MILLER ALTERN WAYNE NEB

A DISLOYAL PROVINCE

REBEL SENTIMENT IS STRONG NEAR CUBAN CAPITAL

President May Promise Immunity to All Insurgents Who Will Quit Within Thirty Days—Situation in General is Increasingly Serious.

The anxiety of President Palma, of Cuba, to extend every possible opportunity for peace without bloodshed, and his desire to permit those who joined the insurrection under misguidance to repent and return to their homes un molested, combined with the general wish to end a situation fraught with so much loss and suffering, has led to consideration by the president and his cabinet of a project decreeing a thirty-day amnesty period, during which the insurrectionists are invited to lay down their arms and return to their peaceful pursuits.

So far as actual conflict Sunday proved to be a day of inactivity, but preparations proceeded without abatement. A fund of $2,000,000 has been set aside by the treasury for defense, and drafts on its are heavy and constant.

The situation is so increasingly serious that it is tacitly admitted in all government circles that the enlargement of the army will not stop any given number, but will continue indefinitely.

While the number of men at present leaving their regular occupations to enlist for war the small employers are beginning to find that they will soon be confronted with a considerable scarcity of labor. Many laborers are gathering in front of the bulletin boards on which are displayed the call for volunteers issued by President Palma Saturday night.

It was learned that several new regiment bands had taken to the brush.

TRAIL IN RAILWAY CAMP.

Two Men Killed in Fight Between Posse and Negroes.

News from Leonard, Harlan county, Ky., states that a pitched battle occurred at a railway camp at Crab Orchard, Va., near the Kentucky state line, between an officers' posse and a gang of negro workmen led by John Powers, a white man, in which Powers and Charles Smith, white, were killed and William Barker, a member of the posse, an unknown white woman and three negroes, unknown, were wounded. The negroes were routed and the railway camp destroyed. Officers were sent to arrest him, but Powers and the other men chased the officers away. Seventy-five possmen were summoned and returned to the camp. There Powers and Smith had taken up with the negroes and opened fire on the posse, wounding Barker in the face. The officers returned the fire and a pitched battle ensued, resulting as above.

CHEAPER INSURANCE.

Measure Prepared to Urge in State Legislature.

Millions will be held in reserve for the policyholders of life insurance companies and the cost of insurance will be materially lowered if a bill approved by the insurance commissioners at their session at St. Paul Friday meets with the approval of the various legislatures next winter.

The bill, which requires an annual apportionment and accounting of surplus life insurance companies, it is maintained by many of the commissioners, strikes at the root of all the evil of life insurance companies' management by holding their officers accountable for the enormous surplus funds accumulated under the deferred dividend contracts under which nearly all of the large companies operate.

The matter of apportionment of the surplus was brought before the committee in a report submitted by Zeno M. Howl, insurance commissioner of Wisconsin, on an annual accounting and distribution of surplus life insurance companies.

The bill provides that "every life insurance company conducted on the mutual plan or in which policyholders are entitled to share in the profits or surplus, shall make an annual apportionment and accounting of divisible surplus to each policyholder beginning on or before the second policy year or on all participating policyholders thereafter." It requires that policyholders shall be entitled to and be credited with or paid in a manner provided such a portion of the entire divisible surplus as has been contributed thereto by his policy.

CLAIMS OF "SODNERS" UPHOLD.

Troops Required to Preserve Order in New Wyoming Town.

Upon request of Sheriff Stough, of Fremont county, Wyo., Gov. Brooks ordered out Company B, of the state national guard, stationed at Lander. To proceed to the Shoshone reservation to aid the sheriff in preserving order on the new townsite on the reservation.

DIFFICULTY ON THE RESERVATION BEGAN ON THE NIGHT OF AUG. 14.

The difficulty on the reservation began on the night of Aug. 14, the day before the reservation was opened, when about 300 "sodners" gathered on the border of the reservation, and on the morning of the 15th every town lot on the new townsite was occupied by a squatter. Indian Agent Wadsworth held that the rule restricting general settlement on the reservation hereafter until October 15 applied to townsite settlements, and drove the settlers off with federal troops. Commissioner of the General Land Office, Richards, occurred a military ruling from the secretary of the interior, and Wadsworth had received instructions to withdraw the troops.

BIGGEST INSURANCE LOSS.

Insurance Companies to Pay $1,225,000 for Palace Hotel.

The insurance loss on the Palace hotel building at San Francisco has been adjusted at $1,225,000. This is more than the insurance companies will have to pay for the total insurance on the building was only $1,265,000. It being a total loss, the liability of a fifth of over $1,265,000 will be distributed among ninety-eight companies involved in the loss. This is said to have been the largest loss upon a single risk ever adjusted in this country. After the Bellmore conflagration two years ago the largest amount paid upon one risk is said to have been $771,000, upon the Equitable life insurance company's building. The round value of the building before the flames consumed it was estimated at $1,800,000. The damage done by the earthquake was estimated at about 3 per cent.

ONE DAY FOR MURDER.

Pennington Didn't Mean to Kill Annie Tobin.

For killing his wife, whose name was Annie Tobin, and who came there from Sioux City, Ia., Charles M. Pennington, of Denver, Colo., Thursday was given one day in the county jail after he pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter with the charge of murder against him.

The crime was committed at 2:45 a. m., May 2. Pennington's common law wife had been drinking and Pennington tried to force her to leave the room of Agnes Shek at 1756 Curtis street.

The trouble had started early in the evening of the preceding day, when the woman, who was known in Denver as "Habe" Pennington, went to Pennington's saloon where Pennington was dispensing liquor and some words of a quarrelsome nature were exchanged. The woman left the saloon and about six hours later Pennington went to the room of Agnes Shek and commanded his wife to "come on to our room." She was lying on a bed with her coat and skirt off, and refused to go, being in a sort of stupor, supposedly from the effect of drinking and sleeping.

When she told Pennington that she would not go she asked him to get her some beer and a sandwich, "and then I'll go," she added. After his getting the food some hot words were exchanged whereupon Pennington struck her a blow on the jaw nerve. She fell without a word and five minutes later was pronounced dead by physicians.

DIVORCE FLAWS AMAZING.

One Decree in Five Not Legal, Census Bureau Finds.

Amazing irregularities in many of the divorce decrees granted in New York within the last twenty years have been discovered. So far there is a flaw in one divorce out of every five examined.

These defects were found by William H. K. Jarvis, of the census bureau, and his corps of fifteen "divorce girls" sent from Washington for statistics of divorces. If made known they would make blunders of many couples married in good faith and legitimate many children. How much and how many of these discoveries will be made public depends largely on whether to be taken by Mr. Jarvis. If he applies to the court for necessary data in thousands of cases, an order may be granted to "unseal" the papers.

FIFTEEN EXAMINERS FROM THE CENSUS BUREAU HAVE REACHED THE YEAR 1887

in their examination and compilations. Already they have found that nearly 20 per cent of the papers filed away are incomplete. They do not contain any final award of decree by a judge. Without this they are invalid.

NEWS OF THE WEEK IN A CONDENSED FORM.

Father Rights to Secure Children—J. A. Johnson, of Pace County, in Peculiar Struggle—Dead Wife's Parents Insist on Keeping Two Girls.

Between the grandparent of Effie Johnson, an 11-year-old girl, and her father, J. A. Johnson, who is a well known farmer of Pace county, Ia., a bitter fight has arisen over who shall have custody of the child. It has been fought out once in the district court at Beatrice, Neb., where the grandparent resided, and is now before the supreme court of this state. Notwithstanding that both Terry's grandfather, has been ordered to surrender her, he has so far refused to do so. For this the district court committed him to jail on a contempt warrant, but a short stay has been secured pending the appeal.

John Terry, a young boy, was shot and killed in 1902, leaving two children, Leah, aged 15 at that time, and Effie, who was 7. Shortly after the mother's death the two girls were brought by their father from their Iowa home to Nebraska and left for a time with the grandparents. When he asked to have the girls sent back, the Terry's would not let them go. Johnson came to this state, started proceedings in court and got an order for the custody of the young girl. Mr. and Mrs. Terry insisted that she should still remain with them, notwithstanding the order, and they forbade Johnson to come upon their premises.

He went to the county attorney, who started proceedings for custody. The Terry's have now been given until Aug. 27 to comply with the court's mandate. Owing to an appeal which the Terry's have filed Johnson is required to give bond for $1,000 that the child will not be taken permanently out of Nebraska, until her rightful custody is finally determined.

Crossed the Andes. From the few details of the earthquake obtainable it appears that the disturbance passed south along the Pacific coast and across the Andes at Buenos Ayres.

The shock around Los Andes was severe, and it is feared that the town has been destroyed. The shocks also wrecked the entire Pacific coast line of South America Thursday night. So widespread and so great is the disaster that it was impossible as yet to gather more than the most fragmentary details, but enough is known to make it sure that the catastrophe ranks second only to that in San Francisco.

The earthquake caused such terrible immediate damage that all communication was stopped between Chile and the remainder of the world. The most terrible rumors were abroad in Argentina and Brazil as to the extent of the calamity, some reports being to the effect that not only had Valparaiso been largely destroyed but that the earthquake has caused sweeping loss in life and property along the coast of Chile to the other. According to some of these reports, Chile is said to be a land of wreck, desolation and death from the southern to the northern boundary.

Ships Lost in Harbor. Following the first shock, which came without warning and was of terrific force, a tidal wave swept in from the ocean. Many vessels were borne aloft by it and buried high and dry where they were wrecked are now lying where they were wrecked. Some were hurled a half mile inland, her plates ripped and torn by the rocks and her hull half buried in the sand.

The damage to the shipping is beyond computation. At the time of this catastrophe the harbor was filled with shipping from all parts of the world, many of the vessels being laden with grain cargoes. None that were in the harbor and most of the harbor it will be impossible to float again. Scores of seamen had their lives as the great tidal wave swept the vessels ashore.

and for miles along the coast in the city the beaches are strewn with dead bodies and all kinds of wreckage.

The misery of the Chilean inhabitants is almost indescribable. It is not to be remembered that it is mid-winter there and that the rigors of the climate add to the suffering of the thousands who have been made homeless.

There were two distinct shocks in Valparaiso, the second one causing most of the damage. Scores of houses crumpled up like so many card structures, while others were signalled by the chains of the earthquake, and hundreds of men, women and children caused considerable damage, though the loss of life was insignificant.

There have been shocks of less violent nature in other years. The recurring disturbances have caused some of the residents of the city to build with a view to earthquake resistance, but in the main the town's structures outside of the business center are frail.

In one densely populated section the streets are tortuous and narrow and the dwellings are so built as to offer weak resistance to an earth disturbance.

In view of the visit of the earthquake so closely following the San Francisco disaster it is interesting to note that the formation of the land and the surroundings of Valparaiso are similar to those of San Francisco. The change also is almost identical with that of the California city.

In addition to the fear of earthquakes, the Valparaiso people are in constant dread of storms, which sweep in suddenly and frequently from the sea. Some of the most violent storms have been coincident with earthquakes, and the possibility that the two disturbances are allied in origin is a matter in which science is interested.

Although the main commercial center and the seat of government of Chile seem to have suffered most severely from the disturbance grave alarm is felt for the safety of the inhabitants of shores of other places along the coast, as the whole lower Andes range was severely shaken.

As at San Francisco, famine threatens the tens of thousands of survivors of the disaster, and an appeal for world-wide relief is expected from the devastated republic.

The dating into the ruins of the wrecked institution developed the most astounding mass of financial rottenness ever unearthed since the State of Illinois undertook the supervision of the people's saving depositories.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

The weekly review of Chicago trade by F. G. Dunn & Co. says:

"The aggregate of new demands in the leading manufacturing branches sustains favorable deductions as to future activity. An assuring evidence of stability appears in the remarkable strength which characterizes the raw material markets and the unprecedented consumption of supplies entering into the finished products of the mills and workshops. Distributive dealers exhibit a rapidly expanding tendency. The markets are unusually well attended by visiting buyers, and this has greatly stimulated orders for general merchandise to be forwarded with in the next six weeks. Transactions in staple goods exceed those of a year ago, the buying being well distributed in the textiles, wearing apparel, boots and shoes, house furnishings and food products. Western merchants are much encouraged in their operations by the splendid results attained in agriculture, and are planning for the largest fall business ever known.

"Local retail trade has made seasonal headway, and summer stocks are well reduced. The forwarding of finished materials and store supplies exceeds all previous volume and is about to be much augmented by the jobbing house shipments.

"The total quantity of grain handled at this port aggregated 8,255,578 bushels, against 7,780,000 bushels last week. The receipts increased 3 per cent and shipments decreased 54.2 per cent, as compared with those in same week last year. Live stock receipts were 292,320 head, against 297,542 head last week. Lumber receipts aggregated 39,325,000 feet, against 52,712,000 feet last week. Compared with the closings a week ago prices advanced in sheep 10 cents and cattle 40 cents per hundredweight, and increased in corn 3 cents a bushel, wheat 13 cents, pork 10 cents per barrel, ribs 45 cents, lard 20 cents and hogs 42 1/2 cents.

"Bank clearings, $195,533,978, exceed those of the corresponding week in 1905 by 8.5 per cent."

Bradstreet's says: "Fall trade has opened actively, the first rush of house buyers being the largest on record at all large centers East and West.

"Free and confident buying of dry goods, boots, shoes, clothing and kindred articles is reported from all Western and Southern points, and first and second hands at the East report business of full volume for the season. Other developments have been mainly favorable.

"Heavy rains have affected some lines of retail trade at the West, checked spring wheat cutting at some points and injured the quality rather than the quantity of winter wheat in stock; but on the other hand, needed moisture has been received by corn and enough has been secured to assure maturity at most points. Only the best reports come from the Southern corn crop, and cotton has been improved by the cessation of heavy rains in the South Atlantic States."

The prairie chicken season opens next Saturday.

An exchange remarks that the corn crop will go republican this fall.

The Real Estate Trust company of Philadelphia, closed its doors Tuesday, the failure involving fully $10,000,000.

A "middle" party is in the latest. Miss Margaret Skid, of Cleveland, O., will give a party on September 23 in honor of her 23rd birthday at her home, 23 East Twenty-third street.

The British press seems considerably stirred up over Theodore Roosevelt's spelling reform ideas and the Bloomington High School has been suggesting most everything but lynching.

It may be "peanut politics" as the Elgin Review intimates, to attempt to get a plank into the state republican platform opposing newspaper advertising mileage, but God speed the time when the railroads, the theatre companies, and others who work the semi-graft advertising graft on the newspapers, pay for what they get and allow the publisher the same privilege.

Soon the tinkling school bell will call the urban to more serious travail than the digging of fish-bait or the dive to the bottom of the shady swimming hole. No more this season will the sunburned back be in evidence, nor will the lad who has been admonished by mother in regard to keeping out of the water turn his shirt inside out crawling through the barbed-wire fence.

We are free to say that we don't think much of the manner in which President Roosevelt has taken up with the phonetic idea in spelling and predict that in this instance the adoption of a "reform" by the chief executive is not going to out any particular toe. It may be given a certain prestige on that account, but an order to a public printer is not going to revolutionize a language that has stood us in good stead for several hundred years.

We have discovered another "little deal" that smells of political brimstone—and democratic brimstone at that. The editor of this paper received a letter this week notifying him that the Nebraska Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had appointed him its local representative and clothed him with the necessary power to organize a branch society here. We look upon this as a diabolical democratic scheme to get us to be easy on them during the coming campaign.—Pondor Republic.

In the nomination of Judge Boyd, of Neligh, for congress in this district the republicans are extremely fortunate. He will make an ideal candidate. Fully equipped with a mentality of high order, a pleasing personality, and one whose life has been irreproachable, he unites all those qualifications in one whom men like to meet, think about and vote for. We predict for him an overwhelming plurality and a career in congress that shall please everyone of his constituents no matter what their political predilections may be.—Tahamah Journal.

THE DISTRICT JUDGESHIP.

The nomination of Judges Boyd and Graves as opposing candidates for congress, will make it imperative upon the next governor of Nebraska to appoint a judge to fill the place of the one who is elected. Judge Boyd is now the presiding judge in the Ninth district, while Judge Graves is at the head of the Eighth, so that one of these positions must be filled by appointment. In the Eighth district, the only name mentioned so far is that of John A. Ehrhardt of Stanton, a lawyer well fitted for the place and one who will make an enviable reputation on the bench, should the democratic nominee be elected to congress and a republican vice versa be elected to fill the vacancy.

That this situation is but the consequence possibility, for it is Boyd's shoes that will have to be filled, because he will be elected congressman from the Third district. In that event, then the Ninth judicial bench will have to be given an occupant. Previous to the state convention the other day, the contest for this place promised to be rather interesting, but now it has resolved itself down to practically one man, and that man is A. A. Welch, of Wayne, a good lawyer, a strong character, and a man admired and respected by all who know him. It was expected that W. A. Messerve, of Knox county, and J. A. Williams, of Pierce, would be applicants for the place when made vacant, but the nomination of Mr. Williams as candidate for railroad commissioner stimulates him from the race for judgeship, while Mr. Messerve has given his endorsement to Mr. Welch, and he will undoubtedly be the appointee, for there are no other candidates in the field who will develop much strength.

The News' very cheerfully endorses the Wayne county candidate and believes no mistake will be made when the governor appoints him.—Norfolk News.

The recent republican state convention made no mistake in the nomination of Gen. L. Sheldon for governor. He is a native of Nebraska, having first seen the light of day in the city of Nehawka, thirty-six years ago. Mr. Sheldon has had a remarkably brilliant and successful career. In 1893 he graduated from the Nebraska state university and entered the senior class at Harvard, following that institution the following year. He at once took an active part in politics and has been successful from the start. Mr. Sheldon has served two years to the state senate, being the youngest member of the twenty-eight session. Being a man of fine education and having practical experience in Nebraska politics he will fill the governor's chair with honor to the great state of Nebraska and himself.

The 3-cent fare rate, under the law passed by the Ohio legislature last winter, although it has been in actual effect only a few months, is already surpassing the expectations of its authors. The returns show gross passenger receipts on a much larger scale than under the old 5-cent rate. It is admitted in railroad circles that local travel between points within the state has been greatly stimulated by the reduction. The effect has even been such that the electric roads have experienced some diversion of passengers to the steam railroads. The cities and larger towns particularly are gratified by a marked tendency of people to come in greater numbers and from longer distances to trade. Sufficient time has not yet elapsed for an explicit showing of the effect on the net profit from passenger traffic, but no doubts entertained in Ohio that it will be larger than under the old high rate. Free transportation was prohibited by the same law, and this provision is being rigidly enforced by the roads. The free pass abuse in Ohio had reached immense proportions, representing a corresponding cost and loss to the roads. Its abolition goes far to counteract the net in net earnings that would naturally have been expected, at least temporarily, from the reduction of one-third in the fare. Probably the most significant circumstance which is reliably reported is the increasing satisfaction of railroad officials themselves with their experience under the new law, which is found to result also in relieving them of a world of annoyance and work on account of the importunities of passengers, all of which amounted to a serious element of cost in railroad management.—Omaha Bee.

THE CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Judge J. F. Boyd, the republican nominee for congress in the Third district is a man none better than whom could have been named for that position of trust and responsibility. The nominee has for several years occupied a position on the bench of this judicial district and has been a popular judge, one who has shown himself qualified in knowledge of the law and to have a rare sense of justice and equity. He is a man who has always kept in close touch with the people and whose popularity will make him a winner at the polls. When elected the interests of his constituents will be cared for with the same conscientiousness that has characterized his judicial administration. He will serve them well while maintaining the principles of the political party to which he has been for a life time attached.

In this connection we reproduce the following tribute to Judge J. F. Boyd, published by the Elgin Review:

"Judge J. Frank Boyd is a plain man of the people, popular wherever known, and most popular where best known. He has long been prominent in Antelope county politics, and for a number of years his acquaintance and influence have been extending rapidly, not only throughout his judicial district, but all over this congressional district and the state. He has twice served as county attorney of Antelope county, and refused to accept a third nomination. He is a fair and impartial judge, and his decisions stand well the tests of both law and equity. He has been probably the most expeditious and business-like judge the district has ever had, and has but little patience with the usual delays of the law, in which respect he is squarely aligned with the people. The same excellent qualities which have always caused him to run far ahead of his ticket whenever a candidate for office will land him in congress by the largest majority any republican candidate for the office in this district has ever received, and these same qualities will make him a wise and influential congressman, who will, we are convinced, stand with the president in helping to bring about all the reforms for which the president stands, and which have made the name of Roosevelt dear to the American heart."

SPELLING REFORM.

There is this to be said for the spelling reform movement: It is honest. In this period of feverish clamor, when one is assailed, from rear and both sides, with "reform movements" of questionable purpose and doubtful origin, this proposition for the gradual ripping up of the established rules of orthography comes as a light shining in a dark place.

Though it is claimed, that simplicity is the end and aim of the movement, there is no pretense that the banner of reform in this instance is raised especially in behalf of the plain people. No proclamation is made that our well-loved mother tongue is to be rescued from the clutches of "an oration team" and restored to "the people" to whom it belongs. No spelling reformer is shouting from the house tops that the present mystifying rules are being manipulated to enable a few linguistic monopolists to make off with the language bag and leave "the people" speechless. Neither are leaders of "the Carnegie party" demanding that they be kept in high public station in order that they may the better guard the interests of the people.

In fact, it is believed one may even venture to oppose "the Carnegie party's" programme—beg pardon—program—without subjecting himself to denunciation as a base hireling of language monopolists whose purpose is to deprive the people of their own.

In this particular the spelling reform movement, coming as it does in all sincerity and without false pretense, is a welcome relief from the common run of present day reforms, but it is questionable whether one should go far beyond this point in support of the proposed revolution. There are many systems of belief outside the realm of politics upon which it is well to stand pat. During the recent unpleasantness in this state Lafe Young aptly said that we have been standing pat on the Ten Commandments ever since Moses brought them down from Mt. Sinai. These rules have been defiled times without number, occasionally even in the interests of "reform," but no one has had the hardihood to propose revision, immediate or otherwise.

It might be well if reverence akin to this were felt for the English language. It has been in service for some hundreds of years. Its words are spelled according to certain well defined rules. Throughout all these years millions of more or less patient teachers have been pounding these rules into the unwilling heads of more millions of youngsters. That they have been fairly successful even the reformers will admit, but what's the use? If we are to dump the rules into the waste basket and go in for liberty, spelling words as they may happen to sound to us, all these ages of patient toil will have gone for naught. Long familiar words would lose their identity and become as strange tramps.

If a pretty woman should suddenly become possessed of the notion of wearing a hideous mask her friends probably would call in a few expert alchemists. A good English word in reform dress is scarcely less shocking in appearance. The English language reformed after this manner would cease to be English and become a wanderer upon the face of the earth in disguise.—Sioux City Journal.

A dashing equipage, drawn by a blooded horse and driven by a woman daintily dressed, is a sight which forces the admiration of everybody. At the Interstate Live Stock Fair which is to be held in Sioux City September 10 to 15, inclusive, there will be exhibits of fancy carriage horses which will hold their own against any in the west. This is a feature which invariably draws the attention of a crowd, and the keenest interest is displayed in the various exhibits. A. Y. Weir, the well known horseman, of LeMars, will act as superintendent of this department. The exhibits will be of every description, ranging from a four-in-hand drag to children's traps drawn by pretty ponies.

Mrs. A. P. Gibson, of Naperville, Ill., arrived in Wayne last evening for a visit at the home of her brother, Dr. E. S. Blair.

We understand that W. O. Gamble will erect a residence building on the lots just east of his home on Third street.
Miss Bessie Bingham, of Yabot, Mont., returned to her home yesterday after a pleasant visit with her friend, Miss Ethel Huff.

August Walters, formerly with I. Rieffel at this place, has returned with his family to Wayne and will enter the employ of Miller & Ahern.
Wm. Hoyer, an old resident of Wayne county, died at his home in Winside on Tuesday. The funeral was held at Winside today, Rev. Father Haley officiating.

Dr. L. E. Dickinson, of Rockville, Neb., spent a few hours between trains on Friday at the home of Grant Meers in Wayne. Dr. and Mrs. Dickinson were on their way to Rockville from Randolph.

Dr. Leisenring reports the following births: O. W. Nicholls and wife, a son, August 2; Fred Vahlkamp and wife, a son, August 24; James Fredrickson and wife, a daughter, August 28; Jens Peterson and wife, a son, August 28.
Fred Hanson and Wm. Fehrs, living down in Plum Creek precinct, were the participants in a little markup on Monday of this week in which Fehrs got decidedly the worst of it. It seems that Hanson has been living for several years on a farm owned by Fehrs, and that when the latter went over to give him notice to vacate, a quarrel ensued in which Fehrs received cuts upon the head that required the services of a surgeon. Dr. Leisenring was called and took several stitches in the scalp of the injured man who, at this writing, is getting along all right.
The Wayne friends of Miss Mae Neptune will be glad to learn that after a summer of rest and recreation with relatives and friends in various parts of Illinois, Missouri and Ohio, she is sufficiently improved in health to begin her post graduate work in September. She recently had a delightful visit with the family of Prof. F. M. Gregg, at the home of Prof. Gregg's mother in Nevada, Ohio. Mrs. Gregg and the children have spent most of the summer at Dayton and Washington O. H., Ohio. Mr. Gregg joined them at the close of the Peru summer school. They will return to Peru shortly before the opening of the fall term.

"When the Frost is On the Pumpkin

And the fadders' in the shock," and you've invested some money in our great King Solomon Stock.

Then it is that you are happy and contented, for as summer ripens into autumn, and the grain has been gathered into the barns, and you begin to take an account of the profits or losses for the year. Perhaps the hail has destroyed in a few minutes the harvest of a season, or perchance the frost has given you a crop of soft corn. It may be that a slump in cattle has been a hard blow to the feeders.

If the farmer suffers so does the merchant, for he is dependant upon the farmer for his success.

He may meet reverses of many kinds; it may be one thing or it may be another; but the investor in the King Solomon has the satisfaction of knowing that day and night, summer and winter, despite the hail and the snows, the ponderous machines are driving to the very heart of the big ore veins, which in a short time, says one of the Denver papers, will place us along with the Newhouse and the Yoh, the largest mining tunnels in the United States.

... This is the Opportunity of Your Life. ...
Do you want to buy some stock today, or will you go with us on ... Saturday, September 1st to the Mines. ...

CANADA'S CHIEF MARKET.
 Trade with England Declining—Shipments to U. S. Increasing.
 United States Consul Workman, of Three Rivers, Can., says it is not true that the destruction of the Canadian forests is due principally to the large demands for lumber from the United States. The United States takes only about 25 per cent of her timber consumption from Canada. The States consume yearly about 2,500,000 cords of pulp wood, of which the Adirondack forests alone furnish 1,480,000 cords. From Canada the pulp wood exports for the year ended July 1, 1905, were 479,238 cords, valued at $1,788,046, and for the year ended July 1, 1906, the value reported was $2,490,814. The United States taking all the shipments. To this should be added another product of the forests, the ground wood pulp, which now supports thirty-eight mills, turning out 254 tons daily, of which besides the home consumption, the export in 1905 amounted in value to $3,839,158, the United States taking of this export to the amount of $2,091,122.
 Some Canadians who are well informed on the question of lumber exports express pessimistic views regarding the export trade in lumber from Canada to England. The indications are that in the immediate future shipments of lumber to England will be small, in comparison with the record of the past. English dealers are now ordering their supplies largely from Sweden and Norway, where they can purchase more cheaply than in the Canadian market. Canada's future market, it is asserted, will be the United States. Buyers from this country have already made an invasion of the Dominion to purchase large quantities of the Southern white pine, and the unusual increase in the demand has advanced the price of that wood 100 per cent already. This change of conditions has led the Canadian lumbermen to realize that henceforward their market will have to rely upon the European market for the disposal of their produce.

Professional Secrecy.
 The question of a medical man's obligation of secrecy has again arisen in the striking case at the Grande as called. In 1904 two Janzacs doctors failed to attend a sick person, suspected it to be a case of criminal poisoning. They believed that they knew the guilty person, but hesitated to denounce him. They consulted their confederates, who said: "A crime discovered by us in the exercise of our art becomes a professional secret." This theory, however, is not universally held.—Le Petit Parisien.

Insane View.
 Mrs. Slaughter had you think that divorce has had effect on the children. Mrs. Updell: Yes, indeed; they are known so much more with their parents.—New York Sun.

The University of Notre Dame, it appears, has some features that cannot be duplicated in any other school. It is one of the old, well-established colleges, with settled traditions reaching back sixty-four years; with a distinguished staff of professors and excellent library and laboratory equipment. Its discipline is of the paternal kind—strong without being oppressive; and as it embraces in its scope the grammar school, high school, and college work, its appeal is as broad as it is potent. Perhaps the most remarkable feature of the famous Indiana University, however, is the fact that it has arrived at its present marvellous development absolutely without endowment. An announcement of the courses provided at Notre Dame appears on another page.

Snake charmer's Felicitous.
 A day or two ago as H. F. Buxton drove into his yard, he noticed that his old dog was scratched down very stiff in the yard, intently peering through a picket fence. Finally he went over to see what the trouble was, and there he found that a big fat-headed, older was either "charmed" by or was "charming" the cat—just which could not be decided.

Proposals Will Follow.
 "I should really like to receive an offer of marriage."
 "Well, there's a boy."
 "For an old, poor, infirm, ugly woman like me?"
 "Certainly. Step out and kill somebody."—Pittsburg Post.

THE POPULAR PULPIT

THE BOOK OF WISDOM.

By Rev. A. C. Dixon, D. D.
 Text: "The proverb of Solomon, the son of David, King of Israel."—Proverbs 1:1.
 The widely wisdom of today may assume that it knows more than Solomon, but an application of his principles would improve the condition of the business world. Link with this reform the industry which Solomon recommends, and you will have thrift and universal prosperity. "Go to the ant, thou sluggard, consider her ways and be wise; which, having no guide, overseer, or ruler, provideth her meat in the summer and gathereth her food in the harvest." Infidels once laughed at this passage, because scientists declared that ants did not lay up food for the winter. But further investigation has proved the Bible to be correct, for there are ants in Syria that do lay by their winter supplies. There is no need of argument to prove the truth of the other proverb, "The hand of the diligent shall bear rule, but the slothful shall be under tribute." The lazy people of every community are always under tribute to the industrious.

"Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life." This proverb expresses the teaching of Jesus Christ. Over the archway in the old Tolpans prison of New York were the words, "The way of transgressors is hard," and every criminal who passed beneath it needed no argument to prove its truth. On the words, "Every stone should be hung the weight of a false balance is above his delight." Lord, but a just weight to surrender your convictions in order that you may further your interests, social or financial, sell the words, "Buy the truth and sell it not." They will give stiff-necked to your moral backbone and stumple to your character. No man can afford to hold truth for sale.

INSPIRED LOGIC.

By Rev. W. W. Weeks.
 Text: "If when we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of His Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by His life."—Romans 5:10.
 There is a depth in the ocean which no tempest ever stirs. Far below the foaming billows of the surface there abides a perpetual calm. And there are heights in the blue sky above us to which no cloud ever ascends, where no hurricane ever sweeps, and where peace and sunshine abide. So, too, in the life of every child of God, there are depths and heights untouched by the storms of this world. Here waves of trouble may agitate the surface of the soul, but far below the surface is the sanctuary of the Most High, filled with "the peace of God which passeth all understanding."

In all logical arguments there are certain great underlying truths accepted without discussion. In looking into the life of our Lord, the apostle assumes that the cross of Christ was not the cause of God's love for us, but the occasion and instrument of its manifestation. This truth we need to carefully keep in mind, for we are always in danger of looking to the Son and not the Father as the great fountain of love. Christ did not die to change God's love into love, but because God loved us, Christ died that we might know and feel its power. Long before the rocks thirred back the sea waters of the day star formed his path, before the first angel found his rest about God's throne, when as yet Jehovah alone filled this universe, He loved us, and His tender love moved towards the sons of men. It was for us the worlds were made and the angels created. For us the cross was planned and the Son became a babe, and every movement of Providence is specially directed for the blessing of His children.

The upward gaze and the radiant face became the child of God. In the glad dispensation when the high priest, clad in spotless white and carrying the blood of atonement, went within the veil, the congregation outside waited eagerly for his return, as the realization of their hopes, and when at last they heard the tinkling of the bells on his garments, and from behind the veil he appeared in glorious apparel, the great jubilee shout was heard. Let it be ours to wait and watch and listen for the tinkling of the bells that tell of the near approach of our great High Priest, who is now within the veil for us, knowing that when He appears He will bring with Him all that we have asked and hoped for.

THE NAME CHRISTIAN.
 Text: "The disciples were called Christians first at Antioch."—Acts 11:26.
 It was almost ten years after the Savior left the earth before the name Christian was given to His followers. It was needed because the converts of Antioch became numerous; they consisted of both Jews and Gentiles; they were scattered in various parts of the world; and their enemies, whether they were Greeks, or Romans, or native Syrians, needed a new name for the new sect, called them "Christians," because the name Christ was prominent in their conversation, doctrine and worship.

 The name Christian is indeed very appropriate to the true disciple of Christ. It is a name in which all distinction of Jew and Gentile may be lost, and one that can embrace in its broad, significant and definite meaning all of every nation who would become converts of Christ. It is a name that should reveal to the world the life and character of those who bear it.
 The Christian's manner of life should be worthy the name that he bears. A Christian when he makes a good profession should be sure to make his profession good. There should be a visible harmony between profession and practice. The Christian is watched by the world. No hawk watched a sparrow with more intense malignity than the world does the Christian. The wicked are not surprised by the misdeeds of the infidel or the man of the world, but they expect something different from the Christian.

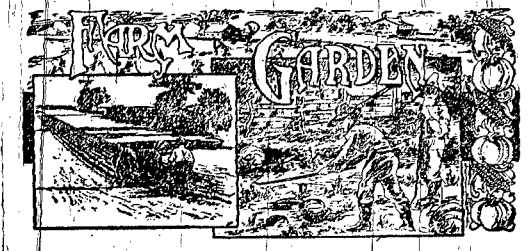

Christians have professed more than others that the Bible has promised more from them. They have promised to keep the commandments, to obey the gospel, to love one another; to be just and true and kind to all; to pity the miserable; to forgive their enemies; to live not for this world but for the world to come. They have professed to take Christ as their example—to live as he lived. They have promised all this solemnly. They have vowed it unto the Lord. That vow is as solemn as an oath. It is only by Christians doing more than others that true religion is kept alive in the world. Take away the bright examples of good men, and true piety will soon die out of the world. Christians are the salt of the earth and the light of the world. If the world is ever saved it must be done by the people of God. There is no one thing that stands in the way of the conversion of men so much as a lack of confidence in the sincerity of Christians and professors.

RECOGNITION IN HEAVEN.

By Rev. H. M. Wharton, D. D.
 Text: "For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face. Now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known."—1 Corinthians 13:12.
 We are in the habit of thinking heaven as a floating something—a baseless fabric that has no body or foundation. Heaven is a place just as much as this earth is a place, and as true for heaven is eternal, and this world shall be destroyed. You know heaven is spoken of as the Eternal City, whose maker and builder is God. It is spoken of sometimes as a better country, and we are pilgrims passing through a strange land on our way to that better country.

The inhabitants of heaven are people. I know there are angels there, and blessed spirits, perhaps of whom we have no account in God's word, but we are sure that among the inhabitants of heaven are people.
 I think one of the strongest arguments in favor of heavenly recognition is this: Jesus Christ is the first fruits of the resurrection. Now, if he is the first fruits of the resurrection, what do you understand of the other fruits to be? Some of you have lived in the country. Suppose some one came to you with a bundle of wheat and said, "This is the first fruit of my harvest," would you think the balance of the harvest was late? No; you would expect the balance to come pretty well up to the sample.
 But look at other things in the scripture. Every one of us must give an account of himself to God, and don't you suppose you will be identified when you stand out and give your account. Furthermore, he says something like this is going to happen up there. He says some of us are coming before him and he will say, "I was sick and ye visited me, thirsty and ye gave me drink," and that we in our own proper persons will say, "Lord, when did we do these things?" and he will answer, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these my disciples, ye have done it unto me." Does not that look as if you would be known? My sister, I do not believe that you have ever given a cup of water to a palmer child that Jesus Christ has not transferred it up and down to him, and that you know about it that day. O blessed thought! Who does not want to love such a Savior, and do everything they can for him, when these things are true? "I will not forget a cup of cold water given in the name of a disciple."

Short Motor Sermons.
 Silent goodness speaks fondest. Nothing sublimer is open to the self-indulgent.
 When the heart is lifted up the head often is bowed down.
 The spirit of the father never works separation in the family.
 The best training for the golden streets is cleaning earth's alleys.
 People who are fatigued for faults are neurotic for virtues.
 The proof of a faith is not in its practice, but in its present power.
 From the grind of drudgery comes at last the glorious divine spark.

 You cannot conquer the world for good by winning over its wickedness.
 If you get your sermons out of books you might as well leave them there.
 He gets little good out of his own faith who sees no good in any other.

 Some preaching is only a prescribing of prescriptions for a heartless world.
 One of the best prayers for peace within is the restraint that waits until the apples are ripe.

Making hay simply means making things hum while the sun shines.
 Do not set a hen on a nest box the second time without a thorough cleaning and whitewashing.
 Farming has been classified an easy business by those who observe it from car windows. This is all right in theory but it will not work in practice.
 All the odds and ends should not be put off until a rainy day or one may not come out even with his work. It is better to keep them up as one goes along.
 A bunch of wild horses in Oklahoma said to be the last herd of wild horses in existence—gave up the chase the next day after the territory was admitted as a state. Could not stand civilization.
 Cows are often cheated out of a great deal of bovine enjoyment by being denied night pasturage. The best people feel that it is too much trouble to go after the cows in the morning, hence they are kept up in a dry lot.
 If any bare spots appear in the house lawn, either rake them over and seed down, or sod them. If the lawn looks as though it needed more food, broadcast some fertilizer, preferably nitrate of soda, just before a rain. About a hundred pounds of nitrate to the acre.
 Iowa is endeavoring to do something practical toward making the selling of eggs by weight the rule in the future. A bill fixing weight and measures has been introduced in the Legislature and one section of this bill provides that if frozen eggs shall weigh a pound and a half.

A great many good things have to be introduced with difficulty. Some years ago when the silo was first introduced there were many that made fun of the "corn knut," as they were pleased to call silage, but now there are many who cannot understand why there are not more silos.
 Whether building a stack of grain with a fork or "kneeing" every bundle, one thing is necessary to keep the middle well filled. If this rule is followed there will be but little grain spoiled. After one has reached that point above the "bulge" it will be well to keep the middle quite full.
 Work horses enjoy their nocturnal promenade in the pasture, but for some unaccountable reason they are at the rear part of the pasture in the morning when wanted. It is safe to say that the man who has to wade through the wet grass does not get enjoyment out of the chore.
 Young chicks should be fed regularly and each should get its share; this is very important and should not be overlooked if good results are expected. Remember too that little chicks have no teeth and must have sand, crushed bone, shell and charcoal in some form, with which to grind their food.
 Tramps do not take kindly to bread and butter. They desire something better, and a good way to get rid of them is to offer them bread and butter, and if they will not take that let them go without. A hungry man will be glad to get bread and butter. They will not often eat at a place where they get this kind of a hand-out.

Have you tried to grow a few potatoes under straw, or by what is known as the straw method? Plant them shallow and cover with six inches or a foot of straw and give no further cultivation. The straw will keep the soil moist, keep down the weeds and the vines will come up through the straw and the new tubers will set on just under the straw and are easily dug.
 Skim milk and flaxseed jelly is a fairly good substitute for natural milk in fattening calves. Add one pint of flaxseed to three quarts of water and boil twenty minutes, or until it becomes jelly. For a very young calf use about two tablespoonfuls to each feed of warm skim milk, and gradually increase the quantity of the mixture, keeping the proportion of the jelly and milk about the same.
 Eight gallons of water per day is the average quantity required for a cow, and the milk given is about 87 per cent water. In some pastures there is no water, the cows being supplied night and morning, which forces each cow to drink four gallons at a time in order to be supplied. As the cow does not know that she must drink four gallons, she will use less and she will reduce her milk supply accordingly.
 Missouri claims $31,042,702 worth of eggs, poultry and feathers last year with an average of but little more than fifty eggs to the hen. If these results can be obtained with this kind of a bird, the majority of farmers keep only 100 to 200 egg hens? (We believe this class of birds are coming and in the near future at that. Barren and poor yielding stalks are no longer tolerated in the cornfield by up-to-date farmers. Why should this class of birds be allowed to predominate?)
 Poultry Drinking Basins.
 Take a basin that will hold about two quarts of water and fill it with pebbles a little smaller than eggs. When level, full of pebbles, pour in the water until the spaces between the pebbles are full. Sink the basin in the ground until the rim is an inch above the surface. The chicks can run all over this, stepping on the pebbles and can drink

No One Wanted Box 12.
 In no other Western European country is superstition so prevalent as in Austria-Hungary, according to the Fall Mall Gazette. Quite recently the chamberlain's office changed the number of box 12 in the Imperial opera house and the Imperial Court theater to 12A because the public objected to sitting in a box bearing this unlucky number. None of the rich subscribers who takes a box for the year wanted No. 12, and for single performances it was just as hard to dispose of.
 The superstition reached its height in medicine. Speaking of the health exhibition, Dr. Heinrich Grund declared that in many instances superstition, and especially local superstition, was an absolute menace to public health.
 In the Austrian hospitals one finds no block or pavilion 12, no ward 12, no staircase 12. Very few patients will consent to be operated on the 13th day of the month, and in this respect Friday, too, is considered just as unlucky. At Carlsbad, Marienbad, Gastein and other famous Austrian cure resorts nobody wants to bring his cure on a Friday.

Give the Hogs Some Salt.
 The old idea that hogs do not need salt has passed away. The Missouri experiment station says this about it: "Feeding salt to hogs is a matter upon which little emphasis is usually put, but it is doubtless one of those important trifles which we may consider with profit. Salt is a normal constituent of animal tissue and of the blood, plays an important part in the stimulation of the internal organs and is the source of the chloride of the hydrochloric acid in the gastric juice. It is always present in the urine whether present in the food or not, and death may be caused if complete absence of salt in the ration obtains during a considerable time."
 Eggs of Crossbred Ducks.
 According to a recent work by G. Loebel, domestic duck's eggs weigh on an average of seventy grammes and contains on an average nine grammes shell, twenty-four grammes or twenty-one or, yolk, and thirty-seven grammes white, this quantity of yolk being made up of thirteen grammes water, seven grammes fat and four grammes protein, and the white 31.3 grammes water and 5.68 grammes protein. The eggs laid by a domestic duck crossed with a wild duck weighed on an average 60.5 grammes and contained 7.25 grammes shell, 25.0 grammes white, and 22.75 grammes yolk, made up of 10.15 grammes water and 12.61 grammes dry matter. The author concludes that the eggs of the cross-bred ducks, though smaller, are superior to domestic duck's eggs from a food standpoint, since they contain more dry matter, and that crossing with the wild form is advantageous for continuing the desirable characteristics of domestic ducks.

Value of Rape.
 While rape is a food of undoubted value to farm stock, and particularly so for horses, swine and poultry, much care must be used in feeding it to cows and sheep, else it is apt to make trouble. If cows and sheep are allowed to eat too freely of it under certain conditions it will cause bloat, particularly if the rape is especially succulent or is damp from rain or dew. The best way to pasture rape, and we consider this the better plan for any farm at all, is to turn them on it after their appetites have been partially satisfied with grain or other pasturage. We especially like the plan of turning the animals into the rape for only an hour or two daily. We give them what grain they have in the morning, then turn them out to the rape for an hour and then back into the regular pasture, where they remain until the middle of the afternoon, when they are again given an hour or less in the rape field. The rape has its worst effect on sheep, long in handling them in the manner suggested there is little or no trouble.

Making Cider.
 Elder-making offers a good opportunity of saving the surplus apples from the home fruit garden, after the best have been put into the cellar for winter use, thus making valuable apples that otherwise would be thrown away. A bruise which would render an apple unfit for storage does not impair it as a source of cider.
 The best cider is not made from sweet apples or from apples that have little juice, such as Ben Davis, but from good, juicy, sour kinds, such as Northern Spy, Baldwin and the like. It is often advisable to mix a few sweet apples in with the sour ones to soften the taste of the cider, but this is a matter of taste.
 If good specimens of the Northern Spy are used, the cider will prove an expensive luxury. Therefore, any undressed apples and any that become bruised in handling may be used.
 For the man who intends making only a small amount of cider each year—enough for consumption in his own household during the winter—a mill worked by hand and pressing the pomace of only two or three bushels of apples is the most practical. A mill of this sort will cost anywhere from $10 up, according to the size.

Raising Bees.
 It may be safely said that any place where farming, gardening or fruit raising can be successfully followed is adapted to the profitable keeping of bees—in a limited way at least, if not extensively. Many of these localities will support extensive apiaries. In addition to this there are, within the borders of the United States thousands of good locations for the apiarist—forest, prairie swamps and mountain regions—where agriculture has as yet not gained a foothold, either because of remoteness from markets or the uninviting character of soil or climate.
 This pursuit may also be followed in or near towns, and to a limited extent in large cities. The ability of the bees to range over areas inaccessible to other farm stock, and to draw their sustenance from dense forests, when the timber is of the right kind, and the freedom which, because of their nature, must be accorded them, to pasture on whatever natural sources are within their range of three or four miles, must be taken into account in estimating the possibilities of a locality.
 It will be found that very few localities exist in our country where at least a few colonies of bees may not be kept.

A HEALTHY OLD AGE

OFTENTHE BEST PART OF LIFE

Providence has allotted us each at least seventy years in which to finish our mission in life, and it is generally our own fault if we die prematurely.
 Nervous exhaustion invites disease. This statement is the positive truth. When everything becomes a burden and you cannot walk a few blocks without excessive fatigue, and you break out into perspiration easily, and your face flushes, and you grow excited and shaky at the least provocation, and you cannot bear to be crossed in anything, you are in danger; your nerves have given out; you need building up at once! To build up women's nervous system and during the period of change of life we know of no better medicine than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here is an illustration: "Mrs. Mary L. Koehne, 371 Garfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill., writes: 'I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years in my family and it never disappoints me when I find that I am nearing the change of life; I commenced treatment with it. I took in all about six bottles and it did me a great deal of good. It stopped my dizzy spells, pains in my back and the headaches with which I had suffered for months before taking the Compound. I feel that if it had not been for this great medicine for women that I should not have been alive today. It is splendid for women old or young, and will surely cure all female disorders.'"
 "Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, of Fram, Mass., writes: 'I, a sick and ailing woman, to write her for advice. Her great experience is at their service, free of cost.'

Irrigated Governm't Lands in Idaho

D. M. Laughlin has returned from a visit to the irrigated lands near Mountain Home, Idaho, that are being sold by G. E. Townsend and E. D. Pratt of this place, and he pronounced the land to be the best irrigated land he has ever seen. He says that he saw a alfalfa irrigated land growing to a feet high right next to some brush on non-irrigated land, that alfalfa cuts from 10 to 15 tons to the acre and is selling at $15 per ton. All kinds of fruit is growing there, one man having on his place 26 varieties of apples and all doing fine. He says that he saw a lawn covered with as fine a sod, grown in two months, as it would take two years to grow in this country. Some of the other irrigated districts in Idaho land is selling for $1,000 per acre, that Mr. Laughlin says is not so good as that at Mountain Home, which a few years ago was selling at the same price that the Mountain Home land is selling for, $31.25 per acre. Mr. Laughlin says he thinks no man can make a mistake by buying a tract of this land while it is so cheap, as it can be cropped at once and pay for itself in a year.
