LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS

G. E. French came down from Win- side Monday morning.

John T. Bressler made a business trip to Omaha yesterday.

H. F. Slaughter of Naper, Nebraska, has been here this week visiting the family of Henry Hanson.

An extra taste of winter in the way of snow was dished out Monday, but Tuesday dawned clear and pleasant.

Mark Stringer of University Place, Nebraska, has been visiting relatives and friends in Wayne the past week.

Ralph Randall left Tuesday afternoon for Omaha to join the Wayne party en route to the Big Horn Basin.

The passenger train from the west was late Monday morning on account of the engine leaving the track at Norfolk.

Mrs. J. J. Williams entertained a party of about thirty at cards Friday evening. The time was pleasantly spent.

"A lie is deceit for personal advantage," says John D. Hookfelder to his Sunday school class, and he ought to know.

The Fremont Tribune appropriately remarks that Senator Depew's name is now pronounced with renewed emphasis on the last syllable.

The A. O. U. W. and Degree of Honor will have joint installation of officers on the 26th inst. All members are urged to be present.

Though the weather has been too warm for the making of ice thus far, there is no need as yet to worry over the prospect of that harvest.

Dr. Jones, of Omaha, was called here last Friday by the illness of Mrs. R. E. K. Mellor, whose condition he found satisfactory and promising steady recovery.

Chas. Robbins and wife left Tuesday afternoon for Chicago, where Mr. Robbins will finish buying the new stock of goods for the store which he proposes to open in Wayne next month.

It is reported that the pupils of the high school under the management of the principal who succeeded Mr. King after the holidays, have yielded to good order and are making satisfactory progress in their studies.

Robt. I. Elliott who is succeeded as county superintendent by A. E. Littell, departed Monday morning for Lincoln where he will enter the university as a law student. Mr. Elliott is a young man of exceptional brightness and promise.

J. Edgar Moir went to Wayne Monday where on Tuesday he left for Aberdeen, Wash., with H. Beckenhauer. We understand that J. G. Moir and wife and the balance of the family will leave for Washington in the spring.

W. K. Peterson and family of Carroll, departed from here Tuesday morning for Colorado Springs, where they go to spend the balance of the winter. Mr. Peterson is uncertain what he will do in the spring. The family is accompanied by the best wishes of many Wayne county friends.

O. H. Kuhl and S. C. Lane expect to move to Mortenson county, North Dakota, next March, to engage in farming and stock raising. The main reason for the change on the part of Mr. Kuhl is to benefit the health of Mrs. Kuhl. He expects to resign as clerk of court about the first of February to take effect March 1.

Rev. O. S. Hughes, formerly of Carroll, evidently thinks Pender is a wicked spot on the earth's surface. In the last issue of the Republic is a sermon from his pen of more than three columns, on the subject "If Christ Should Come to Pender." He tackles the saloons and the failure to enforce laws with considerable vigor.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hurst, D. E. Miller, Ed Hardy, Oscar Edwards, Wm. Willis and Homer Sacco started Tuesday morning for the Big Horn country, Wyoming. Mr. and Mrs. Hurst expect to locate at Basin, near which place they own an irrigated ranch of eighty acres. The others will look over the country with a view of investment or employment.

The judging in the Wayne county boys corn growing contest, conducted by the superintendent of instruction, will be one of the features of the Farmers' Institute February 2 and 3, and we are informed there are many contestants and the competition for the prizes will be a sharp one. Come and encourage the boys in their work and at the same time get some very practical ideas as to what constitutes the best for seed.

Among the Indians on the Yellowstone reservation there is a religious organization called the Menca society, among whose religious rites is the eating of a kind of bean imported from Mexico, and which has a very deleterious effect on the red-skins. The beans convert them into wild lunatics for a time, and one died recently as a result. The society meets once a week, but the orgies last nearly a week, so as a matter of fact their sessions are almost continuous. It is said the beans are more injurious than fire-water.

The irrigated lands in the Yellowstone valley around Billings, Montana, grow great crops of alfalfa to perfection, for which there is always a good market right at home. Wheat, oats, barley and potatoes also grow here in an abundance that would be almost beyond belief by the farmer of the prairie lands of the middle west. The Billings Land and Live Stock Company of Billings, Montana, have 25,000 acres of new land with an abundance of water ready to irrigate for sale at very reasonable prices.

Arthur Chace, the ten-year-old son of Chas. Chace, had an experience Tuesday that he will not forget for some time. He found some powder and thought he would put it into the stove to frighten his sisters with the explosion. He threw the powder into the stove and awaited results. The powder did not explode at once, and Arthur looked to see why. The powder exploded as he looked and his face was badly burned and eyelashes and eyebrows badly singed. His little sister was scorching too as she was looking at the same time. The injuries are not serious.—Stanton Register.

Robert Elliott was in Stanton and other parts of the county for a few days, arriving Saturday. Robert taught for one year at Canada and then went to Pilger where he taught two years and was again re-elected but declined to serve. After leaving Pilger he was engaged as mathematical instructor at the Wayne Normal and when that institution of learning was dismissed for the vacation Robert was appointed county superintendent of schools and served until the first. His parents now reside at University Place, where Robert is now going and will enter the state university and study law. He is a talented young man and success is indelibly stamped on whatever he undertakes.—Stanton Pickeet.

The republican party, locally or generally, is more fair, impartial and business like than the democratic organization. For instance, in Stanton county a democratic board gave the public printing to a democratic paper in the face of a much lower bid by a republican paper, while in Wayne county a republican board awarded the contract for job printing to a democratic paper because its bid was the lowest. We have never heard of an instance where in such fairness was shown by a democratic organization to anything or anyone republican. Usually struggling in the minority may make democrats more ornate and, when given power, more arbitrary and unrepresentative.

Welsh Vanderbilt, the great boar at the head of Robert Pritchard's herd of Duroc-Jersey, is one of the great representatives of this wonderful breed of pork makers. The sows to be sold at his great sale January 28, are all bred to this great male and Mr. Pritchard writes us, are in the very best of condition to make them very useful to breeders. Mr. Pritchard bought this boar at W. A. Kirkpatrick's Lincoln, Nebraska, sale in October, for $275, and good judges consider him one of the greatest herd heads in the state today. If you are a lover of good hogs, the kind that produce the greatest number of pounds of pork at the lowest cost, the kind that combine prolificacy with a rare hardiness, don't fail to be present at the sale and take advantage of the opportunity it will present to get something really good.

A little war is on in Stanton county over the superintendency to which a republican by the name of Coney was elected, but which office a democrat, Mr. Hyland, refuses to vacate on the alleged ground that Coney was not properly qualified at the time of the election by reason of the law requiring superintendents to hold first grade certificates. Coney failed to reach the necessary standing in one or two examinations, but finally passed satisfactorily. In the meantime, however, the democratic superintendent, concluding that Coney was not a qualified heir to the throne, had prepared his mind to hang on and now proposes to do so if possible, having the sympathy of a county board, a majority of whose members are democrats. The conflict will land in the courts. Notice has been served on Hyland that application will be made to the supreme court to secure a writ of mandamus to oust him from the office.

WAYNE NEEDS NEW ENTERPRISES.

Wayne shows a slow, steady, permanent growth, but its size and business cannot be largely increased until new enterprises are undertaken. The ambition of the town to expand can be realized only when the basis for much expansion is secured. We need some things to bring people here and give them profitable employment. Improvements and industries may be obtained gradually and would be attended by a largely increased population and give stability to the town as a business center. Improvements should be practical and of genuine value. A canning factory, for instance, appeals to one as an institution that would require comparatively little capital to start and that would bring ample profit to those whose money is put into it. At the same time it would offer opportunities for labor, stimulate and render more profitable various branches of horticulture and indirectly benefit every avenue of business and trade. It is a venture that would not be materially injured by lack of cheap fuel and competitive railroad rates. This industry is only one of several that could be established on a small scale in Wayne and be made to develop and enlarge, adding to the prosperity and wealth of the entire community.

An appreciable contribution to the present population and activity of the town is the Normal college. Its 700 students are not only an important acquisition, but they have brought many families here in addition. To facilitate the growth of the college and increase its benefits to the town, however, a new building—one large enough to accommodate an increased enrollment certain to follow—is indispensable. A purely selfish motive should arouse the town's interest in providing for the growth of the college. It is one of the essentials to be considered in preparing for a greater future.

In this connection reference may appropriately be made to the decaying and out-of-date public school buildings which should be replaced by modern structures as soon as practicable to do so.

Another improvement that is necessary in the course of development is some means of sewerage. It has been suggested that what is known as the septic system would be effective and comparatively inexpensive.

The HERALD has called attention to only a few advance steps which should be taken if the town desires to add many to its population or much to its business and wealth. Substantial basis for development must be provided, otherwise the town will make little progress.

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused It to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert restoring the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the woman of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first secretary was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they were distributed by the Pinkhams sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-evident, for wherever used it promptly did it, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combining efforts, the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were rapid. Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed away peacefully, aged 60, but still she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work, and she was ever ready to give a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—received careful study, and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference. To-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of women's ailments, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham, who was carefully instructed in all her father's knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originality passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and her treatment of women's ailments, from simple roots and herbs, is the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

An EPISODE OF 1793.

With love of gold upon his brow,
And pride in his every hair,
A courtly smile upon his lip,
He paused beside the scaffold stair.

The headman waited, cowed and grim,
With strains of crimson on his bark;
But over her slender hand he bent;
"Let me go first, the way is dark."

She wore a filmy kerchief crossed,
A flowered gown of rich brocade;
Her silken slippers, sewn with pearls,
By prison hoops were soiled and frayed.

When last they met his ribboned brow
Made music in a moonlit hour,
But now their love had come to this,
"Let me go first, the way is dark."

She gathered close the kerchief's fold,
To hide the besting of her hair;
But answered softly as he went,
"This but a moment that we part."

The crowd grew dim, and far away,
She seemed to hear a morning lark
And all his song was lost to words,
"Let me go first, the way is dark."

Though both are dead for many a year,
These heroes of a troubled life,
Yet knight and lady live to-day
In sweet romance and silver rhyme.

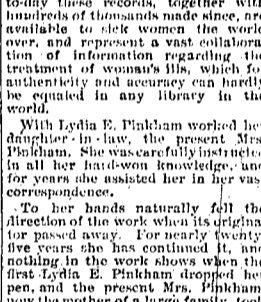

Among the heroes of the old and dark
They shine with never fading light,
His words upon the scaffold stair,
"Let me go first, the way is dark."

HIS SKETCH.

It was a busy time with farmers, and Tom did not go to the village for several days, hence when he handed Miss Linton a square envelope, sealed with the letter L, in blue, she was amazed to learn that her nephew's draughter, from New York, would spend the summer with them, and arrive that evening.

"How old is she, Miss Emily?" asked Rosa, the maid, who if company must come, hoped they would be fashionable.

"I do not know, Rosa, but suspect Bessie is but a child, for our nephew speaks of her as his 'little girl,'" replied Miss Emily.

Tom drove to the station, and on his return, a beautiful young girl was sent in the old-fashioned burche. Her gown far exceeded Rosa's expectations, and the quick intuition of which she had been the bearer of the burche caused her aunt's heart to dwell with pride and admiration.

"Why, my dear, I thought you were a child," said Miss Linton, embracing her warmly.

"That is papa's worst fault," continued Bessie, "for he will persist in calling me his 'little girl,' in spite of the fact that I make my debut next winter. I tell mamma he will want to introduce me as one then."

She was out gathering flowers when her aunt came to breakfast, and declared she knew she would enjoy every moment of her visit.

Her kind disposition at once made friends of Tom and Rosa, but nothing she could do would win the favor of a flock of geese her aunts possessed. They became more aggressive each time they saw the results of encounters with them.

The most desperate attack occurred one morning on her way to the village. She had on a pink gown and a large white hat, and started off merrily, singing in her glee. On one side of the road was a wooded valley, cool and enticing, and on the other a farm where a boy was working.

Bessie was so engrossed with the scenery that she did not realize the proximity of a neighbor's flock of geese until, feeling something fugging at her skirt, she looked down and saw one large gray goose pulling at her skirts, several picking at her shoes, while the rest were grouped about her and quacking so lustily that her blood fairly froze.

She gave one scream, and tried to jump out of the railing that spanned the bridge, but her screams proved too strong. Her screams attracted the farmer's attention, and he came to her rescue with a stout stick, saying: "They won't hurt you, miss; they hadn't got no sense."

Her skirt was literally in ribbons. As soon as she was out of sight and hearing, a young man, who had been sketching in the valley close by, burst out laughing, saying:

"Well, that is the richest thing I have seen. What a pretty girl, and a stranger too. I'll wager, for no one here has her style. I must ask aunt Fannie who she is."

He was doubly surprised to see her a few days afterward, seated on his aunt's porch in company with some elderly ladies.

"There he comes," exclaimed Mrs. Vane, waving her hand to her nephew. She had been expatiating on his remarkably fine qualities, and informed her guests that he was to leave in the fall for Italy to study art.

Bessie had been an attentive listener, wondering if he could be Stella Elder's brother of whom she had heard so much but had never met.

Gerold thought it no wonder that his sister admired Bessie Linton, for she

THE CALL OF THE CANADIAN WEST.

The Greatest Wealth Crop of the Continent.

The year that has just closed has done a great deal towards showing the possibilities of Western Canada from an agricultural standpoint. The wheat crop has run very near to the 100,000,000 bushel mark that was looked upon as too sanguine an estimate only a short time ago, and the area that has been broken to fall wheat for the coming harvest will go a long way towards enabling the farmers of the West to overlap on the 100,000,000 bushel estimate next year. And while the spring and winter wheat have been doing so well during the past few years the other cereals have been keeping up with the procession. Rye and barley have made immense strides, and peas and flax have been moving steadily along. Dairying also has been successfully carried on in the new provinces, and in every stage the farmer has been "striking it rich."

To such an extent has the success of the West taken hold of outsiders that the rush of Americans to Saskatchewan and Alberta, which was looked upon as a nervous excess in 1900, and as there are still millions of acres of free homestead available, which the building of the new railways will render accessible to the markets, new wheat lands will be opened up ere long. Amongst the first to avail himself of the opportunity presented will be the American settler. In a large number of American cities, doubtless government agents are located, who are able and willing to give the latest and best information in regard to the new districts which the railways will open up, and there will be no abatement of the rush to the Canadian prairies during the coming season. Some time since a poet in the columns of the "Toronto Star" had the following stirring lines, which throbb of the Western spirit:

Numerous Pictures.
Bacon—I see the Baron has two oil paintings in one of his rooms.
Egbert—They are his ancestors, I suppose.
"But in another one close by there are hundreds of pictures."
"Yes, no doubt they are his creditors."

Reason for Yelling.
She—Why, those men at the Stock Exchange run about, yelling like a lot of crazy men.
He—Well, I guess you'd yell like a crazy man if you paid $300,000 for a seat and then couldn't sit down.

looked so dainty and winsome, in a cool, white dress, with a spray of honeysuckle twining in her hair.

The sketches were duly commented upon, but when the one in particular was reached, Bessie's cheeks grew crimson, and looked longingly at Gerold, she asked, "Where were you then?"

"Not far away," he replied, and as she laughed, good naturedly, he did also.

That was the beginning of that seemed all too short for both, for the idea of a chaperon did not present itself to the Misses Linton, and the young people were free to roam about as they chose.

In such close companionship, Gerold fully realized what these days meant to him.

He thought it would not be fair to extract any promise from her before she had had a chance to choose for herself, among others more worthy than he. At times he feared for such opportunities to come. Then, again from some little word or sign, perhaps unconscious with her, he would see that she cared for him more than she knew, and he would take fresh courage.

In one respect he was correct, for Bessie had not analyzed her feelings for him, but when the day came for him to leave, and she thought of the future without him, her heart grew faint, and she realized that she cared for him more than she was a friend.

People wondered why the belle, Miss Linton, did not marry. It was strange, indeed, for she had had scores of splendid offers, but for some unknown reason refused every suit.

During those years she had not heard from Gerold, but she had been through his family and the press. He had won a great name, was looked upon as the best artist of the city, his pictures had met with the warmest enthusiasm and been purchased by connoisseurs of both lands.

When it became known that he was to return to his home, society and the world of artists made preparations to receive him. Arrangements were made for a public exhibition of his works, and its opening was a marked success.

The artist, however, did not make his appearance until early one morning. There was a number of people present, but his quick eye scanned them all, and at last rested on one figure he remembered so well.

She, too, had gone early, as she wished to be alone when looking upon the pictures she had been so anxious to see. Among the many that graced the walls she recognized not a few familiar scenes, and her heart beat rapidly to know that the days of long ago had not been forgotten.

The gem of the collection, however, was surrounded by a number of people, and when they had departed she took a seat on one of the benches near it.

It was called "A Wayside Study," and the little sketch had grown in to magnificent proportions. She remembered, then, of reading that the artist had refused fabulous sums for it, preferring to retain it for his own.

She was so occupied with her own thoughts that she did not know any one was watching her. He stood gazing at her loveliness, and when she passed her glove over her eyes, came and sat down by her.

"Do you like it, then?" he asked.

Bessie looked up quickly, and saw the one of whom she had never ceased thinking. Her face grew rosy with blushes, but her eyes sparkled as she replied: "How could I help it?"

"Does it not prove to you that there has only been one woman to me since I met you? I know it must, and now that I have waited so long, do you not think that I am entitled to my original model?"

She looked up indignantly, and, resting a side glance at the picture, replied, as she slipped her hand in his: "I really hope you do not mean the geese."—The Philadelphia Item.

PHARISEE WANTED.

A rural colonial parson, finding great difficulty in paying his way owing to the lack of punctuality with which his flock paid their tithes, recently hit upon an excellent plan for getting backsliders a gentle hint. Taking as the text of his sermon the story of the pharisee and the Pharisee, he read out, "Two men went up into the temple to pray; the one a Pharisee and the other a publican. The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself, 'God, I thank Thee that I am not as other men are... I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I possess.' Here the parson paused significantly, and looking hard at his flock, remarked, 'I could sit with a few Pharisees in this congregation.'

FOUR YEARS OF AGONY.

Whole Foot Nothing but Proud Flesh—Had to Use Cuticura Remedies the Best on Earth.

"In the year 1898 the side of my right foot was cut off from the little toe down to the heel, and the physician who had charge of me was trying to sew up the side of my foot, but with no success. At last my whole foot and my leg were cut off, and I was left with a stump of my leg. I am now working at the present day, after five years of suffering. The cost of Cuticura Ointment and Soap was only $6; but the doctor's bills were more like $600. John M. Lloyd, 718 S. Arch Ave., Alliance, Ohio, June 27, 1905."

ENERGETIC MRS. KIPLING.

As a Girl She Helped Scrub Floor of a Infested Church.

When Mrs. Rutland Kipling was a young girl, she went out to Colorado with her brother, Walcott Balesler, and lived with him at Saluda, then a mountain railroad town in the earlier and rougher stages of its history. Living in the same town was a Mr. Thayer, who was connected with the management of the Denver and Rio Grande Road. His wife, Mrs. Emma Homan Thayer, has published a number of books, of which "Wild Flowers of the Rockies" and "Wild Flowers of the Pacific Coast" are best known, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Their daughter, Miss Thayer, and Miss Balesler, became great friends, and Mrs. Thayer used to tell in later years how the two girls secured the first Episcopal service in Saluda. They went to the late Bishop Spaulding in Denver, who replied to them that if they would secure a place for the service he would send a clergyman. The girls canvassed the town, but the only place they could find that was suitable was a room back of a saloon.

They rented this room, wrote the bishop, posted notices and did everything to insure a good service. Late Saturday afternoon before the important Sunday, Mrs. Thayer went down to the room. It had been charmingly decorated with mountain wild flowers, an organ moved in and everything prepared for the service. But, alas! the woman who had promised to scrub the floor had failed them, and such labor was almost impossible to get to the altar. So Miss Thayer and Miss Balesler, with pails and pails of hot water secured from the saloon-keeper's wife, went down on their knees and scrubbed the floor.

Through their efforts an Episcopal church was later established in Saluda, and Miss Thayer married its clergyman, the Rev. J. Wallace Ohi.

Americans in Korea.

Americans have done more for Korea than the people of any other nation, writes Frank G. Carpenter. It was our naval vessels which first unlocked its doors to the world and our missionaries gave it the first taste of western civilization and of the Christian religion. Our traders were among the first importers, and our capitalists built the first railroad. Americans now own most of the valuable gold mines and are developing them.

The electric railway at Seoul belongs to Americans, and its electric light company is an American institution. It is the same with the Seoul water works, and also with the national bank, the charter of which was given to an American. There are now 210 Americans in Korea. Of these 100 live in Seoul, 65 are working in the gold mines at Usan, 34 live in Pihyang, and 10 are associated with the railroads.

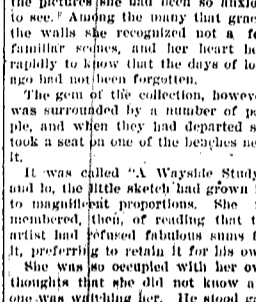

Five Americans are in the service of the Korean government, and the confidential foreign adviser of the King on the part of the Japanese is also an American. The man who has done more than any other for western civilization in Korea, more to render the life of foreigners safe there and more to advance the interests of the United States is Dr. Horace N. Allen, former minister to Seoul, who has recently given up his work there and returned to the United States.

AN EVERY-DAY STRUGGLE.

Too Many Women Carry the Heavy Load of Kidney Sickness.

Mrs. E. W. Wright of 112 Main Street, Lowell, Mass., says: "I have been suffering with kidney trouble for several years, and I have tried many remedies, but I could not get about the house. The kidney pills were also quite irregular. Monthly periods were so distressing I dreaded their approach. This was my condition for four years. Your Kidney Pills helped me right away when I began with them and three boxes cured me permanently."

PHARISEE WANTED.

A rural colonial parson, finding great difficulty in paying his way owing to the lack of punctuality with which his flock paid their tithes, recently hit upon an excellent plan for getting backsliders a gentle hint. Taking as the text of his sermon the story of the pharisee and the Pharisee, he read out, "Two men went up into the temple to pray; the one a Pharisee and the other a publican. The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself, 'God, I thank Thee that I am not as other men are... I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I possess.' Here the parson paused significantly, and looking hard at his flock, remarked, 'I could sit with a few Pharisees in this congregation.'

FOUR YEARS OF AGONY.

Whole Foot Nothing but Proud Flesh—Had to Use Cuticura Remedies the Best on Earth.

"In the year 1898 the side of my right foot was cut off from the little toe down to the heel, and the physician who had charge of me was trying to sew up the side of my foot, but with no success. At last my whole foot and my leg were cut off, and I was left with a stump of my leg. I am now working at the present day, after five years of suffering. The cost of Cuticura Ointment and Soap was only $6; but the doctor's bills were more like $600. John M. Lloyd, 718 S. Arch Ave., Alliance, Ohio, June 27, 1905."

ENERGETIC MRS. KIPLING.

As a Girl She Helped Scrub Floor of a Infested Church.

When Mrs. Rutland Kipling was a young girl, she went out to Colorado with her brother, Walcott Balesler, and lived with him at Saluda, then a mountain railroad town in the earlier and rougher stages of its history. Living in the same town was a Mr. Thayer, who was connected with the management of the Denver and Rio Grande Road. His wife, Mrs. Emma Homan Thayer, has published a number of books, of which "Wild Flowers of the Rockies" and "Wild Flowers of the Pacific Coast" are best known, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Their daughter, Miss Thayer, and Miss Balesler, became great friends, and Mrs. Thayer used to tell in later years how the two girls secured the first Episcopal service in Saluda. They went to the late Bishop Spaulding in Denver, who replied to them that if they would secure a place for the service he would send a clergyman. The girls canvassed the town, but the only place they could find that was suitable was a room back of a saloon.

They rented this room, wrote the bishop, posted notices and did everything to insure a good service. Late Saturday afternoon before the important Sunday, Mrs. Thayer went down to the room. It had been charmingly decorated with mountain wild flowers, an organ moved in and everything prepared for the service. But, alas! the woman who had promised to scrub the floor had failed them, and such labor was almost impossible to get to the altar. So Miss Thayer and Miss Balesler, with pails and pails of hot water secured from the saloon-keeper's wife, went down on their knees and scrubbed the floor.

Through their efforts an Episcopal church was later established in Saluda, and Miss Thayer married its clergyman, the Rev. J. Wallace Ohi.

Nothing in it.

"Mr. Dudley has a very small head, don't you think so, papa?"

"It does look small, my son, but there's no doubt it's much too large for its present purpose."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Come Again

During the past few days we have had many customers that we could not wait on as our help was not sufficient for the rush that attended our special sale of clothing. This sale will not permit us to employ extra help as it has no profit. We therefore invite all that did not get waited on to come again. We were a little surprised to find the people so willing to take our goods after so many "closing out sales" (?) having been advertised in Wayne lately, but we find the people are ever ready to take real bargains in up-to-date clothing. When a man realizes that he can get a good suit, fit to wear anywhere for $4.90 he is not slow to take it, and if he has a boy and can dress him up for $1.90 he don't pass anything of that kind. A good cap for 25 cents looks well and feels comfortable these frosty mornings. A fine, up-to-date overcoat at $4.90, good enough to go to church in will not be passed by any man who has seen it.

Don't Wait

This sale will close on January 29 and many people will call for these bargains long after this sale closes. Everything will then be marked back at old prices, and you will miss it if you wait too long.

The farmers' institute to be held here on February 2 and 3 ought to be well attended. While some of the speakers may be quite theoretical, yet the hard-headed, practical farmer will be able to winnow the chaff from the wheat and get much of value to him in the operation of the farm.

prevails. The sales are well attended and meritorious articles either in stock or implements bring good prices, but buyers are quite particular and discriminating between the poor and good stuff. This is particularly true in live stock. While the really meritorious animals find ready sale at good big prices, the poorly bred or carelessly kept are not receiving the attention their owners would like to see, but sell at all times for all they are worth and many times for more. It is the well bred horse, cow or hog that is profitable to the owner and this seems to be more fully realized by buyers than ever before.

At the prices The 2 Johns are advertising clothing at their special sale we see no good reason why any one need wear old clothing.

People should bear in mind the farmers' institute scheduled for this place February 2 and 3, and take a few days off and attend. Hon. Henry Wallace, a widely known authority on live stock and agricultural subjects, will be here to give an address, and the fact that he will speak at only three other points in the state is complimentary to Wayne county.

I will continue to implement business at the old stand of the Theo Wolf implement Co with a new and as complete a line as found in any up-to-date implement store.

A person would think clothing was free to see the crowd at The 2 Johns during the past week. Their special sale is certainly a success.

A CONVICT'S ROMANCE

ODD WAY IN WHICH A LIFE PRISONER WON HIS FREEDOM.

The story of the construction of the Old House at Albany—The Price of a Genius Who Saw and Grasped His Opportunity.

Vouched for by the late Henry Smith, who said he learned the fact through being speaker of the assembly, there is an interesting bit of history connected with the old statehouse at Albany, where it has stood for years, the finest example of pure Doric architecture in this country, on the easterly side of Eagle street, between Pine and Steuben streets, its walls and partitions all of solid stone, very much as if its halls, rooms and stairs had been carved out within a huge block of marble.

It was completed in 1842, costing the state about $350,000. It is built entirely of Sing Sing marble, quarried and cut within the prison walls.

The old capitol being inadequate to accommodate the increasing business of the state, this additional building was planned and built and is still used for the offices of the state comptroller, the state engineer and surveyor and the state banking department.

In a spirit of economy it was decided to have as much as possible of the work done by the prisoners from the material found within the prison walls, at Sing Sing, fairly good material, too, but not the best, as it is a soft marble, as evidenced by the wear which now shows so plainly in the steps and by the crumbling of some of the stones from exposure to the weather.

To accomplish this detailed plan a system of marking the stones was necessary. The plans were carefully made and a system of marking elaborately laid out by the architect in charge, who found in the prison at Sing Sing a life prisoner whose record showed him to be an engineer of the highest ability and who seemed as competent as any man in the country to carry out the work to be done in the prison, and naturally he was not unwilling to follow his chosen profession in preference to doing the manual labor of cutting or quarrying stone.

In due time the stones in their various shapes and sizes and in quantity for the whole building were delivered in Albany and the work of construction commenced in accordance with the plans and system of marking originally furnished. With the very first stone there was trouble. It not only did not fit the place, but none of the stones marked to adjust it fitted it, and, further, it did not seem ever intended for the place the number indicated.

Investigation brought out that the stones were not of the sizes or shapes specified and shown on the plans, and, as to the system of marking, it was quite evident that the stones brought together by it had no relation whatever to each other.

A clerical correspondent of one of the London church papers relates that a certain parrot had great difficulty in suppressing his laughter at the consecration of a church the other day owing to the device on one of the school banners which were carried in the procession before the service.

part in the banquet in Jupiter's temple, according to the ancient custom, which drew, every one of them, to Tibur, so that nobody was left at Rome to play during the sacrifices. This incident shocked the religious sentiment of the senate, and the senators sent messengers to invite the inhabitants of Tibur to make every effort in order that the players should be restored to the Romans. The Tiburines, having promised not to neglect anything necessary for that purpose, caused the flute players to come to the place where the senate met and exhorted them to go back to Rome. Seeing that they could not prevail upon them to do so, they employed a stratagem in keeping with their character.

On a day of festival under pretext that music would increase the joy of the feast every citizen invited the flute players individually to his house, and wine, of which people of that profession are usually fond, was given to them in such quantities that they fell into a deep sleep. They were then thrown into wagons and transported to Rome. They only became aware of what had happened on the day after, when dawn surprised them lying on the carts, which had been left in the forum. A large crowd had assembled, and they were induced to promise that they would remain at Rome. The right of attending the banquets was restored to these flute players.

ANCIENT LIGHTHOUSES.

Beacon Lights For Mariners Coeval With the Earliest Commerce. Beacon lights to guide the waves tossed mariner to a safe harbor must have been almost coeval with the earliest commerce. There is positive record that lighthouses were built in ancient times, though few evidences now remain to us from old writers or in crumbling ruins. This is not strange, for light towers, never the most stable architectural form, were exposed to the storms of sea and war.

The Greeks attributed the first lighthouses to Hercules, and he was considered the protector of voyagers. It is claimed by some that Homer refers to lighthouses in the nineteenth book of the "Iliad."

Virgil mentions a light on a temple to Apollo which, visible far out at sea, warned and guided mariners. The Colossus at Rhodes, erected about 300 B. C., is said to have shown a signal light from its uplifted hand.

The oldest towers known were built by the Egyptians in Lower Egypt. They were built on rocky islands and the lightkeepers taught pilotage, hydrography and navigation. The famous tower on the Isle of Pharos at Alexandria, built about 285 B. C., is the first lighthouse of undoubted record. This tower, constructed by Sostratus, the architect, was square in plan, of great height and built in octets. An open brazier at the top of the tower contained the fuel for the light. At Dover and Boulogne, on either side of the English channel, were ancient lighthouses built by the Romans. But the lighthouse at Coruna, Spain, built in the reign of Trajan and reconstructed in 1034, is believed to be the oldest existing lighthouse.

The Humming Bird Flower. Altered analysis, the wonderful so-called "humming bird flower" of the plains of eastern Turkey, stands unique and alone among the many specimens of floral mimicry that have been classified by modern botanists. It is a beautiful blossom of variegated hues, the total length of the entire flower being about one and three-quarter inches. As one might imagine from its name, it is an exact image of a miniature humming bird. The breast is green, the wings deep rose color, the throat yellow and the head and beak almost pure black. The only particular in which it does not resemble a bird is that the stem gives the appearance of having but a single leg and foot.

AN AFGHAN CUSTOM. An Afghan is bound by custom to grant a stranger who crosses his threshold and claims protection any favor he may ask, even at the risk of his own life. Yet apart from this he is cruel and revengeful, never forgiving a wrong and retaliating at the first opportunity.

NATAL AUTOGRAPHS. Sign Manual of the Child That Does Not Change in Life. There is born with every one of us and continues unchanged during our lives an unerring and ineradicable mark of marks, which absolutely distinguish each one of us from every other fellow being. These physical marks never change from the cradle to the grave. This born autograph is impossible to counterfeit, and there is no duplicate of it among the seeming billions in the world. Look at the insides of your hands and the soles of your feet; closely examine the ends of your fingers. You see circles and curves and arches and whorls, some prominent with deep corrugations, others minute and delicate; but all a well defined and closely traced pattern. There is your physiological signature. Run your hands through your hair and press finger tips on a piece of clear glass. You see all the delicate tracing transferred—not two fingers alike. Even "the left hand knoweth not what the right hand doeth." They are distinctly different. Even twins may be so little different in size, features and general physical condition as to be scarcely distinguishable, yet their finger autographs are radically different.

IN fact, in all humanity every being carries with him on his body fingers and his wrinkled hand of Geopit old age the identical curves, arches and circles that were born with him. Nothing comes between them. Criminals may burn and scorch their hands, but nature's stamp is stamped on them. The hand that carries the autograph, carries the autograph.

MENTAL ATTITUDE

It Has Much to Do With Whether Success Is Laid. The mental attitude which we always hold toward our work or our aims has everything to do with what we may accomplish. If you are a slave your work with the attitude of a slave goes lashed to his task and sees to it only grudgingly; if you work without hope, seeing no future in what you are doing beyond getting a bare living; if you see no light ahead, nothing but poverty, deprivation and hard work all your life; if you think that you were destined to such a hard life, you cannot expect anything else than that which you look for.

If, on the other hand, no matter how poor you may be today, you can see a better future; if you believe that some day you are going to rise out of humdrum work, that you are going to get up out of the basement of life into the drawing room, where beauty, comfort and joy await you; if your ambition is clean cut and your eye steadily liven upon the goal which you hope to reach and feel confident that you have the ability to attain it, you will accomplish something worth while. The direction of your effort will follow your eye, if that looks up as well as on, you will climb.

That one quality of holding persistently the faith in themselves and never allowing anything to weaken the belief that somehow they would accomplish what they undertook has been the underlying principle of all great achievers. The great majority of men and women who have given civilization a great uplift started poor and for many dark years saw no hope of accomplishing their ambition, but they kept on working and believing that somehow a way would be opened. Think of what this attitude of hopefulness and faith has done for the world's great inventors—how most of them plodded on through many years of dry, dreary drudgery before the light came, and the light would never have come but for their faith, hope and persistent endeavor.

What if they had listened to their advisers? Even those who loved them tried to beg them to give up the foolishness of coining their lives into that which would never be practical of use. We are enjoying today thousands of blessings, comforts and conveniences which have been bequeathed us by those resolute souls who were obliged often to turn a deaf ear to the pleadings of those they loved best as they struggled on amid want and woe for many years.—Success.

CHRISTMAS.

Negroes consider Christmas day the best in the year for a wedding. Christmas was first celebrated as a feast of the Christian church about the year 100 A. D. At Cullinst, in Ireland, the game of kamman, a sort of hockey, is played on Christmas day.

Scotch servants each endeavor to be the first to draw water from the well on Christmas morning. It is an old Irish superstition that gold should not be paid away on Christmas day nor silver lent. Christmas day at Cape Town is usually celebrated with picnics. The temperature averages 82 degrees. On Christmas morning in Norway every gateway, gable or barn floor is decorated with a sheaf of corn fixed on a tall pole in order that the birds may eat from their Christmas dinner.

To Make a Canary Sing. Generally any kind of soft, brilliant noise will tempt a bird to sing. A canary hung in a kitchen will usually start his song if he hears, say, the frizzling of a frying pan. We utilize special devices to tempt the shy singer, who is perhaps rendered the more bashful by finding himself in novel surroundings. For this purpose we employ whistles and song organs, which artificially reproduce the "trill" of the roller. This latter method is found to be irresistible when all other plans have failed. The bird feels apparently that he is being challenged and forthwith responds to the challenge by pouring forth the best of his song.—London Post.

Vulcan, the god of ancient blacksmiths and metal workers, was lame in consequence of a pretty hard fall he had in his early days. Jupiter and Juno had a row, and Vulcan sided with his mother against the old gentleman, who promptly kicked him out of heaven. He fell for a whole day and lighted on the island of Lemnos, broke his leg and received as severe a shaking up as though he had tumbled down an elevator shaft. Esculapian set his leg, but having only just received a diploma did a poor job, and for a long time Vulcan went on a crutch.

All at the Head. Glass stands first of elastic substances, pearl is the heaviest of animal substances, mercury is the heaviest liquid, the heaviest woods are pomgranate and lignum vitae, cork is the lightest wood, and platinum is the most ductile metal, capable of being drawn so fine as to be invisible.

He Will See Them. "A prominent oculist says he never saw a pair of perfect eyes," said the woman who reads the newspapers. "That," replied Miss Cayenne, "merely proves that the prominent oculist was never in love."—Washington Star.

TEN DIE IN FIRE.

Fire in the West Hotel at Minneapolis early Wednesday morning cost the lives of ten persons, damaged the great hostelry to the extent of $25,000 and gave throngs of spectators views of thrilling scenes by the firemen that called forth cheers from the crowds.

The fire was discovered at 7:15 o'clock and the guests and employees were given prompt alarm by the hotel's system of electric bells. The escape cut off by roaring flames, fanned by a cold and strong wind, and halls filled by impenetrable smoke caused three people to jump from windows to their deaths.

The West Hotel has for many years been regarded as the leading hostelry of Minneapolis. It was built nearly twenty years ago by the late Colonel John T. West and was made as nearly fireproof as possible. Located at 5th street and Hennepin avenue, it occupied a commanding position in the city and was regarded as a show place and one of the leading attractions of the city.

The Republican national convention of 1892 was secured to Minneapolis chiefly because of the West Hotel. The lobby, declared to be the largest in the United States, was easily able to accommodate the crowds which filled the place. Many other notable gatherings were held within its walls and in the afternoon and evening it was the center for business and professional men to gather.

WALTER WELLMAN.

Journalist-Explorer Again to Visit the Arctic Regions. A new interest in Arctic exploration has been aroused by the announcement of Walter Wellman that he and Santos Dumont, the aerial navigator, will start in the near future upon an expedition which they hope will carry them to the North pole.

Walter Wellman is an able journalist, Washington correspondent of leading dailies and a reliable writer. He is also an explorer, having twice visited the North pole. On his first expedition in 1894 he reached the 84th degree. His second expedition, in 1901, was to establish his base at Cape Yageloff, latitude 80 degrees 4 minutes. In the autumn an outpost was established 70 miles farther north. From this outpost Wellman and his men eventually moved north and explored hitherto unknown regions.

Ever since the second expedition Mr. Wellman has been a close student of Arctic work and conditions. Probably he has never been able to get the polar fever entirely out of his system. In addition to his newspaper and magazine work he has written much on geographic and exploration topics. He has lectured before the Royal Geographical Society of London, the British Association for the Advancement of Science, the National Geographical Society of Washington, the A. S. T. Club of New York and other similar bodies.

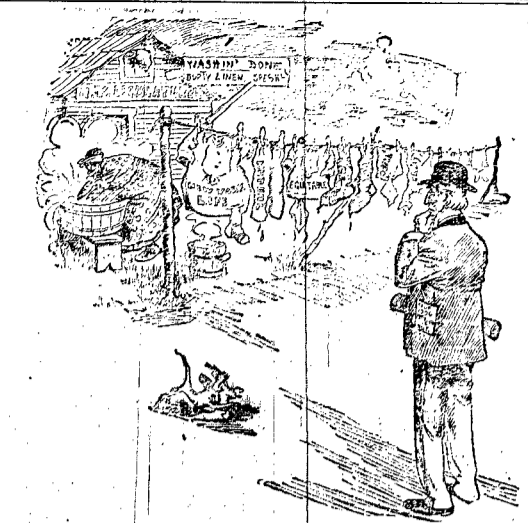

WAGES SMALL FOR BIG FAMILIES.

Child-Labor Secretary Discusses President's Theory. President Roosevelt's declaration in favor of big families was discussed before the New Rochelle People's Forum in New York Sunday. The Rev. Owen H. Lovejoy, secretary of the National Child Labor committee, declared that excessive special cases the President was alluding to in pronouncing such things wrong among the American people.

Mr. Lovejoy estimated the number of children employed at manufacture and mining in the United States at 2,000,000, which, he said, is far too many, as they are crowding men and women out of work and lowering wages. He said that the National Child Labor committee, in conjunction with the National Consumers' League, would go to Washington this winter to try to have Congress pass a bill to establish an additional child labor bureau, which would raise the condition of working children to that of France and Germany.

SHIPS IN A CRASH.

Battleship Kentucky Run Down by the Powerful Alabama. The battleships Kentucky and Kearsarge ran aground and the Kentucky was fouled and damaged by the battleship Alabama during the passage of the battleship squadron under command of Rear-Admiral Hobley Evans through the main ship channel out of New York harbor Sunday.

REAR ADMIRAL EVANS.

New York harbor Sunday. The Kentucky was so badly damaged that it was unable to proceed with the fleet. The Maine, Admiral Evans' flagship, was the only vessel to carry a pilot and was leading the squadron, Kentucky, Kearsarge, Alabama and Illinois following in close formation in the order named. An ebb tide and a west wind combined to urge the vessels toward the east side of the channel and the Kentucky went aground. There was not room for the Kearsarge to sheer off into the main channel without a collision, so her commander, Captain James M. Smith, ordered her to be beached. The Alabama then struck the Kentucky a glancing blow on the starboard quarter, driving away the rail and all belonging to it. The upper steel plates of the Kentucky were bent for a distance of about ten feet. Both the Kentucky and Kearsarge freed themselves and the Kearsarge joined the fleet outside the bar.

Rear-Admiral Charles B. Davis, in command of the second division of the squadron, with the Alabama as flagship, explained the accident in detail, but would not comment on it other than to say that the tight wind and the action of the tide and the narrowness of the channel were directly responsible. He would not say that the Kentucky was seriously disabled. He was of the opinion that his own vessel, the Alabama, was not.

TAFT ON THE CANAL.

SECRETARY DISCUSSES ISTHMIAN AFFAIRS.

Letter to the President on Panama Conditions Sent to Congress—Action on Type Delayed—Railway Bond Issue and Market Criticized.

The letter of the Secretary of War to the President transmitting the annual reports of the Isthmian Canal Commission and of the president of the Panama Railroad company, together with the reports, were received by the two houses of Congress. The report of the canal commission has been made public. Secretary Taft in his letter advised the President that there is to be a majority and a minority report from the board of consulting engineers as to the type of canal to be recommended, and he hopes that the whole matter may be presented for submission to Congress by Feb. 1.

The Secretary takes up the report of the president of the railroad company and discusses two transactions referred to in the report—the issue of bonds and their repurchase by the company and the market contract for feeding employees on the isthmus. Of these the Secretary says:

"The question of issuing the bonds was not submitted to you or to me before final action was taken by the board of directors. The policy of selling the bonds was a doubtful one and should not have been adopted until after a conference with higher governmental authority. I have not the slightest doubt that the president and directors of the company acted in entire good faith in what they did, and as they thought, for the best interests of the government; but considering the anomalous and peculiar relations between the directors and the company and the government, the board should not have been issued without your approval or mine.

"In view of this fact, by your authority, I instructed the president of the railroad company to proceed at once to repurchase the bonds. The bonds themselves contained a stipulation providing that they might be redeemed either Oct. 1 or April 1 upon the payment of the previous six months' interest, the principal, and a premium of 5 per cent.

"Arrangements were made with the purchasers by which the bonds were bought back at the premium paid, 105, and accrued interest to date of repurchase from Oct. 1. To make the repurchase it was at first thought necessary for the railroad company to borrow $100,000 from the canal commission.

"In future, the Secretary says, questions of this character 'will not be acted upon until after conference with the proper authorities.'

Discusses Market Contract.

Secretary Taft then discusses the cancellation of the Market contract for feeding the Panama laborers. He says: "The reason for the cancellation of the contract was that, in carrying out Mr. Markel's recommendations, the railroad company, under Mr. Stevens, had been able to furnish food to its employees and those of the commission at a less price than that fixed in the contract. Mr. Markel still insists that the estimate of cost made by him was reasonable and that the results obtained by the company were due to two circumstances—one that all the elements of cost to the contractor were not included in the railroad company's estimate for the cost of first-class meats, and the other that the specifications of the contract required for meals for the second class of employees a more expensive meat than the company was actually furnishing."

After stating that Mr. Markel was later allowed $10,745 for his expenses under the contract, Mr. Taft says: "This action was taken without consulting either you or me, and was not brought to my attention until some time after my return from Panama on Nov. 15. Looked at from a purely and strictly legal standpoint, if the amendment of the contract, with respect to the cancellation of it, was the decision of the President was to be strictly construed, a cancellation would not be the obligations of both parties ended and leave them without any claim for damages by either against the other, and therefore Mr. Markel would seem to have no claim against the railroad company after the right of absolute cancellation had been exercised by the president. In other words, it would appear that the payment ordered by the directors was gratuitous and without legal consideration."

Mr. Taft says as the Market contract, after investigation, has been approved by the Attorney General, he asks the President to approve the transaction.

Panama Railway Report.

The annual report of the Panama Railroad Company for the ten months ended Oct. 31 last, submitted to Congress, shows that after payment of all fixed charges and cost of operation for the period covered there remained $354,248, or somewhat in excess of 5 per cent on the capital stock. The total earnings of the road for the transportation of all kinds of traffic show an increase of $302,204, or 18.77 per cent over the corresponding ten months of the previous year. Passenger earnings increased $43,691 and mail earnings decreased $2,432. The total revenue freight traffic for the period of the report, including both merchandise and coal, was 408,949 tons, increase of 26.73 per cent, and yielded a revenue of $1,366,145, an increase of 37.93 per cent.

Pattison Now Governor.

Democratic Anti-Liquor Man Inaugurated in Ohio. Under unwonted conditions—both physical and political—John M. Pattison was inaugurated at Columbus as Governor of Ohio Monday. The political peculiarity of the ceremony was that the new executive is a Democrat—the first buckeye State to inaugurate an office in many years. Mr. Pattison introduced a festive feature at the parade while standing in a glass case which had been erected on the reviewing stand to guard him from the wintry air. Gov. Pattison had been ill with a severe cold for several days and under no other conditions would he have permitted himself to venture beyond his home. The spectacle of a new Governor standing in a glass case to review the parade celebrating his induction into office attracted an immense crowd of people every section of the State being represented.

CONGRESS.

Friday in the House was devoted to debate on the Philippine tariff bill, which is a long speech in its favor to which the Secretary of War and Representative Fisher of Michigan speaking in opposition to the measure. The Senate was not in session.

The debate on the Philippine tariff bill continued in the House Saturday. Representative Hill of Connecticut speaking in favor of the measure. The opposition was led by Representative Mondell of Wyoming, as a champion of the best sugar interests. Representative Lawrence of Massachusetts spoke in favor of the reduction of the tariff on sugar by the Republican party. The House adjourned at 5 o'clock until Monday. The Senate was not in session.

The Senate Monday gave attention to the Panama canal situation in the Senate and the merchant marine shipping bill. The canal matter came up in connection with a message from the President transmitting the annual report of the Isthmian canal commission and the Panama Railroad Company, which were prepared in view of the intervention of the Dominican Republic in the Isthmian canal, the Dominican Republic making inquiry of the President concerning the status of affairs in the island republic. Mr. Gallinger opened the debate on the merchant marine shipping bill. Legislation of the District of Columbia had the right of the bill on the calendar from the District committee were disposed of. Mr. Sullivan of Massachusetts then spoke strongly for tariff revision from the Democratic standpoint, the Philippine tariff bill being up for discussion.

The Senate Tuesday adopted two resolutions of inquiry. One authorizes an investigation by the committee on interstate commerce into the general conduct of the Panama canal and the other an inquiry by the finance committee as to the question of the exchange rate on money on the isthmus. The remainder of the open session was devoted to a speech by Mr. Morzan on the railroad rate question, his bill being referred to the committee on interstate commerce. At 10:30 p. m. the Senate went into executive session to take up Mr. Bacon's resolution calling on the President for information regarding the attitude of the United States government on the Mexican question. The Philippine tariff bill was the single topic of consideration in the House. The speeches were uniformly against the measure and in general allowed to go without answer.

The Senate Wednesday disposed of considerable business, about eighty bills being passed, leaving only six or seven on the calendar. Most of the measures were private bills authorizing the construction of bridges. One favoring the marking of the graves of Confederate soldiers who died in northern prisons during the Civil War. Then attention was given to the question of Panama canal salaries, for pure food measure and the merchant marine bill, without taking action on them. The Senate was confident of the success of the measure, and when the resolution dealing with the subject was reached on the calendar an executive session was taken to avoid discussion. Consideration of the Philippine tariff bill was continued in the House. Mr. Ballou (Pa.) speaking for it and Mr. Keifer (Ohio) leading the opposition. The incident of the objection from the Wisconsin office of Mrs. Miner Morley was brought up by Mr. Sheppard (Pa.) and discussed.

In the Senate Thursday Mr. Hepburn spoke in support of his bill creating a national board for the control of corporations. The message of the President, transmitting the letter of Secretary Taft to him on the subject of Postoffice Telegraph articles on the condition of affairs in Panama, was received and ordered printed, together with the Higley article. Mr. Bacon revived his Moroccan resolution, and the doors were closed for discussion. It was decided to leave the resolution on the calendar, which virtually ends the incident. The Senate adjourned until Friday, the 10th of January. Mr. Ballou (Pa.) speaking for it and Mr. Keifer (Ohio) leading the opposition. The incident of the objection from the Wisconsin office of Mrs. Miner Morley was brought up by Mr. Sheppard (Pa.) and discussed.

Labor unions are organized for the protection of workmen and employees, not to antagonize the interests of employers. Workmen are part of the masses of the people, and their interests are not separate from the interests and welfare of society. Workmen are also consumers, and investors, that tend to advance their interests as producers must result to their advantage as consumers.

In almost every modern manufacturing center in New England a new and higher scale of wages was put in force with the beginning of the new year. This advance in wages will involve an annual increase of about $100,000,000 in the cost of production. The increase will be in a majority of cases the increase was made "gradually" by the new employer, although the means for new wages had been in the hands of many of the mills.

Grand Chief Warren S. Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers says that there is no hope in the security of a country at present prevailing over the coming of "Wobblies" and that the relief is in sight. "The brotherhood now has requests for 250 engineers from railroads, none of which requests can be cared for." As to the cause, Mr. Stone says: "The men are not to be found. Few men who leave school care to tackle the menial engine of the day. The work is too strenuous."

National Capital Notes.

The President has nominated A. O. Marsh as pension agent at Indianapolis. Among the nominations sent to the Senate the other day was that of Logan Tucker of Illinois, to be a lieutenant in the marine corps. He is the son of Lieut. Col. W. F. Tucker of the war with U. S. A., and a grandson of Gen. John A. Logan.

Representative Fowler (New Jersey), chairman of the House committee on banking and currency, has introduced a bill providing for the current deposit of public moneys with national banking associations at 2 per cent a year in amounts not exceeding 10 per cent of the paid up and unimpaired capital of the banks. The bill also provides that any national bank may issue an amount of national bank notes not exceeding 50 per cent of its unimpaired capital without depositing United States bonds.

Representative John Sharp Williams, minority leader of the House, has returned to Washington from his home in Mississippi, where he was called by the serious illness of his daughter. President Roosevelt, in a letter to Congress transmitting the annual reports of the Isthmian canal commission and the Panama Railroad Company, praised the work being done on the big ditch and called it a vigorous manner to hostile critics.

TEACHERS' MEETING.

The Wayne County Teachers' Association had a regular meeting in the court room Saturday afternoon, and the teaching force of the county was largely represented. After a violin solo by Miss Florence Jakish, a program of papers and discussions was carried out. Harry Ziemer of Hoskins, read a paper on agriculture, in teaching which he advised that pupils should be given a series of questions touching the subject. Geography was presented in a carefully prepared paper by Miss Ella Griest of Hoskins. The new certification law was explained by Superintendent Littell who said among other things, that teachers would be required to at least be examined at the expiration of their certificates in the five essentials—reading, geography, grammar, history and arithmetic. Renewals of certificates without examination will not be allowed to cover those five branches. Hereafter there will be three degrees in second and three in first grade certificates. At the last examination in this county, the grades ranged from 35 to 95.

A paper on inspiration by Robert I. Elliott closed the formal program. He impressed the importance of having high ideals which would be imitated by the pupils. He mentioned that while a teacher's salary was important, there were higher considerations in the education and moral training resulting to the young. Before dismissing the gathering, Superintendent Littell had the teachers express their preference as to the time for holding the next annual teachers' institute, and the majority favored the month of June.

ULCER OF THE STOMACH.

Insidious Nature of the Disease—How to Recognize and Cure It. Ulcer of the stomach may exist for years without very marked symptoms, excepting those caused by indigestion. In good health the stomach resists the action of the gastric juices, but when weakened the membrane is badly nourished and the digestive fluids act upon it as well as upon the food, keeping up until perforation of the stomach occurs. In advanced cases of ulcer of the stomach there is much discomfort after eating, with a constant gnawing sensation between meals, pain from the pit of the stomach back to the shoulder blades. At the first symptoms of indigestion, treatment should at once be started with M-O-N-A. This is a scientific remedy adapted especially to one purpose, the cure of stomach troubles. It is so uniformly successful that E. J. Raymond gives a signed guarantee with every 50-cent box that the money will be refunded if it does not cure.

If you have any doubts about its value Mr. Raymond will let you have a complete outfit with the understanding that unless it cures catarrh, it will not cost you a cent.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

The farmers' institute for the winter will be held at Wayne, Friday and Saturday, February 2-3. It is time that people began preparation for making this meeting a great success. Interest and attendance will be amply repaid by the value to be gained. The people should make of the institute a social gathering of agricultural people for the discussion of subjects that are of value to them, and for the promotion of all their interests. It should become a permanent feature of the educational side of the community. The value of the meeting will depend on the interest of the people of this community. They can make it what they will—a success or a failure. The state management may perform its part well and the people in valuable attendance, but unless the people attend the meetings all the work will have been done in vain. You are paying taxes to support this work. It should count to them to make and get the value of your money back. The time of such men as come here to address the people is valuable. There must be a full house at every meeting if the community is to receive the value it should from the meetings. The progressive farmers will attend the institute. No time need be spent in telling them to come out. But the farmers who do not usually leave the farm should be stirred up. The women and young people should be brought out. Every institute has something of value for them, as well as for the experienced farmer.

The wrong way to select harness is the way it is usually done. Price is generally the first consideration. If that is very low the goods seem attractive, regardless of quality. Judge one goods the other way about. Examine into the quality of this harness first. Then it will be seen that it is worth almost any price. But our prices are not high. Value considered they are remarkably low. Wm. Piepenstock
