REV. T. J. WRIGHT'S LECTURE

Children's Day at M. E. Church—Rev. P. F. Baker Preaches From Presbyterian Pulpit—Wm. Spike Adjudged Inmate and Taken to Lincoln for Treatment—Annual School Meeting Next Monday Afternoon.

The local Masonic lodge is preparing for a public installation of officers, speaker, banquet and social time tomorrow evening.

The county's new grader of an improved variety, is in the court house yard ready for business. Twelve horses are required to operate the machine.

The First National bank's statement, published in this paper last week, shows that institution to be in excellent condition—one of the most substantial and prosperous banks in the state.

Members of the Randolph ball team passed through Wayne Monday morning on their return home from Sioux City where they were defeated in a game Sunday by a score of 5 to 6.

While plastering a ceiling Monday afternoon, Gas Zieman was struck in one of his eyes by some mortar, starting inflammation that required the attention of a physician and forced him to rest from his labor for a few days.

"It will be of interest to Baptist people here to know that a student of that denomination's college at Grand Island won a scholarship at Oxford in competition with rivals from the other leading educational institutions of the state, including the university.

The order of I. O. O. F. had memorial services at the Lutheran church Sunday morning with an appropriate sermon by the pastor, Rev. Ringer. At the close of the sermon the lodge marched to the cemetery and decorated the graves of deceased members.

Congressman McCarthy writes the HERALD that he has returned from Washington to his home at Ponca, where he will remain until December 1. While there he will experience the formal ceremony of being re-elected to congress by an increased majority.

J. T. Leahy has a unique advertisement for Owl cigars in one of the display windows of his drug store. With apt and overhanging foliage, he has arranged a place for five owls which remind onlookers of the brand of cigars contained in the boxes piled up in the center.

Two horses belonging to Ang. Samuelson were struck and killed by lightning on his farm five miles northeast of Wayne, Saturday morning at 7 o'clock. His son had just started to cultivate corn when the electric bolt struck. The young man was shocked, but not seriously hurt.

The annual school meeting for the election of officers and levying assessments will be held next Monday afternoon. County Superintendent Bright says he will have statements of the valuation in the hands of directors of the different districts the last of the week, being in ample time for use next Monday.

A sociable was given Monday evening at the home of Perry Beneshoff, nine miles southwest of town, under the auspices of the Grace M. E. church. It is reported that more than 200 people were present and the event was a success in all respects. The boys' brass band of Wayne attended and furnished music.

The teachers' institute closed Friday after a session of exceptional interest and profit and the teachers returned to their homes Saturday. W. K. Kern and Anna Vander Cook, two of the instructors, also departed on that day, the former for Aurora to take part in a county institute and the latter for her home in Council Bluffs.

Wm. Spike, aged about 22 years, living eight miles south of Wayne, was brought here Saturday and adjudged insane. He was taken to Lincoln Monday by Sheriff Mears and E. Cunningham. This is the second time Spike has had to receive treatment in the asylum, from which institution he was released as cured five years ago.

At a meeting of the Presbyterian church Monday evening it was decided to extend a call to Rev. Van Dyke Wright who for six years has been serving in the college and church at Hastings. Rev. Wright was at the head of the church in Wayne for a couple of years and gave satisfaction. It is believed he will accept the pastorate here again.

Rev. P. F. Baker preached two excellent sermons in the Presbyterian church last Sunday. He will fill the pulpit again next Sunday morning and evening and return to his pastoral duties in Chicago next Monday. He has a wide circle of warm friends in Wayne who are glad of the opportunity to renew his acquaintance and hear him preach again.

Sunday was children's day at the M. E. church. In the morning the pastor preached an educational sermon and in the evening the children participated in a program of recitations, drills and music. Beautiful cut and potted flowers were neatly arranged about the pulpit and altar. The drills by the young folks and the opening address by 5-year-old Genevieve Gregg were especially meritorious and interesting. The audience filled the church.

The past week has witnessed the first scorching heat of summer. Saturday and Sunday were particularly hot, at mid-day making sufferers long for the timbered mountain side, fanned by breezes from the perpetual snow line. But refreshing rains have given relief and nights have been invariably cool. While the excessive heat is uncomfortable, its influence on growing crops is wonderfully productive, corn especially making unusual progress. The ice and ice cream dealers are also doing well.

The HERALD would suggest that Wayne entertains too extravagant an idea of what is required to win success for a celebration—say, for July Fourth—and is apt to be more lavish in preparations than necessary to meet the pleasure and approval of the public. Expensive attractions are not demanded and should be few. This does not apply now, for the Fourth this year will pass unobserved here, but should be remembered in contemplating future celebrations and especially those arranged for Independence Day anniversary.

Rev. Thos. J. Wright gave a lecture before the teachers Thursday evening, his subject being "The Idea of Progress." The attendance was large and his line of thought received close attention. He showed that everything in nature advances and that man must do likewise. There must be physical, mental and spiritual development. He spoke of the intellectual progress already made in inventions, science, art and literature. He impressed the fact that there had been great spiritual development in the heightened conception of God—that He seemed diviner than He had at any age in the history of the world. He contrasted the narrow conception of God in the Puritan days and a half century ago with the broader and higher idea of today, when His purposes are better understood. He admonished teachers to exercise great care in the development of themselves and those under them. He said their influence was greater and more permanent than that of any other class in a community and urged them to do direct it that they would develop noble characters, broad, uniformly rounded men and women.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

Dr. J. J. Williams was called to Chapin precinct last Friday to act in his official capacity as coroner over the remains of Nels Hansen who was accidentally killed by falling from a load of hay Thursday night. A jury was summoned and after an investigation, decided that Hansen's death was due to an accident.

The Carroll Index of last Friday gives the following account of the fatality: "Nels Hansen living six miles south of Carroll was found dead this morning in the road near his home. His body was covered with part of a load of hay as the wagon had upset while turning a corner. It is believed that the fall killed him. Last night he had driven to a piece of hay land he had, two miles west of Winslow, where he left the team and walked to Winslow where he stayed until nine o'clock, as one of his neighbors heard him cross the bridge by his place about an hour later. The body had lain under the load of hay all night, and the team had stood quietly all that time hitched to the wagon.

"Deceased was about 50 years old, and leaves a wife and seven children, several being boys grown up. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 12 o'clock, burial to take place in Carroll cemetery."

Beige Boy.
A small boy was riding early in the evening without a light and was stopped by a policeman, who asked him to go to the place where his light was. "Why, it's here!" exclaimed the rider in surprise.
"Yes, but it's out," solemnly asserted the patrolman.
"Well, it was lighted at the last turn."
"Why, it's out; couldn't have been lighted this evening," triumphantly announced the officer.
"Huh! That thin metal cools in a minute. I'll light that lamp and wait until it gets red-hot, put it out, then ride to the next corner and back, and when I return it'll be cold."
"All right; try it," asserted the acute policeman.
The boy lighted the lantern, waited until it grew red-hot, turned it out and started, and he is going yet.

Strong Language.
Fredericksburg, Ind., June 20.—Rev. Enoch P. Stevens of this place uses strong language in speaking of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and he gives good reasons for what he says.
"I don't praise Dodd's Kidney Pills too much," says Mr. Stevens. "They have done me so much good. I was troubled with my kidneys so much that I had to get up two or three times in the night and sometimes in the day when starting to the water house the worst would come from me before getting there. Two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me entirely.
"I have recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to many people and have never yet heard of a failure. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the kidneys for Kidney Disease and Rheumatism."
Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure the kidneys. Good kidneys ensure pure blood. Pure blood means good health.

"Yes, I suppose her dictation's all right," replied Meeker, with a deep sigh, "but it's nothing when compared with her contradiction."

Instincts of Reason.
A Pittsfield man, as a proof that plants reason, offers the following account of a vine on his premises. The vine grows in a box on the window sill. While watering it recently his daughter, a child of delicate tendril reaching out towards a nail in the side casing, she marked the position of the tendril on the wood, then she shifted the nail about an inch lower. Next day the little tendril had deflected itself very noticeably, and was again heading for the nail. The marking and shifting were repeated four or five times, always with the same result; and finally one night the tendril, which had grown considerably, managed to reach the coveted support, and was found coiled tightly about it. Meanwhile another bunch of tendrils had been making for a hook that was formerly used for a thermometer. Just before it reached its destination the young lady struck a cord across the window sash above it. It was a choice between the old love and the new; and as some vines seem to prefer a cord to anything else, it was not long in making up its mind. In a very few hours the pale, crisp, little tendrils—which, by the way, conveyed a surpassing suggestion of human fingers—had commenced to lift toward the twine; and the next day they reached it and took a firm grip.

FOOD FACTS.
What's in M. D. Leneard's.
A prominent physician of Rhode Island, went through a food experience which he makes public:
"I was my own experience that food is to be advocated Grape-Nuts food, and I also know from having prescribed it to convalescents and other weak patients that the food is a wonderful restorer and restorer of nerve and brain tissue, as well as muscle. It improves the digestion, and sick patients always gain just as I did in strength and vigor as very rapidly."
"I was in such a low state that I had to give up my work, and I went to the mountains of this State, two months there did not improve me; in fact I was not quite as well as when I left home. My food absolutely refused to sustain me, and it became plain that I must change; then I began to use Grape-Nuts food; in two weeks I could walk a mile without the least fatigue, and in five weeks returned to my home and practice, taking up hard work again. Since that time I have felt as well and strong as I ever did in my life."
"As a physician who seeks to help all sufferers, I consider it a duty to make these facts public." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
"I had to give up Grape-Nuts when the doctor said it does not seem to sustain the body, but it took miracles. There's a reason!"
"Look in each pkg. for the famous 'Little Book.' The 'Road to Wellville.'"

BLESSINGS IN DISGUISE.
Mourn not the goods that fall not to your share.
Each longed for blessing to your prayer denied
Does but give place to gift more rich and rare.
Impossible had you not thus been tried.
Grieve not when efforts fail, as fall they will;
Each purpose thwarted, is but lending you
To fields of striving, nobler, loftier still,
Which earlier success had hid from view.
To win the heights where peace and joy abide,
Our bleeding feet try many a path in vain;
But every crooked way and treacherous guide
We find, at last, has helped those heights to gain.
—Percy F. Bicknell, in Christian Register.

A FRONTIER HERO.

JOHN SANFORD was only about 14 years of age when he did the brave deed that saved a hundred lives in all probability. He was the son of a farmer who had settled on a frontier farm in Minnesota.
For some time before the opening of this story, it had been reported among the settlers of the frontier towns and neighborhoods that there was serious danger of an outbreak among the Indians. Several of the tribes had reservations in that part of the State. But because the intercourse between the white and red men had heretofore been mostly of a friendly, peaceable character, not many believed the reports and rumors of impending trouble to be well founded, therefore nothing was done to protect the settlers in case of an outbreak. Every home was practically defenseless.
One day Mr. Sanford yoked up his oxen and loaded his wife and all the children, except John and Hugh, his 12-year-old brother, into the lumber wagon, and drove off across the prairie to visit a relative who had lately settled in the State. The road they had to go over was a rough one, and as they had about thirty miles to make each way, they expected to be gone at least four or five days.
On the afternoon of the day of the family's departure the boys were surprised by a visit from Jim Crow, an Indian who had been a frequent visitor of the family from the time of its settlement there. He had given his name as Red Crow, originally, but John had rechristened him Jim Crow, and he had accepted the new name as if it were a mark of distinction, and seemed quite proud of it.
"You haven't been here for quite a long time," said John. "Where have you been all summer?"
"Long ways off," answered Jim Crow, pointing to the west. "Come back in a week. Found out something. Come to tell fodder. Where is fodder?" looking about the place in search of Mr. Sanford, whom he had always called "fodder" from hearing the children call him "father."
"Come visiting," answered John. "Won't be back for three or four days."
"Which way go?" asked Jim Crow. "That way," answered John, pointing to the east. "Gone to see a man who lives as much as thirty miles from here."
"Good," grunted Jim Crow. "Hope he stay. You go, too. Go soon's you can."
"Why?" asked John, in surprise.
Jim Crow explained to the two boys why he had come to see Mr. Sanford. The Indians were ready to break out at any time. Already they had killed several settlers on the extreme frontier limits, and burned their homes. Several tribes were expected to unite in a general uprising against the whites. Some of these had not yet agreed upon the terms of warfare proposed by the leaders of the revolt, but in all probability they would do so very soon, and as soon as a general understanding was arrived at between the tribes, the murderous work they plotted would begin in earnest.
"Mebbe to-night, mebbe next week," said Jim Crow. He had come to warn Mr. Sanford of the danger ahead, and advise him to get away from the place at once. If they were to remain, they would certainly be massacred.
"Fodder gone—you go, too," said the Indian. "No Indian that way—all this," pointing to the west, signifying that they would have no difficulty in making their escape.
In the course of the conversation Jim Crow said something that startled him quite as much as the realization of the danger at hand. As soon as the tribes got together, they would endeavor to surprise St. Mary's, which was the name of a town about twenty miles down the river. It had, perhaps, a hundred inhabitants, two-thirds of them women and children. Among them was John's grandparents, and with them Alice, his oldest sister.
"Have you any idea when they will attack the place?" asked John of Jim Crow.
"The Indian could not tell when the raid would be made, because he did not know when the expected tribes would arrive, but he was certain that it would take place very soon—any day, in fact.
"Hugh, I'll tell you what we'll do," John said to his brother. "You take old Doll and follow father up. You'll be pretty sure to overtake him somewhere on the road. I'll go down the river to St. Mary's and let the folks there know what to look out for."
"Can't do it," said Jim Crow. "I'm Jun both sides river, all along road, clear down to big bend."
The "big bend" was the distance of a river, half way to the distance to St. Mary's. Once beyond that, according to Jim Crow's knowledge of the situation, there would be no danger likely to befall the traveler, but the question was, how to get beyond it. It seemed that the Indians had camps on both sides of the river between Mr. Sanford's place and the "big bend," where the roads ran over which settlers from above would be likely to go if they became frightened and sought safety in flight.
Jim Crow was evidently in a rather nervous condition of mind, for he was anxious to be gone. He had risked a great deal in doing what he had to do, and he was not sure that he was the family who had befriended him, and he did not care to arouse the suspicion of his red brothers. Therefore he made his visit a brief one, and disappeared in the forest.

"I can't bear to think of letting the Indians kill off everybody at St. Mary's without trying to do something to warn them of their danger," said John. "If I could only get beyond the big bend!"
Just then a tree-top came floating down the river, close to the shore where they were standing. Many of its branches were above the water, and so thick were they that one could not see through them.
A plan flashed through the boy's brain. Why could he not conceal himself among the branches of the tree-top and drift down the river in it? The Indians along the shores would be likely to suspect that it gave shelter to anyone. They probably were not suspicious, or on the lookout as yet, believing, as no doubt they did, that the whites had no anticipation of trouble ahead.
"I'll do it," he decided, and he jumped into a boat and rowed out into the river after the tree-top, which he succeeded in pushing up against the bank, where it anchored itself among the bushes, temporarily.
He explained his plan to Hugh. "You'll have no trouble in getting away without any help from me," he said. "It's all clear in that direction, if what Jim Crow said is so. So I shan't worry any about you, and you needn't worry any about yourself."
They saddled old Doll, and John saw his brother ride away, wondering if fate would ever bring them together again. Then he climbed out upon the tree-top, and let himself down among its branches, with the lower part of his body in the water, which was warm, and not at all unpleasant to come in contact with. He found that he could very easily support himself by throwing his arms over the branches of the tree-top in such a manner that nothing but his head would be out of water. He pushed the novel craft away from shore and presently it caught the current and swung out into the stream.
As nearly as he could calculate, the stream had a current of about a mile an hour. It was now past sundown, and dusk was setting in. There would be about eight hours of comparative darkness in his favor, and allowing his calculations of the movement of the current to be correct, they would take him well along toward the "big bend."

It must have been nearly midnight before he came upon any indication of the enemy. Then he saw the flicker of camp fires here and there along the shores. By and by they were left behind, but presently he came upon others. These he passed safely, and as the first red gleams of dawn began to show in the east he felt quite sure that he had got out of the enemy's country.
But in this he was mistaken, as he soon found out. As the tree-top swung around a little curve in the stream he saw quite a little village of wigwags ahead, on the side of a hill sloping down to the river. A careful scrutiny of the camp convinced him that it belonged to one of the non-resident tribes, and he concluded that it was well his trip had not put off until morning, provided it proved to be a successful one, of course—for if it were another tribe, the union Jim Crow had spoken of would no doubt be made at once, and the war on the whites be immediately begun.
He was so intently engaged in watching the camp as he drifted past it, that he did not notice the approach of a canoe containing two Indians until it brushed the branches of the tree-top, as it passed by. He would not have known then what jarred his craft, had not one of the Indians said something, as he put out his paddle and gave the tree-top a push. The sound of the voice made his heart beat hard and fast, but he held his breath and did not dare to move as much as a finger for a long time after that. When he ventured to look around the camp was out of sight.
That was the last he saw of any Indians. But he did not dare to leave the tree-top yet awhile, for, from all he knew to the contrary, there might be others ahead.
About noon he came in sight of the first farm. Here was the place for his work of waiting to begin. He managed to paddle his craft near shore, and pretty soon he stood on land again. He lost no time in telling the settler his story. An hour later the man and his family, with John as passenger, drove toward St. Mary's. They warned all the settlers along the road, and the frightened men lost no time in seeking for safer quarters.
St. Mary's was reached about 4 o'clock. In a short time active preparations were going forward for the protection of the town. The women and children were put in the places of greatest safety, and men were detailed to watch for the enemy's approach from all quarters.
The Indians did not attack the place that night. But on the following night they came, expediting, no doubt, to find it an easy prey to their murderous methods of warfare. But in this way they were mistaken. The citizens of the little town opened fire upon them so briskly that they were taken by surprise, and they made a rapid retreat, leaving several of their number behind them, dead and wounded.

John found himself a hero; but he bore his honors modestly, as the real hero always does. "I only did what anyone else would have done in my place," he said.
The day after the attack of the Indians, Mr. Sanford and his family and other settlers arrived. Hugh had over-taken his father when near the end of the thirty miles' journey. Mrs. Sanford was so frightened at the thought of the danger John had braved, that she would not listen to the proposal of her husband that she should stay with her friends and let him go to St. Mary's to find out whether the boy had succeeded in his daring undertaking, so they all came together, and the family reunion was complete.
I presume the world has never heard of this frontier hero of mine before. But I am glad to tell his story, and to assure you that in telling it, I have not been obliged to draw on imagination. John Sanford still lives on the old farm in Minnesota, and there I met him last summer, and found out all about his boyhood bravery. But I found it out from others—not from him.—Montreal Family Herald.

DISEASE AND BACTERIA.

Possibilities of Control Through Study of Protozoa.
A new conception of a disease or of the cause of a disease in man makes slow progress. This was strikingly demonstrated when Pasteur first announced that many human ills are caused by living organisms, and the fight which he and Lister waged to establish the germ theory is still fresh in the minds of scientific men. Little by little they and their followers made headway against the opposition, and disease after disease was shown to be caused by the minute bacteria.
To a much less extent the same conservatism is seen to-day in the widespread opposition to the protozoa theory of disease—less, because the battle for the germ theory in general need not be fought. With malaria the fight has been won; with smallpox and yellow fever the battle is now on, and time is needed to overcome the present opposition—an opposition based upon the same grounds as that of thirty years ago—namely, that the foreign structures found in the human body and regarded as organisms are the effect of the disease and not the cause. With bacteria such opposition was overcome by the culture methods introduced by Koch. In protozoa the difficulties of obtaining similar cultures are far greater, and this in part explains the failures to cultivate the malarial organisms or the organism of smallpox by the usual bacteriological methods. It is highly probable, however, that when as much attention is given to the study of disease-causing protozoa as is now given to that of bacteria, all these difficulties will be overcome, and that as our knowledge of this group increases we shall find and control many more causes of human diseases.—Century.

An Oriental Stratagem.

Many a man has failed to guess an easy riddle because the simple solution looked like a trap to him. V. C. records an instance in which this trait of human nature was cleverly played upon by a Japanese nobleman.
The old lord had been forced to flee with only three hundred men before an enemy with ten thousand, and banded all time to reach his castle ahead of the enemy. There were no re-enforcements near at hand, and he knew that if an attempt was made to storm his defenses he and his men would be dead before help could come.
The enemy's forces advanced rapidly, and scouts rode up near the castle to reconnoiter. To their amazement they found the gates, doors and windows open, and all the appearance of a holiday celebration. They rode hastily back to inform their master that the foe was dancing, and that bands were playing music in the castle.
The powerful enemy was too wise a man to put his head into any such a trap as that. The defenders of the castle must have some plan to slaughter his forces by wholesale, or they would never invite him in that way. He drew back a safe distance, and encamped to await developments.
Soon the re-enforcements for the castle came up behind, attacked him suddenly and defeated him, while the garrison which had risked all on its stratagem charged him on the other side.

Candidate for Hero's Medal.

There's a medal for the fellow who is told to fire the cook
When his timid wife flourishes before
That domestic's savage look.
There's a medal for the hero who gives
Up his easy seat
To the woman he's really one who tramples on his feet.
There's a medal for the man who never gives you free advice.
There's a medal for the woman who gives full weight in Joe.
There's a medal for the man who really loves his neighbor's wife.
There's a medal for the actor who admits he doesn't draw.
There's a medal for the poet who refrains from woe in writing.
There's a medal for the valiant girl who saves the world.
There's a medal for the father of his papa's papa's joy.
Who doesn't stop me on the street to tell about the boy.
In fact, there is a medal free for every man and woman who is good enough to be a good man.

"I was rather surprised to hear that he had bought an automobile."
"Why?"
"Why, he's a great walker, you know, and he's very fond of that sort of exercise."
"Of course, so, you see, he won't mind it."

A man thinks he knows a woman when he asks her to become his wife, but after marriage he discovers his mistake.

For several months, Prof. Wiley, chemist of the Agricultural Department, has been conducting experiments to determine what effect preservatives used in foods and beverages have upon the human system. All of the twelve young men composing the "drug squad" show ill effects from eating the drugs used as preservatives. One or two of the men are on the verge of a breakdown, but the identity of members of the "poison squad" is concealed. The results of the experiments show some of the preservatives are deadly, causing indigestion of the digestive organs. This experiment tends to explain away the poison mysteries following the eating of canned goods. Results of these experiments will be made public in a short time, but pending the publication of the report by Secretary Wilson Prof. Wiley will not discuss the subject. All the food was prepared in the most appetizing and hygienic fashion. At first poison was put into the food without the squad knowing which dish was doctored. The effect upon the mind of the squad whose stomachs finally began to rebel at the best of food, even that unpoisoned, caused a change in the method and the poison was administered in capsules.

Senator Joseph Benson Foraker, of Ohio, in a speech on the pension reform bill, said that a soldier who had been considered disabled, said that it was a right ruling, and that men who reached that age were disabled. Of course, he meant were disabled for manual labor, as a number of Senators called attention to the fact that if the idea was followed it would leave the Senate almost without a quorum. The following Senators have passed the 62nd milestone: Morgan, 60; Pettus, 62; Berry, 62; Perkins, 64; Bard, 62; Teller, 78; Patterson, 63; Platt, Conn., 70; Hawley, 77; Bacon, 64; Cullum, 74; Allison, 74; Blackump, 65; McCreary, 65; McEwen, 65; Hale, 67; Frye, 72; Gorman, 65; Hoar, 77; Burrows, 67; Alger, 68; Money, 64; Cockerill, 69; Clark (Mont.), 63; Millard, 67; Stewart, 70; Gallego, 67; Mendenhall, 64; Platt (N. A warning has been sent out from Washington to prospective home-seekers who may be interested in the irrigation plans of the government. An organized gang of swindlers is at work in the West, and has actively in the East. In cunningly avoided advertisements they assert that they have inside information as to the plans of the government engineers, and promise to place settlers on the best of the lands which the government purposes to irrigate, for sums ranging from fifty to two hundred dollars. The fact is that they have no information that will not be given by the Interior Department to any inquirer. When the proper time comes for throwing the lands open to homestead entries the Secretary of the Interior will announce the fact through the press.

In a letter defending the estimates of population recently issued by the census bureau, Director North incidentally gives an estimate of the population of the United States under the census to be taken in 1910, placing the figure at $8,041,430. The director says that this indicates a percentage of increase of 17.2, as compared with 20.7 in the decade 1890-1900, but he admits that events are possible in the future development of the country, which will put this estimate awry. Speaking of the estimate recently published by Mr. North says that it has been of very great benefit to the country. He says, however, that the estimates are in no sense a census nor do they represent local conditions.

Government ownership of all wireless telegraph stations at points where over-the-air communication is possible has been demanded by the cabinet, and the Navy Department is putting the order into effect. One result will be that Marconi will be forced to move his stations to Canadian soil. In place of the Marconi station on the Nantucket lightship the department will establish its own plant, using a modification of the Slaby-Arco system in its eight stations. The government will make no charge on messages to and from ships at sea.

Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, tells his story on himself. "I reached a certain small town during a campaign," said he, and found that the proprietor of the hotel where I usually stopped was in jail. He had gone there of his own accord rather than pay a judgment which he considered unjust. He asked the sheriff to let him out for two hours to hear his old friend Dolliver speak. The sheriff agreed, and sent an order for the release of the prisoner for two hours for that purpose. Then he considerably added at the end of the order. "The rest of your punishment is reformed."

In a recent report an Agricultural Department officer expresses regret that the statistics of milk production are reported in gallons, since milk is sold more generally in quarts or in pounds, according to the use to which it is put. The gallon he regards as an unnatural unit. One argument for the metric system is that it would provide absolute units. Now we often know that a quantity is six or eight hundred something, but do not remember whether it is feet, or yards, miles or leagues, gallons or quarts.

Employees in the White House for a long time have been in the habit of soliciting subscriptions from and offering tickets for sale to persons who call at the executive mansion. The custom had become so general as to be a nuisance, and an order has been issued putting a stop to the abuse.

Young women may avoid much sickness and pain, says Miss Alma Pratt, if they will only have faith in the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to tell all young women how much Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was completely run down, unable to attend school, and did not care for any kind of society, but now I feel like a new person, and have gained seven pounds of flesh in three months.
"I recommend it to all young women who suffer from female weakness."
—MISS ALMA PRATT, Holly, Mich.

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO YOUNG GIRLS.
All young girls at this period of life are earnestly invited to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice; she has guided in a motherly way hundreds of young women; her advice is freely and cheerfully given, and her address is Lynn, Mass.

Judging from the letters she is receiving from so many young girls Mrs. Pinkham believes that our girls are often pushed altogether too near the limit of their endurance nowadays in our public schools and seminaries. Nothing is allowed to interfere with studies, the girl must be pushed to the front and graduated with honor; often physical collapse follows, and it takes years to recover the lost vitality.—often it is never recovered.

A Young Chicago Girl Saved from Despair.
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to thank you for the help and benefit I have received through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. When I was about seventeen years old I suddenly seemed to lose my usual good health and vitality. Father said I studied too hard, but the doctor thought different and prescribed tonics, which I took by the quart without relief. Reading one day in the paper of Mrs. Pinkham's great cures, and finding the symptoms described answered mine, I decided I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I did not say a word to the doctor; I bought it myself, and took it according to directions regularly for two months, and I found that I gradually improved, and that all pains left me, and I was my old self once more.—LILLIE E. SINGLER, 17 E. 22d St., Chicago Ill."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one sure remedy to be relied upon at this important period in a young girl's life; with it she can go through with courage and safety the work she must accomplish, and fortify her physical well being so that her future life may be insured against sickness and suffering.

$5000 FORFEIT. If we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

New Use for the Pulpit.
There are queer nooks and corners in England yet.
A country parson lately went to preach in an old remote parish one Sunday. The aged sexton, in taking him to the place, instantaneously said: "I hope your reverence won't mind preaching from the chancel. You see, this is a quiet place, and I've got a duck stittin' on fourteen eggs in the pulpit."

An Instigation.
"My store was robbed last night," said the grocer.
"You don't say!" exclaimed the early customer. "Did the thieves get away with very much?"
"I haven't made out a list yet," replied the grocer, "but I know they took three barrels of sugar."
"That being the case," said the e. c., "they'll probably have sand and enough to tackle a bank next time."

John Alexander Dowie is returning to re-establish himself as the re-incarnated Elijah. It was hoped he would forget to come back here and while gone decide to be caught up (and stay up) in a fiery chariot.

It is reported that the Standard Oil company has reduced the price of oil one-half cent per gallon. People will lie awake nights thinking about the generosity of Rockefeller's sacrifice and wonder how his financial condition can stand it.

Sweden has a law levying a tax on people who are excessively obese. It would seem as though fat people had burdens enough without being made victims of special taxation, yet it might encourage leanness and accordingly increase longevity.

The Pender Republic complains there is much violation of the law in the matter of dispensing liquid hilarity to Omaha and Winnebago Indians. It claims that Homer is the greatest source of the evil, while a red-skin doesn't need to furnish from thirties in Decatur, Bancroft or Pender.

Paul Morton who renounced democratic ties some time ago, has been invited to a place in President Roosevelt's cabinet as secretary of the navy. Though now residing in Chicago on account of business interests, Mr. Morton is a Nebraska man and a son of the late J. Sterling Morton.

Mark L. Murry announces that the Pender Times has been piloted along fifteen years under his management, and says "we have always been on the square whether it was in a business sense, a political way or personally, and we know it pays." The HERALD editor can say a good word for Murry's integrity. Our only experience in dealing with him brought out his quality of fairness in contrast to a few other newspaper men who received the same favor granted to him. During the two Good-manson murder trials in Ponca a number of years ago, we prepared a six-column report of the proceedings each week, and Murry was among the newspaper men who asked and received the privilege of printing it the same week it appeared in the Ponca Journal. All but Murry assumed ownership of the articles. He gave credit and expressed due appreciation. This strict fairness showed his high character, and is not forgotten. Accordingly, we would guarantee that he was fair and square in all his dealings. Such traits are invaluable and to them success is largely attributable.

Though the winners were named by the republicans in Chicago this week that convention was not expected to arouse the greatest interest. The democratic circus in St. Louis next month is the one that will furnish lively and perhaps spectacular and thrilling entertainment this year. Bryan goes to that convention with Nebraska in his vest pocket and some influence on the outside and with outspoken antagonism to the Parker-Cleveland wing, and all other branches of democracy that have the fortitude to disagree with him. Bryan does not know his present political power, nor does anyone else. He doesn't know whether he will be accepted as boss of the party, or whether he will be compelled to yield to a majority, in which event he would probably gather up his playthings and come back to Nebraska and hold a national convention of his own. Bryan doesn't express himself as to who will or should be nominated. He smiles a little on Hearst, but does not say much in his favor. Unless one of the mentioned candidates has more strength than is apparent, the contest is likely to result in side-tracking all of them and the appearance of a "dark horse." But it would be an impossible task to satisfy all factions of the party and there is almost an assurance of a bolt by the leaders who fail to rule the roost. With democracy disrupted and each wing determined to exercise the governing power and the outcome wholly uncertain, the St. Louis convention is looked forward to with greater interest than any held in recent years.

JUDGE NORRIS INTERVIEWED.

In an interview with Judge Norris yesterday, the HERALD gathered for publication the following facts concerning conditions and development in the Philippine Islands:

As to trouble with the natives, he said the insurrection had been wholly wiped out and there was no fear of a future uprising against the government. Only the roving robber bands, known as Ladrones, armed with bolos and spears, give annoyance to the government, and they are being rapidly quelled. Such outlaws have infested the islands and carried on a system of pillage and if necessary murder from time immemorial. They steal mainly what is known as the bariboo or water ox, the common wild animal of the islands. The larger bands of Ladrones have chiefs, and occupying mountain fastnesses, neighboring settlers are compelled to pay regular tribute to save their property from destruction. One leader boasted that the constabulary ruled the valleys, but the Ladrones ruled the mountains. It was one of these bands that murdered Rev. Montgomery who went to the islands from Wayne.

The natives generally are well satisfied with the government administered by the United States and appreciate progress made in improving conditions. The two organized political parties, the federal and conservative, acknowledge allegiance to the United States and in their platforms declare their ultimate aim to become states of the American Union. Natives are admitted as far as possible into positions of authority. They are represented in the supreme court and court of first instance. All justices of the peace, all prosecuting attorneys with one exception, all the provincial governors and three of the commission are natives. Gov. Wright who succeeded Gov. Taft, is very much respected, and the American courts have gained the confidence of the Filipinos who appreciate the advantage of being able to secure justice which they had never enjoyed under Spanish rule.

In languages, there are thirty dialects of the native tongue, besides Spanish which is usually talked among the better classes. Court records are still kept in Spanish and will continue to be until 1906 when English will be substituted. At present American judges require interpreters, and almost without exception witnesses give testimony in the native language which has to be translated into Spanish and then into English.

American teachers are doing wonderful work in education and character building among the Filipino children who are found to be very apt in learning English. They are keenly sensitive to the merits of a good teacher and as quickly detect the weakness of a poor one. The worthy teacher exercises a salutary influence.

Judge Norris thinks the time has not come for investments in the islands and that Americans should not go there for that purpose now. He believes the future, however, is promising. There is no restriction on rates of interest, lenders receiving 2 per cent. per month and frequently more than that.

The climate is very pleasant and healthful and is considered one of the best tropical climates in the world. Warm weather often becomes monotonous, but sea breezes temper the heat and the nights are always cool. Most sections have no mosquitoes and so few flies that screen doors and windows are never used and never needed. No severe lightning, wind storms or earthquakes annoy people. The islands have what is termed a rainy season, but it occurs at no regular period and is so uncertain that irrigation is necessarily practiced in all cultivated parts.

Manila, the chief city and commercial center with a population of 250,000 people, has become more attractive and has made and is still making great advancement under American direction. For instance, the famous Latta drive, believed to be the best in the Orient, has been broadened and beautified. The city will soon have its first system of electric cars and is otherwise being rapidly improved and modernized. Its sanitation is now equal to that of cities in the United States.

FROM WINSIDE.

Mrs. E. W. Oullen visited Wayne Friday.

The Winside ball team will play in Carroll on the Fourth.

Frank Heyer, now located at Wausau, spent Sunday in Winside.

Miss Mae Washburn was a Wayne visitor Monday afternoon.

Quite a number of children are learning the German language from Rev. Gehring.

E. E. Gurney and wife visited Winside friends two or three days last week, being guests of the family of S. H. Row.

About twenty-six couples attended the ball at the opera house Friday evening, dancing continuing until midnight and all having a good time.

A grand ball is to be given on July 4th, under the auspices of the Danish Brotherhood, one mile west and one and three-fourths miles south of Winside.

DINING ROOM ELEGANCE.

The dining room is where you do the honors of your home. Three times a day, you're lucky, you and your family meet in the dining room. Half of your enjoyment is taken there, and next to your food nothing adds more to that enjoyment than fine dining room furniture.

But elegant Dining Room Furniture doesn't necessarily mean expensive furniture. Not if you buy it here. The largest and most complete line of Dining Room Furniture will be found upon our floors, and while you marvel at the richness of design and finish, inquiry for prices will reveal that it costs not a cent more than much inferior goods.

If you are looking for Dining Room Elegance at a mighty low cost, you should see us.

We Celebrate at Carroll

It is a duty you owe to yourself and to your country to celebrate the Fourth of July. As that new and enterprising town of Carroll offers to entertain you on the Fourth it is right that everyone that can should go there and have a good time.

We understand that Carroll is making a great effort to entertain the people of Wayne county on the Fourth, and every one should turn out and help them. The bigger the crowd the better the time. Celebrating the Fourth reminds us of the fact that some of you will need something to make you comfortable on that day. Now we are in the business of making men and boys comfortable. We have straw hats at any old price you can mention, and they are cool. If you want to have a good time on the Fourth keep your head cool. We have shirts that you can take your coat off if you want to and look like a gentleman. We have suits that will turn the head of any girl in your direction, and make your wife think of her wedding day. We have shoes that will make your feet glad even on the Fourth of July. If you get these things of us before you go to Carroll you will have plenty of money left to celebrate with. Trade here and your love and patriotism for this country will grow and so will your bank account.

COLLEGE NOTES.

A. B. Rightmire has been elected principal of the McLean school.

C. R. Hadley, a well known member of the teachers' class of 1900, who has just finished the law course at the State University, spent a part of last week with college friends. He will drop back into pedagogical work the coming year, while passing through the barrister stage of his professional career.

Miss Kayl enjoyed a visit from her sister the first of the week. Her sister returned to her home in Norfolk Tuesday evening.

Thirty-four teachers of Wayne county are in attendance at the N. C. this summer and the total enrollment from the county is fifty or more.

Large classes as usual characterize the work of the summer term and the chapel has to be used as a class-room almost continuously.

There are in the neighborhood of seventy-five students each in didactics, review grammar, U. S. history, agriculture and book-keeping.

Dempster McKee entered for work in the shorthand department Monday.

A lecture will be given one week from Friday night by Prof. Wolfe, the proceeds of which are to pay the amount subscribed by the local Y. M. C. A. to the support of the State Y. M. C. A. The lecture will be illustrated by numerous colored and well finished lantern slides and will be on a patriotic subject appropriate to the season.

Great preparations are being made for alumni day on Friday of commencement week. An excellent program has been prepared and sent out to all alumni and alumnae and it is expected that the occasion will be one of the greatest days in the history of the school.

FROM CARROLL.

J. Bailey is visiting friends and relatives at Atlantic, Iowa.

Mrs. James Eddy has been quite sick for several days, but is now much better.

Editor Lundberg has superannuated his printing press for a larger and better one.

Charley Robbins and wife returned from a three months' trip to the Pacific coast last Tuesday night.

J. A. Jones and wife were called to Red Oak, Iowa, last Saturday by the death of a brother-in-law.

Henry Grovjohn began the erection of a new blacksmith shop the first of the week on the site of the old one.

Nellie Baker, youngest daughter of Postmaster J. L. Baker was taken sick very suddenly last Monday morning.

The program for the celebration on the Fourth is a hummer. Keep an eye out for it, and then come and see it carried out.

E. F. Jones has bought the Swartz property just north of town. The price paid was $100 per acre. It is a good piece of property.

The members of the Twentieth Century club were given a picnic by their husbands last Tuesday in the Brugger grove four miles south of town.

The local lodge I. O. O. F. gave a supper last Friday night in honor of E. H. Atten, G. A. Bailey and G. O. Hammons, who expect to leave for Colorado in the near future.

A party is being organized for a trip into the western part of the state to investigate the chances for getting rich under the Kinkaid bill. They will leave overlaid in a few days.

During the storm last Saturday afternoon the lightning struck the chimney on Charles Jones' new house, and did considerable damage, the extent of which is not yet fully known.

A Robber's lodge was organized in Carroll last Monday night with about thirty members. Teams from Randolph and Wayne did the work. This is a strik lodge in Carroll in the last twelve months. What other town can equal it?

The Carroll ball team went to Belden last Wednesday to play a return game of ball. They carried in the game with the intention of winning it, but toward the end decided that it would be discourteous to their host and so presented the game to them by a score of 5 to 5 after holding them down to three runs up to the eighth inning.

Nels Hansen, a Danish farmer living five miles east of town, was killed last Thursday night by a load of hay slipping over on him. He was going home with the hay about 10 o'clock at night, and while turning a corner the load upset falling on top of him. When found next morning by a neighbor his head was in a ditch with his feet on the bank about four feet high. It is not known whether he simply smothered to death, having fallen in this position so that he could not get out, or whether he was stunned in the fall so that he was not able to make any resistance. He had a nose on his face and forehead as though he might have been hurt in the fall. He was an honest, upright and industrious citizen. He leaves a wife and eight children to mourn his sudden death. He was born in Denmark, Jan. 4, 1854, and was therefore 51 years 11 months and 11 days of age. The funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon at the Carroll M. E. church by the pastor of that church, and the body laid to rest in the cemetery by the side of three children who had preceded him to the grave.

HOSKINS.

The show Monday night was very well attended for the kind.

J. T. Crosby returned Monday from his trip to the Pacific coast.

Mrs. J. L. Oline has returned from an extended visit to Oklahoma.

H. J. Candor is enjoying a visit from his sister, Miss Bessie Candor of Fargo, N. D.

A. M. Averill and wife left Tuesday for Redfield, N. D., where Mr. Averill expects to buy land.

Work on the new church is being pushed as rapidly as possible, about ten workmen being employed.

Mrs. Louis Ziemer visited relatives at Iowa City, Ia., last week, returning home the first of the week.

W. E. Gleason, L. D. Woolley and Geo. Gray are out in Wheeler county looking for some homestead land.

Miss Ollie Elliott has been retained for the grammar department of our school for the coming year and E. R. Gibson of Wayne will have the principalship.

SIXTY YEARS ON THE MARKET

THE SINGER

A recent canvass of the United States found 216,000 family sewing-machines of all kinds that had been in use from 15 to 48 years; more than one-half of them were Singers, and 2,000 of these Singers had done good service during 40 years and more.

The Singer Manufacturing Company

Among its Improvements are:

A metal-covered hub, which will not check or split. A combination wood and steel axle, the wood and steel going the whole length of the axle. This axle will stand twice the strain of an ordinary hickory axle. Also a bolster-plate made from heavy sheet steel.

The popularity of the MacKinnon Wagon rests not only on the above improvements, but every piece of lumber used in its construction is carefully selected from the best Wisconsin timber. The parts are fitted and put together by skilled workmen, and nothing is left undone, even in the smallest detail, to make it a perfect wagon in every particular. We manufacture our own wood stock, from the log to the wagon, and as we have been twenty-five years engaged in the manufacture of wagon material, we have gained an experience in the selection of wagon wood second to none. Our factory is supplied with the most complete and latest machinery. We have at all times a large stock of lumber carefully selected and well seasoned.

Respectfully,
THE F. MACKINNON MFG. CO.

JUDGE NORRIS INTERVIEWED.

In an interview with Judge Norris yesterday, the HERALD gathered for publication the following facts concerning conditions and development in the Philippine Islands:

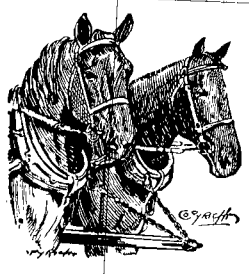

As to trouble with the natives, he said the insurrection had been wholly wiped out and there was no fear of a future uprising against the government. Only the roving robber bands, known as Ladrones, armed with bolos and spears, give annoyance to the government, and they are being rapidly quelled. Such outlaws have infested the islands and carried on a system of pillage and if necessary murder from time immemorial. They steal mainly what is known as the bariboo or water ox, the common work animal of the islands. The larger bands of Ladrones have chiefs, and occupying mountain fastnesses, neighboring settlers are compelled to pay regular tribute to save their property from destruction. One leader boasted that the constabulary ruled the valleys, but the Ladrones ruled the mountains. It was one of

We Celebrate at Carroll

It is a duty you owe to yourself and to your country to celebrate the Fourth of July. As that new and enterprising town of Carroll offers to entertain you on the Fourth it is right that everyone that can should go there and have a good time.

We understand that Carroll is making a great effort to entertain the people of Wayne county on the Fourth, and every one should turn out and help them. The bigger the crowd the better the time. Celebrating the Fourth reminds us of the fact that some of you will need something to make you comfortable on that day. Now we are in the business of making men and boys comfortable. We have straw hats at any old price you can mention, and they are cool. If you want to have a good time on the Fourth keep your head cool. We have shirts that you can take your coat off if you want to and look like a gentleman. We have suits that will turn the head of an aristocratic wife think of her when she makes your feet glad. These things of us plenty of money love and patriotism your bank account.

Die Schiffsturbine.

Leistung, Vortheile und Verwendung der Maschine.

Die „Lübecker“ und die „Turbinen“ sind die beiden mit Turbinenbetrieb versehenen Maschinen für die Schiffahrt.

Der vor einiger Zeit vom Stapel gelassene kleine Kreuzer „Lübecker“ ist das erste deutsche Kriegsschiff, welches durch Turbinenmaschinen bewegt wird. Das Fahrzeug hat 3200 Tonnen Verdrängung. Die Maschinen sollen 10,000 Pferdekraft indizieren, und die „Lübecker“ wird bei dieser Leistung eine Geschwindigkeit von 22 Knoten entwickeln. Das zweite der deutschen ausgerüstete Fahrzeug der deutschen Kriegsmarine ist ein vierdeckerdampfer, welches sich nach im Bau befindet. In England befindet man schon seit einigen Jahren Schiffe mittelst Turbinenmaschinen.

Als vor beinahe zehn Jahren die berühmte „Turbinen“, ein Boot von 44 Tonnen, die die dagewesene Geschwindigkeit von 21 Knoten entwickelte, waren allerdings noch so große Mängel vorhanden, daß es eine allgemeine Einführung der Turbine als Schiffsmaschine nicht zu denken war. Der Kohlenverbrauch war ein sehr großer, und dann ließ die Manövrierfähigkeit der Maschine, das heißt das Umschellen von vorwärts auf rückwärts, viel zu wünschen übrig; die Turbine konnte rückwärts nur mit einer Geschwindigkeit von drei Knoten laufen. In England ließ man sich, jedoch doch nicht irre machen und baute einige Jahre später die mit Turbinen ausgerüsteten Dampfer „Viper“ und „Cobra“. Die „Viper“ hat eine Rückwärtsgeschwindigkeit von 15 Knoten. Später folgten die Dampfer „Majestät“ und „Geben“, und der kleine Kreuzer „Albatros“ ist im Bau. Anfangs dieses Jahrhunderts wurden Turbinenmaschinen auf einer Anzahl englischer Passagierdampfer eingeführt. Es sind dies alles große stahlische Fahrzeuge mit Geschwindigkeiten von 20 bis 22 Knoten, und sie bewährten sich ausgezeichnet. Der frühere Mangel zu großen Kohlenverbrauchs ist völlig abgestellt worden, und diese Turbinenmaschinen arbeiten im Gegenstand ganz erheblich sparsamer als die Kohlenmaschinen. Außer einigen Dampfmaschinen befinden sich in England dormalen an größeren Schiffen mit Turbinenbetrieb im Bau: ein Dampfer für die Fahrt von Kanada nach Liverpool, ein langamer Dampfer der Cunard-Linie und zwei atlantische Riesendampfer derselben Linie, welche den Rekord brechen sollen. Die Maschinen dieser Schiffe werden 65,000 bis 70,000 Pferdekraft indizieren, und man hofft, daß sie 25 Knoten auf der Ozeanfahrt durchhalten werden.

Den Vortheilen der Schiffsturbine, als das sind: große Einfachheit der Maschinenanlagen, Leichtigkeit ihrer Bedienung und Sicherheit des Betriebes, entspricht ein großer, gleichzeitiger Vortheil und fast noch nicht so großer Raumersparnis — denn die Turbinen nehmen weit weniger Platz ein als die Kohlenmaschinen — stehen keine Nachteile und Mängel gegenüber. Speziell für kleine schnellfahrende Dampfer in Küstengewässern ist die Turbine hervorragend geeignet, da ihre geringe räumliche Ausdehnung nach der Höhe auch Dampfmaschinen von sehr geringem Tiefgange eine hohe Fahrgeschwindigkeit gestattet. Aus demselben Grunde ermöglicht für Kriegsschiffe noch ein besonderer Vortheil, wie er sich augenfällig bei der „Lübecker“ zeigt. Die Rollenmaschinen der anderen Kreuzer dieser Klasse sind so hoch, daß sie unter dem in der Wasserlinie liegenden Panzerdeck unter Wasser liegen, und man hat über ihnen eine besondere Panzerstempel bauen müssen, die feindlichen Geschossen einen Angriffspunkt bieten. Auf der „Lübecker“ liegt die Maschinenanlage unter dem glatten Panzerdeck, ist also viel besser geschützt, und durch Wegfall der Stempel wird eine Gewichtspare von 50 Tonnen erzielt, während das Maschinengewicht selbst 40 Tonnen geringer ist als das Gewicht (370 Tonnen) einer Rollenmaschine von gleicher Leistung. Da Kriegsschiffe mit sehr wechselnder Geschwindigkeit fahren und die Turbine bei höchster Geschwindigkeit verhältnismäßig am wenigsten Kohlen verbraucht, so hat man für langameren Fahren sogenannte Marschturbinen eingeführt und dadurch auch hierfür den früheren Nachtheil zu hohen Kohlenverbrauchs völlig beseitigt.

Ein Turbinenboiler, den das Britische Museum für 3000 Jahre alt erklärte, wurde auf einem Felde zu Stonehenge in der Grafschaft Wiltshire gefunden. Der Boiler wurde dem Göttemuseum zur Aufbewahrung überwiehen.

Der häufige Parlamentsabgeordnete Mayor (Seelen) erklärte unlängst die folgende Geschichte, die ihm im Zuren träge passirte: „Ich habe“, so hub er an, „beim Erheben, mit ein paar Freiwildern zu versuchen, einen Romanen an einem einige wänsig Meilen entfernten Ort gelangen zu lassen. Wir kamen zu einem Bauernhaus und fanden dort einen hübschen Jungen. Ich frag ihn, ob der Romanen dort da gewesen ist, und er antwortete in der ersten Ueberrumpfung auf hochdeutsch: „Ja“. Wo ist er hingegangen? frag ich weiter, und der Junge wurde verwirrt. Ich weiß es nicht“, so brach er nicht, „wo der General ist, falls er nicht, wo der General ist. Er blieb bei seiner Weigerung. Ich ließ ihn gegen die Mauer stellen und fragte ihn, wo er sich befinden lassen. „Augen flüsterie ich meinen Leuten zu: „Alles Gotteswillen, schließt nicht.“ Der Junge blieb bei seiner Weigerung, aber ich konnte sehen, daß er an meine Drohung glaubte. Ich rief: „Lege an!“ Jedes Gewehr zielt auf den Jungen. „Gib ich“, sagte ich wieder zu dem Knaben, „Neuer Kommandire, frage ich Dich noch einmal, wohin der Romanen gegangen ist.“ Etwas Ueberraschendes glänzte da aus des Knaben Augen. Er wusch den Kopf zurück und sagte auf hochdeutsch: „Ich werde es nicht sagen.“ Nun blieb mir nichts übrig, als — ihm die Hand zu schütteln und abzugeben.“

FIGHT AT EXPOSITION

ZACH MULHALL SHOTS THREE MEN IN ST. LOUIS.

One Victim of Mulhall's Bullets, an Innocent Bystander, is Probably Fatally Wounded—Shooting Came After Trouble of Long Standing.

Zach Mulhall, live stock agent of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, Saturday night shot three men in front of the entrance of the world's fair grounds. One of them, an innocent bystander, named Ernest Morgan, is believed to have been fatally wounded. He was shot in the abdomen. The other men are Frank Reed, boss hostler of the wild west show, and Johnnie Murray, one of the cowboys. They are being cared for at the emergency hospital on the world's fair grounds. The doctors say that Morgan will die. He lives in St. Louis and is 18 years old. Frank Reed, who is 50 years old, was shot in the arm and the right side of the neck. Murray, aged 35, was shot in the abdomen. The shooting was the culmination of trouble between Mulhall and Frank Reed over the question of authority. The shooting occurred at the entrance of the show, just at the conclusion of a performance, while the pike was crowded with people, and great excitement was caused. Mulhall was locked up and bail was refused. There has been trouble for some time between Mulhall and Reed. The latter says that it was because Mulhall tried to run things, although he was only an employe, like Reed. Last week Mulhall had been arrested on the charge of disturbing the peace, and Reed was fined $50. The police arrested William Langa, Harry Phillips, Earl Stohr, Frank Schram, and John Christie, cowboys, whom they are holding as witnesses.

SIXTEEN PERSONS INJURED.

Collision on the Baltimore and Ohio at Vincennes, Ind. Thundering down a steep grade at Vincennes, Ind., Sunday, Baltimore and Ohio passenger No. 1, westbound, ran through an open switch, colliding with a freight train of thirty cars, resulting in the injury of sixteen persons, three of whom may die.

Engineer Walters, of the passenger train, estimates that his train was running at the rate of fifty miles an hour when he discovered that the switch was thrown. He says he immediately applied the air and immediately jumped from his engine. The interior of the dining car, which was the most damaged, was bespattered with blood and the furniture was a mass of debris.

MINISTERS WIN THEIR POINT

Justice Gaynor Holds Sunday Ball is Illegal. Justice Gaynor, of the supreme court, sitting as a magistrate in Brooklyn, N. Y., Saturday night handed down an opinion in which he holds that games of professional baseball, such as have been played at Washington Park this season, are to which the public is invited and to which an admission fee is charged, are illegal on Sunday, being prohibited by the law. The ministers have won their point.

The decision was rendered on a motion to discharge Edward Poole and John Dillon, of the Brooklyn Baseball Club, who were arrested on the charge of violating the Sunday law by taking part in a game with the Pittsburgh team at Washington Park two weeks ago Sunday. Justice Gaynor denies the motion, and the men will now have to stand trial.

RANSOM MONEY IS READY.

Bandit Raisuli's Ransom Met by the Sultan.

Mohammed El Torrey, representing the sultan of Morocco, has caused the arrest of two sheiks, as demanded by Raisuli. The amount of ransom demanded for the release of Ferdicaris and Varley is ready. Raisuli's answer is expected by the end of the week. News has been sent to Raisuli through the sheikh of Bazzan that all his demands have been complied with. The authorities hope that the landing of some 400 Moorish troops at Tangier Friday will not upset the arrangements, and this is now the only thing which threatens difficulties. These troops are of the worst type, and though they were ostensibly sent by the sultan for the protection of Europeans the residents of the city continue uneasy, because the troops have no discipline whatever and endanger life and property.

A British steamer is momentarily expected with the remainder of Raisuli's followers who were imprisoned at Larache. The authorities express the hope that Ferdicaris and Varley will reach Tangier on Monday next.

SHE THOUGHT IT WAS A JOKE

Wife of a Prominent Physician Refuses to Believe News of Death.

Dr. George Geist, chief surgeon of the sanitarium, at Prairie du Chien, Wis., died suddenly Wednesday at McGregor, Ia., of a hemorrhage of the brain. His wife, who has been visiting in Ypsilanti, Mich., refuses to believe it, thinking her husband is only playing a practical joke on her. When Mrs. Geist left her husband for a visit to friends and relatives at Ypsilanti he told her jokingly that if she did not return in three weeks he "would make life miserable for her."

Mrs. Geist thought nothing more of the matter until Monday, when she received several telegrams telling of her husband's serious illness, and these she looked upon as a continuation of the joke, as the three weeks allowed her by her husband were up that day.

Thursday afternoon she received a telegram announcing his death, but put it down as a continuation of the joke, as she had left her husband in the best of health. She left for Albion, where her mother resides, for a continuation of her visit, still thinking that there she would hear more of the supposed prank.

William H. Geist left for Iowa to bring the body of his brother to Detroit. Dr. Geist was 30 years old and a graduate of the University of Michigan.

STATE OF NEBRASKA

NEWS OF THE WEEK IN A CONDENSED FORM.

Who Killed Ben Minnick?—The Murderer Charged to James McClelland—He Will be Arrested When His Present Prison Term is Ended.

Relatives of Ben Minnick, who was murdered in the vicinity of Thermopolis, Wyo., will arrest James McClelland, alias "Driftwood Jim," upon his release from the Wyoming penitentiary, where he is serving time for a postoffice robbery. Ben Minnick was one of the most popular young men in south York county and last year assisted his brother in carrying out the murder of a man named Minnick. At that time he was murdered by either hired assassins of the gentleman or by cattlemen themselves, who had sent word to the Minnicks that if they did not move out of the country with their sheep they would be killed and their sheep destroyed.

The thanks at his capture were rendered by the state, and McClelland was generally supposed that he had considerable property more than the administrator reported. Mrs. Reed thought best to investigate.

It was found that the estate amounted to about $3,000 more than had been represented, and there were few unpaid debts. Mrs. Reed is a widow and one of the first settlers of York county, and was a member of several lodges, who will assist Mrs. Reed in investigating the cause of the death of her brother.

THREE HELD FOR MURDER.

Woman and Two Men Have Preliminary Hearing.

The preliminary hearing of Mrs. Nace Hutchinson, her son, Charles Hutchinson, and Charles E. Fassel, a nephew of the missing man, charged with the murder of Eli W. Fassel, was held in the county court at Nelson, Tuesday. Twenty witnesses were called by the state, but no testimony was presented on the defense at this hearing. The prisoners were bound over to the district court.

There will probably be a special term called to dispose of this case. There is much interest manifested in it, residents of the county in which the crime was committed being anxious to see the parties held in custody of the district court, while the defendants express themselves as confident of being able to prove their innocence when the case comes to trial.

NO CLEW TO HIGHWAYMEN.

There is no clew to the party who held up W. H. Clark Tuesday morning at Fremont. One man was arrested on suspicion, but released, as he was able to give an account of his whereabouts. Two or three men are reported to have entered the Brunswick restaurant with him, but he is unable to give any description of them. The amount of his loss is over $300 in cash and about the same amount in notes and checks, all payable to Marshall Bros. his employers.

Omaha Printers Work.

PEPPER IN TROUBLE.

Warm Time to Store for Him at Dakota City.

Sheriff H. C. Hanson, of Dakota City, has received a telegram from Topeka, Kan., informing him of the arrest at that place of Owen B. Pepper, for whom there was a warrant out in Dakota county since last March, charging him with the crime of larceny as a bailee. Pepper was in the custody of Sheriff H. C. Hollman as a farm hand and was sent to Sioux City by Mr. Hollman with a low bail and left to dispose of. This Pepper did all right, but he forgot to return to the sheriff the money received from the sale, or to send back the team he drove, which was later found at a livery stable in Sioux City. Sheriff Hanson expected Pepper to show up at Topeka, his old home, and had the officials there on the lookout for him.

INVESTIGATING CAUSE DEATH

York Woman Not Satisfied with Report of Death.

Mrs. George R. Reed has returned to York from McPherson county, Kan., where she investigated the case of her brother, Mr. Gue, who on April 20 was found dead at 10 o'clock at night at the home of Charles Pugh at Roxbury, Kan. Owing to his sudden death and the fact that Mrs. Reed received scarcely any reply to the many letters she wrote, and as it was generally supposed that Gue had considerable property more than the administrator reported, Mrs. Reed thought best to investigate.

It was found that the estate amounted to about $3,000 more than had been represented, and there were few unpaid debts. Mrs. Reed is a widow and one of the first settlers of York county, and was a member of several lodges, who will assist Mrs. Reed in investigating the cause of the death of her brother.

NEBRASKA

Short Notes

Flag day was generally observed in Polk county and Omaha. Several cases of smallpox in the vicinity of Millard are reported and the health authorities are watching the situation. At the close of the first day's session of the State Sunday School Association at Grand Island 225 delegates were present. Scarlet fever has again broken out in Papillion. A strict quarantine has been established with the hopes of curbing the disease. The Clay County teachers' institute closed their session at Clay Center. One hundred and twenty-six teachers were in attendance. Oats that have been held over from last year are being hauled to Chadron and sold to make room for the new crop, which promises to be immense. A brother of the E. E. Brown, of Geneva, was killed in the riot at the Independence mine in Cripple Creek district. He was a non-combatant named W. W. Delaney. The state board of equalization voted to increase the assessment of the railroad property of the state 7 per cent, or in round numbers from $27,000,000 to $40,000,000. Franklin is making large preparations to celebrate the Fourth. Franklin has not held a celebration for four years and the citizens intend to make this Fourth a memorable one. A THOUSAND DIE.

Awful Horror on New York Excursion Steamer.

FIRE AND WILD PANIC

Terror-Stricken Sunday School Children Leap into the Sound.

Blaze Spreads with Fearful Rapidity and Primal Screams of Panic Cause Majority of Victims Are Women and Children—Hurricane Deck Crashes Down, Crushing Hundreds—Crowds Jump Overboard, Only 100 Drawn to Death in the Whirlpools.

Fully 1,000 persons packed in the jamming of the crowded excursion steamer, General Slocum in the East River at New York Wednesday morning. The disaster is the most terrible since the Iroquois theater fire in Chicago. Like the Iroquois fire, it was a slaughter of the innocents, as more than half those on board the ill-fated boat were children. The steamer, carrying the Sunday school excursion of St. Mark's German Lutheran Church, caught fire in the East River, off Hell Gate, and was burned to the water's edge.

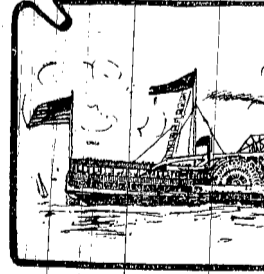

The excursionists were members of an Evangelical Lutheran church. The group (trip-deck) excursion steamer which for years has plied between New York and Rockaway Beach was crowded with the gay crowd when it left its pier. Children, women and a scattering of men thronged the upper decks. The hurricane deck was thronged, the middle deck packed and the lower deck filled.

The fire broke out just as the excursionists alighted the steamer had finally settled down to enjoy their ride through the picturesque Hell Gate and by the Sound to their picknick grounds. A brass band was clanking out one of the latest popular airs and the children were singing and dancing. Flags were flying from every part of the great boat. More than one tugboat or steamboat pilot turned around in his wheelhouse as he swept by the General Slocum to watch the gay and joyous crowd.

As many of the women and children as possible were crowded together in thick, huddled masses in the hurricane deck when the flames broke out. The first sweep of the flames not only cut off escape from this hurricane deck of the big boat, but also burned away the light wooden work on which it was expected. Many of those people who had been sitting on the hurricane deck must have been hurled to death in the blazing furnace which roared underneath.

Within a few seconds after the first burst of flame and smoke the happy crowd of people was turned into a mad, fighting mob. Mothers tried to save their children and were torn from them by other mothers in search of their children. Men fought together and everything was in wild tumult.

The excursion boat, wrapped in flames and smoke and with the people on board fighting and screaming in panic and distress, was finally grounded on the northwest spit of North Brother Island. There some of the passengers managed to make their escape. When the boat was beached it was ablaze from stem to stern and practically gutted out. What could be seen of the hull and guards on the decks of the boat showed that they had been splintered and torn as the crowds on board fought in their mad panic. They showed also that numbers of people jumped or were pushed from the decks to death as the boat went up the river.

Thousands see the Disaster. The disaster was witnessed by thousands of people from both shores of the river, and as rapidly as possible hundreds of small boats and launches set out to render assistance. With the boat burning under its feet the pilot stuck to his post in the pilot house and the engineer remained at his post below deck until the boat was beached at the lower end of North Brother Island off Port Morris. Even then the passengers were not in a safe position, for they were some distance from shore and the boat was a furnace. Hundreds of small boats were stationed about and picked up those who jumped overboard as rapidly as possible.

An eye-witness said that the greatest loss of life was due to the escape of the heavy upper deck. It fell with a crash soon after the fire started, crushing hundreds of persons who had gathered on the lower deck. It was then that the greatest panic en-

THE HELL GATE HORROR.

The whole world stands appalled at the Hell Gate catastrophe. The disaster surpasses in the number of its victims the Iroquois holocaust in Chicago and parallels it in dramatic intensity and pathos. In the destruction of the excursion steamer General Slocum, as in the burning of the Chicago playhouse, those who met death or injury were amusement seekers. The vessel's passengers were the children of a Sunday school out for a holiday excursion. Shortly after passing Hell Gate on the way from East River into the Sound, flames broke out near the vessel's bows and before it could be beached swept back over the decks, burning many passengers to death and forcing others to jump overboard. As in the Iroquois horror, the victims of the New York tragedy were mostly women and children, whose helplessness made them easy prey to the devouring flames and swirling waters.

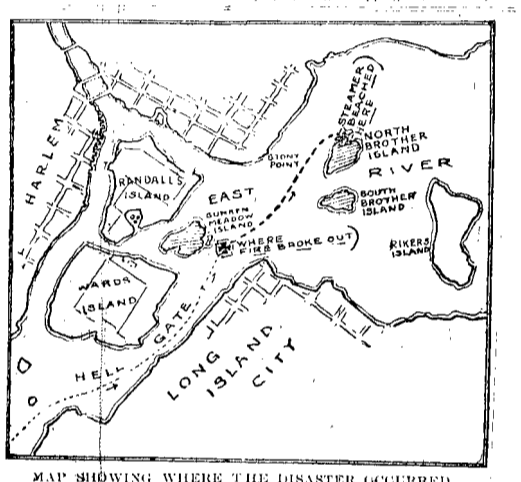

Another parallel lies in the charge that the steamer was not provided with proper means for saving life. It is said that the vessel was not overcrowded, that it had recently been inspected and found in good condition and that it was provided with all the life-saving apparatus required by law. Whether or not this is the case, it is evident that the protective devices utterly failed to provide protection, especially on a boat whose passengers were principally children. There were life preservers, but they were of poor quality and many out of reach of any child. The fact that the hurricane deck gave way soon after the fire started seems to prove that the vessel was not fit for the uses to which it was put.

The General Slocum disaster, as well as the Iroquois tragedy, shows how great are the responsibilities of those entrusted with the safety of human lives. It is to be supposed that both the city of New York and the Federal officials responsible for the inspection and regulation of steamboat service will fix the responsibility for this frightful destruction of human life. The lesson of responsibility in the handling of boat passengers, especially in the excursion season, is needed in many parts of the country, but the lesson of the General Slocum is a terribly costly one.

sued amid the living stream of persons going over the fall into the water. As far as eye-witnesses can determine, the flames originated on the forward part of the boat. Persons who saw the accident from the shore say that almost instantly persons who occupied places on the forward deck began to jump overboard.

All the boats at North Brother Island were sent to the assistance of the people in the water and as first as they were brought ashore they were cared for in the pavilions there. The patients in the hospitals on the island became almost insane from fright.

A large part of the crowd on the doomed steamer were children, and there was little hope for them after they had gone overboard. The current in the East River at this point is very strong and scores of little ones were sucked in by the whirlpools at Hell Gate. One man who went out in a rowboat said that he saw at least fifty children perish in these whirlpools before he could reach them. It was estimated that the steamer carried more than 2,000 persons. She was the largest excursion steamer in these waters and carried nearly 2,000.

The excursion was in charge of a social committee of the church, headed by Miss Mary Abenschen. In the minister's party were the pastor, the Rev. George L. B. Haas, and his family. Miss Abenschen, Assistant Superintendent Carl Anger, William Schaefer, the pastor's daughter, Gertrude, his son, his sister, Miss Emma Haas, and W. B. Totamore.

Rev. George C. P. Haas, the pastor of the church which was giving under as fair a sky as was ever vouchsafed to a picnic crowd. The 400 children were singing, dancing, and waving handkerchiefs and flags in answer to the salutations of those on shore or from passing steamers.

RUSSIA MEETS DEFEAT.

Reports of Japanese Victories on Both Land and Sea.

Three Russian armored cruisers, the Rossiya, Gromovoi and Rurik, of the Vladivostok squadron, have been captured by the Japanese fleet under Admiral Kamimura after a running fight of two days in the Korean straits, according to a cablegram from Tokyo via the Cologne Gazette.

The three Russian cruisers were reported in a terrific battle off Tau Island, their escape into the outer sea having been cut off. According to dispatches from Nagasaki the Russians were pursued north by four Japanese cruisers from Admiral Togo's fleet, and as they were approaching the straits leading to the open sea three other Japanese warships appeared from the north, thus preventing their escape.

Russian power on the sea in the far East is practically destroyed. If this report is true, the Rossiya, Rurik and Gromovoi are first-class armored cruisers.

All doubt as to the sinking of the transports Hitachi and Sado by the Russians has been removed. Three hundred and ninety-seven survivors of the Hitachi arrived at Moji and 153 survivors of the Sado have arrived at Kokura. Details of the destruction of the transports and the number of the casualties are not obtainable.

It was rumored at St. Petersburg Thursday that General Stackelberg had sustained a disastrous defeat at Vafangan. The battle at Vafangan, north of Port Arthur, was in progress for three days. Losses on the Russian side—more than 300 Tuesday—show that the fighting was of a desperate character, and General Kurapatkin's report proves that both armies are determined to force matters to an issue. Operations leading up to the battle at Vafangan date back to June 11, when two Japanese divisions, one commanded by General Nozu, advanced from the Pulanin-Pitsovo line, probably prompted by intelligence that the Russians were receiving reinforcements. A sharp skirmish took place the night of June 12 at the Village of Oudindan, five miles west of the railroad and seven miles south of Vafangan, and another skirmish occurred on the heights near the Village of Lidiatou, ten miles east of Oudindan. The Japanese were repulsed, but the Russian advance posts retired. June 13 two Japanese divisions were five miles north of the scene of the skirmish, their left wing resting on the Village of Vafangan and their right on the Valley of the Tassa, which flows parallel with the railroad, going into the sea ten miles south of Pitsovo. After a day's rest the enemy advanced fifteen miles June 14 and attacked the left of the Russian position four miles south of Vafangan. The Russians had the best of the first day's fight, annihilating a Japanese cavalry squadron and taking some prisoners.

Wednesday's battle extended over a rough country, where artillery was very effective. The Russian lines extended between the villages of Lanchau, near the railroad, and Pafanvopen. The Japanese were between Tanchanau and Hunchau. Stackelberg's reserves were held at Siana, a short distance from the Vafangan station. The Japanese reserves were south of Tanchanau. General Nozu's artillery began the day by shelling the Russian right, while his sharpshooters were busy with the other wing. Stackelberg was not certain whence the main attack would be delivered, and sent out cavalry to the heights of Lanchau to reconnoiter. Having ascertained that the enemy was not moving in that quarter he attacked the Japanese center and left to drive the enemy against the railroad. The Japanese countered by moving up reserves in an effort to turn the Russian right.

PREDICTS A WORLD WAR.

Officer Says Germany, France and Russia Will Attack England.

Capt. August Niemann of the German army has written a book, entitled "The World War," in which he predicts that Russia, France and Germany will engage in a war with England, the result of which will be a fresh apportionment of the earth.

"Although," says Capt. Niemann, "the responsibility of a world war is great, and the consequences of such a war are very pleasant, valuable and glorious, it is not only by the expenditure of blood and iron."

"If the German people intend to participate in the struggle for the domination of the world it must accustom itself to the idea of the coming war. In the course of many years England has grown great through the dissensions of continental powers. For centuries past England has reaped advantages from every war, most of which were instigated by herself.

"It required the genius of Bismarck to save the German empire to a sense of its power. Shall Germany, which is to be dependent on England for light, air and for daily bread, or has she retained some of the power which won her victories?"

WAR DURING WEEK.

CONSTANT NAVAL ACTIVITY AND LAND MANEUVERING

Port Arthur Now the Storm Center of the Eastern Conflict—Japanese Now at the Gates of the Russian Fortress—Brief War News.

There was constant naval activity in the far East during the week, but nothing happened of great dramatic interest. The Russians had a gunboat blown up in Port Arthur by either a Japanese torpedo or one of their own mines. Admiral Togo sent four of his gunboats to make a reconnaissance of Port Arthur harbor. One of the boats was hit eight times and sustained some damage. The following night he sent eight torpedo boats for a similar purpose. One sailor and one officer were killed, but the boats escaped undamaged.

Admiral Kataoka has been engaged in clearing Dalny harbor of mines. He has found and exploded seventy-eight. He now reports that the first section of the bay is completely clear. He also reports that he found two Russian ships under water in the bay, one of which is believed to be the cruiser Boyarin.

The Japanese fleet has been bombarding different parts of the Liaoting peninsula during the week and is said not to have missed for a single day throwing a few shells into Port Arthur.

Many circumstantial reports from Chinese sources indicate that there has been severe fighting for possession of Port Arthur during the last week. No definite news of this fighting has as yet come out, but when the news does come it will probably tell of the great slaughter so far achieved during the war. The continental capitals feel confident that Port Arthur will soon be stormed.

In their maneuvering for Salmatze the Russians and Japs have exhibited mercurial mobility. According to reports given out by Kurapatkin and Kuroki the town has been occupied and evacuated by their respective forces about three times a week since the early days of May. From last accounts Salmatze is in the hands of the Japanese and bids fair to remain there for some time, owing to the strong force with which it is now held—a brigade of infantry, two batteries of artillery, and three squadrons of cavalry.

This force took the town after a little battle. The engagement began with a conflict between the hostile outposts. Some Russian caissons came up with reinforcements and pressed the Russians back, whereupon the Muscovites, according to their own reports, withdrew slowly and in good order, holding successive positions. The Russians acknowledge 100 killed or wounded and say the enemy suffered severely. The Japanese acknowledge twenty-seven casualties. The Russian contention that the Japs include only the seriously wounded in their casualty reports is probably correct.

The Japanese forces which took Salmatze were of the right wing of Kuroki's army, being attached to the Twelfth division. On the same day as this engagement the advance guard of the Japanese center also got into a fight at Chanchalshui on the road to Liaoyang. Six hundred Russian infantry and 300 cavalry held the place, but were pushed out of it by an unknown number of Japanese after a two hours' engagement. The Japs say the Russians lost seventy or eighty, while they themselves suffered only twenty casualties. The Japanese in this fight were probably part of the crack imperial guards under Hasegawa.

Wednesday occurred the most serious reported engagement of the week in the neighborhood of Suiyuan. Four thousand Russian cavalry held the town. A detachment of the Tenth division, which has its headquarters at Takashan, marched upon the town from the south. The Russians repulsed this detachment composed of a brigade of infantry, two mountain batteries, and two squadrons of cavalry. The Russian guns held the place in check, but shortly afterwards a detachment from Kuroki's army, probably a part of the Second division, under Gen. Nishid, appeared to the northeast of Suiyuan, turning the Russian line of retreat. Consequently the Japanese withdrew and the town fell into the hands of the Japanese. The number of casualties is unknown. The Japanese acknowledge thirty-three.

From the actions at Salmatze, Chanchalshui, and Suiyuan it is evident that Kuroki is beginning a forward movement with his entire army.

JAPANESE FIELD ARTILLERYMAN.

One thing that has surprised European nations in the war between Japan and Russia is the effectiveness of the Japanese artillery. In every battle thus far reported the Japanese artillerymen by accurate firing have cleared the way for the successful charges of the infantry. At the battle of the Yalu, particularly, the Russians report that the Japanese field artillery simply rained lead on the Czar's batteries, making it impossible for any man force to withstand the attack.

KINCHOW AND NANSHAN HILL.

Where Moscovites Suffered a Great Defeat at the Hands of the Japs.

The two-column map shows the location of Kinchow and the position of the opposing armies at its capture by the Japanese on May 26. The Japanese having taken Kinchow, attacked and carried Nanshan Hill to the south, assisted by a naval bombardment from Kinchow bay. After being driven from Nanshan Hill, the Russians retreated to Nanchau and Sanchilipo. Kinchow, which is a point of great strategic value, is situated on the narrow neck of land separating Tallywan and Kinchow bays, and commands the approach to Port Arthur. Kinchow is the most fertile in China, a perfect granary, with its four points of the compass. Previously to its recent capture it was strongly fortified and surrounded with walls forty feet in height. Although within territory leased to Russia, it still belongs to China, having been expressly excluded from Japanese jurisdiction under the treaty that gave the Liaoting peninsula to the Czar. In the war with China the Japanese blew up the gates of Kinchow and captured the town without the loss of a single man.

BLOOD WASHES DECKS.

Fearful Slaughter on the Hitachi by Russian Guns.

Details in connection with the sinking of the Japanese transport Hitachi by Russian warships have been received at Tokyo. The Russian ships were sighted at 7 o'clock in the morning and in response to a signal the Hitachi was stopped, but at 10 o'clock got under way again and attempted to escape. The Russians followed and opened a heavy fire, directed at the water line, with the evident intention of destroying the troops on board. The fire was terrific and in a few minutes the decks were covered with corpses and drenched with blood.

One shell which struck the engine room killed 200 men. The ship began to list and sink gradually by the stern. At 6 o'clock in the evening she was completely submerged. Capt. Campbell, the English master of the transport, jumped overboard at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and is numbered among the missing. The chief engineer was killed on the bridge. The commander of the troops ordered the flag to be burned and then killed himself. The second mate committed suicide. Many of the crew and the troops escaped in the boats.

The transport Sado was badly damaged. She sighted the Russian ships thirty-five miles west of Shiro Island. Their signals to stop were unheeded, so the Russian opened fire and committed suicide. Many of the crew and the troops escaped in the boats.

LOSES A LEG.

Commander of Russian Forces at Port Arthur Seriously Injured.

A report has reached St. Petersburg that a great naval battle was fought outside of Port Arthur on June 10. Gen.

LOSE OVER $100,000,000.

Farmers Hard Hit by Diseases Which Injure Plants.

Losses to crops through plant diseases are estimated now as amounting into hundreds of millions of dollars yearly.

According to the report for 1903, just issued by the Department of Agriculture, the damage to the potato crop through blight and rot was $10,000,000 in New York State alone. From all parts of the country reports of sorts of crops come and make up a total monetary loss that is well-nigh impossible to estimate.

The cotton root rot in Texas prevailed to a greater extent than for many years, the loss being estimated at about $2,000,000.

Auricularias has been generally prevalent from North Carolina to Georgia and locally injurious, especially to sea island cotton in South Georgia. Will continues to spread slowly and now occurs in limited areas in North Carolina and South Carolina, and is widely prevalent in South Georgia and southeastern Alabama, in connection with root rot. Rust occurred as usual on the poorer soils and was unusually severe in Texas.

The potato blight and rot caused widespread destruction, being especially enormous in New York, Pennsylvania, northern Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin. The cherry shot hole fungus was injurious in New York and Pennsylvania and prevailed destructively in Iowa and Nebraska. Crown gall is becoming more serious every year as a nursery pest throughout the country. The black rot of grape was more general in Connecticut and Rhode Island, the loss being 40 per cent.

Corn smut caused heavy loss in Maryland and was common in New York. Corn leaf blight was general in Connecticut, Delaware, eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Alfalfa rust affected Ohio and rice blight was felt especially in the Cooper River section of South Carolina, where the crop was over 100,000 bushels short. The loss from the spread of this disease in the last six years is estimated at $1,000,000. Asparagus rust is increasing in the East and important cutting districts are badly affected. Watermelon wilt is spreading in the South and cantaloupe leaf blight was injurious, especially in the South, the loss in Florida being 40 per cent.

Apple scab was much less injurious in the East, but it seems to have been more destructive in the West, especially in Wisconsin, Eastern Nebraska and Missouri. Apple canker or brown rot was prevalent in Connecticut, Ohio, New York and Michigan. Black heart, a disease affecting the wood of apple trees, was reported from Montana, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and adjacent States.

Brown rot was again less injurious in the Eastern States, but was very destructive to Southern peaches, the loss amounting to from 30 to 60 per cent of the crop in Georgia. Peach leaf curl seems to cause immense losses each year. In Ohio, in Ottawa County alone, the loss from leaf curl was $50,000.

The department in a report on the principal injurious insects of 1903 says the calendar year showed smaller losses than in many years. Certain pests caused great injury in limited localities and several new insect enemies of crops were discovered.

The Mexican cotton boll weevil, which spread into Louisiana, is stamped as the most important insect pest of the present time.

The mileage of the railway system of Mexico now aggregates 10,078 miles. The Southern and Louisville and Nashville will erect a joint brick and stone passenger station at Decatur, Ala. Negotiations have been reopened by the Memphis Freight Bureau to induce the Cotton Belt to continue its Memphis business.

American capitalists will build a railroad between Culiacan, State of Sinaloa, Mexico, and Topia, State of Durango, a distance of about seventy-five miles. It is rumored that the passenger department of the Erie is giving favorable consideration to a plan to equip the road with its own sleeping and parlor cars.

The new steamships which are being built by Mr. James J. Hill for the traffic between Puget Sound and the Orient will each carry 2,000 tons of freight.

The Lake Shore and Michigan Southern has established a new sleeping car service from Chicago to Charleston, W. Va., in connection with the Ohio Central. The Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis and the Louisville and Nashville have entered into a 64-year agreement by which the terminals, switches and other facilities of the two roads are to be used in common. Amended articles of incorporation of the Kansas Central, Oklahoma and Gulf Railroad have been filed at Guthrie, changing the name of the company to the Dominion and Gulf, and increasing the capital from $20,000,000 to $50,000,000. Shipments of flour and grain all-rail to the East last week from Chicago were the largest in a month. Flour increased 0.05 cents for the week and all-rail barrels over last year. Grain increased $70,000 bushels, and was 1,770,000 bushels over last year's. In the provision traffic there was a gain of 645 tons for the week, and 3,600 tons over last year. The Louisville and Nashville is said to have purchased land in Atlantic, Ga., under the stipulation that freight terminals to cost $500,000 be erected thereon. The Southern Pacific passenger department reports that 23,000 home-seekers arrived in California during the months of March and April, an increase of 2,000 over last year. Plans to comply with the laws of Missouri requiring railroads to furnish free return transportation to shippers of live stock, the commission of the State has ordered a hearing on the complaint of a shipper, and will probably order the carrier to

REMARKABLE CURES BY DR. CALDWELL

Help for Sick, Particularly for Those Who Do Not Delay.

Often a Few Weeks of Neglect Allows Disease to Reach a State Where They Can Not be Cured.

Dr. Caldwell heals not by Osteopathy, by Hypnotism, nor by Divine healing, but by a system of natural science in combination with the most true and reliable remedies of the age. She is a woman that cures the sick because she understands the natural cause and the condition of circumstances which bring disease about. Her discoveries are those made from personal experience and from long continued practice in her profession. A woman far beyond the average doctor, a woman who is capable, or otherwise she could not be "successful." Dr. Caldwell, as a practicing physician, is successful, and she is one of the greatest diagnosticians of chronic diseases of the age. Is it not reasonable to believe that if one is successful in one branch of science that woman is particularly capable of being successful in other branches? Do not analyze these matters yourself. Do not allow your thoughts and your opinions to be influenced by others who are not interested. One does not know how to appreciate health until they have lost it. Dr. Caldwell has studied her profession both at home and abroad, and after a thorough and painstaking investigation, has succeeded in curing the diseases of her specialty when other physicians had failed. Why not? Some of these people were blind, some were deaf, some were lame, some paralytic, some unable to move, others afflicted with Bright's disease, heart disease, consumption, cancer, others with kidney trouble, dyspepsia, insomnia and the thousand and one symptoms of those dreadful maladies. It is claimed by her friends that she can tell the disease of a patient without asking him a question. This is perhaps true, for since she is so learned in her profession and so experienced in treating disease, why shouldn't she know the exact cause and true reasons of symptoms which produce disease? For years she has been visiting professionally the largest cities of the United States. Her opinions are quickly made, and it is so can be said to them and there she tells them, and if it cannot be made she is equally honest and tells them so. We know that she has cured thousands of cases of disease. We doubt if there is one hundredth of one per cent of the cases that she treats that she fails to cure. We publish by permission the names of a few of her recent cures:
Mrs. Sloan, Akron, Neb., cured of consumption and nervous trouble. The treatment she took improved her at once, and she was soon cured of all her ailments.
O. A. Lundsen, Grand Island, Neb., was troubled with muscular rheumatism and dyspepsia. These troubles soon disappeared.
Mrs. E. McBeth, Harder, Neb., cured of female and nervous troubles, was Mrs. Louis Ernest, Evansville, Ind.—Hollister's "Rocky Mountain Tea" is splendid. Makes sick people well. Cured me after others failed." Tea or tablet form. 35 cents. Raymond's Pharmacy.

A STRONG HEART.
Is assured by perfect digestion. Indigestion swells the stomach and puffs it up against the heart. This causes shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and general weakness. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures indigestion, relieves the stomach, takes the strain off the heart and restores it to a full performance of its function naturally. Kodol increases the strength by enabling the stomach and digestive organs to digest, assimilate and appropriate to the blood and tissues all of the food nutriment. Tones the stomach and digestive organs. Sold by Raymond's Pharmacy.
Into each life some ruins must fall; Wise people don't sit down and howl; Only fools suicide or take to flight; Smart people take Rocky Mountain Tea at night. Raymond's Pharmacy.
NOTICE TO TEACHERS.
Examination for teachers will be held on June 10 and 11, July 16, and August 5 and 6, 1904. No examination in April and May. C. H. BRIGHT, Co. Supt.
