Dr. Eells spent Sunday with his wife and little girl who are recovering from operations at the Samaritan hospital in Sioux City. He reports their condition very satisfactory.

Richard Closson, the genial editor of the Carroll Index, and the irrepresible Billy Jenkins of the Welsh settlement, were in the city Saturday and Marshal Miner didn't have to take care of either of them.

The rails are laid on both ends of the Great Northern's Sioux City Ashland line from both ends to the big cut that is being made through the hill on the Winnebago reservation and it is claimed this will be finished and trains running clear through on or before May 1st.

Frank Andrews, a former employe of the Herald and at present publisher of the Hoskins Headlight, is putting up a pretty good paper for that burg and its citizens ought to stand loyally by the paper and its publisher—that's the way to keep a good thing when you have it.

While preaching to his congregation at Carson, Iowa, Sunday, Rev. J. B. Lentz was struck by lightning and instantly killed. He belonged to the church of Latter Day Saints. Some in the audience were partially stunned by the shock, but none of them seriously hurt. The church caught fire, but was saved.

Prof. E. P. Wilson has received, as president of the Northwest Nebraska Teachers' association, a neatly carved gavel from the industrial department of the Columbus school. Prof. Wilson will present it to the association at its annual meeting in Norfolk next week. It shows the laudable progress being made in industrial work by the Columbus school.

I. M. Stockwell left the last of the week for Sioux City. After reaching Sioux City he was given a position by the Great Northern R. R., and went up into Minnesota to take charge of a depot. His family will leave here some time in the first part of the month and will visit with relatives in Wisconsin after which they will move onto their claim in South Dakota.—Wausau Gazette.

County Clerk Reynolds has a brother-in-law who is an employe of the clerk's office in Kearney county who thought they had a pretty big run of business on the first day of March, the filing fees amounting to $38 for the day. Clerk Reynolds says Wayne county can show just a $6 better record for the same day, the filing fees in this office being $44, and Wayne is not so large a county as Kearney.

N. E. Philbrick and Ernest Albertson departed Tuesday morning for a trip into Oklahoma to look at government lands, and if they find something that suits them will each file on a piece. Ernest will return as far as southern Kansas and begin on his father's land to get it ready to move onto next month. Mr. Philbrick will return to Laurel and probably move south when J. A. Albertson goes.—Laurel Advocate.

The man who spends all his hard earned wages over the bar, wants to revise the old saying to make it read: "laugh and your friends laugh with you, weep and they'll laugh the more.... One of our leading citizens remarked recently that a man who voted for dollars and cents only, is a dangerous citizen. Very true; the platform "we must have revenue if we have to go to hell to get it" is perilous to a community in more respects than one.—Randolph Times.

Another improvement for Sholes. Mr. Gosard of Wayne will, the last of this week, start a barber shop in the R. L.

Nanceo building. Every one let your whiskers grow until the new barber gets located.... Thomas Harris of the Welsh settlement, died at his home two miles west of Carroll, Monday night. He was taken with the measles about two weeks ago. From the measles developed an attack of pneumonia which was the cause of his death. The funeral was held Wednesday from the Welsh Presbyterian church.—Sholes Signal.

Otto F. Tappert, a well known traveling representative of the Standard Oil company, suicided by taking carbolic acid at Norfolk last Thursday. The rash act was committed in the paraffin room of the Elks club with which he had long been connected as a prominent member. The cause that prompted his self destruction is not known. His family relations were pleasant. He leaves a wife and four children. He was a veteran traveling agent of the Standard Oil company, having been in the service for thirty-five years. He frequently visited Wayne and had many friends here.

A man who was given to grumbling at everything and on every occasion was attacked by inflammatory rheumatism and was carefully nursed by his wife, who was very devoted to him in spite of his fault finding disposition. His suffering caused her to burst into tears sometimes as she sat at his bedside. One day a friend of the invalid came in and asked him how he was getting on. "Badly, badly!" he exclaimed; "and it's all my wife's fault." "Is it possible?" "Yes; the doctor told me that damp places were bad for me, and there that woman sits and cries just to make the air moist in the room."—Ex.

Last week A. E. Clark attended the O. R. Steele sale of Shorthorns at Ireton, Iowa, and purchased nineteen head of animals, some of them Oriskank Scotch stuff. Mr. Clark's herd now consists of almost 200 head of pure bred Shorthorns, more than a dozen of them being pure Scotch and the herd as an entirety being one of the very best in the state. Wayne county is proud of her herds of pure bred cattle and swine and her people fully realize that it is one of the prime factors in making the county one of the richest in the entire northwest. It requires men like Clark with plenty of capital and an inclination to this kind of stuff to set the pace and demonstrate the value of these animals to the general farmer, and he is not sparing the cash in pushing his great herd to the very forefront.

Well, the caucuses are over and the candidates in nomination and but one ticket is in the field for all officials except mayor, and for this office John T. Bressler and Wm. Piepenstock are opponents. They are both good business men and we believe either of them will give the city a good administration. Both are well equipped in every way to fill the place to which they aspire, and whichever one is elected will doubtless do his best to see that affairs are well conducted. In the first ward George Stringer is the candidate for councilman; in the second it is Theodore Duerig and the third has named Dan Harrington. These names ought to be a guarantee of good government or at least faithful effort to properly perform the duties devolving on them. Patrick Coleman is the candidate for police judge; A. T. Wittor has been named as his own successor and Rolley Ley for city treasurer.

It's getting toward the $40,000 mark, we mean the college bond subscription list, and if you want to be numbered among the enterprising people who propose to keep Wayne on the map as not only one of Nebraska's good towns, but one of the very best, you ought to hunt up the paper and sign for all the bonds you can carry. This is not a burden that ought to be borne by a few, but one in which every citizen is deeply interested and therefore ought to be willing to contribute to the general welfare of the city. It is all very well to boast of living in one of the live towns of the earth, but the question is how much are you doing towards keeping away the corpse maker. Now is the time to do your work; bouquets of wind are cheap; it takes money to build colleges and make cities. Don't stand back and balk because some tight old money bag is not doing his share in the matter. Every community has men who would sooner attend a funeral than have a birth in the family, because the expense account comes in the first and only begins in the latter, but don't get into these fellows' class; they are birds of ill omen to any city.

Our rural route readers will do well to read the following: In a letter to the postmaster at Neligh the fourth assistant postmaster general says: "Referring to your letter of March 6, reporting had roads on routes No. 1 and No. 2 from your office it is desired that you bring the matter of the condition of the roads to the attention of the patrons and others interested and say to them that the department requires all roads over which rural routes are laid out to be maintained in condition to be traveled with facility and safety at all seasons of the year, and that unless some action is taken within a reasonable length of time looking to the repair of the roads, the department will consider the matter of the withdrawal of the service therefrom. It is desired that you report further to this office upon the condition of the roads."

Mrs. W. O. Lowry submitted to an operation upon her eyes last Friday, but the doctors do not hold out much hope for her entire cure, so we understand. .... An old gentleman by the name of

MIDDLE LIFE

A Time When Women Are Susceptible to Many Dread Diseases—Intelligent Women Prepare for it. Two Relate their Experiences.

The "change of life" is the most critical period of a woman's existence and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason. Every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain. When the system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to anemias, or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active and with a host of nervous irritations make life a burden. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Mrs. A. E. G. Hyland

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flushes, headaches, backaches, dizziness, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness, inquietude, and dizziness, as a result of the "change of life" in women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying time of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system.

For special advice regarding this important period women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and it will be furnished absolutely free of charge. The present Mrs. Pinkham, her daughter, Lydia E. Pinkham, first assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women.

Read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound did for Mrs. Hyland and Mrs. Hyland.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— I had been suffering with displacement of the uterus for some time and was passing through "change of life." My abdomen was badly swollen, my stomach was sore, I had dizzy spells, sick headaches, and was very nervous. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

A Lively Catch. Mrs. S.—And so you are leaving us, are you? And what are you going to do?

Friend—Please, miss, I'm going to get married.

Mrs. S.—Dear me! Isn't that rather sudden? Who is the happy man?

Friend—Do you remember, miss, my asking you about four weeks ago to go to the funeral of a friend? Well, I do go to marry the corpse's husband. Sure, he told me then I would live the life of a party.—Harper's Weekly.

THE POPULAR PULPIT

DEBTORS AND PAUPERS.

By Rev. Henry F. Cope. I am debtor both to the Greeks and to the barbarians, both to the wise and to the unwise.—Romans 1, 14.

How much of the good in the world can we claim as our own creation? How small that we have given as compared with that we have gained! How little the knowledge we have conferred compared with that we have inherited! We may boast of our independence; but it is as impossible for a man to live to himself as it is to escape having ancestors.

Life is all a matter of receiving good we have not earned, the incurring of an obligation to make to-morrow pay the debts of to-day, to hand on to the future both principal and interest of that we have from the past. We are all debtors, that we cannot escape; the question is, shall we be also paupers, shall we be but parasites, devouring but never creating?

The man who talks about the world owing him a living sees things upside down. The truth is he owes the world his living; he can only repay the loan with his life. Not by his own wisdom or strength are we born into civilization instead of savagery, not by our own moral attainments do we inherit mercy; fearfully, the broad, growing spirit of humanity.

One is the harvest that others have sown. Liberty is ours because our fathers hated oppression to the death. Light is ours because others fought with darkness. Truth is ours because there were souls that chose their Calvary's rather than compromise when they saw their clear light. All the benefits we enjoy have been bought with a great price. We cannot utter upon them without incurring obligation, becoming the debtors of those who paid the price.

There are few, if any, who we despise more than those who get on by everything but give nothing. Whether the man be a preacher who thinks that he should get his clothes and his raiment and his car fare given him, or the politician who looks on the public purse as his perquisite, the honest man despises the whole brood. It is not envy of their indolence or their opulence with him; it is honest hatred of the habit of getting something for nothing.

But those bootlers and graters are not the only social parasites. We are all in danger of being the things we so much despise, of making our lives one great game of grab. True we work for our living; we give a full day's toll for the wage. But after all, why do we work? Are we willing to give more than an exact return, willing to attempt to repay the universe for our loans on life?

The true life looks on living as the paying of a debt. This is what Jesus meant when he spoke of the necessity that he should give his life to the world of helping men, of gladly dying when death could better serve truth and right than living. The Master has taught us how to live.

Only because men long ago recognized the principle of that great life, only because they said as he said, "I am come that they might have life more abundantly," are we what we are. He is not an honest man who will allow these others of yesterday to lay down their lives for his to-day and make no gift of himself to the lives of to-morrow.

Who lives for himself without thought of his brothers near at hand, far away, or yet to be, has no right in the ranks of humanity. He is put to shame by Greeks, who wrought not for wages but for love of beauty and that it might endure; by barbarians, who gave their rough lives for a world's progress. He is put to shame by nature, whose economy knows no thing that lives or blooms for itself alone. His shame shall be made perfect when he hears, "Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these ye did it not to me."

LACK OF CONSCIENCE A MENACE.

By Rev. Janus B. Remensnyder. Herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offense toward God and toward men.—Acts 24, 16.

Conscience is a compound of two Latin words signifying self-knowledge. It is an inner light which shows the way of duty. It is a secret voice which forbids the wrong and commands the right. Hence it points to a state of authority out of ourselves, that is, it witnesses to a God.

Conscience, however, may be taught. An uneducated, ungodly conscience is one of the most terrible forces resident in man. And herein comes the necessity of education. When a man is acting as impelled by the authority of God he should know what God wills. Hence the human conscience must be enlightened by the word of God.

There are many imperfect and defective consciences from which the grossest errors and wrongs result. There is, at first, a false conscience—one that has been mistakenly educated, that sees harm in things innocent, that confounds abstinence with temperance, that forbids what God has meant to be enjoyed, that mistakes austerity for piety.

This makes conscience play the role of a harsh, severe and bigoted censor, altogether foreign to its true intent. There are few things worse than a false conscience.

Again, there is a legalistic conscience. This takes hold upon externalities. If the outward life be correct, if the reputation be kept moral, if the visible conduct be blameless, if duties be regularly discharged, it is self-satisfied. But it overlooks the fact that the real seat of conscience is in the inner life. The most faultless legalism is utterly fruitless and vain until it springs from the heart. The works of such formalists are but dead to be put away and have their reward.

There is the double conscience—one for the private and another for the public life. Some men feel in honor bound to do uprightly by their families and friends. They are patterns of moral correctness in their personal relations. But as members of some corporation or trust they freely, and apparently without blush, commit acts and sanction practices which are no less than robbery. Even members in good standing in Christian churches have thus besmirched the church's fair name by flagrant dishonesty.

And then, again, there is the one-sided conscience. Paul's conscience in the text had the two necessary sides. "Herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offense toward God and toward men."

The conscientiousness of many only embraces men, but quite ignores God, their Maker. They have morality, but lack religion; and thus they disregard the supreme obligation of the ethical sense. God not only will not be ignored, but He wants the first concern. Wrote Ruskin truly:

"God will put up with many things in the heart of man, but one thing. He will not put up with the second place. He who gives God second place, gives him no place."

No more important theme could be suggested for our time than this. We are in danger of incurring that most terrible of indictments—a conscienceless age. Thinking, upright glands are shocked at the revelation showing utter lack of conscience in wide ranges of present day life. We need, then, a revival of the conscience. We need to emphasize the imperative necessity of holding it. The disregard of conscience messages renders to the individual and disaster to society.

Conscience wounded becomes an adverbial participle that will sting to the death. Let no man hope to evade the Nemesis that follows the ignoring of this divine monitor.

No torments which the gods feign Can match the fierce, intolerable gain He feels who, night and day, devoid of rest, Carries his own accuser in his breast.

A life without conscience toward God first and toward man because of God is the worst of failures. No gold can gild, no glamour of position or power can fill it with success. But a good conscience is true riches—a patent of genuine nobility, a hedge against all adversities and a light of inner peace and joy that will sustain us until we reach Our Father's home.

BE SURE.

By Rev. Russell H. Conwell, D. D. Text:—Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure.—1 Peter 1, 10.

Some men say that all are going to be saved. But there is a doubt about it, and I am speaking for the benefit of that special class who do not seriously feel anything about religion and have little religious interest. Some men do not believe there is any everlasting punishment. But I wonder how such men feel when they read the fifth chapter of John, the twenty-ninth verse, wherein it says that "all they that are in their graves shall come forth; they that have done evil to everlasting condemnation." Now if a man reads that there must remain in his mind a little feeling that it may be true, that there are some who are lost, and if some are lost up to what line could they go and still be lost. Suppose a man went to read the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew in which Christ has singled up the Judgment day, when the righteous come before Him, and they that had yielded the sick and fed the hungry and went to the prisons were told by Jesus, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these ye have done it unto me." Then His lips to the vilest and says, "Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels." Then in the last verse of the twenty-fifth chapter he says, "These shall go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous shall go into eternal life."

Now there is a line somewhere between the lost wicked and the saved righteous. We are crossing that line one step at a time, and the good old apostle said that so long as you do not know exactly where that line is, be doubly sure. We cannot measure how much we need to believe in order to be saved by our belief. We do not know the amount of faith required for us to pass this line. We cannot tell how good we must be through the Savior's influence upon our hearts to be sure of eternal life. But we can do sure of the apostle's advice as endeavor to make sure of our election and of our calling.

"Make your calling and election sure" so that when your family gather at your bedside, and the last hour of life is past, they will look up with hope, believing that you are saved and the influence of that saved life will be a blessing upon those you leave behind you, so that you will gather at your bedside and grave in doubt and questioning as to whether they will meet you in heaven or not. Do not rest upon any thought that you are saved until you have done all that you can do and prayed all that you can pray and lived as good as it is possible to live to the very last moment of your allotted time.

DISFIGURED WITH ECZEMA.

Brushed Scales from Face Like Powder—Worse Under Physicians—Cuticura Works Wonders.

I had suffered with eczema six months. I had tried three doctors, but did not get any better. It was on my body and on my face so thick that I could hardly put a pin on me without touching eczema. My face was covered, my eyebrows came out, and then it got in my eye. I then went to another doctor. He asked me what I was taking for it, and I told him Cuticura. He said that was a very good thing, but that he thought my face would be marked for life. But Cuticura did its work, and my face is now just as clear as it ever was. I told all my friends about my remarkable cure. I feel so thankful I want everybody far and wide to know what Cuticura can do. It is a sure cure for eczema. ## The Litchfield Manure Spreader

FACTS

COMPARE THESE POINTS with every other Spreader on the market and note the results.

LOW DOWN, makes it easy to load and distributes the manure on the ground instead of in the air. Its compact construction makes it more solid, substantial and durable, besides other advantages.

NEVER ENDING CONVEYER, as used on this machine is always ready to load and will handle much larger loads than the other kind. It gives three times the life and one-third the trouble.

AUTOMATIC CLEANING, by reason of the swinging motions, preventing any accumulation on the lower conveyer in either winter or summer.

BEATER WHEEL is equipped with our patented square tooth which is screwed into the cross-tie rod bars under high pressure. Never comes off.

TAIL GATE raises automatically in starting the conveyer and rests on the load to assist in equal distribution.

TRACTION DRIVE is absolutely divided between the two traction wheels. This applies to both the movement of the conveyer and beater wheel. Neither wheel can skid.

STEEL WHEELS are used throughout. Traction wheels have six inch tires with round, rolled edge. These round corners prevent to a large extent cutting through sod of grass ground. These wheels are constructed on a new plan combining the strength of the ordinary steel wheel and the wood wheel.

TRACTION CLEATS are permanent on all wheels but run perfectly smooth, without any jar.

DISTRIBUTING COMB AND WIND BOARD is adjustable to different kinds of manure.

Each tooth has its own coil spring to permit frozen chunks or other obstructions from passing through without interfering with the other teeth.

FRONT HITCH is double braced, front and back. Machine turns in its own length and handles very easily under all conditions.

LIGHT DRAFT has been so successfully accomplished in this machine that two horses under ordinary conditions will handle it. All machines are equipped with both two and three-horse hitch.

ONE LEVER ONLY is used in the entire manipulation of this Spreader. Contrary to the usual conditions, this has simplified the entire machine.

POSITIVE ACTION in throwing this machine either in or out of gear, doing away with all springs and using a positive clutch.

QUALITY OF MATERIAL used in this Spreader is the best. Steel and malleables are used wherever possible. High grade cold rolled shafting only, with steel bolts and the best lumber that can be bought for the purpose.

WORKMANSHIP is the best we can secure. Every part is built on regulation forms and gauges, making everything interchangeable.

PAIN AND FINISH is strictly first class both in quality and appearance. SIMPLICITY is the keynote of this machine, having only about one-half as many parts as other Spreaders.

REPAIRS, we do not expect to have them (at least to any extent) but if they are necessary they will be furnished at a reasonable price.

THE LITCHFIELD SPREADER stands alone today in a class by itself. It is modern but not an experiment. Every point referred to above is substantiated in the field. This machine is not a "sample floor" Spreader but is a money-maker for the man who buys it.

THE WAYNE HERALD.

Official paper of Wayne and Wayne county. Published every Thursday.

Subscription, $1.00 a Year in Advance.

Wayne county farmers support about fifteen elevators along the lines of the Omaha in the county and pay annual tribute of at least $125,000 for hauling the grains marketed in the county. This is almost $8,500 to each elevator—a pretty expensive toll on the products of our farms. These figures are based on a calculation that one half of the corn, oats, rye and all of the wheat grown in the county is marketed through the elevators. If the estimate is too high on it down a third and then you have a bill of over $60,000. If it is necessary to pay each elevator from $5,000 to $8,000 for buying and hauling the grain, the question naturally comes up is it necessary to have so large a number of elevators in order to handle the business, and if the number could be cut down one-half, could not the margin per bushel be reduced in like manner? Under the system now in vogue, taking the market reports at any of the great markets, the margin required to sell a bushel of corn is around five cents per bushel and on oats four cents and wheat as much more. There is no such thing as an independent buyer and for all practical purposes we would be just as well off if there were no pretenders of that kind, because all are governed by the same powers that govern the line elevators. It is little wonder that the average producer figures that he is ground pretty fine between the millstones of the grain buying combinations. The HERALD is well aware the margin taken between buying and selling price is not all of which complaint can be justly made. There is the evil of buying oats at 83 pounds to the bushel and wheat at 61 pounds, when the law plainly says that 56 pounds shall constitute a bushel of oats and 60 pounds a bushel of wheat, and furthermore, when the buyer sells he gives but 33 and 60 pounds respectively. These abuses are among the things that are waking up the producing classes of the prairies, and that are making them take an interest in politics that will compel attention and eventually compel these creatures of a combination to stop their ungodly practices and make their business stand the test of fair and open competition with profits on an equitable basis or go out of business. It is an open secret that this combination is protected in its nefarious practices by the connivance of the railroads in making it almost impossible for a really independent buyer to do business without being hampered. The remedy for these evils lies in the complete abolition of passes, rebates and discriminations of all kinds, the election of officials in the state and nation who will not only make the right kind of laws, but will have the stamina to enforce them and the ability and disposition to prosecute these fellows to the limit.

It is not pleasant to be obliged to criticize, and generally speaking it is a task that brings to the one performing the duty a rather unpleasant notoriety. But at present we believe that much that is being said by the republican press of Nebraska regarding the wonderful things done by Norris Brown is pure gush and its origin due largely to misinformation. This talk about his destroying the Nebraska grain trust is a fair sample of praise that is being given where in reality no credit is due, because for all practical purposes this grain trust is in a healthy condition as at any time since its origin. Simply because the tangible form of the trust has been dissolved does not put out of existence the real object of the trust, which was, and is today, to control the prices paid for grain at the various buying points throughout the state. Any man who knows anything about how prices of grain are daily fixed along the various railroads of the state is fully aware that the same methods are in vogue as when the trust was in full swing. It doesn't make any difference to the seller whether the prices are fixed by a combination called a trust, or whether they are fixed by some one party on the several lines of railroads, if the prices so fixed for each town are followed without deviation by the buyers, and that is exactly what is being done today, and the grain buyer who has the temerity to raise the fixed prices quickly finds all kinds of trouble coming his way. Then to talk about Norris Brown not being the sort of man the corporations can place confidence in comes of mighty poor grace, when before he is ready to announce his candidacy for the United States senate, he is called into a conference in which R. B. Schneider of Fremont is a party, rebuffs discredit upon any assertion of that kind, because probably no man in the state is more thoroughly and completely the representative of these interests than this same man Schneider. Schneider is the head, front and practically the brains of the grain dealers along one or more lines of railroad in the state; he is also a faithful servant of other corporate interests speaking advantages through legislation, that is not granted to the producing masses of the state and can generally be found lined up on the railroad side of every issue that in any manner affects their interests. Believing these things to be true, and also believing that Norris Brown has made promises or pledges that are entirely satisfactory to Schneider and the interests he represents, or he would not have his support and endorsement, we do not believe that Brown is the best representative of the people for the great office he aspires to fill, and until convinced that we are in error, in regard to these matters, it will not be our policy to boost his candidacy.

The associated press reports of the early part of the week tell of great floods in the Big Horn country. The rivers are higher than known for years and all the lowlands are being inundated. The story is being used in the city campaign that the participants in the first caucus came as a body to the second or citizens' caucus and attempted to run it. This story is not only unjust but is as a whole untrue. The writer was present at the first caucus, but did not participate in its work, and believes he is about as well acquainted as most people in the city, and was also present at the second caucus and is quite well satisfied that not a dozen of persons who attended the first caucus were present at the second; and we do not know that even the very few who attended both took any part in the first caucus except three persons, and one of these is now instrumental in giving currency to the story referred to. Be just, gentlemen; you are all neighbors and the men who are candidates for mayor do not need any misrepresentation in aid of their campaign.

Did you ever have occasion to take a run across a back yard to head of a loose horse or cow and suddenly find your chances of a record-breaking run cut short by the interference of a clothes-line catching you under the chin lifting you from terra firma and landing you on the flat of your back in a manner so vigorous as to cause you to think the heavens were filled with stars shooting right, left, up, down, slantwise and every other imaginable direction? If you have ever had an experience of this kind and didn't curse in several languages and many tones of voice, you are indeed a Christian who can well afford to believe your chances for a front seat near the orchestra in the New Jerusalem are indeed bright. We tried to do the act the other day and the way we kicked holes in the atmosphere wasn't slow; and the odd part of the whole thing was not the mid air performance, which we believe would have been creditable to almost any aerial artist, but when we struck the earth a 210 pound blow with the broad of our back we didn't swear—we had no wind to spare for trifles of that kind.

District court last week ground out quite a batch of business, mostly of the equity kind, except the divorce cases of which there were three. Wayne county is getting to be the front in pretty good shape in the matter of divorces; in fact in order to be strictly up to date you must be a divorcee, the good old fashioned people who believe divorcees are not strictly proper are being outclassed by the newer cut. The Hansen vs. Hansen case that has been pulling through the courts for the past eight or ten years is not yet disposed of. The cause of John S. Lewis, jr. vs. Wayne county was protested against the assessment of 1904; one of these cases was tried and the assessment sustained by the court and then the others were dismissed. I. W. Alter vs. Jack Lewis, was a foreclosure case and a decree was given for plaintiff. C. O. Fisher vs. Frank H. Carpenter, judgment for plaintiff; State vs. Hicher dismissed; Abbott vs. Schwede settled and dismissed; Schwede vs. Meara, dismissed; Snyder vs. Williams is a suit for damages claimed on charge of malpractice in a surgical operation, case continued; Wilbur vs. King et al confirmation of foreclosure sale; Carstens vs. Carstens, Beale vs. Beale and Sonner vs. Sonner were all divorce cases and decrees were granted in each case.

Miller, the Stanton county fender who went to the home of his father-in-law, Fred Habnke, just across the line south of Winside, last Thursday and fired three shots into the breast of his sixteen-year old wife, who was soon to become a mother, and then turned his murderous 33 caliber revolver onto his father-in-law and mother-in-law seriously wounding both of them, was captured within twenty-four hours down in the neighborhood of Peender by the sheriff of Thurston county, and the next day was lodged in jail at Stanton. His wife is slowly improving and it is thought will recover and the probabilities are that for this awful deed a jury of his fellowmen will sentence him to a long term in the penitentiary. The fender is a son of William Miller, more familiarly known as "whiskey Miller," a well to do German farmer and a very early settler in this part of Nebraska. The accused is a man of about 30 years and it is said married the girl, whom he has just attempted to send to an untimely grave, about two years ago to escape prosecution on a charge of rape and has treated her ever since in a manner not approved by people who believe wives are human beings and not brutes. The reason for the shooting is supposed to have been caused by the wife going to the home of her parents because of the ill treatment received at her husband's hands and which so enraged him that he procured the gun and started out to revenge himself on all parties concerned. The neighbors tell the story that a few weeks ago, the two-year-old child of the couple became sick and that Miller refused to procure medical aid or permit the parents of his wife to enter his home for the purpose of giving attention to the sick child. This caused Habnke to go to Stanton and get the sheriff and take the wife and baby to his home and at this time Miller was taken into custody but was immediately released and the sequel of the whole unhappy affair is this fiendish attempt at murder. It is said Mr. Habnke will recover from the effects of his wounds and Mrs. Habnke is not seriously wounded, having only the ends of two fingers shot off.

THE HERALD SOLD.

The Herald has been sold to Frank A. Bryner who takes possession on next Monday. The sale carries with it the good will and subscription list, and we believe the change will not be in any manner detrimental to the best interests of the paper, the city of Wayne or the host of readers of the Herald. Mr. Bryner is a young man of good ability and an ambition to succeed and we bespeak for him the hearty support and good will that have been extended to us during our ownership of the paper. And now in my own behalf I desire to thank the business men of Wayne for their generous support and also the subscribers who have been as loyal as any publisher could ask or expect. I have endeavored to give you value for what you have paid and must allow you to be the judges as to whether I have succeeded or not. I know that today the Wayne Herald is one of the very best newspaper properties in the state and as one who expects to make Wayne his home for the future, I desire to impress on patrons and readers the necessity of continuing that loyal support to local papers which in the past has made them a force for the upbuilding of the city and county. I also desire to thank the press of north Nebraska for the kind and courteous things you have seen fit to say for the paper and trust that your relations with the new management will be the most pleasant. E. W. Huss who has been with the paper most of the time since my acquiring it, will remain with the new management and will do all that he can to see that the harness is made to fit properly. I am quitting the newspaper work because I have other business that demands so much of my time and attention that I find it impossible to give this business the attention it requires. E. CUNNINGHAM.

That "She Stoops to Conquer" from the pen of that great Irish playwright, Oliver Goldsmith, is one of the best comedies ever written, was fully demonstrated only last spring when the dramatic critics of Chicago and New York were unanimous in their verdict to that extent.

No wonder then that the syndicate of Liebler & Co., chose this play for their all star cast. What other choice had they with which to bring out such artists as Eleanor Robson, Louis James, Kyrle Bellew, Isabelle Irving, Sidney Drew, etc., in one single play?

It was the most successful all star cast ever organized and the play had to be the play of plays—"She Stoops to Conquer."

Certainly Margaret Ralph's management is to be congratulated therefore, in securing such a play to mark her departure from Shakespearean roles. Opera house April 5th.

Plowing, sowing and planting will soon be the order of the day on the farms of the middle west. In this vicinity, every farm is already the scene of vigorous activity, and ere long it can be truthfully said that the agricultural season of 1906 is well under way. There are two styles of farming—one the fashion of the drudge, who employs all his energies in physical labor and has none left for brain work, and the other that of the modern farmer, who "mixes brains" with his soil. Fortunately, the farmers of Wayne county are men of brains and energy, readers of newspapers, patrons of the agricultural press and well posted on scientific and practical farm methods. Many of them are subscribers of The Iowa Homestead, of Des Moines, Iowa, and therefore well informed as to what is going on at the experiment stations and among successful farmers everywhere. The Herald is taking a great many subscriptions for the Iowa Homestead this season, which shows that interest in farm methods is growing. Let us send in your subscription. The price is low.

In a recent interview with a reporter of the Courier Journal of Toledo, Ohio, Margaret Ralph, the actress who for the past few years has become identified with Shakespearean plays from coast to coast, was sought the reason why she has given up Shakespearean roles and asked: "Is it not a delight to play Shakespeare?" "It is and it is not," was her reply. "It is a liberal education to speak the lines, but Shakespeare will always remain food for the elect and I know the general public want to see me in more modern parts. It is my manager's opinion to which I acquiesce, that has caused me to shelve Shakespeare for the time being. I do not intend to give it up for good, but I like my present role of Kate Hardcastle in 'She Stoops to Conquer' immensely." Opera house, April 5th.

Commercialism seems to have invaded every phase of American life. In the early days of the republic men sought high offices because of the honor conferred and the opportunity of usefulness presented. Today in many cases the place is sought because of the commercial profit to be derived, either for the seeker or for some favored interest. Marriages made with a money end in view, and love, the old consideration, is frequently not a factor in the case; funerals have become affairs of pomp and a display of wealth in which the grief of the bereaved is frequently measured by the cash outlay on the casket and trappings. Even religion, the saving of souls is now put on a purely commercial basis by evangelists of the William Sunday type. Over in Princeton, Illinois, during the month of February and the first two weeks in March this fakir held forth, working people up to a frenzy that in the final round-up yielded him the princely sum of $5079 for his labors, and the probabilities are that the regular pastor's salaries will be pretty short until the victims recover from the drain on the financial resources. Pretty nearly everything today bears the trademark. Love, honor and true Christianity are in the background, while wealth rides in the chariot race of prominence and prominence as the goal to which all efforts should be directed.

We Begin Now

Everything in nature will soon begin to put on a new suit and remind us that spring is here. Men and boys will soon find that their winter clothing feels uncomfortable and will want a new suit for spring and summer. We begin this week to display the largest and cheapest stock of men's and children's clothing ever seen in Wayne. Our suits are direct from the largest manufacturer in New York City, bought for spot cash and before the advance in wool. They are up to date and we will save you from 10 to 25 per cent on your purchase if you buy your clothes of us. Now this is only print and to make these words true it will be necessary for you to come to our store and see the goods, we will do the rest. Will you come? It will do you no harm to investigate before you buy a suit, and it will afford us great pleasure to show you these spring suits. We have made great efforts this year to increase our business and we have made lower prices than ever before and we can easily satisfy you that our clothing is the best made and the prices are lower than other merchants ask, but to do this we must have your presence in our store. We can't do these things if you don't come in and let us show you what we have this spring. Any suit you buy here that we recommend that don't give you satisfaction we will make satisfactory. Isn't that fair? Can you afford to buy any clothing before you have seen ours? Think about it and come in and we promise to treat you well no matter whether you buy or not. You will appreciate our treatment. We hope to see you in our store soon.

NEW RUSSIAN CRISIS

REPORT PLANS IN DANGER OF OVERTHROW

The Revolution is Crushed—Can no Longer Threatened from That Quarter—Anxiety as to Parliament—Hopes of People May Be Wrecked

A St. Petersburg special says: The Associated Press is able to give the results of an important conversation with a high personage regarding the situation in Russia. Neither the name for the position of this personage can be indicated, but his competency to speak upon the situation can be vouchsafed.

The conversation, which covered a wide range, left the distinct impression that the assembling of the national parliament would bring a crisis, but that the one anticipated abroad. The government evidently is absolutely convinced that an armed revolution or a general uprising which would menace the life is no longer possible and that the danger now is not that the government will be overthrown but that it will be driven to abandon its path of reform.

The guerrilla warfare which the revolutionists at present are conducting and the personnel referred to, "cannot" succeed. Acts of terrorism and the "black" propaganda which may be resorted to by the revolutionists and the police masters, Count Witte, the premier, and Minister of the Interior, will be of no avail. Bankers and business men will be driven up and there will be attempts to produce widespread strikes in the cities or a repetition of the strike are deemed to be futile. The government has a firm grip and every measure to prevent excesses will be taken.

Should there be any agrarian disorders in the summer they will not be revolutionary in character, for the peasants of Russia are true to the emperor. The danger lies in another direction.

It is not now a question of the fall of the government, but of whether reform or reaction will prevail—whether the present struggle to supplant the old regime and secure larger liberties for the people or a counter-revolutionary movement to carry away the gains of the revolution. The government has ordered that the press be strictly and honestly controlled and that the press be prevented from meeting the wishes of the people and has given them his word to this effect.

MINE OWNERS SPLIT

Robbins Taken Lead in Favor of Wage Advance

The deadlock between the coal operators and miners of the central competitive and southwestern districts continued throughout the meetings of the joint state committees of the joint conferences at Indianapolis, Ind., Friday, and when the meetings adjourned late in the afternoon no agreement had been reached. Both committees will meet again.

The discussion in the state committee in the central competitive district was confined entirely to arguments among the operators on the committee, and each side differences of views were strongly expressed by them. The miners were, for the most part, silent auditors.

An effort was made to secure from President Mitchell, of the mine workers, an expression as to whether he considered the Ryan resolution in effect. This resolution was adopted by the former joint conference in January and binds the miners not to sign in any district until an agreement shall have been reached in every district. Mr. Mitchell declined to commit himself.

E. L. Robbins, of the western Pennsylvania operators, was the target Friday for several vigorous attacks on his position in favor of paying the scale of 5.55 per cent in wages in the district and would comply with the demands of the miners. One of the most heated of these was made by J. B. Zerbe, of Cleveland, who spoke for the Ohio operators.

Mr. Robbins stated on the floor that he did not propose to be dictated to by the operators of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. He said his position was fair and just to all interests, and the Pittsburg Coal Company, which he represented, was willing to pay the advance in wages asked. He said he was also willing to pay the advance at his own mines in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois, and he had received notice from an Illinois coal company having an output of 1,000,000 tons annually that it had instructed its representatives to vote with him.

Mr. Robbins said the country would not permit a general strike on the causes shown. He turned to President Mitchell, of the Mine Workers, and said he did not believe the officials of the miners would dare to refuse to allow the miners to work where the demands were met.

INSURANCE MEN ARE GUILTY

Committed Larceny in Authorizing Campaign Contributions

A New York special says: That the officers of the life insurance companies who contributed a portion of the campaign funds to political campaigns committed larceny in the opinion of Justice O'Sullivan expressed in the court of general sessions Friday. He held larceny was committed by the officers who authorized such contributions and charged the jury to investigate as to the responsibility for such crime.

DIE IN COAL SHAFT

Many Miners Killed by Explosion in West Virginia

A Fairmont, W. Va., dispatch says: Ten men are known to be dead, twenty-five injured and from twenty-five to twenty-five more are believed to be dead as the result of an explosion of gas in the shaft of the Century Coal Company at Century, a small mining town on the Washington and Baltimore branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The explosion took place at 4:30 Thursday afternoon, but owing to the telephone wires being put out of commission by high winds, details are lacking, and the names of the victims, six of whom are known to be foreigners, were not secured at a late hour Thursday night.

The Century mine, which is owned by Shaw Bros., of Baltimore, Md., is one of the largest independent operators in northern West Virginia. Over 250 men are employed daily in the shaft, and had the explosion been an hour earlier the loss of life would have been appalling. As it was there were but a few remaining in the shaft, the main body of the miners having quit work for the day.

The shaft in which the explosion took place was partially wrecked by the force of the explosion, but was repaired immediately, and within an hour of the accident Superintendent James Ward had a relief party in the mine. The first trip brought out ten men, five dead and five badly injured. They were found in the main heading near the bottom of the shaft. The living could give no details of the explosion, saying that they were on their way to the surface when the explosion took place.

A second expedition immediately went down and explored the main heading, which was found to be uninjured by the explosion except that the brattices were blown out. Four more bodies were found in this heading, and twenty injured men who were making their way toward the bottom of the shaft were brought to the surface by the rescuers.

Immediately following the explosion the officials began a house to house canvass to ascertain the number of men to be found on the surface. This resulted in 160 miners being found who had come out previously to the explosion. It is believed that there are many more outside who have not yet been accounted for. If this is not true there are still seventy-five men in the mine with little hope of their being alive.

STATE OF NEBRASKA

NEWS OF THE WEEK IN A CONDENSED FORM

No Trace of Banker Hagerty—Holt County Supervisors Increase the Reward to $1,000—Whereabouts of Aged Cashier is Still a Mystery. Patrick Hagerty, the elusive cashier of the defunct Blenheim Valley Bank at O'Neill, will be worth $1,000 to his captor. The reward was increased from $500 to $1,000 by the supervisors of Holt County at a meeting held in O'Neill last week.

Hagerty is the man charged with the greatest part of defrauding which left scores of widows and orphans in the lurch for a total of $60,000 a year ago last Thanksgiving. The day after Thanksgiving came without opening the doors of the bank, and investigation proved that the president, Patrick McGreevy, and the cashier, Patrick Hagerty, had both fled. McGreevy was captured at Phoenix, Ariz., and brought back to stand trial, but his trial has not yet come up, though he was captured a year ago. Hagerty is a man 80 years of age, with snow white hair and beard. Nothing has been heard of him since he fled, though detectives are said to have secured the country for him. The county supervisors believe that the reward of $1,000 will have a tendency to find the man.

The board of supervisors of Holt County instructed the county attorney, in connection with the bank defalcation, to start legal action in order to recover funds from County Treasurer, D. J. Cronin, which are alleged to have been placed in this bank by that official in excess of the amount allowed by law to be deposited in any bank. This amount, it is alleged, is about $1,500. The county board refused to make settlement with Mr. Cronin, who he refused, and ordered that the books be examined.

The board further, in connection with bank affairs, instructed the county attorney to begin action to undo an alleged combination of Holt County banks for the paying of but 2 per cent interest on county funds. It is alleged that a pool has been made heretofore, but that now all the banks refuse to pay more than 2 per cent.

This is the second trial, Irwin before having been found guilty of murder in the second degree. The killing is alleged to have resulted from a quarrel that started at the night of March 20, 1902. It is alleged that Irwin stabbed Census twice after they had left town, and after they had crossed the Nebraska River into Holt County. Census died a half hour after he was stabbed. One wound was in the heart and the other in the stomach.

He was United States senator from Nebraska for the incomplete four-year term from 1875 to 1877, territorial governor of Wyoming in 1875 and governor of Nebraska for four years, beginning in 1887. He gained renown as an Indian fighter in the territorial days of the state.

Nebraska Woman is Fatally Wounded by Husband

A special received Thursday night says that August Miller, after having shot his wife and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hohnke, on their farm home between Wintona and Stanton just inside the Stanton County line, was captured later in the evening in Thurston County.

Mrs. Miller died of her wounds. Mr. Hohnke, Miller's father-in-law, may recover in spite of the three wounds in his arm and leg. Miller is a wife merely lost two fingers when she grabbed the revolver to protect her husband. After the wounded father-in-law seized a shotgun and drew blood in the assailant's neck Miller ran a mile to the home of a neighbor named Miller, borrowed a horse and rode away. The shooting began in the barn at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, where Miller found Hohnke. He began firing and followed Hohnke into the house.

NORTH LOUP SCYFPERS

Nearly All of Business District is Destroyed by Fire

A disastrous fire broke out at North Loup Tuesday morning at 7:30 on the second floor of Babcock & Gowen's department store and entirely consumed the building and most of the dry goods and furniture stored in the postoffice and to H. E. Davis furniture store, burning both buildings to the ground. The contents of both buildings were removed and the damage to this is slight. The three buildings which were burned were entirely destroyed by the fire. The town is without fire protection, and it was only by the heroic work of a large number of men that the balance of the business portion was saved. The stock of E. Johnson sustained slight damage and practically all the plate glass windows with a radius of a block were broken by the heat. The cause of the fire is not known, but the supposition is that it caught from a stovepipe.

A FIRE AT RANDOLPH

Blaze in the Business District Causes a Loss of $20,000

Bros. was a total loss, with one exception, to two-thirds of it covered by insurance. The building is owned by W. T. Trent, and his loss is $2,000, covered by insurance. The firemen did excellent work in fighting the flames and prevented their spread to adjoining buildings.

Blaze is Believed to Have been Caused by Spontaneous Combustion in Oil Sacked ready by painters in the store of P.H. Bros.

State Treasurer Peter Mortenson is not a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

Mr. Mortenson made this announcement Thursday afternoon. Mr. Mortenson concluded not to enter the race after the question of his eligibility was raised, and after the action of Judge Woods and Attorney Clements to have the matter and see if there was any hindrance by which the case could be passed upon by the supreme court before the date of the Republican state convention. The lawyers filed an opinion with the treasurer saying they knew of no way the case could be taken up.

The state board of assessment Thursday afternoon adopted rules for the guidance of county assessors and incidentally instructed them to assess the reserve funds of fraternal companies.

The rules adopted by the board assess the quarterly rates for the county assessors at their recent meeting held in Lincoln.

The long drawn out and bitterly fought litigation over the right of the state to enforce its reciprocal insurance tax law is now about to be settled by the payment of $2,750 by the Insurance Company of North America, the amount of the tax it owed, together with the amount of the court costs.

The supreme court has been asked to express itself unambiguously on the legality of the Nebraska anti-trust laws, or in other words, explain the opinion it handed down in the "grain case" some weeks ago. The attorneys for the state, Attorney General Brown, John J. Sullivan and Jeffrey & Howell make this request in a brief filed in the case. The court has held the opinion was not definite in its decision and further, the syllabus and the body of the opinion were at variance.

John Dorgan, of the Whitebreak Coal Company Saturday morning told the members of the state board of purchase and supplies that coal would shortly be a scarce commodity and suggested that if the board did not have sufficient on hand at the present state institution it had better get busy at once and do some more buying. The contract to furnish the institutions with coal for the present quarter expires April 1 and Mr. Dorgan told the board that after that date coal might be hard to get at any price. The board, noting upon the suggestion, promptly ordered the state superintendent to report on the emergency and haste in all the coal their bins would hold, and if it could not be secured at the present contract price to pay a little more for it.

During the last two weeks four convicts who have been out on parole voluntarily returned to the penitentiary, of this number three returned during the last two days. The men gave as a reason for returning they liked the three meals a day and the regular hours, though combined with confinement, to the strenuous work showed only a hint working for his bread and a little extra money. Each of the convicts, however, brought back a neat little sum of money and deposited it with the warden. In the meantime, however, those who have escaped from the institution have shown no disposition to return, and Warden Boerner attributes this to the fact that all men are punished differently.

Attorney General Brown Saturday afternoon filed with the supreme court a brief in support of his motion for a rehearing in the case wherein Gen. Mickey, as chairman of the state board of equalization, sought by mandamus to compel the county clerk of Douglas County to include the value of the reserve fund of the Woodmen of the World and of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America in the assessment of the property of the order. The court held mandamus was not the proper procedure, though it did not pass upon the question of the assessment of the reserve fund. The legal department contends mandamus was the proper procedure by which to compel an officer to do his duty.

The Union Pacific Railroad Company is in the supreme court to have reversed one of the largest personal damage verdicts ever rendered against a railroad in Nebraska, $27,000. The plaintiff in the lower court was John T. Connolly and in his first suit, which was filed in 1902 in the Douglas County district court, now at the instance of the Union Pacific and Elmer A. Failing, an engineer employed by the railroad, Connolly, who was a stockman in the western part of the state, had brought some cattle to South Omaha and while walking in the yards was run down by a freight train and both legs were cut off below the knees.

Auditor Seale has received a letter from a party in Douglas County who had sent in a voucher for a gray wolf bounty which the auditor had turned down. The letter desired to know of the auditor by what authority he went behind the voucher, and as the voucher of the wolf had not been registered the auditor was demanded to know what business it was of the auditor. In the meantime the auditor has made arrangements with a local tannery to get hold of a gray wolf scalp to keep on exhibition in his office for comparison with those alleged gray wolf scalps likely to be sent in.

State Superintendent McBride has sent out circular letters instructing the teachers to file their state certificates for registration with the various county superintendents of the state. This action is in conformity with the law enacted by the last legislature providing unless the certificates are registered prior to June 1 they should become void. Under the old law it was provided that only certain certificates should be registered, while others were exempt; while the new law provides all state certificates should be registered. The registration fee is $1.00.

State Treasurer Peter Mortenson is not a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

Mr. Mortenson made this announcement Thursday afternoon. Mr. Mortenson concluded not to enter the race after the question of his eligibility was raised, and after the action of Judge Woods and Attorney Clements to have the matter and see if there was any hindrance by which the case could be passed upon by the supreme court before the date of the Republican state convention. The lawyers filed an opinion with the treasurer saying they knew of no way the case could be taken up.

The state board of assessment Thursday afternoon adopted rules for the guidance of county assessors and incidentally instructed them to assess the reserve funds of fraternal companies.

The rules adopted by the board assess the quarterly rates for the county assessors at their recent meeting held in Lincoln.

The long drawn out and bitterly fought litigation over the right of the state to enforce its reciprocal insurance tax law is now about to be settled by the payment of $2,750 by the Insurance Company of North America, the amount of the tax it owed, together with the amount of the court costs.

The Coffee Debate.

The published statements of a number of coffee importers and roasters in this country, showing that coffee is harmful to the health of the people.

A frank public discussion of the subject is quite agreeable to us and we certainly do no harm; on the contrary, when all the facts on both sides of any question are spread before the people they can themselves decide and act intelligently.

Give the people plain facts and they will take care of themselves.

We demand facts in this coffee discussion and propose to see that the facts are brought clearly before the people.

A number of coffee importers and roasters have joined a movement to boost coffee and stop the use of Postum Food Coffee, and in their newspaper statements undertake to deceive by false assertions.

Their first is that coffee is not harmful.

We assert that one in every three coffee drinkers has some form of complaint or chronic disease; realize the one moment when a terrible menace to a nation of civilized people when one kind of beverage betrays the energies and health of the people who use it.

We make the assertion advisedly and suggest that the reader secure his own proof by personal inquiry among coffee users.

Professor Booth Lowrey, the lecturer, is fond of telling stories of courtrooms. Their answers to his serious questions are often ridiculous.

GET RID OF THE GAS

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Strengthen the Stomach and Enable It to Do Its Work.

When the stomach is feeble the food lies in it undigested, decays and throws off poisonous gases that distend the walls of the stomach and cause interference with other organs, especially with the action of the heart and lungs. These gases have other ill effects. The nerves and the brain are disturbed and discomforts such as dizziness, hot flashes, sleeplessness, irritability and despondency originate from this source.

Experience shows that these troubles vanish just as soon as the stomach is made strong enough to digest the food. In other words, it needs a tonic that will power it to do the work of changing the food into nourishment.

Mr. J. M. Ladd, of Ipswich, Mass., says: "I had a weak stomach from the time I was a little child. Whenever I took heavy food it would cause terrible faintness, and I would finally vomit what I had eaten. At times there would be the most fitful pain through the upper part of my body. I was a nervous wreck and had to lie down most of the time. The distress was often so great that I could hardly bear it, and the frequent and violent belching spells were very disagreeable to me.

My doctor's medicines gave me little relief, so I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Within three weeks a decided improvement was noticeable. The belching spells were less frequent, the pains through my body were not so intense, my food was retained and after taking the pills for a few weeks longer I found that I was altogether free from the miseries I had so long suffered."

IN THREE MONTHS CRIME IS TO BE WIPED OUT.

With 1,200 Men Added to the Police Force and Several Thousand Saloons Closed the End of the Reign of Crime Is in Sight.

Chicago is about to undergo a thorough house-cleaning. Six hundred new policemen will be put to work at once to aid the present force in digging the rubbish and crime and vice out of the streets and corners, and in two months another 600 men will be assigned to duty, and the work carried on with increased vigor and effectiveness. Chief Collins asserts that by July 1 habitation in Chicago will not be attended by the dangers incident to the perilous activity of the slacker men, the burglar and the degenerate. It will be hard for Chicagoans to grasp at once the full significance of all this. It sounds Utopian, utopian like the fancy of the dreamer of dreams. Long-suffering, crime-ridden Chicago safe at last? Are we within four months of the time when the policeman at night need not take to the center of the street to escape the lurking footpad? Is it possible that by midsummer the Chicago woman may venture to the corner grocery or street car after dusk and feel that her purse and person are secure? Are we to sleep in safety without prison bars at flat and residence windows and without revolvers under our pillows? Chief Collins says "Yes."

Her Idea of It.

An official of one of the telegraph companies tells an amusing story of a young woman in a Pennsylvania town who wished to send a telegram to a New York firm ordering a supply of dress goods.

After some inquiries as to whether the line "really and truly" did "connect with New York," the young woman finally decided to afford the company the benefit of her patronage. Opening her hand bag, she took therefrom various samples which she consulted from time to time as she undertook the task of expressing her wants in the usual "text words." When she had apparently completed the interesting operation, she attached two of the samples to the telegraph form and handed her message to the man at the window. Her telegram read as follows:

"Bank and Company. Send express four yards sample 'A' and six yards 'B.'—Ruegens Mizguzie."

"Yes," eagerly assented the tramp.

"Call Friday," responded Lee, with an imperceptible smile, as he closed the door. Harper's Weekly.

FOR THE GRASP OF THE STORM KING.

From Canada to the Gulf of Mexico the United States has been storm swept. From points in Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin reports of a heavy blizzard showed that all four States were in the grip of the Storm King. Chicago was visited by the heaviest snowstorm of the winter, and the weather bureau reported unusual downfalls throughout the Ohio and Missouri valleys and the northern and northwestern States, with heavy rains in the South. From various points in Illinois and the Northwest the heaviest March snow in thirty years was reported.

Colorado has had the most serious experience. At least twenty lives have been lost in snowdrifts. Fourteen miners at Silverton were instantly overwhelmed while breaking in a trail from their mine in order to escape starvation. Their bodies have not been recovered. Lives have been lost at other Colorado points, but definite figures are not obtainable.

Mills and other Colorado mining property worth $1,000,000 have been swept into deep gulches, covered with tons of snow and destroyed. Thousands of cattle on the Colorado ranges, drifting with the storm, are reduced to skin and bones and the loss to stockmen will be serious.

The Southwest also is having the most strenuous experience of the winter. Throughout Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and down into Texas the storm is sweeping. Nebraska has received a heavy snow, which has extended up into the central Northern States.

In the East the snowfall is heaviest in New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland. Rain and sleet fell in New York following the snow. Traffic in these States is paralyzed. In Pennsylvania the transportation conditions are so serious that some of the mines may have to suspend operations temporarily. Snow in Pennsylvania and Maryland is five inches deep.

On the Yellowstone Park the snow is 32 inches in depth. In Illinois it is 5 inches. During the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill in the House of Representatives the question of tariff revision was under discussion, and considerable applause greeted the statement of Mr. Dingley (R., N. There was no session of the Senate Friday. The House indicated in the final filibustering of the session. It was due to the attempt of Mr. Prince of Illinois to get through his bill abolishing the grade of lieutenant general in the army, which would take away the careers of promotion for Generals Corbin and Mitchell. For several hours the leaders of both factions exhausted the possibilities of parliamentary tactics, and when it was declared the bill stood as the regular order of business, and an amendment by Mr. Grosscup to the subject of the bill was saved from defeat by the objection of Mr. Crampton. Previously there had been four hours of debate on the legislative bill during which Mr. Shackelford (Mo.) sought Speaker Cannon's aid of the House. All arrangements until Monday was voided.

With 1,200 Men Added to the Police Force and Several Thousand Saloons Closed the End of the Reign of Crime Is in Sight.

Chicago is about to undergo a thorough house-cleaning. Six hundred new policemen will be put to work at once to aid the present force in digging the rubbish and crime and vice out of the streets and corners, and in two months another 600 men will be assigned to duty, and the work carried on with increased vigor and effectiveness. Chief Collins asserts that by July 1 habitation in Chicago will not be attended by the dangers incident to the perilous activity of the slacker men, the burglar and the degenerate. It will be hard for Chicagoans to grasp at once the full significance of all this. It sounds Utopian, utopian like the fancy of the dreamer of dreams. Long-suffering, crime-ridden Chicago safe at last? Are we within four months of the time when the policeman at night need not take to the center of the street to escape the lurking footpad? Is it possible that by midsummer the Chicago woman may venture to the corner grocery or street car after dusk and feel that her purse and person are secure? Are we to sleep in safety without prison bars at flat and residence windows and without revolvers under our pillows? Chief Collins says "Yes."

No superintendent of police in this or any other American city ever had the opportunity that has come to Chief Collins through the action of the Council in raising saloon licenses from $500 to $1,000 annually. This action was a two-edged weapon in the fight against crime, for it weakened the power of the enemies of law and order by eliminating many of the objectionable saloons and at the same time gave the friends of law and order the means to fight their weakened foe. The demand for crime suppression never was so urgent as now. The crime situation never was so menacing. But the facilities for accomplishing reform never were so complete. The broom is new

CONGRESS

There was no session of the Senate Friday. The House indicated in the final filibustering of the session. It was due to the attempt of Mr. Prince of Illinois to get through his bill abolishing the grade of lieutenant general in the army, which would take away the careers of promotion for Generals Corbin and Mitchell. For several hours the leaders of both factions exhausted the possibilities of parliamentary tactics, and when it was declared the bill stood as the regular order of business, and an amendment by Mr. Grosscup to the subject of the bill was saved from defeat by the objection of Mr. Crampton. Previously there had been four hours of debate on the legislative bill during which Mr. Shackelford (Mo.) sought Speaker Cannon's aid of the House. All arrangements until Monday was voided.

The rate bill was reported to the attention of the Senate Monday. Messrs. McCreary, Bailey and Hiram making speeches, and Mr. Crampton making a general statement of a fiscal condition in Nebraska, the bill was taken up. The bill abolishing the grade of lieutenant general of the army was passed by the House, with an amendment providing that it go into effect Oct. 12, 1906, so that Gen. Corbin and MacArthur be promoted before their retirement. A bill reclassifying the grade of lieutenant general, so that the increase in salary be $175 a year was passed. In the afternoon the legislative appropriation bill was taken up. A joint resolution providing for the extension of time to Aug. 15 next for the opening of the Shoshone reservation in Wyoming was passed. The recent battle at Mount Halo was the theme for an account of conditions among the representatives. Several bills of local importance were passed.

The Senate today passed the pension bill, which will pay $100,000,000 for the day, and the fortifications appropriation bill taken up. All provision for defense in the Philippines was eliminated and the amount for Hawaii cut to $200,000. Consideration of the Senate bill was suspended. At 5:05 the Senate adjourned. In the session and adjournment, Henry's minutes later. The House was bound up in matters of small moment that sprung up in the legislative appropriation bill fixing salaries for the officers and employees of the House being used for administrative. Many amendments have been lost in points of order and great economy was exercised. Having completed their duty, many of the members of the House adjourned.

Politics and Politicians

Gen. Henry E. Tremain, the newly elected president of the Republican Club of New York City, has a splendid war record.

When Senator Scott of West Virginia gave notice, the other day, that he would read a twenty-five minute speech and Senators might safely retire to the cloak-rooms, he was left with an audience of just seven.

In several of the important cities of Maine the local elections resulted in Democratic victories. Auburn and Rockland, both Republican strongholds, went Democratic, as did Waterville, a prohibition town, and South Portland. The Republicans retain Eastport, Bath and Ellsworth.

The New York State Assembly finance committee voted in favor of an investigation of the State banking department, naming former Chief Judges Parker and Andrews of the Court of Appeals to do the probing.

A movement is on foot among the leading lawyers of New York to take the nomination of judges out of politics, and to put forward for judicial offices next year men selected and endorsed by the legal fraternity.

Newton W. Gilbert, Congressman from the Twelfth District of Indiana, will resign his seat to accept a judgeship in the Philippines, which he has been offered by President Roosevelt. He will leave for his post July 1.

"Old Tom" Cavanah, the well-known lawyer, Governor of Ohio, United States Senator, and Secretary of the Treasury in Fillmore's cabinet, used to say: "The solemn—all the monuments are raised to solemn ashes."

Congressman Gaines of West Virginia was notified for the passage of the rail rate reduction when John Gaines of Tennessee, a relative and of the opposition, saw a chance to intercept it. "Does the gentleman from West Virginia yield?" asked the chairman. "Of course I do," replied the West Virginian. "I congratulate the country on hearing its constituents in one speech."

During the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill in the House of Representatives the question of tariff revision was under discussion, and considerable applause greeted the statement of Mr. Dingley (R., N. H.) that the Democrats would not before the country in the next national campaign with tariff revision as its platform, and with W. J. Bryan as its leader.

"Every time I see this picture of the late Speaker Michael C. Kerr of Indiana," said Congressman Campbell of Ohio, "I am reminded of an old friend of mine who worked on a Boston newspaper. This man was the telegraph editor, and was possessed of one of those queer streaks of humor which he always used at the wrong time. When the story of Speaker Kerr's death came into the office my friend wrote this headline over the story: 'From grave to gravel.' He lost his job the next morning."

The resolution passed by the recent Legislature of Pennsylvania directing an inquiry into the coal carrying business of the Pennsylvania railroad and other nutcracker roads has been vetoed by Gov. Pennypacker, on the ground that it was not necessary to the call of the extra session. He also vetoed the resolution asking that the session be reconvened to enact a 2-cent passenger rate for the railroads and to enable trolley lines to carry freight. These are expected to be the live issues of the next campaign.

Close on the heels of the announcement that Joseph Medill Patterson had resigned his position as Commissioner of Public Works of Chicago because he had become an out-and-out socialist, and while the country was discussing with unusual interest the explanation of his course, the fact leaked out that a private conference of leading political reformers of all sorts and conditions was in progress at the Standford (Cal.) residence of Anson Phelps Stokes in Washington. Joseph Patterson was himself a guest, and with him were several well-known socialist writers and speakers.

Don't Starve or Diet, but use Mi-o-na and Cure Your Stomach Troubles.

The average treatment of stomach troubles consists of a rigid diet list, which often half starves the patient. Of course it would be foolish for any one who knows that some foods are positively harmful and poisonous to continue eating them, even while following the Mi-o-na treatment, but in ordinary cases of stomach troubles it is not necessary to starve or diet if Mi-o-na is faithfully used, a tablet before each meal.

This scientific remedy, for the cure of stomach troubles, acts upon the whole digestive system, and strengthens the organs so that they are able to digest any food that is eaten without fear of distress.
E. J. Raymond has so much confidence in the power of Mi-o-na to cure stomach troubles and resulting ills, that he will give a guarantee with every 50 cent box to refund the money unless it cures.

No one should confound Hymel with the patent medicines that are advertised as catarrh cures. It is superior to them all as the diamond is more valuable than cheap gems.

The complete Hymel outfit, consisting of a neat pocket inhaler, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hymel costs but $1, and extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents, making it the most economical method of curing catarrh, as well as the most reliable.

Raymond has sold a great many Hymel outfits and has seen such remarkable results from its use, that he will sell it under an absolute guarantee that it costs nothing unless it cures.
