PORT ARTHUR TAKEN BY THE JAPS

Port Arthur has surrendered. Exhausted by months of almost constant fighting, decimated by disease and casualties and hopelessly sealed in its rock fortress, the gallant garrison yielded to its gallant besiegers and the end is now written of the most dramatic war incident of modern times.

Port Arthur surrendered at 9 o'clock Sunday night. The capitulation was preceded by a letter from General Stoessel to General Nogai asking what terms he would be allowed to turn over the stronghold and his troops.

The fall of the fortress was preceded by an attack on the main chain of forts, in which there was a terrific explosion, followed by the upheaval of a huge pillar of earth and stones.

The news that the Russian forces at Port Arthur have surrendered follows upon a month of reverses.

On Dec. 4 High (203-Meter) hill, one of the most commanding positions in the series of forts held by the Russians, was captured by the Japanese after a severe fight, in which the loss on both sides was enormous. It was from this hill that the deathblows were dealt the warships that were then remaining in the harbor, and afterwards the Japanese guns were trained upon the town and such forts as were within range.

On Dec. 19 the East Keekwan fort was taken by the Japanese, affording them another advantageous position from which to assail other forts in the chain of defenses.

All these achievements served to cut communications between the Liaofort, destined to be the "last ditch" of the defenders, from a great part of the chain of forts.

From the hour of the fall of East Keekwan events seemed to be hastening to their culmination, for on Dec. 31 Sangshu mountain fell into the hands of the besiegers, and only a few hours later the Hi-fort, another strong position, was captured.

"I offer to surrender because further practical resistance is useless," was the message that General Stoessel forwarded to General Nogai, when the stalwart defender of Port Arthur struck his colors over the besieged citadel at 9 o'clock Sunday night.

This message, carried between the lines by trust bearers, came as the spectacular climax of a day of blood, in which the ever-resting, tolling, changing Japanese had drawn their lines closer about the doomed garrison.

Up hills of blood and through corpse-strewn gullies and barbed-wire entanglements General Nogai's wearied men had fought their way to victory up Shunshu mountain, Falung mountain and Fort "E."

With the fall of these branches of the defenses under the withering, relentless, resistless charge of the brown men, Port Arthur's inner defenses were shattered to the last. Stoessel's handful of defenders were left under the mercy of the Japanese fire.

It was following this desperate fighting of Saturday and Sunday, with the Japanese gaining foot after foot, that General Stoessel struck Port Arthur's colors Sunday night.

In accordance with Admiral Wiron's orders the disabled battleship Sevastopol, outside the harbor, was blown up, and the other large Russian ships inside the harbor were destroyed as thoroughly as possible.

The Japanese acceptance was returned in the following words: "I have the honor to reply to your proposal to hold negotiations regarding the conditions and order of capitulation. For this purpose I have appointed as commissioner Major General Hichi, chief of staff of our army. He will be accompanied by some staff officers and civil officials. They will meet your commissioners Jan. 2, noon, at Shantung.

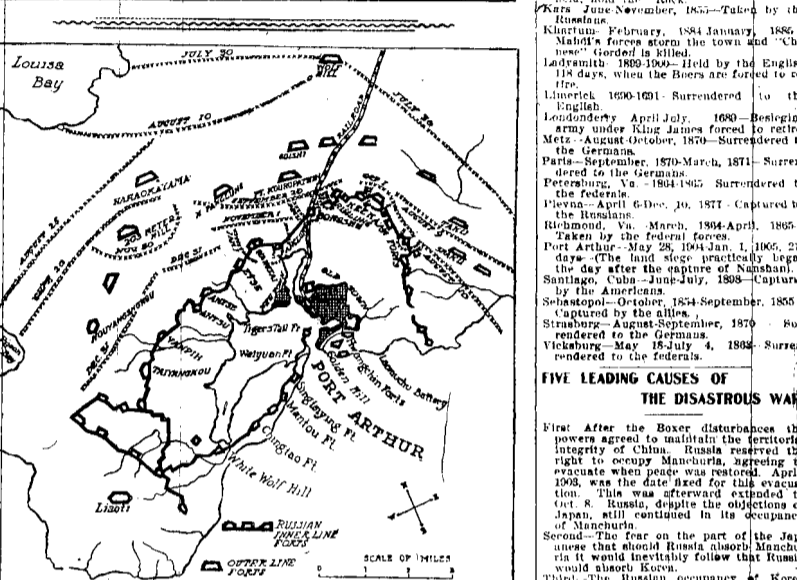

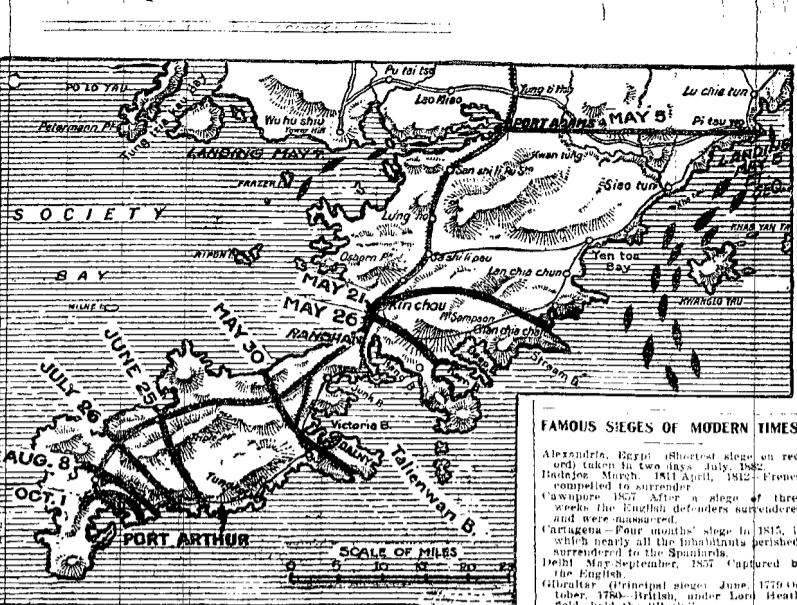

"Should you consent to the same, you will please appoint commissioners for discussing the order and conditions regarding capitulation, and also appoint a place for such commissioners to meet the same appointed by me."

"I take this opportunity to convey to your excellency assurances of my respect. STOESSEL."

At 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon a Russian bearer of a flag of truce went into the first line of the Japanese position before Port Arthur and handed a letter to the Mikado's officers, containing an offer to surrender.

"Judging by the general condition of the whole line of hostile positions held by you, I find further resistance at Port Arthur useless, and for the purpose of preventing needless sacrifice of lives, I propose to hold negotiations with reference to capitulation."

"Should you consent to the same, you will please appoint commissioners for discussing the order and conditions regarding capitulation, and also appoint a place for such commissioners to meet the same appointed by me."

DEATH GRAPPLE BEFORE PORT ARTHUR.

HAND GRENADES AND BAYONETS WERE USED. The Russian naval officers who escaped to Chee-Foo just before the surrender of General Stoessel gave a vivid picture of the terrific struggle that took place in the casemates of the beleaguered fortress in the last five days of the siege.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES.
More interest is being taken in the Farmers' Institute this season than ever before. More institutes are being held and more farmers are being reached. The present force of speakers has not been excelled in point of numbers or efficiency. The speakers are all practical, progressive men who are recognized as leaders in the lines that they discuss. The men on the force from our own state are chosen because of their practical and successful experience and their ability to present their subjects to the people. They are acquainted with the conditions prevailing in Nebraska and know under what difficulties our people labor. These men have passed through the trials and triumphs common to the Nebraska farmer. They speak from experience, and therefore, with authority. They are the best men that we are able to secure and are giving excellent satisfaction. To last year's force have been added others of the same stamp.

Two ladies have been secured to speak on domestic science, poultry and home topics. We anticipate that their services will be much appreciated.

Some excellent speakers have been secured from other states. They are persons of recognized ability; some of them of national reputation. They have the training acquired by many years of practical experience on the farm and in other lines of agricultural work. No theoretical or inexperienced person is given a place on the force. Each speaker has a great store of practical experience and has established a reputation for sound judgment, sound doctrine and successful practice.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE LECTURES
(D. P. Ashburn of Gibbon.)
Mr. D. P. Ashburn was brought up on a dairy farm in northeastern Ohio. He moved with his family to Gibbon, Nebraska, in 1871, where he engaged in dairying and stock raising until 1880, when he started the first creamery in the west of Fremont. Patrons came from the neighbors soon increased the business of the creamery to such an extent that a larger creamery was built. This was equipped with all the latest improvements known at that time. The business was a success in every particular and continued for ten years. The home dairy increased till the herd numbered 105 Shorthorn milch cows. Mr. Ashburn gave special attention to raising the calves on skim milk, with uniform success. He also raised pure bred hogs.

For several years Mr. Ashburn has given much study to the improvement of corn and has taken a course in corn judging at the Iowa Agricultural College. He is one of the best qualified corn judges in the West. His lectures on selection and care of seed corn are the result of years of study and careful observation. We have no hesitation in recommending him as an expert (corn) judge and one of the leading lecturers on the subject in the United States.

Mr. Ashburn began Farmers' Institute work twenty years ago in Nebraska. He has spent one winter on the state institute force of New York and some time in Vermont. For several years he has given his entire time during the institute season to the institute work. His topics are: "Breeding and Selection of Seed Corn," "Planting and Cultivation of Corn," "Breeding and Developing a Dairy Herd," "Raising Calves on Skim Milk," "Producing Pork at a Profit," "Poultry Raising."

Mr. Claude Hinman has received his instruction in dairying under Prof. A. L. Haacker, as a student in the University and later as an assistant in the Department of Dairying. Before coming to the University, Mr. Hinman was engaged in practical dairying. He combines the practical with the theoretical, and will give excellent instruction wherever he speaks. He illustrates his lectures with charts for this work. His lecture on the Principles

The woman is a beast of burden; she is the originator and founder of the Southern Medical Institute of Louisville Ky., and has within the last three years established a large office in Minneapolis, Minn.

Her system for curing varicocele, hydrocele and disease of men is the quickest and best known. Her cure for asthma, heart breathing and shortness of breath has never been known to fail. For blood poisoning, lost manhood and nervous debility she is perhaps the best known of her kind without being cured when they once placed themselves under her celebrated treatment. Her treatment is free from humbug, but you can, out of gratitude, conscientiously recommend her to your fellow men.

In diseases of stout development and slow growth, deformity, curvature of the spine, both in young and old, the best treatment is not what you cure for treatment if your home doctor can cure you. She wants those cases that have been given up by such physicians as incurable cases. She will promise to restore them to health, their families and their friends. In bronchitis and all diseases of the throat, lungs or any other organs, she can usually overcome them in the shortest length of time. Paralysis, locomotor ataxia, dropsy and piles are quickly and permanently cured. Dr. Caldwell has cured many cases of bowels tumors, appendicitis, and other abdominal troubles; she is one of the most successful practitioners and has never been known to fail. In female weakness, displacements, drains, ulcers and irregular menstruation there is no cure, no matter where she has, but with anything with which she has made her name, she has nothing to publish.

Mrs. Sloan, Akron, Neb., cured of consumption and nervous trouble. The treatment she took improved her at once, and she was soon cured of all ailments.

Mr. Lunden, Grand Island, Neb., was troubled with muscular rheumatism and dyspepsia. These troubles soon disappeared.

Mrs. R. McBeth, Butler, Neb., cured of female nervous troubles. She was told by doctors operated would be necessary. Cured in four months' treatment.

Mrs. J. Robbins of North Platte, Neb., writes "I had been doctored for years without relief for kidney trouble, flatulent and general debility. The Flatulent cure of Dr. Caldwell of North Platte cured me of the cure with two injections."

Oscar Emmitt, Columbus, Neb., cured of what other doctors called incurable blood disease.

Mrs. Ella J. Mason, Grand Island, Neb., cured of chronic eye trouble and cataract.

Mr. John Conelly, Akron, Neb., cured of cancer.

Mrs. E. Zurig, Bluevale, Neb., cured of female trouble, diabetes and stomach trouble.

Mrs. F. Fuller, York, Neb., cured of stomach and bowel trouble and kidney trouble.

Miss Debra, Waco, Neb., cured of skin disease of years standing; had been treated by many doctors.

Mrs. Oscar Lange, Tekamah, Neb., cured of...

and other female trouble.

Mr. Lonie Harper, Columbus, Neb., cured of Bright's disease, heart trouble, and nervousness.
