Carroll is making an organized effort to improve its cemetery.

A storm Sunday night covered this section with a heavy blanket of snow.

Mr. Lamb, an Omaha theological student, filled the Presbyterian pulpit Sunday.

Pender has five saloons, and the reform forces there propose to trim the number down to two or three if possible.

Members of the Acme club and their husbands had a pleasant social time at the residence of Prof. and Mrs. Pile Friday evening.

Thurston, a new town in Thurston county, has secured enough people to incorporate by including a considerable area of contiguous farming country.

The Times of Randolph reports that Peter H. Rhode who moved from that town three years ago, suicided by taking poison at his home in Black Diamond, Cal., on the 12th ult.

President J. M. Pile of the college has issued invitations to members of the commercial club to meet at his residence tomorrow evening for a few hours of feasting, toasts and sociability.

Frank Olson died at his home in Wakefield on the 19th ult, aged 25 years. A few days before his death he returned from Colorado, where he had gone in the hope of benefiting his health.

State Veterinarian McKim was called to Valentine last week on account of the prevalence of glanders among horses in that vicinity. He found six animals suffering from the disease and ordered them killed.

E. W. Closson & Co., of Sholes have rented the O. W. Guggell farm joining that town and will use it as a breeding farm for Poland China hogs and as a pasture for use in their stock buying operations.—Randolph Times.

The new feed mill of Fred Buss at Hoskins was destroyed by fire of unknown origin on Tuesday evening of last week. The value of the property burned is estimated at between $3,000 and $5,500, with insurance of $2,100.

The editor of the Stanton Picket has lately supplied himself with a couple of mechanical devices by which to aid his hearing which seems to have been defective for some time. He explains that he is now able to hear common conversation.

Sunday's Omaha Bee mentions a musical entertainment given by Hans Albert, at Logan, Io, recently. It will be remembered that Hans was adjudged insane while in Wayne a year or two ago and was sent to the Lincoln hospital for treatment.

Away creek, usually an inoffensive stream, in Dixon county, is apt to get on a tear during a freshet, and on such occasions its gentle ripples are converted into boiling, mountainous waves which threaten destruction. Last week the stream had one of its periodicals and gave the low grounds in Ponca an involuntary bath.

The Carroll Index reports that the sum of $33 dollars was raised within a couple of hours one day last week for the relief of Mrs. Fox, who conducts a hotel at Sholes and who has been very seriously ill as the result of taking care of others who were sick at her place. The report says the hotel has been a veritable hospital for six weeks.

The remains of Mrs. E. Black who died of apoplexy in Oklahoma on the 20th ult., arrived in Wayne for burial Sunday evening, accompanied by her husband and an adopted son. Mrs. Black lived in Wayne county a number of years ago, being related to Dave, D. A., and John Surber. Brief funeral services were conducted Monday morning by Rev. O. E. Ringer of the Lutheran church.

E. W. Closson and Frank Scott, of Sholes attended the Poland China sale of Havelock at Pender last Friday and each made some purchases. Mr. Scott bought three sows for $87 and Mr. Closson bid off four good ones for which he paid $85. Besides these breeders at Sholes, J. L. Beaton has embarked in the Durco line and has made a fine start by purchasing a number of choice gilts wisely selected from the Moats herd.—Randolph Times.

Hittington is in the toils of a telephone war, having two exchanges. Recently a home company was organized, the citizens not being satisfied with the service of the old independent company. Now the old company has sold to the New State company of Sioux City, and prices have been reduced. The business men seem to be standing by the home organization, which has connection with the Bell long distance line. In the meantime a merry time is being had, and what the outcome will be no man knoweth.—Laurel Advocate.

The fire alarm Sunday afternoon cut short the delightful naps of a good many of our citizens and for the time being put their torpid livers into pretty active operation. The way some of us old fellows sprinted along the sidewalks until we found out where the fire was located, wasn't very slow, in fact it looked for a time as though there would be a new world's record established for sprinting. But what a slowing down there was on all sides when it was found that it was a railroad round house instead of some one's home.

Keneth McRae who was placed under arrest again, charged with selling a mortgaged house, E. A. Aegerter of Randolph being the complainant, was brought here Friday from Thurston county and appeared before Judge Hunter for a preliminary hearing Monday. McRae is charged with committing the crime while he was a resident of Wayne county. On an affidavit by County Attorney Siman that he was unable to secure certain necessary evidence at this time, the hearing was postponed until March 8, and the defendant was released on a bond fixed at $100.

The HERALD has received from one of the Wayne representatives in the Philippines a copy of the Manila American, in which is a marked article relative to an effort to arouse the Chinese to acts of hostility toward Americans. Flaming circles were scattered in the Chinese district, calling upon the inhabitants to avenge alleged mistreatment of their countrymen in the United States, which mistreatment was of course grossly exaggerated. The intention seemed to be to arouse specially offensive and menacing demonstrations against Americans during the Chinese New Year festivities beginning January 25.

Merchants in the small towns should not conceal their lights under the proverbial "bushel." They may have in stock better goods than the mail-order houses and sell them at lower prices. But a mistake is made in not letting the people know about them through the advertising columns of the local paper. It pays to advertise, and advertise right. One merchant in an Iowa town after struggling along for six years without advertising, decided to make a change, and by the expenditure of $175 in a single year, in space in the town paper more than doubled his business. In every city can be found great mercantile establishments which have been started on small capital and built up by liberal advertising along right lines.—Ex.

Although it is no longer possible for a man to conduct an agricultural paper without some knowledge of farming, many farm journals are edited by farmers who reside in cities or who learned the practical side of the business in boyhood. By mingling with farmers at institutes, conventions, etc., such editors keep up the appearance of familiarity with farm topics; yet their writings do not "smell of the soil," and cannot be as valuable as if from the pen of an actual farmer. Recognizing this fact, The Iowa Home-land, of Des Moines, Ia., has long made it a rule to have its editors, reside upon and operate their own farms, enabling them to combine practice with precept. Its departments, too, are conducted by active farmers and its special articles are by successful farmers. The Iowa Home-land holds a high place in the esteem of the farmers of Wayne, and we are very glad to announce that by special arrangement the HERALD is able to offer this fine farm paper, in connection with our own, at a very attractive price. Let us order it for you.

The libel suit of T. J. Shelby of Ponca against W. N. Hise of the Norfolk Daily News, growing out of the first congressional campaign of J. J. McCarthy, has been ordered by the supreme court sent back to Madison county for another trial on the strength of a technicality. Shelby asked for $5,000, alleged damages. Near the close of the campaign the News published a circular, denying certain charges against McCarthy, the publication being made at the solicitation of the chairman of the central committee who maintained that the statements therein were absolutely true and who urged that failure to publish the circular would do the candidate an injustice. It seems that Shelby was in some way mentioned in the circular and claims that he was injured to the extent of $5,000. After hearing the evidence during the trial at Madison, Judge Boyd took the case out of the hands of the jury and promptly gave the verdict to the defendant. It looks beastly unfair for a newspaper to be pulled into an expensive and annoying libel suit, after publishing statements, prepared and vouched for by the head of the committee and which were admitted to its columns merely to give the candidate a hearing on the eve of election. While the editor of the News will doubtless win in the end, it is not an experience that he can relish.

The round house built here last summer especially to furnish quarters for the engine of the Bloomfield branch, was burned to the ground late Sunday afternoon, and the engine, inside at the time, is nearly if not quite a total loss, as little if any of it can be used again. The fire was discovered at 4:45 o'clock, and the interior of the building was a mass of flames when first seen. Magnus Paulsen, the man in charge, had left the round house about an hour before. Members of the fire company were on hand promptly with the hose carts, but delay in making connection with the city waterworks was occasioned by the supposition that there was not enough hose to reach the fire from the nearest hydrant. It was found of ample length, however, and was used in checking damage to a bridge near by. Besides the coal in the tender of the engine, there were three or four tons in the building, all being destroyed and keeping up a prolonged blaze. It is not known how the fire originated, though it is suggested that a lighted match, accidentally and carelessly thrown down by a smoker, caused the loss. The building and engine were valued at approximately $10,000. The property was insured. The superintendent was here Monday to look over the ground, and it is understood that another round house will replace the one burned in the near future.

During the past two or three years several horses have been stolen in the neighborhood of Wakefield, and up to date the horses have not been recovered or the thieves apprehended. The horses disappear from barns or pastures in a marvellous manner and the thieves leave no traces behind them that has enabled those who would recover the property to get any track that will lead to any arrests. At present some pretty ugly rumors are afloat as to who are the parties responsible for the state of affairs in existence. It is hinted by many that local talent, men thoroughly acquainted with all the surroundings are either in the horse stealing business, or are aiding the persons who take the animals. Some have gone so far as to name persons against whom their suspicions are directed and some pretty severe threats are being made against the suspects. The conditions at best are unfortunate, and extreme care should be exercised lest innocent persons are made to suffer from unjust suspicions. Because your neighbor does not see fit to explain to you just why he absents himself from home for a few days or publicly announce where he is going or when he will return, does not justify you in making him an object of suspicion or distrust, and attempt to put everyone who does not exactly fit your standard of rectitude under the ban of a "bad one" is likely to eventually bring about a very bad condition of affairs in any neighborhood. The status of matters relating to horse disappearances in the neighborhood mentioned, is at present very delicate and must be handled with care if complications are not brought about that may lead to a pretty dangerous sentiment being created.

The public sale season for farm property is about ended and has been a very busy one for the auctioneers, and prices obtained by the sellers have as a whole been very satisfactory. This business of public auctions is certainly getting to be one of the big ones. In the olden times men who wanted to sell and those who wanted to buy went about in search of each other and when finally they met, much talk and time were wasted in the process of dicker and the deals were comparatively few. Today when a farmer desires to quit the farm or move from one part of the country to some other, his first business is to employ an auctioneer, get bills printed announcing the date of sale and articles to be disposed of; then he goes to the bank with which he has been doing business and makes arrangement to have it send out some one to clerk the sale. The day of sale arrives and usually in from two to four hours after the auctioneer has started the ball rolling every article has been disposed of and the owner within twenty-four or forty-eight hours has the proceeds in cold cash. Not only is this the manner of closing out the personal property of the farmer, but also of all other kinds of personal property. In some parts of the country the same method is being pursued in the disposition of real estate and usually the prices are equal to and in many instances better than can be obtained at private treaty. Americans are in too great hurry to wait for the slow going processes of the days of the fathers and this spirit of hurry up is calling into existence a class of men who must under all circumstances have cool heads and be possessed of good judgment, with a considerable amount of hard common sense, backed up by a fair intelligence to succeed as salesman. The old style of auctioneer, who believed the principal qualifications necessary for success were unlimited nerve, ability to deceive, an aptitude in telling funny stories, whose morals were not always the loftiest, ready wit and a smooth tongue, is fast giving way to the men who look upon the profession as requiring the squarest of dealing and who under no circumstances misrepresent for the purpose of boosting the price of the article offered for sale.

DOCTORS WARN US AGAINST HARD WORK.

LOAF and grow fat" is the trite expression of an old truism supposed to have the backing of physiological research and medical experience. The farmer who wishes to fatten stock for the market does not permit it to roam the fields. He puts the stock in a pen, where it can get little exercise, and feeds it fattening material.

But it has never been supposed that loafing made a person healthy or strong. It favors an increase of adipose tissue, but no one ever contended that it made muscular tissue or improved the circulation or strengthened any of the organs of the body.

But now come certain members of the American Medical Association with the declaration that hard work is deadly, that the "strenuous life" is making the young men of the United States as decrepit as their grandfathers were at the age of 70 years. The introduction of the cinder path, football and other forms of outdoor athletics into college life, it is claimed, has resulted in the alarming growth of an incurable disease that is sapping the vitality of the young men. This disease, which the doctors have named "arteriosclerosis," is a stiffening and deterioration of the arteries, causing them to age prematurely and bringing about a serious affection of the heart.

It should not require the admonition of the learned doctors to impress young men with the danger and foolishness of "strenuous" athletics, or with the benefits to be derived from rational outdoor exercise. The loafing that permits an excessive accumulation of fat is dangerous. The work of the athletic exercise that does not respond to the rational needs of a particular body is also dangerous. Experience and common sense teach us this without the testimony of the doctors.

Loafing does not bring health. Nor does "strenuous" exercise necessarily bring strength.—Chicago Record-Herald.

AGRICULTURE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

THE question of teaching agriculture in our public schools is being ventilated thoroughly by educational leaders. State Supt. Stetson, of Maine, has expressed the conviction that in some elementary form all the teachers of that State should be prepared to teach agriculture. He thinks that farm boys and farm girls should be so taught that when they are through with the common schools they will be qualified to make country homes, and not, by their very training, be biased toward town life. The fact is that the ordinary common school does comparatively exact trade and manufacturing as compared with land culture. The children receive no information whatever concerning animals and plants, concerning soils and fertilizers, nor are they taught the relation that in country life should exist between the true, the beautiful and the useful.

Superintendent Jagger, of North Carolina, insists that agriculture should be taught just as history is taught. Assign a lesson in nature study, and see that the pupil masters it. He thinks the application will come later. Pupils will become keenly interested in matters that touch everyday home life. Then he would have supplied to the pupils small boxes, in which they are to place the requisite soil, and in each plant a given number of seeds. He would have them test seed to begin with—not go ahead blindly, but make sure at every point. For instance, he finds in his experiments that cabbage seed germinates at a 90 per cent ratio, clover at a 75 per cent ratio, while blue grass has a percentage of germination as low as 45. His object is to teach a child accuracy in all matters pertaining to agriculture; but accuracy is nothing more or less than science.

Elbert Hubbard emphasizes the necessity of a radical change in the division of school work. To teach agriculture wisely requires a good deal of outdoor application. Recently we showed what Iowa had undertaken with her normal schools—that is, a certain amount of garden work and field work for incipient teachers, so that they will be qualified to teach nature studies in the schools.

There is really no good reason why boys and girls should be shut up all day inside school rooms. It is unnatural, and it is a serious damage to their nerves and their muscles. There is no reason why half of this time should not be spent out of doors in the application of the lessons learned. These may be lessons in entomology or in ornithology, or in direct gardening. Mr. Hubbard adds: "Suppose we quit talking about war, and set ourselves to the problem of educating our boys and girls—that is, educate them to be useful, one season a day for books and the afternoon for hand work." He thinks this would end the era of overworked teachers and yellow, nervous pupils. At present we are giving twice as much to war as we are to our schools. We are glad to welcome the assistance of all thoughtful educators, editors and others in this campaign for common sense. Let us make our motto "Educate for the farm and not from the farm; educate for the country and not from the country."—New York Tribune.

PROSPERITY AND MONEY MADNESS.

THAT an ordinary shameless politician, who must live by his wits, should want to steal, or that a forlorn wretch who has little or nothing, not even the fug-end of a conscience, should be tempted to rob his neighbor, is comprehensible enough. But why should a man who has more millions than he can count, more income than he can spend, or even give away, a man who can satisfy every rational desire of a human being and yet have enough over to support 10,000 people in comfort—why should such a man be willing to commit crime to get more?

The answer is that he has lost his mental equilibrium; he has become money-mad. He is in precisely the same case as the man who, because of infatuation for a woman, gives up his wife and children, his home, his religion, his reputation and his money; and that kind of a performance is recorded in the newspapers nearly every day. An evil passion has got possession of the soul of the money-mad man. Just as alcohol or opium gets possession of the body of a man who is a drunkard or a dopey, why did Napoleon, having all the rest of the continent of Europe at his feet, and literally drunk with glory, want to conquer Russia and then Asia? Because he was ambition-mad. He had lost his balance. He had parted with his sense of the right proportion of things.

The money-mad man is similarly a victim, but of another mania. An insane person is one who is no longer able to perceive things as they are. Everything is distorted as he looks at it. Always he exaggerates his own importance; invariably he gives a false value to some other person or thing. The multi-millionaire who is so hot for more dollars that he will plunge into criminal Watching Ferns No Snake.

An interesting fact about hedgehogs that perhaps not many persons know is that the bites of even the most poisonous serpents have no effect on them whatever. M. Lenz, a naturalist, once watched a fight between a hedgehog and a viper and gives a most interesting description of it. He says that when the hedgehog came near the snake she began to smell it, for the sight of these animals is so poor that they depend almost entirely on the sense of smell, and then she seized its head with her teeth.

In a moment the snake had freed itself, and darting to the hedgehog, bit it several times, but the little animal did not seem to mind the bites at all, and when the snake was tired out with its efforts she again seized its head, which she ground between her teeth, poisonous fumes and all. Then she devoured almost the whole of its body.

M. Lenz also tells of a pet hedgehog that he kept in his house in a large box.

Several times he put some address into the box, which the hedgehog did not seem to fear at all, but at other times, he merely, and as in the case of the other, was never in the least affected by their poisonous bites.

A man who has had a pet hedgehog in his possession for a long time says that he had often seen it throw itself off the top of a wall fourteen feet in height. Without pausing a moment it would contract itself into a soft, fluffy ball and fall to the ground so lightly that it almost immediately it would unfold itself and run off.

Wanted a Dog.

A man was recently sitting in Jackson Park with a dog of very doubtful breed beside him. Two little boys stopped and looked intently at the animal for a few minutes. Then one said to the other:

"Ed, I wish that was mine, don't you?"

The man, hearing the remarks of the boys, and being somewhat pleased, said:

"And what would you do with it if it was yours?" The lad looked at his companion, and then seeing that the coat was clean, wickedly replied:

"I should sell it and buy a dog."

Then he and his companion hurriedly left.—Chicago Evening Ocean.

She Had Hope.

When Bilkins was away from home on a long business trip he got a letter from his wife that still puzzles him. It ended thus:

"Baby is well and lots brighter than she used to be. Hoping you are the same, I remain, Your Loving Wife."

—Cleveland Leader.

What a man's wife thinks of him is not far from the truth.

A FAVORED SPOT.

In these days a town which cannot present a sufficient number of attractive spots to warrant the issuing of a book of "views" is indeed unfortunated.

"They're getting out a panoramic folder over at Green Lodge," said one of the inhabitants of Sandville, gloomily. "Outside they've got a picture of the church, and inside they've got 'Main street, looking north'—that shows the hotel, and 'Main street, looking south'—that shows the telegraph office.

"Then they've got 'Green Lake' and 'The Pines' and 'The Residence of Samuel Epps, Esquire,' and 'A Group of Our Citizens,' and 'One of Green Lodge's beautiful lanes,' and a 'Twilight Vista,' and 'The Office of the Green Lodge Hagle.' I tell you, they look mighty well, those views do! Now what are we going to show up? Or are we going to sit still and be spurned right off the landscape?"

For a moment Eben Patterson, one of Sandville's handful of residents, who served the limited public of his town in many capacities, looked depressed; then he rose to meet the occasion.

"We'll get out a set of postal cards that'll beat their views all hollow," he said, cheerfully. "Let's see, we'll have 'A Little Home in Sandville'—that'll be your house taken side on, showing the porch. Then we'll have 'The Residence of Sandville's most honored citizen, E. P. Grub'—that'll be your house taken head on, showing the front door and the yard. You set out all the chairs you've got, so it'll look social.

"Then we'll have 'A Little Drive Along One of Sandville's Roads.' You know that place where those pine trees grow? Well, str, I'll range you and your family and the Todds and the Lamsons and—well, that's enough, anyway—I'll range you in your bugles, and so on, along in front of those pines, and I reckon it'll make a picture worth looking at.

"Then I'll have 'A Corner in One of Sandville's Gardens.' I'll squat down in front of those nasturtiums that Bud Lamsons managed to make grow, and I'll take 'em large. They'll look luxurious—that's the way they'll look!"

"And as for the rest of the set?"

Mr. Patterson snapped his fingers airily.—"I reckon we can make 'em out, between the postoffice and the grocery taken both ways, and a 'Group of Cats'—everybody knows cats like a good place to live. Why, I shouldn't wonder if our postal cards brought a regular boom right here to Sandville's doors!"

WELL REPOSED.

Two little children, being awakened one morning, and being told that they had a new little brother, were keen, as children are, to know whence and how he had come. "It must have been the milkman," said the girl. "Why the milkman?" asked her little brother. "Because it says on his cart, 'Families supplied,'" replied the sister.—San Francisco Argonaut.

It must be hard for Eve; she couldn't say to her husband, "I wish you had to be in my shoes for just one day," for the reason that she didn't wear any.

Boundless.

Far and away stretched the waving grasses and the low hills. On and on wandered the little boy. He did not know where he was, and yet he did not weep.

He was a very brave little lad and here he held within, so that, although he had lost his bearings, was not alarmed.

For did he not have his nice new rubber ball with him? And would it not be apt to bounce it about over the hard, smooth ground?

Selecting a spot bare of grass he threw the ball down, with all his might.

But it lay lifeless just where it had alighted.

Again he puzzled had threw it down, but the resilient gutta percha sphere lay dead and inert exactly as it had fallen.

Then, as the fearful truth broke upon the lad, he broke forth into wails of despair. He was on the boundless prairie.—Judge.

Not Ambitious for Father.

A New Hampshire man who had at various times been a candidate for public office, says the Boston Herald, has a small son about 6 years of age. The Herald says 6 years, and that part of the story is probably as true as the rest.

The lad, who had been meditating upon the uncertainties of kingly existence, asked his mother:

"If the King of England should die, who would be king?"

"The Prince of Wales,"

"If the Prince of Wales should die, who would be king?"

His mother endeavored to explain, but the boy, with a deep breath, said: "Well, anyway, I hope pa won't try for it."

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

A young hooligan was being tried for an assault on an elderly man. The magistrate, noticing an old customer in the hooligan, thought he would give him a little fatherly advice, and remarked: "Young man, I'm surprised at a big, strong, healthy looking fellow like you always getting into trouble. Why, you seem to be always wanting to fight. Why don't you go for a soldier?" Imagine the smile which illuminated the magistrate's face when the youth replied, "I did once, your honor, and he nearly killed me."

Worth Knowing.

His Good-Faced View.

A certain good-faced grandmother is sometimes startled by the up-to-date dress of her grandchildren. The other day she was telling the youngest of them, a boy 5 years old, the story of Lot. She showed him the picture of the wicked cities of the plains enveloped in the fire from heaven. The little chap seized at the picture with gratification and then asked:

"Were they insured?"—New York Press.

Went for a Soldier.

At one of the London police courts a young hooligan was being tried for an assault on an elderly man. The magistrate, noticing an old customer in the hooligan, thought he would give him a little fatherly advice, and remarked: "Young man, I'm surprised at a big, strong, healthy looking fellow like you always getting into trouble. Both Symptoms of Organic Derangement in Women—Thousands of Sufferers Find Relief.

Mrs. J. C. Holmes

"How often do we hear women say: 'I commence with my back would break, or don't speak to me, I am all out of sorts.' These significant remarks prove that the system requires attention. Backache and 'the blues' are direct symptoms of an inward trouble which will sooner or later declare itself. It may be caused by diseased kidneys or some derangement of the organs. Nature requires assistance and at once, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instantly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women. It has been the standby of twenty years, and the best judges agree that it is the most universally successful remedy for woman's ills known to medicine.

"Read the convincing testimonials of Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Cotrely."

Mrs. J. C. Holmes, of Larimore, North Dakota, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have suffered everything with backache and female trouble—I let the trouble run on until my system was in such a condition that I was unable to do about, and then it was recommended to use Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If I had only known how much suffering I would have saved I should have taken it sooner—for a few weeks' treatment made me well and strong. My backache and headaches are all gone and I suffer no pain at my monthly periods, whereas before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered intense pain."

Mrs. Emma Cotrely, 100 East 12th Street, New York City, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I feel it my duty to tell all suffering women of the relief I have found in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I commenced taking the Compound I suffered everything with backache, headaches, and female troubles. I am completely cured and enjoy the best of health, and I owe it all to you."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, displacements or ulceration, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the female organs, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. No other medicine in the world has received this widespread and unqualified endorsement. Refuse to buy any substitute.

FREE ADVICE TO WOMEN.

Remember, every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about her symptoms she does not understand. Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely and cheerfully given to every ailing woman who asks for it. Her advice and medicine have restored to health innumerable women. Address, Lynn, Mass.

HAD CATARRH THIRTY YEARS. Congressman Meekison Gives Praise to Pe-ru-na For His Recovery.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON PRAISES PE-RU-NA.
Hon. David Meekison, Napoleon, Ohio, ex-member of Congress, Fifty-fifth District, writes:

"I have used several bottles of Peru-na and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison.

ANOTHER SENSATIONAL CURE: Mr. Jacob J. Davis, Galena, Stone county, Mo., writes: "I have been in bad health for thirty-seven years, and after taking twelve bottles of your Peru-na I am cured."—Jacob J. Davis.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

The Matter of Allowance.

"My dear," whispered the young man, "as we are so soon to be married we should take a practical view of life and profit by the mistakes of others. For instance, there is the subject of a regular allowance every week for spending money, you know."

"Oh, I've thought of that," she replied, sweetly.

"Have you?"

"Yes, indeed—hundreds and hundreds of times; and lately I haven't thought of much else."

"Oh?"

"Yes, your income is $2,000, isn't it?"

"Yes, I want it to go as far as possible toward your happiness."

"Of course. Well, I've talked it over with mamma and she thinks an allowance of $1 a week will be plenty."

"Indeed?"

"Oh, yes, you can walk to the office, you know, and carry your lunch, you know, and so you can use the whole dollar for cigars and neckties and things."—Judge.

Johann Hoch, convicted murderer and confessed bigamist, was hanged in Chicago last Friday.

David B. Henderson, former speaker of the national house of representatives, died at Dubuque, Ia., Sunday afternoon, after nine months' sickness.

Chairman Warner has sent letters to members of the state central committee and to chairmen of county committees soliciting opinions as to when the state convention should be held this year. Two years ago it was held early on account of the national convention and last year unusually late. It is presumed that neither extreme will be followed this year.

That was a dirty trick of Aldrich of Rhode Island when he found he could not kill the DOLLIVER-Hepburn railroad regulation bill in the senate committee to move that the bill be reported to the senate by Pitchfork Tillman of South Carolina. The bill was DOLLIVER's and he had a right to have whatever honor was to be given by having him stand as its special sponsor on the floor of the senate, but Aldrich was bound to humiliate the Iowa senator and at the same time hit President Roosevelt a slap by putting the report of the bill in the hands of the president's most ultra orotic and by the aid of the weak kneed members of the committee was enabled to carry out his malicious design.

A letter from Ross Hammond, of the Fremont Tribune, to the editor of the HERALD assures us that he is not a candidate for the United States senatorship and will not under any circumstances be a candidate for that or any other office as his business demands his entire attention. This being the case, the HERALD has no further questions to ask the gentleman as to his alliances, and under the circumstances maybe we were just a little too previous, but we were informed he was a candidate in real earnest and for that reason wanted to know how he stood with the railroads. Ross is supporting Norris Brown for the senatorship and this looks to us as though Ross was in pretty good company, and from his editorial utterances it would seem as though his heart was beating in unison with the great mass of Nebraska republicans.

THE BEE'S COMMENT.

"Anything goes in the Nebraska State Association of Commercial clubs. Resolutions denouncing postal savings banks and parcels post legislation; resolutions to clarify, straighten and deepen the Missouri river, and resolutions to open the gates of Omaha for the duplex telephone system—all adopted with a hurrah and without serious consideration and reflection. It goes without saying that resolutions to endorse explorations to the moon and readjust the orbits of the planetary system would have passed just as readily." Omaha Bee.

The Bee is mistaken in assuming that the men who comprise the commercial clubs of Nebraska are an unthinking lot and pass resolutions in a mere perfunctory manner. Business men over the state are opposed to postal savings banks because they would carry money away from the small towns, and are against parcels post legislation because it would injure the prosperity of innumerable merchants for the benefit of the great department stores. Neither postal savings banks or a parcels post system would be in the interest of rural communities, but on the contrary detrimental to them. Members of commercial clubs of Nebraska are not ignorant of the facts and it should not be surprising to the Bee that they put themselves on record in behalf of the policies beneficial to them and their neighbors.

HAMMOND WITHDRAWS.

Ross Hammond, of the Fremont Tribune, makes the following statement in a recent issue of his paper, withdrawing his name in connection with the United States senatorship:

In view of the fact that the name of its editor has been more or less connected with the candidacy for the United States senate it may not be out of place for The Tribune to say a few words on that subject. Its editor has had so many assurances of support that the occasion of the announcement of a preference for another candidate cannot, with courtesy, be permitted to pass without indicating gratitude and appreciation of these assurances. The United States senatorship is a very great political prize. At the risk of being regarded as presumptuous the editor ventures to say that he believes he had some show of winning it. While never declaring his candidacy there was a time when it appealed to him. But maturer reflection convinced him of the unwisdom of it. Duty to business and business associates, and other equally weighty considerations, determined him not to be a solicitor of public favors. It will suffice, perhaps, to dismiss the matter with the statement that he became fully convinced he could have better afforded to become a candidate and fail than to become one and succeed. Under such conviction there was but one course open. It may be added he will be a candidate for no other office but will enjoy that freedom from entangling alliances that will give the utmost liberty to discuss men and issues in such manner as may be deemed proper, hoping thus The Tribune may the more fully command the respect of the public for sincerity and independence.

The seed corn proposition is one of the most vital things our farmers have to contend with in the production of the king of cereals, because poor or weak seed invariably gives a thin stand and it is surprising what a reduction in the yield per acre will be brought about by the loss of a single stalk in even one hill out of ten. It don't do to figure that if the seed is not altogether strong a greater number of grains can be dropped in a hill and satisfactory stand be thus assured, because this method is likely to give too many stalks in some hills and thus prevent satisfactory earing, or maybe not produce any ears at all, and then other hills may get all weak grains and no plants materialize. The first care should be to get seed that is absolutely strong and of which there is no element of doubt as to its growing and then so the planter so as to drop just the right number of grains in each hill. It is hardly safe to trust the selection of seed from a corn crib in the spring and yet it is about as safe as it is to purchase the seed of many of the seed corn firms doing business throughout the country, for in too many instances these firms have exercised no care whatever in the selection of the seed, and under no circumstances should seed be purchased in any way except on the ear thus enabling you to have some protection against the unscrupulous whose only desire is to get a big price for a very inferior quality of seed. If you haven't saved seed from your own corn that you are sure will grow, the best plan is to get it of some neighbor who has been more careful or more fortunate.

That man Cummins, who has been governor of Iowa for two terms and who is now seeking a nomination for a third term, is built along the lines that most real Americans like. He is a hard hitter in whatever cause he espouses and is not very particular as to whose nose the blood comes from when the blow is dealt. The republican party of Iowa is divided into two factions at present. One of these factions is led by Cummins and is fighting for a square deal by railroads and other corporations and also for a revision along tariff lines. The other fellows are the "stand-patters," those who do not want to do anything that will disturb existing conditions for fear of creating financial trouble. The stand-patters charge the followers of Cummins with being populist in their tendencies and declare that their policies are creating discord and dissension in the ranks of the party and therefore they are sounding the old slogan of "harmony." That one word "harmony" has been a cloak for more political civility than any other in the English language. Every grafter and bootler in the ranks of a majority party, whenever he sees that his job is likely to get a turning over, uses it as the guard to ward off the blow that is about to put him out of business, and today it is the battle cry of the corporations in every part of the country. Cummins and his followers seem to think that if putting the corporations who do not want to do the square thing by the people of the great state of Iowa to rout is going to create discord in the republican party it had better be done and let the consequences follow, and in this stand they will have the sympathy of everyone who desires to see the "square deal" policy of President. Roosevelt dominate in every part of the country.

TO BUILD UP A TOWN.

Every business man and property owner in a town is intensely interested in building up the business of the town. Every merchant has an interest in the general prosperity of the place, for increased trade in any line, now customers for one means increased trade and new customers for others. A man does not often go to town for just one thing. If he needs nails, when he goes after them, he is apt to also get groceries or dry goods, shoes or clothing. He might perhaps, if properly shown the advantage of trading at the home town, buy several of these things he and the good wife have been planning to get one of these days to add to the comfort and attractiveness of their home. A long pull, a strong pull and a pull all together, working for one another as well as for one's self, will largely increase the trade of any community. There is no surer way to kill a town than to foster a spirit of jealousy and narrow, hide-bound selfishness. Let there be good, healthy competition and friendly rivalry, but no boggishness. Boom the town, the whole town, even your competitor in business, and rest assured you will gain by it. Of course you want to see to it that your own horns in first-class trim and that it sounds the best of all the horns being blown, and then blow it for all you are worth, and after blowing, roll up your sleeves and make the trade conditions excel the flow.—Exchange.

CHAIRMAN WARNER INTERVIEWED.

Chairman Warner of the republican state central committee arrived in Lincoln Thursday night on a late train from Omaha, and will return to that city some time today. He came down to meet Secretary Allen and state officers and talk over the political situation. Mr. Warner said he had not yet called a meeting of the state central committee, but he thought a call might be issued in a few days. "It is getting about time to get the committee together," said Mr. Warner, "to discuss matters relating to the campaign to come. I haven't decided on the date, although

I have heard some expressions from people interested. Suggestions come favoring convention dates from May to September. I have heard some people express their opinions about what the call should contain, but they were merely individual wishes. So far as I have heard, though, there is no organized effort to keep the naming of a candidate for senator out of the convention program.

Mr. Warner was reticent about the chairmanship matter, but it is understood that he will hold the position until the state convention unless there should be objection. The campaign will not start until after the convention, and as Mr. Warner was chairman of the committee when he was named United States marshal it should not be expected that he will desert the office until the party has had an opportunity to choose his successor.

The remedy has made so many cures among his customers that he has urged its use in the most chronic cases of catarrh.

Breathed for a few minutes four times a day, through the inhaler that comes with every outfit, it soothes the irritated mucous membrane of the nose, throat and lungs, kills the catarrhal germs, and restores complete health.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs only $1, and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the pocket or purse, and will last a lifetime, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. If this is not sufficient for a complete cure, additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents.

Compare this small expense with the fees charged by specialists, and remember, too, if Hyomei does not cure, Raymond will return your money.

ENSURING VICTIMS.

Steps Should be Taken at Once to Prevent Further Trouble.

Here in Wayne, as in other cities and towns, dyspepsia or stomach troubles are ensnaring victims in a most insidious way.

Use Mi-o-na now and soothe the irritated walls of the stomach and strengthen the gastric follicles so that they will pour out their daily supply of digestive materials with regularity. Then the headaches, sleeplessness, specks before the eyes, poor appetite, tired feelings and nervousness will disappear, and you can eat what you want at any time you like.

Just one little tablet out of a 50 cent box before meals, for a few days, and you will soon regain perfect health and strength, and have no fear of indigestion or stomach troubles. Ask E. J. Raymond to show you the guarantee under which he sells this remedy.

The wrong way to select harness is the way it is usually done. Price is generally the first consideration. If that is very low the goods seem attractive, regardless of quality. Judge our goods the other way about. Examine into the quality of the harness first. Then it will be seen that it is worth almost any price. But our prices are not high. Value considered they are remarkably low.
