WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, MAY 24, 1906.

NUMBER 15.

THIRTIETH YEAR.

SURROUNDINGS ARE IMPORTANT

People Judged by Looks of Their Town.

UNITED EFFORT IS NECESSARY

Not Alone Dwellers on Main Street But Those on All Streets are Careless.—Some Suggestions.

I have been much interested in the plans recently made through your paper for a clean and beautiful town. Nature has done much for us. Wayne is "beautiful for situation," and the citizens have not been wholly neglectful of this in their building of the town, the laying out of wide streets and the planting of trees. We have many beautiful homes in our city; and as one of our school teachers has pointed out, our public buildings are above the average. We have everything necessary to make our little city a place of beauty and a joy for ever. We should all be willing to unite our effort along this line, not only because of the effect it would have on the stranger who comes to visit us on occasions, or the effect it would have in determining some prospective home-seeker to settle in our midst, but above all, we should seek to surround ourselves with the clean and beautiful because of the effect it has upon ourselves. It is a well known fact that a people always partake of the nature of their surroundings and a child, reared amid the unsightly and unlovely is almost sure to build the unlovely into his character. This is a truth recognized by all educators and the day has gone by when barn-like structures, bare rooms and unsightly surroundings are regarded as sufficient for the student and so our colleges and our public schools are being beautified. A day has been appointed for the planting of trees and shrubs each year, and for developing as far as possible the aesthetic in our young people. As parents who believe in the better future, we should assist in this matter by greater care about the little things that make for neatness and beauty.

If it is not Main street alone and the dwellers thereon who are careless, but the dwellers on other streets as well. Our alleys are not as well cared for as they should be. Too many people dump their refuse—their old tin cans, old papers, old shoes and rubbers and the thousands of bits and ends that will accumulate about the home, in the alleys. Every windy day we see old papers blowing through our yards, and dirt of all description, littering lawns we have tried to make clean. The city officials should insist on a thorough cleaning of alleys—not merely once a year—but at any time when rubbish gathers. If this were done people would soon learn to burn what is burnable and to have some receptacles, a barrel or box, in which to put what cannot be burned and which could be easily carted away and composted. The man who has a barn facing an alley should be compelled to clean away his dressing before it becomes a nuisance, and outbuildings should be inspected at least once a month during the summer. This should be done not merely because of the health of a citizen but because of the general effect on the characters of both young and old.

Now correspondents are right. We have a beautiful city. Cannot every citizen do something to increase its beauty by carefully removing all that would litter, from his own premises, and also as far as possible from the streets where others have been careless. Merchants who open their goods on the sidewalks or in the alleys should be careful that the loose paper wrappings are not left to blow about the streets; and the city should provide two or three receptacles placed at convenient corners where loose papers may be put and at the proper time burned or carted to some dumping ground.

One other matter that needs to be emphasized is the carelessness on the part of many of our citizens to the weeds that grow in front of their homes, in the gutters and street side. These are very unsightly and should be destroyed. It would only require a few minutes work on rare occasions and in time the weed nuisance would be a thing of the past.

I am sure we may make a great improvement in these matters if each of us will only do his share. Let us all unite until our neatness becomes epidemic and catches neighboring towns.

Sincerely
A BELIEVER IN BEAUTY.

Wayne, May 22, 1906.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

Notice is hereby given that board of county commissioners, the county assessor and the county clerk will sit as a board of equalization, commencing Tuesday, June 12th, 1906, for the purpose of reviewing the assessor's books and hearing any and all complaints regarding the assessment of property, both real and personal.

The board will continue in session for not less than three days, and all complaints must be made at this time.

Dated at Wayne, Nebraska, this 14th day of May, 1906.

Nels Erickson who lives eight miles north of Wayne, was doing business here Tuesday.

The high school ball team will go to Stanton Saturday to play a game with the boys of that place.

Mrs. Coyle of Newcastle has been here the past week visiting her daughter, Mrs. T. W. Moran.

Joseph Durby of Bellwood, Neb., arrived here Saturday to spend Sunday with his uncle, W. O. Gamble.

Frank B. Emmons, proprietor of the Bloomfield Journal, stopped in Wayne Tuesday on his way to Omaha.

Miss Edna Neely left Tuesday morning for Corydon, Ia., to spend the summer visiting the family of her uncle.

According to the Winside Tribune, Mrs. A. E. Littell was in Omaha last week to secure treatment for her eyes.

Mrs. J. M. Strahan entertained a party of lady friends Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Thos. Steel of Sioux City.

Prof. J. M. Pile returned Monday morning from Platte Center where he gave an address at commencement exercises.

Mrs. John Collins of Laura and Mrs. Elmer Beebe of Coleidge, visited the family of J. A. Beebe in Wayne over Sunday.

Dr. Nieman left Monday for his home near Pierre, S. D. His daughter, Miss Edna, will follow him next Monday.

E. B. Cook who is now traveling for a wholesale binder house, came down from Plainview Sunday, leaving again Monday.

Mrs. Ida Clark of Randolph, visited friends in Carroll Saturday afternoon, stopping here on her way home from Lincoln.

E. W. Closson of Sholes was in Wayne between trains Saturday on his way home from Omaha where he marketed some hogs.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Steele, formerly of Wayne, returned to their home in Sioux City Sunday after visiting friends at this place.

Emerson business houses will be closed Sundays after June 1, and it is expected the churches there will have larger congregations.

Mrs. L. F. Sedgewick who was a guest of the family of Robt. Armstrong at this place, returned Monday to her home at Sioux City.

Sam Davies was in Wayne Monday evening to give E. A. Leahy some instruction in the way to handle the news end of his drug store.

Rev. E. E. Duley left Friday for Grand Island and other points in the southern part of the state, expecting to be absent a week or ten days.

Dr. Crawford, whose headquarters as traveling railway passenger agent are in Chicago, has been visiting his family and friends here the past week.

Prof. Richardson, principal of the Carroll school, and Nettie and Gomer Jones, this year's graduates of that school, were in Wayne Saturday.

Henry Carson, aged 85 years, who has been living on a homestead near Dallas, S. D., suicided Sunday morning by shooting himself through the head.

The advertising car of Campbell Bros. is now in Wayne Tuesday en route to the Bloomfield branch. They evidently intend to miss Wayne this year.

The 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Grunke in Canning county swallowed a fence staple recently, and at last accounts had not suffered any ill effects.

Misses Lucky and Carter, teachers in the Carroll school, stopped in Wayne Monday en route to Kearney where they will attend the normal college during the summer.

United States Marshal Warner was in Wayne Friday to summon Phil Kohl to serve as a member of the grand jury. The marshal found him enjoying an outing at Crystal lake.

A district convention of the Epworth League is to be held in Randolph June 19, 20 and 21, and Gov. Micokey has promised to be present and give an address on the opening day.

Mrs. W. O. Gamble had both of her feet badly scalded Saturday noon by a tea kettle of boiling water dropping accidentally to the floor. As she lifted the kettle from the stove, it slipped out of her hands.

Mrs. Geo. Mattison and Mrs. Guy Mattison of Ponca, spent Sunday in Wayne, guests of the family of Shorff Mears. They were accompanied by Mrs. Geo. Mattison's son who has remained to enter the college.

Logan Lambert of Homer, who assaulted Father Shell a year ago, recently finished his term in the penitentiary at Sioux Falls for bootlegging, and is again in jail at Dakota City, charged with assault.—Pender Times.

Again this week it was demonstrated that it pays when raising hogs for the market to have thoroughbreds. The four thoroughbreds weighed 160 pounds more than the six grades. All were a year old in April.—Carroll Index.

Wm. Dammeyer sold his pool tables and business on Monday to John Nichols of Winside who takes possession today. The consideration is $500. Mr. Dammeyer expects to engage in the wholesale cigar business at this place.

Frank Berry comes home from Crystal lake with a fish story second only to the one told by A. J. Ferguson. Like Mr. Ferguson's, the weight of Mr. Berry's fish had to be estimated, owing to the scarcity of scales in the neighborhood of fishing resorts.

Chas. Frey, an old settler of Thurston county, accompanied his wife and nineteen sons and daughters, with their families, to Wayne Sunday to have a group picture taken, the work being executed by Chas. Craven. Twenty heads of families formed the group.

H. F. Slaughter of Naper, Neb., an extensive real estate dealer and banker of Boyd county, Neb., and Gregory county, S. D., is in the city today on business. Mr. Slaughter will visit Winside and Wigner before returning to his home.—Norfolk News.

Mrs. Henry Ley entertained a gathering of lady friends Saturday evening, the occasion being in honor of Mrs. Steele of Sioux City. After a few hours of progressive whist and general sociability, delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Mr. E. A. Leahy had the misfortune of being bit by a dog last Thursday evening. He was sitting outside his store as the dog came along. He started to pet it, but this the dog would not stand for and the above mentioned result followed.—Wayne Gazette.

A Hastings paper suggests that a "dandelion day" be designated for a union of effort in the business of exterminating the pest. The way the objectionable flowers grow hereabouts it would require several "dandelion days" to accomplish much effective work.

Dr. Crawford who has been here this week, says he expects to have his history of Wayne county ready to publish in book form in September. He is familiar with the development of the county from its earliest settlement, and his history will be awaited with interest.

Mrs. Helen Davis who is charged with selling medical treatment and practicing professionally contrary to law in the vicinity of Allen, was recently given a hearing before the county judges at Ponca and bound over to the district court with bonds fixed at $800.

Winside has a splendid little park, grassy and shaded, and being in view of passing trains, attracts favorable comment on the town among strangers. The location of the park early in the history of Winside was a happy thought on the part of those who suggested and executed the plan.

The Carroll high school had its annual commencement program Friday evening. The music and orations by the two graduates, Nettie and Gomer Jones, were considered very good. President J. M. Pile of the Wayne college, added interest to the program by giving an appropriate educational address.

Alex Sohals, a young man living six miles south of Winside, had his arm broken last Sunday. He was harnessing a team to come to church, when one of the horses kicked him. He did not come to town to have the injured arm attended to until Monday and by that time it was pretty badly swollen.—Winside Tribune.

Tom Holtz takes up his new position of traveling salesman for a St. Louis wholesale house about the middle of June. His territory will include the Dakotas, Minnesota, western Iowa, Nebraska and northern Missouri. He will register, however, from Wayne and will regard this place as his home.

Wakefield is enjoying quite a building boom this spring. J. Q. Milligan is excavating for a large fifty-foot front store building. John D. Haskell is building a $2000 addition to his house. Thos. Rawlings has the basement all dug out for his $6000 residence. A. C. Messer is modeling his house and Frank Johnson has his house completed.—Wakefield Republican.

The contributed articles appearing in this paper, treating the important work of beautifying and generally improving Wayne, have aroused a great deal of interest and comment. The needs pointed out and methods of procedure suggested are certain to bring good results. Already favorable action has followed and the good work is sure to continue, and the united effort means a greater and better Wayne.

Rev. L. P. Ludden of Lincoln, one of the ablest and best known Lutheran ministers in the state, lectured on the "Twentieth Century Swing," at the Lutheran church in Wayne Friday evening. A fair-sized audience attended and listened attentively to his discourse throughout. He is an able speaker and a logical reasoner, and more people should have taken advantage of the opportunity to hear him.

Chris Holst of Altona appeared before Judge Hunter the first of the week and made complaint against Riley Rooth, Walter Stubbs and Ed. Jones of that place, alleging that they had annoyed and threatened him and he was afraid of them. A warrant was issued for their arrest, but the sheriff telephoned to Altona and could not learn that they were there. Whereupon, a complaint to keep the peace, duly sworn to, was left with the county judge, and action will follow when necessary.

If we are really to be held responsible for what we think as well as for what we do, when the great scroll is unrolled on that final day, it will be more interesting than a detective story to scan the record made by the thought machines of those we knew here, and compare this record with the acts of these same friends of ours. We all doubtless think many good things to which we do not give expression by word or deed, and we also think a larger number of meaner things, some of which are made manifest but which are in the main suppressed.—Fremont Tribune.

J. O. Epler of the Winside Tribune was in Wayne between trains Monday, being on his way up the Bloomfield branch, where he was going to spread the gospel of fire insurance. While here he procured a license to fish in any stream in the state. It seems to be unlawful to try to catch fish whether one is ever successful or not, and, therefore, being fond of the exercise, Mr. Epler proposed to arm himself with all the necessary authority. As to whether he would violate the intention of the law without a license, there were no alarming probabilities.

Editor Cobb of the Emerson Enterprise, says he has received "the courteous attention of the management of the Krug park, Omaha." That reminds us that Editor Cobb who has edited a newspaper and postoffice simultaneously for a long series of years, extracts more pleasure out of life with less worry and less expenditure of energy than any newspaper man in the state. He has been everywhere on pleasure jaunts and always returns contented to stick to his double vocation at Emerson. He has held the fort there so long and so tenaciously that he is probably also getting rich. The HERALD hopes so.

The HERALD understands there is an effort at Carroll to reduce the wages of its teachers as a consequence of adding a fourth one to the corps. It is also understood that the teachers will not stand the reduction. As a matter of fact, teachers' salaries should be raised rather than lowered. With the increased cost of living, they are not getting enough. They spend a great deal of time and energy in preparation for the profession and must devote most of the interim between terms to training for school work, but their pay covers only nine months. If they don't earn present salaries, they are not worth employing at all. Teachers are generally underpaid, and the tendency should be to increase instead of reduce their salaries, and if necessary increase the requirements in the way of education, discipline and temperament.

J. W. Lucky who is agent at the depot in the absence of T. W. Moran, is not only a railroad man, but a very efficient leader in religious and evangelistic circles. Last Sunday afternoon, on invitation, he gave a talk to an audience of men in the Presbyterian church, and treated some of the chief evils of the day in a clear and sympathetic manner. He admonished parents to exercise greater care over their boys and girls and so that they should not engulf them in the maelstrom of inquiry. He urged that the young should be safeguarded in every possible way against evil temptations and the designing schemes of conscienceless brutes who would blight fair prospects and lead them to hopeless ruin. Mr. Lucky's address may be applied locally by the development of greater interest in the welfare of the young, and should arouse active concern on the part of parents who have hitherto failed to devote as much time as they should to the training and character formation of those who have been placed in their care. Such failure is usually due to lack of appreciation or understanding of the serious consequences that may follow indifference.

For rent, six room house, one block east of the Ward school house. Inquire of C. L. Culler.

SUPERINTENDENT'S NOTICE.

Teachers' examinations will be given the third Friday and Saturday following of each month. A. E. LITTELL,

HEAVY STORM TO THE WEST

Norfolk Flooded and Damaged by the Rain.

WALKS AND PORCHES WRECKED

Electric Accompaniment Severe.—A Man Near Tilden Killed by the Fierce Lightning.

Threatening clouds which gathered in the southwestern sky Monday night gave warning of a severe storm, and it did storm furiously at Norfolk and other points, but missed Wayne entirely. Whirlwinds of lightning were seen to follow in quick succession and an occasional peal of thunder was heard, the clouds veered to the north and not enough rain fell here to lay the dust. At Norfolk water descended in torrents and Main street was converted into a raging river. Sidewalks and crossings were wrecked and lawns were plastered with mud. Lightning damaged electric light and telephone wires somewhat and one house was struck by lightning twice, hurting no one, however.

Carl Jensen, a farmer living eight miles southwest of Tilden, was killed by lightning while in a pasture trying to get his horses. At Madison lightning struck the telephone exchange office and started a lively blaze which was promptly put out by the quick work of firemen. The fixtures in the office were badly damaged.

Hail accompanied the storm that struck Creighton and vicinity, and windows were broken within a radius of eight miles.

DECORATION DAY.

Arrangements have been completed for an appropriate observance of Memorial Sabbath, the 27th inst., and Decoration Day, the 30th inst. The sermon on the former occasion will be preached in the morning at the Methodist church by Rev. E. E. Duley, of the Baptist church.

Hon. H. H. Wilson, a well known orator of Lincoln, will deliver the address on Decoration Day.

CATARRH A GERM DISEASE.

Breathe Air Medicated by Hyomei and Kill the Germs.

Now that physicians and scientists universally agree that catarrh is a germ disease, the reason for the failure of the old-fashioned stomach-dressing in this trouble is readily seen.

Prior to the discovery of Hyomei, a treatment which cures catarrh by filling the air you breathe with germ-killing and healing medication, statistics showed that at least ninety-seven out of every hundred persons in this state were suffering from catarrh of some form. Although Hyomei has been known only a few years, the remarkable results following its use are shown by the much smaller percentage of those who suffer with catarrh today.

The treatment with Hyomei is very simple and pleasant; a small inhaler comes with every outfit and three or four times a day Hyomei is breathed through this, making the air at that time like that found on the mountains where the pine forests give off their fragrant and healing balsams. Used in this way, Hyomei penetrates to the most remote cells of the nose, throat and lungs, absolutely killing all catarrhal germs and effecting a complete and permanent cure of the disease. The complete outfit costs but one dollar, while extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents. Raymond has seen such remarkable results from the use of Hyomei that he sells it under an absolute guarantee that it costs nothing unless it cures.

See W. L. Robinson, of Carroll, for real estate, farm loans or insurance.

NOTICE.

Complaint has been made to the county commissioners that old cans, panure and other rubbish have been piled along the public highway, frightening teams and threatening damage. They wish to announce that such nuisance must be stopped at once and that those hereafter detected following such practice will be promptly prosecuted.

NOTICE.

The county board will offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash, on Saturday, May 19th, at 3 o'clock, the old bridge just north of Wayne, said sale to take place at said bridge.

Neglected Opportunities.
Mr. Siderer had made his first public speech. The subject was good—the intricacies of industrial economy—and he had his treatment had been adequate. He was not sure. He waited for his wife's verdict, but she was strangely silent.

She had listened to him from the gallery of the town hall, and he had half-expected her to meet him at the door afterward, and to say, as soon as they were out of hearing, "Oh, it was simply great, Eddy." But they were half-way home, and she had said nothing of the kind.

"Well," he began, awkwardly, when he could hear it no longer, "what did you think of my speech?"

"What you said was all right," she answered, with guarded enthusiasm. "But it seemed to me you didn't make the most of your opportunities."

"Opportunities?" repeated Mr. Siderer. "What do you mean, Ethel?"

"Why?" Mrs. Siderer replied, "you had such many chances to sit down before you did."

Lincoln the Lawyer.
It is conceded by all his contemporaries that Lincoln was the best all-around lawyer of his day in Illinois. Undoubtedly his knowledge of human nature played an important part in his success. He possessed another quality, however, which is almost, if not quite, as essential in jury work, and that is clearness and simplicity of statement. His logical mind marshaled facts in such orderly sequence and he interpreted them in such simple language, that a child could follow him through the most complicated case, and his mere recital of the issues had the force of argument.—Country.

CORDIAL INVITATION
ADDRESSED TO WORKING GIRLS

Miss Barrows Tells How Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Helps Working Girls.

Girls who work a few particularly heavy days, especially those who are obliged to stand on their feet from morning till night in stores or factories.

Day in and day out the girl who is often the bread-winner of the family, whether it be a wife or a mother, must get her place of employment, perform the duties exacted of her, and be agreeable.

Among these class the symptoms of female weakness are early manifested by loss of appetite, and it is in the lower limbs, and lower part of the stomach. In consequence of frequent wetting of the feet, periods become painful and irregular, and frequently there are faint and dizzy spells, with loss of appetite, and it is a burden. All these symptoms point to a derangement of the female organism which can be easily and promptly cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Abby E. Barrows, Nelsonville, Athens Co., Ohio, tells what this great medicine did for her. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"I feel it my duty to tell you the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. Before I took this I was very nervous, had dull headaches, pains in back, and periods were irregular. I had been to several doctors, and they did me no good.

"Your medicine has made me well and strong. I can do most any kind of work without complaint, and my periods are all right.

"I am in better health than I ever was, and I feel it my duty to tell you of it, so that you may recommend your advice and medicine to all who suffer."

It is to such girls that Mrs. Pinkham holds out a helping hand and extends a cordial invitation to correspond with her. She is writing orders for Lydia E. Pinkham, and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. Her long record of success in treating woman's ailments is the testimony of millions of untold souls to her skill in curing the sick.

Address, Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Potato Cutting Table.

When one has a large area to plant to potatoes the work of cutting the seed tubers in the ordinary way is not inconsiderable. One who is handy can readily make the seed cutter here described and save considerable time in preparing the seed for planting. Build a table about three feet deep and six feet wide, setting on it logs so it will stand about twenty-five inches from the floor, just high enough so the average man can get his knees under it comfortably when sitting down. Have a back to the table a foot high, with sides cut so that at the front end they will be more than six inches high. A similar board is run down the center, leaving a table at which two men can work. In the side pieces, about three inches from the end that is open, the front end, cut a hole eight inches long. A basket is set under this hole on the floor, and the cut tubers are passed through the hole into the basket. This is done so that by a movement of the hand the cut pieces may be dropped into the basket, rather than have the cutter reach over or around to drop the pieces, which would be necessary if the baskets were behind him or at the sides. Tall baskets are used generally, although the ordinary peach basket will answer the purpose. A shelf is placed at the top of the cutting bench at the back, on which knives and any other tools needed in the work may be kept. The idea is plainly shown in the illustration.—Indianapolis News.

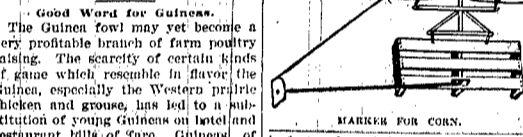

What Lime Does for Land.

Farmers often say that they do not need to use lime, because they use large quantities of it in fertilizer. Ground bone and other forms of phosphate contain lime. We cannot obtain phosphoric acid in ordinary fertilizers without lime. Such farmers mistake the most necessary function of lime in the soil. Air-slaked lime has a chemical action which sweetens the soil, makes it more compact or sets free other forms of plant food. This is quite distinct from its power to provide actual food for the plants. The lime in the bone or phosphate may in time serve as plant food, but the air-slaked lime is needed for the more important service.

Warm and Cold Winters.

According to the director of the weather bureau at the Missouri State University, the time may not be far distant when the United States weather service can tell us at least six months in advance whether the winter will be warm or cold. It has already been determined, he says, that there are great weather eddies of air sweeping around the globe which it is thought cause the difference in our winters, and as soon as stations are established everywhere so that the progress of these may be watched, the bureau will likely be able to give information by the last of September concerning the weather in January, February and March.

Winter Chickens.

Chickens can be hatched in the winter months and profitably raised. You can hatch them from Sept. 1 until June 1. Other months are unprofitable. Chickens can endure cold weather better than extreme heat. Disease, lice and mites always come with summer months. The expense of feeding is no greater in winter. Profits can be realized from broods hatched in November, December and January. Of course, winter chicks do not grow quite so fast, but they produce a heavier crop of feathers. They grow more compact and sold if hatched early in the winter, and will be just right for April and May, when the price is at the highest point.

MOVABLE TROUGH FOR PIGS.

From the point of strength. A cleat of hard wood covers the rough ends of the boards of the floor six inches wide. All nails are clinched on the inside and all cracks between boards are battened. The door is cut in the end and holes, eight inches in diameter, are cut in the upper front for ventilation. Small covers of wood may be fastened with screws so that they can be closed over the openings when the weather is very cold or stormy.

Killing Early Weeds.

There are many different kinds of weeds, and some of them start off early in the spring, almost before the frost leaves the ground. It is the early weeds that give the farmer the most trouble. If the land was plowed last fall, cross-plow if the coming spring, and then harrow or cultivate it as often as can be done until time to put in the seed. Every time the land is cultivated more weeds will germinate to be killed, and the more weeds that can be destroyed before the regular crop start the fewer there will be to combat later on.

Free Government Seeds.

The agricultural papers of the country have for years shown up the abuse of the annual congressional seed distribution. Last year the appropriation was 290,000, and over 500,000 packages of seed were distributed. The postage on these seeds if paid by individuals would cost about a half million

WHEN EVENING BRINGS US HOME.

When twilight shadows softly fall
Across the fading light,
And vesper bells (in music call)
The herald of the night,
O hour that beauteous eve and rest
To those who sadly roam,
Hour that is the dearest, sweetest, best,
When evening brings us home!

Forgot the trials of the day,
The toll that grief has cast,
All seem to fade at sunset ray,
The world grows bright and fair;
And yet the shadow deeper falls,
And weary wanderers roam:
But through the gloom a loved voice calls,
When evening brings us home.

And lagging feet quick onward press
To meet those at the door,
Where love in answering caress
Waits loyal evermore.
Most blessed hour of all the day
To those who toil and roam!
Love is the star that lights our way
When evening brings us home.

And if it be that no one waits
In searchy homes to greet,
There is a home beyond the gates
Where all who love shall meet;
So may we say in truth away
To those who sadly roam,
Each heart will find its own some day,
When evening brings us home.

MISS KERRISON'S HEART.

WHEN I heard that Tom Frisby was married the news came as a great shock to me. I asked Jack Goney, my informant, "Is he married much?"

"Oh, frightfully," said Goney. "Who is the creature?" I inquired, after a tense pause.

And when he replied, "The eldest Miss Carruthers," I was more shocked than ever. That Lillian—my beautiful, wild white dove—should consent to become a mere tame domestic fowl—and for Tom Frisby's sake, galled my sensibilities. I remembered how I had laid the offering of my own undivided affections at her feet, and how she had done so on the elaborate embroidery of words in which I had clothed my passionate avowal.

"I shall go and see them," I told Goney.

I found that Lillian—no, Mrs. Frisby—was already by way of becoming a social success. She was developing into that dreadful thing, an ideal hostess. She was obligingly tactful and offensively managing. It was said of her that she had a knack of bringing the right people together, which, being interpreted, means that she had been wined and dined by the right people together, which, being interpreted, means that she had been wined and dined by the right people together, which, being interpreted, means that she had been wined and dined by the right people together.

"Ah," he said, "you will find your affinity some day."

"If both of us find my affinity," said I, "there will be trouble."

But he was in no wise disconcerted. He merely wagged his fat head at me and said: "We must look out for a wife for you."

And from that moment began the unquenchable crusade against our elated bachelorhood, in which both Frisby and his wife took a meddlesome part, and which terminated in the lamentable contretemps that it is the purpose of this story to detail. She, of course, was the more subtle sinner.

One night Frisby and I were talking as man to man. We had been telling each other that we were both rather blackguards really, but deuced fine fellows notwithstanding, and we were consequently in a fine glow of self-satisfaction.

"One thing I've forgotten to say to you," he remarked. "It really is serious."

"Serious for whom?" I asked.

He paused, and then, dramatically, "For her," he said.

I dropped the poker into the fender with a crash. "For her?" I repeated. "What are you driving at?"

"Perhaps I ought not to have broached the subject," he faltered.

"Do not fail to her," he jerked out.

"And yet it's all due to that odious trick you have of taking to every woman you meet as if she were the only one of her sex in the world."

"I don't think they find that particularly odious," said I.

"But lookers on do," said he. "And it is a bit rough on 'em, you know, old chap. Of course we who, understand you know it's only your way, but girls—innocent, young, unsuspecting—"

I rose again. "Good night," I said abruptly, offering my hand.

"I'll tell you her name, then," said he. "It's little Miss Kerrison—if you must know."

"Oh," said I, rather disappointed. "I know—the girl who is so awfully conscious of her profile."

"My wife's cousin," he said stiffly.

"And you mean to say that foolish whiff is in love with me?"

"Oh, come! Well, I suppose so. But confound your complacency, anyhow!"

"Poor thing!" I murmured. "Poor, silly thing! Pretty, too! Well, what would you advise me to do about it?"

He shrugged his shoulders. "I don't presume to advise at all," he replied.

"Best way, I suppose, would be to put her out of her misery at once," said I.

"There are worse girls than Nina Kerrison," he said.

"But do you think they would suit me better?" I asked him.

"You overvalue me," I observed, "with those touching tokens of your approval."

And then we talked of other matters. I had had not the least intention of going to the Chandlers' dance the following evening, but now I determined to go after all, since Miss Kerrison was bound to be there, and it were best to get this painful business over at once.

In the conservatory I made out a dim, rounded form in filmy white, and came face to face with Nina Kerrison. She sat there motionless, her hands in her lap, as if awaiting her fate in the person of myself.

"All alone?" I said, lightly.

"I prefer to be alone," she said bravely, and rose as if to go.

But I understood what an infinity of meaning the studied earnestness of her words would have said concealed, and I whispered, "Please don't forsake me, I—I came here to look for you."

"Why?" she asked. A most awkward question!

"Why?" I repeated slowly, to gain time. "Oh, because those people in there bore me. And you—you never do that, Miss Kerrison."

"Well, it is something to be a harbor of refuge," she remarked. "Thank you. Then, by the way, is it really true, this time, that I am to congratulate you?"

"On my good fortune in finding you here, do you mean? Why certainly," I said.

"I did not mean that," she replied. "I meant that—that well, the usual rumor is out concerning you?"

"Indeed!" I exclaimed. "But which of the usual rumors do you refer to?"

"There is only one— isn't there—that is commonly linked with the name of an eligible young bachelor. But is it true?"

"Believe me," I assured her, "it is not true."

"I am so glad," she breathed softly. "Poor girl! At least—that is—"

She would have covered up her indiscretion, but, perceiving that it was now too late, she paused abruptly and lapsed into silence.

"Why are you glad?" I asked. I had not intended to proceed on exactly these lines, but I found it difficult to be sufficiently brutal now that the necessity confronted me.

"Oh," she drawled, with a woeeful affectation of indifference. "I think, as the song says, 'You are over young to marry yet,' you know."

"I wonder what your wife will be like," she went on presently. "I do hope she will be a nice, helpful sort of girl, and not a mere society butterfly—like me."

"If she were like you," I began, and stopped.

"She won't be," said Miss Kerrison quietly.

"I mean," she explained, "that the object of our first fancy is so seldom the person to make us truly happy, if we but knew it."

I remembered then that some one had told me this was Miss Kerrison's third season.

"First love is the only love," I said truthfully. It was no time for maxims and sermons. I had temporized with my conscience too long already. She must now be banded to realize the sad truth in all its ghostliness.

"That is not so," she said. "Believe me, Mr. Craven, when I tell you that you are as yet far too young to know what is best for your welfare."

"Anyway," said I, "when my fate does come along—"

And there I made an abrupt end, for she had suddenly begun to laugh. There could be no doubt about it. She was laughing—not hysterically, either, but with unmistakable enjoyment as at an irresistible jest.

"Mr. Craven," she said at last, more seriously. "I think I'll be frank with you. My honest dealing may conceivably cost me your good opinion, but only for a time. You'll like me all the better afterward. And I am sure you have enough common sense, really, not to think me unwomanly or unmodest in saying what I am about to say to you now."

"Miss Kerrison," I cried in sore distress, "forbear, reflect, consider. Don't speak yet. You may save us both much pain, if you keep silent."

"Nonsense!" she exclaimed sharply. "This was an effort. Go on, then, if you will," I said sternly.

"I've an idea," she said, "that we are at cross purposes, and that it is all the fault of those dear foolish Frisbys."

"* * * * * Mrs. Frisby has said something to you about—well, about me, hasn't she? Please be straightforward, Mr. Craven?"

"No, she hasn't," I answered.

"Mr. Frisby, then?"

"Yes."

"What did he say?"

"I turned on her in desperation. 'How can I repeat what he said?' I cried. 'Miss Kerrison, let me implore you to say no more. Let me entreat—'

"No," she replied. "I will tell you what they said. They told you I—well—had a penchant for you."

"They were wrong!" I exclaimed, still eager to spare her.

"Of course they were," she rejoined. "As wrong as they were when they told me—well—that you were—in love—with my unworthy self. But—"

And she began to laugh again. This woman I tell you, had no sense of humor, or of decency either, I should think. "But they meant well, I suppose. And there's no harm done—except to our vanity, perhaps. Anyway, the path they would have had us tread hardly leads to the Wicked Three, does it?"

And she smiled at the inescapably, and I think she would have added some pleasant, soothing words. But just then a man pulled his hood round the bend of the curtain and she darted up and went forward to greet him. I heard her call him "Frank," and I guessed from that it was for him she had been waiting so meekly, all alone. And at last, understanding—I knew—that I—had merely provided some comic relief from the tedium of her sighs.—Sketch.

His Reason.
"But," argue the royal cabinet, when Pharaoh decides to begin the erection of the first pyramid, "why do you want to put this huge mass of stone? Can you give a good reason for it?"

"Sam Hill, no!" testily replies Pharaoh. "But in the centuries to come our reign will be forgotten because of the many reasons assigned by scientists for the building of the pyramids."—New Orleans Planityer.

To Prevent Ship's Rollings—A German engineer, Otto Schlick, who has been studying for many years the prevention of ship's rollings, believes the solution lies in a gyroscope. Herr Schlick proposes to steady ships by mounting the gyroscope in the hold, and his first experiments on a large scale have been undertaken with an old torpedo boat. In this craft a gyroscope with a discharging 1,000 pounds was mounted with a steam turbine which would rotate it at a speed of more than 2,000 revolutions a minute. The oscillations and pitching of the vessel were carefully measured before the steam was admitted to the turbine, and then when the turbine was put in revolution the motion practically ceased. So successful were these experiments with the sixty-ton torpedo boat that it has been decided to proceed with a larger craft.

Judge Sullivan of Columbus and Judge Graves of Pender, are being talked of by democrats as suitable men to run for congress in this district against the republican nominee.

Dr. J. J. Williams says that while he enjoyed his services as state senator, he could not afford to be a candidate again, and believes the republican nomination will be conceded to Madison county in accordance with the custom of rotation.

Pat McKillip, over whose classic brow rests a huge shock of hair, is such a shining statesman among democrats that the papers of his faith are uncertain as to what office to run him for. They want him to either run for governor or congress.

The district Methodist conference at Wakefield sounded a note of progress by declaring in favor of a closer union of churches without regard to sectarian lines. The evident idea is to minimize the importance of denominational creeds and dogmas and give more weight to the work of uplifting humanity, increasing good results by united, harmonious action.

Omaha's list of available timber for the United States senatorship has been reduced by the announced retirement of Mr. Wattles. It stands Mr. Roosevelt in hand to inspire the withdrawal of all Omaha rivals, or at least capture the entire Douglas county delegation, if he would go to the state convention properly armed for victory. The generally favorable comments among the newspapers on his candidacy, guarantee him considerable support outside of Omaha.

Complaint is made that Bressler park in which trees were recently set out with the intention of other improvements, is not receiving the attention that it should if it is to be made the attractive spot that had been designed and anticipated. We are told that the trees are being neglected and nothing done in the way of preliminary work looking to the future of the park. If it is the business of the city authorities, they should ascertain what is needed and act promptly.

M. Warner, editor, historian and probable democratic nominee for governor, desires most of the editorial space of his last issue to denying that he is a candidate, but explaining what he would do if he were really governor. Among other things he says he would call out the militia and declare Lincoln under martial law if necessary to do his duty and secure the welfare of the people. We would advise him to do more than that—extend martial law over the whole state, so that enjoyment of his reign would not be selfishly confined to one spot.

Corporation gulch at Norfolk is the avenue of escape for all the water that falls on the hillsides for miles around the town, and during Monday night's storm it proved utterly inadequate and as a result streets and yards were flooded and lawns ruined. The authorities and incensed citizens of the place are now thinking hard to devise plans to remedy the nuisance. The dandelion pest sinks into insignificance in Norfolk in comparison with the evils of corporation gulch, and in fact the luxuriant growths of dandelions, lying buried in lawns under several inches of mud, are quite forgotten.

The rate regulation bill has passed the senate and is now in the hands of a house committee and of course the latter will object to some of the senate's amendments and as a consequence the proposed measure will be finally fixed over by a conference committee comprising members of both houses. The law provides for a railway commission, and names heavy penalties for the giving or acceptance of rebates or free passes, and is intended to bring about an equitable adjustment of freight rates. As ultimately enacted into law, it will probably result in some desired reforms and meet the approval of the masses.

John Hayes and wife and daughter departed today for Grayson, S. D., near which place they will live on a homestead. They have lived here more than twenty years and their many friends regret to see them leave.
Action against Ed. Jones, Riley Rooth and Walter Stubbs, mentioned of whom is made elsewhere in this paper, will be pushed and the defendants will be given a hearing before Judge Hunter next Monday. They are charged with threatening Chris Holat.
Rev. J. H. Karpenstein returned Tuesday from Richly, Neb., where he attended a conference of the German Lutheran church. Mr. and Mrs. Verne Miller of Omaha, the latter formerly Lulu Cook of Wayne, are the parents of a new daughter, born last week.
The presentation of Hans Hanson in the opera house Tuesday evening attracted a large audience, and the merits of the production satisfied highest expectations. Each part was well taken, and an excellent orchestra contributed a great deal to the pleasure of the entertainment.
J. W. Ahi suffered a severe accident while working in John S. Lewis' brick yard Tuesday afternoon. He was in the pit shoveling when a bank of clay fell on him, crushing his left hip and causing a partial dislocation of the bones. No bones were broken. Dr. Williams was called, and thinks there will be no serious results.
Messrs. Chas. Robbins and Dan Harrington of Wayne and Byron Heille and E. B. Ware of Laurel have rented a new building, now under construction, at Wakefield with the intention of putting in a big department store. They will incorporate and expect to be ready for business about the middle of August. H. B. Ware of Laurel will have charge of the new store. It is believed that Wakefield is an exceptionally good point for such a venture.

A dispatch to yesterday's Sioux City Journal says that Magnet has one lone saloon that is applying for a new license and an effort is being made to have a dry town like its sister towns of Wausau and Randolph. At present Magnet is the lone town that draws the thirsty, and the temperance movement may remove this oasis of the surrounding aridness.
The preliminary hearing of August Miller was held Tuesday. He pleaded not guilty. Seven witnesses were called by the state. Miller was bound over to the district court, bond being fixed at $5000. He was charged in eight counts, with breaking and entering premises with intent to kill. The trial will probably be held during the next term of court.—Stantop Pickett.
The county Sunday school convention opened in Wayne yesterday and the attendance of delegates from different parts of the county is larger than was expected. The chief feature last evening was a lecture by Miss Mamie Hales on "A Trip to Jerusalem." Her description was complete and presented in an attractive style. The convention will close this afternoon.
The main show in northeast Nebraska on July 4th will take place in Wayne. Performances to catch the overflow will probably be held in other towns. It will be well, however, to keep your eyes on Wayne's preparations, and get here as early as possible on the morning of the Fourth and stay all day. Wayne does not trust itself loose every year on Independence day, but when it does, everything is done right and on an elaborate scale.
E. Cunningham of Wayne, Neb., has purchased a section of land in the Squirrel Creek district. Mr. Cunningham has been negotiating for the property, but was unable to get the owner to place a price on it. Soon as the price was named, Mr. Cunningham immediately wired that his check was on the way and to consider it sold. This is only a sample of the numerous deals in our fertile soil that are taking place.—St. Anthony, Idaho, Teton Peak-Chronicle.
Investigation of the charges lodged against the management of the Norfolk asylum will take place in that city before the state board of public lands and buildings on June 6. Following the decision for a thorough investigation at Norfolk, Dr. J. T. Greene, superintendent of the Lincoln asylum, has filed a request for an investigation of the manner and causes of the death of a patient in that institution in November, 1904. Dr. Greene says a hostile press reflects unfavorably on him in connection with that death and as a consequence wants a complete investigation and a record made of it.
A number from Wayne attended the district meeting of the Daughters of Rebekah at Wakefield last Friday and had a very pleasant time. Among the features of the program was a reading by W. B. McCabo and a solo by Miss Kate Gamble, with piano accompaniment by Miss Mary Mellor. The meeting, under the direction of Mrs. Hallor, Past Assembly President of Blair, was successful in every respect, and the next district meeting will be held in Hartington next October. Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Matheny and Mesdames Schultheis, Henyon and Jublin were present from Wayne.

A Fremont report says: Twenty-two employees of the Northwestern, brakemen, firemen and switchmen have been dismissed from the service. Most of them are men who have made their headquarters in Fremont. All are to be replaced by men who are arriving from Sioux City, Norfolk and other points. The official ax commenced to swing Friday night, when five brakemen were discharged. Saturday and Sunday the others were dismissed as they came in. Several who anticipated that they were on the list for summary discharge sent hurried resignations to Trainmaster Lippitt's office. It is said by the men that "spotters" have been at work and that the "general cleaning" was looked forward to for some time. The employees who are thus let out are said to have had various charges brought against them, including that of frequenting saloons, being drunk, insubordination and lack of ability.
Mamie Sheridan Wolford and company produced a dramatization of Bertha M. Clay's famous novel, "Dora Thorne," last night to a large and enthusiastic audience, and a better acted play has not been seen at the Auditorium in many a day. In the part of Dora, Miss Wolford has a most congenial role, and especially in the third act did she show a mastery grasp of the technique of the actor's art. The supporting company fitted admirably the various roles and the ladies wore some very beautiful gowns.—Wichita Daily Eagle.

Fire started from some unknown cause in Hugo Wantoch's barn Tuesday and when discovered was too far gone to be saved. The barn and one horse were lost. The fire boys made a quick run and did excellent work in saving the adjoining buildings.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE NOTICE.
Wayne County Teachers' Institute will convene at the court house in Wayne, June 4th, promptly at 8:15 a. m., and continue in session five days.
The work of the coming year will be discussed at that time, and all teachers who expect to teach in the county next year must attend.
The instructors will be Prof. F. M. Gregg of the State Normal, Supt. E. P. Wilson of the Wayne public schools and Mrs. M. A. Phillips. These instructors need no introduction to the teachers of this county.
Three lectures will be given during the week. On Tuesday evening Dr. Edward A. Ross of our state university will lecture on "Modern Sin and The Grading of Sinners." Wednesday evening, Supt. N. C. Abbott will give his popular lecture entitled "China, Japan, and the Philippines." Thursday evening Prof. F. M. Gregg will lecture on "Nebraska's Geological Story." Lectures will be free to all enrolled in the institute; others will be charged an admission fee. All sessions are to be held in the court house.

Success and Failure

To be successful is to make the best of your opportunities. To fail is to be satisfied with your present conditions. You may plant many acres and reap an abundant harvest and yet fail to use your best opportunity in making a good investment with your money, and the world will call your effort a failure. You may be satisfied to let present conditions alone and not investigate the new things that present themselves for your acceptance, if so your life will be a failure. There is no stopping place in life and if you fail to move forward you are going back. This brings us to an important place and if you will give us an opportunity we can help you to move forward. You cannot move ahead unless you have the up-to-date appearance. Men are judged today by the impression they make, and you cannot make the right kind of impression unless your outward appearance is favorable. Here is where we can help you. We have at all times the latest, up-to-date clothing and if you come to see us, you will not only get the latest styles, but the lowest price. We are ever busy investigating every line made in this country, and we are not satisfied to buy of only one manufacturer, but pick out the best things in several lines. You will certainly make a great mistake to buy any clothing for men or boys and not investigate this store. Success will be certain and failure impossible for you if you do your trading at this store. The most successful men in Wayne county trade here. Why not try us for your next suit? Eggs same as cash.

The Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company

Omaha, May 9, 1906.
Dear Sir: REGARDING NEW BUSINESS
We are just in receipt of advices from San Francisco that the Liverpool & London & Globe's liability in the burned district is $1,850,000 with $800,000 re-insurance, which reduces the amount to $1,050,000 net. Of course, they can give us no estimate as to the amount of salvage they may receive when adjustments are completed. As you have been previously advised by Chicago, this loss will be paid from the home office.
When we realize that more than twelve times the above sum would be available from the same source and still leave our American assets of $13,234,948 undisturbed, it would be pardonable if we should feel proud of the showing our company is able to make at this time.
The insuring public will be very critical during the remaining part of the year in placing insurance, and I believe the opportunity never was so great for securing new business for a strong and safe company, such as the "Liverpool" is at present.
With deepest appreciation of your past efforts, and bespeaking continued kind treatment of our good company's interests at your hands, I am,
Most sincerely yours,
W. E. HITCHCOCK, State Agent.
