Voget's Hardware Opening

Saturday, January 20

"Voget is Going to Open a Hardware and Music Store"

THIS is the glad news now being borne on the breeze and everybody looks pleased because again they will be able to get a full dollar's worth of goods for a dollar.

Three years ago I was compelled, because of failing health, to close out my business. Since then I have done nothing but search for perfect health and have found it, and I come back to you now with all my old vigor and added to that a reserve energy that will permit me to give the good people of Wayne and vicinity the best Hardware, Plumbing, Heating, and Music stock to be found in Nebraska. We haven't the largest stock, but a most complete one. Come in and see

On January 20 we will have our GRAND OPENING and "grand" is the only word that fittingly describes it. Grand because it will give you an opportunity to buy goods of recognized quality at prices that cannot be met by any competition.

In buying this new new stock of Hardware, Pianos and Organs we have used the greatest power in the world to force the manufacturers down to the lowest price. This power is

CASH! CASH! CASH!

Every dollar's worth of goods in my store is paid for and I propose to sell them as pleases me most; to sell them at ROCK BOTTOM prices. I know that there is no store anywhere that can offer you such a "price saving" petition for your patronage as I.

Stoves, Ranges, Paints, Oils, Glass, Seeds,
Thresher Supplies, Pumps, Pipes, Fittings

Granite Ware: A whole wagon load of it and any piece you want for 10 cents. Buy generously while this sale lasts. See our window. Tin and granite repairing is in charge of OTTO VOGET, JR. He will devote his entire time to seeing that every musical instrument that leaves our store is perfect. Get us in competition with other music houses, that is our strongest argument.

Mr. Otto Voget, Jr., offers you his unexcelled judgment of Pianos, Organs and String Instruments, free of charge.

Sohmer Pianos, Krell Pianos, Royal Pianos and the Celebrated Ann Arbor Organs, Music Books, Sheet Music and Strings of All Kinds

We will meet and defeat competition, no matter where it comes from.

A select concert will be given in our music department on opening day.

WOMEN WHO SUFFER

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People

To women who suffer Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold.

"It was three years ago last spring that my health failed me," says Mrs. Arthur Condon.

"My back and limbs would ache almost continually and there were days when I was absolutely helpless from side headache.

"One day a physician who has now retired from practice and who lives in the street and inquired about my health.

"I was an expert accountant."

"Can I get it?" asked the new arrival.

"I never drank, smoked, chewed or swore. I gave everybody a square deal."

"Cut all that out," was the terse reply.

"I was an expert accountant."

"Sure, you can get it! You're what we have been waiting for. You see, we are expecting Rockefeller now at almost any time and all of our accountants are working overtime. We want to be able to hand him an itemized statement when he applies for admission."

"A statement of what he did with his money?"

"No; a statement of how he got it."

"Boston Post."

PAPERS BY THE PEOPLE

FEDERAL SUPERVISION OF INSURANCE

By John A. McCall, President New York Life.

On the subject of federal regulation of life insurance companies in the United States one might make the reference as brief as the famous chapter on snakes in Ireland by saying there is no such thing as federal regulation of life insurance in the United States.

The act of the Fifty-seventh Congress, authorizing the establishment of a department of commerce and labor, may open the way for presentation of the issues involved.

SCEPTER OF COMMERCE IN AMERICAN CONTROL

By Vice President Fairbanks.

The scepter of commercial power is passing into American control. If we are true to the vast opportunities which lie at our hands, the United States will become the acknowledged leader in the commerce of the world.

While we are a commercial people, we are not subservient to commercialism. We seek to expand commerce as a means, not as an end.

STRIKING OIL IS RISKY BUSINESS

By J. N. Ashton.

"Striking oil" still is one of the most fascinating phrases used in the vernacular of modern investment.

"Too much oil" was the first of Texas experiences. The greatest flow of oil in the history of drilling was from the Lucas well, which, from a depth of 1,025 feet, threw oil 180 feet into the air.

Considered geologically, nearly all the great oil fields of the United States are within the belt that starts in New York and trends southwest at an angle of 45 degrees, takes in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

There are men who have made more money in oil within two years than they made in mercantile and financial ventures in a quarter of a century.

REMEDY FOR MUNICIPAL ROTTENNESS

By Gov. J. W. Folk.

The most conspicuous fact of municipal governments in the United States to-day is that they are governments by the few and not by the people.

The moral revolution now sweeping over the land means the patriotism that comes from the heart, not from the head.

There never was a time when the need for patriotic men in public affairs was greater than now. We need more men actuated alone by the public good and fewer of those who are in politics merely for revenue.

The 2 Johns Have Sold Out

We have sold out $5,000.00 of our stock to a St. Louis house at 50 cents on the dollar, provided we do not sell it at this sale to our customers. We believe we can realize 65 per cent. on these goods during this sale, which will last two weeks.

COMMENCING MONDAY, JANUARY 15, 1906

To give everyone an equal chance to buy clothing that is up to date and less than cost, we will take off all former prices and mark all goods in plain figures and sell to all alike at prices marked. This sale includes all our clothing which will give everybody a chance to get what they want at less than cost price. During this sale we will also have our usual sale of odds and ends. These goods will be sold at less than half we paid for them. Look over the list of prices and don't fail to come at once as this sale will end when the $5,000.00 worth is sold and will positively end on the 29th of January. On that date we expect to receive our spring goods which will be the largest stock we ever brought. If you have ever attended any of our special sales, you will understand what this sale means in a saving on clothing. If you have never attended any of our special sales attend this one for it will pay you.

THE WAYNE HERALD.

Official paper of Wayne and Wayne county Published every Thursday.

 Subscription, $2.00 a Year in Advance.

The railroads are running their sea-grain and soil culture specials all over the state teaching the farmers all about how to cultivate the soil and select seed, but forgot to have their speakers give any instructions as to how the farmers can dodge their taxes. The latter is a subject that is kept an absolute secret, but is one in which some of the roads are genuine experts.

The Nebraska State University is one of the great schools of the country and the people of the state are justly proud of it. But there are some good things that come so high that many times people of limited means are obliged to forego the pleasure of having them and by looking up the expense bill of the university it looks as though it is pretty nearly in that category. An expense account of pretty close to a half million dollars per year for the university looks pretty large and yet that is about the figure it costs the tax payers of the state. Two hundred dollars per year per student for tuition alone is pretty high priced.

A close study of many of our industrial strikes leads one to the conclusion that the ordinary person knows but little of the real causes of, or rather motives for the strikes. These strikes are used as an industrial engine by which the general public are made to suffer the penalties rather than the parties directly engaged in them, and at the same time our sympathies are aroused in behalf of the helpless wives and innocent children of the striking miners until we are ready for the slaughter and then the ax falls, but we are not always certain of the hand that has touched the spring. A little government supervision over these things might be a pretty good thing.

An editorial writer in January's "World's Work" wants the government to allow rural mail carriers to carry packages, the government making fixed charges for the service and the pay received to be a part of the postal receipts and believes a carrier can just as easily carry 50 pounds as to travel as at present. The writer in his fine New York office evidently thinks the life of a rural route carrier for six days in the week, year in and year out, on the magnificent pay of $90 per month is a magnificent round of pleasure. Surely it would be a grand scheme from a financial point for the government, but how about the boys who carry the mail? Their pay is so meagerly now as compared with the services rendered, that it is surprising that men having the proper qualifications for the work can be found to do it.

One of the gentlemen who has been considerably mentioned as one who would make a good congressman for the third district, in a personal letter to the editor of THE HERALD, says: "I am not a candidate even passively. I am beginning to think d—n the offices as I see more of politics, and think there is very much more of pleasure in sitting in the grand stand and watching the participants in the arena than being among the gladiators. I am especially averse to any congressional career at this time. I am having a magnificent business, with a good home and a few friends and I don't see any call to trade off this happy combination for the position of chief postoffice puller for the gang." There is a man who has arrived at an eminently correct conclusion, but nevertheless he would be split-addit timber for the place.

April 1 the contracts made by the presidential commission at the time of the great 1903 anthracite coal miners' strike expires and a general strike is threatened. It is not so much a matter of higher pay for the miners, but a demand for the general adoption of the eight-hour law, higher wage rate for the unskilled labor at the mines and a uniform rate of wage for those at all centers. It is said the United Mine Workers have in their treasury almost $4,000,000 with which to carry on a strike and the operators on the other hand have piled up vast stores of coal so that in case a strike comes the coal so promises to be a long and bitter one and which must inflict great damage on the business interests of the country, probably many times more than to the parties responsible for the trouble. After it is all over the miners will probably be granted small concessions and the price of hard coal given an upward twist amounting to several times the amount of cost added by the concessions.

Last year the deficit between postal receipts and expenditures amounted to very nearly $16,000,000. This difference between receipts and expenditures is largely charged to the free rural route business of the country by many of the critics. Supposing that the rural business was chargeable with the whole deficit there ought to be no fault found, because about 18,000,000 people are given this service and the deficit is less than $1 per individual served and is about the only item of governmental expense chargeable to the rural communities. But are there not great leaks in other places in the postal service that are as justly chargeable with the deficit as the rural route business? How about the thousands upon thousands of tons of mail the railroads are paid for hauling that exist only because of a system of weighing upon which each year's tonnage is fixed that is known by the name of "the ton" and which is recognized by anyone conversant with the methods employed as being fraudulent and that adds millions of dollars to the government's postal expense account that ought not to be, and that helps railroads to pay unjust dividends on stocks that are purely fictitious. It seems to be hard work for governmental economists to find or when found to stop the steals of big thieves and generally their efforts are put forth to divert the attention of the public away from the real causes of high expense accounts.

NOTICE TO NONRESIDENT DEFENDANT.

To Thomas Barnes, defendant:
 You will take notice that on the 9th day of January, 1906, Sarah Ann Waterhouse, plaintiff, filed her petition in the district court of Wayne county, Nebraska, against you as defendant, the object and prayer of which are to quiet the title of said plaintiff to an undivided one-seventh interest in the following described real estate, to wit:
 "The east half of section ten (10), township twenty-six (26), range two (2), east of the sixth principal meridian, and lot three (3), block six (6), Bressler & Patterson's addition to the town of Winside, in the county of Wayne, and state of Nebraska; and lot five, Aldine square, being number 2014 North 22nd street, in the City of Omaha, Douglas county, state of Nebraska."
 Said one-seventh interest in such real estate having been devised by one George Barnes, deceased, to the children of one William Barnes, deceased, and being subject to a mortgage in favor of the children of said William Barnes, deceased, passed to plaintiff by reason of your whereabouts being unknown and it being unknown whether you are living or dead at the time of the final distribution of the estate of said George Barnes, deceased, is being quieted and confirmed in her against you and all persons claiming under you, and for such other and further relief as may be just and equitable.

You are required to answer said petition on or before the 18th day of February, 1906.

FOUR SIMPLE RULES

Follow Them and Health, Happiness and Prosperity Will be Yours.
 If one would be healthy, happy and prosperous, follow these four simple rules. (1) Keep the bowels open every day. (2) Chew your food slowly and thoroughly. (3) Avoid indigestible foods. (4) If there are any symptoms of stomach troubles, take M-i-o-n-a before each meal until cured.
 No matter how many years you may have suffered with stomach troubles or how worried by sleeplessness, nervousness, loss of appetite, irritable temper, specks before the eyes, headaches, back-aches, weakness and debility, indigestion or other ills that are caused by a weak stomach, you can be cured by the faithful use of M-i-o-n-a.
 M-i-o-n-a is not a fanciful experiment, it is not a patent medicine, it is not a cure all. It is a scientific remedy recommended but for one trouble—weakness of the digestive organs. It is a permanent cure, and is sold by E. J. Raymond under a guarantee that it costs nothing unless it does all that is claimed for it.

LETTER TO HERALD READERS

E. J. Raymond Guarantees Hyomei to Care Catarrh or It Costs Nothing.
 Editor Herald:
 In view of the prevalence of catarrhal troubles at this season of the year, I want to tell your readers that I have never sold anything that has given more satisfaction than Hyomei, when used in catarrhal troubles. You get immediate relief from the treatment, and consistent use will prove to every sufferer, as it has to many of our customers, the virtue of this preparation.
 The complete Hyomei outfit consists of a pocket inhaler, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei, and the price is only $1, while additional bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.
 I positively guarantee a cure when Hyomei is used in accordance with directions, or I will refund your money. This certainly shows our faith and belief in the virtues of Hyomei.
 Yours very truly,
 E. J. RAYMOND.

 Manufacturer of and dealer in Harness and Saddles
 Everything first-class and guaranteed.
 Wayne, Nebraska

The wrong way to select harness is the way it is usually done. Price is generally the first consideration. If that is very low the goods seem attractive, regardless of quality. Judge our goods the other way about. Examine into the quality of this harness first. Then it will be seen that it is worth almost any price. But our prices are not high. Value considered they are remarkably low.

For Sale

One span Iron Gray Geldings coming 3 years old, sound, weight 2600.
 One gray mare coming 4 years old, weight 1600 pounds, well broken and perfectly sound.
 One bay driving or work horse, 5 years old, well broken single or double, sound.
 One Lake City wagon, nearly new.
 One set work harness, nearly new.
 Come and see us if you are interested in any of the above. They are desirable and can be bought at reasonable prices.

LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

BRUCE SPEARS, a Wayne young man who has been doing the mechanical work on the Carroll Index for several months, has bought the Hoskins Headlight of W. H. Gibson, taking possession this week. A printing plant is to be installed and all the work done at home.

As will be seen by an advertisement elsewhere in this paper, the Wolf Implement company will dispose of its stock here at public sale January 20. C. W. Hiscok who has been associated with E. B. Cook in the management of the company's interests, expects to succeed it in the implement business in Wayne, putting in a new stock.

The HERALD was mistaken last week in saying that Dr. Losenring's x-ray machine had not located the bullet lodged in the flesh of Roscoe Herroll. The ball was located and photographed and is plainly visible on the plate at Dr. Losenring's office. The bullet was not removed because it was not deemed necessary and would only annoy the patient.

Ed. A. Church, State oil inspector of Lincoln and his son-in-law, W. B. McCabe, were arrivals in the city Monday. Mr. Church was here looking after the persons responsible for the publication of a story in the Democrat sometime ago that reflected discreditably on Mr. and Mrs. McCabe and which it seems was without any foundation. The HERALD is informed that the trouble was finally settled by the Democrat agreeing to publish a retraction.

An Ohio preacher got mashed on his church organist and then prayed that his wife would die so that the organist could be his own toilet wootie and his wife helped him pray for it too. But the Lord was too slow and the wife is taking a turn at the divorce mill because results are quicker and surer. That preacher should be sent so far into that a telegram couldn't reach him in a thousand years and his fool wife should seek seclusion in some quiet idiotic asylum.—Banner News.

The HERALD has received a copy of "The Critic," published at Waterbury, in Dixon county, and is surprised to note that it is marked volume 20, number 48. Waterbury was not on the map nor its existence dreamed of twenty years ago. However, the proprietor of the paper may think he has been there twenty years and marked his paper accordingly. Pulling through two or three years in Waterbury might easily seem like twenty and fully warrant a man in advancing the date of his advent.

The Pioneer and Young Peoples' whist clubs will meet in a contest next Tuesday evening to finally settle the world's championship. The young folks are disciples of Epileurus and devote a share of their time at club meetings to cultivating and gratifying physical yearnings for sweetmeats, oyster stews and other delectable dishes, while their rather more ancient rivals follow strictly abstemious habits. More than that—on club occasions they concede nothing to the stomach, not even citrus lemonade, and thus, free from dulling the thought vehicle by feasting, they believe they can outwit and vanquish their opponents whose youth, vivacity and keenness are hampered by yielding to the charms of rich victuals.

J. O. Kelly, a Randolph individual, was hauled over to Hartington last week and given trial before the authorities on the charge of being an inebriate. After examining a number of witnesses, the defendant was dismissed. According to comments in the Times, many Randolph people are not satisfied with the finding of the board and believe Kelly should have been sentenced to treatment in the Lincoln hospital. The action of the Hartington board conflicts with the determination of the city council of Randolph to reduce drunkenness and improve society within its gates. The chronic drunk law is applied without ceremony in Wayne county and therefore several who had not been intentionally sober for many years, have been hurried off for treatment and returned to their families, with insatiable thirst and despair banished, and hope and happiness restored.

Mrs. L. S. Needham received word this morning that her brother Will was critically ill and left on the afternoon train for Sioux City. . . . G. Ulrich and little son of Omaha, were here for several days visiting Mr. Ulrich's brother-in-law, Walter Gasler. They left for a visit with friends east of Winside Tuesday. . . . Mr. and Mrs. A. Hupp went to Omaha Monday where Mrs. Hupp entered a hospital to receive medical treatment. She has been ailing for some time and of late has been much worse. . . . Quite a change was made this week in the teachers of our schools. Prof. Listell leaves to assume the duties of county superintendent, Mr. Wright becomes principal, Mr. Robinson of Carroll, takes Miss Ringer's room and Miss Ringer will become assistant principal. . . . Last week we spoke of Tom Lound's peccer having been shot while in the pasture and now we hear that L. S. Needham has had several steers shot in his corral. This is getting to be criminally careless and steps are being taken to capture and punish the guilty parties. Mr. Lound will doubtless pay a nice sum for evidence that will convict the party who shot his pet mare and we advise boys who sport rifles and revolvers to be mighty particular in the future how and where they use them.

Last Sunday night a certain young lady in Winside went into her room to finish making her toilet before going to church. Being in a hurry, she did not stop to get a light but arranged a ribbon on her neck and secured it with a stick-pin, as she supposed. After being in church awhile she was greatly surprised and mortified to discover that she had used a large safety-pin to fasten the ribbon, and there it was standing out prominently in plain sight.—Winside Tribune.

PETER KADEN'S DEATH.
 Additional developments concerning the fate of Peter Kaden, formerly of Hoskins, whose death was announced in last week's HERALD, are reported in the following Norfolk correspondence to the Lincoln Journal: "Mystery is creeping into the death of Peter Kaden, the Rosebud tenderfoot from Hoskins, Nebraska, whose dead body was found in a well on the Rosebud a few days ago. What was at first thought to be a case of deliberate suicide as a result of a joke, now appears to be a case of foul play and startling developments are expected. A letter left on the table of Kaden's room unsigned and undated but appearing to be written by Kaden just before ending his life, now is believed to have been written by the murderer as a ruse, and it is thought on the Rosebud that Kaden was thrown into the well.

"Isaac Syfe, a Syrian neighbor of Kaden's on the Rosebud, became enraged at Kaden and Peter Peterson because the latter two turned loose a horse belonging to Syfe as a joke. This was done because Syfe had shown such fear lest his horses might be stolen. "When Kaden and Peterson explained to Syfe that the matter was a joke, he refused to accept the apology in good spirit and several times in the presence of Settler Erickson threatened to take Kaden's life. This was at night. Syfe and Kaden left the Erickson house together and this was the last ever seen of Kaden alive. The next day a note was found in his room, saying that he had decided to end his life because called a horse thief, and that his body would be found in a well. The door of the room was open and blankets nailed over the windows. The letter was written in a German hand and alongside was $18 with instructions to send it to Kaden's father in Germany.

"That same day Peterson was taken, at the point of shotgun, by Syfe and six or eight Russians, and it is believed that they intended to lynch him. He was carried far away on the plains in a wagon when two Rosebud postmasters hurried to the scene and persuaded the mob to release Peterson.

"No arrests have as yet been made, but disclosures are expected. "Perhaps the most suspicious incident in the whole affair is the fact that Syfe had just come into 'Honesty' several days after the finding of the body, for the purpose, he says, of 'awarding' but a warrant for the arrest of Kaden on the charge of horsestealing. Syfe claims he had not heard of Kaden's death."

A STORM IN THE JUNGLE.

It Comes With a Roar Like That of a Giant Waterfall.

People who have never been in a jungle talk of the sky as a painter talks of the horizon or a seafaring man of the offing—as if when you wanted to see it you only need use your eyes. But in the jungle you don't see the sky—at least you only see a few scraps of patches of it overhead through the openings in the twigs and leaves. Neither do you feel the wind blowing, nor get burned or dazzled by the sun, nor even see that luminary except by momentary glimpses about midday, from which it follows that a jungle man does not usually pretend to be weatherwise. If he does he is even a greater humbug than the rest of the weather prophets. On the afternoon about which we are speaking I remember setting forth on my walk in the still glow of the tropical calm and wondering rather at the intense stillness of the surrounding forest. Then the air grew cooler and the green of the foliage in front seemed to deepen, and presently there was a sound as of a giant waterfall in the distance. Waterfalls do not, however, grow louder every second, whereas the noise in front did so. Then there was a loud, angry growl, as of a dozen lions. A minute more and the whole jungle began to roar as if fifty squadrons of heavy cavalry were coming up at a gallop. Then came a drop of rain and a peal of thunder which seemed to make the world stop.

Then the storm began. The sky above darkened; the trees clattered; the brushwork beneath hissed and howled itself. A deluge of raindrops blasted out in a narrow view. Down it came, as if through the dense canopy of leaves and twigs, with a roar of rain that seemed to fill the air. It leaves as if they were being struck by bullets, streaking the air with fine, scintillating perpendicular lines. It is all in a downward flow, with the force of a waterfall.

In a few minutes one may as well walk out of the jungle and stand in a field. The storm is immediately one did not know where to walk. The "circumlocution" of the jungle is the fact that the way you can see and noted, but when the rain came it was no longer a cart track, but "all turned to a muddy water." The tracks cannot be seen, and unless you have a pocket compass you may as well try to fly as to get back to where you came from. When one reads of travelers lost in the backwoods, they always steer by the sun and probably very badly—but when there is no sun what are you to do?—Stam Press.

The Ice of Greenland.

The largest mass of ice in the world is probably the one which fills up nearly the whole of the interior of Greenland, where it has accumulated since before the days of history. It is believed to now form a block about 500,000 square miles in area and averaging an mile and a half in thickness. According to the latest statistics, the mass of ice is larger in volume than the whole of the water in the Mediterranean, and there is enough of it to cover the whole of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland with a layer about seven miles thick. If it were cut into two convenient slabs and built up equally upon the entire surface of "gallant little Wales" it would form a pile more than 120 miles high. There is ice enough in Greenland to bury the entire area of the United States in a quarter of a mile deep. London Globe.

A Downy on Approval.

A curious custom prevails among Roumanian peasants. When a Roumanian girl is of a marriageable age, all her friends, which is a large number, all her neighbors and all her relatives, all her mother and herself, is placed in a painted wooden box. When a young man thinks of asking to be allowed to pay his attentions to the girl he is at liberty at first to open the box, which is always placed conveniently at hand, and examine the contents. If the suitor is satisfied with the quantity and quality of the dowry he makes a formal application for the girl's hand, but if, on the contrary, the dowry does not please him, he is quite at liberty to retire.

Man and His Valet.

"I never saw a man so entirely dependent on his valet." "Quite helpless without him, eh?" "Quite helpless. Mabel told me that when he came to propose he brought his valet with him." "What was that for?" "Why, when he reached the proper place his valet spread a hemstitched handkerchief on the floor for him to kneel upon."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Diplomatically Put.

"I am afraid you are absolutely governed by your wife." "No," answered Mr. Meekton, who had been reading the foreign news. "I'm not absolutely governed by her, but I must admit that I am very much within her sphere of influence."—Washington Star.

A Choice of Evils.

Lindsay—Would you advise me to send my daughter to a cooking school or to a music school? Bonder (reflectively)—Well, I think I'd send her to a cooking school. It will be more fatal in its results, but it isn't anything like so noisy.

Stingy.

"It seems strange," said Denon Mayberry as he counted the money after church, "that a large congregation can be so small."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

All human power is a compound of time and patience.

The Moon's Phases.

The phases of the moon are caused by its relative position to the earth and the sun, so that when it is full most of the part of the earth it is full moon in all parts of the earth, and so for all its other phases. The moon revolves around the earth once in twenty-seven days, though on account of the earth's revolution around the sun the mean duration of the lunar month—that is, the time from new moon to new moon—is twenty-nine days, twelve hours and forty-four minutes. The "dark of the moon" is that half of the lunar month during which the moon shines least at night.

A Cold, Hard Snub.

"Excuse me, madam," he said, "but ah—you remember, in the restaurant after the theater the other night you were kind enough to notice me. I hope I am not mistaken in supposing that your interest was—ah—not altogether?" "Oh, not at all. I remember now. I thought for a moment that you were the cookman my husband discharged a few weeks ago for trying to make love to the cook, and I wondered how you could afford to eat in such an expensive place."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Reminiscence.

The author had written one successful story, and he never knew tired talking of it. "Don't you know," said one of his friends to another one day, "Ritter always reminds me of a pleased dog." "That's odd. How does he?" "He's always wagging his tale."

Explained.

Mistress (on the second day to new cook)—Kathi, just be so good as to lend me 5 marks. Cook (aside)—Ha, ha! That's why she said yesterday the cook in her house was treated as one of the family!

It is only by labor that thought can be made healthy, and only by thought that labor can be made happy, and the two cannot be separated with impunity.—Ruskin.

SNAKES OF SARAWAK.

The Pythons Are Enormous and Feed on Pigs and Children.

In the Sarawak Gazette is an article on the snakes of that part of Borneo. Of the poisonous reptiles it says: "The cobra (Naja tripartita) is a black snake which raises its head to strike when irritated, at the same time expanding the hood at either side of the neck. It spits at intruders and hisses like a cat, whence it is known as 'ular tedong pass,' in some parts, too, as 'tedong mata huri.' The word 'tedong' in Sarawak is apparently applied to all large snakes which Malays consider to be poisonous, and, as our Malays are but ill acquainted with these animals, quite a number of large but harmless forms are designated by this term. The hamudiyat (Naja bungarus) is a brown snake, considerably bigger but rarer than the cobra. It is rather shy, but when cornered, like the cobra, it raises its head and expands the hood before striking. Its food is chiefly other snakes. "Less dangerous than these najas are the vipers, of which the most common species is the green viper, which reaches a length of two feet or more. The head is large and shaped like an ace of spades. This creature is a tree snake and very sluggish. The 'bungarus' are of several species, one, Bungarus fasciatus, of length up to four feet, being black with yellow zigzags. It is called the 'ular buku tebu' (sugar cane joints) by natives. There are also sea snakes of many species. The tail of a sea snake is flattened and cartilaginous. "Sarawak has other snakes: 'Of the pythons there are two species. Python reticulatus grows to an enormous size, over twenty feet. It is very fond of pigs, but varies its diet by various animals, including even children. The oil of this snake is used by Malays as an embrocation for bruises. The other species of python, Python curtus, is interesting in that its flesh tastes like that of fowl—at least, so Dyaks say, and they are authorities on snake flesh, for they eat a number of the large snakes."

The Crab as a Fisherman.

The crab sometimes catches a fish, and it catches it without hook and line. It lies in wait, perhaps in some creek, with its jaws extended in front and open. Perhaps a school of minnows comes along, and it may be that a little on the outskirts of the school may swim unsuspectingly along through the clear water between the upper and lower parts of one of the motionless open claws of the crab. When it is well within them the claw suddenly snaps together and that particular little killie goes no farther.

Literary Genius.

"Why is genius so often misunderstood?" asked the literary person. "Probably," answered the man who doesn't care for poetry, "it's because genius so frequently fails to talk plainly."—Exchange.

Woman's Right.

Mamie—I believe in woman's rights. Corlie—Then you think every woman should have a vote? Mamie—No, but I think every woman should have a voter.—Chicago Record-Herald.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Some people are simply acting natural when they are kicking. Do the right thing by all of your friends, and you haven't anything but the core of the apple left. People with real troubles do not care as much for sympathy as they do to have their trials as inconspicuous as possible. When a man says that he has not a friend in the town where he lives you can depend on it that the town is not so blame.

Friend's Youthful Fears.

Of the youthful hardships endured by James Anthony Froude a biographer says: "Conceiving that the child wanted spirit, Hurrell, his elder brother, once took him up by the heels and dived with his head to the mud at the bottom of a stream. Another time he threw him into deep water out of a boat to make him manly. But he was not satisfied by inspiring physical terror. Involving the aid of the preternatural, he taught his brother that the hollow behind the house was haunted by a monstrous and malevolent phantom, to which in the plenitude of his imagination he gave the name of Penhenge. Gradually the child discovered that Penhenge was an illusion and began to suspect that other ideas of Hurrell's might be illusions too."

The Flying Lizard of Java.

The curious little animals known as flying lizards (Draco volans) are only found in Java, and their strange appearance is supposed to have been the origin of the design of the medieval eastern imagination. The reptile is like an ordinary lizard, but is provided with folds of extensible skin which are spread out by the long ribs and enable the animal to glide through the air from tree to tree in pursuit of the insects on which it preys. When flying from one to the next it is an excellent example of "protective resemblance," as it is most difficult to be seen unless it moves.

He Made Sure.

A story is told of the Sudan railway which shows patent literalness. To an official there came the telegram from an outlying station: "Station master has died. Shall I bury him?"

The reply was sent: "Yes; bury station master, but please make sure he is really dead before you do so." To due time back came the message: "Have buried station master. Made sure he was dead by hitting him twice on the head with a fish plate." There was perfect assurance that there had been no premature burial.

A Man of Nerve.

He—I called to see you last evening. She—Yes? He—Yes, the servant told me you were not in. She—Yes, I was so sorry to have missed you. He—I thought you must be. I heard you laughing upstairs in such grief-stricken tones that I almost wept myself out of sympathy.

The Iteson.

Teacher—You've been a very good boy for the last day or two, Bobbie. I haven't seen you fighting with the other boys or romping in the school-room. Bobbie—Yes, I got a stiff neck.—Cleveland Leader.

AVERAGE HUMANITY.

Most People Are Not Very Good Nor Yet Very Bad.

What do we mean by a good man or a bad one, a good woman or a bad one? Most people, like the young man in the song, are "not very good, nor yet very bad." We move about the pastures of life in huge herds, and all do the same things at the same time and for the same reasons. "Forty feeding like one." Are we mean? Well, we have done some mean things in our time. Are we generous? Occasionally we are. Were we good sons or dutiful daughters? We have both honored and dishonored our parents, who in their turn had done the same by theirs. Do we merit the slight of misery? Indeed we do. Do we forget all about it when we have turned the corner? Frequently that is so. Do we expect to be put to open shame at the great day of judgment? We should be terribly frightened if this did not belong to the hope that amid the shocking revelations then for the first time made public our little affairs may fall to attract much notice. Judged by the standards of humanity, few people are either good or bad. "I have not been a great sinner," said the dying Nelson; nor had he—he had only been made a great fool of by a woman. Mankind is all tarred with the same brush, though some who chance to be operated upon when the brush is fresh from the barrel get more than their share of the tar. The biography of a celebrated man usually reminds me of the outside of a coat salesman's cottage—all tar and whitewash.—Essays of Augustine Birrell.

Madness.

"Americans know absolutely nothing of one of the greatest cities of all Europe," said a returned traveler. "I refer to Budapest. Do you believe it has over three-quarters of a million inhabitants and is famous in many of the arts and sciences? Take it as proof for it. Why, it has a university with nearly 5,000 students and 250 professors! The trolley was developed in Budapest. Most of the population is Magyar. Budapest has the finest Jewish synagogue in the empire. The Danube, discharging into the sea, is a beautiful stream, spanned by magnificent bridges. The largest electrical works in all Europe are in this wonderful city."—New York Press.

The hog breeders of this vicinity will find in the sale of Chester White and Duroc-Jersey brood sows to be sold at the brick barn in Wayne, Thursday, February 1, something first class. These sows are all bred and we are assured of the quality that will do our breeders good. Bear the date in mind.

At the meeting of the county board this week, bids were received for printing stationery, blanks, etc., and the Democrat was found to be the lowest bidder and was awarded the contract. The publishing of proceedings, tax list, legal notices, etc., was given to the Herald and Democrat at the same prices paid last year.

Mr. A. E. Littell, county superintendent, and Miss Elsie Ringler, teacher in the Winside schools, were licensed to wed by Judge Hunter yesterday afternoon, and the marriage ceremony was performed at Winside last evening.

The newly wedded couple will be present at Winside, where the bride will finish her term of school. They have many friends who join in wishing them happiness and prosperity.

A crowded house witnessed the presentation of Shakespeare's Julius Caesar by Sanford Dodge and his company Monday evening. Mr. Dodge fulfilled expectations in the leading role and had strong support in every character. The costumes and scenery were splendid and appropriate. The entertainment was intensely interesting and the audience enjoyed it from first to last.

The Wayne Speech and Dramatic Association held its annual meeting Monday night and received the reports of its secretary and treasurer which showed that its receipts from stock sold, subscription and receipts of the meeting of September last amounted to about $5000 and the expenditures for permanent improvements and expenses of fair to be about $1000 leaving a balance in the treasury of $1500. The old officers were all re-elected and the board of directors chosen were F. E. Strahan, Edward Perry, Ed. Owen, Dr. Hammond, Theo. Duerg, Jno. S. Lewis, and F. L. Neely; J. E. Marsteller chosen vice president. The spirit of a bigger and better fair for this year is in the air and the officers were instructed to make it a hummer.

The lover of good hogs will have a rare opportunity to get something out of the ordinary at the Duroc-Jersey brood sow sale of Robt. Pritchard to be held at Carroll, Nebraska, January 13. The sows are a great lot of good ones, bred in the purple and of rare individual quality and are bred to a boar for which Mr. Pritchard paid $275 at the great Kirkpatrick sale in Lincoln in October. He is one of the best of this great breed and being mated with the great sows of Pritchard must produce some wonderful pigs. Every sow sold will be a useful one because they are not only bred right, but have the individuality that marks them as being of the high class order and furthermore have been so kept as to their usefulness. The catalogues are ready for distribution and you can get one by simply dropping a card to Mr. Pritchard. Be prepared to attend the sale because it will take place on the date named regardless of weather. The sale will be in a comfortable tent right in the town of Carroll.

There are 700 students at the college now who need to have good teeth if they expect to do good work. We give special attention to the college students on Saturdays. Office over State Bank. Dr. ELLIS, Dentist.

All incubators will hatch some chickens but the Cypres will hatch more and better chickens than any other machine made or you can return it and get your money. See J. H. Kate at The John's store. Machine on exhibition.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

The farmers' institute for the winter will be held at Wayne, Friday and Saturday, February 2-3. It is time the people began preparation for making their meeting a great success. Interest and attendance will be amply repaid by the value to be gained. The people should make of the institute a large social gathering of agricultural people for the discussion of subjects that are of value to them, and for the promotion of all their interests. It should become a permanent feature of the educational side of the community.

The value of the institute will depend on the interest of the people of the community. It is up to you to see what they will, a success or a failure. The state management may perform its part well, and the speakers may give valuable addresses, but unless the people attend the meetings all the work will have been done in vain. You are paying taxes to support this work. You should come to the meetings and get the value of your money back. The time of such men as come here to address the people is valuable. There must be a full house at every meeting if the community is to receive the value it should from the meetings.

The progressive farmers will attend the institute. No time need be spent in telling them to come out. But the farmers who do not usually leave the farm should be stirred up. The women and young people should be brought out. Every institute has something of value for them, as well as for the experienced farmer.

The subjects that will be discussed are of practical interest to every farmer. The men who will speak are practical and successful farmers who are recognized as leaders in their lines of work. Everybody should make plans for attending every session of the institute.

The large enrollment has necessitated the adding of several new classes to the program and also the dividing of some of the larger classes. Several of the students are assisting with the work, also Mrs. Pile teaches several classes.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Rev. Young conducted chapel exercises Wednesday morning, and spoke to the students.

The students of the violin and abatement departments will give a recital in the chapel next Saturday evening under the direction of Miss Yakub.

At the meeting of the graduating classes the following officers were elected: President, Mr. Humpl; vice president, Miss Lush; secretary, Miss Ellis.

A reception was held for the new students Saturday evening. The receiving line consisted of the officers of the two christian associations. After introductions a pleasant program was rendered, among the speakers being Rev. Duley.

The enrollment this term is the largest in the history of the school. Some one has started the statement that no more students can be accommodated but such is not the case, as provision has been made to take care of all who may wish to enroll.

The large enrollment has necessitated the adding of several new classes to the program and also the dividing of some of the larger classes. Several of the students are assisting with the work, also Mrs. Pile teaches several classes.

A few Sundays ago a little four-year-old Wayne girl had gotten ready for Sunday school pretty early and her mother suggested that she go to church and then be there for Sunday school. The little one counted her pennies and replied "I can't do it mamma, I haven't got money enough."

B. P. Peterson of Carroll, was doing business in Wayne Friday. He has been busy for several weeks selling property and shaping his affairs preparatory to moving to Colorado Springs, Colorado, where he goes this week with his family. He makes the move in the hope of benefiting Mrs. Peterson's health.

W. H. Morris and wife of Wayne, Nebraska, were in the past week visiting friends here and at Tabor. Mr. Morris, who was formerly with the First National Bank at this place, now has a fine business in the dry goods line at Wayne in connection with his brother-in-law, Wm. Orr, formerly of Tabor.—Malvern (Iowa) Leader.

The biggest real estate deal of the year in Mills county took place this week, whereby Amos Everingham sells his farm in Lyons township to Elliott Lowe of Harlan county, Nebraska. Mr. Everingham's 580 1/2 acres are priced at $50,000, and traded for Mr. Elliott's 700 acres in Harlan county. Mr. Lowe is an ex-state senator for his county, and it is not known whether he intends to remove here. The deal was made by Onas Ogden, formerly of this county.—Glenwood (Iowa) Opinion.

Dr. Lelsnering has been taking extraordinary precautions of late in running his automobile on the country roads. A few days ago the writer was driving in the country when a team was observed approaching on a dead run. We pulled our team to one side to allow the runaways, as we supposed them to be, full right of way but just as they passed us at a two minute clip the driver cautioned us in tones of thunder to "look out, the automobile was coming," and sure enough it came. Onridders are an innovation in automobilizing.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weber Sr., celebrated their golden wedding at their home in Florence on New Year's day. Fifty years ago they were married at Bloomington, Illinois. Both Mr. and Mrs. Weber are of German descent. Mr. Weber coming to America from the old country in 1852. Mrs. Weber came soon after with a sister. Her maiden name was Ruttler. Shortly after arrival at Bloomington, Illinois, she made the acquaintance of Mr. Weber and January 1, 1856 they were married. They journeyed from St. Louis by boat to Omaha, where they landed in June, 1857. Mr. and Mrs. Weber settled in Omaha until Mr. Weber built a house in Florence, which was south of the city park as it now is. The old house has been destroyed for some years. They only remained in Omaha two months, as Florence was a larger town at that time than Omaha and the prospects were brighter. Mr. Weber's first business in Florence was a bakery, but after a short time he went into the old water mill with Hunter & Graham. In 1865 he purchased the entire mill, which was then run by water power. Mr. Weber put in steam power more than twenty years ago on account of the increase in business. The firm name at present is Weber & Son. Jacob Weber Jr., is associated in business with his father. Mr. and Mrs. Weber have had four sons and two daughters born to them, Emil, William R., Walter, Jacob Jr., Mrs. P. D. Smith and Mrs. A. C. Griffin. All the children are married and have families, and were present with their children at the golden wedding. There has never been a death in any of the children's families or their own. All of the sons learned the miller's trade under their father. Mr. and Mrs. Weber have had good health up to the past year, when both were sick, but fully recovered, and both are well and strong at the present time. Mrs. Weber is 73 years of age and Mr. Weber is 73.—Sunday's Omaha Bee.

An Irrigated Farm

An irrigated farm is one of the surest roads to successful agricultural career. The

today offers the greatest inducements of any place where the reclaiming of the desert is being put into practical effect. The country of which Billings, Montana, is the center is unsurpassed in the many inducements it offers. There is an abundance of water furnished by the Great Yellowstone, capital has constructed the canals and the lands of the great Huntley Flat are being put on the market at prices and terms that make them very attractive. The city of Billings contains over 7,000 people and it and the great mining cities with which it is in direct communication furnish most excellent home markets for everything the land can produce. A

CHAS. W. REYNOLDS, Clerk.

DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE.

Charles Devine, a Philadelphia letter carrier, has been arrested for robbing the United States mails.

In his career may be found a striking parallel to Stevenson's weird tale of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

When sober, Devine was an honest, industrious, capable worker. But let him take a few drinks of whiskey and his whole nature changed. As the detective put it:

"His eyes would draw nearer together, his mouth narrow to a thin slit and a general air of crafty cunning was noticeable by a close observer."

No matter how much he was intoxicated, Devine never showed it by a flushed face or thick utterance or staggering gait. The cunning thief covered up his tracks for several years.

As if by a magician's wand the invisible spirit of wile transformed this man from an honest worker to a shifty fiend.

And there are others.

Many a man is all right when he is sober and all wrong when he drinks.

He may not be changed into a cunning original like Devine, but the devil in him, baged, will come out roaring, shaken with rage and lusting to inflict pain.

He who pampers his appetite for liquor will find like Dr. Jekyll that "the insurgent horror is knit to him closer than a wife, closer than an eye; lay a finger in his flesh where he hears it mutter and feels its struggles to be born."

So long as Mr. Hyde waited for him round the corner Dr. Jekyll was never safe.

So long as a few drinks at the corner saloon will release the brute that is in him, no man is safe.—Omaha News.
