LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

The city schools will close tomorrow for a two week's vacation.

It is not easy to be a cheerful giver if the aggregate expenditure for presents is greater than one's circumstances will afford.

Thursday afternoon last, Judge Hunter issued a license authorizing the marriage of Mr. Clarence Mitchell and Miss Mercedes Allensworth, both of Carroll.

The state teachers' association will meet in Lincoln on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. An interesting program has been prepared and all teachers are urged to attend.

By introducing a bill in the senate, Senator Millard supports Congressman McCarthy's proposed measure asking for appropriations for public buildings at Wayne, West Point and Columbus.

The business houses were thronged with people Saturday when buying for Christmas was commenced in earnest. This week promises to close with even a greater volume of business than last week.

On Monday O. D. Franks sold his meat market to John Frie of Pierce, who took possession on that day. Mr. Franks expects to remove to the Big Horn country, Wyoming, as soon as he can dispose of his other interests here.

If you desire the services of E. Cunningham as auctioneer for that sale you anticipate holding between now and March first, you ought to attend to making the date now as he has most of the dates between this and that time filled now.

Hartington seems enthusiastic over the prospect of an extension of its railroad to Orafton. The novelty of the project may be interesting for a time, but as a matter of fact, if usual results follow, removing the terminus from Hartington is liable to do the town irreparable injury.

The following conversation was heard in a home recently, according to an exchange: "Father, what do editors live on?" "Why do you ask such a question as that Billy?" "Because you have taken out home paper three years and have never paid a cent for it." "Mary Jane, speak that child."

A young lady, aged 20 years, who was on her way to a school of which she is a teacher, in West Virginia, was met and threatened with assault by a negro whom she promptly and effectually rebuffed by drawing a revolver and discharging its contents into his head, killing him instantly. She deserves a pension.

The Norfolk News reports that the Modern Woodman camp at Winside is preparing to close the holiday festivities at that place with their annual ball on the night of the 20th. They expect to have the Sioux City orchestra, and a midnight banquet will be held at the Commercial hotel. The Woodman ball is always considered the event of the season in that prosperous town and vicinity.

Carl Cornarsky of Cuming county, who has not only been a chronic drunk but a brute, according to reports, was boosted off to Lincoln for treatment by the West Point authorities last week. He abused and failed to support his motherless children, and has left the care and responsibility of his household to his 13-year-old daughter since the death of his wife.

The Hartington Herald reports the prospect of a big immigration of Cedar county farmers to the Dakotas between now and spring. It looks as though Wayne county, too, would contribute a considerable bunch to the population of those states next spring judging from the number of homesteads that have been taken there lately by people from this town and vicinity.

The Carthage (Ill.) Republican of the 29th inst. contains a lengthy write-up of the farewell services of Rev. Tower, who is well known in Wayne, on the eve of his departure from that place to accept a charge at Rochester, New York. A union meeting was held in his honor, a public reception was given and resolutions of commendation were framed and adopted by the ministerial alliance of the town.

James Brittan and the writer went to Wayne this week and brought home a trotter purchased of F. E. Strahan. She is six years old by Union Medium 2:18 1/4, dam by Banquet 2:24, granddam by Frank Allen 2:26, and in foal to Sioux Chief (3) 2:19 1/4. As Sioux Chief is by Union Medium Jr. 2:19 1/4, by Union Medium 2:18 1/4, it will be seen her foal will be considerably inbred and ought to go some.—Allen News.

At Winside Friday night, an old gentleman by the name of Hanson attempted to get off the train after it had started. He made the "leap for life" and landed in a heap on the right of way. He was under the influence of spirits and thought he had arrived in Hoskins, his home. A leg is laid up for repairs and a doctor bill is growing to his bank account which will make his Christmas more than Santa Claus had intended.—Norfolk News.

J. C. Ecker returned Sunday from a trip out west and while he was away stopped in Valentine. When asked about the wonderful geological event which is said to have taken place in the sand hills of Nebraska near Valentine in which a great river 150 miles long had sprung into existence, he laughed and said it was all a dream of the brain of some sensational writer. People at Valentine know nothing of such a river as described.—Winside Tribune.

John Burman, living a mile west of Wakefield, sold his home farm of 100 acres recently for $37.50 per acre. This is a pretty stiff price for Nebraska farms but it is not too much and plenty of people are now living in Wayne county that will live to see the general average of prices the $100.00 per acre mark. But in order to make lands pay interest on investments of this kind the best methods of cultivation and the highest class of domestic animals must become the rule instead of the exception on the farm.

The missionary society of the Presbyterian church surprised Mrs. Henry Beckenhauer last Thursday by visiting her in a body, accompanied by the male portion of the society. They were laden with good things to eat and after enjoying the hospitality always found in that pleasant home, left her a very valuable present as a remembrance of their visit. Mr. and Mrs. Beckenhauer will leave before long for Washington where we understand they have or intend to purchase a farm and make their home.

H. B. Skeen, the genial proprietor of the Pierce Pharmacy, is enjoying a holiday trade this season that has never been surpassed. He informs us that up to the present time his sales have more than doubled that of a year ago. He is certainly to be complimented upon the artistic manner in which the interior is decorated. The show window is a most inviting sight and attracts the attention of all passersby. The display and line of holiday gifts carried by Mr. Skeen would do credit to the big stores in many of our metropolitan cities.—Pierce Call.

About this time of the year the man who has business in the country is impressed by the scores of teams he will meet in a drive of a dozen miles, all laden with products of the fields, that this is certainly a section of country most magnificently endowed. On a drive of three miles out from one of the towns of this county, within the past week, the writer counted over forty teams, all going to town and all heavily laden. Some had oats, others had hogs, and a few had wheat but the great majority were taking to market the king of all northern crops, corn.

The Terwilligers, formerly of this place, have had much more than their share of affliction of late. The latest trouble is reported in a letter to Miss Mamie Panther from Miss George Terwilliger who relates how her father narrowly escaped death from asphyxiation in a lodging house in New York while he was there recently to bury the remains of his brother. In a room adjoining the one in which he slept was a hard coal burner, and during the night escaping gas filled the two apartments, the door between being open. The asphyxiation aroused him and he got up and started for a window. Before he reached there he fell insensible to the floor. The noise of his fall awakened people in the other near-by rooms and they came to his assistance before death resulted.

The white girl, Abbie Hart, who eloped with and married John H. Blackhawk, a Winnebago Indian, less than a year ago, has left her husband and gone with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Hart, to California, in which state Dr. Hart has been located as agency physician, having been transferred from the Winnebago. About a year ago the parents became alarmed at the growing affection between their daughter and the Indian, and proposed to take her on a trip to Ohio. Accordingly she and her father started out, but by a ruse she escaped from him and joined the redskin and together they hurried to Sioux City and were married. The enraged father swore vengeance on the Indian, but was finally persuaded to tolerate the unfortunate plight the best he could.

The different churches are preparing appropriate Christmas programs to be carried out either Saturday evening, Sunday evening or Monday, and the greatest holiday of the year is anticipated, as usual, with joy by all and especially by the children who, in the distribution of gifts and the general endeavor to inspire happiness, very properly receive chief attention. The Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches will have the time-honored trees and fitting exercises with treats for the children, at their respective places of worship, Saturday evening. The English Lutheran and German Lutheran churches will give their Christmas programs Sunday evening. Well laden trees with gifts for the children will be centers of attraction. The Catholic church will observe Christmas day, Monday, when Father Haley will celebrate Mass at 6, 8 and 10 o'clock a. m.

THE WAYNE HERALD.

Official paper of Wayne and Wayne county Published every Thursday.

Congress adjourns today for the annual holiday vacation.

Tom Lawson imparts the surprising information that there are ten honest men in Wall street.

One of your chief duties on Christmas is to contribute to the happiness of the children. The joy and appreciation of the child amply reward your generosity and kindness.

If you are looking for a position in life that will be free from annoyances and petty vexations, you will look as long as you live and never find it. The best way is to philosophically endure what can't be avoided, and cultivate good nature instead of the other thing.

The czar is like the man who locks the stable after the horses are stolen. He does not propose relief for his subjects until it is too late to avert trouble. The Russian government seems fearful that it will do more for its people than will be necessary, and as a consequence anarchy and bloodshed are wrecking the nation.

The only way to secure needed changes in the state constitution is to hold a convention for that purpose, and submit the proposed amendments to the voters at a special election. Such amendments have been invariably defeated at regular elections because interest could not be aroused in them on account of the presence of other and more attractive, though perhaps not more important, issues.

Attorney Hughes, leading proponent in the life insurance investigations, made a speech at a banquet in New York recently treating of reforms, and gave expression among other things, to these words: "We want to know less of the men who started in life poor boys and who amassed great fortunes and we want know more about the men who, however poor when they started, have lived unsmiling lives and died poor."

The Fremont Herald, Edgar Howard's latest love, enters into quite a criticism of the article recently appearing in this paper regarding Ross Hammond's qualifications for United States senator from Nebraska. From the tone of our critic we are inclined to think the writer didn't read the article in question very closely or else he misconstrued it. It requires quite a stretch of the imagination to make that article charge Ross with being owned or controlled by any railroad and we would advise our critic to read again.

Eastern preachers have been criticized occasionally during the past year for not showing their share of energy in dissecting the sins of the high financiers which have been so freely aired during this time. Geo. Chalmers Richmond, curate of a wealthy church at Stamford, Connecticut, thought to avoid this criticism and a Sunday or two ago preached a sermon on the sins of the great which aroused the commendation of such an idealistic, though conservative newspaper as the New York Evening Post. But that did not save Mr. Richmond from being out of a job a week or so later.—Lincoln Journal.

The Sunday Omaha Bee estimates the enormous cost of celebrating Christmas in the United States. The total expenditure for toys is placed at $28,800,000, for candy $27,100,050, for energy devoted to making fancy things by ladies $12,500,000, for fancy goods and novelties $3,468,492, for extra street car fare $640,007, for turkeys $25,000,000, for postries $208,000, for domestic wine $273,106, for beer $500,538, for whiskey $1,808,711, for soft drinks $39,101, for cigars, $4,100,811, for cigarettes $100,850, for extra doctor bills, $1,191,441. Total expenditures for Christmas are estimated at $141,321,591. But all this money devoted to the great holiday remains in circulation and directly or indirectly benefits many people.

Parents are largely responsible for the character and calibre of their children through heredity and training, the latter of which includes environment. A parent, in regarding a wayward child, often crawls behind the defense that he is doing his duty and can do no more. He has doubtless performed what he considered his duties conscientiously, and yet he has imparted to that child attributes for evil which are either too strong to be overcome by training or such training is at fault from being insufficient or of an improper kind. So much of the blame rests on the parent that he should redouble his efforts in checking untoward or vicious tendencies in his offspring and leading the way along paths of rectitude and honor.

FARMERS AT THE TOP.

Two ladies were introduced the other day. In the course of the conversation one of them casually mentioned the fact that her husband is a government officer. "How nice," responded the other, "and we are just farmers." And why that word "just"? Why speak disparagingly or apologetically of the farm? Why not raise your head a little higher and put pride into your accent? "We are farmers!" sounds better. It is more appropriate. There is no calling, profession or business to compare with it. Back of the merchant, the banker, the lawyer, the doctor, the preacher, the editor, the manufacturer, the laborer, the government official—even back of the government itself is the farmer. And this he is slowly coming to realize. The man who tills his own farm is more independent than a king, his wife more to be envied than a queen, his sons and daughters have a God-given right to hold their heads a little higher than prince or princess. God made the soil and all animal nature. The nearer we get to nature the nearer we are to God. Do not say "we are just farmers." Be proud of your calling; be thankful of your independence. When footing up the value of your land, live stock, your grain—yes, and your cash—ask yourself: "In what calling could I do as well?" If you are posted your answer will be: "None." Stanton Picket.

Considerable gossip has been indulged in lately in regard to gambling at various places in the city and even from some of the pulpits pretty strong assertions have been made. It is charged that games of chance with money as stakes are being conducted, and that some of the youths of the city are becoming victims of the bad habit. We are not in a position to know of either the truth or falsity of the charges, but it seems that before anything so serious as this is charged the people who tell the stories ought to be very sure of the truthfulness of what they say or else keep silent. It is very easy to blast the good name of either a community or its citizens and when once either are put to the bad it is very difficult to undo the wrong if such it should be. Before stories of this kind are mouthed about there ought to be not a shadow of doubt of their truthfulness and when that is ascertained beyond even a reasonable doubt the persons in possession of the knowledge, if they have the good of the community at heart, ought to invoke the strong arm of the law for the abatement of the places where the games are being conducted. We do not believe that the pulpits are the place from which to publish reports derogatory to the good name of any man or man unless the evidence of guilt is so strong as to be able to establish a case in a court of competent jurisdiction, and if in possession of such evidence it is the duty of the one possessing it to call a halt by having the guilty arraigned and not to set the tongues of irresponsible wagging and have them by insinuation and otherwise pull down the good name of the innocent.

ONLY a few days more of buying before Christmas, and let us renew the invitation to all to come and inspect our stock before selecting your presents. The Eye

THE EYE is the most delicate organ of the body, and for years it has been known by those who have made a careful study of it that a large per cent of human ailments come from defective eyesight.

Defective eyesight is primarily the cause of a large per cent of headache, nervousness, red, inflamed lids, crossed eyes, itching and burning eyelids, spots floating before vision, abnormal growths upon eyes called Pterygium, dimness of sight, cannot maintain vision long at any one time for close work, cannot see distant objects well, lines or letters run together, dizziness, loss of memory, pains running from base of brain down through spinal column, convulsions which precede the menstrual functions, cross eyes, etc., etc.

I have been making regular trips to Wayne for the past eight years and my policy has always been to render the best possible services and furnish the best of material, and to refund money in any case that results agreed upon are not accomplished. I have been exclusively in the optical profession for twenty-five years, and have been permanently located in Sioux City for thirteen years.

I invite the neighborhood of inquiry to be turned fully upon my methods, and trust to the recommendations of my patrons.

I furnish glasses for every form of defective eyesight. I have several cases of crossed eyes that I have straightened with glasses in and around Wayne. Ninety per cent of all headaches are caused by defective eyesight and can be remedied by perfect-fitting glasses. Do not think because failure upon failure has been your experience that there is no help for your eyes. If you have a particle of vision left I can adjust a lens as to restore, stimulate and develop your eye that it will give you vision of normal sight.

In any event I will frankly tell you just what can be done, which will cost you nothing. I will positively take no case that I cannot do good. In conclusion allow me to inform you that there is not another business or profession in the world that is so full of rank humbugs as the optical profession.

Men pretend to know in regard to the eye and how to fit glasses that are as ignorant of the anatomy of the eye and its relation to the health and welfare of the body, as a baboon is to producing fine music upon a violin. They sell you merchandise same as you buy a bag of flour or salt, but their material as a rule is as defective as their knowledge of the eye. It is becoming a serious proposition as many persons are injured permanently by wearing the glasses they get from these men. I have been greatly annoyed by some of them going from house to house claiming that they were me, or my agent, and upon my reputation induced persons to patronize them. I wish to warn all persons against such, and I will pay a reward of $50.00 for the capturing and holding of any person claiming they are me or my representatives.

The Sons of Herman will give their annual masquerade ball in the Wayne opera house on the evening of January 11. The Wayne orchestra will furnish the music, and supper will be served. Further announcement will be made next week.

Hartington correspondence in yesterday's Sioux City Journal: Henry Haach, the Coleridge wifebeater, was given a dose of his own medicine. About two weeks ago Haach was fined $50 and costs on the charge of beating his wife while intoxicated. He was also admonished to leave the town for good. He came to Hartington, and, wishing to effect a reconciliation with his wife, he returned to Coleridge. As soon as it got noised around that he had returned a vigilance committee was formed of twenty men and boys and he was marched out of town and unmercifully beaten. For a distance of four miles he was driven like a wild animal. He was kicked and hammered with clubs until he was unable to move, and a sympathizer farmer brought him to Hartington more dead than alive. His nose was broken, his jaw fractured and his head pounded so that both eyes were swollen shut. His left ear was broken and there were black and blue spots all over his body. While there is no one who justifies his treatment of his wife the best citizens of Coleridge condemn the action of the men who participated in his punishment.

Mr. Albert H. Baldwin and Miss Emma Christianson, both of Winside, were united in marriage by Judge Hunter at this place this morning.

Mrs. John T. Bressler went to Sioux City this morning to meet her daughters, Misses Kate and Ruth, on their return from Birmingham, Pennsylvania, where they have been attending school.

A LIVING NET.
Peculiar Method of Fishing Used by Natives of Oceania.

A peculiar method of fishing is indulged in by the natives of Tetulia, one of the islands of Oceania. At a given signal the inhabitants of the village assemble on the seashore to the number of about 200 persons, each of whom carries a branch of cocopalim. With these in their hands they plunge into the water, and at a certain distance from the shore turn toward the fishing net, which is a circular net, each one holding his palm branch perpendicularly in the water, and thus forming a sieve.

The leader of the party then gives a signal, and the fishing net approaches the shore gradually in perfect order, driving before it a multitude of fishes, surrounded by this living wall and entangled in the meshes of the net. The fish are then cast on the sand by the waves, while others are killed with spears. After being cooked over hot coals the fish are served with bananas and coconut milk.

The scene as described by a Frenchman who visited the island was interesting and picturesque in the extreme, the effect being immensely heightened by the appearance of the natives, whose costume consists of a short tunic of seaweed or leaves. Their hair is powdered with chalk, while the warriors are distinguished by the hair being powdered red. Wreaths of garlands or red hibiscus are worn on their heads and also round their necks.

Miss May Cunningham who is teaching at Grifton, North Dakota, writes that she will not return to Wayne to spend her Christmas vacation on account of her improved health in the northern climate and not wishing to risk the change in winter.
W. F. Wright, a former Lincoln citizen, and who was known over the state as "Rainmaker" Wright, died of a complication of diseases in San Diego, California, last Friday. During the drought in Nebraska some years ago, Wright endeavored to produce moisture by an explosion of gun cotton in the air. There has been some talk of a Sunday morning train from Sioux City and by a manifestation of local interest and effort such an improvement might be secured. It also looks as though the Bloomfield branch ought to have at least one train each way on Sunday.

Mike Kowitz, the young man who was injured by being caught in a corn sheller about a week ago, was taken to an Omaha hospital Friday. Gangrene has set in and it is considered doubtful if the young man will recover without the loss of his arm. Dr. Kerley accompanied the patient.—Randolph Reporter.

Geo. Gunther, a Russian living in Wayne county, sent money to relatives in his native country some time ago for the purpose of bringing them to America, but the relatives have been unable thus far to escape from Russia on account of the government restrictions, more strictly enforced than usual by reason of the revolutionary condition of the country.
Rev. Davidson who is known in Wayne county and who will be remembered as having had considerable trouble in his family while preaching at Tekamah, writes to a Randolph friend that he is now in Rollinsville, Colorado, where he has a job for the winter, being at an altitude of 8,500 feet. Previously, he did carpentering for a railroad and then worked in a Denver foundry.

A couple of fishermen who live on the Dakota side of the Missouri river, crossed on the ice one Sunday recently and journeyed to the town of St. Helena, Cedar county, to spend the day, and on returning home they carried a dog of bear which one of them brought. The fellow with the liquid hilarity broke through the ice and disappeared. He soon came up and still clinging to the dog. After his companion had secured the dog, he also was helped out, and both resumed their way home rejoicing over their good fortune in not losing the bear.

Christmas is more the occasion of home-coming than any other day of the year, and if people, young and old, can possibly reach the home fireside at that time they most assuredly do so. Chief among travelers, homeward bound, are teachers and students, and accordingly the last of this week will witness crowds of them leaving Wayne, while others are returning here, all with the same object in view—to spend their Christmas vacation at home. Students who have been attending school elsewhere and who will arrive the last of the week are: Miss Monte Theobald from Madison, Wis., Miss Elsie Warnock from Lincoln, Miss Lida Tucker from Omaha, John Neely and Don Cunningham from Ames, Iowa. Miss Florence Welch and Miss Hattie Weber who are attending school in Boston and Miss Helen Northrop and Miss Jessie Tucker who are in Washington, D. C., and Anburndale, Mass., respectively, are too far away to return home for the holidays.

John Morris of Carroll, was in Omaha with a par or two of sheep last week, all of his own raising and came back home with a pretty good sized wad of money for his shipment. John is quite an enthusiast on sheep raising and has just reason to be, for they have been a source of wonderful gain to him during the past ten years. He says that among all domestic animals, well bred sheep, the kind that will produce a good fleece and a big carcass, are by far the most profitable. Mr. Morris said that he sold two of his boys some ewes a year ago and agreed to let them pay him from the proceeds of the wool and the surplus wethers, and that the first season's clip of wool pretty nearly squared the bill and practically gave the boys the original flock and the entire increase for the feed and care. John is a Welshman who learned, on the hills of distant Wales, the value of sheep as wealth producers and that knowledge has been of vast benefit to him in his successful career in America.

The students in the high school have not been getting along pleasantly for some time with their teacher, Prof. W. D. King, and as a result that gentleman has resigned his position to take effect with the close of school tomorrow, and will be succeeded by Amy Payne, an experienced teacher from Fayette, Io., who is recommended as an capable instructor and disciplinarian. Mr. King seems to have lacked the necessary force to govern the school by failing to gain the respect of his pupils and make them observe the rules and proprieties of order and good behavior. Considering the fact that Mr. King was employed in a high school, before reaching which boys and girls should develop a desire for learning rather than for the pastime of perpetrating acts of devilry, he is not altogether to blame for the trouble which arose and the consequence which followed in the forfeiture of his position. The students share in the blame, and parents are often indirectly at fault in failure to sufficiently interest themselves in the deportment of their children and indulging the notion, taken from snap judgment, that the teacher is an incompetent and should be ousted to keep from clogging the mental growth of their children. More home training—heart to heart talk—ought to teach the young good behavior and respect for authority, so that the teacher would not have to be more of a disciplinarian than an educator. In a high school, or in fact in any other department, it should not be necessary for a teacher to look as fierce as a Hindoo god and enforce his rules with the austerity of a Russian autocrat. In the case of Mr. King, who has failed to control the school, we think it is proper for him to quit, but we believe the students ought to understand that they, too, are blamable and should of their own volition conduct themselves in the future with greater respect for order and good school government.

to select harness is the way it is usually done. Price is generally the first consideration. It that is very low the goods seem attractive, regardless of quality. Judge our goods the other way about. Examine into the quality of this harness first. Then it will be seen that it is worth almost any price. But our prices are not high. Value considered they are remarkably low.

PETERSON-JONES SALE.
The dispersion sale of the Shorthorn herd of B. P. Peterson with the draft of five young bulls from the herd of Spencer Jones at Wayne on last Saturday was fairly satisfactory from all points of view. While the prices were not fancy in any respect, yet they were good enough to be satisfactory to the seller and not an animal sold can fall, under ordinary circumstances, to be a good investment for the buyer. While the offering was not bred to suit the critically fashionable fellows, it was a good lot of well bred stuff that was creditable to the sellers, and being largely purchased by local parties must make a good impression on the herds into which it goes. It was all in good down, healthy condition, not loaded down with fat but just about right to do the purchaser the greatest good.
The offering consisted of twelve bulls and twenty-one cows and heifer calves.
Thirty-three head sold for $2,667.50 or an average on the whole offering of $80.83, the bulls averaging $81.46 and the cows $77.62. The tent was crowded with people and the bidding at times was quite spirited and the entire lot was sold by Cunningham and Baird, as auctioneers, in just about two hours.
The following is a list of the buyers and prices paid: Bulls: Lord Banff 4th,
