of every kind, and for your fields of growing crops, is what you want, and what you have a right to expect, when you buy fence. A fence that a bull can break through or break down is not worth paying good money for. You want weight in the fence you buy, weight enough to turn the heaviest Percheron or stop a "devil wagon." dolph Hefti, who lives eight miles northwest of Wayne, died last Thursday from an attack of measles. The child was six weeks old. Funeral services were conducted in the Lutheran church at this place by Rev. C. J. Ringer Friday afternoon.

The boys north of town turned things loose Friday night in the charivari at the new home of John Rosacker and his bride. They were obliged to wait a couple of days after the wedding before the newly married couple got into their new domicile on the Mrs. Myers farm, but from what the neighbors say lost time was all made up in great shape.

The new Congregational church at Stanton was discovered on fire last 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning and about $5000 worth of damage was done. The entire roof seemed to be ablaze when the discovery was made. The church had recently been completed at a cost of $12,000 and was to have been dedicated on the 18th inst. There was insurance of $5000.

Judge Hunter performed three marriage ceremonies last Thursday, making it a record-breaking day for him in that line of service. The three couples thus made happy were: Mr. Neils Nelson and Miss Anna Swanson, both of Wakefield; Mr. John Geewe of Pender, and Miss Mary Hammer of Wakefield; Mr. Robert Lindahl and Miss Selma Westling, both of Waues.

"Why am I like a pin?" asked a Concord man of his wife. He expected she was going to say, "because you are so sharp," but was simply paralyzed when she replied, "because you are so cheap, and always round, frequently crooked and if you were to get lost it wouldn't be worth my time to hunt for you." Then the other half of hymenial bliss went out in the back yard and fanned himself with a cement sack.—Wakefield Republican.

The horse sale of Frank E. Strahan on last Thursday was largely attended but prices were hardly up to expectations. The weather and condition of the yards made it impossible to properly show the animals and the evident discomforts under which the crowd labored were not conducive to spirited bidding or high prices. Something over 40 head were disposed of and Mr. Strahan says "it was the other fellow's day, but I'm not a kicker."

Cross walks are most needed when roads are muddy. If there were no mud, walks could be dispensed with entirely without serious inconvenience or annoyance. Wayne has substantial stone cross walks, but during muddy spells most of them are not kept clean and as a result their use, when most needed, is minimized. Fact is, the walks should be kept clean, so that travelers would not be compelled to wade through from two to six inches of mud during a wet time.

Prof. and Mrs. A. E. Littell came over from Winnebago last Saturday afternoon and visited with the family of Mr. Littell's sister, Mrs. J. E. Francis, north of town, until the next day when they came to Pierce and visited over night with the family of Geo. W. Littell. Prof. Littell is county superintendent of Wayne county, but as Mrs. Littell is assistant principal of the Winnebago schools, they will not move to Wayne until their school closes.—Pierce Call.

A former Wayne man, now of Omaha, makes the following reference to the Pat Crowe incident, in the course of a letter to Judge, Hunter: "We are having pleasant weather in this latitude and we try to make it pleasant for everybody, even for Pat Crowe, who evidently expected a rather bad winter in Omaha, but was pleasantly surprised. If you ever get into trouble, come and sell it to an Omaha jury and they will declare you innocent. Pat thought he was guilty of a great crime, till he was told otherwise."

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Holtz took place from the Presbyterian church Saturday morning at 11 o'clock and a large concourse of friends attended and followed the remains to their final resting place. The sermon was preached by Rev. Thos. J. Wright of out of town and Wm. Beckenhauer of Randolph; Dan Forbes and wife of Dakota county; W. S. Weston and wife of Hastings; Ohas. Beckenhauer and Chris Ackerman of West Point, and J. Beckenhauer of Wakefield.

The story comes to us of a birthday anniversary event that happened in the far off Philippine Island over which Judge W. F. Norris holds judicial sway. The story is told that the anniversary of the marriage of one of the governors of a petty province was about to occur and the wife of the native autocrat being desirous of receiving as a present at that time a certain fan she had observed in one of the stores of a village, sent her servant to tell one of the servants of Mrs. Norris of her desire and to also inform her just where the fan could be purchased and the price, and to notify her that she was expected to make the donation. It is needless to say the purchase was made and the present given as requested—the Judge doubtless knew something of the habits of the native ruler.

Wayne's public building has been caused and put away for a year until the time is more propitious for the distribution of the public wealth. But we can see no good reason why our county capital is not as much entitled to a public building as Blair, one of the deader holes in the state, and other towns not half as progressive as Wayne. A supper given by Prof. Pile to a lot of moral Wayne men will probably result in the building of a large addition to the Normal there. This is well and the Tribune hopes building will not stop until ample room is made for all who wish to attend this institution. We are not at all opposed to the college nor to Mr. Pile at the head of it in this capacity. More room and more pupils will be a good thing in several ways, one being that it will provide more work for the astute professor and his time may be so occupied that he will not try to run all the political parties in the county and dictate their actions.—Winnebago Tribune.

On last Saturday we were permitted to see some of the pressed brick that John Sherbahn has been testing in his last kiln of brick. Our readers will remember that along in December Mr. Sherbahn went to Keokuk, Iowa, with a lot of clay taken out of his grounds south of this city. This clay was put through the process necessary for forming into the pressed brick and then was shipped back here by Mr. Sherbahn himself, and when he was ready to burn the kiln of ordinary brick, these pressed ones were set right into the kiln and subjected to all the ups and downs of the burning process of the ordinary ones, and if the bricks shown us are the best that can be turned out under the very best of conditions, they certainly are of a high quality and compare very favorably with the best pressed brick. Mr. Sherbahn is very well satisfied with the experiment, but before he invests in the machinery necessary to put in a plant here in Wayne, he will make some further experiments, but it really looks as though our city is going to have pressed brick works in the very near future.

NORFOLK NEWS' LIBEL SUIT

In Saturday's Norfolk News, W. N. Huse announces that the libel suit, instituted against that paper by Thos. J. Shelby of Ponca, had been settled out of court, the defendant agreeing to pay the cost of the action in the district and supreme courts, besides a stipulated amount. It will be remembered that the suit grew out of the publication of a statement at the instance of the chairman of the congressional central committee in defense of Congressman McCarthy at the close of his first campaign in this district. It appears the statement reflected unfavorably on Mr. Shelby who subsequently sought damages of $5000 through the courts. Mr. Huse states that McCarthy did not take proper interest in defending the suit and was indifferent to the claims of one who had been dragged into trouble by giving him defense at a critical time—a defense that was urged in the interest of the party and without which it was alleged the candidate would suffer a great injustice. The signed editorial by Mr. Huse handles the subject at length, giving all details of interest and showing the ingratitude of McCarthy in his personal treatment of the defendant and failure to take a willing part in the case.

"Assured by the chairman of McCarthy's committee that the articles were true, and accused of disloyalty in case they were not published," says the editorial, "there was nothing left to do, according to local politicians, who brought pressure to bear, but print in order to save McCarthy."

The News will wage vigorous opposition to McCarthy's renomination.

NOTICE TO LAND SEEKERS.

A large tract of valuable agricultural land is to be thrown open for settlement on March 20th, 1906. This land has been in litigation for twelve years and on the 20th of January the United States Land Office handed down an opinion which will open this land for settlement on the 20th of March.

The tract consists of about 66,000 acres of fine agricultural land in North Dakota, or about 400 homesteads. This is a very fine tract of land and is worth, at the present time, from $3,000 to $4,000 per homestead.

It is valuable wheat land with an immense deposit of lignite coal underlying it. A special excursion for March 20th is being arranged to take a party of people up to see this land and will be in charge of an agent of the Illinois Central R. R. Co. It is a chance of a life time to get a good quarter section of farm land and a coal mine for the asking.

In order to avoid a rush the facts are not made public at this time but full information can be had by applying at the Illinois Central City Ticket Office, 1403 Farnam St., or addressing, Samuel North, District Passenger Agent, Omaha, Neb.

The Hardman Piano.

The Hardman piano has been before the American people for more than SIXTY YEARS. Its essential points consist of MUSICAL SUPERIORITY, DURABILITY, REPUTATION AND ITS BEING SOLD AT A MODERATE PRICE. Possessing as it does these four points of merit only one other requisite necessary to insure its success, and that the public be given an opportunity for examination and selection. We expect a larger business and a still higher reputation for these pianos here in Wayne, just week we sold one of these pianos to be shipped to the coast. Their reputation is known on the coast, as that particular climate requires DURABILITY, the Hardman's most important requisite. Did you know that it is only after reputation is secured, is it entirely safe, even for an expert to purchase a piano, because neither excellence nor durability can be proven except after long and complete tests, which, when successful, result in reputation. There is but ONE GENUINE Hardman Piano.

WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused it to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estlin, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert restored the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped in a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts, the family had saved enough money to commence in a physical way the growing and curing of the enterprise were assured, until today Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed her reward years ago, but not till she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—received careful study, and the details of the symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of women's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equalled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham, who was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originality passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing has changed since when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With women assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues the great work, and probably from the office of her person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

ROOM FOR ALL.

There's room for everybody in this busy world of ours.

There's room for (horns and thistles, and there's room for fruits and flowers, and statesmanship) in a garden where all kinds of flowers grow; An admiring world beholds it like a splendid floral show. From seeds of intellect we hope some goodly fruit to win. But many are the illies which will neither toll nor spin. Yet they add a graceful beauty to the scene which greets our eyes. Where some of them are thinking thoughts and some are looking wise.

We need the mental effort which may make a man forget The neat sartorial habits that proclaim the social pet; But we also need the man who takes the public to his heart And wins their warm affection, just because he looks the part. For the people have a notion, it is useless to deny. That a statesman should be picturesque and pleasing to the eye. And the fruit trees and the illies guard them all and none despise. To think great thoughts is talent; but it's genius to look wise.—Washington Star.

THE HARDING-DAWSON LOAN.

WHEN Uncle "Tommy" Saunders came home from the West with a glowing account of the wonderful boom in certain town lots, Grandpa Harding had hastily withdrawn $5,000 from the bank, where it was earning 4 per cent interest, and had entrusted it to Uncle Tommy for investment. And when the boom collapsed his discouragement began. Yet he had no reproaches for Uncle Tommy, but maintained stoutly that gentleman's entire benevolence of intention.

Later, Uncle Tompkins went to Texas and brought back a deed to forty acres of newly irrigated land, and a real estate agent who prevailed upon Grandpa Harding to pay $2,000 for forty more acres adjoining. Grandpa showed no anger against innocent Uncle Tompkins when the deeds were found bogus.

But Grandpa Harding was growing old. He grew more cautious about taking money from the bank, and dwelt more and more upon the comforts he might have bought with the $7,000 he had judiciously invested.

That was the Harding side of the story. When Ethel married Billy Dawson, each of them had a little hoard of money. Leeville, where they had always lived, needed a store. So they had invested their whole fortune in land, building and stock, and had needed a couple of hundred dollars to carry them along until profits began to accrue.

For Ethel the sun had always risen and set where Grandpa Harding was; Grandpa Harding had always had the tenderest spot in his heart saved for Ethel. So in the hour of need they went without hesitation to the old man, and without hesitation he opened his purse and lent the money. That was in May.

The $200 carried them through the summer, and as the tide had apparently turned and trade began to come, Billy went to the city in September and spent the rest of the money in additional autumn and winter stock. He had planned to insure, but there was much stock he wanted—and the insurance could wait a few weeks. In six days the new stock had arrived, and on the eighth day it and the old stock and the store—sayings, profits and prospects—went up in smoke and flame.

The Dawsons had been living in two little rooms back of the store, and these, too, were gone. Luckily they saved some furniture, and before night Billy had found a tiny cottage and a bit of land for rent on the edge of town. Billy, who could turn his hand to almost anything, "thinned out" to build the fireplace and chimney in a new house over in Burlington.

"Now, don't worry," Ethel said. "We shall do splendidly. We'll make this just as cozy as can be, and live on what we earn. Isn't it lucky we don't owe any more? Only that $200 to Grandpa Harding, and he doesn't need it right away, and he's such a perfect dear he will wait till we can spare it."

"I hate to owe money to anyone," said Billy, "especially to a relative. But I do feel safe with grandpa. Still, we'll hurry to pay it back as fast as we can."

That was the Dawson side.

Ethel wrote to Grandpa Harding about it, and expected a jolly letter back; but instead, it was Grandpa Harding who wrote to Ethel's mother, and the letter was most discouraging.

"Your father is extremely dejected over the loss of the $200 he lent Ethel's husband. He says he will never again lend or invest money with a relative or a neighbor, that it was quite what he might have expected, after his previous experiences. He doesn't mind the loss of the money so much as he does the thought that it was Ethel, who was always his favorite, who got it from him for Mr. Dawson."

Of course that made Billy furious. The mason work in Burlington was finished, and he had $16 for his share of it—and that was his total cash capital. Had it been plenty, he would have found work in spring, but in the late autumn no one needed help.

But one day Billy came home radiant. "I've found a job!" he called, as he came into the yard. "George Crandon has offered me a place in his wholesale house in the city. He's the old gentleman I bought our dry goods from. He lives in Burlington in the summer. It will be only $10 a week and the hours are long, but there's a chance for promotion."

"Oh, good!" cried Ethel. "Now we can begin to pay grandpa."

"Of course we can," Billy declared. "Let's count up."

"Two dollars each week would do so much!"

One dollar and a half for rent—their little cottage cost them but six dollars a month—two dollars for Billy's car fares in and out of town each week, four dollars for living, one dollar and a half for clothes and incidental expenses. Billy would have to carry his lunches. That left one dollar every week for grandpa.

"But washing and ironing," said Billy.

"I'll do those," said Ethel, gayly.

"I'll do those," said Ethel, gayly. "I'll do those," said Ethel, gayly. "I'll do those," said Ethel, gayly.

"Hello, George?" he said, when he came into Mr. Crandon's private office. Mr. Crandon sprang to his feet.

"Tommy Harding!" he exclaimed, catching his hand. "Old Tommy Harding! Now let's give three times three for '47!"

"All nonsense!" grumbled Grandpa Harding; but a moment later the two old classmates were deep in recollections of boyhood.

"But that's not what I'm here for," said Grandpa, after a while. "You've got a young chap named Dawson working for you?"

"Yes, William Dawson. Know him?" "Not William—Billy. Ought to know him. He's my grandson—by marriage."

"You ought to be proud of him. He's a good worker."

"Don't I know that?" Then grandpa told the story of the Harding-Dawson loan.

"That's the kind of a man he is," he ended, "and that's the sort of a wife he has. Don't you feel pretty mean paying that sort of a man only ten dollars a week?"

"Now that you mention it, I do," agreed Mr. Crandon. "I need a young man I can trust right here in the office, and I guess I'll try him. I'll start him on $1,000 a year. Suppose we have him in now and tell him about it?"

"Not much," said grandpa. "I've got to persuade them to come to my golden wedding before they get too proud. Tell him to-night."

Grandpa Harding lost no time in going out to Leeville that afternoon. The snow lay deep all along the road from the station to the cottage on the desolate edge of town. But the cottage was cheerfulness itself, with its simply curtained windows and its warmth of smoke curling up from the chimney.

Grandpa was putting and blowing from the exertion of the walk when he turned in at the gate, and what little breath remained was choked out of him a moment later, when the door flew open and Ethel threw her arms round his neck. She knew Grandpa Harding pretty well, and she was not much afraid of his bluster.

When Billy came home late that evening with the glorious news of his promotion, the question of the debt had not yet been raised between them. Grandpa Harding, who did not like baked beans at all, ate them for supper. He slept on a shake-down under a quilt and some newspapers. He rose before five o'clock to help Billy with the cooking, and ate plain oatmeal for breakfast.

Once in a while he touched an envelope in his pocket—it was marked "Ethel's," but he did not bring it out. He walked the mile and a half to catch the six o'clock train—the last time Billy would have to do it—and as they started off Ethel called after him:

"We're coming to the wedding, grandpa, and he shook his fist at her. Not a word had he been able to say about the debt.

"Independent young fools! Let them pay it, then, and be happy!" he grumbled to himself, later that day, as he entered the bank. The fund he deposited with him from the envelope marked "Ethel's," but it was on a new account, headed "Thomas A. Harding, trustee."

Somewhat without words among the three united people, the problem of the Harding-Dawson loan had found itself very comfortably settled.—Youth's Companion.

She broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recommended, but without results. I called in three doctors, they all claimed they could help her, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, and her little face was being eaten away, and her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of Soap and box of Ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body were as clear as a newborn babe. I would not be without it again if it cost five dollars. Instead of seventy-five cents. Mrs. George J. Stevens, 701 Columbia St., Akron, Ohio."

In the Alarm-Clock Belt. "Oh," exclaimed the possible boarder, in disappointment, "so this is an alarm clock neighborhood! What a pity. The room is pretty. I like it, but I could never stand all these clocks."

"Oh, but there isn't an alarm clock in the house," the landlady protested. "All our people are late risers. They don't need to be called."

"But those people in the flats that back up against this house do," said the boarder. "I know the conditions as well as if I had lived here. I've been in many other places just like it. I like your room, but an alarm clock back is too hard on my nerves."

The landlady sighed as the prospective boarder picked his way down the dark stairs.

"What a crank," she said. "I didn't dare tell him the last boarder left on account of those clocks."

Another of T. J. Shelby's libel suits, the result of Congressman McCarthy's first campaign, has been returned by the Iowa supreme court for re-trial, the finding of the lower court, which was in favor of the defendant, being reversed. It is the suit against Ohas S. Ashton, former publisher of the Ponca Journal. The action was brought against Mr. Ashton at Sioux City.

Homer Skeen who sold his drug store at Pierce some time ago, and has since visited the Big Horn country, Wyo., was in Wayne this week. He liked the Big Horn, but found no desirable opening for his line of business. He says that residents out there think Messrs. Rundell and Miller have one of the best money making propositions in the west in the springs which they nailed at Thermopolis.

A gentleman whose name the HERALD could not learn, had a spirited runaway Friday afternoon on Main street, his light spring wagon turning completely bottom side up, throwing out the driver and scattering a miscellaneous assortment of groceries. The team struck a telephone pole in front of O. W. Hixon's implement office, causing the upset and breaking the wagon tongue. The driver luckily escaped without injury.

Ohas. Robbins has this week closed a deal for the sale of the principal part of his mercantile stock, including all goods (labeled by Mr. E. W. E. Liddle of Carroll, and the stock is now being shipped. This deal does away with the necessity of a fire sale and enables Mr. Robbins to turn attention to preparations for the opening of his new store in the Bremer building in the near future. He will leave for Chicago next week to buy goods and will be ready for business here about April 1.

A queer case of horsestealing occurred at the little town of Dixon, Neb., in Dixon county. A team of horses were stolen from the barn of John Gilman last Friday night. Bloodhounds from Concord were taken to the spot in the hope of trailing the thieves, but owing to the fall of snow the dogs could not accomplish anything. Last night, according to a letter from Jackson, the horses came wandering back to the barn all alone. There had been a reward of $500 offered by the owner of the team and the citizens of the town.—Norfolk News.

It is a diabolical ailment. It lays hold of each of the several hundred bones of the anatomy, and seems able to attend to them separately and to paralyze without becoming over-taxed. It does a little business with the muscles and often a-sails different organs. It knows how to do it. It catches the weakest organ, and then makes it weaker than the rest.

EAT WHAT YOU LIKE

Don't Starve or Diet, but use Mi-o-na and Cure Your Stomach Troubles.

The average treatment of stomach troubles consist of a rigid diet list, which often half starves the patient. Of course it would be foolish for any one who knows that some foods are positively harmful and poisonous to continue eating them, even while following the Mi-o-na treatment, but in ordinary cases of stomach troubles it is not necessary to starve or diet if Mi-o-na is faithfully used, a tablet before each meal.

This scientific remedy, for the cure of stomach troubles, acts upon the whole digestive system, and strengthens the organs so that they are able to digest any food that is eaten without fear of distress.

E. J. Raymond has so much confidence in the power of Mi-o-na to cure stomach troubles, and resulting ills, that he will give a guarantee with every 50 cent box to refund the money unless it cures.

Jack Lewis is moving to Smith county, Kas. He shipped his goods yesterday and his family started this morning. He will leave in a few days.

NOT A PATENT MEDICINE

Hymei a Scientific Treatment for Catarrh by Breathing Medicated Air.

Breathed through the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, Hymei destroys all catarrhal germs in the air passages of the throat and nose, soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane and effectually drives from the system all traces of catarrhal poison.

No one should use Hymei until the patent medicine, the only one ever used as catarrh cure. It is as superior to them all as the diamond is more valuable than cheap glass.

The complete Hymei outfit, consisting of a neat pocket inhaler, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hymei costs but $1.00 and extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents, making it the most economical method of curing catarrh, as well as the most reliable.

Raymond has sold a great many Hymei outfits and has seen such remarkable results from its use, that he will sell it under an absolute guarantee that it cures nothing unless it cures.

PROBATE NOTICE TO CREDITORS

In the County Court of Wayne County, Nebraska.

In the matter of the estate of Rhoda Biddings, deceased.

Notice is hereby given, That the creditors of the said deceased Rhoda Biddings, Administrator of said estate, before me, County Judge of Wayne County, Nebraska, at the County Court Room in said county, on the 23rd day of March, 1906, and on the 23rd day of August, 1906, at 10 o'clock A. M., each day, for the purpose of presenting their claims for examination, adjustment and allowance. Six months are allowed for creditors to present their claims and 8 months for the Administrator to settle said estate, from the 23rd day of February, 1906.

This notice will be published in the Wayne HERALD for four weeks, successively prior to the 23rd day of March, 1906.

Witness my hand and seal of said court, this 23rd day of February, A. D. 1906.

(Seal) E. HERRING, County Judge.

NOTICE. Notice is hereby given by virtue of a chattel mortgage dated on the 9th day of July 1904, and duly filed and recorded in the office of the County Clerk of Wayne County, Nebraska, on the 30th day of July 1904, and acted by H. H. Lowder and G. S. Meloy to Gar, Scott & Company to secure the payment of the sum of Six Hundred Sixty Dollars ($660.00), and upon which there is now due the sum of Four Hundred Ninety Dollars ($490.00).

Default having been made in the payment of said sum, therefore I will sell the property therein described, viz., One 14 Horse Dingle Woodbury Power, 5113, and the usual appurtenances manufactured by Gar, Scott & Company, One 81x49 Gar, Spot Separator, 17964, on a wagon, with folding stacker, bills, and the usual appurtenances manufactured by Gar, Scott & Company, One 5 Leader 2540, at public auction on the farm of Charles Linn in section 20, Garfield Township, Wayne County, on the 9th day of April, 1906, at 10 o'clock A. M. of said day.

Dated March 9, 1906.

The 2 Johns Are Not In Style

It may seem strange to our many friends to hear that for once we are not in style. It has been a known fact that The 2 Johns are always up-to-date and in style, and to hear that they are not in style this season may surprise some and especially those that have never traded at this store.

The latest style for men is such that our conscience (and we have a good one) will not permit us to be in style this season. It is stylish for business men to have a "Graft" and make money. We have no objection to making money but we are compelled to get along without a "Graft," and therefore we are not in style this season. From present indications it looks like the "Graft" will have a short run, for a good many men that have used the "Graft" have good prospect to spend a few years in the penitentiary. Some stores are in style all the time and are using a "Graft" but we will try and get along the old way and sell our goods—one price to all—and give new goods for anything that fails to give satisfaction.

Our store is fast filling up with new spring goods, and we never had so many new goods for you to select from as we have this season. All these things were bought before goods advanced and therefore we are able to sell you at the old price. Not many merchants can say that. It would prove interesting and profitable for you to call and spend a few moments looking over new spring goods. Come in and try on some of our hand tailored suits and see how they fit. Notice the low price we make, and the only difference you will see between Our Suits and a tailor made suit to order, is the price. If you buy a suit here you will save half. Now these are only words, and to make them true it is necessary to have your presence in this store for a few minutes. Can we have it?

CITY COUNCIL.

City council met in regular session Monday evening when all members were present.

Claims were allowed as follows:
R. J. Armstrong, coal $117.30
M. O'Connell, draying 6.90
A. R. Davis, supreme court cost. 10.61
Otto H. Kuhl, costs district court 4.25
L. W. Roe, fire company 23.00

Following persons were appointed clerks and judges of election:
First ward—Pat Dixon, judge; Al Houser and J. R. Rundell, clerks.

Second ward—Kenny Kollogg, judge; Frank Gaertner and D. S. McVicker, clerks.

Third ward—J. E. Harmon, judge, A. E. Brezler and B. F. Feather, clerks.

A petition, with description, asking the city to vacate a part of Second street in the city of Wayne, for the use of Weber Bros' mill, was presented, read and placed on file.

A motion prevailed that the electric light committee be instructed to place an arc light over the railroad crossing if deemed best. It is thought the committee will make such improvement and it is understood that in return the railroad company will use the city's power to light its depot and platform.

Preparation is being made to procure and set out 500 trees in the city's park at a cost of about $100. The order will contain a variety, though ash will predominate.

ROBACKER-OTT.
(TO THE HERALD).

On Wednesday, March 7, Mr. John Rosacker and Miss Alvina Ott drove to Wayne, where they repaired to the office of Judge Hunter, who quickly pronounced the mystic words that made them one in the sight of God and man. They were accompanied by Miss Mary Rosacker and Mr. Will Ott, sister and brother of the bride and groom. After the marriage ceremony the happy couple drove to the home of the bride where the parents and friends of both parties awaited their arrival. After congratulations and good wishes were over, the merry party sat down to a regular wedding feast, after which the evening was spent in music and dancing. The young couple spent the two following days visiting their friends, returning to their own home Friday evening. About 8 o'clock some thirty men and boys gathered outside and treated John and his bride to a genuine old-fashioned charivari. John opened the door and in stead of saying "it is too cold to stand outside," and he did not fancy much of those they were making. They spent having spent a jolly time in the hour.

The bride received a number of handsome wedding presents, among which was a sewing machine.

That John and his wife may have a happy and prosperous future, a happy marriage to them.

DEATH OF RICHARD GOLDIE.
Richard Goldie, past 85 years of age, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. O. A. Chace, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, after having been afflicted with pneumonia for several days. He has been a native of England for some time, but spent his early years in Illinois. He was married and lived by Mr. and Mrs. Chace and his son, W. S. Goldie, left this afternoon for Crathorne, Ia., where the funeral and interment will take place at noon tomorrow.

Mr. Goldie was born in Crathorne, Yorkshire, England, October 23, 1820. At the age of 18 he visited South America and later Canada, locating at Toronto where he was married January 1, 1848, to Katharine Pirie. In Canada he began a newspaper career, publishing the British Chronicle and subsequently the Paisley Advocate in that country. He moved to Sioux City in 1871 and there established and published the Gazette. On coming to Sioux City, he took a homestead nine miles from Le Mars and named it Crathorne in honor of his birthplace. The remains of his wife, who died in Sioux City July 25, 1871, were buried at Crathorne, and very appropriately his remains will be laid to rest in those of his life partner on the old homestead. His last newspaper venture was the Le Mars Sun which he published for a number of years and until 1893, when he disposed of it and came to Wayne spending most of his remaining days with relatives here. Four years ago he enjoyed a trip to his native country and visited his sister who still lives in England and is the only surviving member of his immediate family.

He was the father of twelve sons and daughters, eight of whom, six sons and two daughters, are living as follows: W. S. Goldie, proprietor of the Democrat of Wayne; Mrs. C. A. Chace of this place; Mrs. F. F. Wheeler, well known here, now in Johannesburg, Africa; W. P. Goldie, who has been publisher of the Cherokee, Iowa, Democrat for twenty years; George and John Goldie, proprietors of a job printing office at Sioux City; Chas. Goldie, Methodist minister at Sheldon, Iowa, and Douglas Goldie, farmer near Le Mars, Iowa.

Mr. Goldie was an able writer and successful business man. He was of robust constitution and indomitable will power, not yielding to infirmities until a few days before his death. He lived a long and creditable life, and while death cannot long be deferred after more than four score years have been reached, it nevertheless brings a sad parting, recollections come trooping back, with keen realization of the earthly end of one long loved and cherished.

To the surviving relatives, the HERALD joins in extending cordial sympathy.

The Store That Saves You Money

Are You Worried About the Spring Sewing?

Let us help you. This store is full of suggestions and ideas that will aid you in planning for the styles, materials and trimmings to be in vogue this season.
For the past three months we have been making a careful study of the styles which will predominate this spring and summer and now this store is provided with every new and worthy cloth that your needs will demand.
Each want has been carefully listed and provided for.

Baby's Wardrobe First on List

The baby's wardrobe came first on the list. We are making a special effort to carry a most complete and dainty line for infant's wear. Dainty dimittes and nainsooks for slips and dresses. Wash silks, cashmeres and Bedford Corda in white and cream for long or short coats. The tiniest of embroideries and laces, edging and insertions for trimmings.
Beautifully embroidered Wool Flannels for petticoats. Soft, fine Cotton Flannels and Diaper Cloth by the yard. Also a dainty line of Caps, Coats and Dresses.

For Little Girls and Misses

For the girls—from the little miss with her first short dress to the dightful young lady who dresses like mother—the stock is full of new and useful materials. Fine Gingham, a very large assortment of stripes and checks—absolutely guaranteed to wash—suitable for school dresses, play dresses and waists. Imitation Lived Saltines at 15c up to 35c in white, Alice blue and tan for suits and dresses. Organzies, Dimittes and Lawns in white and colors, including several patterns in the new flowered Silk Mulls for dress up and warm weather dresses.

For Mother and For the Home

For mother we have planned the most. Furnishings for her home, Carpets, Curtains, Sheetings, Rugs. Linoleum for the kitchen.
For her wardrobe—all the latest and most serviceable dress fabrics. Trimmings, Silks and Linings to correspond. Materials for House Dresses, Aprons, Coats, Skirts, Underwear. No detail has been neglected.

If It Is a Question of Style

If it is a question of style, there are the Ladies' Home Journal Patterns of which we carry a complete stock. They will make the planning easier.

Whether you are ready to buy or not, you are cordially invited to visit this store and get ideas and suggestions that will make your spring sewing easier. We are making every endeavor to have our store known as the shopping headquarters for every family in the county. Come in and let us convince you.

Butter, Eggs, and Poultry Good as Cash

Putting off the coming of spring will also insure the fruit crop. We need fruit as well as ice in Wayne county.
The Presbyterian ladies met at the home of Mrs. Jno. T. Brossler Tuesday afternoon to prepare for their Easter bazaar.
Joe, the 7-year-old son of John McGinty, sustained a fracture of one of the bones of his left arm, six inches above the wrist, Saturday afternoon, by a horse falling on him. Dr. Nieman was called.
Dan Harrington received a letter recently from Frank A. Dearborn stating that he had launched into a manufacturing enterprise at Chicago in partnership with a friend. Mr. Dearborn's many friends here will wish him well.
In Saturday evening's Sioux City Tribune appeared a picture showing five generations of an Iowa family with which Mrs. J. N. Mineo of Wayne is connected. It is very unusual to find living representatives of that number of generations.
Rose, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Meyers of Emerson, died Monday the 13th inst. and the remains were conveyed to Wayne for burial Tuesday. Brief services were conducted at the grave by Rev. C. J. Ringer. The child was born Feb. 13.
The weather has been having a grand farewell for the cool barons this week. It has been about as cold a streak as we have had during the winter, and as a result the ice harvest is renewed with assurance of an abundance for next summer's use.
Mrs. John T. Brossler and Mrs. J. J. Williams entertained the members of the Acme club and their husbands at a 6 o'clock dinner at the home of the latter Tuesday evening. After a three-course dinner, a few toasts were spent pleasantly with games and charades.
Otoe Kohl and S. O. Lane and families left here yesterday afternoon for their homes in Glendon, N. D. They had over a car of furniture and live stock. Also six families from Carroll left for the same destination at the same time and had three cars. The issue had not been agreed to by the attorneys.

Wm. House left yesterday afternoon for Missouri Valley, Ia., in response to a telegram announcing the death of his brother, Charles House, who died Tuesday night.

Mr. Evernham resides at Huntly and his son and son-in-law live on the land. They moved to their new homes March 1.
The most strenuous charity for reported took place in Pennsylvania a few days ago when a house, sheltering a bride and groom, was nearly demolished by shot and dynamite. The incensed groom had fifty of the town's young men who took part, arrested on criminal charges and has also commenced civil action against them to recover damages.
A. F. Enos has sold the Stanton Picket to a man by the name of Picket who comes from Wahoo, Neb. Mr. Enos launched the Picket twelve years ago as a populist paper, but two years later came out as a republican. He issued a very readable paper, and besides was very successful from a financial standpoint. He has been publisher of the Stanton for several years. Mr. Picket is reported to be a newspaper man of ability and experience.

A committee, selected from the commercial club, has taken in hand the business of securing the loan of $10,000 with which to provide the much needed building for the college. One-third of the amount has already been subscribed without effort on the part of the committee, and it is believed the balance will follow readily. It is hoped so, for improvements at the college mean a great deal for the growth and prosperity of Wayne. The college has largely stimulated real estate values and contributed materially to the upbuilding of the town, and with doubled facilities, its influence for the general good of Wayne and vicinity will be doubled. There should be no hesitancy in providing all the room and equipments at the college that can be used.
