Snowden--Fisher

On Thursday afternoon at the Methodist parsonage Miss Alice M.
Snowden was married to Roy E.
Fisher, Rev. E. C. Horn officiating.
The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Snowden, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, residing south of Wayne. They will begin house keeping on the farm.

Dr. Horn's Return Requested

Recognizing the character and worth of our pastor, Dr. E. C. Horn and his family and his influence, spiritually and morally, not only in the church but in the city and vicinity, therefore be it resolved by the official board of First M. E.
Church of Wayhe, Nebr., that the proper authorities be asked to return Dr. Horn to this charge another year.

Adopted at the business session of the Fourth Quarterly Conference held Monday July 22.

There appears to be some, perhaps a good many, who do not have a clear understanding of what the direct primary is or how it works.
It is in reality an election at which the members of each party will vote for their choice to stand for candidates for the several offices.

The regular election officers will have charge of the election, and when a voter comes up to vote they will ask him what party he belongs to, and he will have to tell them before they will supply him with a ticket. Each party has a separate ticket which contains all the names who have registered for the several offices. The voter then goes into the booth and marks his ticket the same as at the regular election. If you don't claim allegiance to any party, then you have no business at the primary election. You can vote for whom you please at the regular election as heretofore. The theory of the direct primary is that every elector will have an equal chance in naming the candidates of his party.

All parties will nominate the officers at the same time, so there will be no chance for those of one party to interfere with those of another party. It will be absolutely fair, and no one can claim that any political boss has figured them out of a nomination. It will probably take two or three years for the people to thoroughly appreciate and understand the workings of the new plan.

It is just as much in advance of the old convention method as is the Australian ballot system ahead of the old method of each candidate furnishing his own tickets. It may be changed and perfected, but there will never be a recurrence to the convention plan of making nominations.--Albion News.

THE GREAT WRITERS.

Leas and Inspiration Taken by One Author From Another.

BUT GENIUS BORROWS NOBLY

The Crude Ore Is Refined and the Raw Material Fashioned into a Thing of Beauty—Shakespeare as a Most Brilliant Example.

Our great writers are not great robbers. Literature is not a repository of stolen goods. What seem like stealings by the steel pen are rather the output of the lapidary or a reissue of the mint or, better still, the borrowings from a bank repaid with interest.

"It is wonderful," says Charles Beade, "how genius can borrow." "All literature," remarks Oliver Wendell Holmes, "lives by borrowing and lending," and, he adds, "A good image is like a diamond, which may be set a hundred times in as many generations and gain new beauties with every change." This is not a question of originality. "The lighting a candle at a neighbor's fire," observes Dean Swift, "does not affect our property in the wick and flame." "Genius borrows nobly." The transference is often a transmutation. For brass, the borrower brings gold, and for iron, silver, and for wood, brass, and for stones, iron. The crude ore is refined and the raw material fashioned into a thing of beauty.

It has been pointed out by Mr. Huth in his "Life of Baeckle" that there is a kind of pedigree in literature. Dante shows his indebtedness to Virgil, as the latter himself was under obligations to Homer.

Ariosto, owes much to Virgil, and Spenser borrows frequently from Ariosto. Spenser's "Faerie Queene" gave birth to Fletcher's "Purple Island," and this to Bernard's "Isle of Man," and this in turn to Defoe's "Robinson Crusoe" and Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress"—all like so many blossoms rising from the one stem.

Shakespeare has been called "the great Warwickshire thief," so inveterate is his borrowing habit. He invaded literature like a Napoleon and brought back the rarest art treasures to enrich and beautify his verse. One is surprised to learn that our dramatist has so original plots, that he has given to poetry no new rhythm or stanza and that "he can not only in the old road, but in the old ruts." His "As You Like It" is taken from an old romance. The characters of his "Julius Caesar" are old Romans taken from Plutarch. But what borrowing! Dry bones are turned into living men. The commonest materials are taken into the lambent flame of his genius and transmuted into airy beauty.

Milton, too, is a free borrower. It is this fact, indeed, that makes his verse so rich in learned reminiscences and so gorgeous with "barbaric pearl and gold." He owes much to Shakespeare. Some critics think Milton's Eve is borrowed from Shakespeare's Miranda. In the "Taming of the Shrew" occurs the line:

As morning roses newly washed in dew,
While Milton in "Allegro" speaks of—

Fresh blown roses washed in dew,
Milton is a very mine to many. Pope is his debtor. Milton's "Smoky Sorceress"—a woman to the waist and fair, but "ending foul in many a scaly fold voluminous and vast"—is made to say, "They call me sin and for a stung portentous hok me; but, familiar grown, I pleased and with attractive graces won the most averse." Pope sings:

Vice is a monster of so frightful mien
As to be hated needs but to be seen;
But seen too oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace.

Tennyson must have had in mind Milton's

Hangings in a golden chain
This pendant world
when he wrote:

The whole round world is every way
Bound by gold chains about the feet of God.

Tennyson, indeed, derives much of his exquisite imagery and felicitous phrasing from authors whose names, even many literary men do not know.

Pope borrows his "Vital Spark" idea from an old poem by Thomas Platman.

Byron gets his "Eagle Feather" image in his "English Bards and Scotch Reviewers" from Aeschylus, who flourished in the fifth century before our era.

Coleridge owes his "Ode to Mont Blanc" to a German poem by Friedrich Brown.

Bishop Ken is indebted for his thought in "The Evening Hymn" to Sir Thomas Browne in his "Colloquy With God."

In his own characteristic manner Eudyard Kipling has met the question of unconscious thievery with a bit of verse which commences:

"When Omer smote 'is bloomin' lyre
'Ed' eard me sing by land and sea,
And not 'e thought 'o might require
'E went an' took the same as me.

Let Shakespeare's lines close this paper:

'Till example you with thievery;
The sun's a thief, and with his great attraction
Stobs the vast sea; the moon's an arvant thief,
And her pale fire she snatches from the sun;
The sea's a thief, whose liquid surge resolves
The moon into salt tears; the earth's a thief
That feeds and breeds by a composture
From general excrement; each thing's a thief.

—S. B. Dunn in Circle Magazine.

WHAT TRAIN DO YOU TAKE?

In Wiring Give Its Number, Name of Road and Time of Arrival.

When you telegraph a friend the next time you are going to visit him and that you'd be delighted to have him meet you at the train the next day, for heaven's sake telegraph him intelligently.

If the money, irritations and disappointments of the year were aggregated for the United States in hopelessly unintelligible telegrams of this kind, the average political economist would have a fit. When the average person in the small city or town decides on the jump to go to see a friend in the city and decides to telegraph that friend what train to meet, he becomes an unconscious imbecile.

Will leave for Chicago tonight on 8:30 train. Meet me.

This is the text of a ten word message which I received the other night from a friend in an Ohio city. He had started for Chicago before the telegram was received by me, and while I waited immensely to meet him at the station instead of making the least effort to do so I took it out in swearing.

In sending a telegram announcing an arrival the name of the road and the train number are the two absolute essentials. It will be a help to the recipient of the message in most cases if the time of the arrival of the train be given also. Frequently, as between the two stations involved in such a message, a difference of one hour in standard time otherwise might confuse. But as between the number of the train and the numerals in the hour of arrival the telegrapher has a chance of error, and in writing the message these two sets of numerals should be separated by the name of the road. Taking the ten word message as the standard of length, then, any person going anywhere from any station on any railroad may use the one set form of telegraphic announcement of arrival:

Arrive No. 5, Lake Shore, due 8 o'clock Monday morning.

Ordinarily no possible further information is necessary in the greatest railway center in America. The train number is unchangeable on its own system. Any railway employee anywhere will identify the train in a moment. If the recipient of the telegram wishes to know whether the train is on time before he starts to the station, he can learn in a moment over the telephone by asking about No. 5, and in the query he will have the ready response for the reason that his informant will be grateful for the inquirer's succinct knowledge of train operations.

—H. W. Field in Chicago Tribune.

A PAPER OF PINS.

Pins were introduced in the sixteenth century.

Then they were costly and highly prized as gifts.

A paper of pins was more acceptable than a bouquet.

An act was passed in 1543 making it illegal to charge more than eightpence a thousand for metal pins.

Persons of quality often used pins made of boxwood, bone and silver, while the poor put up with wooden skewers.

In those days husbands were often surprised at the great amount of money that went for pins; hence the term "pin money."

Not so many years ago the frugal American housewife was wont to teach pin economy by teaching her children that canny couplet, "See a pin and pick it up, all the day you'll have good luck."—Philadelphia Record.

The Indirect Method.

Homemade ice cream was a regular item on the bill of fare at Willie's house, and while he liked the cream he drew the line at turning the freezer. One day when his mother returned home she was agreeably surprised to find him working at the crank as if his life depended on it.

"I don't see how you got him to turn the ice cream freezer," she said to her husband. "I offered him a dime to do it, and he just laughed at me."

"You didn't go about it the right way, my dear," replied her husband. "I bet him a nickel he couldn't turn it for half an hour."—Harper's Weekly.

A Dog's Jealousy.

Dana is a huge St. Bernard who has his own means as to his importance. Whenever he wishes to attract attention he knocks his water pail over and then rolls it around, growling at it and making a great fuss. Then he puts his head in and throws the pail high in the air, batting at it with his paws as it comes down. If this does not have the desired effect he picks up the pail by the handle and takes it into the barn, where the noise is increased by far owing to the wooden floor. This performance is given whenever the horse is petted or when strangers come to the house.—Chicago Tribune.

Greenwich Observatory.

In the year 1675 King Charles II. of England founded the royal observatory at Greenwich in order that astronomical observations might be made for the assistance of sailors. The history of the observatory has been the history of chronology and of this practical side of astronomy. Its work and its standards have become distinctly international. The meridian of Greenwich now determines the longitude of the world.—Exchange.

She Had a Substitute.

Influent Member—I am glad to notice, doctor, that your wife never turns her head to see who comes into church late on Sunday morning. The Rev. Dr. Goodman—No, but she makes me tell her all about them after we go home.—Chicago Tribune.

News From Over The County.

Items of Interest to Our Country Readers and Those of Nearby Towns

Hoskins News

(From the Headlight)

Wm. Zute this week had the exterior of the millinery shop painted, which adds greatly to its appearance.

Miss Cross came up from Wayne Saturday and visited over Sunday at the Lundquist home southeast of town.

The new elevator is looming up in fine style, the frame being raised and sheeted. The main part will be just a little larger than the Anchor elevator.

Mrs. Joseph Dobbin went to Norfolk last Friday and visited until Wednesday. Miss Luebbe returned with her and will make a short visit at the Dobbin home.

Mangus Eckman last week sold his eighty acre farm to Peter Carstons, for a consideration of $65. This is a good piece of land and will make Peter an elegant home.

A. M. Averill and Glen Green left Tuesday noon for Cheyenne, Wyoming, where they will spend a couple of weeks fishing, tramping, hunting and having one 'ell of a time.

Chas. Ohlund, who recently sold his residence property to August Deck, will soon commence the erection of a fine new home. It will be a modern residence in every respect.

Christ and Mangus Eckman left Monday morning for Huron, South Dakota, where the latter owns a fine farm. We understand the boys contemplate moving up there next spring.

George Peters from south of Wayne came up Saturday evening and visited over Sunday with his brother-in-laws, Ed and Ferdinand Pfeil, and his mother-in-law, Grandma Pfeil.

Mrs. Mason and little child stopped off here and visited Wednesday, while enroute from Omaha to Meadow Grove, the family moving to the latter place to make their future home.

H. W. Anderson, the genial manager of the Bowman, Kranz lumber yards here, left Monday morning for Schaller, Iowa, where he will attend the marriage of a sister. He will take the whole week as a sort of vacation and enjoy a visit with home folks.

The remains of Albert Roedel were shipped to Chicago Saturday, on the afternoon train, Peter Brumels accompanying the corpse. He got back Monday and reported getting thru alright. The funeral was to be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The father and all relatives, Pete says would reach Chicago not later than Monday night.

An at home card received by the editor the first of the week states that at Benson, Minnesota, on June 6, occurred the marriage of Clarence Dobbins and Miss Sophia Brunckhogg. The groom is a son of Mr. and Joseph Dobbins from north of town, who is employed by the railroads at Appleton, Minnesota, where they went to housekeeping on July 15. Here's best wishes.

Chas. Maas and wife, daughter, Martha, and son Eddie, Mrs. Chas. Jochens and Mrs. W. A. Maas went to Battle Creek Wednesday to be present at the marriage of Wm. Seip to Miss Martha Beckendorf, both young people of that place. Mrs. Fred Meirhenry and family and Mrs. Anna Scheurich and family from here were present also. All report a very pretty wedding and a good time with many useful presents.

"Buster ran away," last Saturday evening. The W. J. Weatherholt horse called Buster was hitched to the buggy and tied to one of the porch posts, when Clifford Gleason came running onto the porch with an express wagon. The noise frightened Buster till he broke loose, running and jumping the fence. While performing this feat he capsize the buggy. Chas. Ohlund and Ed Pfeil at once came to the rescue capturing the runaway horse. They then unhitched the old fellow, but forgot to unfasten one of the breeching straps. As soon as they started to lead him up the buggy followed, scaring the horse. Chas. Ohlund went around to the dangerous one to unbuckle the strap and the foxy old guy landed one on his left thigh. Chas. has been partially laid up ever since. The buggy wasn't damaged much to speak of, nor any other casualties reported. Buster will henceforth be good.

Conductor Roasts Us.

Regarding the item we published two weeks ago about Adair putting the Brown girl off the train here, we must admit that we were partly wrong. It is not our desire to wrongfully injure anyone, and should such occur we are only too glad to correct it and make amends. A letter from the girls father to Agent Barge states that the girl only had a ticket to Norfolk Junction. He says they took the girl to the depot in Stuart to take the night train to Tekamah. They asked for a ticket clear through and the night operator only gave her a ticket to Norfolk, but they all that she had a ticket clear through to Tekamah. He also wanted the names of those who contributed towards buying her a ticket so he could return their money.

Conductor Adair tells us that the girl had a letter supposed to be written by her father stating that she was deaf and dumb and asking conductors to care for her. She got on his train at the Junction and he wrote on a paper telling her to get off and buy a ticket. The train pulled out and the girl was still on but had no ticket. Adair says he then began talking deaf and dumb language to her, and she spoke out saying, "what are you making them signs at me for?" He then put her off at Hoskins because she or her father was contriving to work the conductors, and because she had no ticket.

Under the above circumstances it can readily be seen that Adair was not only obeying the rules of his employers but did them a great favor. From the statements given above it throws our former article entirely wrong and an injustice to Adair.—Hoskins Headlight.

Since the item referred to above was published in the HERALD with other news taken from the columns of the Headlight, we cheerfully reproduce Editor Nellor's kind correction. While Conductor Adair sternly forbid us putting his name in our paper any more, yet we hardly think he meant it. It was the cruel comment of the Bloomfield Monitor that hurt. Adair pronounced it a "slur" and now its Editor Needham's turn to prostrate himself in apology.

Winside News

(From the Tribune)

Misses Etha Shaw and Blanche Miller have gone to Coofon for a weeks stay.

Mrs. Hupp and daughter, Helen went to Boone, Iowa, this morning for an extended visit with relatives.

G. E. French departed yesterday for the Rosebud country on business. He expects to be gone a week.

By the amount of beer that is shipped into Winside, it looks as if we ought to have a brewery of our own.

Grandma Cullen, who has been visiting her son, Ed, since the fourth returned to her home in Wayne Saturday.

Herman Witte and family of Hawarden, Iowa have moved into the house south of the German Lutheran parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Needham and children departed yesterday for a six weeks vacation in California. They will stop a few days in North Dakota on their way.

About half the town was up at five o'clock Sunday morning looking for a fire, but it was only the ball team and the fishing party getting together for their journey.

Anton Jensen and A. M. Hyatt have dissolved partnership, Mr. Jensen retains the meat market and Mr. Hyatt gets the real estate. The transfer took place last Friday.

It is making Dr. McIntyre hump to keep up with the stork. A boy was left at the W. H. Fletcher home Sunday and another at Hans Brogren's early Monday morning.

The Winside Baseball Team have placed on the market "season tickets" good for admittance to all games on home grounds. They sell for three dollars and are good for the whole family. The money thus received goes to pay the expenses of the team. So far, the fans and business men have responded very liberally.

That fine shower of rain spoiled the social at Mr. Pryor's on Saturday evening for some but the writer being a Baptist and not much afraid of water, he and his family were there and enjoyed the evening fine among about twenty guests. There was some fine vocal and instrumental music rendered by Mrs. Hansen, of Winside. Those that missed the event missed a fine treat because Mr. and Mrs. Pryor had everything nicely arranged and proved to be fine entertainers. The ice cream and cake were delicious.

Carroll News

John Rosacker made a trip to Wayne Monday.

Fred Bartells went to Omaha on business Monday.

C. S. Beebe was transacting business at Wayne Saturday.

Miss Ina Heeren was a passenger from Wayne Monday morning.

Oscar Edwards accompanied his mother as far as Wayne Tuesday.

Lester Bellows was a passenger for Omaha on business yesterday.

Mrs. R. D. Merrill entertained a number of friends at dinner Sunday.

Miss Myrtle Robinson was a guest at the Elder home at Wayne over Friday.

Howard Porter returned home on Saturday from a business visit in Sioux City.

Miss Carroll, instructor in the Wayne Normal, spent Sunday with home folks.

C. O. Cellon, who resides near Sholes, returned from his Kansas trip Friday.

W. L. Robinson and L. B. Cobb returned from their South Dakota trip Saturday.

Carroll sent a good sized delegation to the Wayne Co. Chautauqua yesterday for its opening day.

Misses Gwen Davis and Sarah Jenkins and friend were Carroll visitors in Wayne Saturday.

Chas. Beebe attended a meeting of the republican county central committee held at Wayne yesterday.

Mrs. Joe Jones visited Wayne Saturday. She was accompanied home by her son Gomer, who remained over Sunday.

The parents and daughters of F. S. Batty who have been visiting at his home for several days returned to their home at Portsmouth, Iowa, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Suhr were at Omaha Friday with their youngest child. The baby has been greatly benefited by treatment at the hands of a specialist.

N. C. Grangannett went to Sioux City Monday to see his father, who expected to be in the city with a shipment of cattle. The two had not met for more than two years.

Fred Schraeder went over to Hoskins Tuesday, near where he has work for several weeks. He has contracted to plaster the new parsonage of the German church at Melvin, and also a large new residence of Henry Bruse.

LOCAL NEWS.

Mrs. Wellington, of Port Huron, Mich., and Mrs. J. R. Elliott, of Denver, Colo., are guests at the Ben Elliott home. Mrs. Wellington is a niece of Mrs. Pond and of Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. J. R. Elliott is a sister of Mrs. Ben Elliott and Mrs. Pond.

The two concerts by the "Kilties" band yesterday afternoon and evening attracted an enormous crowd to the Chautauqua grounds. Everybody turned out and hugely enjoyed a rare article in music. The rounds of applause that greeted each turn of the program testified to the worth and appreciation of the band. The evening was cool and pleasant, in fact conditions were ideal for a happy occasion. The gate receipts for the opening day were surprisingly large and all indications assure a most successful Chautauqua season.

The Middletown, New York Times Press, under date of July 17, gives a two column write up of the installation of Rev. E. Van Dyke Wight as pastor of the Westminister Presbyterian Church of that city. The account is interesting in that the charge to the pastor was given by the venerable father of Dr. Wight, J. K. Wight, still in active ministry at 83, preaching every Sunday. Dr. Wright was pastor of the Wayne Presbyterian Church in 1895, but before his second year received a call to Hastings, Nebr. where he occupied a pastorate and filled the position of president of Hastings college. His work at Hastings was an exceptional success in every way.

The man who looks for dishonesty in everybody must be fond of looking at his own reflection.

MOVE INTO NEW QUARTERS

The Orr & Morris Co., Now Occupy an Ideal Store Room In the Mellor Block.

The beautiful new building opposite the First National Bank, is now the home of the big general merchandise store of the Orr & Morris Company. This popular business firm moved their stock of goods from the Ahern building the first of the week and are now comfortably settled in their new quarters.

The store room was fitted up for their especial use, and the location is one of the handiest in the city. It is well lighted and airy, and provided with all the elements of convenience. The frontage on Second street opens directly into the grocery department which makes the handling of the farmer's produce an easy matter.

The firm have, by courteous business methods and generous treatment of their customers built up an extensive business which has been one of the elements for attracting trade from a distance, to Wayne. They believe in printers ink, and by its judicious use success has crowned their efforts.

LOCAL NEWS.

Fred French was a passenger east Tuesday.

O. A. King and A. B. Nichols went to Wakefield on business Tuesday.

Mrs. Ben Elliott and guests spent Tuesday at the Pond home in the country.

The Kilties band went to Albion this morning where a Chautauqua is being held. They travel in a special car.

Homey Scace and Guy Hunter returned from Ponca Monday where they had spent nearly a month camping out.

No services will be held at the various churches Sunday, but all will join in the services at the Chautauqua grounds.

Editor Shoop and wife of the Wakefield Republican, were here to listen to the "Kilties" last evening. We recognize an office call.

Oats are being contracted at 31 cents on a 90 day delivery. This is a better offer for this season of the year than has prevailed for some time.

Prof. Rob't Elliot, came over from Pilger with a bevy of young ladies some 18 in number. They came to visit the college and hear "Kilties" and all certainly enjoyed the day.

A meeting of the republican county central committee was held at Atty. Davis' office yesterday morning. It was for the purpose of considering the provisions of the primary law.

W. H. Bradford and wife, of South Sioux City, are guests at the Walter Weber home. Mr. Bradford was at one time manager of the Wayne branch of the E. and B. Lumber Co.

The surrounding towns are certainly generous in the size of delegations to the Chautauqua. The trains were all loaded down, while the branch trains carried two extra coaches.

Editor Clossen was down from Randolph, yesterday, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Ida Clark, of Sholes. Mr. Clossen reports that over a hundred tickets were sold at that point for Wayne yesterday.

Misses Idelle Taylor, of Battle Creek, and Minnie Miller, of Atkinson, Nebr. are visiting old school friends in the persons of Mrs. Fred French and Mrs. E. R. Lundburg, this week, while attending the Chautauqua.

KRUGER STARTS A BREWERY.

A Former Wayne Man Promotes a Second Beer Factory for Sioux City.

Plans are being formed for the organization of a company to build a second brewery in Sioux City or to build a brewery at South Sioux City. Ample capital for the project is said to be in sight. The problem now is one of securing retail dealers for stockholders, so that a fixed amount of business would be insured from the beginning of operations.

Frank Kruger, who recently removed to Sioux City from Chamberlain, S. D., where he was engaged in the wholesale and retail liquor business and where he was a general agent for several breweries, is promoting the project. Enlisted with him are L. C. Stephens, president of the Stephens-Kennedy company, Charles Selzer and other large dealers in beer. Two or three local capitalists also are in the syndicate and Omaha and St. Paul capital is said to be ready for use if it shall be needed.

Mr. Kruger yesterday said it was too early to make any statement regarding the project. He said that at this time he and his prospective associate simply were figuring what might be done. He thought that the plans might come to a head in about two weeks.

Mr. Stephens, too, thought it entirely too early to attempt to make any statement to the public. He said that in fact it could not be told at this time just what would be done.

The question of location will have considerable to do with deciding the investment of some who are thinking of becoming stockholders. Some favor locating the plants in Sioux City; others declare that the laws of Nebraska are so much more favorable for brewery that only South Sioux City should be thought of for the location. —Sioux City Journal.

"Harvest is by no means the jubilee now that it was twenty-five or thirty years ago," ruminates Ross Hammond, and it brings to mind a familiar picture of by gone days. In those of the "self rake" there were so many men required that it gave the work an air of the picnic. Now the farmer hitches four horses to his binder and sweeps through his field with an 8-foot swath, depositing the machine-made bundles in a windrow where two men put them in shocks. Then the old McCormick, with its long arm, surmounted with a rake that revolved in a mighty circle like a gigantic octopus grabbing for its victims, deposited the unbound bundles in the stubble behind it, five men following it to bind the sheaves. The hands were made of a wisp of wheat picked from the bundle. The wisp was seized by the left hand near the heads, then the right hand parted it in the middle and with the forefinger extended a twist of the wrist gave a half hitch to the band so the heads were tied together and the band made double the length of the straw, was put about the sheaf, drawn tightly, the two but-ends brought together and a tuck with the thumb completed the bundle. Each man had a "station", that is the circuit of the field was divided into five segments. The owner usually did the driving and as he paid the men $2.50 a day he gave them a merry chase. The men had an inducement to work lively, for if they finished their stations before the reaper came around they were permitted to sit down and breathe and mop their brows with their bandanas. It was extremely hard work and severe on the hands. Usually there were wild-rose briars in the grain and these filled the flesh with thorns and tortured the toiler. The complement of men also consisted of a boy. He was the water carrier. Mounted on the old mare or a pony he toted water in a jug to the men. In those days there were required eight men and a boy for a full gang. That made harvest time a period of sociability, albeit of hard work. Now the gang is reduced to three men, to say nothing of the boy. The old harvest jubilee is gone forever, and there are those who give a sigh of regret for the vanished hands and a sound of the voices that are still."

A Kansas girl graduate, who had been given the theme, "Beyond the Alps lies Italy," promulgated the following: I don't care a cent whether Italy lies beyond the Alps or in the Missouri. I do not expect to set the river on fire with my future career. I am glad that I have a good education, but I am not going to misuse it by writing poetry or essays on the future woman. It will enable me to correct the grammar of any lover I may have, should he speak of "dorgs," in my presence or "seen a man." It will also come handy when I want to figure out how many pounds of soap a woman can get for three dozen eggs at the grocery. So I do not begrudge the time I spent in acquiring it. But my ambitions do not fly so high. I just want to marry a man who can lick anybody of his weight in the township; who can run an 80 acre farm and who has no female relatives to come around and try to boss the ranch. I will agree to cook dinners for him that won't send him to an early grave and lavish upon him a wholesome affection, and to see that his razors have not been used to cut broom wire when he wants to shave. In view of this, I do not care if I do get a little rusty on the rules of three and kindred things as the years go by.—Ex.

The state of Nebraska showed signs a year ago of throwing off the corporation yoke which had been weighing heavily upon her for years. Good progress was made along these lines. This year we should follow up the work of a year ago and complete the job. There are only a few state officers to be elected, but what are to be elected should be in harmony with the governor and his associates. Then when it comes to our district judges, county and precinct officers, the same spirit should prevail. We should have good, clean, capable men. Reform is in the air. It should be cultivated until every office, state, county and precinct, has been purified and men of the people put in authority.—Pender Republic.

USED BIBLE AS CIPHER.

A Verse From Solomon Told of a Marriage Engagement.

When she left her home in the small town to come to New York to take up a special course of study her pet sister was fast reaching the crisis of a love affair. The pet sister was a most winsome young lady and had long kept a goodly train of suitors a-sighing. Was this affair to be the grand affair? The older sister hoped so, for she liked the young man cordially—thought he was just the sort to make a proper brother-in-law.

But the weeks passed, and not a bit of definite news about the progress of the affair did the older sister receive in her city boarding house. She became anxious. Louise, she thought, must not go on recklessly trifling in such important matters.

Then one night about 10 o'clock, just as she was going to bed, came a telegram. The servant brought it up. The elder sister was country girl enough to be thoroughly frightened by the pale manila, black inked envelope. How ominous it looked! At length she gathered courage to open it. This is what she read:

Solomon six three. LOUISE.
Solomon six three! Whatever in the world! Oh, why, yes, stupid, it of course meant the Song of Solomon, sixth chapter, third verse. But—and her cheeks flushed with shame—she had no Bible!

There was a great scurrying about the boarding house to find a copy of the sacred book. The girls were routed out in vain. On all sides the cry arose, "Who's got a Bible?" Just think of the sister trying to sleep that night without knowing what that verse was! It would have been just like a woman to be down to pleasant dreams, content to know that she could satisfy her curiosity in the morning.

The land's good sort, came to the rescue. She was no heathen. She had a Bible. Up to her room with it they the sister and shut the door. Such a tumbling over of pages by eager, nervous fingers! Solomon six three. She found it, and then she cried "Hurrah!" and laughed for the verse was:

I am my beloved's, and my beloved is mine.

THE SPECTER SWIMMER.

A Legend of the Sea That Still Appeals to Sailors.

The sailor as a class still holds fast to the superstitions that have been his special heritage throughout all ages. To him the sea is still peopled with hantoms. Men there are still who sail the sea believing in the power of the wintner, men who believe in the Wals of unholv face and in the existence of the specter bark Lucy to be seen at any time dodging in and out of the crevices and bays of the South Carolina coast. This is the tale of the Swimmer:

Near Cape Finistere there lived a fisher matten in days when the world asked fewer questions than now, and with her lived her fisher sweetheart. On their wedding night, rings the year smugglers came down on their vengeance, a thieving, drunken band. When they left, having done all the damage they could, the fisher matten's sweetheart had disappeared, whether with them or through them was never known. Instead of pining uselessly, as would most women, she dressed herself in men's clothes and started to find him, lead or alive.

For years she wandered over the earth and ocean, and though her disguise was penetrated several times and she passed through a host of troubles which vary with each telling, she succeeded in keeping up her hunt. Finally after escaping from an English prison the vessel she was on was lost at sea, and the simple Breton fisherwoman exshined her in a lezead which has her forever swimming the seas still in search of the man she loved and hailing each craft she nears. A sailor, be he Yankee or Portuguese, matter of fact in all things else or grossly superstitious, believes firmly that if you hear the hull of the Swimmer on a dark night at sea and answer it not woe follows swiftly.—New York Herald.

The Perfect Servant.

The thoroughly trained English servant is in his way the most perfect kind of servant to be found anywhere, and in his station and for his duties he is not to be matched in the world. Where will you find any men so competent in their work, so completely trained and apparently emotionless in manner, so punctual, so clean, so smart, as an English butler, coachman, footman or valet? Certainly not on the continent of Europe, in the United States, in Canada or in Australia.—Country Life.

Metals and Metaphors.

"It is most amazing," said a metallurgist, "how the world relies on metals for its metaphors and similes. Thus an orator is silver, tongued or golden mouthed. An explorer is bronzed by African suns. A resolute chap has an iron will. A sluggish moves with lead on feet. An ostrich has a copper blue stomach. A millionaire has tin. A swindler is as slippery as quicksilver. A borrower has brass."—New York Press.

THINKING ALOUD.

A Rusb Which Roused Lord Dudley and Formed a Friendship.

One of the earls of Dudley, who was addicted to the practice of thinking aloud, found himself in a very awkward predicament on a certain occasion. He was to spend the evening at the house of a friend and ordered his carriage early, as he had a long drive back to his own home.

When the hour arrived the carriage was not forthcoming. Seeing that Lord Dudley was considerably annoyed by the delay, one of the guests, whose way homeward lay past his lordship's house, politely offered him a seat in his carriage. The gentleman was almost a stranger to Lord Dudley, but the offer was accepted.

The drive did not prove a very sociable one. Lord Dudley took his seat and immediately relapsed into silence, his thoughts apparently engrossed by some unpleasant subject. Presently he began to speak in a low but distinctly audible tone of voice, and his companion, to his astonishment, heard him say:

"I'm very sorry I accepted his offer. I don't know the man. It was civil certainly, but the worst I suppose I must ask him to dinner."

Silence followed this bit of audible thinking. His lordship was unaware that he had betrayed his thoughts and was probably still meditating upon the same unpleasant subject when the voice of his companion broke the stillness.

Apparently this stranger was afflicted with the same malady from which his lordship suffered, for he exactly imitated Lord Dudley's tone as he said:

"Perhaps he'll think I did it to make his acquaintance. Why, I would have done the same to any farmer on his estate. I hope he won't ask me to dinner, for I shan't accept his invitation."

Lord Dudley's abstraction was all gone. He listened to the other's words, immediately comprehending the joke against himself, and frankly offered his hand to his companion, making many apologies for his involuntary rudeness.

The stranger proved magnanimous, and from that night the two became fast friends.

THE TAXIDERMIST.

He Stretches Animal Skins Over Plaster of Paris Forms.

Recently a prominent taxidermist of St. Louis was taking a party of visitors through his establishment. He had some very rare specimens of big game fish, both of the sea and river, besides a large collection of birds of every clime about the walls.

"Is that stuffed, too?" asked a lady, indicating the lifelike form of a small pet dog which sat motionless upon the hearth.

The taxidermist frowned and returned very fully:

"Madam, we do no stuffing here. We stretch our hides over plaster of paris forms. The day of stuffing is past, and no up to date establishment does it."

The party was taken upstairs, through the rooms where the real taxidermy is done. They had expected to see hides being crammed full of sawdust, shavings and perhaps hair. No such thing was seen, however, and in place of this were men and boys molding out the forms of deer, antelope, fish and other kinds of animals in the smooth white plaster. This is done very much in the same way as the terra cotta corucies are molded to grace the corners of buildings. The hides after going through the cleaning process are stretched tightly over the plaster form, which is indeed is more lasting than the old fashioned manner of stuffing them.

"Even specimens of fish are treated in this manner," resumed the taxidermist, "and you may easily see how a skin would retain its shape a great deal longer over the hard, smooth surface of the plaster than if a softer material were crammed into it, which if improperly done will bulge and last but a short time."—Exchange.

Lincoln's Last Law Case.

Lincoln tried his last case in Chicago. It was the case of Jones versus Johnson in April and May, 1860, in the United States circuit court before Judge Drummond. The case involved the title to land of very great value, the accretion on the shore of Lake Michigan. During the trial Judge Drummond and all the counsel on both sides, including Lincoln, dined together at the house of Isaac N. Arnold.

At the conclusion of the dinner this toast was proposed: "May Illinois furnish the next president of the United States." It was drunk with great enthusiasm by the friends of both Lincoln and Douglas.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Wary Crow.

The crow is useful in killing mice, snakes, lizards and frogs and is a splendid scavenger. He is quite wary, will always flee from a man with a gun, but pays little attention to the ordinary pedestrian. These birds are gregarious in their habits and make their large, untidy nests at the tops of trees. They come in flocks to the sleeping grove, sit around on the ground and when all are assembled they rise simultaneously and scramble for nests. Crows mate for life.

BOWSER AS AN ACTOR

Thinks He Can Take the Parts of Hamlet and Romeo.

WAS ALSO TO BE "ANGEL."

Theatrical Promoter, However, Touch-ed Him on the Start For Too Great a Sum—As Usual, Mrs. B. Has Laugh on Him.

[Copyright, 1907, by Homer Sprague.]

Mrs. Bowser was puzzled and perturbed. Mr. Bowser was going about striking strange attitudes and muttering to himself, and he had cried out in his midnight sleep:

"Lay on, Macduff, and damned be he who first cries, Hold, enough!"

Something was up, but just what it was Mrs. Bowser was keeping to himself. She made cautious inquiries as to whether he was looking for a farm, investing in a flying machine or experimenting with a new hair dye, but he only smiled in a knowing way in answer. When the cook was asked for a casual way if she had noticed anything queer about him of late she promptly answered:

"Yes, ma'am, I have, and I was thinking of giving notice before he broke out and set the house on fire or killed us with the ax. He acts just as my sister's husband did before he blew up the house with a bomb and jumped into the river."

"What have you noticed about him?"

"Well, ma'am, he got out into the back yard the other evening and threw his arms around and muttered. He jumped ahead, and then sideways and backward, and all the time he was muttering to himself. I went to a theater on the Bowery once, and Mr. Bowser acted just like an actor I saw there. Did you ever hear of an actor called Mr. Hamlet, ma'am?"

HE DIDN'T LOOK TO BE WORTH OVER 15 CENTS.

"Feared For Her Life."

"Then that's what he's trying to be, and if you can't stop him I must quit my job. I'm the sole support of an invalid mother, as you know, and I don't want to be suddenly blown high sky and leave her to go to the poor-house."

Mrs. Bowser felt that she now had the key of the mystery in her hands. That evening she was watching for Mr. Bowser's return from the office. She saw him drop off the street car at his usual hour and noticed that he stepped off with a one-two-three stride. As he entered the house he bowed ceremoniously to her, and during the dinner hour he was lofty and superior. When they had returned to the sitting room he began pacing up and down, and presently she said:

"Mr. Bowser, I want to talk with you for a few minutes. You have been acting rather strangely of late. Have you got some great trouble on your mind that you are keeping from me?"

"My mind was never more clear of trouble," he answered, with a bow and a smile.

"But you have got some plan on hand."

"If I have, oh, woman, thou must restrain thy curiosity till such time as I see fit to unfold."

"Are you thinking of acting on the stage?"

"M'phinks 'thou hast hit it close."

"Then tell me about it. As a wife I am interested in your welfare."

States the Case.

"Well, here's the case," he said as he descended from his high horse. "About a week ago Mr. Horatio Blank, the celebrated actor and manager, happened in the office just as I was repeating Hamlet's soliloquy for the benefit of Green, and when I was through he was pleased to shake hands with me and ask if he could offer any inducement for me to go on the road with a company he is organizing to play Shakespeare's plays. I said nothing to you about the matter, knowing that you would treat it with your usual sarcasm, but I have had two or three talks with Mr. Blank since. He is satisfied that I will make the greatest Hamlet ever seen on the stage. I shall also play Romeo."

"You speak as if it was a settled thing," said Mrs. Bowser.

"It is about as good as settled. He is coming here this evening for a final talk. He thinks he can pay me a salary of $400 per week, but is going to let me know. We intend to introduce a new feature in theatricals—play the whole year through, as he believes, and I quite agree with him, that people long for Shakespearean plays in summer more than in the winter. Thus it will be $400 per week for fifty-two weeks in the year. Is there anything bad about that for an income?"

"Does Mr. Blank want you to put any money in the enterprise?"

"Yes, a few dollars. I think he wants me to advance enough money to pay for the printing. He will pay me back double the amount when we get out on the road. He has had twenty-one companies, and all have made money. He is said to be worth $1,000,000."

"Then why does he want you to advance anything?"

"Might Leave Him in Lurch."

"Why? Why? I don't know exactly why, but to show that I am in earnest, I suppose. I might engage with him and then leave him in the lurch."

"It was an explanation, but it didn't satisfy the explainer. He saw a smile on Mrs. Bowser's face and began to fush up as he said:

"That's always the way with you—doing your best to find some fault. I wish I hadn't said a word until the company was ready to start out on the road."

"I am not finding fault, Mr. Bowser. I am simply asking for information. There's a ring at the bell. It is probably your man Blank. Go ahead and make your arrangements with him. I shall expect a box all to myself on the first night you play 'Hamlet.'"

Mr. Bowser ushered his theatrical manager into the library and carefully closed the door, and they took seats at the table. The said manager didn't look to be worth $1,000,000. In fact, he didn't look to be worth much over 15 cents. His silk hat had witnessed many ups and downs in the world, and his tightly buttoned frock coat was worn and shiny and showed that it had often stood before the free lunch counter and taken in the bean soup. His cuffs were frayed and his necktie faded, and the hand that had darned one knee of his trousers must have held a darning needle. He had his assurance with him, however, and that was the main thing.

Needed About $7,000.

"Oh, this dress, this worldly dress! he sighed as he sat down. "It should have nothing to do with our noble profession, but unfortunately we cannot escape it. I have been figuring this afternoon, and I find that it will take about seven thousand to put us on the road in good shape. Of course it will all come back to you sooner or later. There are ten or twelve parties who are anxious to furnish the money, but as none of them can play Hamlet I have turned them down."

"I'm!" grunted Mr. Bowser, who had an idea that twenty-five or thirty dollars at most would be wanted.

"As for the part of Hamlet, of course you couldn't expect to go right on and play it at the start. You must gradually work up to it. For the first two weeks you will bring the spade to Hamlet to dig the grave with."

"Um! Um!"

"I wish we could make you a foot taller somehow. You are rather short and chunky to play the part."

Mr. Bowser turned red and white.

"We must also get you a wig to hide your baldness. Do you think you could reduce your weight by sixty or seventy pounds? Hamlet has no bay window on him; you know."

"By 'thunder, man, what are you talking about!" shouted Mr. Bowser, as he rose up.

Hamlet Not a Bowser.

"Calm thyself, Horatio," replied Mr. Blank in soothing tones. "Hamlet must be Hamlet. Hamlet cannot be Bowser."

"Hamlet be damned! Sir, you have insulted me!"

"Tush, tush. I like thy spirit, but the tones of thy voice hath a clarion sound. Sit thee down and we will talk of the long green. Seven thousand—"

"Seven thousand, nothing. I don't like your style. I don't want to deal with you. This interview is closed."

"And you haven't offered me a glass of wine nor a cigar. I was mistaken in you. You couldn't play Hamlet any more than a bull could play a church organ. Good night, sir. I can find my way out. If I hear of a brickyard for sale I will put you next."

Mrs. Bowser was in the sitting room. As Mr. Bowser came out he was all a-bristle and ready for battle, but she simply looked up and smiled and said:

"Isn't it a rather cold night, dear, for this time of year?"

Mr. Bowser didn't answer, but he thought it was—for him.

One of the best services we render to our fellow citizens these days, is being here, ready, with the right clothes for quick delivery.

A man wants to go on a vacation; needs extra trousers, or a fresh thin suit, a new hat, or maybe shirts or neckwear; something new for away-from-home. We're here with the goods.

The best of it is, that the clothes are Hart Schaffner & Marx goods; they're like American gold money—good anywhere in the world.

You don't have to go away from home to wear them.

For County Commissioner.

To the Republican Voters of Wayne County, Nebraska.

Upon, not only the earnest solicitation of friends throughout the county, but the unrelenting demand of my home people, I have consented to allow my name to go before the primaries as a candidate for the nomination of County Commissioner from the Third District, subject to the will of the Republican Voters of Wayne county.

AUGUST ZEIMER.

For County Assessor.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the nomination for the office of county assessor, of Wayne county subject to the will of the republican voters at the primaries to be held September, 3.

A. T. WITTER

The candidates for county office are slowly coming out of the woods. This week A. T. Witter appears in the open and announces himself for county assessor. His petition has been filed and his name is assured a prominent place on the republican primary ballot. He is an old timer among Wayne residents and in fact, is counted with the pioneers. Familiar with official duties and experienced in the trials of an assessor he is entirely qualified. At present he is city clerk for Wayne. Mr. Witter can be classed with the winners at the start.

It is generally recognized that the trade territory of Wayne's clothing stores is not confined to the county. They attract and hold custom from adjoining counties and secure many regular patrons in various parts of northeast Nebraska. But this week Dan Harrington made a trade score that deserves to be chronicled. Orders have been sent out by express to Wessington, S. D., also to Idaho and North Dakota. This brings to notice that quality in goods and a pleased customer are the means of establishing business on an enduring basis.

That the farmer's tributary to Wayne are taking advantage of Chautauqua attractions was evident last evening by the great number of teams that lined the side streets where the hitching posts are located as well as by the way the livery barns were taxed. With these delightful, moonlight nights there is no reason why all the country people within a reasonable distance from town, should not enjoy the rich lot of entertainment being provided at the high school grounds. It is an opportunity and the country people are not neglecting it.

The Wayne Commercial Club, certainly made a ten strike, when they sent out special invitations directed to some sixty different clubs, representing most of the towns and cities in northeast Nebraska. Thursday (today) was named as "Commercial Club Day" during the Chautauqua. Quite a number of the organizations responded, and Bloomfield, Wausa, Hartington and several other points are expected, bringing their bands and banners. They all are most welcome. Let ever Wayne booster give these visitors a glad hand and get acquainted.

The real contest for the supreme judgeship lies in the republican primaries. A nomination there is the equivalent of an election. Just the right man will both strengthen and advance the party in the estimation of the people. Its up to the rank and file to make a choice between Judge Sedgwick and Judge M. B. Reese. It is necessary to have a preference, and to have a few reasons for it, is a proper course. The general sentiment of the country press of the state highly regards the candidacy of Judge Reese. His record appeals to them. His career is a story of an honorable lawyer, a fearless prosecutor and an able jurist. His idea of justice knows no person nor were they ever tainted by favoritism. The nomination of M. B. Reese is desired by the progressive element of his party.

If you recall the names of present county officers you will have a good idea who some of the candidates are for the primaries. The exception is for county treasurer and assessor, perhaps. We have it upon good good authority that Charlie Beebe, of Carroll, is a worthy aspirant for treasurer. His announcement will be most welcome news to the voters of the county, without regard to party lines.

Wayne's intellectual carnival is now on. An annual Chautauqua for this city is a foregone conclusion. Its forms of entertainment are such in variety that its programs attract all classes. The amusement element is ever present, and the high order of fun reaches and satisfies. This is why Chautauquas flourish and become permanent institutions. As long as they are conducted on an elevated plane they will endure. Lend your moral and financial support and you seek the welfare of every community it touches.

BOOSTS FOR THE REST ROOM

Mrs. Clyde Oman Tells of Its Object, Its Needs, and How It is Supported.

It has been pretty thoroughly proven that it pays to advertise, so we deem it wise to bring this enterprise before the public occasionally.

Some people do not seem to understand just what this rest room is for, and how it is maintained.

We have already made this known through the columns of the county papers several times.

The rest room is intended for use of all women and children of Wayne county or who ever have occasion to use it, whether they be from the country or town.

And it is supported by contributions by whoever will.

We pay $8.00 per month rent for the rooms and pay the Matron in charge $4.00 per week. Everything else has been donated, such as furniture, towels ect.

The city furnishing the lights and water. Mr. Philleo has given us the use of a telephone so that anyone wishing to telephone can do so from the rooms without taking the trouble to go elsewhere.

Another thing we wish to mention is the liberal donation of space in the Wayne papers for bringing the proposition before the public and both Wayne papers have been donated and can always be found at the rest rooms.

We have a register and wish everyone visiting the rest room to register so that we can tell something about how many avail themselves of this convenience. Not all register who call, but during the month of June over three hundred registered. In looking over the register we find names of people from different towns as follow: Omaha, Norfolk, Hartington, North Bend, Bloomfield, Wausa, Randolph, Carroll, Winside, and Wakefield. A gentleman from Hastings was here recently to enquire into the methods of conducting our rest room, with a view to starting a like one in that city. We wish to impress upon the minds of the people of Wayne county that it takes considerable cash to maintain this institution and contributions must needs be forth coming. Some have been quite liberal, subscribing one dollar per month, others have given fifty cents per month and on down. If you do not feel able to give this much, just give what you can, don't let as good and useful a thing as this suffer for want of a little financial and moral support.

If you are a little skeptical just call and see how the rest room is conducted and what a great convenience it is and you will at least speak a good word for it.

Mrs. Clyde Oman,
Secretary.

Clarence Fish and wife, of Winside were in town to hear Kilties band yesterday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Fish's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Schoonover, who are visiting from Lynn county, Iowa.

J. W. Tooms, who has been spending a year with his son in Arizona, returned to Wayne the first of the week, and will make his home with his daughter, Mrs. M. A. Phillips. He has enjoyed very good health the past year.

If you are going to attend the State Fair and have no room in which to sleep just write Secretary Whitten of the Commercial Club, Lincoln, and he will secure you a nice room for Fair week—September 2-6. A list of 3,000 rooms besides the natural hotel facilities will be secured, so there will be plenty of sleeping rooms for everyone.

Another case of considerable moment was wound up at the session of district court yesterday when upon confession judgment was entered against Herman Mildner in the amount of $400.00 in favor of Mrs. Scotty Martin, whose husband died about seven months ago. The action was for damages on the ground that death was brot on by the use of liquor furnished by Mildner, a saloon keeper at the time. Because of being deprived of her husband's earnings and support she sued for $5000 damage. The case was carried over from last term because no jury cases came on for hearing. A compromise and settlement of the matter had more attractions to Mildner, than a protracted legal contest. Mrs. Martin is in poor financial straits, with two children depending upon her for support, and Mr. Mildner, evidently concluded to give her the benefit of the lawyers fees, he would have been obliged to pay out, at least.

One of the best games of ball ever played on the Stanton diamond was played Friday between the Wayne College team and our nine. In the first inning Stanton shut out Wayne and by the help of three errors a base on balls and a hit by Eads, we got three scores. Both teams got down to business after that and played good ball. The best play of the game was a triple by Peters of Wayne on second who caught a drive, touching his base and touching the runner coming down from 1st. The pitching of Hartman was excellent, he having struck out 11 men only allowed 6 scattered hits. The summary: batteries Stanton; Hartman and Person Wayne; Powers and Lundak, struck out by Hartman 11, by Powers 3, hits, Stanton 5, Wayne 6, Umpire Kitterman. There was not a large crowd out but those who didn't missed a fine game. The Wayne players are gentleman and outside of the 1st inning played fine ball. Stanton will return the game the first week in August when the Wayneites can size up our team.—Stanton Register.

SYNOPSIS

Olive Glenn marries Gen. Mark Lester through gratitude to him for saving her father from financial ruin, although she loves Gilbert Hall, a young doctor. Pedro, a half brother of the General, attempts to poison the General, and throw the blame on Olive, that he may secure the large estate. His treachery is discovered and his attempt is frustrated in time to save the General's life.

The sentiment, pathos and humor of this story are of the sterling, honest kind which appeals to every man and women with a human heart. The play has so many good points that it never fails to be a success.

END OF THE HANSON CASE

Referees in Partition Make Report and the Brothers Accept Basis of Settlement

Hanson vs. Hanson, has been a familiar title on the docket of cases for years in the District Court for Wayne county. The final chapter of a long record of litigation was written yesterday at an adjourned term of the court at which Judge Graves presided.

Years ago, the brothers, John E. and Hans E. Hanson conducted a business at some point in Iowa under an agreement of partnership. About the time, or soon thereafter, of its windup it seems certain investments were made in land in this county the title to the same being taken in the name John E. Hanson. Whether these investments were those of the former partnership or deals of John E. Hanson alone, provided the grounds for dispute between the brothers. Hans contended that the partnership relation did not end at the closing up of the Iowa business but continued and that the land purchases made in Wayne county were made with the funds of the Iowa partnership. On this contention he carried the matter into the courts asking for an accounting and that his interests in the land be allotted him. The evidence in the case became voluminous and the matter was finally placed in the hands of a referee, in the person of Judge N. D. Jackson of Neligh. The referees' adjustment of the matter favored Hans' claims and while his decree was taken to the Supreme court for review, they affirmed the referees' judgment in the case, and sent it back with an order that the land be divided between the brothers. For this purpose a board of referees, composed of Grant Mears, E. R. Lundburg and L. F. Neely were appointed to make a division of the property. On yesterday their report was filed with the court. One parcel of the land located in Wilbur precinct, consisting of 320 acres, was given a valuation of $62.50 per acre, $20,000.00 for the tract. This farm has been occupied by Hans E. Hanson and is the East one-half of Sec. 14-27-3. The other farm consists of 280 acres and joins the Henry Albers place on the south county line in Leslie precinct, and includes all but a forty in the East one-half of Sec. 32-25-5. Its valuation was placed at $67.50 per acre, or $18,900 for the entire tract. The total value of the two farms, less encumbrances, is $31,700. The division gives one-half to each, but under an agreement the Wilbur farm is taken by John E. Hanson, who pays a difference to Hans of $650.

Real Estate Transfers

The past two years the land involved has been in the hands of a receiver and some $900 is on hand to be divided between the brothers.

Several new students enrolled this week while several dropped out. There are only two more weeks in this term, so there will not be many new ones to enroll now.

About 130 took the state examination held at the College Friday and Saturday. In addition to these, many of the students took the examination at the court house.

L. H. Currier of the class of 1898 visited friends at the College for several days last week. Mr. Currier has been principal of the schools at Ashton, Nebr., and is a candidate for the nomination as county superintendent in Sherman county.

The commencement programs and the caps and gowns were given out to the members of the graduating class at their meeting Saturday afternoon. The programs are made up of 24 pages and contain a full program of all sessions during the week.

Several of the students this week were notified of their election to positions for next year. Mr. Campbell goes to Anselmo as principal of the schools, Mr. Boshart having a like position at Springview, and Miss Marsh was elected to a position in the grades at Bristow.

Rev. Coon of Grand Island visited the College one day last week and delivered a very interesting address to the students at the Chapel services. Rev. Smith also was a visitor last week and made a pleasant talk at Chapel. These visits are much enjoyed by both students and faculty.

Supt. Pilger of Pierce county came over this week to take charge of his class work. Supt. Pilger has had experience in this kind of school work and he will, no doubt, give his students some good things. Supt. Stahl of West Point finds it impossible to be here at this time, but he will probably be over for a few days before the close of the term. The work he was to take has been taken care of by dividing it up among the other teachers.

Tuesday morning, we were very fortunate in having some fine talks at chapel. Dr. Jenkins gave splendid talk on "What is the purpose of Education," Mr. C. B. Moore, Asst. Sec'y of the State Y. M. C. A. also spoke a few words which were very much enjoyed by all those present.

The following is the order for Commencement week:

- August 2, 8 p. m., Contest of Literary Societies.
- August 3, 8 p. m., Department of Elocution—Play.
- August 4, 3 p. m., Baccalaureate Sermon.
