss of $200,000, and the depositors are being kept in suspense.

Don't Patronize Us Because We Are Honest.

Some people think they are safe because they buy clothing of an honest merchant. It might be all right to buy sugar of an honest merchant for you would get full weight and if the price was right you would be safe. If a merchant is not an expert clothing man who understands all about woolen and cotton goods, and who knows all about how clothing should be made, you are not safe in buying clothing of him even if he is honest. An honest merchant in Wayne sold a fur coat a short time ago and thought it was Black Calf, but it was Horse Hide which proved to be a very poor coat. The young man that bought it thought it was safe to buy a fur coat of the merchant because he knew he was honest. You are safe when you buy a fur coat here, for we know all kinds of fur coats and how they are made, and our prices are lower than other merchants ask. It is safe to trade with us. We are experts and know the clothing business. Our prices are the same to all and always right. If a merchant is honest and understands his business you are safe in buying clothing of him. You can't make a mistake if you trade here.

The 2 Johns
ONE PRICE CLOTHIERS
WAYNE, NEB.

ART EXHIBIT

Invention has but recently brought within the reach of the common schools reproduction of the great masterpieces of art. The refining and elevating ideals of literature have been recognized as exerting a potent influence in moulding fine types of civilization. A force not less than this, without question, to be exerted through the great thoughts that have been placed on canvases. Constant association with these ideas of the great masters must necessarily tend to elevate and refine those who are subjected to their influence.

Our school rooms in which our children are to spend such a large part of their time in the formative period of life, should have all the possible elements of beauty and refinement which pertain to the home. The exhibit will be held in the Wilson building and will be open for three days.

February 4, 5 and 6, 1904

ADMISSION—Adults, 25 cents; Students from High School or College, 15 cents; Children below High School, 10 cents.

Bill of Fare for 1904

OFFERED BY

A. G. POWERS

Successor to Phillee & Son in the Farm Implement business at Wayne, Nebraska.

Deering Harvesting Machinery and Twine. Moline line of Plow Goods. ("Good Enough" Plows.)

T. G. Mandt and Lausing Wagons. Henney and Peru Buggies. J. I. Case Threshing Machinery. Sandwich Shellers and Repairs.

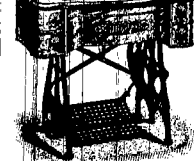

A Cordial Welcome to One and All.

A. G. Powers, Wayne, Nebraska

CHOOSE WISELY...

when you buy a SEWING MACHINE. You'll find all sorts and kinds at corresponding prices. But if you want a reputable serviceable Machine, then take the

the WHITE.

27 years' experience has enabled us to bring out a HANDMADE, SYMMETRICAL, and WELL-BUILT PRODUCT, combining in its make-up all the good points found on high grade machines and others that are exclusively WHITE, which will appeal to careful buyers. All Drop Heads have Automatic Lift and beautiful Sewell Front, Golden Oak Woodwork. We sell only through our authorized dealers, who will furnish our iron-clad guarantee duly countersigned by themselves. Beware of buying a White with a dulced or altered plate number.

We do not sell to or through catalog houses. Vibrator and Rotary Shuttle Styles. OUR ELEGANT H. T. CATALOGS GIVE FULL PARTICULARS, FREE.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CO. CLEVELAND, O.

Sold by J. P. GAERTNER, Wayne, Neb.

TWO SNAPS

Till Feb. 1 only, in 160-acre Farms

One in the famous Willow Creek Valley, near Plainview, Nebraska, and one in the Dry Creek Valley near Poston, Nebraska. Both are well improved, buildings nearly new; are first class soil with good hay land and pastures with running water, one with lots of small fruit. Either one of them is a bargain at $50 per acre, but UNTIL FEBRUARY 1, 1904, WILL GIVE YOU YOUR CHOICE AT $40 PER ACRE, with reasonable terms. You will miss it if you don't buy one of them.

TRACY & DURLAND, Norfolk, Neb.

LOCAL NEWS.

NO marriages are reported this week.

Mrs. S. H. McMakin returned yesterday from a visit at Winside.

Attorney Lundberg made a business trip to Wakefield yesterday.

Mrs. W. H. McNeal entertains a party of lady friends this evening.

Simon Gosman went to Omaha Sunday afternoon to market some cattle.

Chas. Bloodhart and wife arrived from Indiana to visit the family of Ed. Pratt.

J. W. McGinty, who has been suffering from pneumonia, is reported on the way of recovery.

A girl was born on Tuesday of last week to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Claassen, who live near LaPorte.

Frank Strahan bought two car loads of cattle of P. M. Corbit and shipped them to Omaha Monday.

Pete Stamm of Huskins, was adjudged insane and taken to the asylum at Lincoln by Sheriff Means Friday.

Mrs. O. D. Marks entertained a party of lady friends Tuesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. T. J. Steele of Sioux City.

It is reported that Bar Cunningham, well known in Wayne, has traded his general store at Randolph for a hotel at Bloomfield.

The farewell reception for the families of Messrs. Bert Brown and Chas. Beebe takes place this evening in the Methodist church.

Misses Daisy Gamble, Nellie Finston and Nettie Perry will entertain friends at a leap year party this evening at the home of Miss Gamble.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Kelleher, who live four miles south of town, died Saturday. Interment took place Monday.

There was a pleasant social gathering last evening at the residence of A. B. Nicholas. Music and refreshments were among the enjoyments.

The Nebraska Press association, with more than one hundred members in attendance, met at Lincoln on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

State Superintendent Fowler was in Wayne yesterday inspecting the work of the normal college with a view of authorizing it to issue state certificates.

Lee Vigas, formerly of this place, but who has been following his vocation as cook at Stanton, arrived here yesterday to accept a position in the Elite Cafe.

Ed. Romick, living near Winside, was in Wayne yesterday. He reported that the condition of W. H. Pingrey, who is ill at Winside, was much improved.

The Baptist ladies had a largely attended and successful supper in the Wilson building Tuesday evening. Proceeds are to be used to furnish the parsonage.

A. J. Erickson has advertised a public sale to take place on what is known as John E. Hauser farm, six miles north and one mile west of Wayne, on Thursday, February 11.

Messrs. Peterson & Berry are engaged in re-painting the interior wood-work of their hardware store, re-arranging their stock and otherwise improving the place. It looks neat.

Groundhog day is the next day of signal and exceptional importance. It will proclaim, as usual, the duration of winter—whether there is to be an early spring or still a prolonged freeze-up.

Mayor Britton, opera house manager, has arranged a treat for the evening of February 10, when the Columbia opera company, consisting of seventeen people, will present the high-class opera, "Dorothy."

The weather seemed disposed to change its bill of fare yesterday and thaw out the frozen elements, but last night it renewed the siege and speeded the mercury down to fifteen below zero before morning.

The order of Ben Hur will serve supper in the Wilson building next Saturday afternoon, beginning at 5:30 o'clock. Chicken, sherbet and cake will constitute the bill of fare. Price, 25 cents. Everybody invited.

Remember the farmers' institute at this place on Friday and Saturday of next week. These sessions are in the interest of the farmers directly and townspeople indirectly and people should respond by attending and taking part in the discussions.

Bert Brown and Chas. Beebe who expect to remove to Carroll, where they are now in possession of the store which they recently bought of Chas. Robbins, have sold their residences at this place, the former to Geo. Wilbur and the latter to J. S. French.

Last week Dr. Ivory sold his residence and part of his lots to L. U. McKee who will move here from Mount Vernon, Iowa, and occupy the property. The remaining lots were sold to J. D. King who will in time erect an elegant house on them for his own use.

A Chicago telephone paper associates the HERALD with the management of the local enterprise, which no doubt accounts for the numerous letters making inquiry, asking for positions and calling attention to the latest in cedar poles, phones and other things used in the business.

The North Nebraska Teachers' Association, of which Prof. M. E. Snodgrass is president, will meet in Columbus March 30 and 31 and April 1. Prof. Snodgrass is arranging an excellent program, among the features of which will be an address by State Superintendent Stegson of Maine.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Lutheran church, comprised the pastor's wife, Mrs. C. E. Kings, by gathering at her home yesterday afternoon in honor of her birthday anniversary. They brought a beautiful present with them and the occasion was made pleasant for all, the surprise being a complete success.

Judge Hunter received a letter yesterday from his daughter, Miss Leona, who is teaching in Manila. She has decided to remain in the Orient another year, and expects to spend her summer vacation in making a tour of Japan. When she returns to America a year later, she intends to come to stay.

E. R. Gibson, who teaches a mile and a half northeast of town, had a box social Friday evening to procure funds with which to buy an organ for the school. The occasion was a success both socially and financially, $35 being realized for the worthy object in view. A new organ will be duly installed this week.

Judge Hunter issued a marriage license Monday to Mr. Otho Shaw of Winside, and Miss Kathryn Waddell of Huskins. Also on the same day he licensed and married Mr. Harry Norris of this place and Mrs. Fannie Griffith of Blair. Mr. Norris came here a few months ago and is engaged in photography.

Mrs. J. P. Gaertner left yesterday morning for Watipeton, N. D., where she has gone in response to a telegram announcing the serious illness from pneumonia of one of her grand children, the child of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Brand. Other children of the family are suffering from the same disease, but to a less dangerous degree.

The west-bound Norfolk train did not arrive here Monday night until 10 o'clock on account of an accident at Wakefield which blocked the track. While a switching crew were at work there, the journal of a freight car broke, suspending traffic on the main line until a wrecking outfit could be secured to remove the obstruction.

Superintendent Bright is now annoyed by a few school districts that have employed teachers who have not qualified by passing the required examination. He says he will not tolerate such violation of the school law and will take action to recover from school officers any public money paid to teachers who are not holding certificates, entitling them to teach in this county.

On Sunday evening last, 608 letters were received and back stamped at the Wayne office in addition to a large number of circulars and three sacks of papers, catalogues, parcels, etc., a total of nearly 2800 pieces of mail handled at one time, being distributed in thirty-eight minutes. Three hundred thirty-eight letters were sent out from the office at one dispatch on Monday and a few over eight hundred during the day.

When considering that there are five mails received and five dispatched during each day, besides the rural routes, the immense amount of matter handled in the Wayne office can better be understood.

There were a few blooded chickens in the ark that braved the ancient flood under the generalship of a gentleman by the name of Noah. That superlative stock of barnyard birds has been carefully perpetuated through succeeding centuries, but specimens are found only in the hands of those in the front rank of fanciers. They have been introduced in Nebraska for the first time by John Kate, of this place, who imported a dozen at great expense. The fact that they carry lanterns and set up nights to lay eggs shows a tie of relationship with the lightning bug. They sleep little and put in most of their time producing eggs and singing holiday carols. They don't rip out a buck-saw crow every time they want to clear their throats. Their voices have been trained. The age of their eggs does not render them questionable in quality. In multiplying their kind, they outval the best incubator made.

John Kate's venture, as a side amusement, is philanthropic in raising the standard of the chicken industry of the state. The common hen that sits on its roost and punts like a spilt child and refuses to lay when the temperature varies a degree, discourages many people who would otherwise like to install chicken culture among their pursuits. This newly imported and sensible variety inspires hope.

Great Reductions on all Winter Goods at Harrington's, Leading Clothier.

More Majestic Steel and Malleable Iron Ranges in use in Wayne county than of all other makes combined; and the first one sold here is doing good work yet. Why buy something you know nothing about, only what the dealer tells you, when you can find out by asking your neighbor about a majestic, after years of faithful service.

A. N. Matheny meets all competition.

Maple sugar and maple syrup, at Gandy's.

Ranges and cook stoves all styles and prices. Terwilliger Bros.

Hay for sale! Inquire of C. E. GIBBS, LEWIS, Wayne, Neb.

I still have three houses for sale and a few lots in Wayne, and twenty-four acres of land. All will go at a bargain. J. H. GOLL.

ADVERTISED LETTER LIST. Wayne, Neb., Jan. 27th, 1904. Letters.

Ernest C. Archer. Ernest C. Archer. Frans Bronckhorst. Mrs. Gottlieb Ego. Geo. Hansen. Geo. Hess. Edward Middleton. Lorraine Warner.

Parties calling for advice will please say "advertised." W. H. McNeal, P. M.

COLLEGE NOTES.

That farmers' institute comes Friday and Saturday of next week.

Prof. Estell was up from Winfield Saturday calling on college friends.

Messrs. Pryor and Owens, of Winside, former college boys, were over-Sunday guests of the college.

After a three weeks' visit at her home in Kennedy, Iowa, Miss Bundy returned to her studies Tuesday.

Mr. Sellentin and Messrs. Davis and Wilson of Genoa, are students entering this week who have come to us for the first time.

Among old students returning for work this week we notice John Malone of Tilden and Miss Lottie Robertson of Holt county.

Miss Rena Olmsted returned from Emerson Saturday and has since been suffering from the gripe, thereby lengthening her absence from college.

Prof. Vaught and Tom Latrobe were elected by the Y. M. C. A. last Sunday as delegates to the state meeting which occurs in Lincoln next week.

Misses Kate and Lizzie Herrity, Miss Stayton, and Messrs. Wendt and Stading returned to school Monday after an absence at their respective homes for from one to four weeks.

A few students are suffering with colds and other slight ailments incident to the excessive cold weather of the past week, but on the whole the health of the student body is excellent.

Rev. Wright gave the students a splendid address at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Sunday. Departing a little from the beaten line of the clergyman, his address was none the less a great inspiration to better living.

Forty students are now taking the observation work at the ward school building. The teachers of the public school find these visits helpful rather than otherwise so far, and the students feel that they are to be greatly benefited by the daily observations.

The geological cabinet has been enriched this week by the addition of a portion of a geologic table that fell near the western tip of Knox county in 1898. The specimen was presented by Mr. Page of Page, Neb., who owns the original, weighing 400 pounds, and for whose kindness the institution is greatly indebted.

Every student and citizen of Wayne, should hear Mr. King's talk on "Agriculture, Education" at the court house Friday night of next week. The lecturers sent out to our farmers' institutes are always able men and our people should show their appreciation by attending as many of the sessions of the institute as possible.

CHURCH NOTES.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH. Sunday morning service at 10:45 o'clock. Evening service at 7:30, subject "Our Companions," being the second in a series on "Voices which mold character." Young people's service at 8:30 led by Miss Etta Nicholas. Junior Union at 8:00 p. m.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH. "The Value of Enthusiasm" subject for Sunday morning. On the evening "Seeing Christ before seeing death" All are cordially invited. Sunday school after the morning service. Junior Sp. m. Seniors 6:30 p. m. Prayer service Wednesday 7:30 p. m. The prayer and sympathy of the church are with Mr. and Mrs. R. James in their bereavement.

THE ART EXHIBIT. Following are a few favorable comments on the pictures to be exhibited in Wayne, February 4, 5 and 6:

"The finest collection ever gathered together in this country."—Boston Transcript.

"Genuine, artistic merit in the quality, for which the pictures have been chosen."—New York Post.

"The collection of photographs and photographs of famous paintings now on exhibition in the high school is considered the finest ever presented in St. Louis."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"There is history, poetry, nature, religion and all that is lovely in life represented by the masters of old and modern times."—Detroit Journal.

FREE VOLPP RE-ELECTED. Following proceedings of the meeting of the Sons of Herman at Fremont were published in this morning's dailies:

The biennial convention of the Sons of Herman, which convened late yesterday, was concluded tonight with a banquet at Turner hall. About eighty delegates have been in attendance at today's session. Pender was chosen for the meeting place in 1905, receiving thirty-five votes, as against thirty for Omaha and fifteen for Grand Island.

These officers were elected for the biennium: Grand president, Fred Volpp, Wayne; first vice president, John Mathey, Nebraska City; second vice president, George Hoffman, Scribner; secretary, J. H. Lehman, Bloomfield; grand treasurer, Carl E. Hede and August Bostcher, Columbus; and August Brunsman, Norfolk. Representatives supreme lodge, John Schindler, Stanton; Edna Volpp, Wayne, and John Mathey, Nebraska City.

A proposition to change the age limit on insurance policies from 50 to 55 failed to carry. During the banquet a new lodge was organized and 500 new members taken in.

If you want bargains see Randall's in a water and window display. One hundred new things for only a dime.

MID-WINTER

Clearance Sale.

Cloaks, Suits, Skirts, Blankets, Comforts

at less than first cost. A fine $15 coat now $9; a $12.50 coat at $6.50; have a few fine black suits, were $16.50 and $15—they now go at $8.50. Only a few left. Come quick if you want bargains.

AT AHERNS'

Bring Back The Empty Sack

if you are not satisfied and get your money back is the guarantee under which is sold. Try a sack with your next order.

"Sleepy Eye Cream Flour"

Ralph Rundell,

The Cash Grocer

MILDNER'S

Is the place to go for your Fine Wines, Liquors and Cigars. Choicest Bottled Beers, and Finest Keg Beer always on tap. Our Wines and Whiskies are the best and we can make you an exceedingly low price on them when taken in gallon lots or more. Our Bottled Beers were bottled expressly for family use. When wanting something in this line that is particularly nice call us on the telephone and ask for a case of the famous EDELWEIS BEER, which we will deliver to your home free of charge. Also carry a full line of high grade cigars.

Wayne, Neb.

FLEETWOOD & JOHNSON, Funeral Director and Embalmer

Calls answered day or night. Residence first door north of Catholic parsonage.

Ayer's Pills

Ayer's Pills. Ayer's Pills. Ayer's Pills. Keep saying this over and over again. The best laxative in the world. BUCKINGHAM'S DYE. Wash your moustache or beard. A beautiful brown or rich black dye.

AN INSPIRATION OF THE SEASON.

—Williamsport, Pa.

A BALLAD OF OLD SONGS.

Like a song and love is sweet, Sing me that to the old refrain, Laughing lips with rippling feet, Pattering music like drops of rain, Rattle rattles our weary brain, Oh, for the ballad of surge and sway, Words that were like a field of grain, Where are the songs of yesterday?

Jack's First Proposal

It was Jack's doing. But as Jack had been responsible for every unusual thing that had happened in the neighborhood ever since the day he was born, it was not surprising that he began to feel a nestful of young fellows and letting them loose in school while the superintendent was making a tour of inspection. Miss Brown, the new teacher, sent a note to the principal, asking him to call at the schoolhouse after school hours. Mr. Munroe grumbled and went. He stayed an hour, and when he went away said that he would like to call occasionally and talk over Jack's welfare.

COLLEGE BOYS AND MONEY.

Something of the Cost of Getting Through the High School. A recent issue of the New York Herald devotes a page to the subject. "Wealth and Work in College Life" in which some interesting statements are made. It says, for instance, that the class that was graduated at Yale last spring numbered many young millionaires and many others who will inherit great wealth. This class in four years spent $1,104,920, an average for each man of $4,316. By way of contrast, it mentions the fact that some students in the class have gotten along on as little as $350 a year. The wealthiest member of the class was Gifford Alexander Cochran, of Yonkers, N. Y. Another rich member was Robert McCormick, McCormick, son of Robert McCormick, United States ambassador to Russia, and a grandson of Joseph T. McCormick, who founded the Chicago Tribune. Other rich members were Franklin Parrell, Jr., of Ansonia, Conn., son of a well-known manufacturer; Stephen Garfield Clark, of Cooperstown, N. Y., whose mother recently married Bishop Henry C. Potter; Henry Wilford De Puy, a steel and coal promoter. The graduating class of Harvard last spring was conspicuous in its lack of wealthy students or members of wealthy families. The great majority at Yale and Harvard are poor men, many of them working their way through their college courses. Dr. Kitchel, at the head of the Yale Bureau of Self Help, says that more than $30,000 is actually given at Yale to students needing aid. A part of the work of the bureau is to assist students in getting work and making themselves self-supporting. The cost of getting through Yale University is stated as follows: Lowest per annum, $350; general average, $445; very liberal, $800. Of those working their way through the courses last year twenty-five were in the senior class, twenty-four in the junior class, thirty-two in the sophomore, and thirty-one in the freshman class.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

Some women save money for men by not marrying them. It seems an awful lot worse to jump out and turn on the heat than to stay in bed and keep cold. It is human nature to be dissatisfied, because there is no swimming in January and no skating in July. A woman wears a veil, like a good many other things, to cover, not to hide, her charms. The reason a woman never balances her check book is because she knows the cashier will never agree with her because he is never right. Maybe if women were not so busy with their mouths in another way they would really learn to snicker. When a woman says a man treats her brutally she means she can't make him give in to an argument even by crying. When a woman brings about a thoughtful child she has means he forgot to pull his tail out of the cat times. Nothing makes a man feel so queer when the minister calls, as to hear his wife tell him all the signs their father has noticed in the children of a very religious spirit. The funniest of all is the near-sighted man who tries to look at the foot of a woman of 50 crossing the street. —New York Press.

NO SUCH THING AS EQUALITY.

By Whitelaw Reid, Journalist. A grave charge, amounting to a distinct degeneration, in the average American character, is the extravagant notion never held in the days of our fathers, that this is a land of equality and that one man is as good as another. It has never been a land of equality, and never will be in this country or any other in this life of any other, till the just God turns unjust and the creature who does it becomes in his eyes as the creature that does well. The legend declares he is just as good as the man that has outstepped him, and that he is the victim of a monstrous injustice in being left behind. The spendthrift adds it, iniquitous, since one man is as good as another, that he should be poor and needy, while the frugal and careful neighbor that started on an equal level with him is free from want. The idler swaggers up to his employer with the declaration that since one man is as good as another it is an imposition to pay him any less than the industrious workman at his side and that he will prove and maintain it by logic you can't resist. It sometimes appears that if any man has the admitted power to rule it is the ignorant man, the idle man, the vicious man. To him nearly every worldly way person seems to think it prudent to bow, while the other must obey or else be snubbed or treated with contempt.

LOST IN AN OLD WORKING.

Misadvent Miner Nearly Meets Death in An Abandoned Mine. For five days recently Tom Morrow, a miner of Joplin, Mo., was lost in some disused chambers of an abandoned mine. He was crazy when he found his way out, and his black hair had turned gray. Morrow is a miner with eccentricities, and a month ago he told his wife he believed he could go under the city of Joplin by following the drifts of abandoned shafts. She thought it a wild dream of his and paid no attention, but when he disappeared with the family lantern she knew that he was carrying out the idea suggested some time before. When he had been absent a day or two she became alarmed and his friends were informed of his disappearance. They were not anxious to enter the underground path themselves and took no steps to find him, but waited for his return.

Though a maniac when found, Morrow's reason is returning, and he has some recollection of what occurred. It seems that during the early part of his journey he suddenly came upon a body of men working. They did not see him, and he beat a retreat. At another time he came to a shaft that descended from the drift in which he was walking. Although he was already many feet beneath the surface of the earth he descended still further into the ground. It was after going down into these deep drifts that he completely lost his bearings. In vain he searched for the shaft through which he had entered, and he did not find it until he had reached the end of the shaft. He fell into a hole in the wall of drift and stone. How he ever escaped from this underground tomb he does not remember. It was while in these passages that his lantern failed him. For four days he hid the time by striking matches and holding them near the face of his watch. Then the matches gave out and he lost all reckoning of time.

It baffles his wife and friends to know how he effected his escape from the underground prison. They think that perhaps after he had become deranged an instinct came to him which directed him in the right course. Morrow thinks that he covered a distance of many miles. He came out of a cave a mile from the opening through which he entered.

HIS NAME IS AN INCUBUS.

Colored Man Couldn't Prosper With His National Cognomen. An old colored man called on Judge Rufus B. Cowing of New York City the other day and in asking for advice supplied the court with a good story. "What I've come to inculcate, judge, is this: What must I do to change my name? When I find that I've weighed down wif and progenom that's bound to kill mah trade what mus' I do?" "You wish to change your name?" inquired Judge Cowing. "And why?" "Cause mah name is Failure. Yes, sah, dat's mah name. I see dh white-watcher and dat name jes' queers me." "Very well, uncle. Why not use the first letter of your name?" suggested the court. "Dat's wuss," grunted the old man. "I've tried dat. I had mah big sign painted, 'A. Failure,' and mah trade left me." "The initial letter does make an unhappy combination," agreed the judge. "But I'll tell you what to do. Use your first name and then people will not notice the last name so much."

PROGRESSIVE FORGETFULNESS.

"One of the consolations of advancing years," said a man well past middle age to a correspondent of the Indianapolis Journal, "is the privilege we take unto ourselves of josting on the subject with people just a few years older. 'For instance,' he continued, 'last night I took dinner with an uncle, aged ninety years, and enjoyed it immensely. I love to hear old men talk, and this is my only great-uncle. Well, my great-uncle Elias told a good many stories of old times, and they were good stories, too, but he repeated himself now and then. 'My younger uncle, also Uncle Elias, who was present, got a trifle testy after a while, no doubt because he did not get a chance to talk quite as much as usual, and he muttered to me: 'Gracious goodness, that makes six times Uncle Elias has told about how he once got even with a schoolteacher who whipped him when he was a boy. Old men get awfully forgetful.' 'That's so,' I said. 'This makes three times you've said to me that Uncle Elias has told that tale six times.'"

HER EXPERIENCE.

"They say," remarked the young girl, "that a sensible business man is apt to act foolish when in love." "Yes, that's right," replied the elder lady. "A man will make a perfect idiot of himself over his wife so long as she doesn't ask him for money!"

IN KANSAS.

"We found the native taking great strides toward the cyclone cellar." "Why are you going in there?" he asked. "My wife is coming," he gasped. "She isn't a cyclone." "Isn't she, now? You don't know my wife."

A SUGGESTION.

Jimblicute—Sag, have you forgotten that $10 you borrowed of me some weeks ago? Bobalong—Oh, no; I still have it in mind. Jimblicute—Well, don't you think it would be a good idea to pay up and release your mind?

AN IMPOSSIBLE SITUATION.

Flapper—Why does he object to his wife going out alone in her motor car? Flapper—Because he can't see how one unmanageable thing can manage another.—Modern Society.

Many a man neglects his family in order to pose as a public benefactor.

PAPERS BY THE PEOPLE

DEGENERACY AS A FACTOR OF ADVANCE.

By Dr. James G. Kiernan. The human body is a union of organs whose balance constitutes health, but whose diseased balance leads to disease. As Arosop, St. Paul, and, later, Roux recognized, war will occur between the members unless they be held in check by a well balanced nervous system. Organs and structures normally sacrifice their individual life for the benefit of the body as a whole. Where such sacrifice is not made, cancer, for example, occurs. Balance of the cell community; the body, results from induced forces, but chiefly from the influence of environment on those forces at periods of stress even before birth. As a rule the organs lower in type suffer for the benefit of the higher, and in some instances, becoming useless, tend to disappear. The brain, nervous system, liver and other glands, heart and blood vessels, and the organs connected with rage increase at the expense of the bones, teeth, hair, skin and bowels.

More than once a defective child with a high intellect has been preserved for years of usefulness through the proper training at the periods of stress which its defects enforced. Charles Darwin from a heavy heritage of nerve disorder was preserved thereby from the strain of school of medical practice and of business. At school Darwin displayed scientific tendencies, and therefore took much outdoor exercise. During his term at Cambridge the same proclivities appeared. Aided by his natural science professor, Darwin did not loathe about his college standing. His all-round play a great part in his acceptance of the post on the Beagle, whose voyage anchored the doctrine of natural selection as expounded by Charles Darwin. Darwin thus escaped the dwarfing tendencies of the English schools and universities, though to a lesser extent than Herbert Spencer, who, born a defective youngster, had to be educated privately.

HOW NOVELISTS JUGGLE WITH SCIENCE.

By Andrew Wilson. A tolerably wide course of novel reading has fitted me to pronounce judgment on at least one phase of the fiction of the period. That particular aspect concerns the part played by scientific topics and facts in the building and developing of the plot of many modern novels. Those who have not made a special study of this topic cannot realize the extent to which science is drawn upon by the romancer. It is as if the demand for realism required to be a novel coming direct to the great fountain of facts, and drawing therefrom inspiration for his stories. The novelist, like the poet, claims, I believe, a certain amount of latitude, and he may occasionally find himself lying under the temptation to fit in scientific fact to the exigencies of his tale rather than to adopt the reverse procedure.

I remember an excellent illustration of this latter fact. It has long been supposed by the uninitiated that the eye, say, a murdered person retains the hue of his assailant. Furthermore, it is believed by many that from the dead eye a photograph of the assailant might thus be procured.

I need not point out that there was such a proceeding possible it might prove an awkward thing for an innocent person who happened to come upon the dying man and who was lured on rendering assistance. He might in certain circumstances be reasonably suspected of being himself the author of the crime. Now, a story appeared years ago in a magazine—written, if I mistake not, by one who has since attained a prominent position in dramatic literature—in which the possibility of photographing the dead eye was duly made the pivot of the tale the scientist aiding justice in the tracking of the murderer.

The other day I read a story in which the writer, with a thorough up to date appreciation of the utilization of the sensation of the hour, made the new substance, radium, the central idea of his tale. A scientist was supposed to have amassed a large quantity of the element, and a burglar, knowing its value, thought he would steal the radium. He entered the house of the scientist and proceeded to his work. But radium has its dangers, of course, and the burglar meets his fate in being practically annihilated. This, I repeat, is fiction well up to date.

Theories of heredity have not escaped the attention of philosophical novelists. There is a tremendous attraction for the writers of fiction to weave around the old saying regarding "the sins of the fathers" many a social tragedy. The child, in such a case, is regarded as being propelled onwards to his fate by influences beyond his power of control. As in the story relating the case of the black who graduated at Oxford, and who, marrying an English girl, returned as a missionary to his people, we find heredity drawn upon. The black reverted to his primitive instincts, and was one night seen by his wife taking part in a savage orgie. Needless to say, she was made to die from the shock. The influence of such impressions is surrounded by a distinct atmosphere of doubt.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A HAPPY MARRIAGE.

By Helen Adfield. A recent writer declares that there are about ninety and nine thousand plausible counterfoils of love, physical, mental and spiritual. Some of them will last for a week, some a month, some a year, or perhaps longer, but none of them, he asserts, will endure for three years. By that time the joy in each other's presence is exhausted, the harness chafes, and worst of all the incurableness of marriage dumps one, and the disillusioned husband or wife sees the future stretch as a desolating succession of gray years. "And," says he, "the vast majority of men and women are willingly or unwillingly victimized by one or another of these counterfoils. It is in the secret nature of things and it can't be helped."

In the vast majority of marriages there is more or less readjustment necessary, the transition from the romantic love of courtship to the sober, everyday affection of conjugal life. The newly wedded pair have to become acquainted intimately and thoroughly, as is possible to no other relation of life; to discover and fit themselves to one another's little peculiarities, which have heretofore been kept out of sight. To the fortunate few who are really two souls with but a single thought no such readjustment is necessary, each one is the complement of the other and neither friction nor disillusionment is possible. But with others there is usually more or less need for forbearance; to endure, to hope, and to believe, if not all things, yet enough to hurt. Disillusionment is always a painful process, and in marriage it is doubly so. It is hard to convince one's self that silver is as good as gold if only one has enough of it. When one's precious coin proves to be only burnished nickel or copper, it takes time to be thankful that the metal, such as it is, is pure and has been duly minted.

Much of the happiness and, alas, much of the misery of married life come from the fact that sensitive women are apt to hold themselves personally responsible for the words and acts of the men whom they love and rejoice or suffer accordingly. Where friendship and love unite, each strengthening and sustaining the other, there is the ideal marriage as the Creator instituted it when he made the first woman as a helpmeet for the first man, not the modern partnership where the husband provides the income and the wife spends it.

PECULIAR CHARACTER, FAMOUS IN PENNSYLVANIA OIL REGIONS

The death of G. F. Lewis, familiarly known throughout western Pennsylvania as "Popcorn" Lewis, which occurred recently at Jefferson, Ohio, marked the passing of a character well known throughout Western Pennsylvania during the oil days, once possessed of great wealth, and probably the only individual who ever owned an entire railroad. During his early manhood Lewis amassed a fortune by selling popcorn on the streets of Cleveland. The sobriquet of "Popcorn" Lewis followed him to the early oil fields, along Oil Creek, where he increased his fortune. He became interested in the building of the old Oil Creek Railroad, running from Oil City to Buffalo. Later he put his money into a road from Corry to Buffalo, which was a few years ago absorbed by the Pennsylvania. Soon after its completion he bought up stock he became sole owner of the road.

Nothing, Lewis made his home at Corry, where he built a fine home and lived until about six years ago, when he went to Cleveland. Always eccentric, he became more so as he aged. He was a figure that always commanded respect. Tall and spare, but of erect carriage, he for years appeared dressed in the same manner—a coat of royal purple, cut after the style of a Prince Albert, fastened with buttons made from ten-dollar gold pieces, bearing his monogram; a peculiar-shaped light felt, while a covered basket of the "picnic" style swung on his arm. What he carried in his basket is probably known only by his immediate family.

For many years Lewis' fortune dwindled considerably, and his magnificent home was finally disposed of. He retained sufficient to spend his remaining days in comfort, but it was generally supposed that his wealth had vanished, though where or how was always a mystery. He is survived by a son, W. R. Lewis, who still resides at Corry, where he is classed as one of the town's respected citizens.

"PEOPLE OF THE ABYSS."

In Great Britain, 950 Out of Every 1,000 Die "on Public Charity." Mr. London, in his "People of the Abyss," tells us that in Lesser London over 2,200,000 people receive twenty-one shillings or less a week for each family, and the family is reckoned at five persons. He tells us that one out of every four people who die in London, and 30 out of every 1,000 in the "Dun" are "laid off." His "on public charity" are that 300,000 people in London live in one-room tenements—an average

"DENIOGRAPHIST" WRITES WITH HIS TEETH

A newspaper man in Connecticut who writes with his teeth is proving that luck carries the day in spite of the most adverse circumstances. Mr. Louis Schuelke, of Banker Hill, Waterbury, has never had the use of his arms or hands, so he taught his feet to grasp and to hold, and bow, with pen or brush adjusted firmly in those heavy fingers as a correspondent. The pictures he produces are of considerable merit, and the Waterbury Republican has him on its books as a correspondent. Mr. Schuelke uses penholders of various shapes, tapering somewhat toward the pen end, and slightly flattened where it enters the mouth; another is bent in the middle, allowing the pen to move on the paper at a comfortable angle; still another has a cross bar at the end for a moultpiece, so as to admit of a firm grip by the teeth and lips. He writes with surprising rapidity, the pen being driven by quick, firm motions of the head. His usual writing could not be distinguished from a plain round hand.

age of five to a room. He tells us that 30,000 homeless walk the streets of London every night. He says that in the United Kingdom 37,500,000 people out of 40,000,000 receive less than $60 a month for each family; that 1,000,000 are in daily receipt of poor-law relief; that 8,000,000 have only a week's wages between them and starvation; that 500 hereditary paupers own one-fifth of England, and that they and their dependents spend every year $1,500,000,000, or 32 per cent of the total wealth of the country, in the maintenance of their vast estates and the gratification of their personal luxury. The primary cause for this condition of things, Mr. London thinks, is the struggle for commercial supremacy, and the immediate cause gross and stupendous mismanagement on the part of the governing class. From Mr. London's point of view, "the political machine known as the British Empire is running down," but he sees a smiling future for England when the discarded machinery shall finally be cast up on the scrap heap.—Philadelphia Post.

Auto-Cars for Smugglers.

The latest use to which the high-speed automobile has been put in France is smuggling. A few days ago a motor car with a large quantity of tobacco on board rushed past the customs house station at Hazelbeck at sixty miles an hour, and had disappeared before the astonished custom-house officers had realized what had happened. The automobile was carrying the automobile with smoking gear that it was impossible to follow.

Heads at the Concord.

He—By George, but hadn't she got a splendid voice? She—Mercy! Just see how her skin hangs.—Boston Transcript. A bachelor may have 20 chances for being hit, but the average married man has to dig up two or three dozens a week. Without his weekly wife he could

Ayer's

For coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, weak throats, weak lungs, consumption, take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Cherry Pectoral

Always keep a bottle of it in the house. We have been saying this for 60 years, and still have the doctors.

Small text describing the benefits of the medicine.

The Lungs

Daily action of the bowels is necessary. Aid nature with Ayer's Pills.

D. A. DANIELSON, JEWELER. Second door west of Post Office.

L. S. WINSOR, BLACKSMITH. Wayne, Neb.

Uses the "Neverslip" shoe for horses.

R. & FORTNER, WAYNE MEAT MARKET. First class meats always on hand.

Also dealers in hides, furs and pelts.

J. H. M. CRAVEN, PHOTOGRAPHER. Cabinet Photos a Specialty. Gallery over Post Office.

L. W. ALTER, BONDED ABSTRACTOR. Real Estate and Loans. Insurances and Collections. Opposite Love Hotel. Wayne, Neb.

E. A. LUNDBURG, Lawyer.

Over First National Bank.

A. A. WELCH, A. R. DAVIS, WELCH & DAVIS, ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Wayne, Neb.

Office up stairs over the Citizens Bank.

J. J. WILLIAMS, PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Wayne, Nebraska.

Office over the Wayne National Bank.

G. A. NIEMAN, PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON. Galvino and Faradic Electricity and Oxygen. Treatment of Chronic Diseases a Specialty. Calls Night or day receive prompt attention.

H. G. LEISENRING, M. D., SURGEON AND PHYSICIAN. X-Ray Examinations made at office or bedside of patient.

Office 3 Doors West of Post Office. Wayne, Nebraska.

CENTRAL MEAT MARKET

VOLPP BROS. Props. Beef, Pork, Mutton, Veal, Chickens, Fish and Game. Highest price paid for hides, etc.

When Wanting Insurance You should see W. F. Assenheimer, of Altona.

an agent for The Continental Fire Insurance Company of New York one of the strongest old line companies in existence.

BUY THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE

Do not be deceived by those who advertise a $30.00 Sewing Machine for $20.00. This kind of a machine can be bought from us or any of our dealers from $15.00 to $18.00.

WE MAKE A VARIETY. THE NEW HOME IS THE BEST. The Feed determines the strength or weakness of Sewing Machines. The Double Feed combined with other strong points makes the New Home the Best Sewing Machine to buy.

Write for CIRCULARS showing the different styles of Sewing Machines and manufacturers and prices before purchasing.

THE NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO. CHICAGO, ILL.

Agents: S. N. Y., Chicago, Ill., Atlanta, Ga., Dallas, Tex., San Francisco, Ca. FOR SALE BY S. DAVIES, Wayne, Neb.

Für unsere Deutschen Leser.

Unter der Verwaltung von Rosina Wegler.

George Schalmus ist auf der Krankenliste.

Frau Franz Kruger ist seit einer Woche ernstlich krank.

Abtheiler Orth war letzte Woche in Pender und besuchte alle Freunde daselbst.

Herr J. P. Gull verkaufte seinen in der Offite der Stadt gelegenen Bauplan an einen Herr Wiedenfeld zum Preise 105 Dollars.

Willie Bliss hat sich von den Folgen seines Falles vom Telephon Posten soweit erholt, daß er den Wagen für Straßen- & Neely fahren kann.

Herr Otto Tappert der Vertreter der Standard Oil Compagnie von Norfolk kam herauf und hielt im unserm Saal einen Besuch ab.

Herr Fritz Denker reiste mit seiner Familie am Montag nach Boicerville, Wisconsin, wo er, wie schon berichtet, ein Eisenwaaren-Geschäft beginnen wird.

Herr Bohmann, der Herausgeber der Bloomfield Germania hielt sich am Montag einige Stunden in der Stadt auf, als er nach Fremont reiste.

Frau Claus Othe hatte letzte Woche das Unglück zu fallen und fiel mit der Wange auf den Rand eines Siners, sich dabei Schmerzhaft verletzend.

Frau Wittne Ulrich, deren Mann vor etwa einem Jahre verstarb, wird am 9. Februar Auktion ihrer Sachen halten, und geben dann in die Stadt zu ziehen.

Ende vergangener und anfangs dieser Woche erlebten wir wieder ein Mal eine heftige Winter Attacke, bei welcher das Thermometer 25 Grad unter Null ging.

Herr Johann Kofader, neun Meilen nordwestlich von der Stadt wohnhaft, wird am 17. Februar Auktion halten und geben sich dann entweder in Wayne oder Carroll niederzulassen.

Herr Pastor Friedrich Schwarz von Schuyler, in Herrn Pastor Rantewitzers Nachfolger in Carroll geworden. Letzterer hat seiner Gesundheit halber eine Stelle in Colorado angenommen.

Herr Richard Kipe, acht Meilen südlich von Wayne wohnhaft hat Geschichte halber am Montag in Wayne, Er letzte Woche von einem Besuch bei Verwandten in Arlington zurück.

Herr Milo Krempfle ließ letzten Sonntag sein kleines Töchterchen taufen; es empfing die Namen: Germaine Wiede Henriette. Ratten waren Herr Herman Krempfle, Frau Wiede Othe und Herr Heinrich Othe.

Herr Otto Baumann einer der wohlhabendsten Bürger in West Point, er war Präsident der West Point National Bank, der Electric Light Company und der Brauerei Gesellschaft, starb plötzlich am Donnerstag letzter Woche.

Die Herren Feig Volpp, Anton Lerner, Fein, Goll, Aug. Wiltner gingen am Montag Abend nach Fremont, um bei der jährlichen Delegaten Tage der Germanen-Söhne beizuwohnen. Bei dieser Begegnung werden die Großbeamten der Staatsloge von Nebraska gewählt.

Die Gebrüder Wilson, die in den vergangenen sechs Jahren ein Colonial- und Eisenwaaren-Geschäft hier betrieben, haben ihren Ausverkauf beendet und die noch verbleibenden Waaren nach ihren Läden in Plainview gefahren. Der ältere der beiden Brüder wird der Plainview-Laden in Zukunft betreiben. Samuel, der jüngere Bruder bleibt einweilen noch hier wohnen.

Herr Louis Echtenland von Arlington kam herauf am Sonnabend Nachmittag, um einige Freunde in der Deutschen Niederlassung nordöstlich von Wayne zu besuchen. Er wird Ende dieser Woche heimkehren und zwar mit einer jungen Frau, der Tochter des Herrn Heinrich Henrichs. Die Hochzeit des jungen Paares findet heute, als am Donnerstag im Hause der Braut statt. Gefälligen Besuchs.

Es finden außer den schon erwähnten zwei Auktionen der Wittwe Ulrich und des Herrn Kofaders noch zwei öffentliche Verkäufe von Deutschen Farmen veranfaßt. Nämlich die des Herrn Christoph Sobmann am 19. Februar c. a. und die des Herrn Gehr. Poppenhagen ein und einhalb Meilen südlich von der Stadt gelegen. Ersterer begibt sich mit Herrn Georg Rohrer in Carroll in Compagnie, letzterer geht wieder in sein alte Heimat, Millard, Douglas County. Seine Farm von 160 Acker hat er an Herrn C. Lutz verkauft den Preis zu 60 Dollars.

Scham! Die nie der Deutschen Sprache. Die, die Mutter zu dir sprach, Als Du einst in ihrem Schooße Für Dein Leben wurde nach; Scham! Die nie der ihrern Laute Derer, die ihr nicht geliebt Mit der besten reinsten Liebe. Die es hat auf Erden gibt Und wo Schiedigkeit als Recht, Rohheit man als Sünde preist, Erbe die und Neugier die, Deutlich! Allding und Deutlich!

PERSONAL MENTION.

George Schalmus is on the sick list this week.

Mrs. Frank Kruger has been quite sick the past week.

Geo. Oman came down from Winde yesterday morning.

Prof. M. R. Snodgrass, was a Norfolk visitor Saturday.

Geo. Rowher of Carroll, was a Wayne visitor Friday.

Postmaster Baker, of Carroll, was a Wayne visitor Friday.

Chas. Thompson was doing business in Wakefield Tuesday.

Judge Boyd of Neligh visited Wayne between trains Friday.

Chas. Nies returned Monday from a business trip to Omaha.

Wm. Huse came down from Norfolk Sunday, returning Monday.

Editor Peck of the Randolph Times was a Wayne visitor Monday.

Lincoln Folz went to Spencer, Neb., last Friday, returning Monday.

Robt. Fanski of Hancock, was a Wayne visitor Saturday afternoon.

A. B. Terwilliger attended a social gathering in Wakefield Monday night.

W. J. Ferry of South Omaha, was in Wayne Saturday afternoon on business.

D. F. Strickland and Frank Strahan attended M. S. Moore's sale at Sholes last Friday.

August Hansen, who lives five miles from town, was doing business in Wayne Tuesday.

Miss Etta Beckenhauer returned Saturday from Sioux City, where she is employed as a stenographer.

W. J. Barolay, of Sioux City, arrived here Tuesday to enter the employ of Welch & Davis as stenographer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Strahan and Mrs. T. J. Steele left yesterday morning for Malvern, Iowa, to visit relatives.

Ben Sewell, of Deadwood, S. D., who has been visiting relatives here the past week, left for his home Monday morning.

Mrs. J. W. Mason went to Stanton on Monday to visit for a few days with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. E. Mason.

Assessor Ziegler returned last Friday from Lincoln where he attended a meeting of all the assessors of the state.

A. G. Powers went over to Ponca Saturday to spend Sunday with his family, returning to Wayne Monday morning.

J. G. Nohardt, editor of the Bancroft Blade, was in Wayne Monday evening, visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ouller.

Geo. Wilbur, deputy county clerk, went to Omaha Tuesday to receive treatment for his eyes which have been bothering him lately.

Evan Evans and John Morris attended the state farmers' institute at Lincoln last week. They were in Wayne Friday on their return home.

T. A. Berry, traveling auditor for the Edwards & Bradford Lumber Co., stopped in Wayne Monday between trains on his way to Randolph.

Mrs. Peter Coyle of Tekamah, visited her daughter, Mrs. Moran, at this place last night. This morning she went to Ponca to visit her son, Jas. Coyle.

Richard Ritso, who lives eight miles south of here, was in Wayne on business Monday. He returned last week from visiting relatives at Arlington, Neb.

Editor Lohman, editor of the Bloomfield Germania, stopped in Wayne Monday on his way to Fremont to attend the grand lodge of Sons of Hermann.

Dr. and Mrs. McIntyre departed Saturday morning for their future home in California. They are accompanied by the best wishes of many friends.

Fred Donker and family left Monday morning for Bloisville, Wisconsin, where they will make their future home. The best wishes of many friends go with them.

Fred Volpp, Anton Lerner, August Wittler, Henry Goll, Dr. Nieman and Gus Zloman attended the meeting of the grand lodge of Sons of Hermann in Fremont Tuesday.

O. F. Tappert, of Norfolk, who has been a representative of the Standard Oil Co., for twenty five years, was doing business in Wayne Tuesday and made the HERALD a pleasant visit.

Miss Lizzie Calhoun, who has been employed at Plattview, Neb., the past six months, was visiting friends here from Thursday until Saturday, when she left for her home at Luton, Iowa.

Miss Osa Albee went to Wausa Friday to visit her sister, Mrs. Miller, who has been very ill. She returned Monday, accompanied by Mrs. Miller's little girl. She left her sister much improved in health.

Louis Bohrenkamp, of Arlington, arrived Saturday, afternoon to visit for a few days with friends in the German settlement northwest of Wayne. He will return home the latter part of the week, accompanied by his wife, the daughter of Henry Henrichs, to whom he will be married today at the home of the bride's parents.

FOR SALE. Two Polled Durham bulls; Hillsdale Commaiser No. 188661, 5 years old in April, and Red Captain No. 196821, will be two years in June. Good individuals for price. Call at our place 4 miles west and one mile south of Winde or write us, L. H. S. & F. D. No. 3, East, Neb.

Wonderful Nerve.

Is displayed by many a man enduring pain of accidental cuts, wounds, bruises, burns, blisters, sore feet or stiff joints. But here's a word of it. Bucklen's Arnica Salve will kill the pain and cure the trouble. It's the best salve on earth for Piles, too. 25c. at A. F. Lane's, Druggist.

A Vest Pocket Doctor. Never in the way, no trouble to carry, easy to take, pleasant and never failing in results are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. A vial of these little pills in the vest pocket is a constant guarantee against headache, biliousness, torpid liver and all of the ills resulting from constipation. They tonic and strengthen the liver. Sold by E. J. Raymond.

What's In a Name? Everything is in the name when it comes to Fish Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt, of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to many worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's genuine. Sold by E. J. Raymond.

Just One Minute. One Minute Cough Cure gives relief in one minute, because it kills the microbes which tickle the mucous membrane, causing the cough, and at the same time clears the phlegm, draws out the inflammation and loosens and soothes the affected parts. One Minute Cough Cure strengthens the lungs, wards off pneumonia and is a harmless and never failing cure in all curable cases of Coughs, Colds and Croup. One Minute Cough Cure is pleasant to take, harmless and gentle for young and old. Sold by E. J. Raymond.

Cured After Suffering 10 Years. B. F. Hays, Supt. Mami Circle & M'g. Co., Middletown, O., suffered for years with dyspepsia. He spent hundreds of dollars for medicine and with doctors without receiving any permanent benefit. He says, "One night while feeling exceptionally bad I was about to throw down the evening paper when I saw an item in the paper regarding the merits of K. dol Dyspepsia Cure. I concluded to try it and while I had no faith in it I felt better after the second dose. After using two bottles I am stronger and better than I have been in years, and I recommend K. dol Dyspepsia Cure to my friends and acquaintances suffering from stomach-trouble." Sold by E. J. Raymond.

SPECIALIST OF REPUTATION

YEARS OF SPECIAL PRACTICE AFFORDING EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITIES.

FACTS WORTH MENTIONING BY DR. CALDWELL

Several years ago, while in private practice, I thought it wrong to advertise simply because I had been told and had not had experience on my part. I was about to throw down the evening paper when I saw an item in the paper regarding the merits of K. dol Dyspepsia Cure. I concluded to try it and while I had no faith in it I felt better after the second dose. After using two bottles I am stronger and better than I have been in years, and I recommend K. dol Dyspepsia Cure to my friends and acquaintances suffering from stomach-trouble." Sold by E. J. Raymond.

Through "Dixie Flyer" sleeping car from St. Louis to Jacksonville and Chicago to Nashville, the latter connecting enroute with through sleeping car from Nashville to Nashville, Chattanooga and Atlanta.

Hot Springs, Arkansas. Through sleeping car between Chicago and Hot Springs carried on the Central's fast Pullman vestibule "limited" train. Send for booklet describing this most interesting of health and pleasure resorts.

WELL PARTICULAR concerning all of the above can be had of agents of the Illinois Central, or by addressing the nearest of our undesignated representatives of the "Central."

H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago, Ill. F. MERRY, A. G. P. A., Dubuque, Ia. (April 1)

Citizens' Bank

Incorporated. A. T. REAR, J. V. FRENCH, President, Vice President. D. C. MAIN, J. F. FRENCH, Cashier, Asst. Cash.

Capital and Undivided Profits $100,000. D. E. KATH, R. A. Welch, J. N. French, J. H. H. F. French, A. L. Tucker, J. H. H. H. H.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Illinois Central R. R. DIRECT TO HAVANA

Via Illinois Central R. R. to New Orleans and the weekly Southern Pacific S. S. "Lionelina" to Havana. Leave Chicago and Cincinnati Friday morning, leave St. Louis and Louisville Friday noon, arrive New Orleans Saturday 10 a. m. and Saturday p. m. arriving at Havana Monday morning. Round-trip and one-way through tickets at unusually low rates. Free Illinois Central R. R. Illustrated Folder on Cuba, giving all particulars of application.

Ocean Steamships from New Orleans. Ocean steam ships sailing from New Orleans for Mexico, Panama, Central and South America. West Indies and Europe conclusively set a special privilege, independent of the Illinois Central R. R. Send for a copy.

Mexico, California. Tour of all Mexico, via Illinois Central R. R., coast of West Coast, General Manager, American Tourist Association, Quincy, Ill. 113 Adams St., Chicago, leaves Chicago January 20. Select clientele. Limited. All exclusive privileges, independent of the Illinois Central R. R. Special Pullman vestibule train. Drawing room. 4 compartments. Library and Music Room with the largest dining car in the world, and the famous open top observation car. Special baggage car. Tickets include all expenses.

Special Tours of Mexico and California via the Illinois Central and New Orleans under the auspices of Raymond & White, will leave Chicago Friday, February 12, and St. Louis Saturday, February 13, 1904, for Mexico and California via New Orleans, including a stop-over for the Mardi Gras; also from Chicago Friday, March 4th and from St. Louis Saturday, March 5th for California via the Illinois Central and New Orleans. Entire trips inclusive of special private vestibule trains of West Pullman, with dining car service. Fascinating trips, complete in every detail.

Illinois Central weekly excursions to Los Angeles and San Francisco as follows: Via New Orleans and the Southern Route every Wednesday from Chicago; every Tuesday from Cincinnati. Via Omaha and the Seale Route every Wednesday from Chicago.

Mardi Gras

This occurs at New Orleans on February 18, 1904. For its excursion rates will be in effect to New Orleans on specific dates which your local ticket agent will be able to advise you.

New Orleans

A delightful unique city for the tourist to visit. Winter tourist rates now in effect. Double daily service and fast steam-heated Pullman trains with through sleeping cars. Buffet library-smoking car service and all meals enroute in dining cars. Ask for an illustrated booklet on New Orleans.

Gulfport, Mississippi

The Great Southern Hotel, at Gulfport, Miss., on the Mexican Gulf coast, has 200 rooms, electric light, hot and cold running water and telephone with or without bath. Steam heat and electric in every room. Reached by Pullman train from Chicago via the Illinois Central and New Orleans. Fast morning train carrying sleeping and buffet cars, with a single change of cars at Gulfport. Send for illustrated folder describing Gulfport and the hotel.

FLORIDA

Through "Dixie Flyer" sleeping car from St. Louis to Jacksonville and Chicago to Nashville, the latter connecting enroute with through sleeping car from Nashville to Nashville, Chattanooga and Atlanta.

Hot Springs, Arkansas

Through sleeping car between Chicago and Hot Springs carried on the Central's fast Pullman vestibule "limited" train. Send for booklet describing this most interesting of health and pleasure resorts.

WELL PARTICULAR concerning all of the above can be had of agents of the Illinois Central, or by addressing the nearest of our undesignated representatives of the "Central."

H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago, Ill. F. MERRY, A. G. P. A., Dubuque, Ia. (April 1)

GOOD COAL

2000 Lbs. For A Ton

We Sell The Genuine Powell's Run Hocking Lump, And Washed Nut.

The Best For Heating and Cooking

PHILLO & SON

OLDEST BANK IN WAYNE COUNTY

J. M. STRAHAN, President. F. E. STRAHAN, Vice-Pres. H. F. WILSON, Cashier. H. S. RICKLAND, Asst. Cashier.

Capital and Surplus, $100,000.

DIRECTORS: J. M. Strahan, F. E. Strahan, H. S. Ringland, George Bogart, Frank Fuller, John T. Brasler and H. F. Wilson.

DINING ROOM ELEGANCE.

The dining room is where you do the honor of your home. Three times a day, you're lucky, you and your family meet in the dining room. Half of your enjoyment is taken there, and next to your foot washings more to that enjoyment than the dining room furniture.

But elegant Dining Room Furniture doesn't necessarily mean expensive furniture. Not if you buy it here. The largest and most complete line of Dining Room Furniture will be found upon our floors, and while you marvel at the richness of design and finish, inquiry for prices will reveal that it costs not a cent more than such inferior goods.

If you are looking for Dining Room Elegance at a mighty low cost, you should see us.

Mattresses, from thick and up to the thinnest of all kinds. Prices are right.

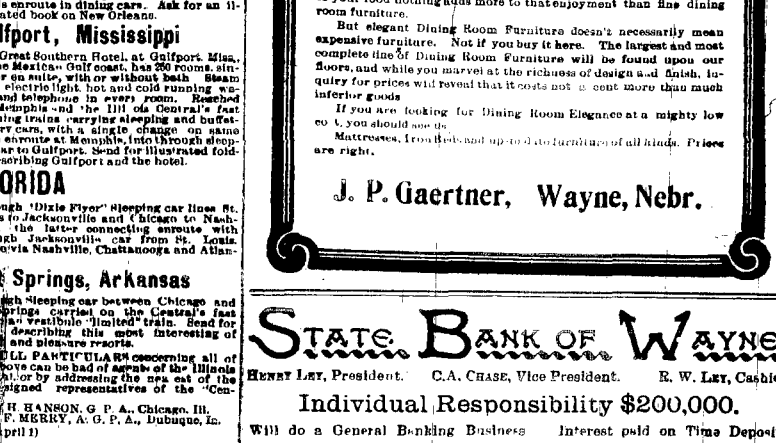

J. P. Gaertner, Wayne, Nebr.

STATE BANK OF WAYNE

HERBERT LEE, President. C. A. CHASE, Vice President. R. W. LEE, Cashier.

Individual Responsibility $200,000.

Will do a General Banking Business. Interest paid on Time Deposits.

THE WORLD IS MINE!

ON DRAUGHT AT FRANK KRUGER'S.

Wholesale and Retail Dealer.