DESERVED POPULARITY.

To cure constipation and liver trouble by gently moving the bowels and acting as a tonic to the liver, take Little Early Risers. These famous little pills are mild, pleasant and harmless, but effective and cure. Their universal use for many years is a strong guarantee of their popularity and usefulness. Sold by Raymond's Pharmacy.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS.

Examinations will be held on the third Saturday and Friday proceeding in January, February and March, 1905. No examination in December, 1904.
C. H. BAUMER,
County Superintendent.

The threatened Russian revolution has been deferred at least.

The ladies of the Catholic church will hold a bazaar and supper on Monday, April 24, at the opera house.

Members of the South Dakota legislature are putting up a fight to secure a primary election law for that state.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Blair gave an enjoyable dinner party Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Damon.

Fremont is having a big religious revival, all denominations uniting to fight the devil and get mankind on the right track.

The Lincoln Journal reports that Cedar county farmers are preparing to enter competition with Missouri by raising mules.

Howard Beemer, a brakeman living at Norfolk, caught one of his feet under a moving car at West Point on Wednesday of last week, having it badly crushed.

Wisner is considering the question of putting in a lighting system, and will probably vote on a proposition at the spring election to issue bonds for that purpose.

A committee of the Nebraska legislature visited the twine factory operated in conjunction with the Kansas penitentiary, and a similar industry is urged for this state.

"Rising temperature" announced nearly every day by the weather forecasting department has not had the soothing influence on the elements that people have wished for.

Prof. J. A. Stahl, county superintendent of Ouningo county, has bought of Julius Thiele the Democrat at West Point and expects to relinquish pedagogy for journalism. The HERALD wishes him success.

Geo. Damon received a telegram Saturday announcing the death of his brother-in-law in Council Bluffs. On account of the railroad being blocked, Mr. Damon was unable to reach there for the funeral Sunday.

More snow lies on the ground than has been seen at one time since 1888, so some one says, and it is announced as an assurance of big crops. It is gratifying to know that there are good results ahead, making the frequent, storms and bitter cold more bearable.

H. F. Wilson received a message Sunday from Geo. Bogart of Shenandoah, Ia., stating that his youngest daughter had died the night before. She was aged about nineteen years. Mr. Bogart is one of the directors of the First National bank at this place.

A man and wife arrived on the belated train from the east Saturday night with the remains of their child which they were taking to Bloomfield for burial. As no trains left for Bloomfield, on account of the blockade, until Monday forenoon, they were compelled to wait in Wayne until that time.

Eggs have been 48 cents a dozen in Chicago, 40 cents in Omaha and 25 cents in Wayne. In Chicago the meat packers have secured a corner on hen fruit, having forty-five million eggs in cold storage. That can't be done in Wayne as long as John Kate and the rest of us raise pure-bred chickens, schooled to lay at the right time of the year.

Following from the Randolph Reporter refers to a deal mentioned in the HERALD last week: A. G. Hanson and N. Hansen, two young men from Wayne, have purchased the meat market formerly operated by H. Gephardt. Both are enterprising young men and will undoubtedly put a vim into the business that will make it a success.

Alva Childs and bride, who were united in marriage at this place on Wednesday of last week, departed Monday for their future home at Redfield, S. D., and were accompanied by the best wishes of many friends. The bride is the esteemed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Larson of near La Porte, and the groom is a son of George Childs, one of the pioneer business men of Wakefield.

To show the efficiency of advertising, this department offered a cow for sale by a notice in the HERALD last week, and twenty minutes after the town had been mailed and before the entire edition had been run, a man appeared at this office in response to the advertisement, subsequently took a look at the cow and bought it. Thus, if you have anything to sell, get it before the people through your local paper and you can almost invariably find a buyer without delay. Advertising, like the railroad, telegraph and telephone, saves time and facilitates and increases business.

The sale of Shorthorns by Clark & Peterson on March 4, is going to present an opportunity for the securing of herd headers and improvers that ought not to be overlooked. These breeders have two of the good herds of the state and the drafts offered on the date named will not be of the inferior or tall end stuff, but will be of the best they have and the breeders being men of known reliability ought to be an inducement to intending purchasers. Everything offered will be absolutely guaranteed and the guaranty will carry with it a responsibility not to be had of outside or unknown men and we trust the sale will have a good attendance and that purchasers will be made in accordance with the merits of the animals.

Norfolk is the home of a lady who has slept in a tent during the present winter for the benefit of her health, and the intense cold, often thirty below zero, has not persuaded her to abandon her practice. Mrs. A. J. Salmen's health was rapidly falling until last fall she weighed only 118 pounds. Since then, on the advice of a physician, she has slept in a tent, and has gained thirty-two pounds. She is now robust and has baffled the disease that threatened her life. Besides breathing in the icy, stimulating air, she took a cold sponge bath each night before retiring.

North Nebraska realty was never in better demand during a winter season than it is now and from almost every town and locality comes news of the transfer of property and changes in ownership. The excellent crops that have been raised in this section of the country for many years cannot fail to attract the attention of those who are looking for fertile lands at reasonable prices and the time will not be far distant when all the best farms will be in the hands of those who will hold them for the certain profit that they will bring under careful and scientific cultivation. The satisfied farmers are not anxious to dispose of their holdings and there will be fewer transfers each succeeding year.—Norfolk News.

The drifting snow on Saturday delayed all trains and on some lines compelled a suspension of traffic. The passenger train from Sioux City, due here at 6:50, did not arrive until near midnight and remained in Wayne until Sunday afternoon when it went on to Norfolk. There was no train from that place to Sioux City on Sunday. The Bloomfield branch was badly blocked. The train that left Wayne over that line Saturday morning at ten o'clock became completely stalled in the snow near Shoes and extra engines were sent to its assistance. There were six engines pushing or pulling the train at one time. It did not reach its destination, Bloomfield, until Monday morning at one o'clock. There were no other trains over the line until Monday. All main line trains were suspended Sunday, and the Newcastle branch was still tied up Monday. Every railway line of the state was blocked and many of the branches had to be abandoned temporarily. Besides the heavy snow, the intense cold made the work of clearing tracks slow. The storm was the most obstructive to railroad traffic experienced here in twelve years.

The Daroo-Jersey hog interest is not going to be neglected in the near future if James T. Hurst can help it. Last week he attended the Russell sale at Herman and purchased the great yearling sow Glendale Nell, by Goldust Jim, one of the great sires of this breed, and who died last year after being a winner at several shows, among other places being the Iowa State fair. The dam of this great sow is Red Rose by Akarlen King. Mr. Hurst paid for this sow $115, the highest price paid for a sow at this sale, where the average price for the entire number sold was over $78. In speaking of good hogs it is well to note the fact that at the sale of Manley & Co. at Lyons recently the top price for a gilt was $410, and another sold for $300, and both of these gilts were litter sisters of Ohimes Advance, the boar used by Mr. Hurst this season. M. S. Moats of Shoes is another Wayne county breeder of Daroo-Jerseys who is not sparing any money in the purchase of foundation stock for the building of one of the great herds of the state. At the Lyons sale of Manley & Co. and also at the sale of Russell, Mr. Moats was a purchaser of some of the very best bred sows offered. With such breeders as these seeking the best there are regardless of price, Wayne county is certainly being offered an opportunity for herd improvement not surpassed anywhere.

The early days of bankers in Wayne were not always bright. When "Bob" Taylor was in charge of the Citizens bank a fellow by the name of Steer who lived north of town came in one day and got a loan of "Bob" and gave him a chattel mortgage on five white steers. Time ran along and finally pay day came but the fellow didn't show up with the stuff to settle the debt and after waiting a few days or weeks "Bob" went out to the fellow's home and asked him about the payment and the man remarked he was very sorry but it was asked for him to pay; then "Bob" inquired about the security and was told it was all right, and then "Bob" went to see the cattle, when the fellow stepped out into the yard where a number of children were playing and pointed out five of them saying "these are your white steers, take 'em if you want 'em," but "Bob" lost his money. A story is told of another banker who is still in business here who loaned Nick Lemm (you remember him Goldie) fifty dollars and took a mortgage on "a good young mule" and when the debt became due and the banker was urgent about its payment Nick went out and brought about as poor a specimen of mule kind as it was possible to find and for which he paid 50 cents and brought it to town. He led it in front of the bank and went in and said to the banker, "I am sorry that I can't pay the debt but I can't do it and out there is your mule." The banker looked out of the window at the miserable creature, threw up his hands and declared the debt settled. Speaking of Nick another of his tricks comes to our mind. Nick borrowed some money of one of the banks and gave a mortgage on "five hundred bushels of oats" as security. He had the oats in a bin and in the bin adjoining he had a lot of barley. After Nick got the money he began to figure up a way to beat the debt and finally hit on an idea; he pulled out some of the lower division boards and mixed the oats and barley together and then got hard up and couldn't pay the debt; eventually Ed. Reynolds who was sheriff at the time was sent out to get the oats and when he asked Nick where it was, he took him to the granary and in a very cool and collected manner pointed to the oats saying "there is your oats, but don't you take any of my barley," and Ed. came home without the oats.

CARROLL WINS AT CHECKERS.

The Carroll and Wayne checker clubs met in a contest here Friday afternoon to settle the international championship and after a series of closely and hotly fought battles the visitors were declared victors, winning by two games. According to the rules of such events, fifteen games should have been played, by each participant, but the time grew short, darkness came on and the struggle for supremacy had to be abridged. Otherwise Wayne players might have sharpened their wits, stimulated their skill and boosted themselves ahead. Here is the result:

GIVE YOUR STOMACH A REST.

Your food must be properly digested and assimilated to be of any value to you. If your stomach is weak or diseased take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and gives the stomach a rest enabling it to recuperate, take on new life and grow strong again. Kodol cures sour stomach, gas, bloating, heart palpitation and all digestive disorders. L. A. Soper of Little Rock, Ky. writes us: "We feel that Kodol Dyspepsia Cure deserves all the commendation that can be given it, as it saved the life of our little girl when she was three years old. She is now six and we have kept it for her constantly, but of course she only takes it now when anything disagrees with her." Sold by Raymond Pharmacy.

KIND WORDS FROM PASADENA.

There are many who remember in the most kindly way, pretty Pauline Piepenstock, who for some time was a clerk at Churhill's and who won many friends by her quiet, winning manner. The sad news of her death has brought to these friends a pang of sorrow. She was young and bright, but at the time she was here disease had already marked her for its own, though she appeared so well and strong. Mrs. J. A. Churhill went to Ocean Park to attend the funeral.—Pasadena Star.

PUBLIC IS AROUSED

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 548 St. Clair Ave., Columbus, O., writes: "For several months I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak, from useless doctors' drugs, that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief, and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at Wayne Drug Co.; price 50c.

TRIFLE MIXED.

Our morning contemporary is somewhat mixed in its Norris. The Norris mentioned for the high school commencement orator is not the congressman from the fifth district but Judge W. F. Norris of Ponca, United States judge for the district of Samar, Philippine Islands, scholar and orator.—Fremont Tribune.

The Tribune is also a trifle mixed. Judge Norris' latest American residence was Wayne; but he is now in the Philippines and will not be available for commencement orations this year.

BURIED WRONG BODY

WEIRD MISTAKE OF FUNERAL PARTY AT HULL, IA.

Remains of J. W. Bogess Were to Be Taken from Sheldon by Train, But the Wrong Casket Was Taken from the Sheldon Station.

Hull, Ia., Feb. 14. The intensely cold weather and delayed trains were partly responsible for a weirdly strange error at Hull Friday.

The body of a woman, a stranger, and whose name is not known here, was buried by J. W. Bogess, an old soldier. When the latter's comrades, after separating at the grave, learned of the mistake which had been made, they were shocked, and haste was made to correct the strange error.

J. W. Bogess, the old soldier, who was the father of Mrs. Charles Ballard, of Sheldon, Ia., died at that place on Wednesday. Arrangements were made for the interment at Hull and it had been expected to send the body to the latter place by train, but on account of the cold and snow the train was eight hours late and it was finally sleigh.

The driver went to the station to get the casket, and by mistake took hold of the wrong corpse, took it to Hull, and it was duly interred.

Then, a telephone message from Sheldon announced the discovery of the mistake, and the body of Mr. Bogess was taken to the station at Sheldon. The body which had been buried at Hull was that of a woman en route from Missouri to White Lake, S. D.

The body was disinterred at the Hull cemetery and sent to Sheldon on the first train. The body of Mr. Bogess also reached Hull by train later and was duly interred.

The strange and distressing error created considerable excitement.

MANY ARE HURT.

Rear-End Collision on Elevated Road in New York.

New York. Nineteen persons were seriously injured in a rear-end collision between two trains on the Third Avenue Elevated Railroad at One Hundred and Forty-ninth Street station in the Bronx Friday night.

One of the injured will probably die and another's recovery is doubtful. At the time of the accident the seven cars of the rear train, which is expected to constitute the star attraction in the inaugural parade.

The rear car of the first train was lifted up ten feet and the motor car of the second train was thrown on top of it. Three cars were entirely wrecked.

Chicago and Alton Officials in Danger—No One Hurt.

Kansas City. A special Chicago and Alton train, which brought O. A. Goodnow, the general manager, and other Alton officials into Kansas City, was crashed into by a freight train in front of the Union depot Friday night.

The general manager was thrown against a table in his car, but was not hurt. The rear vestibule was broken from his car and the interior decorations knocked from their fastenings. No one was injured.

Fatal Collision in Ohio.

Dayton, O. As the result of a collision between an incoming Dayton, Springfield and Urbana passenger car and a stock car on the Dayton, Covington and Cuyahoga line, several miles east of this city, Thursday night, Leonard D. Parker, of Piqua, a turntable dealer, sustained a fractured skull and died an hour afterward.

Miller is Pardoned.

Albany, N. Y. Gov. Hilgus Friday commuted the sentence of Wm. F. Miller, of Brooklyn, convicted of grand larceny in connection with the $20 per cent. Franklin syndicate. He will be released Monday. Miller was sentenced in April, 1900, to serve ten years.

Stox City Stock Market.

Stox City. Friday's quotations on the Stox City stock market follow: Cattle, $2.25; hogs, $2.25; top hogs, $4.25.

Automobile Hits a Stage.

Havass. E. R. Thomas' chauffeur, Ed Hawley, was seriously injured and killed when his automobile struck the result of a collision Friday afternoon between Mr. Thomas' ninety-horse power touring automobile and a country stage.

Robbed Striker Train.

New Brighton, Pa. A man and two boys were killed; two boys are dying and three more were slightly injured as the result of a bobbed dashing into a train Friday night. Eight other boys on the train escaped.

Shortage of $35,000 Found.

Grand Forks, N. D. J. J. Lewis, head bookkeeper of the Grand Forks Mercantile company, has been missing for a week and experts working on his disappearance have gradually accumulated a shortage of $35,000. Lewis had gradually accumulated large real estate holdings, all of which he had placed in his wife's name.

Insurrection Quelled.

Independence, Kan. The Standard Oil Company has quelled the outbreak in the Kansas field, by the use of 900 non-industrial. The act is said to be the result of a non-industrial measure passed by the legislature.

FATAL WRECK.

Milwaukee Engine and Train Goes Through a Trestle.

Melbourne, Ia. One man was killed, twenty-five persons more or less seriously injured and eight coaches demolished in a wreck of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Overland Thursday night on the trestle over the half-mile west of Melbourne, Ia., early Thursday morning.

Three of the injured are in a dangerous condition and may die. Only the narrow kind of good fortune prevented a much larger loss of life.

The Overland Limited, known as No. 1, the most train on the Milwaukee system, was hurrying westward, drawn by two huge engines. It was behind time and was attempting to make up time and was on its way to Perry. A break in a rail, caused probably by the intense cold, checked its progress and it was finally derailed.

The broken rail, which caused the wreck was just to the east of a 200-foot trestle which carried the track across a dry run. The first engine passed over it all right, but the second engine was derailed.

Only the narrow kind of good fortune prevented a much larger loss of life.

MAY SAVE NEGRO'S NECK.

Mrs. Edwards, Murderess, Exonerates Samuel Greason.

Reading, Pa. Mrs. Kate Edwards, who is under sentence to be hanged with Samuel Greason Thursday next for the murder of her husband, made a statement to the court Thursday in which it is said she exonerates Greason from complicity in the murder.

The statement will not be given to the public until it is presented to the board of pardons, but the inference is left that she has admitted that she alone committed the murder.

Mrs. Edwards and Greason, who is a colored man, were convicted of the murder of Edwards, and since the death sentence has been pronounced extraordinary efforts have been made to save them from the gallows.

The board of pardons has heretofore refused to intervene, and the state supreme court has confirmed the lower court's decision.

Mrs. Edwards' confession, it is thought, will place the case in an entirely new aspect before the board of pardons. The board will meet at Harrisburg Feb. 15, the day before the date fixed for the double execution.

SHAKEUP IN PHILADELPHIA.

Scores of Police Officers Transferred to New Districts.

Philadelphia. In an effort to repress if not wipe out the social evil in Philadelphia, Mayor Weaver on Thursday issued orders to Director of Public Safety Smyth, the head of the police, calling for a shakedown in the history of that department.

The mayor's order directs the head of the department to transfer all the officers, from lieutenant down, from such police districts in which disorderly houses are supposed to exist to some other district where there are no such houses.

Continuing, the orders say: "Let the same orders go out that have heretofore been given that the officer will be immediately dismissed who is in any way, directly or indirectly, interested in any social evil, or who commences or encourages the same."

Old officers are to remain in their new district and not to return to or become active in the old.

HOCH ARRIVES IN CHICAGO.

Prisoner Disappointed Because His Chances Were Not at the Depot.

Chicago. Johann Hoch, indicted for bigamy and suspended on bail, and a man of many aliases, arrived in Chicago Thursday night and for several hours after reaching here was interrogated by the police with little satisfaction.

A large crowd had gathered to see the famous prisoner, but none of his alleged wives was among the number.

Hoch had evidently expected a number of his wives to meet him at the station, but he was plainly disappointed that they did not come.

During the evening five women, who claimed to be wives of Hoch, called at the police station.

Later the five women were one at a time, admitted to the office of the inspector and all of them identified Hoch as the man to whom they were married.

MUST GIVE UP PROPERTY.

Hannah Elias Directed by the Court to Turn Over $635,000 Worth.

New York. Justice Leventritt in the supreme court, Manhattan, gave a decision Thursday in the Platt-Elias suit, in which John H. Platt seeks to impress a trust on realty valued at $635,000 purchased by money given by him to Hannah Elias and others to turn over the woman's property in their possession to Gilbert H. Montague, the receiver appointed by the court to take charge of the property in the hands of the woman, within ten days.

Should this order not be obeyed application will be made to have the various persons and corporations punished for contempt.

Ryan is Acquitted.

St. Louis. Sustaining the demurrer of the defense, Judge Lester ordered verdict of acquittal in the case of John J. Ryan, charged with embezzlement, grand larceny and obtaining money under false pretenses in an alleged "get-rich-quick" investment concern. Nolle prosequit in other indictments against Ryan were also entered.

Trial of Mrs. Chadwick.

Cleveland, O. The trial of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick in the federal court has been set for March 7. She will be tried before Judge R. W. Taylor.

Acquitted of Murder in 10 Minutes.

Memphis, Mich. After being out on bail for six months the jury brought in a verdict Thursday charging the defendant with the charge of murdering his brother-in-law, Gust Adams, at Nathan, Sept. 30, 1903.

Gets a Life Sentence.

Loran, W. Va. Floyd Hillings was Thursday sentenced to life imprisonment for the brutal killing of Rose White near Chapman's mill, December, 1903. Floyd's brother, Ballard Stollings, and wife will now be tried as accomplices.

Was Paid to Get Away.

Winchester, Ky. The deposition of Samuel Fields, one of the witnesses who it is alleged was enticed away from here during the Martin-Harris trial, was taken here Thursday. He corroborated Mose Peltner in that French paid them money to leave Winchester.

Insurrection Quelled.

Chicago. An insurrection charging Manager Will J. Davis with manslaughter on account of the loss of life in the Triangle theater fire was quashed Thursday by Judge Kerwin on the ground that the document failed to show any omission of duty on the part of Davis.

NEW REGULATIONS GOOD.

Physical Examination for Unskilled Laborers Works Well.

Washington. The civil service commission is conducting examinations for a number of the large cities for the unskilled laboring positions in the government, particularly in the postoffice and custom houses, and has found that the new regulations by which candidates for these places are examined are resulting in a marked difference in the class of persons appointed.

The commission expects that the regulations which provide for these examinations which involve no educational test, but determine the relative standing of the applicants by their physical condition and adaptability for laboring work, will prevent any further censuring of the civil service rules by the laboring unions, who are not qualified for laboring work.

DISASTER IN MICHIGAN MINE.

Ten Thousand Pounds of Dynamite Explodes.

Calumet, Mich. Ten thousand pounds of dynamite stored underground in a magazine at the eighth level of No. 3 shaft of the North Kearsarge branch of the Osceola Consolidated mine exploded Wednesday, killing several men, three of whom have been accounted for, and injuring many others. The force of the explosion was felt for miles north and west working in other portions of the mine some distance from the scene of the explosion were knocked down by the concussion.

The cause of the disaster is shrouded in mystery and may never be discovered, as William Paultz, Jr., the man who was in charge of the mine, and probably blown into thousands of pieces, no trace of him having been found.

FINE MUST BE REFUNDED.

Court of Claims Decides a Porto Rican Customs Case.

Washington. The United States court of claims has decided the Porto Rican customs case of Narciso Basso against the United States, holding that the fine of $1,500 collected from Basso for smuggling goods into Porto Rico was illegal and must be refunded.

In July, 1899, Basso was arrested, tried and convicted of bringing goods into Porto Rico without payment of duty, and was fined $1,500 and sentenced to six months imprisonment. The fine was paid under protest and action was begun in the United States court of claims to recover the amount. The court in effect holds that the law under which Basso was convicted was not extended to Porto Rico until May 1, 1900.

"STUFFED" A BALLOT BOX.

Denver City Detective W. H. Green Pleads Guilty and is Sentenced to Jail.

Denver, Colo. City Detective William H. Green pleaded guilty in the criminal court Wednesday to the charge of "stuffing" a ballot box at the election of Nov. 6, 1904. It was alleged that Green, with others, cast 587 fraudulent ballots in the precinct commonly known as Green County.

Green was sentenced to jail for ninety days and fined $100. He was also fined $100 for conspiracy to defraud. Other informants against Green were released. Edward Sweeney pleaded guilty to conspiracy to make a false count as judge at the late election and was sentenced to ninety days in jail.

THE SHERIFF FOLLOWED.

Prisoner Jumps from Moving Train, but is Recaptured.

St. Louis. A special to the Globe-Democrat from Fulton, Mo., says: Harvey F. Pitt, a school teacher in custody of Sheriff Cole, of Calloway County, attempted to escape Wednesday by jumping through the car window from a moving passenger train near Guthrie, an mile southwest of Fulton. Pitt had scarcely reached the ground, however, before the sheriff had pulled the bell cord, but without waiting for the train to stop he also leaped from the train, and after a chase of about 200 yards succeeded in halting Pitt at the point of his flight. Neither of the men was injured in jumping from the train.

IMPORTANT WHEAT RULING.

Frosted Grain from Canada Must Pay Regular Tariff.

St. Paul. A case of importance to farmers of western wheat growing states was decided when the United States district judge at St. Paul, Minn., reversed the decision of the board of appraisers at Minneapolis and declaring that frosted wheat imported from Canada must pay the regular tariff rate of 25 cents per bushel. It had been claimed by the importers that frosted wheat was good seed and should be rated as "unclassified" and made subject to a 10 per cent duty.

Train Leaves the Track.

Little Falls, N. Y. The westbound Southern Railway train on the New York Central leaving New York at 7 p. m. jumped the track at St. Johnsville at 6 o'clock Wednesday night. The train was running at a high rate of speed, when every car left the track, running some distance. No one was seriously injured.

Alfred is Standard Oil.

Topeka, Kan. The senate Wednesday passed a bill to prohibit discrimination of rates between different sections of communities, and providing penalties therefor. The bill was designed to strike at the Standard Oil Company and to protect oil producers and consumers, but it is far reaching and affects all industries.

German Strike Ended.

Essen. A convention of strikers of the entire Rhenish Westphalian coal region adopted a resolution Thursday to return to work.

Bank Broken and Robbed.

Lebanon, Ore. The Bank of Lebanon was blown open and relieved of almost $5,000 in coin and currency. One hundred boxes of currency were used to deaden the sound of the explosion.

St. Louis and Omaha Killed.

St. Louis. James N. Richardson, aged 50 years, president of the McClure Drug Company, committed suicide at his home Wednesday by shooting. Financial difficulties was the reason assigned for the deed.

Acidic Corpse Apprehended.

Pittsburg, Pa. Dr. A. C. Elliott and wife, an aged couple, living at Emma, were apprehended by gas in their home some time during Wednesday. When found by neighbors, the body was sitting with his feet resting on the oven of the stove and a Sunday paper in his lap.

Gambling Houses Closed.

Helena, Mont. County Attorney L. Croft Wednesday ordered the sheriff to stop all forms of gambling in Helena. The sheriff complied with the order and gambling houses in Montana's capital city were closed temporarily.

STATE OF NEBRASKA

NEWS OF THE WEEK IN A CONDENSED FORM.

Some Papers Would Fall if Bill Introduced in Nebraska Legislature Should Pass—It Would Prevent Reprinting of News for 48 Hours.

A bill to prevent the theft of the news was introduced in the lower house of the legislature at Lincoln Saturday by Representative Ellis, of Douglas County. It is designed to give the publisher of a daily newspaper property in the news printed in his columns. It provides that no newspaper shall be entitled to refrain the use of any such matter without a paper within forty-eight hours of the original publication.

The text of the bill is as follows: "Any person or corporation who by labor or expense shall acquire, gather or compile for publication in this state any information concerning recent events of the commonly known as news for the benefit of his or its subscribers or patrons shall have the right of property in the information or news so acquired, which shall not be lost or affected by the publication thereof.

It shall be unlawful for any person or corporation to appropriate the property in such news or information so acquired or to use the same for republication without the consent of the owner, and for any such unlawful appropriation or use of such property the owner shall be entitled to recover damages in any action at law in the same way and to the same extent as for the appropriation of other property. Such owner shall also be entitled to upon application to any judge in the district of such publication or application to equitable relief by writ of injunction restraining such appropriation or use for republication within forty-eight hours, except with the permission of the owner of such property, and on complaint of the owner of such property, and on complaint for violation of such writ of injunction it shall be sufficient to show republication within the time prohibited and to allege failure to secure permission for such republication."

The bill will be read a second time on Monday next in committee. It is said to have the support of leading publishers of the state.

DEADWOOD TRAIN DITCHED.

All the Cars Leave the Rails, but No One is Seriously Hurt.

A wreck on the Chicago and North-western Railroad Wednesday morning of the Deadwood passenger train, caused by spreading rails, resulted in all the cars being thrown from the track, the baggage and express cars being laid on their sides; the smoker and chair car tipped about half way over. One end of the sleeper went down an embankment and Superintendent F. A. Harmon's car was derailed. The Hot Springs train came down and took the passengers north, while the wreckers had to work in a blinding storm to clear the track. No one was hurt except Expressman Dick Jones, who was somewhat bruised. The wreck was within the yard limits, being about two miles west of Chadron.

Epidemic of Diphtheria.

An epidemic of diphtheria is prevalent in the Union Creek valley, six miles east of Madison in Stanton County. A little girl of J. R. Crites died Tuesday and was buried in Stanton. Another girl is said to have died and is in a critical condition. The father of the child and her child are afflicted with it, as is the same house. The house is small and the family are in poor circumstances. The neighbors have been administering aid. Schools in the district has been closed.

Run Off a Turnout.

While engine No. 80 was being turned on the turning table in the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha yards at Oakland, it somehow started and ran off the turning table when only half way around. It went down the embankment some twelve feet. After the engine and company boys had to send to St. James, Minn., for a wrecker to get it back on the track.

Found Over to Grand Jury.

William Dalby, a noted examination when arraigned before Judge Archer at Plattsmouth on the charge of horse stealing, was bound over to the district court, his bond being surrendered. He was taken back to jail having driven away from the street in Greenwood upon New Year's eve a horse and buggy belonging to S. W. Connally.

Double Wedding.

A double wedding took place at the home of Ludwig Kipper, seven miles southwest of Dakota City, in which Miss Helen and Fannie Kipper were the brides and Gaston and Arthur Plooy were grooms. The ceremonies were performed by Rev. S. M. Lebar.

Found Dead in Bed.

Mrs. Jeannette Benson, one of Omaha's pioneer business women, was found dead in her bed Thursday at her home. She had been taken with grip, but had not called a physician and her death was entirely unlooked for.

Farm House Burned.

The Bennett Granger farm home, occupied by his son Charles and family, southwest of Plattsmouth, was consumed by fire Thursday night. The loss is estimated at $2,500, only partially covered by insurance.

Nebraska Bulk Sales Bill.

With but one dissenting vote, the senate committee at Lincoln recommended the bulk sales law for passage. The measure provides for five days' notice to the court clerk before a retailer may dispose of his stock.

Smallpox at Beatrice.

Several cases of smallpox have developed in Beatrice the last few days and the authorities are wondering when they are going to succeed in stamping out the disease. One or two cases of pneumonia are reported.

Residence Burned.

BLIZZARD IN NEBRASKA.

Wind Blowing a Gale and the Mercury Falling.

Specials to Omaha newspapers Wednesday and reports to the weather bureau from the west Nebraska tell of the worst blizzard of the year since 1891. It is moving westward, and Chadden it is stated that a cold wave accompanied by an intense snow storm.

Norfolk also reports a snow storm. The same time it is stated that an intense blizzard is making its way across Iowa. Already a foot of snow covers a greater part of Nebraska, and it is probable that a bad blizzard on the range at this time will result in great suffering and loss of cattle and sheep.

Advices from Hastings and Aurora in the west blizzard of the winter is that of those places. Heavy snow is falling, the wind is high and the temperature falling. The storm is moving eastward.

RESIDENTS GET PREFERENCE.

Homesteaders in North Platte District Will Have First Choice.

A letter just received at the United States land office at North Platte, the commissioner of the general land office at Washington, D. C., and approved by Secretary of the Interior Hittcock, declares that all homesteaders in the north Platte district, who on Feb. 14, who owned and occupied the land as homesteaders on and prior to April 28, 1901, shall have a preferential right to take contiguous lands to their homestead entries for thirty days after Feb. 14, 1905. This decision protects former homesteaders from losing the land and the right to take contiguous lands, and hence they are given this preferential right.

NEBRASKA HORSEMEN.

Meeting at Norfolk to Arrange a Trotting Circuit.

Northern Nebraska horsemen met in Norfolk Wednesday for the purpose of organizing a trotting circuit which will so arrange the dates of the coming county fairs next fall that there will be no chance of conflict in the various dates. The towns represented at the meeting were Norfolk, Creighton, Albion, Stanton, Beatrice and Madison.

The horsemen state that with a circuit better and faster events can be held next fall than with the independent dates. The county fairs in Antelope, Knox, Stanton, Madison, Boone and Wayne Counties next season are to be the managers declare, the best ever held in that section.

AGAIN BEHIND THE BARS.

Bernard McGrovey Re-Arrested at O'Neill.

After enjoying his freedom one week, Bernard McGrovey, defaulting resident of Elk Horn Valley, is behind prison bars at O'Neill, Mo., for a second time. He was arrested Monday afternoon upon two complaints sworn out against him, charged with having received deposits as an officer of the bank when he knew the same to be insolvent. The complaint was sworn to by Margaret Bussey, who alleges he received $50 from her March 20, 1904. The other complaint was sworn to by Cornelia, who alleges he received $45,000 for the purpose of and $150,000 for the operating fund. The vote was 34 to 15.

The house voted to raise the salary of the chief clerk of the engineering and controlling room from $3 to $4 a day. The speaker referred the McGrovey anti-bond bill to the committee on benevolent institutions.

Over Nineteen Thousand Acres Taken at Sidney.

The land which was withdrawn under the Kinkaid act on account of its supposed intractable nature last June and since forced to the market, was sold Monday for thirty. Nineteen thousand two hundred acres were filed upon Monday at the government land office at Sidney, and more would have been taken but on account of the heavy snows the people could not come in to settle.

STATE LEGISLATIVE DIRECTORY

The printed report of the Nebraska state commission to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, compiled by the secretary, H. G. Sheild, has been issued from the press, making a volume of 210 pages. It contains the most interesting information not heretofore made public, however, is contained in the financial exhibit, which shows that the commission had at its disposal the sum of $61,000.75, of which only $55,000 came from the state appropriation, and of this $5,190.30 was turned over to the state treasury. The commission's income came chiefly from the railroads, two of whom gave $9,000 apiece and a third $7,000, the rest being donated by three mercantile companies, or received from the sale of exhibits and installation. The most expensive item among the disbursements is that of $8,243.92 for the architectural modeling figures, which cost $703.05. The Nebraska pavilion in the agricultural building cost $6,949.83. The members of the commission drew all told $901.03 for hotel and traveling expenses, and $825.55 went for entertainment.

While the special joint committee sent to the Kansas penitentiary to report on the state binder (twine plant), favors and will recommend the establishment of such a plant at the Nebraska penitentiary, already a movement has been launched to block such an enterprise. Wardell Hedner has secured the establishment of the plant. The bill introduced in the house providing for such a plan proposes to appropriate $10,000 to establish and $45,000 to operate the plant. The warden seems to think there is not the necessary ground space at the penitentiary and has other objections. It is believed that a plant would receive a three-month delay. But opposed to Wardell Hedner is the great number of farmers of Nebraska and their representatives in the legislature.

The first of a series of times of the women's state policy making championship was held at Lincoln at the Lincoln auditorium between Mrs. Robert C. Cadden, of Omaha, and Miss Dora Hellman, of Lincoln. The race was for a mile, but Miss Hellman had lapped her adversary before the distance was half negotiated. Mrs. Cadden and Miss Hellman will have a second race at the Omaha auditorium on Friday night, Feb. 17. In case the second race is won by Mrs. Cadden the place for the third and deciding contest will be decided by lot. A great crowd saw the race Friday night and a large delegation of Lincoln roller skating enthusiasts will accompany Miss Hellman to Omaha for the race on Feb. 17.

An agreement has been reached between the states of Missouri and Nebraska in regard to the boundary line between Atchison County, Mo., and Nemaha County, Neb., hereafter known as the Missouri-Nemaha boundary. The agreement was signed in the United States supreme court and asked that a decree be entered confirming the agreement. It also asked that a committee of two be appointed to run the boundary line as agreed upon and set up monuments. In view of the participation of several of the farmers, the farmer John W. Hafferton, of Missouri, as arbitrator in running the boundary line between the two states, he further asked that the survey be appointed to conduct the survey and establish the monuments.

Casheer's anti-cigarette bill passed the house Friday morning without a dissenting vote. Seventy-two votes were cast for it. This bill makes it a misdemeanor to manufacture or sell cigarettes or any material entering into their composition. It is not a strange bill in Nebraska, as the anti-cigarette bill was passed up two years ago but did not get through. The general impression is this one will go through the senate with as much facility as it did through the house and become a law.

Capt. J. Pershing and his bride, who arrived in Lincoln Saturday evening from the east to visit relatives, were tendered an elaborate reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Whedon. Four hundred invitations were issued. Capt. and Mrs. Pershing left Sunday evening for their home in the farm house of Mrs. Pershing. Thence they will go to San Francisco, sailing on the 14th for Tokyo, Japan, where Capt. Pershing is to be stationed as United States military attaché.

Among the very first things which Senator Robert Barker has introduced in the senate is a bill which would make him a full fledged senator will be the division of Nebraska into two federal judicial districts. It is expected the Platte River will be used as a dividing line between the two districts. While he anticipates opposition to the measure, it is believed that the majority division was absolutely necessary.

L. J. Dunn, of Lincoln, has been appointed receiver for the Lincoln Traction Company by the district court there. The receivership grows out of long standing legal disputes between the company and its owners all the street car lines in Lincoln.

Meadow Grove is to have a new bank known as the Meadow Grove Farmers and Merchants Bank, with a capital of $100,000. The directors are W. W. Stocker, J. R. Saxton, A. J. Duplery and J. W. Wapick.

The Tarnov State Bank of Tarnov has filed its articles of incorporation with the banking board. The capital stock of this institution is $100,000, and its incorporators are D. L. Gallagher and H. M. Little.

The statement of State Treasurer Mortensen, filed with the auditor Feb. 1, of this month, shows that the treasury for the month of January shows an increase on hand $4,355.76 and by deposit $21,775.82. In the permanent school fund there is $19,129.56 and in the temporary school fund there is $117,314.26. Mr. Mortensen has in his hands a $13,000 investment for the purchase of a bond fund and this investment will be made shortly. There was received in all funds during the month $395,521.50; expended, $410,552.81; balance on hand, $210,135.28.

The annual banquet of the Young Men's Republican Club will be held at the Lindel Hotel in Lincoln Monday evening, Feb. 13. The speakers are A. Gale of Lincoln, Attorney General Hader of Missouri, and W. E. Gurley of Omaha. H. G. Dobbin, of Lincoln, will act as toastmaster.

R. E. Stewart, of Omaha, was appointed superintendent of the institute held at night and dumb at Omaha by Gov. Mickley. Mr. Stewart has been appointed as the head of his institution and his administration of affairs has been commended by the governor.

ADMIT TWO STATES.

OKLAHOMA AND NEW MEXICO TO ENTER UNION.

Senate Passes Stated Bill Admitting Oklahoma and Indian Territory as One State and New Mexico as the Other—Arizona Is Left Out in Cold.

Two more stars were added to the flag by the Senate Tuesday, Oklahoma and Indian Territory, joined, were admitted as one State, and New Mexico as another. For a long time it looked as if there would be only one more star, for New Mexico, after being admitted, was rejected. Then by some skillful parliamentary practice New Mexico was admitted again, and as soon as the House concurs in the bill as amended and the enabling act takes effect there will be 47 States instead of 45. No action was taken as to Arizona, which will remain under territorial government for a while.

After Arizona had been left out as unworthy to enter the Union, presumably because of Mormonism and polygamy within its borders, the Senate passed the Stated Bill. The bill admits Oklahoma and Indian Territory under the name of Oklahoma. It also admits New Mexico. By the terms of the commission drew all told $901.03 for hotel and traveling expenses, and $825.55 went for entertainment.

There was no contest worthy the name over admitting Oklahoma with the Indian Territory annexed, but over the admission of New Mexico the struggle was long and fierce. It lasted for nine hours and the end was reached late this evening and then by the close vote of 39 to 38 in favor of the admission of the territory.

The fight on the admission of New Mexico as a separate State came after Mr. New Mexico had been rejected. Mr. Bard, whose amendments admitting New Mexico had been once accepted and once rejected, struck out the first sentence, so as to remove the point of order against it, and again offered it. It was adopted. Mr. Kearns of Utah, who had first voted for the amendment and then changed, caused the rejection of New Mexico by a tie vote, voting no on the final ballot.

BANKER BECKWITH IS DEAD.

May Materially Affect Cases of Forgery Against Mrs. Chadwick.

C. T. Beckwith, president of the defunct Citizens' National Bank of Oberlin, Ohio, died Sunday night. Only the family was notified. From the death of his arrest Beckwith's health failed rapidly, as a result of worry over his troubles. He frequently declared in his illness that he wanted to die. For several days prior to his death he refused to take food in any form. Death resulted directly from heart trouble.

The death of Mr. Beckwith may materially weaken the cases of forgery and conspiracy to misapply bank funds now charged against Mrs. Chadwick. It was expected he would be the star witness in both the federal and common pleas court. There is no way to perpetuate Beckwith's testimony. The constitution says that the death of a witness cannot be in court by the accused. A deposition or affidavit cannot be used.

Mr. Beckwith was about 65 years old. On Dec. 14 the federal grand jury in Cleveland returned five indictments against Beckwith on the charge of violating the national banking laws in connection with the loan made to Mrs. Charles L. Chadwick by the Citizens' National Bank of Oberlin, which he was the president.

In 1904 the free delivery mail carrier system of the United States employed 20,731 persons in towns and cities and 24,566 on rural routes.

First-class masters in the Steel trust fleet, who have signed for 1905, will receive $1,080 per annum as salary. Most of the old mates will be re-engaged.

A fire tree was cut in Oregon recently which made nine sawings averaging fourteen feet in length, sealing 21,488 feet board measure. The product of this one tree will not more than $1,000.

Chinese capitalists have engaged a number of German engineers to assist them in the establishment of a large glass manufacturing plant in the northwestern part of the province of Kwang Su.

During the past twelve years the 100 principal British trade unions have expended approximately $80,000,000, of which amount $21,000,000, or over 22 per cent, has been spent on unemployed benefits.

About 1,000,000 telegrams are sent over the world's wires daily. In 1902 the total was 384,848,474. England sent 92,471,000. United States was second, with 17,391,000. Germany, Russia, Austria, Belgium and Italy followed in the order named.

The lifting of massive iron and steel plates, weighing four, six and twelve tons, which are used in the construction of the hulls of battleships, is accomplished by means of hydraulic cranes. The magnets are suspended by chains from cranes, and pick up the plates by simple contact and without the loss of time consequent to the adjustment of chain and hooks in the older methods. It is also found that the metal magnets are not so hot that it would be impossible for the men to handle them. A magnet weighing 300 pounds will lift nearly five tons.

During the past year there were 47,489 men and 14,147 women employed in the shops of Detroit and Wayne county, Michigan. The average wage for the men was $1.04; for the women, $1.02.

The Erie railroad company will equip its lines with pneumatic signals, which will cost about $2,000 a mile. It will cause the company to dispense with the services of a large number of telegraph operators.

According to the figures of the New York State Department of Labor, the average wage for all organized workmen for the third quarter of 1904 was $1.05, as compared with $1.00 in 1903 and $1.07 in 1902.

CONGRESS

A bill authorizing the Keokuk and Hamilton Water Power Company to construct a dam across the Mississippi river from Keokuk, Iowa, to Hamilton, Ill., was passed by the Senate Thursday. The agricultural appropriation bill was taken up and the provision for the distribution of seeds was discussed at length. In the House a motion to strike out the provisions for special southern rail facilities in the appropriation bill was lost, 77 to 115. The measure was considered until adjournment.

The Senate Friday sitting as an impeachment body, received the answer of Judge Swayne to the articles of impeachment made by the House, and entered an order sitting Feb. 10, as the time when the preliminary proceedings shall be presented, and Feb. 10 as the date for beginning the regular trial. The regular session was then taken up and Senators Stone, Berry and Morgan spoke against the joint stated bill. Senator McLaughlin presented a memorial from the North Dakota State of the removal of the tax on alcohol in order that it may be more freely used for fuel, and Senator Clay a petition from the National Cotton Growers' Association for the appropriation of a "few million dollars" to extend the market for cotton in the United States.

There was no contest worthy the name over admitting Oklahoma with the Indian Territory annexed, but over the admission of New Mexico the struggle was long and fierce. The House Saturday passed the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, carrying $2,107,047, which is an increase for this service of $78,710 over the current appropriation. A number of minor bills were disposed of by unanimous consent. The bill providing for the diplomatic bill was under consideration very brief and was devoted to railroad rate legislation and reciprocity treaties. Mr. Long occupied most of the time given by the Senate to the stated bill with a speech in support of the bill as it stands. He gave special attention to the portion which provides for the admission of Oklahoma and Indian Territory as one State, and urged the importance of giving self-government to the people of that section. In connection with the agricultural appropriation bill there was considerable debate upon the question of forest reserves. The bill was not disposed of.

In the Senate Monday Senator Beveridge closed the debate on the stated bill, giving special attention to the proposition to unite Arizona and New Mexico. He was preceded by Senator Foraker, who supported his amendment to eliminate Arizona from the union of the proposition. The proceedings were interrupted for about ten minutes while the Senate, as a court of impeachment, received the replication of the House managers in Judge Swayne's answer to the impeachment case, after which the court adjourned. Senator Spooner presented a memorial of the citizens of Michigan and Richardson of Alabama. The replication of the House managers in the Swayne impeachment case was adopted, and authority given the managers to file any subsequent pleadings that may be necessary. Unanimous consent was given to the Arkansas canal zone-government bill a continuing order to be called up at any time.

In accordance with the rule adopted Monday, the House Tuesday in committee of the whole convened one hour earlier than usual, the exclusive business for the day being debate upon the bills regulating freight rates. Mr. Richardson (Ala.) continued his speech. During the day brief speeches were made by Mr. Rainey (Ill.), Francis (Md.), Hinshaw (Neb.), Wagner (Pa.), Adams (Ga.), Mann (Ill.), Smith (Iowa) and Galpin (W. Va.) in support of the Townsend bill. After listening to a message from the President recommending a board of survey for the Philippine archipelago, the House adjourned. The Senate the day after tomorrow will take up the school bill. The stated bill was passed. It provides for statedhood for Oklahoma and Indian Territory as one State, and New Mexico as another State.

NOT RIPE FOR REVOLT

SUCCESSFUL REVOLUTION IN RUSSIA STILL FAR OFF.

People Not Sufficiently Strong Nor Sufficiently Organized to Enforce Their Demands—Russian Peasant Classes Hard to Kathuse.

The revolution which many believed would result from the massacres in St. Petersburg and the politico-industrial uprisings, represented by the other Russian cities has not materialized. Oppressed as are the Russian people and desirous as they are to obtain political rights, they are not sufficiently strong nor sufficiently organized to enforce their demands. They lack cohesion and they lack leadership.

It may, too, be doubted if they are agreed upon the nature of their political necessities. Above all, in the disturbances which have just swept over Russia there were no concert of action, no uniformity of demand and no solidarity of purpose. In St. Petersburg, it seems as though the industrial misery of the strikers was made a pretext by the socialist and revolutionary elements, representing but a small percentage of the discontented, to make political demands which were really revolutionary in character. Like a flock of sheep the strikers followed their revolutionary leaders, paying with their lives in many cases the penalty of their condense and credulity. And in other parts of the country the condition seems to have been similar.

In the cities of Poland and Finland the demonstrators, as should be expected, were better organized. There the principle of nationality was involved. The Poles and Finns not only demanded increased political rights, but are utterly opposed to Russian government and desire the complete autonomy and if in the near future a formidable revolution is to occur in Russia it will have its beginning and its greatest support among the oppressed nationalities of Finland and Poland.

Not ripe for Revolution. Viewing the situation dispassionately, there does not seem an encouraging chance of successful revolution in Russia in the near future. The justification for it exists—causes which in other lands would speedily subvert the government, but in Russia the Russian people have not as a whole reached that degree of development, that stage of political aspiration, which would lead them through blood and fire through sacrifice and suffering, to free institutions and political supremacy.

The peasant classes of the country have little faith at all, by the recent turmoil, and they constitute an element without which revolution is impossible. The industrial workers of the cities form only two per cent of the population, and not all of these look higher than the mere means of subsistence. Evidently then the day of successful revolution in the empire of the Czar is far distant.

Yet the disturbances may have a salutary effect upon the government. They are the voice of discontent and dissatisfaction speaking in the only way that is open in a country where freedom of the press and freedom of speech are denied, and where the voice grows in volume and intensity, threatening the stability of institutions and undermining national loyalty and fealty to the throne, the government may see the wisdom of granting reforms, which may save off that day which, sooner or later, is bound to come when the people will take possession of their rights and wipe out the rule of caste, so long the bane of Russia and the withering blight upon the development of her people.

The rioting at Warsaw. While the disturbances are not yet ended in Russia, they have reached a stage where their utility is self-evident. The world is aware how they were extinguished in St. Petersburg in the blood of the workers. The same repressive measures were applied in Moscow, Riga, Libau, Saratoff and other centers of agitation, and the mailed hand of militarism is enforcing obedience to the reign of the knout in Warsaw, Lodz and other cities of Poland.

At Riga, eight miles from the Gulf of Riga, the soldiers and mob came into the city and were met by the soldiers and fire great crowds rushed down the embankments of the river Duna, hoping to escape across the ice. The latter gave way and scores are said to have been precipitated into the water, where they sank to death in its icy embrace. At Riga the disturbances were purely political and were confined by students from other parts of Russia.

The most serious disturbances of any outside of St. Petersburg were the distinguishing features of Warsaw, Poland. There, too, the agitation was political in nature and there, too, the demonstrators, to a greater degree than elsewhere, bled the streets, using revolvers and knives against the oppressors of lawlessness and repression. In the desecrating fighting which was carried on in the streets 180 persons, it is estimated, were killed or wounded.

One phase of the Russian situation which has attracted international interest was the posting of proclamations in the streets of the cities, wherein it was charged that English agents were fomenting the troubles and furnishing the necessary funds, in order to embarrass Russia in the work of sending re-enforcements, naval and military, to the East. Great Britain, in consequence of this, acting in diplomatic channels, and the placards were pulled down and a rebuke was administered to those responsible for them.

Another incident which once threatened to take on an international importance was the wounding by Russian troops of the British consul and vice consul in the city of Warsaw. The affair, however, was purely accidental and the matter quickly subsided.

COMERFORD OUT.

Illinois Expels by Vote of 121 to 13 Frank D. Comerford, a Representative of the Illinois Legislature Wednesday Evening.

The Illinois Legislature Wednesday evening, Feb. 10, expelled Frank D. Comerford, a representative of the Illinois Second Senatorial District of Chicago gave him last November was taken away by a vote of his colleagues, and at the short and peremptory request of Speaker Burkett he picked up his papers and walked out of the hall, the first Illinois Representative to be deprived of the rights given him by the voters. A bitter fight of over four hours on the floor of the House preceded this drastic action. Comerford fought his adversaries every inch of the way until they had him down and had voted to unseat him. During this fight all the ordinary rules of parliamentary debate were forgotten. Comerford took his hat in his hands and his enemies took their seats in his face and called him a liar. Efforts to temper the punishment handed to the accused of the House's morals were futile, even when it was proposed to do the tempering with a buzz saw and substitute a measure almost as severe as expulsion. Sentiment against him among his associates was so bitter, and there was such a demand for immediate and satisfactory revenge, that he never had the slightest chance of making headway against it, although he talked with brilliance and defended himself with some logic. Sentiment against Comerford has been strong ever since he has been in Springfield and particularly since he began his crusade against the General Assembly as an auction block where special privileges are sold to the highest corporation bidder.

LOOKING FOR RED BRIDES.

Immense Dowries of Indians Sent to the Territory.

The white man's red brother is "rolling in wealth." The Indian is rich, you believe that hundreds of men, women and children who were living in tents and huts six years ago out on the open prairie are to-day receiving more money than they know what to do with?

That is the condition in the northern part of the Cherokee and Osage nations. Six years ago the country was a huge cattle range. Only small percentages of the acreage was under cultivation. The country was not prosperous. There were few men of means, and they were white men who had married and had been adopted into the tribes.

Tents, log houses and shacks were the principal pieces of habitation. In six years the tents and cabins have been transformed into magnificent dwellings. A rubber-tired carriage and standard-bred horse have replaced the branded cow pony. To his credit in the bank the Indian has thousands of dollars.

To gain all this wealth he has not needed one whit of labor. His acres, still uncultivated, are dotted with well derricks. From his land into pipe lines pours the wealth—black crude oil. To calmly smoke on, does no work and takes what is given him. Uncle Sam does his thinking. Yankee makes his money.

As a result of this influx of wealth into Indian Territory, a large number of young white men are coming here looking for rich red brides. Some of them are meeting with success, but the majority are finding that the young women will give their affections to their tribesmen.

ONE WEEK OF WAR.

RENEWAL OF HOSTILITIES IN THE ORIENT.

Hope that the Fighting Might Cease Seem Scattered to the Winds—Great Loss of Life Continues in Battles on the Hun River.

Hope that fighting in the Orient might cease soon seem to have been scattered to the winds. Ten days ago it was reported that Gen. Kuropatkin had been ordered to open negotiations with Field Marshal Oyama. If orders were sent him, they were to attack in force, and win if he could the victory of which Russia is in such need. A signal success would have done something to restore the prestige of the government at home and abroad.

Two weeks ago the Japanese noticed a concentration of forces on the Russian right flank, and made their preparations to meet it. Gen. Kuropatkin's plan soon became apparent. It was to capture strongly fortified positions held by the Japanese on the left bank of the Hun River, to turn their left flank, and force them to a general engagement. The Russians began the attack on the 25th of last month and met at first with considerable success. They showed that they as well as the Japanese could drive an enemy out of his fortifications. A number of villages which the Japanese had surrounded with strong works were captured. Then the Japanese rallied, and, after desperate fighting, succeeded, according to their account, in recapturing the positions they had lost and driving the Russians back across the Hun River at the end of a week's sanguinary fighting.

The fighting at Heikoutai and along the Hun River from the 25th to the 29th of January proves to have been one of the great battles of the war. A hundred thousand men were in action on the Russian side and doubtless at least that many on the Japanese side. Significant of the vastness of those later operations of the war is the fact that the Russian casualties—some 13,000—alone outnumbered the entire army Russia had engaged at the battle of the Yalu.

There are no trustworthy reports of the losses, but both sides must have suffered severely. The Russians admit that over 1,000 officers and men were killed or wounded during the fighting of the first two days. Probably not less than 40,000 Russians and Japanese are dead or disabled as the result of the week's furious fighting. During most of the time the thermometer was below zero, but Gen. Kuropatkin says his soldiers did not suffer much from the cold.

The victory was emphatically with the Japanese. Gen. Kuropatkin's plan, entrusted to Gen. Gripenberg for execution, was to turn the Japanese left flank. In the earlier stages of the war the Russians had apparently never heard or imagined that such a thing as a flanking operation was possible. Now having by bitter experience learned what it is to be outflanked, they seem to think that it is as simple to crumple up one wing of a compactly posted army of 300,000 men as it would be to treat similarly a single division of the enemy. Once more they are wiser.

Far more unfortunate for Russia, however, than the mere failure to win a success on the Hun is the fact that the battle has proved conclusively that the new army organization from which so much was hoped is not efficient. It will be remembered that after the battle of the Shakhe Gen. Kuropatkin initiated the Japanese organization by dividing his force into three armies, under the commands, respectively, of Generals Gripenberg, Kaulbars and Linievitch.

Now, with the first test of the new organization, Gen. Gripenberg resigns his command. The rumored reason for his resignation is his complaint that Kuropatkin did not send him reinforcements during his attack and did not engage the Japanese elsewhere along the line. Whether the resignation is voluntary or involuntary, whether the fault is Kuropatkin's or Gripenberg's is indifferent. The main thing is that the organization has broken down, and that the Russian generals once again show themselves too small for their great task.

The Russians retain their original lines and are strengthening their fortifications. As Oyama has been reinforced by the Port Arthur army, it is not unlikely that he will take the offensive in his turn. A direct attack on the Russian position would be hazardous. He could turn the Russian right flank by moving troops through the territory west of the Liao River, but that would be a violation of Chinese neutrality, which the Japanese say they desire to respect. Perhaps Gen. Kuroki, the commander of the right wing of the Japanese army, who made so many attempts last fall to outflank the Russians, will try it again.

Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet is still at Madagascari awaiting the vessels which left Jibuti in French Somaliland a few days ago. Probably when they arrive Admiral Rojestvensky will go eastward. French hospitality can not be extended to him indefinitely. It is thought he will make for the Chagos Islands, south of Ceylon, 1,500 miles distant. There is no certainty as to the route he will follow after leaving there, but the Japanese profess readiness to meet him on whatever line of approach he may select.

War News in Brief. The Japanese are heavily re-enforcing their army in Manchuria.

The Russians lost 10,000 men in the recent battle in Manchuria.

The fact that proposed constitutional amendments are always defeated through indifference and neglect at a general election has inspired the belief that the constitution of Nebraska can never be changed excepting by a special election. Some changes are badly needed and the legislature is urged to call an election for that purpose.

As a result of their seed corn specials, the railroads expect to see larger crops grown in Nebraska, so that their business of hauling will be increased. But if they expect more business, they ought to add enough new cars to their supply to handle it when crops begin to move, and improve the service on the branches, notably the Bloomfield branch. In ordinary years there have been car famines that have compelled slow shipments.

The measure to obstruct the practice of Christian Science healers has passed the house by a small majority, but it may be defeated in the senate. To throttle innovations, because they are not fully understood or are not altogether successful or conflict with the pecuniary interest of some class or profession, is retrogression. It smacks of medieval days when the progress of not only science but that of mechanics and discovery was retarded by the oppression of dulleards who were in control. Galileo was cast into a dungeon and tortured because he discovered proof that the earth was a sphere. He is one of many who have been reviled and abused for advanced ideas that were afterwards accepted. Every forward step in every age of the world has met opposition, and Christian Science and all other departures from staid conservatism meet opposition today, but should not, in this day of liberal thought and great progress, be dealt a crushing blow by hostile legislation. We have considerable contempt for fanaticism, wherever found, but the appearance of extremists does not warrant an effort to injure the belief or practice from which they spring, so long as it is usually harmless and of great benefit to many conscientious adherents.

In a pessimistic mood, a citizen recently sought to show the increasing corruption of government and degeneracy of mankind, and among other things declared that newspapers were subsidized by the railroads, furnished free passes, etc., that editors were usually rewarded with postoffice appointments, and that until the press was freed from trammeling influences there was no hope to right wrongs and lift humanity to a higher plane. This man does the newspapers a great injustice. We doubt if a country editor in the state rides on a free pass. He either exchanges cash or advertising for transportation and is limited to exactly what he pays for. It is only necessary to investigate to disprove the notion that postoffices have been peddled out to editors. Norfolk, Winside, Carroll, Wakefield, Pender and Ponca are neighboring towns whose postmasters are not connected with newspapers. Search for the facts and you will find comparatively few postoffices in the hands of newspaper men. There is no reason why they shouldn't be appointed to offices as well as other men, but the idea that they have as a rule fallen heir to postoffices is positively imaginary. Most of them enjoy greater profits, comfort and independence aloof from the responsibilities of office holding. Newspapers are infinitely less influenced by mercenary motives in their utterances than their critics suppose.

A bill was recently introduced in the legislature known as House Roll 149, the intent and purpose of the bill being to compel railroad companies to build side tracks and otherwise provide independent elevators with privileges for the proper and prompt handling of grain. The bill has been practically killed in the committee to which it was referred and the World-Herald charges this was done at the instance or by the consent of the very men who introduced and were pushing the bill. The charge is made that four members of the legislature wanted side tracks for certain towns in their districts and the railroads would not put them in, and then came the bill in question and that caused the railroads to get busy with the result named. The parties who got up the bill are said to have received promises of getting sidetracks where they wanted them and in consequence laid down and the death of the measure followed. We do not believe in holdup legislation of any kind and we have small respect for the legislator who will attempt anything of the kind, but we know the estate is urgently in need of legislation such as this bill provided and if other members have not the interests of the whole state sufficiently at heart to push a measure of this kind to an enactment, they are not performing their duty in a way that reflects great credit on the body as a whole. If the legislature is composed as a whole of men so narrow in their views that local interests entirely obstruct any broad view of the needs of the state in general we are indeed in a bad predicament.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Rev. E. B. Young participated in the chapel exercises last Friday morning, giving the students a practical talk on some of the things that make for personal worth.

The military boys displayed their patriotism on Lincoln's birthday by floating the flag from the college flagstaff. The boys are anxious for the coming of good weather so they can begin the practice of more extended marching than the limits of chapel hall now permit.

Some of the boys who came in just after corn-husking time for a stay of ten weeks are now going home, so that the condition of congestion is not quite so bad as it was at the beginning of the term. On the other hand the tide of incoming students is never entirely interrupted. This week Mr. Stenkrans came in from Plainview and Mr. Peterson from Laurel.

Pleasant County Leader: The writer called on Judge Williams after his return from Wayne, where he lectured last Friday evening, and upon being asked his impressions of Wayne and Wayne college, stated that he was really surprised at the extensive plant and the good work that is being done by the Wayne Normal college. He said that President Pile, with the hearty cooperation of the citizens of Wayne, have established a school that is a credit to northeast Nebraska. Most of the buildings are heated by the hot water plant and lighted by electricity, and the school has an attendance of over 600 students. The Judge stated that not a single act of disorder or disrespect was seen by him during the entire time of his visit.

Sun spot activity has not been very vigorous on the hither side of the sun at least. Wednesday afternoon only two spots were observable with the telescope and both rather small. The earth will pass between the sun and moon next Sunday night, producing a partial eclipse, visible, however, only in the eastern hemisphere.

Up-to-date teachers in our country schools will be interested in a circular just issued by the Department of Agriculture in the Rural Common Schools. This may be had for the asking by writing to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., calling for circular No. 80, office of experiment stations. Teachers and others living in the southern part of Wayne county would be profited by sending for a 20-page circular entitled "Soil Survey of the Stanton Area, Nebraska."

Miss Irene Lemmon spent Sunday at her home in Pender.

Under the direction of Miss Beauchemin a play will be given in the near future in college chapel. Announcement will be made in due time.

That proposition that leaves the college at 2:30 every afternoon is the company of observers who go to the ward building.

CARROLL NEWS.

W. I. Porter has resigned as member of the town board and E. J. Veal has been appointed in his stead.

Klebe & James have dissolved partnership in the livery and dray business. Mr. Klebe takes the livery barn and Mr. James the dray line.

J. F. Litch and wife of West Point are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Arthur L. Tucker.

J. A. Love, proprietor of the Carroll hotel, has been confined to his bed for the past week with kidney disease. It is hoped that he may soon recover.

W. E. Bellows has bought the northwest quarter of the Barnes section of land south of town. Henry Bay will probably continue to farm it.

A farmer's institute is being planned to be held in Carroll Friday and Saturday, February 24 and 25. An interesting program of local talent and speakers from abroad is being prepared for the occasion.

J. J. Nellok & Son of Neligh will take possession of the R. D. Merrill & Co. business this week. Invoicing of the stock began Tuesday.

The checker tournament between Randolph and Carroll last Wednesday afternoon resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 32 to 31.

The intense cold and stormy weather has brought on much sickness. An epidemic of grip has laid hold on the town, and nearly every family has one member who is more or less a victim. No case to our knowledge is dangerous but the patient in most every case is sufficiently miserable.

Miss Hattie Luckey went to Wayne last Saturday morning to visit a brother, expecting to return on the evening train, but the train failed to get down the branch that afternoon and she was compelled to wait over until Monday morning.

A. R. Stillman, agent for a safety gas lighting plant, has installed plants in the A. O. U. W. hall and the general merchandise stores of M. S. Lunn, and Hoops & Francis. Others are to follow suit. The plant seems to be a success.

W. L. Robinson and E. H. Fitch will have a joint public sale Friday, February 24. They have a lot of good stuff to offer.

The joint sale of G. W. Yaryan and J. H. Beach was a success last Saturday notwithstanding the stormy weather.

The train which left Bloomfield last Saturday morning was thirty-six hours in making the trip to Wayne and back. It got back as far as Carroll, soon after the noon hour, and then its real trouble began. Having to go up grade and the track being frozen and drifted locomotion was almost impossible. It finally reached Sholes late in the evening, and thereafter to lay over. There were thirteen passengers, and a car load of live stock. Sunday morning the mercury hovered in the vicinity of 30 below zero, and the wind was blowing a good stiff gale. The last Carroll heard, the train was at Wausa Sunday about two o'clock and hoped to get into Bloomfield some time that evening.

Some of the doctor's money may come easy, but he is earning all he gets these days. Dr. Texley will be able to add a thrilling chapter to his autobiography by the time the storm is over at the present rate of progress.

Miscellaneous, Personal and Otherwise.

There are symptoms of improvement in the weather.

Miss Vera Thomas gave a Valentine party Tuesday night.

J. H. Prescott of Winside was a Wayne visitor Monday.

Mary Byer is at Lincoln, a guest of Dr. and Mrs. Williams.

A son was born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gullion of this city.

Chris Wischoff of Logan township in Dixon county, was in Wayne yesterday.

Henry Lessman of Logan, Dixon county, was doing business in Wayne yesterday.

Frank Owen and wife of Carroll were storm bound in Wayne from Monday until today.

Mrs. C. R. Munson is very dangerously ill. Medical help was summoned from Omaha.

The Holy Communion will be administered at St. Paul's Lutheran church next Sunday morning.

"Maloney's Wedding Day" was presented to a fair-sized audience at the Wayne opera house Monday night.

The grip still wrestles with a majority of the inhabitants and refuses to release itself until the polar weather lets up.

The Hartington Herald is distributing garden seeds, gifts of the agricultural department at the instance of Senator Dwyer.

S. Hogue of Winside was doing business in Wayne Tuesday. He has bought a farm near Superior, Neb., and is getting ready to move there.

Mrs. Loesch and son of West Point, and daughter, Mrs. A. L. Tucker of Carroll, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Tucker in Wayne this week.

Wm. Wittler returned yesterday coming from Jefferson county, Neb., where he has purchased a farm and expects to locate as soon as he can settle his affairs in this county.

A resolution was introduced in the house a few days ago to investigate matters pertaining to the rebuilding of the Norfolk hospital for the insane. It is charged that the appropriation for this purpose was wrongfully used.

The town of Wausa had a conflagration Sunday afternoon when a restaurant, drug store, postoffice and implement house were burned, with a loss of $8,000. Fighting fire during the bitter cold of that day caused many frozen noses, ears, feet and fingers.

Wid. Weber and family are on their way home from their western Nebraska homestead and are expected here about Saturday. They have resided on their holding sufficient time and paid the requisite commutation fee and got a deed from Uncle Sam for 160 acres.

Clark, Lessman and Peterson are again coming before the breeders of this section with a rare offering of Shorthorn to be sold at the brick barn in this city Saturday afternoon, March 4. This is one of the best lots of bulls and cows ever offered and they will do you good if you buy any of them.

St. Valentine's day passed off Tuesday with the usual number of missives passing through the mails. Had it not been for the postal business incident to that anniversary, the employees of the local postoffice, with no trains, wouldn't have had enough exercise to have kept them from catching cold.

The Fred E. Peterson sale that was to have been held Tuesday, February 14, was postponed on account of the inclement weather and impassable roads until Saturday, February 25. Don't forget the date as the sale will positively occur on the date named, and there is a big lot of good stuff to be sold.

Carroll will have a farmers' institute on the 24th and 25th inst., with speakers from abroad as well as local talent. John Kate of this city, has been invited to attend and give an address on the improved science of raising pure-bred chickens. He has accepted and will give his auditors something well worth hearing.

W. O. Gamble returned about ten days ago from his trip to Alvin, Texas, near which place he owns 240 acres of valuable land. Jas. C. Scott, the carpenter who accompanied him, remained in Texas and secured a contract to build a house. Mr. Gamble reports that oil has been discovered in the vicinity of his land.

Presbyterian King is the name of one of the great bulls to be sold at the Shorthorn sale March 4. Mr. Clark has agreed to give the proceeds of the sale of this grand individual toward the purchase of the pipe organ for the church and both the animal and the cause ought to contribute toward interesting you in the sale.

The wind Monday night and Tuesday tossed the snow into huge drifts and no trains attempted to run during the latter day. Engines and snow plows started out yesterday morning and cleared the tracks and traffic was resumed before night. The drifts were so solidly packed that they were penetrated with great difficulty.

The business section of Norfolk was threatened with destruction by fire at 1 o'clock Sunday morning when the intense cold made the work of the firemen very difficult. The Exchange saloon caught fire and was burned, together with an adjoining building occupied by a restaurant. The flames were checked after a hard fight.

They tell a story of early days on Tom Steele when he was in the hardware business in this city. Tom was very busy one day when a good customer came in and bought a soap shovel and Tom neglected to charge the shovel and when he remembered the sale he had forgotten the customer's name, so he went to his books and selected afteen of his best customers and charged the shovel up to each of them and Tom said they all paid their bills without a protest.

There are about forty-five cases on the docket for the district court to convene in Wayne the last week in this month. There is only one criminal action, being the state vs. Sanford Brantley, who is charged with complicity in raising Asher Hulbert's check from $2 to $50, for which Ben Patrick has already been sent to the penitentiary.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Olmstead left Sunday noon on a delayed train for Omaha in response to a message announcing the death of Mr. Olmstead's mother, who passed away that morning. The funeral was held at the old home of the family in Iowa. Mrs. Olmstead was sixty-five years of age and had been in feeble health for some time.—Norfolk News.

The storm of Saturday night and Sunday interfered with the special stewardship conference at the Baptist church. The speakers were greeted by small audiences and gave expression to principles which should have been heard by every church member. The Union service at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening was the largest and ought to produce good results.

Sunday evening, February 5th, Pastor Duley of the Baptist church began a series of sermons on "Ideals," the first topic being "The Ideal City," a sermon on citizenship. Next Sunday evening the topic will be "The Ideal Home," a sermon to parents. This will be followed by "The Ideal Church" and "The Ideal Life." One of the features of the Sunday evening service is the recently organized children's chorus.

The life of an auctioneer during such weather as has prevailed for the past six weeks is not so soft a snap as might be imagined. E. Cunningham has been out every day during all the storm, not missing a day, and has been a le to hold sales every day with the exception of Tuesday, February 14, when it got too fierce for the clerk and the crowd to materialize and Fred Peterson's sale had to be postponed until February 25.

Miss Allie Elliott, formerly of Winside, now teaching at Hoskins, has been elected teacher of the sixth grade in the public schools at Norfolk. Speaking of Miss Elliott the News says in part: Miss Elliott, who takes the work of the sixth grade, was the victim of a railway accident near Winside a few years ago, which will probably be remembered by Norfolk people. The carriage in which she was riding was struck by a train near Winside and her sister was killed.

Don't forget that on the 24th and 25th of February, the seed corn special will be on the Omaha lines and that the 24th is the date and 9:30 the hour for it to be at Wayne. This is going to give a rare opportunity for learning things you probably do not know about in regard to care and selection of seed grain. No difference how much you know about any business, there is always a probability of the other fellow knowing something you don't know and of his being able to tell it to you.

Frank M. Dorsey, whose fraudulent banking caused the collapse of the First National bank at Ponon in the spring of 1893, was released Tuesday from the Sioux Falls penitentiary where he served six years for his crime. Dorsey passed through Sioux City Tuesday evening on his way to join his family at Elkhart, Ind. Speaking of his future to a Journal reporter, he said he had three business propositions offered for his consideration, and thought he would accept one in Colorado, entering the employ of a company there. Only $27 in cash was found in the Ponca bank when it broke and the receiver was able to realize only 22 1/2 per cent for depositors, a large lot of the paper held by the institution having been spurious and worthless.

GEORGE W. CULLER.

Geo. W. Culler was born in Westmoreland county, Pa., May 8, 1838, and died at his home in Wayne on the morning of February 10, 1905. When a child of two years he came with his parents to Holmes county, Ohio, where he grew to manhood. In 1858 he was united in marriage with Miss Catharine Holt. To this union eight children, six girls and two boys, were born, all of whom are still living. In 1863, he moved with his wife and young family to Indiana where he settled in an unincorporated wilderness. Here he built a home and then enlisted in the 149th regiment, Indiana volunteers and served under Sherman until the close of the war.

Following the war he made several moves, and in 1889 settled in Nebraska. Eleven years ago he came to Wayne where he resided until the time of his death.

Brother Culler was a man of sterling character. In 1866, while still in the prime of young manhood, he consecrated his life to the service of God, and during all these years he has consistently striven to be loyal to God and to the world. In all relations of life he has been true to his highest convictions. He was a loyal soldier of the nation and a loyal soldier of Immanuel. He had the confidence of all who knew him and those who knew him best loved him most.

The funeral services were held from his late home Sunday last, conducted by his pastor, Rev. Theo. J. Wright, and Casey Post G. A. M. of this city.

"INDIAN POW-WOW."

Mr. and Mrs. Ley and Mr. and Mrs. Matheny entertained sixty-four Indian chiefs and their squaws at a genuine Indian pow-wow at the wigwam of the former Tuesday evening. The arrangement was unique and created lively merriment from first to last. The house was appropriately decorated in red, with Indian baskets and arrows and Navajo blankets as prominent features. Half the guests were costumed in a fashion characteristic of the aborigines, and among them were two princes. Chief Walter Weber wore a gorgeous Indian costume of exceptional merit. "Firewater" in a kettle suspended from a tripod, was served in tin dipper. The Wayne orchestra attended and enlivened the occasion with inspiring music, and Miss Hattie Weber sang a number of songs which were thoroughly appreciated.

At the proper juncture all the chiefs were called into line and marched to the postoffice where each received a valentine of the comic order. The numbers on the missives enabled the chiefs to secure partners for the game of progressive whist that followed. Miss Hattie Weber won the lady's prize, being a hand-painted plate bearing a picture of Sitting Bull, and Phil H. Kohl carried away the honors among the gentlemen, receiving a hand-painted plate, the artistic work having been done by Mrs. Ley.

Similar to the manner in which the "chiefs" secured partners for whist, the "squaws" journeyed in line to the postoffice and received valentines, the numbers on which indicated their partners for supper. The fare was served on wooden plates in two courses, the first of which comprised corn bread and "weenies," and the second spice cake, coffee and popcorn.

Among the Indian dances that followed, with orchestra accompaniment, was a war dance by one of the younger braves.

The elaborate preparations were executed without a flaw to the delight of the guests and the high credit of their entertainers.

BAKER—WESTERHOUSE.

Mr. Carl Baker, son of Wendell Baker, and Miss Emma Westerhouse, daughter of August Westerhouse, were united in marriage in the Catholic church at Wayne Tuesday forenoon, Rev. Father Haley officiating. After the ceremony the newly wedded couple and a number of invited guests gathered at the residence of the bride's parents, six miles southwest of Wayne, where a sumptuous dinner was served in honor of the event. The attendance at the church and at the reception was not so large as it would have been had the weather been pleasant.

The young couple begin house-keeping on a farm near that of the groom's parents. They have many friends who extend hearty good wishes.

The 2 Johns May Be Millionaires

To ascertain how rich we are, we are this week taking invoice and if this business shows a larger profit than last year, you may expect a radical change in prices. We will not be disgraced by being classed millionaires. The American people have too many millionaires now and they don't want any of that kind of men in Wayne county. We are happy because we can associate with the common people, and we want our friends to be better fixed financially than we are. To do this it is necessary that we clothe them as cheap as possible. We will tell you next week how this business panned out for the last year. Don't miss seeing our ad. next week. We are sure there will be lots of things found in this store that have been here two seasons and you know our rule is to sell all such things at half price and burn what we can't sell. We will not be loaded down with old style goods. Don't miss our next week's ad if you want to make money on clothing.

POSTPONED SALE

Women in Our Hospitals

Appalling Increase in the Number of Operations Performed Each Year—How Women May Avoid Them.

Going through the hospitals in our large cities is a sad thing to find such a large proportion of the patients lying on those snow-white beds women and girls, who are either awaiting or recovering from serious operations.

Why should this be the case? Simply because they have neglected themselves. Ovarian and womb troubles are certainly on the increase among the women of this country—they creep upon them unawares, but every one of those patients in the hospital beds had plenty of warning in that bearing-down feeling, pain at left or right of the womb, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, leucorrhoea, dizziness, flatulency, displacements of the womb or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the ovaries or womb, and if not heeded the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation. When these symptoms manifest themselves, do not drag along until you are obliged to go to the hospital and submit to an operation—but remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved thousands of women from surgical operations.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, etc., Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

Mrs. Pinkham writes all sick women to order her for advice. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

ness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy.

The following letters cannot fail to bring hope to despairing women.

Mrs. Fred Seydel, 412 N. 54th Street, West Philadelphia, Pa., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I was in a very serious condition when I wrote you for advice. I had a serious womb and ovarian trouble and I could not carry a child to maturity, and was advised that an operation was my only hope of recovery. I could not bear to think of going to the hospital, so wrote you for advice. I did as you instructed and bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and I am not only a well woman to-day, but have a beautiful baby girl six months old. I advise all sick and suffering women to write you for advice, as you have done so much for me.

Miss Ruby Mushrush, of East Chicago, Ind., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have been a great sufferer with irregular menstruation and ovarian trouble, and about three months ago the doctor, after using the best of medicine, advised me to have an operation on my ovaries and to have an abscess on the ovary removed. My mother wanted me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had never heard of it, but I only saw it from an operation but made me entirely well.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

THE FADING LIGHT OF DAY.

"Nanny, gather up the scraps, and Betty, bring the broom; Sally, push the settle back and tidy up the room; Now's the time, 'twixt day and dark, to clear the work away; For the morn' make ready by the fading light of day."

"Come, my boys, bring in the wood and split the kindling fire, Fetch some water from the spring and feed the waiting kine; You'll not need the lantern, lad, the twilight's clear and gay, Hasten and you will finish by the fading light of day."

Thus the dear housewife spake, still busy at the wheel, Helping girls and cheering boys with words of good and cheer, Till the tasks were ended and the sons and daughters gay; Gathered round the fireplace by the fading light of day.

Scattered, scattered, far and wide, in distant lands, and dead; Now the grass has waved above the gentle mother's head; But at midnight even yet I seem to hear her say: "For the morn' make ready by the fading light of day."

Wiser now, methinks therein that hidden meaning lurks, Teaching ere that night shall come "wherein no man can work" Every soul be guided ready; God above can say If our eyes again behold the fading light of day.

THE STRESS OF THE TRAIL.

At midnight "Big Jeff" poked his head out from under the tarpaulin and peered through the darkness tentatively; then he brushed away the snowflakes that had accumulated on his tousled hair, and snuggled back into the comfortable warmth of the blankets. He thrust a big fist, none too gently, against the ribs of his partner.

"What's the matter with you?" growled the "Freak," sleepily. "I ain't no punchin' bag."

"We're goin' to get them steers 't the post 't-morrow—I don't think!" Big Jeff murmured. "The angels is pickin' grease for their Christmas dinner. From the way the feathers is flyin' there'll be about two feet of 'em in the mornin'."

The "Freak" protruded his head, only to withdraw it hastily.

"Holy smokes!" he muttered, "she's sure comin' thick. Wonder if them cats'ers is all right."

"Yes, I heard 'em a-woodin' 'n' trampin' in the corral a minute ago," Jeff assured him. "You better go to sleep, 'n' son; no use layin' awake worryin'."

This seemed to the "Freak" the proper course to pursue. He wriggled into a comfortable posture, and so the minor key of his snored merged with the deep bass Big Jeff emitted.

In the old round-up corral, beside which their bed was made, a bunch of steers stood luddled together with tails to the storm, great masses of snow piling on their broad backs; outside, tied securely to a post, two ponies alternately pawed the ground and shivered under the oiled slickers that were spread across their loins. Save for the canvas bed-cover that sheltered the two men, there was little comfort for beast or human that night; nothing but biting wind, that whistled keenly through the rails of the corral, and everywhere the silent, virgin snow, dropping swiftly earthward in huge, eddying flakes.

It was gray dawn when Big Jeff awoke again. He raised a corner of the tarpaulin, and a mass of snow fell on his face. The splintering of his grouse, the "Freak" profanely lamenting the necessity that drove them forth on such a trip, they groaned about their boots, drew them on, and emerged, in ugly temper, for there were two feet of snow on top of the bed.

To the top rail of the corral the "Freak" climbed and glanced quickly over the cattle to the illimitable reaches beyond. Inside the corral, the cat-tle still stood hump-backed; outside, the horses still shivered under the protecting slickers; but the wind had died to a faint breath, and the sun glared unwinkingly at them as it balanced on the lower edge of a cloud-free sky. It was a perfect morning, save for the diamond frost that glistened in the rarefied air and the ugly menace of the silent, white pall of snow that lay, belly-down to a long-horn, on every foot of the land.

"See the horses?" queried Jeff, looking up from his task of kicking away the snow that covered their coffee and not frying pan.

"Naw!" the "Freak" snorted, disgustedly. "There's nothin' 't be seen but this everlasting snow. The chances are them naps is hittin' the high places for the Circle Four about this time. Hobbies wouldn't stop 'em after they got started, 'n' a storm like this would start most anything that wasn't tied hard 'n' fast."

"This here's sure hard luck," Jeff mourned, as he fanned an impatient grub with his hat. "We're out of grub if we don't hit the post to-night—'n' we won't git there before the next chinkoff if we don't have them horses 't break trail. An' we promised 't eat Christmas dinner with Bob Stewart 'n' the girls, yuh know, Freak."

They brooded silently over their coffee and fried bacon, sitting under the lee of their loins. Fifteen miles of unbroken snow lay between them and the agency; a day's drive when the going was good—now, five miles of wallowing through the drifts would leave their cattle exhausted. A sudden freshening of the wind meant a blizzard and the White Death plays a winning game on the open prairie when there is neither food, nor fire, nor shelter.

"We better go back a piece—ah, Jeff!" advised the "Freak," as he used their horses. "There's a little coulee, yuh remember, back about four miles. Maybe them cayuses loosed in that. There's little cut-banks along it."

"Bum," the big man answered, happily. "We get 't have 'em 't break a road for these critters. Maybe we'll run 'em a bunch 't bronco-balls—though I guess the Indians keep 'em pretty well chased out 't here."

They turned the cattle out of the corral to browse around as best they could; there was little danger of their staying fat. Not voluntarily would less, the Gros Ventres were without means of locomotion.

"Crowd 'em, old boy?" the "Freak" yelled, as he turned the bend. "Next thing on the program is angry Indians burnin' powder!"

"Say," he cried, breathlessly, to Jeff as he reached the bunch, "yuh ought to see 'em 't look do the Wild West act. He sure did things to that Pinto when I throwed the books into him."

They fell upon the ponies, with swishing tops and teapots, and profanity. Through the drifts that barred their way they urged the herd to a bounding gait. Piled up in a cloud of snow—just kicked up by the flying heels, they swept up out of the corral, and almost gained the knoll from which they had spied the camp, ere the first bullet whizzed futilely after them.

Big Jeff waved a gloved hand, and his deep laugh went howling across the white waste.

"Look at 'em, Freak!" he chorused. "The whole tribe is after us. Them dark-complected boys would sure do business with us if they was close enough."

"You bet!" the "Freak" responded. "And them brunette ladies would sure love to wind their fingers in our hair."

"Say," the "Freak" observed, as they topped the little ridge, "some of them backs is pretty good runners, I notice. Now I don't hanker 't have 'em catch up with us after we start with them cattle. I tell yuh, Jeff, yuh pike for the corral 'n' get the bed on one of these cayuses. I'll stay on this pinnacle here 'n' snap a few caps at 'em. That'll hold 'em till you get ready 't start—'n' then I'll come a-trumpin'."

"I hate 't leave yuh, Freak," Jeff grumbled, "but I guess it's a good scheme."

"Don't yuh start too long," he warned over his shoulder, as he crawled forward on the heels of the herd.

A score of young bucks were trotting swiftly along in the beaten track of the horses. At intervals a rifle would pop, but the breathing of a frost, and the distance was too great for their game to carry. Back at the bank of the coulee, the squaws and papooses were massed mutely witnessing. The yelping clamor of the mongrel dogs came indistinctly to the ears of the "Freak."

He drew his rifle from the scabbard and pumped a cartridge into the chamber. Dropping on one knee in the powdery snow, he sent a steel-jacketed missile humming slantly along the back trail. The pursuing Indians dropped on their faces with a celerity that made the "Freak" smile. It was a close shot—very close, as he had meant it to be.

It was nearly an hour before the "Freak" swung stiffly upon his horse and looked away. Like bloodhounds the Indians struck the trail again, tramping doggedly, mile after mile. But Big Jeff and the "Freak" had a five-mile start, and they held their own. The long-horns, gaunt and hungry, traveled fast, stepping close up to the horses that, therefore, broke trail.

"This here's a swell way 't spendin' Christmas Eve," the "Freak" yelled across the backs of the plodding cattle to Jeff, who drove the horses ahead.

"Never yuh mind, Freak—there's good times comin'. Just cast your eye ahead."

He did, and the sight gladdened him. For behind them the sun was down and the wind was rising; but the brown mass of the agency upheaved its bulk before them. In half an hour they had swung down Wild Horse, under the shadow of Snake Butte, and Big Jeff was howling lustily at the agent's door.

A befurred receiving clerk counted the cattle into a corral and handed Big Jeff a receipt for their delivery.

"We can make it 't old Bob's tomorrow in time for dinner easy," Big Jeff exclaimed, as he removed the bed from the back of the dun pony and threw it into a shed beside the corral. "I'm sure thankful, Freak, that we ain't out on the bald prairie 't-night."

"Same here," the "Freak" responded, tersely. "But I reckon we better give these runt cayuses a good shoot along the back trail—I guess them Indians 't appreciate a ride back 't camp—'n' he goes up 'n' square ourselves with the agent before we get pinched for horse stealin'."—San Francisco Anglo-naut.

TRICKS OF THE MULE DEER.

Cunning Animal Retires Into Heavy Cover in Daytime.

One of the venerable tricks of the mule deer of this country is retreating into the heavy cover very early in the morning and remaining there during the whole of the day. During the full of the moon, when they are on foot most of the night and well before daylight, says a writer in Outing, they are so certain to do this that it is almost useless to hunt. Especially is this so in the early part of the summer.

There is little trouble in finding fresh tracks even at daylight, straggling, too, in a manner that shows the deer are on the point of lying down for the day. Yet the more certain you become that they cannot be more than a few hundred feet away the more you are overcome with wonder at your inability to see one or even hear one.

If patient enough to work out a single track you may possibly start a deer just near enough to see or hear but not near enough to see long enough for a shot. I have had them almost throw the dust in my face from their plunging horns, yet could see no hair long enough to make sure of getting the right sights upon it.

But even seeing one in this way is the rare exception, for the deer instead of waiting until they are certain you see them move often sneak off with silent step and lowered head, so that while you are wondering where they are they may be but a few yards away, knowing they are perfectly safe. For the evergreen robe of lilac, hazelnut and buckthorn that covers much of the hills of California is so dense and stiff that a man makes slow progress in it, while deer, that can crawl under a fence about as readily as a leop-ard, find it almost as easy as the open.

A woman writes this office: "Any man suffering with backache, can get rid of it by wearing corsets."

A 16-year-old girl isn't as pretty as a barrel of pickled red apples.

DANGERS TO BE AVOIDED IN FEBRUARY.

Intense Cold Breeds Cataracts. Sudden Changes Breed Cataracts. WINTER SCENE IN THE SOUTH. WINTER SCENE IN THE NORTH. Rest.

As much sleep as possible should be obtained in the forepart of the night.

Cataract of Head. Mr. Frank Cobb, 170 Summit street, Danvers, Mass., writes: "I was troubled with cataract in my head. I wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice and he prescribed Peruna. I took it and am happy to say it helped me at once. I feel better than I have for years."

Bronchial Trouble. Mr. J. Ed. O'Brien, Pres. American Pilot Ass'n, Pennsylvania, writes: "I recently gave my endorsement to Peruna as an effective cure for catarrh and bronchial trouble."

Throat and Lungs. Frank Battle, Jr., 111 N. Market St., Nashville, Tenn., writes: "Peruna has cured me of chronic bronchitis. It is the grandest discovery of the age for the throat and lungs."

Pneumonia. Mr. A. C. Danforth, St. Joseph, Mich., writes: "I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs. I was threatened with pneumonia. Peruna gave me relief within a couple of days. Three bottles saved me a large doctor bill and a great deal of suffering."

Thousands of Testimonials. We have on file thousands of testimonials like the above. We can refer our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast array of unolicited endorsements. Dr. Hartman is constantly receiving. Address Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

No Horsewhips in Moscow. There is a notable law in force in most of the large Russian towns concerning horses. Among the curious things that arrest the attention on arriving in Moscow is the entire absence of whips among drivers of cabs, carriages and all sorts of vehicles. There is a law prohibiting their use and there is not a single whip in use in Moscow. The excellent condition of the horses attest the benefit of this humane law. Nothing can exceed the beauty of the sleek and well-groomed horses used in the carriages of Moscow.

Nels Utter informs the Advocate that February, 1899, was worse than the past month has been for cold weather—the thermometer averaging below twenty the entire month.—Laurel Advocate.

Trustee W. I. Porter has resigned from the village board and E. J. Veal has been appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Porter is arranging to take up his new duties as farmer on the Tom Evan's place.—Carroll Index.

A big shipment of live stock was sent from Carroll Monday to Omaha, John Shannon, two cars of cattle and one of hogs; E. F. Jones, two cars of cattle and one of hogs; Grif Garwood car of cattle and Fred Wagner a car of cattle.—Carroll Index.

The many friends of Mrs. Nathan Ohace will be pleased to learn that she is slowly recovering and is now able to dress herself and walk about some. She is still at the Battle Creek sanitarium and will doubtless remain for several weeks yet.—Stanton Plover.

A week without a business change in Carroll might seem strange. The last in order is the dissolution of the firm of Klebe & James in the livery and dray business. Mr. Klebe takes the livery barn and equipments while Mr. James is sole proprietor of the dray line and will give his entire time to it.—Carroll Index.

Fremont is likely to furnish the United States senator who will take Millard's place and it may not be Schneider either. A man by the name of Gurney, commonly known as Ed., lives in Fremont and has more friends than anybody, and these friends will put him where he belongs some day.—Windside Tribune.

When a woman with fourteen children and twice as many baskets, bundles and valises leaves on the train there is nobody at the depot to render assistance, but when a giddy young girl with nothing to carry but an empty pocketbook goes to the next town there are people enough at the depot to start a riot.—Pender Republic.

George Nairn was eleven years old Monday and in honor of the event his mother invited about twenty-three of his boy friends to celebrate with him. That they had a big time goes without saying and the occasion will be long remembered especially by Mr. and Mrs. Nairn as thirteen of the little fellows stayed over night.—Carroll Index.

Mrs. J. B. Jouveat entertained a few of the young people Monday evening in honor of the Misses Weber of Wayne who were visiting their brother, B. J. Hoile. A son of Hans T. Peterson, eleven miles northeast, went to Wayne this week where he will attend school until spring work begins. A. G. Goltz of Winside, recently acquired possession of about a section and a half of land near Pierre, S. D. He must be going into the cattle grazing business. Some of the old settlers say there is more snow on the ground at present than there has been since the winter of 1888.—Laurel Advocate.

Here is one of the peculiarities of the present day: When a newspaper man goes into any place of business and makes a deal for some commodity he puts up the same price as any other customer, and no attention is paid to his profession, while, on the other hand, if the business man who sold him the goods entertains his mother-in-law or sneezes with a cold, and the newspaper man forgets to mention the incident and make it the occasion for a free advertising puff of a dollar size or more, the same business man goes into hysterics, curses the poor scribbler for his prejudice and want of enterprise, swears revenge on his head, and orders the next lot of note-heads from Sears-Roebuck or some other out of town concern that never did himself or his town a cent's worth of good. We know these conditions exist, but where the logic of the thing comes in we fail to comprehend.—Wausa Gazette.

A new disease is afflicting women in high society and the doctors assert that it is caused by too much coolection going on between them and their pet dogs. These women, as we understand, are too angelo, in their own estimation, to raise children, and so turn to dogs as fit subjects on which to lavish their disordered affections. They dress them up in rich and beautiful attire, give them a place at the table, have snowy beds for them to sleep in, bathe them, carry them about and fondle and kiss them much as a civilized woman does her own sweet and dimpled offspring. We are sorry for the dogs. To have to associate with such stinking espheds must be extremely nauseating to any self-respecting canine. Whenever these society women get the idea into their brainless top notes that they are too nice to raise children and voluntarily adopt pug dogs upon which to exercise their maternal instincts, they descend to the level of the little whelps they have selected to worship.—Pender Republic.

CURES CATARRHAL DEAFNESS

One Week's use of Hyomei did more than Six Months' Treatment by Specialists. In the treatment of deafness which is often a result of catarrh Hyomei acts almost immediately upon the inflamed membrane and the hearing begins to return at once. A few days treatment will bring relief, and in three or four weeks, according to the severity of the case, a cure will be accomplished. Miss Mooka of Mattevan, N. Y., says: "Hyomei is truly wonderful. I have used it but a short time and see a great change in my condition. My hearing is improving rapidly, and I had no idea I would improve so rapidly in so short a time. My breath which was so offensive to myself and others, has lost its bad odor entirely. I have spent a great deal of money with catarrh specialists and can truly say that six months of their treatment is not equal to one month of Hyomei."

E. J. Raymond is selling Hyomei upon the unusual plan of agreeing to return the money if the medicine does not cure.

A complete outfit costs only $1.00 and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler will last a lifetime and there is enough Hyomei for several weeks' treatment. Additional bottles of Hyomei can be procured for 50 cents. Compare this small expense with the fees charged by specialists and then remember that if Hyomei does not cure E. J. Raymond will return your money.

A TOUCHING STORY.

In the saving from death, of the baby girl of Geo. E. Eyer, Cumberland, Md. He writes: "At the age of 11 months, our little girl was in declining health, with serious throat trouble, and two physicians gave her up. We were almost in despair, when we resolved to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. The first bottle gave relief; after taking four bottles she was cured, and is now in perfect health." Never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. At Wayne Drug Co's 50c and $1.00 guaranteed. Trial bottle free.
