planting and cultivation. Many other islands of the group produce this fiber in great abundance, and I consider $500,000,000 a conservative estimate of the possibilities in this one industry. Many lands and many climes produce sugar, tobacco, rice, copra, cocoa and cotton, but no country on the globe save the Philippine Islands can grow Manila hemp. The output is not sufficient to meet the demand. Much of that now produced is transported from the field to the water's edge on the head or shoulders of the native packers. This is not only enormously expensive, but it utilizes the labor which should be employed in field and factory.

SUGAR CULTURE

It would be hard to over estimate the advantages of the Philippines for the culture of sugar. The soil is of such fertility that it has raised a crop of cane in every one of the last fifty years with little or no fertilizing. During seven or eight months of the year the forest covered mountains are veiled in clouds, assuring a plentiful supply of moisture. And so favorable are both soil and climate that the crops mature in twelve months, giving to the planter a crop of cane every year [an advantage rare in any part of the world]. In Hawaii, where men are making fortunes in sugar, the average crop requires fifteen months to reach maturity. It is safe to say that nowhere else in the world is there sugar land offering advantages equal to that in the Moro Province.

GUM CHICLE

The extraordinary demand that has sprung up within a few years for gum chicle has no commercial parallel in modern times other than furnished by the import banana industry to the United States from Jamaica and Central America. The consumption of Chicle has now become so great that the propriety of calling it a minor product many well be questioned: but notwithstanding this great consumption, it is very doubtful if more than a few hundred people of the million or more who use it daily are aware that it is the foundation of chewing gum in the market. About all the gum raised here goes to the United States where it is absorbed by the trust, known as the American Chicle Company, compounded with much starch, sugar and flavoring adulterants, and in this form finds its way around the world and to an ever increasing number of victims of the harmless but unlovely, gum-chewing habit.

IN CONCLUSION

The Philippine Islands belong to the United States. If they ever change from a liability to an asset, it will be after they have been opened up through the medium of highways and railroads. The Insular Government has at last secured congressional action which permits the former to guarantee 4 per cent interest on capital actually expended in railway construction in the islands. This means more for the future progress of the Philippines than can possibly be realized by those unacquainted with conditions here.

The vital thing for the American people to understand is the character of the native as a whole, in order to arrive at a just estimate of his fitness for governing himself and the large foreign population resident here. Therefore my next letter will deal with the Filipino and Morotypes distinctly different, though both Malays—as viewed from the white man, American and European.

Nearby Notes

Those whose employment keeps them on the business street constantly who frequently grieved to see the number of young boys who are allowed to drift about aimlessly, day by day, with seemingly nothing to do. Idleness is a poor school. The boy who is kept busy in vacation times and after school is generally the one who turns out best. It is invariably the idle boy who gets into mischief and later as a man lands somewhere that he ought not. Criminals and vagrants are easily developed from just such combinations as we see around us—the idle day and the street. The right kind of work, under right conditions, never hurt any boy; but God pity the poor child who has nothing to do but loaf the streets. Someday he may live to curse those whose carelessness or indifference allowed him to form habits of idleness, when he might have been given employment that would have made a man of him—Laurel Advocate.

We have not received a copy of the Wayne Democrat for three long weeks—not since we published that "libelous" article about its editor some time ago. We take it that his royal skinniness has cut us off his exchange list for our presumption. That savors enough of childishness to be just like a cry-baby. As long as he is lambasting some of the rest of us it is exposing the hypocrites but when we come back at him then it is libel, and tyranny, and presumption and everything else that is mean and contemptible. We may not be able to maintain our present avoirdubois without our weekly allowance of rich, rare and racy "By Dads, but we will endeavor to seek out some sort of an existence just the same.—Pender Republic.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Sioux City this year has taken a hand in preparing to receive and care for the enormous crowds which every September swarm into that city to attend the Interstate Live Stock Fair. They have already taken up this work, and in a systematic manner. They are securing the names of all persons who will be willing to let out their rooms during the week, and whether breakfast will be served if desired. The prices also are to accompany the description of the room. No overcharging will be tolerated. In addition to this service of the Y. M. C. A., one of the leading hotels will have a list of outside rooms to which it will send guests.

The oats are being harvested and the quality and quantity is a disappointment. They are not more than half a crop, and running a third less in weight. Last year oats turned out from 30 to 34 pounds by weight, but several loads marketed at the local elevators the past week have only run from 19 1/2 to 21 pounds. The threshers are complaining and say they cannot handle this seasons oat crop at a profit because the yield is so poor. While the late oats promise a better showing, yet there are several farmers south west of town who have made an excellent showing but with a different variety of oats. Geo. Montgomery and Cal Ritchey have a yellow variety, a kind that the Nebraska Experimental Station introduced and recommended. These farmers threshed their cuttings the first of the week and the yield was 44 bushels per acre, and the oats are nice and plump, of yellow tint and good weight. This variety did fine on the flat and bottom lands, but on the hill tops and slopes the straw was short, growing hardly enuf to cut, yet with short straw the kernels filled in fairly good shape. It is evident that all who have raised the yellow variety are very much satisfied with them.

The X Ray Incubator factory is getting ready to move into their new quarters near the depot. The new factory is being put into shape for active operations, which begin with the fall and continue all thru the winter.

GRAZING LAND

Most magnificent grazing land exist in Mindanao, rolling uplands and level prairie lands, although so far as abundance and quality of the grasses concerned there is apparently no difference, the same species growing on the prairie as on the hills. These are fine stemmed, fine leaved grasses, which, in the United States, would be popularly known as "bunch" grasses.

The water supply is especially to be noted. In the numerous mountain streams the water is perfectly pure and as clear as crystal, except immediately following a heavy rain.
These streams, during the rainy season, like the great rivers, are subject to great and sudden rise and fall; and from a quiet babbling brook a stream may change in a few minutes into a raging mountain torrent; yet where the mountains are heavily timbered, the rise and fall are more gradual and do not go to extremes.

RICE CULTURE

The cultivation of rice in the Philippines is in many respects similar to that practiced in China, Japan, India and other Oriental countries. The labor of the Filipino in the rice fields of the Philippines has been estimated at $20 gold and board per annum. The amount of land which he can cultivate is two and one-half acres, yielding fifteen hundred pounds of paddy. In Texas or Louisiana, on the other hand, a laborer receives $200 gold and board but he cultivates eighty acres of land, and the cultivation is so superior that with irrigation water along it produces 160,000 pounds of paddy.
In short he receives ten times the wages, but he produces one hundred times more rice than the Filipino laborer.

There is no reason why scientific methods of culture and modern agricultural implements should not make the Philippines one of the leading rice countries of the world.
It was not many years ago when the rice industry in Louisiana was on the same footing with the rice industry of the Orient, and yet such a revolution has been effected in the cultivation of rice in that State within the last fifteen years as has not been accomplished in Chinese rice culture in six thousand years.

THE MANILA HEMP INDUSTRY

The principal industry in the Philippine Islands, and one capable of being greatly enlarged is Manila hemp. Sixty per cent of the exports of the archipelago today is this fiber yet the industry is still in its infancy.
It is estimated by hemp experts that the island of Mindanao is capable of producing double the amount of hemp now harvested throughout the island were capital available for

"Well, Henry," said the New York man who was visiting his Chicago cousin, "before I leave town I want to be sure to visit the stockyards, the art institute and the Field museum. I suppose it's an old story to you, so if you'll direct me right I'll find 'em myself."

The Chicago man laughed. "I'm ashamed to admit it," he said, "but the fact is I've lived in this town fifteen years and I've never been out to the stockyards. I never visited the Field museum, and I've never been to the art institute, although I pass it every day of my life. I guess I'll take a day off and see the sights of my own town."

He did, and was as much interested as his cousin. "Now, when I go to New York in the fall," he said, "I want you to take me out to Ellis Island to see the immigrants come in. It must be a great sight. And I want to get the view from the statue of Liberty and walk down the Bowery."

"Sure," said the New York cousin, "I'd like to see those things once myself."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Upon his accession to the throne of Norway, King Haakon VII. was appointed colonel in chief of a certain Scotch regiment. While dressing for parade duty an enthusiastic subaltern was communicating this information to a fellow soldier:

"McDonald!" said he, "have you heard that the new king of Norway has been appointed colonel of the regiment?"

"Indeed?" queried the Scot. "That's a verra fine thing now. But will he be able to keep both jobs?"—Harper's Weekly.

No More Sore Necks or Shoulders

The HUMANE HORSE COLLAR, which by the way has no resemblance to the ordinary collar, is a new device brought out by the HUMANE HORSE COLLAR COMPANY, of Omaha, Nebraska, and is meeting with extraordinary success. As shown in the cut, it has no stuffing of any kind, but is so constructed as to apply the breast collar principle to the shoulder of the horse. All the draft is carried by the wide, strong leather that makes a perfectly pliable surface in contact with the shoulder. It is claimed for this collar and the manufacturers are willing to prove, that it will cure any case of sore neck or shoulders on horses or mules and will make the cure while the animal works. It being adjustable in size one collar fits all the horses on the farm. Farmers who are using this collar are making the prediction freely that it will soon take the place of the old collar for all farm and heavy draft work, in fact hundreds of farmers are laying aside good collars and using the Humane Collar. An interesting experiment is made with this collar by placing the hand under any part of it while the team is drawing a heavy load. This is done without hurting the hand in the least and illustrates why it cures up the bruises and keeps the well horses sound. If this experiment was tried with the ordinary collar the hand would be crushed. The world has made rapid strides in most every line in recent years. Why can we not advance in the field of horse collars? The Humane Collars are sold subject to a thorough trial on horses wish with sore necks or shoulders.

J. D. Abrams, representing the Humane Horse Collar Company, will be in Wayne,

Saturday, August 10

And especially desires to show this collar to everyone who uses horse collars. Farmers particularly are invited to examine this collar and see its merits demonstrated. 3500 horses cured with the Humane Collar in the last 90 days. The Nebraska State Agricultural Farm at Lincoln is using 8 of these collars.

New Opportunities to Acquire Home and Independence
Cheaper than Paying Rent—Crops Large and Certain

On Tuesdays, May 7 and 21 and June 4 and 18, 1907, I will personally conduct you to this LAND OF OPPORTUNITY, to the growing towns and fertile, irrigated valleys of the Big Horn Basin, Wyo., where you can enter 160 acres of irrigated land at $50. an acre plus cost of water, also the Yellowstone Valley with its best sugar factory and irrigated lands. Do you want to go?

The Government is spending millions for irrigation in these localities. These lands, adjacent to the Burlington Route, are as rich and productive as any the sun shines on, and lie along beautiful streams with an abundance of pure mountain water. Plenty of timber and coal. Climate, ideal. Why pay rent when for same payments you can own your own home?

R Philleo, A. A. Welch and A. L. Tucker were passengers for South Dakota Tuesday. Mr. Tucker makes a business trip into the country west of Pierre, while the other gentlemen go to Mitchell, and from there to the state capital.

Theodore Duerig is off on a well earned vacation. On Monday he was a passenger for Wheeling, West Virginia, his old home and where his parents still reside. He has not been back for more than twelve years, and intends to be gone several weeks. On his return he will stop over in Belmont county, Ohio, to visit other relatives.

J. M. Ross suffered a sinking spell while talking to Sheriff Mears in front of the State Bank Monday afternoon. A crowd soon gathered and it was that for some time he was in a bad way. Dr. Leisenring however came to his relief and assured him his heart was all right and that he was only taken with a severe attack of pleurisy. Mr. Ross it seems is subject to such spells and it is liable to catch him at any time, when they leave him almost helpless for a period. He was recently taken down, while driving home aloft in his buggy but the faithful horse carried him on home safely.

E. O. Behmer and Frank Roedl, were parties from Hoskins in Wayne Monday on business in Judge Hunters court, regarding the estate of Robert J. Roedl, deceased, of which Mr. Behmer is administrator. Mr. Frank Roedl resides at Bush, Oklahoma, and is the father of the young man whose sudden death occurred at Hoskins some three weeks ago. He lived near Norfolk about seven years ago and is well acquainted over the west end of the county. He is greatly pleased with his Oklahoma home, and believes in it as a land of prosperity. Bush is located in Roger Mills county, and is a town of 4000 altho but seven years old, which is but an example of the marvelous growth and development going on in the new state. Mr. Roedl says the crops are exceptionally promising this year, and that they produce everything raised in Nebraska and in addition cotton, which is recognized as the most valuable product, yielding from $60 to $85 per acre. The people vote on the adoption of a constitution this fall and all are anxious to make statehood a reality. He intends to start home by the end of the week.

Address Dr Shoop, Racine Wis.

The State Fair to be held at Lincoln, Sept. 2-6, gives promise of being the greatest State Fair ever held in Nebraska. Secretary W. R. Mellor informs us that the exhibits in all departments are very heavy, and promise to exceed in magnitude those of last year, which was the record breaker heretofore. The management have secured Chas. J. Strobel and his airship, which are now making flights at the Jamestown Exposition, to make daily flights at our Fair. The stake races have 128 horses named in them, as against 58 named last year, and this feature of the Fair is looked forward to with great anticipation by the horse lovers. Fully 25 per cent more swine will be exhibited this year than last, and all the live stock departments are receiving an abundance of entries. If no more entries of County Collective Exhibits are received from now on, Agricultural hall will have a finer exhibit than ever before. Nebraska has the best agricultural exhibit shown at any Fair in the United States, and such an exhibit is a credit to our state and worth going miles to see. The implement section is even greater than that of last year, and a farmer contemplating the purchase of a piece of machinery will secure the best of satisfaction by comparing the different kinds of the same machine, all of which will be shown by experts, who can teach you the points of superiority.

NO. 1 A GEN. VIEW OF NEBRASKA NORMAL. WAYNE, NEB.

COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT

The Sixteenth Annual Graduating Exercises of the Wayne Normal.

Commencement exercises are over for 1907. The Normal has had 16 successful Commencements, each of which seems to have surpassed all previous ones. To say that this one was a decided success is putting it mildly, indeed. When President File plans a thing, you may know it goes systematically, promptly and successfully. Of course, every teacher does well the teacher's part and every on the program does the part only as training and thorough preparation can do. Ten different programs were given, two Sunday and two Alumni day. Each one was enjoyed by a full house and pronounced excellent.

FRIDAY EVENING, AUG. 2.

The annual contest of the Crescent and Philomathean literary societies always brings a crowd. However, as this came on the last night of the Chautauqua, the attendance was not as large as it would have been on some other evening. The chapel was filled and members of each society came to cheer for their side and to turn loose their yell on receiving judges decision. Each performer stepped out with the confidence of a victor and his best. Your editor presided and was as anxious for the judges decision as was the audience. The program opened with a splendidly played duet by the Jeffery sisters, Miss Evelyn and Miss Eleanor. They are as earnest in their music work as they are in the courses and their playing shows careful training and practice. Miss Robertson for the Crescents gave her essay which was strong in though with perfect logical arrangement and a strong delivery. She possesses good stage appearance and was loudly applauded on leaving the stage. Miss Jessie Beechel appeared with the encouragement of the loyal Philos to read her essay "Kindness vs. Criticism," she had thought out her points well and made a good impression. Both essays showed originality as well as research. The judges gave Miss Robertson the decision. The Philo oration by Wendel Nies was a strong production and showed that careful preparation which characterizes all the young man's work. His delivery showed much improvement and all said "good" as he closed. A giant thinker in the person of Water Power took the floor for the Crescents. His subject "Federal Power" was well handled and called forth many favorable comments even from the Philo band of enthusiasts. Decision of the judges was anxiously awaited and as Mr Power was called as winner, the crowd cheered with great satisfaction. Each side expected the decision for the recitation. Miss Snider represented the Crescents and Mr. Galbraith the Philos. Stage appearance of each was good. Both pieces were dramatic and rendition was of a high order. The judges favored Mr. Galbraith. Now comes the debate with Mr. Huckleberry up for Philos and Mr. Borg for Crescents. The first speaker carried the audience well and all leaned forward to catch the argument of each speaker. The subject was scarcely broad enough to give breadth to the discussion. It was a strong debate with the decision in favor of the Philos. The judges took several minutes to prepare the decision. The audience was entertained with a fine vocal solo by Mr. Reber and a beautiful piano solo by Miss De Groot. The Philos won by 4 per cent.

SATURDAY EVENING, AUGUST 3, OPERA HOUSE.

Miss Carroll with her elocution class gave a strong play "A Noble Sacrifice" to a good sized audience. The play was well put on and that can be said with emphasis in regard to everything Miss Carroll has done as the head of the Department of Elocution. She is a great worker and possesses much initiative. All played their part well. The music of the evening was fine.

CAST

Gen. Mark Lester, A hero of the Cuban ten year's war, E. D. Lundak Pedro Mendez, His half brother, Joseph Chicoine. Dr. Garcia, surgeon of the Madeleine Fay Abbott. Gilbert Hall, M. D., In love with Olive, Glen Peters. Robert Glenn, Wall street banker, Eugene J. Huckleberry. Gregory Grimes, Lester's private secretary, Gomer Jones. Ebenezer, Glenn's Butler, William Blackstone. Olive and Sally, Glenn's daughters, Margaret Carroll and Etta Marsh, Maris, wife of Pedro, Etta Conover. During the evening the following music was given. "Sing me to Sleep", Vocal Solo, E. Margarette Snyder. "Alpine Horn", Piano Solo, Milly Schultz. "A garden matinee", Piano Solo, Eleanor Jeffery. Vocal Solo, Wilbur L. Campbell.

The town people as well as College pronounced this the best play ever but on by the department for public Miss Carroll played her part to perfection and her acting showed natural ability as well as hard study. Mr. Lundak had the leading part of the male characters; every move of his seemed perfectly natural. To make the whole story short, the writer restates that each one played the part exceedingly well. The attendance was good; better than expected, as so many were tired out with 10-day Chautauqua attendance.

THE BACCALAUREATE SERVICES, SUNDAY, 3 P. M.

The people began to fill the Chapel by 2:30 and seats were nearly all occupied when Helen File began the grand march which signalled the entrance of the faculty who took places on the stage, followed by the 83 graduates who occupied seats on the right of the aisle. This was the first appearance of the classes as a body with cap and gowns. The following program was carried out:

Hymn, College Choir. Scripture Lesson, Rev. Ringer. Prayer, Rev. Smith. Hymn, 121, Chapel Hymnal. Announcements. "A Prayer for Faith", Vocal Solo, Ernest B. Reber. Sermon, Rev. Thos. Bithel, Norfolk. Hymn, 73, Chapel Hymnal. Benediction, Rev. Ringer. Not many of the students were personally acquainted with Rev. Bithel but all had heard former students and faculty speak highly of him as a man and preacher. All were wide awake for a thoughtful sermon and not one went away disappointed. The text was from Numbers 14, 24th verse, and the impressive lesson from it was logically and forcibly placed before the large audience.

His strong closing address to the graduates was such as never to be forgotten by them.

A beautiful service of the Christian Association was held at 8 o'clock Sunday evening. The associations have done a grand work this year with their Sunday afternoon meetings, the Bible classes and prayer meetings. A goodly number were present and enjoyed the program as follows: Hymn 161, Chapel Hymnal, Scripture Reading, Neal B. Mack. Invocation. "Palm Branches", Vocal Solo, Jessie Maud Beechel. Y. M. C. A., Ernest E. Reber, Y. M. C. A., Maggie Kvalshaug Music, College Choir. Address, Prof. E. P. Wilson. Hymn 38, Chapel Hymnal. Circle of Prayer. Association Hymn.

The address of Prof. Wilson was most practical and was so full of the very best suggestions that no one could be inattentive to a single word. The speaker always makes a fine talk but this was extra good and appropriate for the closing program of the association for the year. He appreciates the value of high character and recognizes the broad, fertile Christian life. The music for the day was well prepared and enjoyed. Rev. Bithel made an eloquent short address which cheered the membership. His sermon with this and a Tuesday morning chapel talk made him a friend of every student.

The Oration Contest on Monday evening for the "Tucker Prize" brot out nine orators from the class members. Each oration showed thoughtful preparation and good training in delivery. The book and magazine reading was very helpful in preparing for such a contest. No oration was narrow. The excellent drill from the literary societies was appreciated by the contestants. The program was given in the order following, with Hon. A. A. Welch, C. L. Culler and E. R. Lundburg as judges:

Nettie Fern Sears, President of Teachers' Class, Presiding officer. "Reveil du Lion", Piano Solo, Annie de Groot. Oration, Modern Idea of Missionaries, Amanuel Boshart. Oration, Child Labor, Joseph A. Chicoine. Oration, Educational Reform, A. N. Dugger. Oration, The New San Francisco, M. Eleanor Jeffery. "Rattle his bones over the stones," Vocal Solo, Wilbur L. Campbell. Oration, Temperance Reform, Elsie R. Robertson. Oration, A Coming World Peace, W. R. Schneider. Oration, The Immigration Problem, James J. Steele. Oration, Simplified Spelling, Matilda G. Sullivan. Oration, Money and Morals of Today Ardilla Van Conett. Piano Solo, Veda Pilger. Report of Judges.

The judges did not find the matter of picking a winner an easy task but after careful grading decided that Miss Van Conett was entitled to the honor. The decision met the general approval of those most interested. Space will not permit a synopsis of the orations but we assure our readers that nothing better was ever given by any N. N. C. class and that is saying ever so much.

A recitation contest when well prepared is always intertaining on account of variety. All the participants showed great self control and apparently each expected the prize. Not one showed mechanical preparation but a large grasp of the subject was observed in every one. They got into the selections and spoke with splendid effect. Miss Hansen who received a diploma from the music department played two fine selections and was given most hearty applause. She deserves special credit as her musical education has been obtained while she kept up her teaching. She is a painstaking worker who knows no failure. Those on the program as on the evening before were representatives from the different graduating classes.

The Mines Prize Recitation Contest.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 6, 8 p. m.

E. D. Lundak, President of the Scientific Class, Presiding Officer. Piano Solo, Amy R. Hansen. My First Recital, Fay E. Abbott. Death Bed of Benedict Arnold, W. C. Altig. Sparticus to the Gladiators at Capua Etta Conover. Piano Solo, Amy R. Hansen. The Soul of the Violin, Anna de Groot. The Gladiator, F. W. Suverkrubbe. Scene from the last days of Pompeii, Lois Willisie. The Gypsy Flower Girl, Lea Wolverton. Good By, Vocal Solo, E. Margarette Snyder. Report of Judges.

No one was enough better than the others to risk a decided guess as to the winner. Perfect quiet reigned throughout the room, the hall and office as the presiding officer rose to read the judges' findings. Hearty congratulations were extended to the successful one, in the person of Miss Etta Conover. Many compliments from visitors were heard as to preparation of the school to produce such a successful contest.

Some one had nick named the following program the "Gladiators' Contest" and such it proved to be. The eight class members on this program were as strong as could be selected and every student expected two great debates and no one was disappointed. The breadth of discussion showed wide reading on the subjects. The perfect team work added to the success of the debate.

The Craven Prize Debate Contest.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 7, 8 p. m.

Arthur E. Anderson, President of Certificate Class, Presiding officer. "Die Lillie Des Thales," Piano Solo, Mabel Bruner. Debate: "Resolved, That the U. S. should retain the Philippine Islands permanently. Affirmative, W. F. Richardson, Flora Maud Grothe. Negative, Wm. Scholten, R. V. Lienhart. Vocal Solo, Jessie Maud Reechel. Debate, "Resolved that the United States army and navy should be increased. Affirmative, E. D. Lundak, Irene A. Lemon. Negative, Wilbur L. Campbell, Wm. H. Blackstone. "Silver Thistle", Piano Solo, Evelyn Jeffrey. Report of judges. When umpire Anderson called time, Richardson appeared at bat. He got a passed ball, a high fly and while firm muscle got a hold and while perspiration coupled with determination shown on the brow, a fair strike which looked to observers like a home run followed. Scholten arose and tried to prove that first man was entitled to no credit as he cut bases. He declared the referees must so conclude and he thus got a pass to first base; second was reached with some good work and when he reached home plate, said "I have done it." This game required a woman at bat and mighty well did she prove her place in the game. Two passed balls, two flies near foul line and then a three bagger with a home steal. We all cried out "Good for the woman, she is all right." Leinhardt, the short str came to bat with a smile and said watch me do it with my little stick. One strike, strikes and then the ball went aw, into the field and the runner reached home and no coacher in sight. Richardson again appears and firmly asks that game be awarded to him and his lady partner, declaring that other team jumped the bases and only touched a few high places in going the round.

The second team appeared with Mr. Lundak, the famous catcher and military leader, up. He is a hard batter in debate as well as on the ball ground or as prize winner at the head of the Scientific class. A mighty stroke won a home run amid great applause. Campbell with his magnificent base voice tried hard to convince his audience that he and his partner would get the best of the inning and showed up strong at each base. Miss Lemmon with a splendid self control and appearance appeared to claim her half with first speaker and not for a moment did she hesitate to play strong ball. The umpire smiled and the crowd said she will win. Blackstone, of judicial appearance as well as name, steps up with firmness and confidence to prove other side ran outside of lines and cut third base. His plea was good. Lundak again comes to bat with that confident smile as if to say watch me win the game. Strike one and he was off. Mr. Umpire called time. Referees retired and soon returned with their decision which crowned Mr. Lundak and Miss Lemmon as winners on a tie. Everybody shook hands with himself and every other body. We all went home and said such is war of intellectual giants.

The Rights of the Motor Car.

"When an automobile driver 'honks' at you to get out of his way while you are walking on a street crossing, you ought to have a gun with you to shoot a hole in his tires if he refuses to give you the right of way."—Democrat.

The above item exemplifies the saying that some men are never happy except when finding fault with others. The writer had no idea that any one would follow his fool advice, but it makes one 'tired' to have some people continually criticizing automobilists, simply because they do not have a motor car of their own.

A few smart fellows near Chicago some time ago, tried the experiment of shooting holes in pneumatic tires, but after they had paid their fines in police court, realized that it was a costly experiment.

A motor car has the same right of way on streets that other vehicles and pedestrians have. The law requires the driver to 'honk' his horn to warn persons on the street. While he is expected to use care to avoid running into any one, pedestrians and drivers are also required to use caution to avoid the car.

No one with common sense would expect a motor car or team to stop at every crossing to allow people to pass, and it would not be advisable for any one to try the experiment of shooting at tires, or of deliberately stepping in front of a motor car to see whether it would stop or not.

If you are going to attend the State Fair and have no room in which to sleep just write Secretary Whitten of the Commercial Club, Lincoln, and he will secure you a nice room for Fair week—September 2-6. A list of 3,000 rooms besides the natural hotel facilities will be secured, so there will be plenty of sleeping rooms for everyone.

BOWSER'S NEW KODAK

He Does Not Score Much of a Success With It.

GOES OUT AFTER SUBJECTS.

Encounters Three, Who Prove to Be Belligerent—His New Fad Attended With Difficulties, and He Finally Has It Out With Mrs. B.

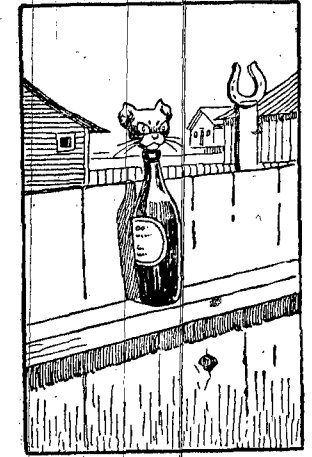

(Copyright, 1907, by Homer Sprague.)

When Mr. Bowser came home a few evenings since with a bulging package under his arm and a glad smile on his face, Mrs. Bowser, of course, had a natural curiosity to know what he had purchased. He would not give her any satisfaction about it until after dinner, and then he asked:

"My dear, has it ever struck you that I had the instincts of an artist about me?"

"No, I can't say that it has," she honestly answered.

"That's because your mind has been on bargain sales. If there is a sale of women's forty-cent stockings at 25 cents a pair, you never fail to observe the advertisement."

A CAT'S HEAD WHERE THE CORK OUGHT TO BE.

"Do you think you have the instincts spoken of?"

"Think! I know I have. I have known it for years. One can't deceive himself about such things. There isn't the slightest question in my mind but that I was born for a great artist."

"Was that why you were going to paint the front fence blue and the gate red this spring?"

Could Not Understand Him.

Mr. Bowser was walking around the sitting room with his hands crossed behind his back. At the words his face got red, and he stopped short and gave Mrs. Bowser a look that would have swept all the towels off the clothes-line on a wash day and followed it by saying:

"How could I expect that a mind like yours could understand one like mine? You can sit down to a dish of pork and beans and yum-yum over it, but you'd stand by a hollyhock the whole afternoon and never think it was any different from a cornstalk."

"Well, dear, let's not dispute," replied Mrs. Bowser after a moment. "You have said that your grandfather was an artist, and perhaps his mantle has fallen on your shoulders. Are you going to try to paint a landscape?"

"It took Mr. Bowser five minutes to get over his injury, and he was still sulky over it when he said:

"No, I'm not, but I've bought a kodak and propose to take a few pictures this summer. Any objections to that? Got any more sneers ready?"

"None whatever. I think it a good thing, and I believe you will make a success of it. I will learn how to operate it, and when you are at the office I—"

"Not much you won't. It's something not to be fooled with. You'd use it just as you would a coal hod. I shall do the artist work for this family."

Unwrapped a Camera.

He cut the strings of the package and unwrapped a fine kodak and explained that he had paid only $40 for it because he had once served on a coroner's jury with the man who sold it. It would have been $50 to any one else.

"Wouldn't one for $5 have done just as well?" queried Mrs. Bowser after looking the instrument over. "I mean wouldn't it have been just as well to get a cheap one until you were sure about the artistic instincts?"

"Not by a darned sight! A cheap kodak may do for a scrub person, but I want the best. So you still doubt the instincts? You hear me, Mrs. Bowser, when I tell you that there is more of the born artist in my little finger than there is in all your relations for ten generations back. Enough, however. I am now going out into the back yard to take a few flashlight pictures. You and the cook can hold one of your hearts to heart talks and wonder if I'm not crazy."

Mr. Bowser had taken the picture of a cat walking on the fence when the neighbors got on to him. The fathers and mothers stopped at curiosity, but the boys went further. They rained bottles and cans into the Bowser yard, and one missile struck the kodaker on the head and drove him inside the house. In the kitchen he tried to get the cook to pose for a "study" he was going to call "Industry," but she flew the coop at once.

Cook Took No Chances.

"It may be a kodak or it may be an internal machine," she protested, "and I'm not going to take any chances. I had an aunt who posed in front of one of those things once, and all of a sudden there was a fizz-bang, and all they found of her was one rib and a scream of terror."

When Mr. Bowser passed through the house Mrs. Bowser asked where he was going. He replied that he would take a little wander around the streets to catch some character studies. He did not have to go far to find them. On the corner two blocks down stood three old tramps waiting to strike some pedestrian for lodgings money. They represented one of the types he was after. Before he had reached them he had decided to label their pictures "Ambition," "Perseverance" and "Integrity," respectively.

"Boys," he began, "I'm an artist, and this is a kodak. Have you any objections to my taking a flashlight picture of the group?"

"If you will come down $2 apiece all around," answered Ambition.

"Nonsense! You ought to be proud to be taken for nothing."

"Oh, we had, and the police wanting us! It's $2 or nothing."

"Then you'll get together, and if I can put the police on I'll do it."

That was an unfortunate remark for Mr. Bowser. One of the three grabbed his hat, another gave him a cuff, and the third made a grab and just missed his nose as they ran away. Mr. Bowser looked around for a statue of Liberty to tear down; but, not finding any handy, he cooled off after a time and went his bareheaded way. He had thought to return home after another headpiece, but he suddenly remembered that great artists always went around the streets bareheaded and thus got a name for eccentricity. Three blocks farther along he came upon a short, squat woman carrying a bundle of kindlings on her shoulder and talking to herself about the high price of diamonds. She was the type he wanted for "Hope On, Hope Ever," and he accosted her with:

"Madam, can I speak with you a moment?"

"Can you speak with me?" she repeated as she stood and looked at him.

"You can, sir, but let me tell you that if you utter one single word that an unborn babe oughtn't to hear I'll be the death of you. I'm a lone woman, sir. I'm a lone woman."

"Yes, yes, but all I want is to take a picture of you. I'm an artist, you know."

"I know nothing of the kind. You may have come from the zoo for all I know. A picture of me! Never! No true lady will allow a man to take her picture and be showing it around in saloons. Sir, you pass on!"

Rebuffed by a Woman.

"But, ma'am, you misapprehend the situation. I am making some studies from life. I am taking pictures of cats, dogs, tramps and—"

"And I'm to go along with cats and dogs and tramps, am I? Sir, you are a villain! If I was a man, sir, I'd proceed to mop you all over the street for insulting a lady who is carrying home a bundle of kindlings to her starving family. Take that, you old baldhead!"

And she gave Mr. Bowser a tremendous kick on the knee and turned her back on him to pursue her way. He arrived home in a limping condition, and when asked to explain he said that he had fallen over a barrel of sand on the sidewalk. His wife didn't press the matter, and the next morning he took his only proof down to a photographer to be developed. The proof came back by mail a day later. Mrs. Bowser opened the letter and looked at it and then saved it to hand to him when he came home. The proof showed a beer bottle sitting on the fence, with a cat's head where the cork ought to be.

"Woman, what does this mean?" demanded Mr. Bowser as he turned pale and his chin trembled.

"It's the flashlight picture you took the other night."

"Never! Never in all this world!"

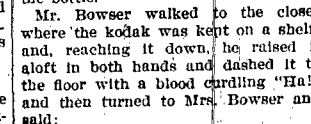

"But here is the letter from the developer saying that the thing is unique and asking if the rest of the cat is in the bottle."

Mr. Bowser walked to the closet where the kodak was kept on a shelf, and, reaching it down, he raised it aloft in both hands and dashed it to the floor with a blood curdling "Ha!" and then turned to Mrs. Bowser and said:

"It is early in the evening yet. We can telephone to our respective lawyers to come over, and we can doubtless arrange about the divorce and alimony so that you can leave for your mother's on the first train in the morning. This is too, too much. You have reached the dead line at last."

WHAT TRAIN DO YOU TAKE?

In Wiring Give Its Number, Name of Road and Time of Arrival.

When you telegraph a friend the next time you are going to visit him and that you'd be delighted to have him meet you at the train the next day, for heaven's sake telegraph him intelligently.

If the money, irritations, and disappointments of the year were aggregated for the United States in hopelessly unintelligible telegrams of this kind, the average political economist would have a fit. When the average person in the small city or town decides on the jump to go to see a friend in the city and decides to telegraph that friend what train to meet, he becomes an unconscious imbecile.

Will leave for Chicago tonight on 8:30 train. Meet me.

This is the text of a ten word message which I received the other night from a friend in an Ohio city. He had started for Chicago before the telegram was received by me, and while I wanted immensely to meet him at the station instead of making the least effort to do so I took it out in swearing.

In sending a telegram announcing an arrival the name of the road and the train number are the two absolute essentials. It will be a help to the recipient of the message in most cases if the time of the arrival of the train be given also. Frequently, as between the two stations involved in such a message, a difference of one hour in standard time otherwise might confuse. But as between the number of the train and the numerals in the hour of arrival the telegrapher has a chance of error, and in writing the message these two sets of numerals should be separated by the name of the road. Taking the ten word message as the standard of length, then, any person going anywhere from any station on any railroad may use the one set form of telegraphic announcement of arrival:

Arrive No. 5, Lake Shore, due 8 o'clock Monday morning.

Ordinarily no possible further information is necessary in the greatest railway center in America. The train number is unchangeable on its own system. Any railway employee anywhere will identify the train in a moment. If the recipient of the telegram wishes to know whether the train is on time before he starts to the station, he can learn in a moment over the telephone by asking about No. 5, and in the query he will have the reader responsible for the reason that his informant will be grateful for the inquirer's succinct knowledge of train operations. —H. W. Field in Chicago Tribune.

A PAPER OF PINS.

Pins were introduced in the sixteenth century.

Then they were costly and highly prized as gifts.

A paper of pins was more acceptable than a bouquet.

An act was passed in 1543 making it illegal to charge more than eightpence a thousand for metal pins.

Persons of quality often used pins made of boxwood, bone and silver, while the poor put up with wooden skewers.

In those day husbands were often surprised at the great amount of money that went for pins; hence the term "pin money."

Not so many years ago the frugal American housewife was wont to teach pin economy by teaching her children that canny couplet, "See a pin and pick it up, all the day you'll have good luck."—Philadelphia Record.

The Indirect Method.

Homemade ice cream was a regular item on the bill of fare at Willie's house, and while he liked the cream he drew the line at turning the freezer. One day when his mother returned home she was agreeably surprised to find him working at the crank as if his life depended on it.

"I don't see how you got him to turn the ice cream freezer," she said to her husband. "I offered him a dime to do it, and he just laughed at me."

"You didn't go about it the right way, my dear," replied her husband. "I bet him a nickel he couldn't turn it for half an hour."—Harper's Weekly.

A Dog's Jealousy.

Dana is a huge St. Bernard who has his own ideas as to his importance. Whenever he wishes to attract attention he knocks his water pail over and then rolls it around, growling at it and making a great fuss. Then he puts his head in and throws the pail high in the air, batting at it with his paws as it comes down. If this does not have the desired effect he picks up the pail by the handle and takes it into the barn, where the noise is increased by far owing to the wooden floor. This performance is given whenever the horse is petted or when strangers come to the house.—Chicago Tribune.

Greenwich Observatory.

In the year 1675 King Charles II. of England founded the royal observatory at Greenwich in order that astronomical observations might be made for the assistance of sailors. The history of the observatory has been the history of chronology and of this practical side of astronomy. Its work and its standards have become distinctly international. The meridian of Greenwich now determines the longitude of the world.—Exchange.

Enrollment and Registration The enrollment fee will be one dollar. Enrollment and registrations will begin at the office Friday, August 23 and continue until the opening of the session. There is nothing like a fair association dividing its profits with its patrons. Therein lies the success of the Interstate Live Stock Association of Sioux City. This year the men who are at the head of this "largest independent fair in the world" as the eastern horse papers describe it, are spending more money for attractions of every kind than the majority of state fairs do. The stellar attraction to many people, no doubt, will be Horace Wild, the world-famed aeronaut, who will make daily flights in his air ship, the "Eagle". The free vaudeville attractions will be a show in themselves. In these will be the great "thriller" of the year, "Leaping the Death Gap Flumes."

Harmful Stomach Dosing. The best physicians believe that the less medicine one swallows the better. Do not try to cure catarrh of the head by dosing the stomach; this is neither common-sense nor scientific. Raymond has seen so many cures of catarrh made by Hyomei, some of them chronic and complicated cases, that he gives an absolute guarantee of cure or money will be refunded with every outfit he sells. The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00. The question as to whether teaching is a profession or a preparatory school for matrimony seems still to be unsettled.
