NATIVE RESOURCES DEVELOPING

A Cement Mill Turns to Profit; a Hill of Marble and Gold Operations are Prosecuted With Energy—New Railroad.

Cayo, April 6th, 1905.

Since my arrival from the States I have visited the provinces of Romblon and Masbate, though I have not yet been to my home town of Capiz. All three provinces have an important enterprise in view. A cement mill in Romblon, gold operations in Masbate and a projected railroad in Capiz. In the province of Masbate gold dredging is about to begin, in fact, by this date, very likely has begun. A Boston concern has invested some $35,000 in a dredge which was about ready for work at the time I was there. Some parties from Manila have sent up a five stamp quartz mill to work the lode, and a dredger for the sand at the bottom of the river and adjacent soil. The dredger is in charge of a young man from Massachusetts, a graduate of the Boston School of Technology, who seems to be very sanguine of the enterprise returning fair profits on the investment. I have never been very sanguine or hopeful as to gold mining in this country but would not be surprised if the modest estimates of Mr. Kimball would be realized and the enterprise pay reasonably well. There is gold in this country, it is found in small quantities in numerous places, but I doubt whether it has ever been discovered in large amounts, stories to the contrary notwithstanding, which partakes too much of the fabulous boffies to the richness of ancient mines and the ancient history pertaining to the transaction.

All about the town of Romblon rises a range of hills, which with the sea in front encircles the village, the little town, hills surrounding it covered mostly with cocoanut and other trees, the bay surrounded with islands, as to resemble a lake, altogether making up one of the prettiest landscapes in the Philippines. An energetic young man, who was in Romblon at the time I was there, proposes to mark the landscape by grinding up the marble hill which stands close to the sea, and covering it into cement. This prosaic enterprise may spoil the beauty of the town, but it is one that promises great profit, as all the ingredients which are necessary to good cement are found in the immediate vicinity and all close to a deep water harbor, so that vessels can come close to the wharf, an unusual circumstance of the coast of most islands of the Archipelago. I understand that there is a demand for cement which ensures a good market for any amount that may be manufactured.

I have not been to Capiz so am not accurately informed on the railroad conditions, but think from all that I have heard that a railroad is likely to be laid in the near future from Capiz in the north of the island of Panay to the city of Iloilo in the south. We hope that the result of the Cooper bill will be the building of several lines in the Islands, the most interesting to us being the one about the town of Romblon.

This prosaic enterprise may spoil the beauty of the town, but it is one that promises great profit, as all the ingredients which are necessary to good cement are found in the immediate vicinity and all close to a deep water harbor, so that vessels can come close to the wharf, an unusual circumstance of the coast of most islands of the Archipelago. I understand that there is a demand for cement which ensures a good market for any amount that may be manufactured.

One of the most interesting features of Romblon is that of the public schools or the public school boys. Every evening the little fellows are on the plaza, or common, as we might call it, playing games with all the zeal and vigor of the American boy of the same age. They have their college yell, I wish I could jot it down, but will not attempt it with uncertain memory. Romblon is fortunate in its teachers, as fine a lot of American teachers as I have met in the Philippines or the United States. They are not only excellent instructors as to books, but the boys are taught and encouraged in strenuous games, to 'hear them give their school yell and see them pull against each other as schools at a rope and engage in the strenuous game of base ball gives the American beholder more confidence in the future of the Filipinos than all the military exercises of all the schools of the Archipelago, without the addition of such manly sports, which are taught with signal success by one of the Romblon teachers, and which go far to manifest an unexpected strain of hardihood and courage in the juvenile native.

The other day, in Masbate, we had, not exactly an alligator in court, but an alligator case. It was the evening of the last day of last year as Dimeio, Patricia, his wife, Estafina, his daughter and Felix Expartiano were crossing a bamboo bridge laid across a small river noise was heard as of something sweeping the bridge followed by a fall into the water. Estafina called out that her mother had fallen into the river. Immediately after the fall an alligator was seen circling around the woman who disappeared. It does not seem that in the obscurity of the party observed the alligator seized the victim. They lighted torches and sought along the shore but failed to discover her. The master was reported to the president, who sent out a searching party, who, the next morning found part of the body and hair of the victim. The case was referred to the court after the examination of the coroner, that the cause of the death of the woman might be judicially determined.

They say the human beings have been occasionally devoured by alligators or crocodiles, which I believe to be the correct name of the reptiles of this country. The governor of the province told me that not far from the town of Masbate, the people had reported to him the presence of a cayman, as they call them here, twenty-six meters long without including the tail, and a meter around the body. It is to be presumed that the measurements are estimates in this particular instance.

This little island of Cayo might appropriately be called cocoanut Island from its appearance as you approach it from the sea, arriving at the capital also called Cayo. It also abounds in mango and orange trees, the latter fruit being in season a good part of the year, and I am told the best oranges in the Philippines, they are plentiful and cheap, ten cents a hundred, when in season.

Cayo has been fortunate in the past, the thousand ill that have swept the Philippines have passed these fortunate Isles by. The tinder pest, that has taken of the cattle and caribas, the sun that has destroyed the native horses, the locusts that has devastated the crops, insurrection and the scourge of cholera have never visited these islands. They are a little group way out in the sea, to which situation, they probably owe their immunity from social, political and natural ill.

LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Mrs. M. S. Davies visited the latter part of the week with relatives and friends at Ponca and Sioux City.

Norfolk thinks she is discriminated against in freight rates and appeals to the Northwestern to be just with the town.

The graduating class of the Winside schools consisted of five girls and not a boy. What is the matter? Do the boys have less appreciation of the needs of an education than their sisters or are they just too shiftless and lazy to stick to the work. At all events the proportion of boys who remain in the public schools and complete the course of study is not encouraging.

Adam Greer was exhibiting a freak egg on day last week. It was not more than one-fourth the size of an ordinary egg and was shaped very nearly like a young chick, the head, shape of body and even an opening representing an eye were some of the peculiarities. John Kate couldn't give a solution of the freak and when John can't find a reason for freaks there is no use in any one else attempting to do so.

For the next three months Don Cunningham will have charge of the advertising and job solicitation on behalf of the Herald and we trust you will extend to him the same liberal patronage given to Mr. Hause, who has been looking after these departments since the present ownership of the paper was assumed. Mr. Hause will collect all the outstanding accounts due on advertising and job work and as he desires to leave for the west in the near future we trust that all who are indebted for anything above designated will be prompt in making settlements.

Will S. Jay of Lincoln, and W. H. Hall of Columbus, have purchased Robert Utter's book store business, assuming possession at once. Mr. Hall will have the active management of the business and bring to it a number of years' experience in the same line, while Mr. Jay will remain at Lincoln, where he is in the employ of the State Journal company. Mr. Utter has built up a profitable and extensive business, and it will continue to grow under the new management, both members of the new firm being wide awake, pushing business men, who will endeavor to meet every want of their patrons.—Norfolk Press.

Last Sunday evening, thieves broke into the Peoples' Clothing Store and something like $300 worth of goods were taken. Mr. Heilbrand and Frank Speigle went to Omaha Sunday morning, and Mr. Speigle Sr., arrived Monday morning only to find an opening in the back room, and several suits of clothes, and some pants, shoes, hats, furnishing goods and two fur overcoats gone. It is quite evident that the robbers were well acquainted with the stock as they took nothing but the best, and it is probable that the robbery was committed to sell the goods as everything taken was of one or two sizes. Marshal Clark has been making an effort to find the thieves but as yet has not succeeded.—Fender Times.

Father Haley gave his lecture, treating of the injurious effects of alcohol, before a good-sized and appreciative audience at the opera house Thursday evening. He showed how taking alcohol drinks into the human system retards digestion and slowly but surely undermines and finally destroys health. He quoted from eminent authorities to prove the poisonous properties in alcohol. After his main lecture he presented a number of first-class stereopticons views that were appropriate to the subject, illustrating in a most impressive manner the evils of intemperance. He demonstrated the importance of sobriety as a means to health and happiness, and he was given close attention throughout. His effort should and doubtless will prove beneficial.

A few days ago in our journeying about the county we dropped in for a few minutes on E. W. Closson at Sholes and found him a pretty busy man attending to a general merchandise business, buying grain and live stock and a side issue raising some mighty fine pure bred Poland-China hogs. Mr. Closson has got one of the very best boars that we have seen in the county and also a number of excellent pure bred sows with splendid litters of young. Mr. Closson in the pure bred hog business as in all other things he engages in will have nothing but what he believes to be the best and he certainly is to be congratulated on the excellent judgment displayed so far along this line, and if he follows the course he has started out on will in the very near future have a herd of which not only he but all lovers of the black hog can afford to be proud.

The Carroll Index was sold last week to Richard Closson. The new proprietor is a brother of E. W. Closson and for the past four years has been practicing law at Webster City, Iowa. He is a classmate of A. R. Davis of this city and is well spoken of by those acquainted with him. Under the management of the late proprietor, E. R. Lundburg, the Index has become a good paying piece of newspaper property with a splendid subscription list and is one of North Nebraska's bright weekly publications. We are not informed as to Mr. Lundburg's intentions for the future and as we understand it the sale of the Index was a surprise and the probabilities are that Mr. Lundburg has not as yet formed any definite plans for the future. But wherever Mr. Lundburg goes or in whatever business he may embark we are sure the best wishes of a host of our people will be with him hoping for his success.

Prof. Snodgrass has been elected to fill the chair of mathematics in the new Kearney normal and Prof. Gregg to the scientific department of the Peru normal. As our readers are aware Prof. Snodgrass has been superintendent of the city schools for several years and as such has given general satisfaction and Wayne people will be glad to know of his promotion and believe the state has secured in him a conscientious instructor and faithful worker who will fully justify the expectations of the board in choosing him for the place. Prof. Gregg has been one of the leading members of the faculty at the North Nebraska normal and is acknowledged as being one of the state's foremost educators; a young man, full of energy, with marked ability as an instructor and one who has no fear of hard work. If the selections for the corps of these two state schools are of as high order as the two men chosen from Wayne, the educational interest of the state will be properly cared for.

The hearing of the Milner-Newman adultery case came off before Judge Hunter Friday afternoon and the defendant, Fred Milner, was bound over to appear before the district court. There was doubtless some indiscretion on the part of the defendant and co-respondent when it is taken into consideration that people with tongues ready to wag are ever on the alert and while the evidence as to any crime having really been committed was not very certain yet the court under all circumstances surely did the proper thing in turning the matter over to the district court for a thorough sifting. The party charged with the crime is but a strippling of a boy, only a little over sixteen years of age and the woman, Mrs. Newman, is a comely little woman of probably twenty-five. The complaining witness was John L. Davis, father of the woman in the case. The Newmans live about two miles northeast of Carroll and the boy was in their employ as a hired man for a time, during the months of April and May; Peter Davis, an uncle of Mrs. Newman, with his family occupied a part of the Newman home and it was this uncle and his wife who first became suspicious of relations existing between the hired man and woman and these suspicions were first imparted to the husband and afterwards to the father of Mrs. Newman. The husband after being informed of what the uncle and aunt suspected became somewhat of a Sherlock Holmes and eventually one evening just after dark when returning from doing chores at the barn, peeped in at a window and discovered the boy and woman in what he believed at the time was not the attitude that ought to exist between the lady of the house and the hired man, but he said on the witness stand he knew they had not committed any offense against the laws of morality or the statutes of the state of Nebraska, and that he warned them against future actions of like nature and that it had never again occurred and he further stated that the young man and woman were entirely innocent of any wrong doing. Peter Davis and wife, however, believed differently and it was on their testimony and admissions of defendant and woman that the court felt in duty bound to let the case go to the higher court.

Camping in the Rockies. About dusk you struggle in with trout or game. The campkeeper lays aside his mending or his repairing of his notebook and sits up in the cooking fire. The smell of broiling and frying arises in the air. By the dancing flames of the campfire you eat your third dinner for the day—in the mountains all meals are dinners, and formidable ones, at that.

The curtain of blackness draws down close. Through it shine stars, moon, mountains cold and mistletoe in the moon. You tell stories. You smoke pipes. After a time the pleasant chill creeps down from the eternal snows. Some one throws another handful of pine cones on the fire. Sleepily you prepare for bed. The pine cones flare up, throwing their light in your eyes. You turn over and wrap the soft woolen blanket close about your chin. You wink drowsily and at once you are asleep.

In the night you awaken to find your nose as cold as a dog's. You open one eye. A few coals mark where the fire has been. The mist mountains have drawn nearer; they seem to hem you in silent contemplation. The moon is sailing high in the heavens. With a sigh you draw the curtains tampon over your head. Instantly it is morning.—S. E. White, in "The Mountains."

In Record Time.

Piney Flats, Tenn., May 23.—(Special.)—Came the last days of Russian Turkestan, that had been a part of our country for two years. Dr. S. H. Hilton of the Piney Flats naturally wants every other sufferer from rheumatism to know what cured him. It was Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills are the grandest pill on earth," says Mr. Hilton. "I would not take any sum of money for what they did for me. For two years I had what the doctors called rheumatism. I could hardly walk around in the house. It seemed to be in my back and hip and legs. I tried everything, but nothing helped me till I got Dodd's Kidney Pills."

"Two days after I took the first dose all pain left me and it has never come back since. I can't praise Dodd's Kidney Pills too much."

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. Healthy kidneys take all the uric acid out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills make healthy kidneys.

The Need of Commercial Schools.

The most interesting educational development in Germany to me is the development of higher commercial education, writes Frank A. Vanderlip in Scribner's. We recognize that an engineer on a machine will profit by a technical education. There is no longer a doubt that a technical education will enable such a man to outstrip in the long run his fellows who have equal ability, but have learned only in the slower and less scientific school of experience. There are good reasons. I am convinced, for giving the banker or the merchant a technical commercial education. The schools do not turn out a practical banker or merchant, but I believe that there is a great amount of information needed by a man in commercial life which is capable of scientific classification, and can be taught with much greater efficiency, and with much less loss of time, in a properly organized school than it can be gathered in the ordinary course of an apprenticeship in a business career.

As Others See Us. "Yes," said the young man, "I am about to get a political job, where I will have nothing to do but sit around and look wise!"

"Well," rejoined his fair companion in the parlor scene, "I'm sure you will be able to fill the first half of the requirements all right enough."

BOOK OF BOOKS.

Over 30,000,000 Published. An English lady who has a taste for good literature tells what a happy time she had on "The Road to Wellville."

She says:

"I drank coffee freely for eight years before I began to perceive any evil effects from it. Then I noticed that I was becoming very nervous, and that my stomach was gradually losing the power to properly assimilate my food. In time I got so weak that I decided to leave the house—for no reason whatever but because of the miserable condition of my nerves and stomach. I attributed the trouble to anything in the world but coffee, of course. I dosed myself with medicines, which in the end would leave me in a worse condition than at first. I was most wretched and discouraged—not 30 years old and feeling that life was a failure."

"I had given up all hope of ever enjoying myself like other people, till one day I read the little book, "The Road to Wellville." It opened my eyes, and taught me a lesson I shall never forget, and cannot value too highly. I immediately quit the use of the old kind of coffee and began to drink Postum Food Coffee. I noticed the beginning of an improvement in the whole tone of my system, after only two days' use of the new drink, paid in a very short time realized that I could go about like other people without the least return of the nervous dread that formerly gave me so much trouble.

In fact, my nervousness disappeared entirely, and has never returned, although it is now ten years that I have been drinking Postum Food Coffee. And my stomach is now like iron—nothing can upset it."

"Last week, during the big Convalescence in San Francisco, I was on the go day and night without the slightest fatigue; and as I stood in the immense crowd watching the great parade that lasted for hours, I thought to myself, 'This strength is what Postum Food Coffee has given me!'" Name given by Postum Co. Entitled "Wellville."

The little book, "The Road to Wellville," may be found in every pkg.

CHAPTER XIV.—(Continued)

As soon as the train rolls in, a dozen travelers, of whom I am one, get out on the track. By the light of the lantern it is easy to see that the breakup is not due to malice afore. But it is none the less true that the two last vans, the mortuary van and the rear van occupied by the goods guard, are missing. How far are they? Nobody knows.

You should have heard the shouts of the Persian guards engaged in escorting the remains of Yen Lou, for which they were responsible! The travelers in them, like themselves, had not noticed when the coupling broke. It might be an hour or two hours since the accident.

What ought to be done was clear enough. The train must be run back and pick up the lost vans.

Nothing could be more simple. But that surprised me—the behavior of the lord Farsiktar. He had remained at the head of his men, and even our superintendents, at the dramatic outburst which followed took place. After throwing a glance at the papers presented to him by the Chinese functionary rose and bowed respectfully to Farsiktar, saying:

"May the general manager of the Grand Transsiberian deign to receive my thousand respects!"

General manager? that is what he is, this lord Farsiktar. All is explained. During our crossing of Russian Turkestan he had maintained his magnificence like a great personage in a foreign country; but now on the Chinese railways he resumed the rank which belonged to him.

And I held myself out to identify him with the pirate Ki-Tsing. And Major Noltitz, who had been so preoccupied hitherto, I have some one to note in his train—I have him this somebody: I will make his acquaintance. I will cultivate his acquaintance, I will cultivate it like a rare plant, and if we will only speak Russian I will interview him down in his boat. I am completely posted, and I could not help shrugging my shoulders when the major spoke thus:

"Perhaps one of the bandit chiefs whom the Grand Transsiberian had to make terms?"

"Come, major, be serious!"

The visit was nearing its end when Baron Weisshutzenhofer appeared. He is preoccupied, he is in trouble, he is anxious, he is confused, he is fidgety. Why is he shaking and bending, and having fits? I have not seen one. And yet, in default of resources, we might get some excitement out of tiger skins. What a heading for a newspaper, and what a stroke of luck for a journalist! Terrible Catastrophe! A Grand Transsiberian Express Attacked by Tigers! Fifty Victims! An Inventor Devoured Before Its Mother's Eyes!—the whole thickly leaded and appropriately illustrated.

The two principal stations have been Yangtze-Hissar, where the train stops ten minutes, and Kizil, where it stops a quarter of an hour. Several blast furnaces are at work here, the soil being ferocious, as shown by the word "Kizil," which means red.

FILIPINO FAKIR WAS CRAFTY.

Grew Rich by Bunko Game with a Christ, Image Which Talked.

Two wooden images and a ventriloquist's voice are capital enough to make a man rich, if he uses them rightly.

Jose Zalde, a Filipino, tried it and succeeded. That he landed in jail was not due to any flaw in his bunko scheme, but to the use he made of his money by aiding the insurgents.

His arrest and the capture of his outfit are the subject of the latest story from the Philippines brought by the men of the Eighth Infantry, whose officers have the honor of having run Jose Zalde to earth.

In proof of the story they brought the wooden images, which will be sent to the museum at West Point, to serve not only as a quaint representation of primitive Filipino art, but also showing an advanced stage in the art of hump-backery in the land of little brown men.

At this moment the going awakes the echoes of the interior of the railway station.

"Wait! wait! Don't run! Can't you wait a few moments for a man who is going round the world in thirty-one days?"

The Grand Transsiberian does not wait," says the interpreter.

Without waiting for more, Major Noltitz and I reach the platform, while the baron continues to struggle in the presence of the impudent Chinese functionaries.

My first card is to look into the front window. The custom house officers are present with the exception, of course, of Kinko, who would have done honor to our breakfast if it had been possible for him to take part in it. There was Doctor Tio-King ("Corrado" under his arm; Paul Ephraim and Miss Horatio Bluet, mingling their teeth and hair, figuratively, as it is understood; Sir Francis Trevelyan, impudently smiling at his wife, and his son, his eyes on the threshold, Fair-skinned, he was a real beauty, as the other Mongols, when we enter the capital of Chinese Turkestan.

CHAPTER XV.

What was not done at the frontier had to be done at Kashgar. Russians and Chinese are one as bad as the other when there are vexing formalities, paper to verify, passports to sign, etc. It is the same sort of meddling, minute and overfiddling, and we must put up with it.

We must not forget the terrible threat of the formula of the Celestial Empire affixed to his acts—"Tremble and obey!" I am disposed to obey, and I am prepared to appear before the authorities of the frontier. I remember the fears of Kinko, and it is with regard to him that the trembling is to be done, if the examination of the travelers extends to their packages and luggage.

It is 10 o'clock when a stroke of the gong announces that the police formalities are about to begin. We leave the table and a few minutes afterward are in the writing room.

All numbers are present with the exception, of course, of Kinko, who would have done honor to our breakfast if it had been possible for him to take part in it. CHAPTER XVII.

We are off on a Chinese railway, single line, the train drawn by a Chinese engine, driven by a Chinese driver. Let us hope we shall not be telegraphed on the road, for among the passengers is one of the chief functionaries of the company, in the person of Farsiktar.

Our train runs at only moderate speed since we left Kashgar. On the opposite horizon we can see the tall hills of the Pamirs, the Kuenlun, the Altai, from which the Gobi comes, lost among the clouds.

I do not know how to spend my time. Major Noltitz has never visited the territories crossed by the Grand Transsiberian, and I am deprived of the pleasure of taking notes from his dictation. Dr. Tio-King does not lift his nose from his "Corrado" and Pau Chan reminds me more of Paris and France than of Pekin and China; besides, when he came to Europe he came by Suez, and he knows no more of Oriental Turkestan than he does of Kamtschatka. All he says is that he is a man of business. At a venture I make him a present of his pocket watch, and little less than a little smile, and a little more originality would suit me better.

I am inclined to stroll from one car to another, clinging on the platforms, interrogating the horizon, which obstinately refuses to reply, listening on all sides.

"Halloo! there are the actors and his wife, apparently in animated conversation. I approach. They sing in an undertone.

Ephrill and Miss Bluet are talking away with unusual animation, and I catch the end of the dialogue.

"I'm afraid," said she, "that harp will be out of tune again." "And I," said he, "that teach will be out of tune again." "A good war would only break out in which the Russians would give the Chinaman a smack in the jaw."

There now! Smack them on the jaw, in order that Strong, Bullock & Co., of New York, might have a chance of doing a trade!

Rouli! I do not know what to do, and we have a week's journey before us. To Jericho with the Grand Transsiberian and its monstrous security! The Great Train from New York to San Francisco had once left us. A band of redskins sometimes attack the trains, and the chance of a scuffle on the road can but add to the charm of the voyage.

But what is that I hear being recited, or rather intoned, at the end of our compartment?

"There is no man, whoever he may be, who cannot protect himself from cutting too much and avoid the evils due to repetition. On those who are intrusted with the direction of public affairs this is more innocent than on others."

It is Doctor Tio-King reading "Corrido" aloud. In order that he may remember his principles better. Eh! after all, this principle is not to be despised. Shall I send it by telegram to our cabinet ministers? They might, perhaps, plus diabolus.

It is always to be remembered that Jesus did not come into this world upon an industrial, but upon a religious mission.

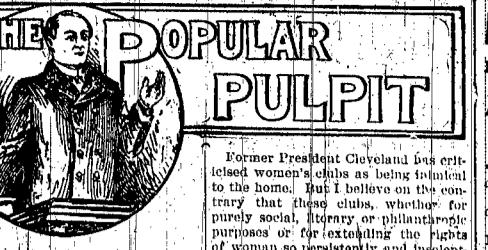

During this afternoon, I find by the guidebook that we shall cross the Yenisei river, descend the bridge. This is a narrow affair, built of stones, across the river which is at least twenty-five thousand feet high, and its base is increased with the melting of the snows.

Sometimes the train cuts through thick jungles, amid which Poinciana trees are numerous. Numerous, they may be, but I have not seen one. And yet, in default of resources, we might get some excitement out of tiger skins. What a heading for a newspaper, and what a stroke of luck for a journalist!

Terrible Catastrophe! A Grand Transsiberian Express Attacked by Tigers! Fifty Victims! An Inventor Devoured Before Its Mother's Eyes!—the whole thickly leaded and appropriately illustrated.

The two principal stations have been Yangtze-Hissar, where the train stops ten minutes, and Kizil, where it stops a quarter of an hour. Several blast furnaces are at work here, the soil being ferocious, as shown by the word "Kizil," which means red.

THE USE OF RICHES.

By Rev. John Watson, D. D.

"Then took Mary a pound of oilment of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped His feet with her hair. And the house was filled with the odor of the oilment." (John 12:3.)

It is always to be remembered that Jesus did not come into this world upon an industrial, but upon a religious mission.

From a somewhat careful examination of the constituency of these clubs I find that a large number of the members are women, who have done their duty faithfully to their husbands, and whose children are the crown jewels of their homes. Other members are younger women who are devoting their energies to the betterment of society and are not losing their attractiveness and domesticity by their relationship to such organizations.

MINISTER AND PEOPLE.

By Rev. W. C. Cover.

The failure to scrutinize accurately and sympathetically the conditions in the pews and thus get into the life of the people with a message adapted to their needs is at the bottom of the restlessness of many pastoral relations.

The minister sees an altogether different audience, mentally and spiritually, from what his fathers saw forty years ago. Then the pastor was one among the few educated men of the community.

I will say a word of a law to which great importance should be attached, and which illustrates the grace of Jesus' teaching.

It is the law of beauty, which was illustrated in that hour when a pious and devout woman touched with the romance which ever clings round the person of Christ, took that precious ointment and instead of distilling it in flams at the door, poured it forth on the person of our Lord; so that although a little later they struck Him, they put Him to shame and crucified Him. He died bearing the fragrance of that ointment upon His body. Waste! Ah, glorious waste, the fragrance of which fills not that room alone, but the whole history. So that if a man, having discharged his duties to his home and to his work, should hold in his hand a surplus, what magnificence and beautiful things he can do with it! He can purchase pictures and statuary, and lovely metal-work, and specimens of the blunders of art, and, perchance, to make a man rich, if he uses them rightly.

José Zalde, a Filipino, tried it and succeeded. That he landed in jail was not due to any flaw in his bunko scheme, but to the use he made of his money by aiding the insurgents.

His arrest and the capture of his outfit are the subject of the latest story from the Philippines brought by the men of the Eighth Infantry, whose officers have the honor of having run Jose Zalde to earth.

In proof of the story they brought the wooden images, which will be sent to the museum at West Point, to serve not only as a quaint representation of primitive Filipino art, but also showing an advanced stage in the art of hump-backery in the land of little brown men.

A great spiritual change has come over the modern church audience. This is the most susceptible and apprehensive era that truth ever had. The minister sees a company of distracted men and women before him. Life is overcharged with energy. A minister who undertakes to gain a hearing for the truth must overcome thousands of obstacles.

There are diverse religious estates and experiences before him. Some want the suggestion of a finished product in a written sermon, others ask for the opportunity of closer personal contact in extempore address. Some want "pure gospel" sermons, by which they mean sermons that have no reference to the great live issues in politics and society. Some want their emotions stirred, others plead the insubstantial character of emotional appeals. The preacher must survey the field like a army surgeon on the fighting line and go at once to the grievously wounded with his help and healing.

DESIRE FOR BIGNESS.

By Dr. A. H. Stephens.

The lust for big things has led many nations far out into the desert to perish, forgetting tenderness and looking only to the accomplishment of the ambition for greatness. In all life, military and civic, we are swash with an overwhelming desire for bigness.

A developed Daisy. For many years Mr. Burbank worked upon the daisy, taking the thin petals off the flower, the pest of Eastern farmers, as a basis of his experiments, and developing it until it is now bloomed four five to seven inches in diameter, with wonderful keeping qualities after cutting. In the same way he has greatly increased the geranium in size, and at the same time has made it far more brilliant in color.

The Hard Return.

I want to give me those poems for a year's subscription to my paper, snatched the editor of the rural weekly.

"Why, they are worthless," said the long-haired bard. "You don't think I'd want to trade them for your paper, I'd want to keep them for myself."

I do the work of a well man at any rate. I can close my eyes and stand all right and move about the same as other men. The pains are all gone except an occasional twinge in the calves of my legs.

Just Discrimination in Railway Rates.

All railroad men qualified to speak on the subject in a responsible way are likely to agree with President Samuel Spencer of the Southern Railway when he says: "There is no better opinion of opinion as to the desirability of stopping all secret or unjust discriminatory devices and practices of whatever character."

The true disciple of Christ will learn from his Master, who found in a cup of cold water a ministry, tender and sweet, to human thirst. Sad is that heart to which want and suffering make no appeal, and sadder is that life that gives out none of itself in tenderness for the benefit of its kind.

The church to fulfill her true mission to men must not allow herself to be led into the ribald assembly that thunders in the theater at Ephesus, but must rather go to the upper room in Jerusalem, where she may for a time be alone with her Lord to gain power for her ministry of tenderness.

REALITIES OF LIFE.

By Rev. A. Arnold Rose.

It needs not the words of the poet to teach us that.

Life is real, life is earnest.

Every man who has pondered upon the realities of life is led into the ribald assembly which overcomes him.

Granting that he cannot be changed except by the intervention of some government tribunal, and by this very process to increase the temptation to depart from the published rates and the lawful rate to offend to some overweening and arrogant commercial condition.

This distinction between just and unjust discrimination is clearly recognized in the conclusions of the International Railway Congress, published yesterday.

Are the Packers Receiving Fair Play?
When the Garfield report on the business of the packers appeared, after eight months' investigation, it was a veritable revelation, and entirely discreditable. After so much talk of packing, it is significant that those who attempted to discredit it have failed to controvert the figures contained in that exhaustive document. The public is beginning to notice this omission, and the testing is rapidly proving that the sensational charges set forth in the "Fair Investigation" were with foundation. If the Nibel statements of the report are susceptible of contradiction, a good many people are still asking why the facts and figures are not furnished to contradict them.

The truth seems to be that most of the charges contain unadorned sensational assertions. A flagrant example of this appeared in a recent article in an Eastern magazine, to the effect that forty Iowa banks were forced to close their doors in 1893-4 by the Beef Trust's manipulation of cattle prices. Chief Clerk Cox of the Banking department of the Iowa State Auditor's office, has tabulated the list of banks given in the magazine article and has publicly denounced the statement as utterly untrue. He gives separately the reasons for each failure mentioned and officially states that they have been caused by unwise speculations and by reckless banking methods. It may be well to suspend judgment upon the packers until the charges against them are proved.

Wherein They Differ.

"Say, pa," queried little Johnny Bum, pernickie, "what's the difference between a patriot and a politician?"

"A patriot," replied the old gentleman, "is a man who is willing to die for his country, and a politician is a man who is willing to live at the expense of his country."

LIVING TOO HASTILY AMERICAN WOMEN BREAKDOWN

Irregularities and Female Derangements Result—Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Owing to our mode and manner of living, and the nervous haste of every woman to accomplish just so much each day, it is said that there is not the heroism of physicians.

It may be truly said that no class of men risk death so frequently or so freely, and there is no gainsaying that the motives which impel them are of the highest and most unselfish sort. For they not only dare, in the cause of humanity, such swift and fatal torture as marked this case, but more terrible to contemplate, the unhesitating lay themselves open to long years of hopeless and helpless suffering.

For the most part, the world knows little of this. The common tendency is to think of doctors as immune against those ailments and afflictions with which they must, so often come in contact. The popular mind conceives them as charmed beings, forgetting for the while that suffering and death are the lot of persons, and as a natural consequence, the thought of heroism is seldom coupled with that of healing.

Other men who are independent in business can select their own times for coming and going. The doctor cannot. They can to the class of trade they desire. The doctor cannot. They can, when they will, decline to dispense their wares and their services. The doctor cannot. However, heavily the day's toll has weighed upon them, the evening and night are theirs for recreation or rest. The doctor's are not.

Beyond certain limits of special practice, which any emergency can shatter, he has neither choice of what or with whom he shall deal, and under any circumstances he can never call one, night or day, his own.

His is a heroism of constant service—not the kind that does one flaring deed which makes men stare and shout and then reposes peacefully on beds of laurels, but the kind that is never wanting in the moment of need; the kind that is content to walk in the byways as well as the highways of life, the kind that knows no distinction between rich and poor, humble and proud; the kind that means comfort and relief to the body burning with fever,

IRRITABILITY AND SNAPPY RETORTS TAKE THE PLACE OF PLEASANTNESS, AND ALL SUNSHINE IS DRIVEN OUT OF THE HOME, AND LIVES ARE WRECKED BY WOMAN'S GREAT ENEMY—WOMB TROUBLE.

OPINIONS OF GREAT PAPERS ON IMPORTANT SUBJECTS

Peril of the Dress Suit.

RESPONDENTS of a New York newspaper have been discussing in its columns the important question whether a young man on a salary of $15 per week should have a dress suit. An earnest philosopher at Seneca Falls sees in the dress suit a peril which owned by a young man who has this modest income. He does not consider the "spike tail" coat a menace per se. The danger, he conceives, is in the expenses its possession involves.

Perhaps there is something in this. When a man has got a dress suit he must have dress shirts. When he has them he must have studs, modest, or respondent. Cal's shoes don't look well with a dress suit; so its owner must have patent dress shoes. He will regard his evening dress as incomplete until he has the proper kind of hat.

The possession of costly and fashionable garment implies its use. A young man flushed with his first dress suit and opera hat is likely to find the street too vulgar a conveyance. He must hire a carriage to the theater. A sack coat raises no objections to a seat in the gallery, but the "swallow tail" protests that it feels out of place there, and that if it can't sit in a box, it at least must not be taken above the ground floor.

Dress shirts, dress shoes, silk hats, carriages, $1.50 or $2 seats at the theater—the rest but a few of the costly accessories of the dress suit. The Seneca Falls philosopher pursues the theme. A young man, he reasons, can't afford to have these things in $15 a week. It gets in debt, robs his employer's till, or commits forgery. The dress suit of the $15 young man thus becomes the innocent cause of its owner going to jail, where he will not have much use for it.

Whether the $15 a week young man's dress suit gets him in jail or not—and there are many such young men who have dress suits, and yet probably never will go to jail—it's pretty sure, if he lives up to it, to keep his finances depressed. The dress suit is all right. It is a thing of beauty and a joy forever, although certain esthetic people do say it would be more beautiful and joyful if knee trousers were substituted for pantaloons. The accessories of the dress suit are unobjectionable. Life would be less worth living without them. But it seems tolerably plain that the $15 young man had better postpone indulgence in them until his salary shall have been considerably increased. The attempt to "carve out" a dress suit tailor on a small suit income has kept many men busy dodging creditors the best part of their lives.—New York Press.

aid, at the same time, to the watching heart nearby, burning with the anxiety of love.

True heroism—all the more so because it seldom has the encouragement of deserved praise—is the rule among physicians.—Philadelphia North American.

A Peril to the Church.

It is fortunate for the churches of this country that clergymen generally take emphatic exception to the attitude of the Board of Missions, which is said to have decided unanimously that it will accept Mr. John D. Rockefeller's gift of $100,000, and to the attitude of those other clergymen who have the temerity to come out boldly and declare that they want Mr. Rockefeller's money whether it is dirty or clean. It is fortunate for the church that this indiscriminating greed is so roundly denounced, because, when all is said and done, it is not the Mr. Rockefellers, or any other money kings, who support the religious institutions of this country. The hundred thousand dollars that a multi-millionaire may give here or there at intervals to excite commendation of his religious spirit, or to mollify bitter criticsm of his business methods, count as nothing against the small but steady contributions of the millions of plain American citizens who are the true supporters of the church, both with their financial aid and with their moral principles and practices.

Let the American people once understand that the church can be bribed to withhold its condemnation of injustice, oppression and crime—for every one of these is in the indictment against the Standard Oil Company—and they will surely set their faces against the church as they have against the men who extort their hundreds of millions from the public, contributing of these robber gains the smallest fraction, either in penitence or with the charlatan's air of hoodwinking otherwise good people into a sort of public approval of their acts.—New York Press.

Money Worship.

THE cheapening effect on human nature that money worship has cannot be declared too often. Money worship overlooks good deeds and honest hearts. It snubs deserving men and shows no respect for women. It mistakes clothes for the man and showiness for brains. It judges no man by what he is, but every one by what he has. To the money worshipper externals are everything; character is no badge of respectability. Have money, bid you are somebody; be without money and you are not worth considering. The money worshipper professes love for art because he thinks it tactful, but he despises the artist if the artist has genius sans money. He calls immorality "bohemianism" and sneers at "the simple life" as being plebeian. He is narrow, selfish, proud, material and uninteresting.

All the energies of the pulpit and the rostrum, the school and the press should make war on this stifling tendency of the age. It is a matter that affects the very life of the human race. If the subject is old, the war should not for that reason be dropped. On the other hand, because it is old, the attacks should be continued with growing earnestness.—Louisville Courier Journal.

Mortality in Modern War.

THE mortality in modern war, notwithstanding the marked progress that has been made in the construction of rapid fire artillery and magazines, does not seem to exceed that of former conflicts, if the alleged Russian official figures on the subject are measurably correct. Thus it is asserted that out of a total of 130,000 officers and men ill and wounded 77,000, or more than one-half, have returned to active service, while about 21,000 are still in the hospitals. The killed in combat during a year's hostilities, which include several bloody battles, are placed at from 40,000 to 50,000. This is a heavy toll but for the fact that the small bore rifles, now in use, kill fewer men proportionately than the big caliber muskets formerly employed. As for the Japanese, the proportion of recoveries both from illness and wounds among them is described both by official and non-official observers as surprisingly large.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

TRYING THE BRIDE'S TEMPER.

On the day of a Chinese marriage uninvited friends and neighbors, or even perfect strangers, are allowed to come in and see the bride, and they may make any remark about her, or to her, they please, says the Bouloir.

Sometimes things horribly rude and grossing are said.

To try her temper a man will say:

"Fetch your husband a cup of tea!" If she does so, all will say, "Foolish wife you are!"

If she sulks and does not as she is told, they remark: "That is a pretty vivacious wife, which should be on that tartar," and other words to a similar effect.

Then the poor thing is made to stand upon an inverted cup to show how small are her feet.

EVERY WALK IN LIFE.

A. A. Boyce, a farmer, living three-quarters of a mile from Trenton, Mo., says:

"I severely cold, settled in my kidneys and developed a sore back and sides. For a time I was unable to walk at all, and every makeshift I tried and all the medicine I took had not the slightest effect. My back continued to grow weaker until I began taking Dean's Kidney Pills, and I must say I was more than surprised and gratified to notice the backsache disappearing gradually until it finally stopped."

Worth Remembering.

There are three entirely different kinds of ingredients used in making the three different varieties of baking powders on the market, viz.:—(1) Mineral-Acid or Alum, (2) Bone-Acid or Phosphate, and (3) Cream of Tartar made from grapes.

It is important, from the standpoint of health, to know something about these ingredients, and which kind is used in your baking powder.

(1) Mineral-Acid, or Alum, is made from a kind of clay.

This is mixed with diluted oil of vitriol and water, and a product is obtained which is smooth, but not soapy; it will last, and yet be easily reduced.

(2) Bone-Acid, or Phosphate,

FLOUR

ALL WAYNE MERCHANTS SELL IT

Twenty-five years ago the larger flouring mills of the northwest held an advantage not possessed by the smaller mills. They replaced the old-style French burr with new and at that time very expensive rolls and other machinery. They milled only the best grades of northern grown wheat and made a flour superior to the smaller mills. Today the reverse is true. The smaller mills are using the roll as well as other of the latest and most improved machinery necessary to make an A-1 flour, and that is not all, the smaller mills get their wheat direct from the farmer--no mixed elevator wheat--and select only the best varieties. The lower grades are run into a shipping bin and shipped direct to Minneapolis. You may draw your own conclusion as to what is done with it, where two-thirds of all wheat received grades from No. 3 down to rejected. They claim to have the largest mills in the world at Minneapolis and must have wheat to grind. We wonder who uses this flour. We would recommend Wayne flour made from selected wheat, that makes sweet and wholesome bread.

Moses Warner, the sage of Lyons, is still in the business of consigning editors to the hot place. His latest being Jonas Ecker of the Winside Tribune. Moses is a pretty warm number himself.

The readiness of the democratic brethren of the press to congratulate republicans who criticize their own party or party leaders for their independence is something remarkable, and we are led to wonder at times how it is that these same "lovers of independence" in others never exhibit any themselves.

It begins to look as though Congressman McCarthy of this district is not going to be given a nomination to succeed himself without a pretty spirited contest. Several statesmen are swelling up and trying to show the good people that they are built about right to have M. C. attached to their names. It is more than a year yet until the nomination will be made and there will be plenty of time in which to smash slates.

Ross Hammond says it is not at all certain that Senator Millard's successor will be an Omaha man. But Ross does not so much as intimate where he may come from. Perhaps he is waiting for some one else to suggest "Freemont." Stanton Pickett.

Yes, and some of the boys are thinking enough to suggest that Ross heard something buzzing lately and thought it was the bee after him.

The Herald has no candidate for United States senator to succeed Senator Millard, but it hopes the press of the state will not be too hasty in pushing the booms of the fellows who are anxious for the place. The question of corporation control is and will continue to be the leading question before the American public until settled right and Nebraska's representatives in the senate should be in full accord with the sentiment of the party on this issue. Let us find out where the aspirants stand before we are hitched to their band wagon.

Mr. Olney's argument that the state board of assessment should consider only the local earnings of the Union Pacific railroad is more ingenious than convincing. Carried out to its logical conclusion it would mean that each state between the Missouri river and the Pacific ocean could assess the road only on a value established by the amount of purely local traffic. A train load of cattle sent out from Cheyenne to Chicago creates earnings that under Mr. Olney's reasoning could be considered for taxation purposes in Wyoming only and there simply on the haul of about forty miles to the state line. If Nebraska the earning could not be considered at all. The local traffic of one state becomes the through traffic of the next state east or west, and if through traffic is to be eliminated from taxation, according to this funny little theory the amount paid by the Union Pacific for the support of the states through which it passes would be merely nominal. A tax agent with perspicacity enough to get such a rule adopted would earn more for his company than the salary of the president of the United States. If Mr. Olney could finish his argument with a sober face and then have his ideas accepted by the state board, he would not remain long as a mere tax agent in Nebraska. He would be snatched ruthlessly from the scene of his present humble employment and taken to New York and given a place in the trust world commensurate with his abilities and his distinguished services. —State Journal.

We are assured from high authority that the next congress will "stand pat," will not listen to any propositions for a revision of the tariff schedules now in existence; will not give us any legislation for a better control of corporations; will not give to the interstate commerce commission power that will make it a real force, because to do any of these things will disturb "the business world."

The doctrine of "stand pat" is the doctrine of non-progression, it is the doctrine that would follow to its logical conclusion bring us to a dead stand still. It is the doctrine that has made the great Chinese nation a nonentity in the world's affairs; it is the doctrine of extreme autocracy and its greatest living exponents are the grand dukes and ruling classes of Russia, the worst governed nation on the face of the globe today. And yet this is the doctrine or policy that the greatest nation of earth is asked at this time to adopt. The tariff schedules of our present law were very good at the time of their adoption or enactment but the conditions in existence at that time have materially changed in many respects and as a progressive party, representing the true spirit of Americanism the republican party cannot afford to put itself on record at this time as favoring a standstill policy. The great corporate interests do not want to be disturbed in their career of monopoly, or have any control exercised over them by the national government that will hinder them in a career of plunder that sooner or later will result in the impoverishment of the great body of our people for the enrichment of the few. When the late Senator Hanna gave utterance to the slogan of "stand pat" it was not in the sense to which these latter day apostles attempt to turn it, and if the party of Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Blaine, McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt expects to be the representatives of the spirit of today it must not place on its banner as its motto any such doctrine of death as "stand pat."

The device is so arranged as to give the animal perfect freedom in getting the ingredients placed in it and at the same time absolutely prevents waste or the possibility of mixing any dirt with what is put in the device. If space would permit us we would be glad to give a description of the device but cannot do so at this time. We understand Mr. Laurie has applied for a patent and if you are at all interested and you ought to be in something of this kind drop him a line and he will tell you all about it.

CARROLL NEWS.

A large number of Carroll people took in the Decoration day exercises at Wayne.

A. J. Mason of Columbus was calling on old friends in Carroll and vicinity recently.

School closed last Friday and the teachers left Saturday for their respective homes.

The Carroll band went to Bloomfield

Monday night to furnish music for Decoration day.

Most of the country schools about Carroll completed their year's work last Friday. A number of them had appropriate exercises.

The K. of P. lodge from Winside came over Wednesday afternoon and crossed bats with the Carroll lodge of the same order. The score keeper ran out of paper before the game was done but thinks Carroll had a few to the good.

Carroll did not decorate and will not celebrate the Fourth, but will concentrate her energies in the Woodman picnic to be held in August. Other towns may forget that we are on the map by our silence, but by that time we expect to have such a head of steam stored up, that Admiral Togo's recent performance will appear cheap and insignificant.

The Carroll Index has been sold. Richard Olosson of Webster City, Iowa, is the purchaser and is now in possession of the paper. He is a brother of E. W. and Warren Olosson of Sholes and comes well recommended. He is a graduate of law and will practice his profession in connection with the editorship. E. R. Lindquist, the retiring editor will probably locate in Wayne for awhile until an opening to his liking turns up.

Better invest 15¢ in a case of Snyder's pork and beans. They are delicious and enough for a whole family. A new shipment just received.

TEN THOUSAND DEAD

As far as now reported we are safe in saying that Wayne county lost last week ten thousand young chickens. This is a great loss for us and there being really no good excuse for losing these chickens makes it all the more deplorable. There are but four things to do to raise babies: Keep them warm, dry and clean with a little something to eat at short intervals. This will raise any kind of a baby. Baby chickens seldom die if these four things are observed. Why not do this and have the satisfaction of seeing them live and grow. It is a sin to bring these little babies into the world and then turn them out to die. Storekeeping needs the same care and attention that chicken raising requires. The reason that this store is the leading clothing store is the fact that all the little things necessary to make a clothing store popular are always attended to. We have what you are looking for. If you are tall, we have long suits. If you are short, we have short, stout suits. If you have long arms, we have long sleeves to fit them. If you want good goods, we have them. If you need a cheap suit, you will find some of them here. If you are looking for the latest style, you can always find it at this store. This store is always clean and the light is always good. And our prices are lower than you will find that other merchants ask for the class of clothing we sell. If you have never traded with us, you cannot realize how satisfactory it is to trade at a store where all these necessary things are attended to. Why not give this store a trial? Everything is one price to all and marked in plain figures, which certainly is fair. We are ready for you if you need anything for summer wear. We are always ready to show you our goods, no matter if you are not ready to buy. Come in and let us show you that what we have said is true. You can't make a mistake doing business at this store for everything is looked after and no guess-work goes. Try us for your next suit.

King who has been with the bank for the past year or more had his position to become with the King Solomon timber company of Frisco, King, H. C. Henney and Dr. St. to leave next Monday for the purpose of looking over property of the company and a gone about two weeks and S. R. and H. W. Theobald for the same purpose. Mr. in his return open an office in will be in a position to tell all about the property he is in.

Hickland shipped another car to Chicago Saturday and with them to look after the few of our readers realize market Wayne. Within it is safe to say that at every car of these animals have ped by the three buyers, Warnock, C. B. Thompson Strickland. Ten years ago it was difficult to get one Mr. This is one of the things makes the great strides made as a live stock breed. These horses were of a stands well up to the top on markets and have brought many probably $60,000 in ready money sum for a side issue, this time that has been about of horse breeding. It is one wing industries and it is safe if market conditions continue five years as they have been five years the yearly ship reach the quarter million the horse breeding business a and hogs the day of the is about past in this country, realize that it is only the best pay and the big drafters are be more and more in demand.

Agricultural high schools, such as have made Denmark a shining light in the farming world, are being established in many of the states of this country. One of the most interesting and important of the newer agricultural high schools is that of Waterloo, Pa., and western farmers will read with much interest in this week's Homestead, of Des Moines, Iowa, a special article by H. O. Sampson describing this school and the work done in the development of interest in the agricultural course among the students, both city and country; the courses of study, the subjects taken up, the essays by students at stated intervals; the text books used; conferences with farmers of the locality, so as to combine practice with theory, etc. The Homestead's special articles are raising farming to a high plane, but they are only one of many admirable editorial and departmental features of this great, farm paper. The HERALD is always glad to accept and forward subscriptions for the Homestead, which cannot be too widely circulated. The farmers of Wayne Kearney normal and at the same time county are thoroughly up-to-date, and capable of appreciating and utilizing per year, and this being several hundred such publications.

many of them, we are appreciate our effort to the standard of public interest in clothes. They that we are doing good in the common interest of the clothing business; trying to get wearers to insist, not necessarily on our particular goods, but on all-wool fabrics, whoever makes the clothes.

We expect many such makers, as soon as they can, to join us in promoting all-wool honesty in the best interests of the clothing industry. There's every evidence in the attitude of many high-class retailers and of the public, that these makers will see what a mistake "mercerized cotton" is.

Andrew Stamm of Hoskins had three cars of cattle for Omaha Monday and John R. Morris of Carroll two cars. There seems to be a few fat cattle left in the country yet, though many of us believe there were but few of them to go sometime ago.

Admission 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Word was received in town Monday that Andrew Nelson of Wakefield had died very suddenly at his home in that town Sunday. Mr. Nelson had not been ill and was entertaining his children at home on the day named, when without the least warning he was stricken and died. Many of our readers will remember Mr. Nelson as being a blacksmith who was in the employ of Sam Winsor several years ago and went from here to Wakefield and engaged in business for himself and we understand has done well.

The Hoskins schools closed a very successful year last Friday evening. There were three graduates, all girls—same old story—no boys. The school board of Hoskins is seriously considering the wisdom of adding another teacher to the corps and establishing another grade, thus making the course ten years instead of nine as at present. The district is out of debt, has a nice little balance in the treasury and makes one of the lowest levies in the county.

The Owens-Bonawitz fight of Saturday afternoon had a hearing in Police Judge Fether's court Monday afternoon. Owens plead guilty to fighting while Bonawitz entered a plea of "not guilty" and stood trial, but the evidence convinced the court that he was also guilty and accordingly a fine of five dollars each and costs was assessed and this the combatants paid and went their different ways fully convinced that fighting was both hard on the physical man and also somewhat of a drain on the pocket book.

Otis A. King who has been with the Citizens' bank for the past year or more has resigned his position to become identified with the King Solomon turn and development company of Frisco, Colo. Mr. King, H. Q. Henney and Dr. Blair expect to leave next Monday for Colorado for the purpose of looking over the mining property of the company and expect to be gone about two weeks and a little later S. B. and H. W. Theobald are going out for the same purpose. Mr. King will on his return open an office in this city and will be in a position to tell our readers all about the property he is interested in.

D. L. Strickland shipped another car of good horses to Chicago Saturday and went along with them to look after the selling. Few of our readers realize what a horse market Wayne is. Within the past year it is safe to say that at least twenty cars of these animals have been shipped by the three buyers, Strahan & Warnock, C. B. Thompson and D. L. Strickland. Ten years ago it was a pretty difficult matter to get one car in a year. This is one of the things that demonstrates the great strides the county has made as a live stock breeding ground. These horses were of a class that stands well up to the top on the eastern markets and have brought into the county probably $60,000 in ready cash, a pretty snug sum for a side issue, and up to this time that has been about the status of horse breeding. It is one of the growing industries and it is safe to say that if market conditions continue for the next five years as they have been for the past five years the yearly shipments will reach the quarter million mark. In the horse breeding business as in cattle and hogs the day of the scrub sire is about past in this country. Breeders realize that it is only the best that really pay and the big drafters are getting to be more and more in demand.

TEN THOUSAND DEAD

As far as now reported we are safe in saying that Wayne county lost last week ten thousand young chickens. This is a great loss for us and there being really no good excuse for losing these chickens makes it all the more deplorable. There are but four things to do to raise babies. Keep them warm, dry and clean, with a little something to eat at short intervals. This will raise any kind of a baby. Baby chickens seldom die if these four things are observed. Why not do this and have the satisfaction of seeing them live and grow. It is a sin to bring these little babies into the world and then turn them out to die. Storekeeping needs the same care and attention that chicken raising requires. The reason that this store is the leading clothing store is the fact that all the little things necessary to make a clothing store popular are always attended to. We have what you are looking for. If you are tall, we have long suits. If you are short, we have short stout suits. If you have long arms, we have long sleeves to fit them. If you want good goods, we have them. If you need a cheap suit, you will find some of them here. If you are looking for the latest style, you can always find it at this store. This store is always clean and the light is always good. And our prices are lower than you will find that other merchants ask for the class of clothing we sell. If you have never traded with us, you cannot realize how satisfactory it is to trade at a store where all these necessary things are attended to. Why not give this store a trial? Everything is one price to all and marked in plain figures, which certainly is fair. We are ready for you if you need anything for summer wear. We are always ready to show you our goods, no matter if you are not ready to buy. Come in and let us show you that what we have said is true. You can't make a mistake doing business at this store for everything is looked after and no guess-work goes. Try us for your next suit.

SIX WARSHIPS SUNK

NAVAL BATTLE TAKES PLACE IN STRAITS OF TSUSHIMA.

Killing Fight Continues—Losses of Japanese Unknown—One Account Says Their Fleet Suffered as Severe as Russia's.

According to the latest information the battle between the Russian and the Japanese naval forces for the supremacy of the oriental seas, on which hangs the outcome of the far eastern struggle, has begun if it has not terminated decisively. All the dispatches received by the Associated Press point to a Japanese victory, though it is not known whether the full force of Admiral Rojestvensky's fighting ships took part in the contest, which, according to the dispatches, took place in the comparatively narrow waters of the Straits of Korea.

The first information came in dispatch from the American consul at Nagasaki to the state department at Washington telling that the Japanese had sunk one Russian battleship, four other warships and a repair ship in the Korean Strait, and this was followed by a dispatch received by the state department, the date of which was not given, that "the Japanese government had made the announcement that its fleet had engaged the Russians in the Straits of Korea Sunday and had held them." The state department also received information that two of the vessels reported to have been sunk were the sister battleships Orel and Borodino, and that three of the other ships were cruisers.

From Tsingtao, the German port on the Shantung peninsula, came a report that a running naval battle took place near the island of Oki in the Sea of Japan, 200 miles northeast of the Straits of Korea, and that the whole Russian fleet did not participate, the slow vessels having been sent around Japan.

Russian sources give no news of the battle, while the Japanese government, following its custom, is silent as to either the battle or its outcome.

RICH MAN'S SUICIDE.

Palford, Suspected Savanna, Ill., Assassin, Shoots Himself.

Another sensational chapter was added Thursday to the mysterious assassination at Savanna, Ill., of Attorney Daniel Berry, a former leading Illinois lawyer, who was murdered on Monday.

Palford, Palford, reported to be the wealthiest citizen of Savanna, committed suicide Thursday, a few moments after being questioned by a newspaper man regarding the whereabouts of a revolver with which he was suspected of killing state Attorney Daniel S. Berry.

Palford had denied any knowledge of Berry's killing, but was compelled when questioned concerning the revolver.

Cabling from Shanghai the correspondent of the London Daily Mail says he believes the vessel of the Russian Baltic squadron of the Sable islands have proceeded on their voyage, and gives a rumor that the Russian base is in the neighborhood of Peckan province of Shantung.

The correspondent says that President Roosevelt has wired the vice-consul and naval commanding their steps to preserve Chinese neutrality.

The Russian warships that were off the Sable islands late Friday night.

The Chinese authorities ordered the vessels of the Russian volunteer fleet, which were anchored off Woosung, to leave within twenty-four hours.

Berry's death ends the life of a man who rose from a poor boy to the position of one of the wealthiest men in that section of Illinois. Besides owning much valuable real estate in Savanna, he was president of the Commercial Bank and owner of the electric light system.

The reason assigned for believing that Palford killed Berry is that gossip has had it for several years that the relations between Berry and the wife of the druggist were not what they should be. There have been strolls together, carriage rides, and clandestine meetings, all of which were properly embellished by the interpretations of the village gossips.

Mrs. Palford is a woman of about 46 years of age, and is said to be such a woman as would naturally attract a man like Berry. At the same time the relations between Berry and his own wife have been harmonious and their home life happy. On the contrary, it is said that Palford and his wife have not had pleasant domestic sailing for the last five years and that their relations seemed at times to be strained to the breaking point. Then the town gossip grows more definite in its insinuations, and says that for time time Berry had gone armed, and that the reason for this precaution was a warning received from Palford. The warning was can be surmised from the nature of the precaution.

In the meantime the supreme court will investigate the matter.

Mayor Weaver Thursday took forcible possession of the offices of the director of public safety and director of public works. Neither Smyth nor Costello offered serious resistance. Four detectives now guard the offices.

It was rumored that the Republican "organization" leaders intend to impeach Mayor Weaver on the ground of malfeasance in office.

The Concordia branch of the Union Pacific was put out of business by several small washouts. The Santa Fe reported heavy rains east and north of Topeka. No serious damage was done to the tracks of the road. All streams are full.

Wheat in central Kansas needed rain and will be greatly helped by the downpour.

LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS:

Mr. and Mrs. John Nuernberger of Wayne county spent Sunday with their relatives.—Winer Chronicle.

Mrs. J. R. Russell and little daughter of Wayne visited Mrs. Russell's parents; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Laane, over Sunday.—Winer Chronicle.

Miss Agnes Powell and her cousin, Miss Cramer of Griswold, Iowa, who has spent the winter here, went to Powell, Jefferson county, last week for a visit to relatives.—Winer Chronicle.

Miss Nida Pilger of Wayne arrived in the city yesterday and will visit with her brother, Supt. Pilger, and with friends at Plainview until the institute convenes in Wayne county June 6th.—Pietro Leader.

There is some agitation in the city for a sewerage system. Surely this would be a great thing for Wayne. It would not only help our streets, but it would drain the alleys, put out of existence many of the vaults and other nosy nuisances, but would from the standpoint of better sanitation be of immense benefit. But there is another and a pretty serious side to a proposition of the kind, that is the expense of putting in a system that would meet the requirements and be satisfactory to the people who must foot the bills.

The stingsiest man lives in Ray county. He was married by the justice of the peace and paid the bill in turnips. For a wedding trip he took his wife to Richmond in a lumber wagon and for a wedding dinner they ate a dime's worth of bologna and a box of crackers as they walked around the public. Before starting home he bought a nickel's worth of candy and as he opened the sack for a second stick he stumbled. "Say, my woman, s'posin' we save the rest of this here candy for the children."—Richmond Missourian.

NOW IS THE TIME FOR HYOMEI;

Far Easier to Cure Catarrh Now

Than at Any Other Season.

Now is the time to use Hyomei, when the early summer days make it so easy to cure catarrhal troubles. The Hyomei treatment, breathed for a few minutes three or four times a day in May or June, will do good twice as quickly as it did in January, and nearly everyone knows that used faithfully then, it completely rid the system of catarrh.

Hyomei is a purely vegetable preparation whose active curative properties are given off when it is breathed by the aid of the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit. It destroys all germ life in the air passages, purifies the blood by supplying additional ozone, and its healing, volatile, antiseptic fragrance reaches every corner of the respiratory tract as no medicine taken through the stomach can possibly do.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but one dollar, and consists of a neat inhaler that can be carried in the purse or vest-pocket and will last a lifetime; a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hyomei. Extra bottles of Hyomei are about secured to assure the complete success of the undertaking and the management are going ahead with preparations for the big show. The stock exhibition will be entirely of pure bred stuff as the day is past for the encouragement of any man in the production of anything else and this country now has sufficient birds and flocks from which to draw abundant material for a grand show and that is what Wayne proposes to have. The day of street fairs and carnivals of that kind are past and people are demanding something educational as well as entertaining and this is what we are going to have. It is going to require the combined effort of town and country to insure the success of the undertaking and the management feel certain they will have the undivided support of all in their endeavors.

The very air and around Wayne seems to be tainted with scandal. The busy tongues of the mongrels of these sweat morsels are working overtime and there seems to be mighty little regard as to the truth or falsity of the things they say. It does seem to us that we never heard so many stories about and most of them without any foundation upon which to build except the corrupt imaginations of the lecherous devils that mouth the awful character-wrecking tales. We are not an orthodox in all respects but we do think that if there is no hell there certainly ought to be for the man or woman who will put in circulation stories that are bound to ruin the character of any girl or woman.

Have you a wife, sister or daughter whose fair name you prize above all other things? If you have, then for their sake if not out of any respect you may have for anyone else, shut off your evil tongues. Let your minds be purified for their sweet sakes and cut off the nasty stream that is a source of pollution to everything with which it comes in contact. You are hatching a brood that will certainly destroy your home as that tomorrow's sun will rise in the east. Can't you be a decent citizen.

A few days ago in company with Mr.

White of the Iowa Homes east, we made a visit to the stock farm of M. S. Moats in Sherman precinct and while we had heard and thought we knew something about what Mr. Moats was doing in the line of pure bred cattle and hogs, we were completely surprised not only as to quality but also as to numbers of animals of this kind on his big farm. The train service on the Bloomfield branch is such that our time was very limited in which to inspect the herds and we were not able to give the thorough attention that we could have wished, but the time spent was crowded with good things while there and we feel that we were amply repaid for the trip. Aberdeen-Angus cattle, Percheron horses, and Durro-Jersey hogs are what Mr. Moats is engaged in producing and surely he has some mighty good ones. He has not spared expense in getting the very best sires and dams and the produce shows that he has exhibited his foundation stock. Sometime in October he expects to hold a public sale of pure bred hogs and when the time arrives we hope the breeders of the county and surrounding territory will not fail to take advantage of the good things that will be offered. At this same sale the probabilities are that he will also sell a part of his Aberdeen-Angus cattle and sometime in February he will hold a sale of bred sows. With Moats, Clark, Hurst, Needham, Peterson, Von Seggern, Laurie, Spencer Jones, Lessman, Moses, the Urioh Bros., Diltz, Abbott, Hooper, Heeren, Hornby and others whom we just now fail to call to mind breeding and rearing pure bred Shorthorns, Herefords, Aberdeen-Angus cattle and Poland-China and Durro-Jersey hogs, this county is in a fair way to become not only a great breeding center, but to become one of the richest farming communities west of the Mississippi river.
