BIRTH OF THE WALTZ

THE DANCE HAD ITS ORIGIN EITHER IN FRANCE OR GERMANY

a Great Scandal In That Double and For a Time Had Fasticianti Society in all Opens.

No exact date can be ascri introduction of the waitz into England from France. In 1800 Gliray sublished a caricature of a couple waiting, with the note that "this was intended for a quiz upon the then foreign dance for a dilz upon the then twested announced waiting? Again in 1810 the same extist published another sketch, satisfied "La. Walse, Le Bon Genre," with the note, "The walse was at this dike new in England and just coming into fashin England and just coming into fash-ion."

The fame, or, rather, notoristy, of the new dance had, however, reached England some years previously. De. Burney had seen it danced in Paris in 1760 and was moved to write, "How uneasy an English mother would feel to see her daughter so unfamiliarly treated and still more to hote the obliging manner in which the free-dom is returned by the females."

Raikes in his journal declares that "no event over produced so great a sensation in English society as the in-troduction of the German waits."

It was diniced at Almack's by a few very bold spirits, notably Lord Palmerston, Mmc, de Lleven, Princess Extenacy, and Baron Neumann, and thus became, a matter of exhibition, the whole company standing on benches to view the performance. However, the antiwaltzing party took the alarm and cried it down. Mothers forbade it, and every ballroom became a scope of frein and contention. How prefound was its unpopularity in certain quarters is proved by the pasquinades legeled against it. The famous seven flues, commencing.

It is a most point whether the walta originated in France or Germany, whether it came from the French "La many called it La Volta de Saulte, and the name is suitable both because of the otymology of the word and the character of the dance. It enjoyed a great run throughout France and even penetrated to Scotched, where it met with furious opposities, one writer averring that its importation into France and been effected by the power of witches. Mary Stuart one exhibited her agility in this dance, but she was careful not to repeat the experiment, and this was about the last heard of it.

The case for Germany is that the first walts time appeared in 1670 in a popular song called "O du lisber Ausustin." From Germany the dance made its way to Vienna and was introduced into the opera, while by and by it found its way to France, whence it came to England—"the mailtons walts, this imp of Germany, brought up France."

The old buffalo hunters had an established signal that is yet used by mountain guides. It is as follows:

Two shots in rapid succession, an interval of five seconds by the watch, then one shot, means, "Where are you," The answer, given at once and exactly the same, means: "Here I am. What do you want?" The reply to this may be one shot, which means, "All right; I only wanted to know where you were." But if the reply repeats the means: "I am in serious trouble, as fast as you can."

WE ARE HERE AGAIN

For thirty years we have been writing an invita-tion each year in December to our customers to visit us for useful Christmas presents We again invite you to visit us and assure you that this year we have more and prettier things to show you than ever before. It is now an established rule to give gentlemen something to wear for a Curistmas present. We think ladies will find that their gentlemen friends appreciate anything they can wear more than any other kind of a present. There is but one fact to be guarded against and that is, not to buy anything out of style. If you come here to buy you need not fear that you will buy anything here that is not up-to-date. We never sell anything that is the time to make your selection. Don't put it off until the last week as you will not find so many things to select from, and the best things will be gone. Don't, if you can possible help it, use Saturday afternoon for selecting presents. Come in forenoons if possible and you will find it much pleasanter to do business. Of course everybody will buy Christmas presents this year as money is plenty and everyone likes to make presents when they feel able to do so. Space will not permit us to mention the many things we have to show you but you are sure of finding everything that men and boys wear and new, up-to-date goods if you come here. It is not necessary for us to remind you that your money will buy more and better things here than it will elsewhere. We have no fancy prices for Christmas trade, but have one price to everyone and the same before the holidays as after. We have no cheap help and you can feel safe in buying anything we recom-mend. Anything you buy here can be exchanged after Christmes if not satisfactory. We can assist you in selecting the right size so that you will be sure to have it Come in and see what we have no matter if you do not buy, it will afford us some pleasure to show you and you will be treated courteously. We hope to see you here before Christmas.

If Secretary of State Galusha cannot be his way clear to give up his free cansportation, it is quite likely the convention next summer will conclude to find a man that can. Public officials o Nebraska will have to pass up their passes or go 'way back and sit down.

The congress now in session has not populist member in either branch, a populat member in either brauch, something that has not occurred in a good many years. Out of the limelight of politics has gone the Allens, Peffers, Simpsons and their fellow members of the party that at one time threatened to Simpsons and thir feliow members of the party that at one time threatened to become the dominant party of the

If our editorial brethren find anything in the columns of the Herald goo enough to clip and use without giving proper credit, we have no kick coming, but it may be possible that some other fellow may have seen the same thing in our columns and has branded you as thief and we do not want that stigms to attach to any N braska editor, so we believe it is best to give credit where it

A great deal of praise is being given certain members of congress and of the senate because they have at a late day declared themselves as being in full ac declared themselves as being in this accord with the rullroad rate views of the president. Are they deserving of any particular praise because public sentiment has forced them to take this stand? We like the follow that has stamina enough to do the right thing because it is right and because he wants to do right, and have small respect for the fellow that jumps into the "band wagon" because he is afraid of getting his brains knocked out if he persists in opposing the wishes of the crowd.

The editor of a Nebraska paper re The editor of a Neorassa paper re-cently went off on a weation and left his paper in charge of a minister while he was gone. During the minister's stay in the sanctum the following letter came from a Tooker subscriber: "You say it the same track in the forward except from a Tooker subscriber: "You knew d.—d well I paid my subscription the last time I was in Columbia City. If I get any more such letters as I received last week, I will come down and man hell out of you." The minisand might hell out of you." The minis-ter answered: (I have been trying to meal that thing out of the editor for ten years and if you will really come down and mand it out for me, then, my dear sir, I have twenty members of my own rch that I will have you operate on.)

Judging from the amount of mone already expended and the progress re-ported in making the Panama canal the ported in making the Panama cannt the American people are going to have to put up at least a half billion of dollars before the big ditch is ready for ships to pass from acean to ocean. Some times in reading of the money being paid out for various things we are a lit-tle bit impressed with the idea that this canal job is not entirely free from graft oanal job is not entirely free from grate in fact it is pretty difficult to find at enterprise ponducted by national, state county or nunicipal ownership it which there is not some element of graft. There is something about our eople in which they seem to think that anything done by governmental control ought to have in it some most excellent private snaps and every man having anything to do in enterprises of this kind generally tries to beat the public and in many instances succeeds ad-

Director of the United States mint lands in various parts of the country and comes to the conclusion that the are good properties to hold onto He says all good land in lows is worth $100 per acre and gives the reasons for this conclusion. One of the principal rea-consussigned is the rapid increase in the world's production of gold, hence the practical fall in value of the same that is, the greater the volume of gold it being the unit of value as a means of exchange the more of the precious metal it will take to purchase a given metal it will take to purchase a given quantity of any of the commodities of he and as land as the source from which these are derived a continuous upward movement in prices will result as long as the quantity of gold is on the imorease. The fact that plentiful money brings low rates of interest invariably causes money to seek the safest invest-ment and land being accepted by all people as the safest of all securities it will go into the unch iso of lands, and demand for any article always enhances prices. He finds during panies from whatever causes, the man whose money is five-sted in good lands never becomes a bankrupt and this lends confidence in it as and investment and is causing a greatly increased demand for its owne He says that for twenty-five years good corn lands in Illinois hav advanced on an average $5 per acre per year. He clust that a few years ago when Illinois lands had reached the $75 mark people said prices had reached the limit but since that time these sam lands have coubled in value.
