Keep your weather eye open for Strahan's announcement of his big horse sale to occur during the early part of next month.

Doctors at Norfolk report that nearly every family there has one or more victims of the grip. The heaviest disease seems to be generally prevalent.

Mrs. J. J. Williams was called from Lincoln to Iowa City, Ia. on Sunday by a telegram announcing the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Pickering.

The rural mail carriers have been having a pretty strenuous time of it lately, but by dint of perseverance have managed to serve the patrons of the routes pretty regularly.

The box social which was to have been given at the Kregler school house, was postponed on account of inclement weather until Friday evening, February 24. Everybody is invited and a good time is assured.

S. E. Anker went to Dakota City the early part of the week to attend the farmers' institute and incidentally to demonstrate to those in attendance the advantage of his shallow cultivating attachment for the purpose of producing greater yields of corn per acre.

Work was commenced this week on a new church on College hill for the Seven Day Adventists, Elder Whitaker being the preacher in charge. There is a considerable number of members of that denomination in Wayne and vicinity.

While on his way to attend a patient in the country Saturday and accompanied by a nurse, Dr. Riley's vehicle became fast in a snow drift and was torn to pieces. The doctor and the lady had to foot it the rest of the way to the farm house.—Winner Free Press.

J. P. Latta and wife of Tekamah were guests of the Harringtons during the early part of the week. Mr. Latta was combining pleasure and business and in the latter capacity thoroughly inspected and informed himself regarding our electric lighting plant. Tekamah is seriously considering an overhauling of her present lighting system.

Henry Miller and family will move to Foster in Pierce county about March first. Henry traded his farm southeast of Hoskins to A. J. Durland of Norfolk for 500 acres of Pierce county soil. We are sorry to see him and his family leave as he is one of the oldest residents of this part of the county, having been born in 1876 on the farm he has traded off.

The storm of ten days ago was not one entirely unmixed with good for John Goss. Mr. Goss got ready to ship his fat cattle a week ago last Saturday and drove them to town, the big storm came on and he was compelled to hold them in the stock yards until Monday when he got them out and into Chicago right during a late storm and as a result got good big prices for them, $5.90 per hundred.

A resolution adopted by the Platte county republican convention and forwarded to Senator Millard, declares in favor of a law providing for the transmission of the contents of a letter by telephone by a postmaster when a special stamp is used, thus enabling senders to reach the rural population in a much shorter time and adding greatly to the latter's convenience. It is expected an effort will be made to secure the passage of such a law.

There is just one real aristocracy in the world and that is the aristocracy of brains. The members of this "society" pay no dues, have no regular meeting places, possess no pass words. Unlike the members of the "400" whose pass consists solely of a bank book or a tailor's receipt, neither good clothes nor rags, poverty nor wealth can disqualify a member of this aristocracy. His brothers know him intuitively. Banded together, working without organization, this aristocracy in fact rises under our government which boasts that it recognizes no aristocracy.—Columbus Journal.

The relatives of Mr. and Mrs. S. Philleo from this place and Carroll planned and carried out a happy surprise for them Sunday in honor of Mr. Philleo's 66th birthday anniversary. Neither of the worthy couple had the remotest suspicion of the intended gathering until guests filed into the residence in a body late in the afternoon. They had prepared an excellent supper, a conspicuous feature of which was a highly decorated cake with the figures, 66, tastefully inscribed on it to emphasize the anniversary they were remembering. Fourteen formed the family group that surrounded the festal board, and it was a joyous occasion not only for Mr. and Mrs. Philleo senior, but for all present.

Several of the early settlers during the recent severe weather were comparing this with previous hard winters they had known here when W. O. Gamble told of a blizzard in the early days that he said had been related to him by one whose veracity was beyond question. He said "the wind came down from the north like the Assyrian of old and the snow fell so fast and furious that everything three feet distant from the eye was entirely obscured from view. I knew we were going to have a record breaking storm and in a few minutes the snow began blowing through the keyhole of a door on the north side so rapidly that I got a scoop shovel, opened a window on the south side of the house and for twenty-four hours shoveled snow out of that window with all my might and when the blizzard abated there was four feet of snow covering the floor of the room and a pile on the south side of the house so great that there was sufficient remaining on the Fourth of July to freeze ice cream." The other fellows didn't have anything to say.

Hoskins society had an outing at the town hall Thursday evening where Mrs. A. T. Waddell and Mrs. Doc Averill handsomely entertained their friends. It was sort of go as you please in the way of entertainments. Cards, dominoes, dances and music were the chief features of the evening's enjoyment. An excellent midnight lunch was served and here was the only fly in the ointment. When two of the gentlemen were carrying in the boiler of coffee and were crossing the nicely waxed dancing floor one of the gentlemen couldn't keep his feet from putting a double shuffle and in doing so he gave his partner at the other end of the boiler a rather unceremonious swing which resulted in his ousting a Highland fling and landing on the floor rather promiscuously and giving the dancer such a jerk that his equatorial regions landed in the boiler of hot coffee spilling it all over the floor and it is said that as quick as the latter could get on his feet there was a genuine jig doing. Those present say the evening was one of the most enjoyable of many happy occasions in the little burg in the west end of the county.

Every sale of farm stock in the country is a practical lesson on the necessity of procuring good breeding stock if a profit is to accrue to the breeder. The difference in prices between good grades and scrubs is growing more and more marked with every advance in the price of land. A few years ago the breeding of any kind of scrub cattle was almost sure to return a profit. Today it is utterly impossible to get a profit from the scrub; in fact the reverse is true and a loss is sure to follow the attempt. The intelligent farmer, the man who expects to reap a profit for his efforts fully realizes the necessity of using only the best sires and dams of whatever breed he most fancies and he is learning another thing and that is that even the best exclusive beef producing breeds do not bring the returns he ought to realize. This naturally turns the attention to the breed that most effectually combines beef and milking qualities, which of course is the reds and roans, the great Shorthorn family. March 4 an opportunity is going to be presented the breeders to procure foundation stock and herd leaders of this great breed and it is to be hoped that every man interested in the improvement of the live stock industry will be present at the big sale at the brick livery barn in Wayne on that day and procure one or more of these animals.

Speaking of the severity of the present severe winter and the hardships caused by the excessive winters caused J. W. Hamilton of Hancock to recall some of the trials and tribulations of the early residents of the county. "I remember one winter in particular, along in the seventies when one storm followed another so quickly that it was absolutely impossible to get away from home to secure supplies of any kind and our flour became exhausted. Things looked pretty blue I tell you, but you know necessity sharpens the wit and in this case it brought to our minds the fact that we had a good new coffee mill that could probably be utilized to tide us over the difficulty, so we set about rigging up the coffee mill for the manufacture of flour and we succeeded so well that for seven weeks we ground our wheat into flour with it. During the same winter the storms let up for a day and the skies looked so bright and promising for good weather that father set out on foot for Norfolk to replenish our meager supply of necessities. The distance from our place to Norfolk was about eighteen miles. Father arrived at Norfolk all right, got fifty pounds of flour and an iron other stuff as he figured he could carry and started for home the second day, but only got about eight miles on his way when another blizzard set in and caused him to seek shelter with one of the settlers where he was obliged to remain for several days and not being able to get home for just a week after the time he was expected. Mother and us little folks had given him up for lost, believing that he had been caught in the storm and had perished, and you just bet we were glad to see him put in an appearance. No, the people of today have no just cause for complaint, with their good buildings and groves to protect themselves and their domestic animals from storm and cold and with the abundant means they now have for procuring not only the necessities of life, but with which they are able to have luxuries we never dreamed of getting."

THE SUNSHINE OF SPRING

The salve that cures without a scar is DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Cuts, burns, boils, bruises and piles disappear before the use of this salve as snow before the sunshine of spring. Miss H. M. Middleton, Thebes, Ill., says: "I was seriously afflicted with a fever sore that was very painful. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me in less than a week." Get the genuine. Sold by Raymond's Pharmacy.

KIND WORDS FROM PASADENA

There are many who remember in the most kindly way, pretty Pauline Piepenstock, who for some time was a clerk at Churchill's and who won many friends by her quiet, winning manner. The sad news of her death has brought to these friends a pang of sorrow. She was young and bright, but at the time she was here disease had already marked her for its own, though she appeared so well and strong. Mrs. J. A. Churchill went to Ocean Park to attend the funeral.—Pasadena Star.

FIENDISH SUFFERING

WOMEN WHO CHARM

HEALTH IS THE FIRST ESSENTIAL

It Helps Women to Win and Hold Men's Admiration, Respect and Love

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study.

Mrs. Char. F. Brown, Vice-President Mothers' Club, 21 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., writes: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham—For nine years I dragged through a miserable existence, suffering with inflammation and falling of the womb, and worn out with pain and weakness. I once had a statement by a woman suffering as I was, but who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I determined to try it. At the end of three months I was a different woman. Every one remarked about it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound built up my entire system, cured the womb trouble, and I felt like a new woman. I am sure it will make every suffering woman strong, well and happy, as it has me."

Off the Water Cart.

Falling off the water wagon is easy, but being knocked off is different. Now, the driver of a sprinkling cart is sure on the water wagon if any one is, and it was the driver of such a vehicle that a trolley car knocked off the other morning. The water wagon was on the car tracks going in the same direction as the car. The car ran into the wet end of the cart and there was something doing.

Mrs. Hadden Hall—My servant girl is always breaking dishes. Do you have any trouble of that kind with yours?

Mrs. Bond Hill—No, indeed; it keeps them so busy breaking records that they haven't time to bother with dishes.

A French gentlemanly writer suggests that every couple before marrying should compulsorily insure the future of their children. She suggests that I cent a day would be a sufficient premium.

What Sultan of Turkey has ever commanded the suppression of the language and history of a vassal state?

What Sultan has prohibited the education of a section of his subjects? What Sultan has restricted the benefits of medical science and closed his sanctuaries and watering places to a section of his subjects? What Sultan has ordered the massacre of his own subjects without provocation? What Sultan has tortured children to convert them to his faith, making them kneel upon sacks of shot for eighteen hours a day until they embraced Mohammedanism, and caused those who would not be converted to be knouted to death between the ranks of his soldiers?—Russia as It Really is.

TORTURING PAIN.

Half This Man's Sufferings Would Have Killed Many a Person, but Don't Care Him.

A. C. Sprague, stock dealer, of Normal, Ill., writes: "For two whole years I was doing nothing but buying medicines to cure my kidneys. I do not think that any man ever suffered as I did and lived. The pain in my back was so bad that I could not sleep at night. I could not ride a horse, and sometimes was unable to walk in the street. My condition grew critical when I sent for Don's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and they cured me. Now I can go anywhere and do as much as anybody. I sleep well and feel no discomfort at all."

THE POPULAR PULPIT

THE MODERN SPIRIT.

Impatience of intervals of time and interference of space may rightly be ascribed as the salient factor in what has come to be styled "the modern spirit." To this intolerance of slow processes the triumphs of modern civilization are openly ascribed. Technology is admitted to be the most powerful agent in this intolerance of time. Speculation anticipates the slow and deliberate rounding of the seasons and operating with wireless telegraphy toys even with the jealousies of the oceans. But it is not merely in the domain of commerce that this passion is enthroned. In our thinking, yes, in the realm of the spiritual, it is accepted as well.

CENSURES MODERN DANCING.

By Rev. John Thompson.

The value of dancing must ever be a matter of private judgment. If the old Hebrew customs where the sexes danced separately were in vogue now dancing would not be so popular. The phrase "We must have a good time" contains a fallacy. The largest pleasure does not come to those who live to have a good time, but to those who seek to give others a good time.

SERMONETTES

The Source of All.—The highest knowledge is the knowledge of God and of one's self and of the knowledge comes only as it is sought in the Scriptures and in Christ, who is the incarnate word—the word made flesh. Christ is not only the end as He is the embodiment of the law of conduct, but in Him is the solution of all the problems which vex our modern society.—Rev. J. K. Smith, Presbyterian, Pittsburg, Pa.

Prayer.—Prayers are no better nor worse because they are or are not said out of a book. The objective point is to produce the character of Jesus Christ. We may be no better for the presence of religious forms, neither for their absence. Rather should we enter the kingdom where the towering thought is Christ, and the masterful ambition is to grow up into His likeness.—Rev. H. C. Swetszel, Episcopalian, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Lack of Faith.—Lack of faith in our own work will kill absolutely any faith others may have in our ultimate success. The old proverb says, "Kats will leave a sliding ship." All our friends and associates will leave us as quickly as they can if they once get into their minds the thought that we ourselves feel that we are certainly doomed to failure.—Rev. F. D. Nauvoo, Presbyterian, Los Angeles, Cal.

Spurgeon Wanted.—Our great cosmopolitan city has a million hearts yearning for a ministry like Paul's, Spurgeon's, and the thrilling, burning, evangelism of a translated Moody. Would an error in the teaching of the Master if the pulpit dealt only with intellectuality and human liberty.—Rev. J. C. Bruner, Unitarian, Chicago, Ill.

Marriage.—Marrying well does not necessarily mean marrying wealth or position, which are too often sought after rather than compatibility and character. Every step of the way should be marked with prayer. For "Blessed is the house that is established in prayer."—Rev. C. M. Alden, Methodist, Providence, R. I.

Thought Must be Free

If blind acceptance of dogmatic authority is our ideal in religion, then, but only, can free thought be regarded as one of the squares of that ever-active and most potent deity, the Devil. But if we are thinking men, not satisfied with that type of religion, Thought is not thought unless it is free. So long as it is bound to the fixed lines of ages which have

NOT AN INVITING FIELD.

Traveler from Cape Colony Says Business is Dull There.

"South Africa is at this time the very reverse of an inviting field for men who are seeking their fortunes in strange lands," said S. J. Van den Spuy of Cape Colony, in the Washington Post.

"I know the conditions in the Transvaal quite as well as in my own country, and am sorry to say that they are also extremely bad. A great many of the mines in the Rand are not being worked, owing to the want of capital. The story has gone out that the mining business is slack because of the deficiency of labor, but this is only an excuse. There is the same labor in the country that has always been there.

BABY CAME NEAR DYING

From an Awful Skin Humor—Scatched Till Blood Run—Washed to a Skeleton—Speedily Cured by Cuticura.

"When three months old my boy broke out with an itching, watery rash all over his body, and he would scratch till the blood ran. We tried nearly everything, but he grew worse, wasting to a skeleton, and we feared he would die. He slept only when in our arms. The first application of Cuticura soothed him so that he slept in his cradle for the first time in many weeks. You don't know how glad I was. One set of the Cuticura Remedies made a complete and permanent cure." (Signed) Mrs. M. C. Matland's Jasper, Ontario.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For a QUARTER of a CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened to your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dirt, germs, or insecticidal agents.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine (Lion head on every package.)

(Save the Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

COLLEGE NOTES.

Miss Johnston now teaching in Emerson, spent Sunday with old college friends.

Prof. Pile goes to Sioux City tomorrow on business in connection with the issuing of a new catalogue.

James Pile, Jr., is at present confined to his room on account of a severe sprain of an ankle joint.

Miss Cowins, state secretary of the Y. W. O. A., is expected to pay the local association a visit next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Prof. Wolfe went to Wakefield Friday night to act as a judge in one of the oratorical contests that are being conducted in Dixon county.

Mr. Frank Jones left Friday on a business trip to his home in Holt county, returning to resume his studies on Wednesday of this week.

Rev. Wright came up on Tuesday morning and gave the students a thoughtful and appreciated talk on "Some Problems of the Future."

Miss Anna Kuper spent Tuesday with college friends. She teaches near Wakefield, but the school is taking a week of vacation on account of the snow drifts.

Recent correspondence gives information that Miss McMahon, who was in school here several years ago, is now county superintendent at Rapid City, S. D.

Schuyler Beck, whose people recently moved to Wayne from Wausa, has entered for work in the literary department. Geo. Bonge also enrolled this week. He comes from Emerson.

The following students who have been out of school for a week or more have now returned to their studies: Misses Baker, Sammelson, Simonin, Douglass, Wieherschel, and Messrs Bendstead, Goodyear and Carroll.

Miss Anna Ellis visited college classes Thursday. She is one of the members of last year's teachers' class and is teaching successfully in the Childersleeve district. On account of the snow the school has taken a ten days' vacation.

Rev. Beam, a missionary of the Seventh Day Adventist denomination, is putting up a cottage on College hill, just west of Sam Barnes' new residence. It is the intention to construct a church in Wayne later on if the labors of the missionary prove successful.

A number of students took the county examinations on Friday and Saturday. The issuing of state certificates last year, and the prospective ones to be received this year have materially increased the labors of County Superintendent Bright so far as examinations are concerned.

Workmen are installing electric lights in the college building this week, and when this is done it will complete the electric lighting of all the college buildings. It is needless to add that this is a much appreciated improvement, both from the standpoint of convenience and of illumination.

The meeting of the County Teachers' Association at the court house Saturday afternoon promises to be one of unusual interest. A strong program of the local teachers will be supplemented by an address by Prof. I. W. Searson, of Wahoo. Prof. Searson is one of the most active teachers in Nebraska and what he may say will certainly be well worth hearing.

On Saturday night of this week there will be given in chapel hall a play entitled "A Box of Monkeys." The curtain will rise at 7:30 promptly and in the course of the succeeding hour Misses Beauchemin and McLaughlin, and Messrs Moore and Best will histrionize after the manner of professionals. The play has been gotten up under the efficient direction of Miss Neptune, and this fact combined with the quality of the play itself and the personnel of the casts are a guarantee of an enjoyable evening. A small admission fee will be charged and the proceeds go for the benefit of the college library and the military company.

Through the efforts of Professors Burnett and Snyder of the department of farmers' institute, of the university of Nebraska, a lecture will be given in chapel hall tonight (Thursday), by Prof. Lawrence Brunner on "The Birds of Nebraska." There will also be given in addition to this talk on some suitable agricultural subject by Mr. D. P. Ashburn. Prof. Brunner is the well known authority on birds and insects and his lecture will be illustrated with lantern views. Mr. Ashburn has a state and inter-state reputation as an authority on breeding and selection of corn as well as other matters of agricultural interest. Students and citizens are to be congratulated on the free opportunity to hear these men. They join the seed corn special company on Friday morning when it comes to Wayne.

CURES WITHOUT STOMACH DOSING

Hyomei Cures Catarrh by simple Breathing. E. J. Raymond refunds Money if it Fails to Cure.

A long stride toward solving the mystery of curing catarrh was taken with the discovery of Hyomei. In fact, the percentage of cures by this treatment proves it equal to the final tests.

The folly of taking medicine into the stomach to cure catarrh of the nose, throat and lungs, has been realized by physicians, but not until Hyomei was known, had they a practical method that would obviate stomach drugging.

A complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1 and consists of a heat pocket inhaler that can be used anywhere without attracting attention, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. Extra bottles of Hyomei cost but 50c.

Breathing Hyomei through the inhaler, every particle of air that enters the nose, throat and lungs, is charged with a healing balsam that soothes and allays all irritation, kills the catarrhal germs and enriches the blood with additional ozone.

E. J. Raymond has so much faith in the power of Hyomei to cure catarrh, that he is selling it under his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not give positive relief.

The Palmer line of spring wraps on sale all day Friday. THE RACKET.

The 2 Johns Have More Money Than They Need.

We have just finished our annual invoice and we find we have made more money the last year than we need. We do not want to be classed among the rich. If we get rich we no doubt will refuse to pay taxes, and also get the big head, and then the common people will refuse to associate with us. Too much money has made fools of our best friends. We feel that the only safe way is for us to remain poor and continue to associate with the common, everyday people. Money is a power and very few people have ever been able to use it to any benefit to themselves. We do not want anything that we cannot use to increase our happiness. We do not believe that it is right to rob the public and then build public libraries with the money. We intend to reduce prices to a point that will not make us so rich that our friends will no longer associate with us. We find that there are more people trading here every year, and as our expense is no greater we find it necessary to reduce the profit on our goods. If any of our customers object to this plan, we would be glad to have them suggest a better way in which we can remain poor. Our rule is and always will be—treat everyone alike, therefore the larger amount you buy here during the year, the greater will be the amount you will receive of our surplus.

We find many things in this store that must be sold or we will burn them to get them out of the way. This week we have placed on sale about 250 men's shirts that we sold at $1.00 and $1.50. These shirts will be sold at 50c. Now don't wait until they are all gone. We limit the amount to each customer to 4 shirts. Our Spring goods have arrived and are being placed in stock. We will surprise you all this spring; not at the low prices we now make, but the large assortment and the quality will be a revelation to anyone in Wayne county. We promise you to remain poor and therefore you can afford to patronize us. Take a look at the new things we have.

It may be assumed that the backbone of winter has been broken and that there will be no repetition this season of the severe weather that was dished out during six weeks of January and February. There may be an occasional storm and some frosty days, but none of the intense cold that made coal dealers happy.

While here yesterday Fred Volpp reported that he had disposed of his interest in the Bloomfield bank in which he bought stock and became cashier last summer. In the spring when the snow melted, the Logan not only left her banks but the flood reached from bluff to bluff."—Pender Times.

Mrs. Fields, mother of Mrs. A. M. Jacobs, died at the home of her daughter, six miles northwest of Wayne, Sunday night, being aged about 69 years. Her death was attributed to grip and heart failure. The remains were shipped Tuesday to Boston for burial, being accompanied by Mrs. Jacobs and Mr. Fields. Mr. and Mrs. Fields came here the latter part of November, on the advice of a physician in the interest of the latter's health, and made their home with their daughter.

The four-year-old son of County Clerk Bindens of Knox county was instantly killed Tuesday morning on the family farm, thirteen miles northeast of Bloomfield, by having his head crushed in a corn grinder. A farm hand was running the grinder by horse power and when he stepped into the granary to get more corn, the little boy walked up to the machine to see the gearing work and the sweep struck him and forced his head against the pillar of the frame, causing instant death.

A serious and peculiar accident happened at the Goetsch farm last Friday. The brothers were sawing wood with a large circular saw. The morning was very cold and the machinery frosty. Shortly after starting, when running at a high rate of speed, the large fly or balance wheel on the saw broke in several pieces. These broken pieces flew in all directions, some of them striking and severely bruising both Paul and Frank. Fortunately and surprisingly their injuries were not serious and, though considerably bruised, they are getting along well.—Stanton Flock.

News has reached here this week of the death of H. O. Orne who was one of the early settlers of Wayne county, moving to California fifteen years ago. He died at his home in Santa Anna, Cal., the last of December. He was here four years ago to look after a half section of land which he owned in Wayne county, and while in the east contracted rheumatism from which he never recovered, developing complications that caused his death. At one time Mr. Orne was a partner of A. B. Sifer in the implement business in Wayne and is remembered with respect by those who knew him.

Usually we boast of our good roads, but at present and for some time past they have been a source of hardship to travelers, and indeed it looks as though the immediate future was not going to make them much better. For to these many days snow has filled the cuts and sloughs to a depth that made the heart of man and beast alike sick as they attempted to make their way through. Now the days have become warm and softness is on the face of all nature and sometimes you are in mud and then again it is slushy snow from shoe moist to waist deep; in fact Sherman's famous saying in respect to war exactly expresses the present condition of the country roads.

Harry Hirsch who will be remembered as the individual who had periodical rows with his wife while running a restaurant on Main street, requiring the interference of the authorities on a number of occasions, has again attracted some attention. Last week he became disorderly and Mr. Milligan had him arrested for disturbing the peace, but recognizing the fact that the suit would pile up costs without lasting benefit, did not appear against him. Again, this week, Hirsch bobbed up in a row over the theft of a beef roast from the counter of O. D. Frank's meat market. Hirsch slipped the roast under his coat unobserved by Mr. Franks' helper who was waiting on customers, but a moment after he had gone the meat was discovered missing, and telephoning to Mrs. Hirsch confirmed the suspicion that Hirsch had taken it. Instead of incurring the expense of having him arrested for petty larceny, Mr. Franks declared that he would give him some needed discipline if he entered his market again and refused to leave on orders to do so. Yesterday he appeared there and would not move on. This aroused Mr. Franks to summary action and he landed a few blows that soon made him anxious to decamp.

Winslow voted on bonds Monday for the purpose of erecting a new school building. The amount voted for was $8,600, and the proposition carried by a vote of 61 to 18. No great interest was manifested by the men in the matter, but the ladies showed their interest by turning out largely and it is said voted almost solidly for the proposition, thus demonstrating their appreciation of an opportunity to provide better school facilities. The district has something like $1500 in cash on hand that they expect to use in addition to the amount received for the bonds which will give them $10,000 for building purposes and this is about the amount the district expects to use. It is expected that a brick or cement block structure, modern in all respects, will be erected and the present intentions are to build after the style of the Wakefield building except not so large. We are glad to see our sister town wake up and provide a proper place for the education of their children. We hope Wayne will wake up and profit by the example of Winslow and get a move on her for the purpose of getting rid of the old ramshackle on the hill and erect an up-to-date building where teachers and pupils can at least pursue their labors with a degree of comfort not to be dreamed of under present conditions.

A son, John Devine, lives in Woodbine, Ia., and a brother, John Devine, lives in Burdhardtville, Pa.

AMERICAN FENCE

FARM PROFITS

Every rod of fence on your farm helps to cheapen the cost of your matured hogs, beeves, sheep and horses.

The better and greater the quantity of efficient fence on the farm, the higher the price per acre.

If you do not raise stock, the good fence protects your crops and insures largest possible returns.

Thousands of investors are making fortunes by buying up so-called "run down" or "raw farms", putting on a few buildings and good fences, then selling them for improved, up-to-date farms. Good fences, well built, pay better dividends than good barns or houses.

You want bigger profits per acre—build good fire-proof, stock-proof, time-proof fences. Now is the time to do it. American Fence is the best fence, fully guaranteed, always satisfactory. It is cheaper per rod today than ever before. The manufacturers propose to double the use of American Fence during the next twelve months. We are here to help them. In helping them, we help you by offering you American Fence, the best in the world, at heretofore unheard of prices. Come and see us, don't delay—this opportunity is too good to miss. You know a good thing, and you know when a good thing is cheap.

It is not always best to buy cheap things, but when cheap and good, in fact the best, and the article will pay dividends for years afterwards, it is clearly safe and good business sense to buy it, and buy all you can use to advantage.

Politeness in Heathen Japan

An American Hates His Own Land Because of What He Suffered Here.

Another Born With a Deformity Went to Live in Japan Because Christian Americans Made Fun of Him.

An American business man was afflicted with an enormous goitre of such proportions that he was unable to conceal it and his life became a misery to him through the rude curiosity and vulgar attention bestowed upon him whenever he appeared in public. Having business interests which made it necessary for him to go to Japan he took the journey and after a few weeks in that heathen land wrote home that he desired to remain there as not by word or look had he once been reminded of his disfiguring malady. Men, women and children shrank from him as an object of breeding and such innate refinement of manner that he never was embarrassed or made uncomfortable.

Another man born with a deformity left his American home and took up his residence in Japan for the same reason and today he hates his own land because of what he suffered here. How unfortunate it is to be afflicted and have to be thrown out on the wide world and have to face the ups and downs of life with an affliction or a deformity too far gone to be cured. These people are shunned by their acquaintances, shunned by strangers and held in contempt by their relatives. But how can it be helped that their afflictions make them appear so unsightly and so homely? FIRE IN INDIANAPOLIS
MOST SPECTACULAR BLAZE IN CITY'S HISTORY

Loss Estimated at Over One Million Dollars, with the Usual Proportion of Insurance—General News of Interest.

For four hours Sunday night the wholesale district, bounded by Georgia and Meridian streets, Jackson place and the union depot sheds at Indianapolis, Ind., was menaced by a fire which started in the wholesale warehouses of the Halshley & McCrea Millinery Company. At 9:30 o'clock three general alarms brought into action every department in the city and suburbs. When the fire was brought under control eight buildings, among which were three hotels, had been completely destroyed, causing a loss estimated at nearly $1,500,000. One of the firemen was hurt by falling walls.

Fire brands fell in a perfect storm over the business portion of the city, and on every building were stationed companies of men equipped with fire apparatus, and their united efforts succeeded in preventing a general conflagration. In the A. Kiefer Drug Company's warehouses, where many barrels of oils and explosives were stored, and in the Delmetest Company's fireworks house, where a season's stock of fireworks was located, several serious explosions occurred. The west wall of the Halshley & McCrea millinery house, which faces on Jackson place, across from the union station, fell within thirty minutes after the fire started.

One fireman sustained a broken leg, and in the rush to escape from their perilous position near the falling walls hundreds of spectators who thronged the space in front of the union station narrowly escaped death or serious injury.

Within a few minutes the east wall fell across Meridian street, completely blocking the street, but no one was injured.

The flames, which spread across Louisiana street, were communicated to the roof of the union station train sheds, and for several minutes the efforts of the firemen were centered in that direction.

The fire, which was one of the most spectacular in the history of the city, was under full headway before an alarm was sounded.

A spark from the fire in the wholesale district several blocks away set fire to the roof of the Grand Hotel. An alarm again summoned all available departments. All of the guests were aroused, and on account of the damage by water were compelled to seek other lodgings.

The total loss is estimated at $1,500,000.

STRIKE MAY BE AVERTED.

Trouble on New Haven and Hartford Road May Be Settled.

A New Haven, Conn., dispatch says that no strike of the firemen on the New Haven and Hartford Railroad will be declared except as the weapon of last resort. This in effect was the statement made by Second Vice Grand Master Timothy Shea Sunday night at the close of what was practically an all day session of the adjustment committee of the Brotherhood. The committee was called to discuss the situation and count the ballots recently cast on the question of giving the committee full power to act.

According to Mr. Shea the ballot was the largest ever cast on any question by the Brotherhood of this system, and it is overwhelmingly in favor of giving the committee full authority to act as it sees fit. The figures are not given out.

Mr. Shea in an interview said it was a determined fact that there would be no strike this week.

While the duke was driving from the Nicholas palace through the senate quarter his carriage was followed by two cabs. At the law courts a sleigh in which were two men, one dressed as a workman, went quickly ahead of the duke's carriage. The force of the explosion broke all the windows of the law courts. The report was heard outside the city. The carriage was blown to pieces. The horses were not hurt.

The duke was instantly killed. His head was blown off and actually separated from his body, which was frightfully mangled.

President Roosevelt's Message on the Dominican Situation.

President Roosevelt's message transmitting to the senate the new Dominican protocol of an agreement providing for the collection and disbursement by the United States of the customs revenues of San Domingo for the adjustment of all the obligations of that government was Thursday made public by order of the senate in executive session.

The document includes the new agreement, as well as the original protocol and award of the commission of arbitration, for the settlement of the claims of the San Domingo Improvement Company, which agents of the United States are already collecting the revenues at certain of the ports of the Dominican government.

Several documents that have come to the senate in relation to many of the South or Central American or West India republics have attracted so much attention. Because of the controversy that has arisen as to the right of the acquire to enter into treaty arrangements with any foreign government without advice and consent of the senate, extraordinary interest has been aroused.

The message of the president outlined the policy of the administration in relation to the Monroe doctrine, holding that it demanded this government take charge of the customs of American states when it is manifest they are unable to maintain their own integrity.

In addition to the president's discussion of the Monroe doctrine in the case of San Domingo the protocol itself makes a specific declaration of its application and in that respect is unusual in treaty making. The declaration occurs in the second paragraph, which recites that the government of the United States views "any attempt on the part of governments outside of this hemisphere to oppress the destiny of the Dominican republic as a manifestation of the unfriendly disposition towards the United States."

WAR OF MILLIONS.

Financial Giants Engaged in Great Struggle.

The crucial point in a contest involving the control of $400,000,000 will soon be reached, as the directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society met Thursday to consider the question of changing the association from a stock to a mutual company.

The demand made by James W. Alexander, president of the society, that James H. Hyde, its vice president and owner of a majority of the capital stock, shall consent to a change in the voting plan by which the 500,000 policy holders of the company shall have a voice in the election of its directors is a small part of the real struggle.

STATE OF NEBRASKA

NEWS OF THE WEEK IN A CONDENSED FORM.

State Suffers from the Most Severe Storm in Years—Stiff Winds Drive the Snow—Live Stock Suffers and Railroad Traffic Demoralized.

No storm in twenty-five years has resulted more disastrously to railroad traffic and business in general than that which raged over Nebraska Sunday. Wyoming, Iowa, South Dakota and up the Missouri valley. With nearly two feet of snow covering the entire territory an additional four to six inches fell Saturday, and was accompanied in many instances by a high wind which caused much drifting. Sunday night the thermometer registered from 10 to 20 degrees below zero over the foregoing territory.

Railroads have suffered severely. Freight traffic was nearly at a standstill and passenger trains moved with the greatest difficulty, and many were entirely abandoned.

At Omaha the streets were well nigh impassable, except in the downtown district, where a large force is employed keeping the drifts. Street sweepers were kept busy almost all night and day clearing street car tracks.

At Lincoln, zero temperature and a heavy fall of snow formed a weather combination Saturday night in southeast Nebraska probably the worst experienced this winter. At no time was the temperature above zero, and at times the storm had the proportions of a blizzard. Street car schedules were abandoned and cars run with difficulty.

She refused and preferred to accompany him dressed as a man. Together they came to Nebraska and worked several months before resulting in his failure, and was released.

There was much effort at the penitentiary to prevent publicity of the fact that Dorsey had been released, and for a time it was denied. Later it was learned, however, that he had been released, and had left town by the Milwaukee train for the south.

John B. Boese was put on trial in the district court at Nebraska City Wednesday morning for the murder of his son, John B. Boese, Jr., in that city last fall. Boese and his son had a quarrel at their home, which ended in the shooting of the son by his father. The defense will try to prove that the father shot in self-defense.

The case of the state against Boese, which was quizzed in court Tuesday, but after separating a jury and hearing part of the evidence the jury was dismissed without prejudice to the filing of another information against the defendant. The information under which the defendant was being tried, charging him with the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors, was defective and he was bound over to appear at the next term of court.

John Boese, in trial at Nebraska City for the killing of his son, was acquitted Thursday by the jury. The killing was the culmination of a family quarrel and the father pleaded self-defense.

With friends and opponents of the Shook fraternal insurance bill, S. B. 12, the senate on Tuesday afternoon, April 12, passed the bill, which was introduced in Lincoln, during the session of the legislature, and which reached its climax when Breese, of Shortland, in an impassioned denunciation of the measure, pointing out the many defects of the bill.

"This bill has been better by the most earnest, most persistent, the most industrious and the most damnable lobby that ever tried to influence legislation. In their efforts to defeat this bill they are spending our own money; money that we have paid into the orders for our insurance. Their efforts took at them, lined up against the railing."

Other debaters took their cue from the Breese statement and the remainder of the morning was illuminated with a most brilliant display of conversational fireworks.

LEW WALLACE DEAD.

NOTED AUTHOR, SOLDIER AND ST. TESMAN PASSES AWAY.

Noteworthy Career Ends in Crawfordville, Ind.—Won Distinction in War for Union—Made Minister to Turkey in Recognition of Novel "Ben-Hur."

General Law Wallace, author of the great "Ben-Hur," died Wednesday evening, shortly after 9 o'clock at his home in Crawfordville, Ind.

General Wallace's death marked release from suffering protracted over several months of time. An attack of stomach trouble undermined his robust health and for three years he had been suffering a decline. All his life a man of unusual vigor, both mental and physical, the strain of an aggravated attack of indigestion told severely on him during the last few weeks and he became so emaciated that his appearance alarmed his friends. His seventy-eight years gave little encouragement for his recovery, and after a brave struggle the lawyer, soldier, diplomat and author passed away.

During his long period of illness, and even toward his last moments, General Wallace with steady hand and clear brain worked on his memoirs, a labor he had been following for some years.

To the Manner Born.

Lewis Wallace was born in Brookville, Franklin County, Ind., April 10, 1827. By every right of ancestry he was entitled to the distinction which he achieved. He was "to the manner born," his father, David Wallace, having been elected Governor of Indiana in 1837 and to Congress in 1842 from the Indianapolis district. The father was a man of strong parts and of illustrious ancestry.

In his youthful days Lewis Wallace displayed a tendency to neglect the opportunities which his father's position gave him. He hated books and schools and remained at school only so long as it was impossible to avoid. In this manner he acquired but little real educational education.

Precursor to the outbreak of the Mexican War Wallace had undertaken the study of law. When the call for soldiers came he was among the first to enlist. He was not yet 20 years old, but his services were so meritorious that he came back from the war a lieutenant. At the close of the war he married Susan A. Elston, a widow of a pioneer of Crawfordville. Their tastes were congenial, Mrs. Wallace herself being an author who achieved success in several books which she has published.

Activity in the Civil War.

At the beginning of the Civil War he was appointed adjutant general of Indiana and soon after colonel of the Eleventh Indiana Volunteers. He served in West Virginia and became brigadier general of volunteers in September, 1861. He commanded at Donelson, was made major general, led a division at Shiloh and prepared the defense of Cincinnati in 1863, saving the city from capture by General Fitz John Porter.

During the administration of President Harrison he was appointed territorial governor of New Mexico. From 1881 to 1885 he was minister to Turkey. As a diplomat he was eminently successful.

"Ben-Hur" was written in 1880, after Robert G. Ingersoll had given General Wallace his first impetus toward acting the biblical role necessary to its creation. His other works were: "Life of General Benjamin Harrison," 1883; "The Fair God," 1883; "The Boyhood of Christ," 1889; "The Prince of India," 1898; "The Woolding of Martatoo," 1898.

Besides his widow, General Wallace leaves a son, Henry L. Wallace, who lives in Indianapolis.

LIFTS UP NEGRO.

Roosevelt Calls on All to Aid in Raising Black Man's Standard.

President Roosevelt gave the fruit of his thought on the race problem in a speech Monday night before the Republican Club in New York City. The occasion was the Lincoln dinner of the club. The President made a stirring appeal to the American love of justice and equality for a sincere effort to uplift the moral and industrial standard of the negro. He thought it desirable to help up should conquer a desire to crush down. The advance of the black man meant the advance of the white, he said, and he especially urged negroes to work peacefully to eradicate shiftness and crime from among their people. He invoked the spirit of Lincoln, that animated Lincoln and used this as his text. The President thanked the people of the South and North who had aided in the war on lynching and cited the fact that the last three months showed a smaller number of lynchings than any similar period in the history of the country.

The President's speech at the Lincoln dinner was devoted chiefly to the race problem. In the course of his remarks he said:

"High though he (Lincoln) put peace, he put rightness as his line."

"Our effort should be to secure to each man, whatever his color, a quality of opportunity, equality of treatment before the law."

"The only safe principle upon which Americans can act is that of 'all men up,' not that of some men down."

"Laziness and shiftness, vice and criminality of every kind are evil more potent for harm to the black race than all the acts of oppression of white men put together."

"Let us be steadfast for the right; but let us err on the side of generosity rather than on the side of vindictiveness."

"I could not have such confident faith in the destiny of this mighty people if I did not believe as regards our portion of that people."

President Roosevelt prefaced his prepared speech at the Lincoln dinner by a short extemporaneous introduction, in which he said that, although he was speaking to fellow members of his old political club, who he was going to say would be said as an American speaking to good Americans. He then entered upon his set speech, but departed frequently from the text, and these departures constituted some of the most interesting features of the address.

In speaking of the readiness with which people delight to find fault in neighbors, he said:

"It is a good thing to remember that, while it is occasionally proper to join in mass meetings for the purpose of calling attention to neighbors' shortcomings, it is normally better to turn to our own."

In presenting figures showing a decrease in lynchings in the last three months, he said:

"These are striking figures and I take a certain satisfaction in them in view of some of the gloomy forebodings of last summer."

Another side remark which caught the President's hearers was:

"There is not one of us that does not sometimes find an abundance of things to do if he does not help him up; but if he lies down there is no use in trying to carry him. It will hurt both of us."

BALTIMORE'S REBUILDING.

Half of Its Fire-wrecked District Reconstructed.

One year ago Baltimore was in distress over the business section and 55 per cent of its costliest trade structures were wiped out. Buildings that covered 1,343 lots were destroyed with all their contents. Today building operations are far advanced on 625 of the lots that were buried under mountains of debris.

One hundred and forty-two buildings in the devastated district are completed and occupied. Of the remainder the average rehabilitation is about 80 per cent. Announcements for the coming spring include already 102 more structures, which will cover 138 of the original lots. The rest of the year will be spent in the delay has been entirely due to the time required by the architects in preparing plans, the submission to competing contractors, and the ordering of the material.

September next is fixed upon as the month in which a great rebuilding jubilee shall take place, and the optimistic citizens believe by that time the burned district will be a memory only.

That "old, slow Baltimore," as some of its more pushing sister cities have dubbed it, has risen to the occasion in true American spirit, and has shown that its energy was not dormant, has been magnificently demonstrated by the events of the last twelve months. Its splendid efforts are simply another tribute to the indomitable energy, force and intelligence of an American community. And the victory has been won in the face of the most tremendous difficulties.

Thus far the present fiscal year the expenditures of the Government exceed the receipts by $24,814,550. It generally has been conceded that the escape of a deficit larger than that which confronts the Government at the end of the present fiscal year on June 30 could be accomplished only by Congress exercising scrupulous economy. Leaving out of consideration the river and harbor bill and other measures which are characterized as "pork bills," it is clear that appropriations of this session, now in sight, will exceed those of last session by at least $10,000,000. That is to say, the appropriations practically agreed on will be that much in excess of the public money voted by the last regular session. It now appears that the river and harbor bill will carry at least $17,000,000. There is a companion "pork bill" in the public building grant, and it was stated there is to be an omnibus public building bill carrying about $10,000,000. There also is to be an omnibus claims bill which will carry, perhaps, $3,000,000 more. In sight there is an excess over last year's appropriations of practically $4,000,000.

Though the people of Washington may be fond of their innocent little superstitions, such things do not go at the White House. There is no superstition there. Evidence of this is found in the fact that under the Roosevelt regime it has been found 1,300 is the number of copies of the President's addresses and messages needed for circulation, and hence that is the size of the order sent to the government printing office. The printing office people are not free from superstition, and they have implored the President to make his order 1,299 or 1,400 so that bad luck may not emanate upon the shop. The President has cruelly declined to cater to their superstition and the order stands at 1,300. The printing office people get around the difficulty by invariably sending up 1,400 copies.

During the year 1901, 535 charters for national banks were applied for and approved by the Comptroller of the Currency. But only 430 banks were actually organized. This difference is due to the fact that some applications that have been approved have been subsequently abandoned, and, in other cases, delay occurred in the completion of the organization and additional time has been granted. The practice of the Comptroller's office is to approve the organization of a bank and to reserve the title for a period of sixty days, and to grant an extension of time. If toward the expiration of that period good and satisfactory reasons are given for delay in completing the organization.

The statement ought to be an effective temperance document, all the more so since the effects of this compound bear out Dr. Wiley's analysis.

One marked effect of the rule providing for old age pensions is the decrease in the work of the Pension Bureau.

VIEW FOR POWER.

Retortions of Senate and President Are Strained.

By the overwhelming vote of 60 to 0 (the Senate Saturday evening amended the arbitration treaties in the manner protested against by President Roosevelt and then ratified all of them without a further call of the roll. The President has declared that he will not submit the amended treaties to the voters unless which they were negotiated, but will permit them to die on the ground that instead of marking a step forward in international arbitration they really mark a slight step backward.

Only nine Republican Senators voted against the objectionable amendment, while twenty-seven voted for the change which retains complete revisionary control of all possible arbitration agreements in the hands of the Senate. This is the emphatic answer of the Senate to the President's attempt by the President to take possession of the treaty-making power of the government vested by the Constitution in the President and the Senate together.

The President insists that the substitution of the word "treaty" for the word "agreement" nullifies his efforts to establish the principle of arbitration and that it is a step backward.

Sensational this in the first place, a majority of them have no patience with the arbitration treaties or with the theory upon which they are based. They are brutally frank in their criticisms of a tendency which they declare is at variance with the real aim of every commercial nation of the world. They cannot understand why this government or any other government should be so anxious to spend millions upon millions of dollars for new battleships, cruisers, torpedo boats, submarines and improved equipments for battlefields even make a pretense of desiring to establish international arbitration. They say that if the powers are sincere in their desire for peaceful relations of international differences the best evidence of a good faith would be gradual disarmament, both on sea and land.

The defiant attitude of the Senate is not altogether the result of this disagreement with the President over the arbitration treaties, but can be traced back to a long series of transactions extending over a period of three or four years. The impression had gone abroad that the President had broken the power of the Senate, reduced its members to a state of subjection and metaphorically held them in the palm of his hand. Probably every Senator, Democrat and Republican, heard something about this for a year or two past. It is an annual difference has been more considerate of his feelings than people usually are to men who, they believe, have been properly disciplined. The country has talked about it, publicly and otherwise, and to some extent has rejoiced over what it believed to be the President's courage and audacity.

The arbitration treaties, therefore, constituted a pretext for the break between the Senate and the President—a break which was bound to come sooner or later. How far it will proceed and what the consequences will be only can be conjectured. As the matter stands to-night it possesses grave and apparently far-reaching aspects.

The President feels that he has the people behind him, that they are in complete sympathy with his desire to establish the principle of arbitration and that they will rally to his standard with greater enthusiasm than ever when they realize that he is battling for ascendancy with the Senate oligarchy. The friends of the President are likely to complicate the situation. It is just as enthusiastic and infinitely more reckless than their chief. The Senators say that they are perfectly willing to leave their case to the people; they are simply insisting upon the preservation of the constitution, and, while remaining safely within the limitations of that instrument, they are asking the President to do the duty of Secretary of State to do the President's duty. The constitution says that the President shall negotiate treaties with the advice and consent of the Senate, and that the Senate shall have the power to ratify or reject the treaties when negotiated. The Senators contend that they have merely insisted upon observance of this principle in dealing with the arbitration treaties.

Horses	17,057,702	$70,371,810,020
Mules	2,888,710	23,840,378
Oxen	43,898,443	661,671,808
Sheep	45,170,423	127,321,890
Pigs	47,350,311	285,254,979

The numbers of farm animals as reported in the above table represent, as nearly as obtainable without an enumeration, the actual number of farm animals on Jan. 1, and are not strictly comparable with those published one year ago, the present figures being the result of a very careful investigation by correspondents and field agents without exclusive reference to the relation such figures should bear to those of last year. That there has been a marked reduction in the number of sheep during the year, together with a slight increase in the numbers of all other farm animals, admits, however, of no doubt.
