WAYNE'S FAIR

John Kate Tells How to Make a Good One.

EXPERT JUDGES TO BE PRESENT

Horse Racing an Important Factor in Any Fair—Cash Premiums a Thing of the Past.

Some people seem surprised to know that the fair association will not give cash premiums to exhibitors. The premiums paid in dollars are fast becoming a thing of the past. For a long time large fairs, like the world's fair, have been giving diplomas to everything of merit and such diplomas are considered to be worth more than any amount a fair could afford to pay in money. There are no good reasons why a fair should pay any man, who has fine, pure bred stock where there is a crowd to look at. Of course some stock breeders will take anything given them, but they all realize that when they are given a good clean place with plenty of light and a crowd free of charge to see something they have for sale, they ought to be thankful for the chance to show and advertise their business. More than that, this fair will have the best expert in the state to examine their stock and tell them how good it is, which to a breeder is worth more than all the premiums the fair could pay. The fair of the past that offered premiums never proved satisfactory. It is no satisfaction to be given a premium for anything if there is no competition or if the judge is incompetent. It never was satisfactory when one man judged his neighbor's stock, for that reason we think it better to pay some disinterested party to come here and judge all the stock exhibited and instead of paying money as premiums use it to pay the expenses of the judge. Some people object to fairs because there is horse racing. You will hear some say that all the money goes to horse racing. No, but it is a fact that more than half of the money in a purse is put up by the owners of the horses. It is also a fact that you cannot get a ground big enough to run any fair and pay expenses without horse racing. That old cry was made at our old fair association in Iowa that I used to be interested in and it was at last proposed to run one fair and have no horse racing. It proved a failure for there were not people that paid admission to pay half the expenses and it broke the fair association. They afterwards reorganized and had races and today they have one of the best county fairs in Iowa. As far back as we have any account men have raced horses and camels for amusement. Even the original men of this country, the Indians, had pony races. The Romans, the wisest people of their time, had chariot races. Of course there are some features connected with horse racing, as they are conducted in this country, that are not right, but I hope we can do away with the gambling that usually follows events of this kind and if we can do that I cannot see that there is anything that can be objected to by anyone in horse racing. I believe we are going to have a good fair, up to date in every respect and not only will we have all the fine stock in Wayne county here, but neighboring counties will want to show what they have to sell. No stock man can afford not to show his stock near home and especially at this fair, for this is the beginning of a good fair association that has plenty of money and will make the fair a success, not only this year, but every year. If you have just commenced breeding bring your best as it will let the people know you are in the business. If you are a large breeder you can not afford to miss it, for no other advertisement will pay as well as showing your stock near home in a good barn where you have a large crowd to look at it. Now, as you all know, I am interested in the poultry business and have charge of the poultry department and I want you to bring in your chickens and have them scored by a judge of national reputation. You will then be able to select birds for next season that will greatly improve your flock. We will furnish you pens to put them in and if you let the writer know in time how many you will show you will greatly help him. Now don't stand around and complain about the way fairs used to be conducted and say all sorts of mean things, but bring your stock and attend the fair each day and you will meet your many friends from all over the country and enjoy yourself and help us to make this fair a success this year. We need a place to meet each other and I know of no better place than at a fair that is conducted in an intelligent and honest manner. Come and bring the whole family.

JOHN H. KATE.

LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Don't mind that low rumbbling noise you hear these nights, it is only that $100,000,000 corn crop.

A burst in a water pipe under the Elito restaurant has caused lots of grief by filling the cellar full of water.

The masons and tenders on the new Neely & Gray building were forced to stop work Saturday on account of the excessive heat.

The cement sidewalk gang is putting in a walk along the east side of the high school grounds. Too bad we can't have a good looking school house put up at the same time.

There is something wrong with a man who would rather read the blood and thunder tales of the Russo-Jap war than to find out who won yesterday's game in the western league these hot days.

Bloomfield's ball team went through here Saturday morning from Ponca. They played two games with Ponca on Thursday and Friday. The first game was won by Ponca by a score of 2 to 1 and the latter by Bloomfield by a score of 9 to 3.

Carroll intends to give a big jamboree at their picnic this year. It is to be held August 10 and 11. The lodges of Carroll will have charge of the first day while the North eastern Nebraska Log-Rolling Association will hold forth the second.

The Wayne Tennis Association is busy at present getting a new court in shape. The court is located just north of Frank Hood's house and the association is putting up netting and getting the ground in shape. A crack tennis team is to be looked for from the material now out.

Mrs. Turner and Miss Turner left Friday for Pilger. After making a short stay there they will go on to Beemer. Mr. Turner will stay a little while longer and then go to Portland. The Turners have relinquished their interest in the Boyd Hotel and they are now leaving the city for good.

Clarence Johnson was called to Wayne last week to attend the funeral of his grandmother, Mrs. S. B. Gamble, who died very suddenly the day before the Fourth. Messrs. Hoile, Wate, Jordan and Jovenant spent Sunday at Wayne. Mr. Hoile remained several days with friends.—Laurel Advocate.

Emil Johnson went down to Wayne and Emerson recently and closed up a couple of land deals. He sold one 80-acre tract 4 1/2 miles north-east of Bloomfield to P. F. Watson, of Emerson, and Henry Volpp, of Bloomfield, bought 100 acres 4 miles north which belonged to W. Mitchell, of Wayne.—Bloomfield Monitor.

Charlie Shulhies returned Sunday night from North Dakota where he has been located since about May 1. Mr. Shulhies has interests right in the heart of the wheat country and is greatly elated at the crop prospects in that country. He says that present indications point to a bonafide crop. The rust has not bothered and harvest will be in full blast about August 15.

Wednesday Ois King and wife left on a trip to several Iowa points. Mr. King intends stopping first at Sioux City for a few days and then is going on to Newell, his home town, for a few days visit. In mentioning the names of the party Mr. King took to Colorado a couple of weeks ago the HERALD neglected to mention the names of B. F. Swan and son, of Sioux City, and Mrs. King.

E. J. Nangle received a message on Saturday informing him of the death of his brother Joseph, of Albany, N. Y. Mr. Nangle died very suddenly Thursday and his expected death came as a shock to his near relatives. It will be remembered that Mr. Nangle visited in this city for quite a time last fall during the sickness of E. J. and when he left here he went to Denver, Colorado, for his health before returning to his New York home.

On Friday the College and Winner ball teams engaged in nine innings of the national game on the diamond of the former. The score was 3 to 3 in favor of the College but does not half indicate the loose playing which characterized both sides. Both teams were especially weak at the bat and in base running and at times seemed to lose their heads entirely. Miller for the College was very effective and though a little wild at times pitched quite a good game.

Several times during the last two weeks we have had queries as to why Wayne does not have a base ball team. Wayne ought to have one. We have better material right here in town to make up a team than any other town in this part of the state. The fact of the matter is that base ball received poor support here and it takes support to make a team go. Undoubtedly it is a little late in the season to think about it but with the right kind of an organization and backing we could make a lot of these teams look like thirty cents and somebody ought to get a little "pepper" and start something.

A. E. Littell, a former Pierce boy, but who has been principal of the Winside schools in Wayne county for the past three years, arrived in Pierce Wednesday and will visit in these parts for two or three weeks. Since leaving here Archie has worked up an excellent reputation in school and educational matters and recently has been mentioned as a candidate for the republican nomination of county superintendent of Wayne county at the coming convention. While not of the same political belief as Mr. Littell, yet if a republican is to get the plum, we should like to see him nominated and elected.—Pierce Leader.

According to the report of the state labor commissioner, Wayne county shipped out in the year 1904, 54,665 bushels of wheat, 442,453 of corn, 526,068 of oats, 81,875 of barley; Stanton, 68,000 bushels of wheat, 158,191 of corn, 301,625 of oats, and 5,000 of barley; Dixon, 107,125 bushels of wheat, 648,436 of corn, 817,106 of oats and 63,703 of barley; Madison, 28,887 of wheat, 472,164 of corn, 858,462 of oats and 8,125 of barley; Pierce 12,577 of wheat, 463,717 of corn, 785,591 of oats and 56,201 of barley. In order to show the relative productiveness of these counties it will be well to take into consideration that Stanton contains 431 square miles, Wayne 441, Dixon 450, Pierce 668 and Madison 676.

"A booze fighter has no chance. He is nobody, nothing. He is his own worst enemy. He can have no home, no anything. He asks for work and is viewed with suspicion and if given work it is in case of a rush and the job is a short one." Two weeks ago a man called at this office and asked for work which was given him. He understood the printer's art thoroughly and was a good workman. He was also honest, but he was a "booze fighter." That he fully realized his condition and the depth to which he has fallen is evidenced by his own words, part of which are given in the quotation with which this article is begun. He said much more, but the single quotation is sufficient. "He is a hard looker, who is he, where is he from?" These were common expressions while he was here and referred to him. Yes, he was a hard looker, but he was not always a hard looker. Who he was or who he is nobody here knows. He did not reveal his identity, not even in the letter written from Omaha a few days after his departure did he give his name. He is from everywhere and nowhere. No home, no friends, no money; "his own worst enemy." It was not always thus with him. Low though he has fallen he is still capable of feeling. This was evidenced by his own conversation. That he is not devoid of honor is proven by his having returned by mail a composing rule which he carried away intentionally. The condition of this man is pitiable. It is the inevitable final condition of the booze fighter. If you are one of them out it out.—Stanton Picket.

PHILLEO & SON

Socks as Money.
 One Olsson, a "bummer" Jack, lived into town the other day carrying 1,750 pairs of socks and mittens, 1,175 pairs of socks and eighty-three pounds of tobacco.

He offered the goods for sale at about one-fourth of their value and was arrested on suspicion. He protested to the police that he came into possession of the goods honestly. When pressed he declared that he won the articles at poker in the lumber woods.

Olsson said he had been in the woods many months. The lumberjacks needed no money while in the woods, but were expected to work until they returned to town for their pay. At the company store of the woods the men could get such articles as they desired, however, having them charged against their time. Accordingly, the men used merchandise instead of checks in their dealings.

Olsson said he played in good luck and in one game, where socks were the stakes, he won 1,175 pairs of the hosiery on three pips. The other man held a trio of kings.

"I am a pro for mittens, Olsson said, the fruit was high, and in three hours of play he had mittens enough to buy a regiment of soldiers."

His story sounded reasonable, and he was released to go and "cash" in his checks. —A. Island (Wis.) for Minneapolis Tribune.

Four Facts For Sick Women To Consider

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has an Unequalled Record of Cures—Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Is Confidential, Free, and Always Helpful

First.—That almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, displacements of the uterus, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing-down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

Second.—The medicine that holds the record for the largest number of absolute cures of female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates, strengthens and cures discharges of the female organism as nothing else can.

Third.—For thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, curing backache, nervousness, kidney troubles, all uterine and ovarian inflammation, weakness and displacements, regulating menstruation perfectly and overcoming its pains. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the change of life.

Fourth.—The great volume of unolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

Fifth.—Every ailing woman in the United States is asked to accept the following invitation. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

Women's Standing Invitation to Mrs. Pinkham's—Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. From symptoms given, your trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of the vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help you case. Surely, any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

 One Cake of Cuticura Soap and One Box of Cuticura Cured Baby's Awful Humors.

"When my sister was eighteen months old a humic broke out on her shoulders, extending clear across the back. For two years it caused her intense suffering. It would scab over and then crack open and the watery matter ooze from it. Then the scales would fall off and it would be raw for a time. We had several different doctors tried everything we could think of, but without effecting a cure. Then we got one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment, which cured her completely and without scar or blemish. (Signed) Lillie Chase Walker, 5 Tremont street, Woodford, Va."

THE "ORDINARY" WORKMAN.
 By O. E. Oren.

While it may be true that there is little or no chance for the ordinary machinist, or man of kindred trade, to work himself up through his education, it is equally true that there is plenty of opportunity for the worker in these lines who is not ordinary for the "extra-ordinary" worker. The ordinary worker and the man who succeeds through his work are separate and distinct types. One has to enter the workshop of any large concern where a hundred or more men are employed at the same kind of work. Even the most untrained observer, if he tries, can pick out the "extra-ordinary" men from the others.

The ordinary workman is a cog in a machine. He does

MANUAL TRAINING FADS.
 By Rev. R. A. White.

Does education fit a man to get on, to make money, to run a store? Are popular questions about education. Now the utilities of education have their place. An education which does not fit a man or woman to live successfully in our present industrial life falls at an important point. But in our zeal for education as a utility we are losing sight of the value of education as a pleasure. Life has as much right to joy as it has to food and raiment. Education ought to be administered and so conceived that it is a joy giver. The introduction of the so-called fads into elementary grades has been from a variety of motives. The utilitarian sees in them a means of fitting a man to use a saw or a woman to cook a good meal. Others see in them a subtle educational value, a means of self-expression.

Manual training has made school work interesting. The child naturally wants to construct, to make things, to project his ideas into form. However you approach the question of fads, they are of greatest value in an educational system. Those who talk of a return to the three R's favor of mediocrity. There is an odor of the middle ages about such assertions. The man of woman who attacks the so-called fads simply reveals his or her complete ignorance of the educational value of fads.

MILLIONAIRES OWNED BY THEIR MILLIONS.
 By Andrew Carnegie.

Men do not own millions. It is the millions that own the men. When you have education it is different. When you gain knowledge it doesn't possess you, but you possess it, and have a treasure. No matter whether you die worth millions or not, you have something that is denied the man who is immersed in the accumulation of wealth. Stock gambling is not a business; it is a mere pastime on business. If I had a son I should prefer to have him enter upon a professional career than any other. I have been looking largely into small colleges of late, and I have entered into the college business as I not long ago entered into the library business. I think a young man who goes to a small college receives a better education than at a large one. I like to see men not excelling in football or things pertaining to the foot, but excelling in head expansion. Sport is too generally taking the place of valuable knowledge at the big colleges.

A DREAM CRUISE.
 My prayers I say and lay me down,
 The lights of Starboard gleam afar,
 My anchor lies in Sleepy Town,
 My window is the harbor bar.

Beyond the curtained patch of blue
 There lies a fair and rowing sea,
 My dream ship feels the winding tide,
 I shall my sailors calling me.

A shallow skims across the blue,
 And Jackie toots their hats, polite,
 "Come, get aboard, dear captain, do,
 The bells are sounding candle light."

The lubber my mother croons
 Grows fainter and still fainter grows;
 The bow's pipes his merry tones
 And dances on his timber toes.

Heigh-ho! a merry droll, I ween,
 For some are wood, and some are dough,
 And some before in books I've seen,
 And some are dolls I used to know.

Now, where away, oh, captain, where?
 I'd sail me swift, I'd sail me far,
 The evening winds are blowing fair,
 We'll head her for the Morning Star.
 —Toledo Times.

A LITTLE AMBASSADOR.
 "COME in!"
 My office door opened very gently, and a little face I knew well peeped round. In sheer astonishment I dropped my pen.

"Kathleen!" I said. "How in the world did you get down here? You're not by yourself, surely?"

"Oh, no, course, nurse's with me," and the blue eyes smiled at me so sweetly; "but she's gone shopping. I'm not to go 'till she comes for me."

"But what will mother and auntie say? They'll think you're lost."

"I'm too good-willed to get lost," she said, with a dignified little air.

I could not help smiling.

"You're a little rogue," I said, "when I've helped you out with that pretty blue coat and hat I shall expect to be told why you've honored me with a visit to the city during business hours."

She settled herself sedately in a chair opposite to me, quite unconscious of the pretty picture she made with her mass of fair hair and her sweet little face.

"It's a most 'portant visit," she said. "I've come to ask you to my party next We'n'sday."

"Indeed? I shall be delighted to come. So that's what brought you down here, is it?"

I had heard great tales about this party, but not from Kathleen. Luis was evidently her surprise for me.

"Shall I be expected to do anything in particular?" I asked.

"You'll have to make believe all the time, like you always do at our house." This was certainly a candid statement. I wondered if the rest of the family shared the same view. I hoped not, because I was, as a rule, particularly serious after Kathleen had gone to bed.

"Kathleen, Merv, will be there, of course," I ventured to suggest.

"Course she will," replied Kathleen.

Then she made a tour of the room, came back and resumed her seat, and asked me seriously: "Is this where you play all by yourself in the daytime?"

"Well, yes, I suppose I do."

"Do you keep your toys in those big tin boxes?"

"Well, they're not toys like those in your nursery?"

"Do you sit here all by yourself, I nodded.

"And never feel lonely?"

"Sometimes," I said, smiling in spite of myself at the serious little face.

"I heard mummy tell daddy one day you were a lonely man."

"Oh!"

I was certainly hearing some home truths.

"But you won't be lonely when you come to my party, will you?"

"No, dear, I like to come as often as I can to your house," and I spoke the truth.

By this time Kathleen's nurse had returned—I expect she had been waiting outside all the time—and with strict injunctions "not to forget the party next We'n'sday," my little girl trotted down to go back again.

But a pair of blue eyes would keep dancing in front of me on my blotting pad. Sometimes I thought they were Kathleen's and sometimes I thought they were—some one else's. Kathleen's eyes and her Aunt Merv's were strangely alike. I had noticed it before.

The room seemed quite cheerless now that she had gone.

In the intervening days the postman left strange notes for me.

Sometimes the missives were stuck together with jujubes, but I had no difficulty in deciphering the signs. They read: "Don't forget the party next We'n'sday." As to the crosses—well, the most important person knows what those mean in a letter.

"We'n'sday" came at last, and, of course, I went to the party. It was a great success. The house was turned upside down by a merry crowd of little folks who kept the fun going until long after they ought to have been in bed.

Kathleen opened it all very prettily, and after the last little guest had departed and the blue eyes could scarcely keep open, she remarked that she wasn't a bit tired, "or hungry."

That was a subterfuge she was always guilty of at bedtime.

Next day I saw Kathleen in the park and we discussed the party.

"You were a funny man," she said.

I was glad to know that I had given satisfaction in this direction.

"Did you learn all those stories from picture books, or were they just make believe?"

"Both," I said.

"And you didn't cry when you had to go home like little Charlie did, did you?"

I assured her I was able to refrain from weeping.

"And you liked me the best of all the little girls there?"

"Of course I did."

"Quite sure?" she said, coaxingly.

"Quite sure," I repeated.

"Then mummy was wrong," she said, triumphantly.

"How's that?" I asked.

"Well, when mummy and Aunt Merv came in to say 'Good-night,' I heard auntie say how fond you were of me, and mummy said, 'Yes, and I know some one else she's very fond of, too, or would be, if she'd let him' and auntie went quite funny, and said: 'Don't be ridiculous, Daisy! Daisy's what daddy calls mummy—but mummy only laughed and said: 'I don't think you're always kind to him.'"

Kathleen stopped to take breath after this long recital, and then went on: "So after mummy went downstairs, and auntie brought me a sweetie 'fore I fell 'sleep, I asked if it was true if she liked some little girl better'n me. Auntie said 'No,' and then I asked her if she wasn't always kind to you. Auntie said, 'Perhaps not, sometimes. Then I said she ought to love you like I did, 'cos you were lonely and had no nice little girl of your own like my daddy had. Then she stopped down to kiss me, and her cheek was quite wet, just as if she'd been crying. I've never seen Auntie Merv cry before."

"There was a serious look in Kathleen's blue eyes.

"What made Auntie Merv cry, do you think?" she asked, quite distressed.

"I think I can guess," I said, and with a full heart I kissed the little upturned face.

Kathleen had told me something I wanted to know—something that I have been grateful to her for telling me all my life.—Baltimore Evening Herald.

Soon Reduced.
 Just before the ceremony the American heiress took the foreign nobleman aside:

"You look sad, count," she ventured. "I hope you have not been reading those horrid comic papers and feel humiliated at the thought of marrying an heiress."

The count shrugged his shoulders. "I am very sensitive," he said, "and would feel bad but for one thing."

"And what is that, count?"

"I know that you will not be rich long after the honeymoon."—Detroit Tribune.

DENVER LETTER

E. Cunningham Writes From That City.

TELLS OF DENVER AND VICINITY

A Good Town From Business or Sight-Seeer's Standpoint--Nebraska Crop Conditions.

I presume one of the many things that will interest a good many readers is to know something of crop appearances. From Omaha west almost to Fremont nearly everything along the U. P. tracks was under water, a terrible rain having fallen on Thursday night, July 23. In many places, where the day previous had been magnificent fields of corn, devastation held complete sway and at other points where the land was just a trifle higher, the corn and oats were holding just their heads above the water, but it required considerable effort to do it. The storm, however, was only around Omaha not having reached Blair to the north or Fremont to the west. It was about dark when we reached Grand Island, but between Omaha and that point crops are not particularly heavy and this is especially true of corn. It has the appearance of having suffered from too much rain and is, generally speaking, small, yellow and weakly looking and the stand hardly normal. They tell me wheat is pretty good and oats look good in this territory. Saturday morning when we awoke we were on our way south from Julesburg to Denver, Colorado, where we arrived at about 9 o'clock, being about one hour late. The country between Julesburg and Denver is an irrigated district, where no farming at all is done. Here you have side by side the dry desert and the fertile fields, the former the natural state with sage brush and straggling grasses as the only indications of plant life, but when water is turned on and man's practical knowledge brought into use the desert becomes a land of abundance. The principal crops grown in this district seem to be wheat, potatoes, oats, onions and alfalfa and it certainly looks to the close observer as though the crops were in excellent condition. Denver is a matter, by that I mean a real live western city, and to some of my readers who have traveled and seen much, it may be an old story to tell anything about it, but let it be remembered that not everyone has been here and it is for these I am giving my impressions. The organization that has reduced sight-seeing to a science has here a practical demonstration by which you can leave your hotel in a comfortable electric car and be carried throughout the city to the various points and places of interest in comfort and have with you one whose business it is to explain and point out the various points and places of interest. You are whirled through the principal business and residence streets, past comfortable homes and pleasant parks and where the hub of industries and busy work centers, or well kept streets for two days and returned to your starting place your eyes aching and your brain working with the panorama that has passed so rapidly before your view. Denver is a well built city, its buildings, both business and residence, being almost entirely of brick or stone, the result of a fire limit ordinance that practically covers the entire city. I almost forgot to say that "seeing Denver," as the ride around the city is called, occupies two hours time, in which you cover twenty-five miles of street. In the afternoon of Saturday we took another sight-seeing trip to Leyden, a coal mining town just at the commencement of the foot hills about 15 miles north of Denver and from there doubled our electric car line back towards Denver for several miles and then shot off west to the old town of Golden 16 miles from Denver. At Golden is located Colorado's great school of mines whose number of entrances have to be limited each year in order to keep from over crowding this school that is said to be the best of its kind in the United States, if not the whole world. Golden is situated right in the foothills and as you know was Colorado's first capital and at present contains about 2,000 people. It has smelters and a big brewery as its principal industries and has an air of prosperity. Just down the creek east of Golden two immense dredging machines are at work in placer mining. These dredges are boats built on the ground where they are intended to be used and then a hole about 20 or 25 feet is scooped out just a trifle larger than the big machine boat and this hole is filled with water and the boat is launched and its dredging machinery put into place and the cobble stones, sand and gravel down to bed rock is hoisted up and washed, the particles of gold being retained and the refuse deposited in great piles, like straw from the stacker of a threshing machine, and it is said big money is being made by the parties operating these great machines that are now working over the same ground where the early placer miners labored with varying degrees of success. Saturday evening we went out to the city park and were pleasantly entertained by the great musical organization the "Banda de Rosa." Sunday we took a trip up Clear creek canon to Silver Plume a trifle over 50 miles taking in on our way there the famous Georgetown loop where the Colorado & Southern forms a complete loop in order to enable it to get up the canon and this one feature of the trip is worth the entire time consumed and expense incurred for the trip from Denver, but the loop is only of the many features to be seen on this trip up the canon. All along the route wherever it has been possible for man to work are to be seen evidences of the labors of the hardy men of the Pike's peak gold seeking days of the States. Flood gates at the creek and ditches and sluices along the craggy mountain sides, although out of commission for many years, give silent testimony of what herculean tasks these pioneer gold seekers performed in order to gain favor with fortune's fickle goddess and we are inclined to the belief that disappointments were much more than were their hopes realized. Today gold and silver mining camps are all along the route any time you are in Denver this is one of the trips well worth taking and the say that the trip over the new Moffet line, building from Denver to Salt Lake, is also a great trip on its 72 miles now completed to Arrow Head, just over the continental divide. Tomorrow we go to Colorado Springs and Pike's Peak and then on to Salt Lake City where I will write again. E. CUNNINGHAM.

If you want a good bargain go to South Dakota with C. R. Munson. He can sell you land that will make you from $3 to $5 per acre profit in two months.

THE LUCK OF LAWSON.

For luck, to use the least complimentary term, in happening in at the psychological moment, it will be hard to find an example to equal the luck of Lawson. He told wonderful stories, fish stories a great many people believed them to be at the time, about corruption in the management of life insurance companies in New York. Hardly were the insurance companies into the midst of indignant denials when it was proved by conclusive circumstances that Lawson had not told half. And so on through the whole gamut of his exposures of high finance, something seems always to happen to prove that he is not far from the truth. This has occurred with such regularity that the people are beginning to think that Lawson is not the liar that Wall Street would have us believe. Even in Kansas the Lawson luck has been conspicuous. He happened in yesterday at a time when a woeeful people with empty hands in empty pockets were viewing the wreckage of a big bank that had gone the way of high finance. At that moment also they saw their state oil refinery, the club they had parved for the battle with Standard Oil, fade into dreamland at the behest of the courts. Extraneous circumstances could not have been better calculated to draw a crowd for Lawson and give credence to what he had to say.—State Journal.

Why is it the land buyers all go to South Dakota with C. R. Munson? Because he is well acquainted with the country and will tell you the bad points as well as the good.

MILITIA CALLED OUT

ALABAMA NEGROES IN DANGER OF BEING LYNCHED.

Six Are Charged with Assault and Murder—Big Mob Marches on the Jail—Detained Strands of State Troops Prevents Bloodshed.

At 10 o'clock Sunday night Gov. Jellicock received the following telegram from Gadsden, Ala.:

"My jail and prisoners confined therein are threatened by a mob. Prisoners in jail charged with rape and murder of white woman. Need military assistance. Answer."

The governor immediately wired Capt. L. Brajner, commanding the Gadsden company of state troops, to place his command at the disposal of the sheriff and to keep the executive office advised of further developments.

At midnight nothing further had been heard from the scene of the threatened lynching.

The negroes in the Gadsden jail are Vance Gardner, William Johnson, E. D. Johnson, Bud Richardson, Jefferson Alford and Fannie May. Their alleged victim was Mrs. S. J. Smith, a white widow.

The crime was committed Saturday night. Early Sunday Vance Gardner reported discovering the woman's dead body. The police found her nude body lying partially concealed in some bushes by the roadside three-quarters of a mile from Gadsden.

Mr. Smith had been attacked on the roadside and after having been repeatedly assaulted was dragged by her hair down an embankment where rocks and stumps into the clump of bushes, where she was left, after efforts had been made to conceal her body. The details of her condition were shocking. Her neck was broken. A pair of scissors and a corkscrew found close to her body evidently aided her in the struggle.

A mob of 200 people gathered on Broad Street in Gadsden at dark and late Sunday night marched on the jail, demanding that the doors be opened. One young man had the roof ready to swing Vance Gardner, one of the negroes implicated in the killing.

Sheriff Chandler and Judge J. H. Disque were prepared to meet them. Company C, with Lieut. A. R. Brinkley in charge, was called out and had picked up. Representative Burnett and Judge Disque rode with the mob which dispersed, there being less than 100 men now present. The mob lacked a leader. This alone prevented bloodshed as Lieut. Brinkley, with his men, Sheriff Chandler and Judge Disque are determined to protect the negroes.

The coroner's jury has been in session all day and has just adjourned.

The plant of the Columbus Packing Company at Columbus, O., was destroyed by fire Sunday. Loss, $185,000, with $35,000 insurance. The fire is believed to have been incendiary.

FIERCE RACE RIOT.

Battle Between Whites and Blacks in New York.

"San Juan Hill," the district bounded by Amsterdam and Western Avenues and Sixty-second and Sixty-third Streets, New York, so-called, because of its notoriety as a battle ground, was the scene Friday night of a fierce race riot which required 250 policemen to quell after many shots had been fired and several persons had been seriously injured.

The trouble began shortly after 10 o'clock when a policeman arrested Edward Connelly for attacking Henry Williams, a negro, and was pursued to the station house with his prisoner by a mob of Connelly's friends, hurling showers of stones and other missiles.

When the station house reserves turned out the whole neighborhood was in an uproar and whites and blacks engaged in desperate struggles in the streets.

Torments of missiles were hurled from roofs and windows. A crowd of 1,000 whites, boys and women, not less than 1,000 men, boys and women, black and white, were engaged in a furious combat.

The small party of police were powerless, and reinforcements were summoned. On their arrival a cordon was drawn around the whole district and strong patrols made repeated charges down the streets in a vain effort to restore order.

They succeeded in making a few prisoners and were forced to retreat, fighting every inch of the way and pursued to the station house by a howling mob.

At 11 o'clock a patrol arrived at the 11th o'clock aid made a tour of the battle-field, the fighting by that time having ceased. He said the riot could not have taken place had not the rougher element been permitted to carry arms.

They appeared to have a regular arsenal of weapons, as the police found when they searched the prisoners. In all seven whites and two negroes had their injuries attended to by the ambulance surgeon, but scores of others, less seriously hurt, were taken to their homes by friends.

Five whites and six negroes, other than those taken to hospital, were taken to the station house. A naked body of a white woman was found lying on the sidewalk during the night and assist the police of the precinct.

WRECKED BY STORM.

South Dakota Towns in Path of a Fierce Tornado.

A tornado swept over Gregory County, South Dakota, Wednesday night. Wires are down and details as to damage are meager. The storm came at midnight and lasted two hours. At Bonesteel the damage was trivial, but on the Rosebud reservation it was very great.

One person was killed and eleven others injured.

Near St. Elmo, a small town was torn up. Roy McFadden was caught between heavy timbers of a building and instantly crushed to death. Three buildings were destroyed in St. Elmo.

Twenty-five business buildings and many houses were destroyed, including the school house, the school house and Chick's large brick barn. Twenty-eight head of horses were in the barn, but many were saved by citizens. Offices, stores and saloons were damaged.

George Cornwall, who lives one and one-half miles from Herrick, had his home demolished. A. J. Jones, who lives on a claim west of Herrick, suffered the loss of his property.

At Burke many buildings were destroyed. The Jensen home, in the southern part of town, was completely swallowed up and Jensen and his wife and baby were blown in various directions. A relief party had to be organized.

A relief party had to be organized. A relief party had to be organized. A relief party had to be organized.

Mr. McBride was injured in the back and his home was completely swallowed up. Alvin Nye was injured in the limbs. The damage to property will amount to $5,000.

Dallas, Gregory and Carlock report slight damage and only a few injured. Many claims have not been heard from. A relief party is out now.

Three large buildings were unroofed and several smaller ones destroyed at Gregory, but no person was injured.

The storm was severe over the entire reservation, and several inches of water fell at the points which suffered the worst. Much damage was done to crops and wires, and most of the details of the havoc wrought have been brought in by messengers from the different towns.

POSTMASTER IS ENJOINED.

Mail to People's Bank Must Not be Stamped Fraudulent.

A St. Louis special says: A temporary restraining order has been issued by Judge Smith McPherson, of Iowa, sitting in the United States district court, against Henry J. Gilson, in charge of the Winner branch postoffice, Postmaster Frank Wyman and Assistant Postmaster Henry P. Wyman, requiring them to discontinue stamping the mail of the People's United States Bank and E. G. Lewis with the word "fraudulent," and returning to the sender.

The defendants were cited to appear next Tuesday and show cause why an injunction should not be issued against them.

BUTCHERS FIGHT PACKERS.

Great Dressed Meat Plant Erected in New York.

War in earnest was declared in New York Thursday against the beef trust when the new plant of the New York Butchers' Dressed Meat Company at Thirty-ninth Street and Eloyet Avenue was opened.

Hundreds of butchers are in the new combination, which was organized as a protest against the beef trust. Their building, which represents an outlay of almost $1,000,000, is nearly completed and is about to be fitted. Its site stands on a lot held in trust for persons passing along the water front. To this building will soon be added another of similar dimensions, which will make the plant the largest in the world.
