The party of Wayne automobilists with Wm McCabe at the helm met with all kinds of grief in their trip to Norfolk. The machine broke down before the got there and they only heard a part of the speech. Before reaching Hoskins, on the return trip, they got stuck in the sand but finally reached town. The next morning they all took the train for home leaving poor "Barney" and the auto behind for repairs. This sport of running an auto is a life something like we read about.—Hoskins Headlight.

W. F. Schwerin of Belden was here one day last week and the Herald enjoyed a pleasant visit from him. We have known the gentlemen for several years and don't know where the republicans of Cedar and Pierce counties could find a better man to send to the state legislature and they are going to make a big effort to elect Mr. Schwerin. As a member of the Board of county commissioners of Cedar county, Mr. Schwerin demonstrated that he is a man of substantial qualities—a painstaking careful official and a man of good judgement. Here's hoping his name is on the membership roll of the next legislature.

The second annual chautauqua assembly at Wayne was closed last Thursday. It was successful in every way. The attendance was very large. On the evening of July 28th a special train was run from Bloomfield to Wayne in order to accommodate those who desired to attend the chautauqua and be present at one of the entertainments of Packard, the great cartoonist. Among the distinguished men of the country who took part in the program are Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, Superintendent of the International Reform Bureau; Gov. Hanley of Indiana; Bishop Bristol of Washington and Dr. Waters of Brooklyn. The chautauqua association closes its year rejoicing in the success of the enterprise. The people of northeast Nebraska may look forward to the building up at Wayne of one of the best chautauquas in the country. Dixon Journal.

A Kansas farmer who hanged himself last week pinned the following "notice" to his coat tail: "For forty years I have been raising more corn to feed more hogs to get more money to buy more land until I now own more land than one man ought to own, so I quit the job. I am not crazy, but just tired of life and want rest and peace and sleep."

A poultry item by Walt Mason in the Emporia Gazette: "I like to watch the old fool hen that's tied beside my door; she has of little chickens ten, and thinks she has three score; of all the blamed important things that ever fussed around she is the worst; all day she sings, and claws the dirt around. She thinks she has the only chicks and so she clucks and humps; all other chickens are gold bricks, all other hens are chumps. She sees a foe in everyone and drives the friend away; her feathers always are on end, she's mad the livelong day. And so I watch the old fool hen; and still she seems to me, like many chuckle-head men, whom every day I see. This life to them's not worth a cuss, no pleasure it affords, because they fume and fret and fuss about their little hoards. With bile and envy in their souls, pursue their narrow plan, and ever guard their dirty rolls and hate their fellowman."

S. E. Aufer, who filed as a primary candidate for the republican nomination of the Seventeenth district, today withdrew from the race and has pledged his support to John R. Morris of Carroll, thus giving a clear field to Mr. Morris. Wayne county is proud to present the name of such a strong man as Mr. Morris, who is a pioneer of Wayne county and a successful farmer and stockman. He will command a large vote in both Wayne and Stanton counties and on account of wide acquaintance and known ability will have the undivided support of his party and will be a formidable candidate.—Carroll Cor. Norfolk News.

Winside, according to the Tribune is all "het up" over the action of State Supt. McBrien in refusing to issue a certificate to Prof. V. W. DeBolt whom the school board had elected as superintendent of the Winside schools. The professor had all kinds of endorsements but it seems the state superintendent did not think he had the necessary qualifications.

INJURY RESULTS FATALLY

John Ahern Did Not Regain Consciousness From Kick of a Colt

John Ahern, of near Carroll, died Thursday evening as the result of being kicked by a colt the day previous. Death was caused by a rupture at the base of the brain. Speaking of the sad incident, the Carroll Index says: About ten o'clock Wednesday Mr. John Ahern went to the barn to hitch up a rig to come to town in. There was a couple of horses running loose in the barn yard. They were romping around as horses will. It seems, from the story of a little boy, who was the only one that saw what happened, that as Mr. Ahern passed one of the horses it kicked viciously with both feet at the other horse, but the brute missed its aim and Mr. Ahern was struck by both of the flying hoofs. One struck him on the right forearm, breaking it and the other struck him on the right side of the lower jaw, near the chin. It was this last that did the damage and may cause death. The jaw was badly fractured but the most severe and dangerous injury is the severe concussion of the brain that was caused by the kick on the jaw. From the injury Mr. Ahern has been unconscious, and at times he has sunk so low that it seemed impossible for him to rally.

The funeral was held at Wayne on Monday morning at the Catholic church conducted by Father Kern and was largely attended by his old friends and neighbors. Mr. Ahern was highly respected by all who have known him in the many years he has resided in Wayne county.

Miss Olds has the school in the district near home so it will be very pleasant for her as she can board at home. The Tribune did not learn where the other two girls would teach.

A correspondent from Pierce to the Sioux City Journal says: "The article in the Norfolk saying that the republicans of Pierce county will yield to the wishes of the republicans of Stanton county and the majority of them vote for R. Y. Appleby for state senator, is a statement without any foundation. The friends of Senator Randall have issued the following statement: "Both Appleby and Senator Randall, of Newman Grove, are good men. Randall has the advantage of being in the senate one term. He has made an excellent record. In county affairs it has always been the practice in Pierce county to give an official who has made a good record a second term and it isn't unreasonable to suppose that the republicans of Pierce county will take the same view when they come to vote for the office of state senator." Mr. Randall has many friends in Pierce county who know his record in the state senate and they are doing some missionary work for him."

How to Keep Water Cold.
Having tried it, I recommend the following mode of keeping ice water for a long time a common pitcher," says a writer in Woman's Home Companion. "Place between two sheets of thick brown paper a layer of cotton batting about half an inch in thickness; fasten the ends of the paper and batting together, forming a circle, then sew or paste a cover over one end, making a box the shape of a stovepipe but minus the chimney. Place this over an ordinary pitcher filled with ice water, making it deep enough to rest on the table so as to exclude the air, and you will be astonished to see the length of time that the ice will keep, and the water remain cold after all the ice has melted."

MEMO OF OLD LOUISBURG.

There is a story that Peppercell's Men brought from Stronghold. In a closet in the library at Harvard College is stored one of the few existing relics of the campaign of Sir William Peppercell and his New Englanders against the French stronghold of Louisbourg in the year 1745.

The relic is a iron cross that is believed to have been a church in Louisbourg. How it came into the possession of Harvard is not known at this time, as no authentic has ever taken the trouble to ascertain, to establish its history, since it became a college possession.

About thirty years ago John L. Sibley, then librarian at Harvard, found the cross in a lot of discarded articles stored in one of the smaller buildings on the college grounds. It was marked with a tag, on which was written the statement that the cross was brought from Louisbourg by one of Peppercell's soldiers. Mr. Sibley attempted to trace the history of the relic in order to discover under what circumstances, and by whom, it was presented to the college, but so far as his successor knows, he made no headway in his quest.

In 1841, shortly after its discovery by Mr. Sibley, the cross was stored in a small building that stood back of the Charles River National Bank, near the college. The building was burned in 1845, and the cross was found in its ashes, undamaged except for slight itching caused by the heat.

Taken in hand by Justin Winsor, then librarian, the cross was given a heavy coat of gilding, such as it had borne originally, and was fixed to the east wall of Gore Hall, in the library building. Here it remained for many years, until alterations made its removal from the wall necessary.

It was next stored in the cellar of the library, remaining there until the early '80s, when it was firmly fixed in the stone peak of the gable over the entrance to the library. Here it remained an object of interest to all who saw it, and heard of its origin until October, 1895, when some mischievous person broke it off near the base and carried it away.

No trace of the thief was obtained, and hope of securing the return of the relic was given up, when, in the night of Jan. 7, 1897, the cross was returned to the roof of the library portico and placed at the base of the gable, probably by the person who took it away.—Boston Globe.

ALMOST A SHADOW.
There is a wonderful difference between a food which merely tastes good and one which builds up strength and good healthy flesh.
It makes no difference how much we eat unless we can digest it! It is not really food to the system until it is absorbed. A Yorkshire woman says: "I had been a sufferer for ten years with stomach and liver trouble, and had got so bad that the least bit of food such as I then knew, would give me untold misery for hours after eating."
"I lost flesh until I was almost a shadow of my original self and my friends were quite alarmed about me."
"I had dropped coffee and used Postum, then began to use Grape-Nuts, although I had little faith it would do me any good."
"But I continued to use the food and have gained twenty pounds in weight and I feel like another person in every way. I feel as if I had truly begun anew for me."
"I can eat anything I like now in moderation, suffer no ill effects, be on my feet from morning until night, whereas a year ago they had to send me away from home for rest while others cleaned house for me, this spring I have been able to do it myself all alone."
"My breakfast is simply Grape-Nuts with cream and a cup of Postum, but sometimes an egg and a piece of toast, but generally only Grape-Nuts and Postum. And I can work until noon and not feel as tired as one hour work would have made me a year ago."
"There's a Reason!"

STRONG AND STEADY

By HORATIO ALGER, JR.

CHAPTER XVII.—(Continued.)

It began to produce the book in its brown paper covering.
"I don't know what I might give you twenty-five cents more. Come, now, I'll give you two dollars and a quarter."
"I can't take it," said Walter, shortly.
"Three dollars," said Walter, shortly.
"I will not take a cent less."

"You would not take a cent less," reported the man, standing the door in displeasure.
Walter had a sudden idea. He went to the water and poured it on his vest. "I wonder if a shirt next many people like here?" he thought, and he felt some what doubtful.

Walter began to think that getting books would prove a harder and more disagreeable business than he had anticipated. He had been brought face to face with unscrupulous and scheming men, and they had done it with all the subtlety and guile that a man could bring to bear.

He walked slowly up the street, wondering if he should not visit more such customers. On the opposite side of the street he noticed a small shoemaker's shop.

"I suppose it is of no use to go in there," thought Walter. "If they won't buy at a big house, there isn't much chance here."
Still he thought he would go in. He had always a soft spot on his hands, and when he saw a man who looked like a shoemaker, he could not resist the temptation.

He found himself in a shop about twenty-five feet square, fitted up with leather stoves and firebricks, and unshined shoes. A boy of fourteen was peering, and his father, a man of middle age was busily at a shoe.

"Good-morning," said Walter.
"Good-morning," said the shoemaker, turning round. "Do you want a pair of shoes this morning?"
"No, thank you," said Walter. "I don't come to buy, but to sell."
"Well, what have you got to sell?"
"A subscription book, finely illustrated."

"Let me look at it."
He wiped his hands on his apron, and taking the book, began to turn over the leaves.
"It seems like a good book," he said.
"Does it sell well?"
"Yes, it sells largely. I have only just commenced to sell, but other agents are doing well."

"That's the way to talk. How much do you expect to get for this book?"
"The price is three dollars and a half. It's a pretty high price."
"But there are a good many pictures. These are what cost money."
"Yes, I suppose they do. Well, I've a great mind to take one."
"I don't think you'll regret it. A good book will give you pleasure for a long time."

"That's so. Well, here's the money."
Walter said all the more pleased at effecting this sale, because it was unexpected. He had expected to sell a book at the great house he had just called at, but thought that the price of the book might deter the shoemaker, whose income probably was not large.

During the next hour Walter failed to sell another copy. At length he managed to sell a second. As these were all he had brought with him, and he went back to the tavern and did not come out again till after dinner.

CHAPTER XVIII.
Walter found a good dinner ready for him at 12 o'clock, which he enjoyed the more because he felt that he had earned it in advance. He waited till about 2 o'clock, and again set out, this time in a different direction. In some places he was received politely; in others he was treated as a humbug. But Walter was by this time getting accustomed to his position, and found that he must meet the disagreeable people with as good humor as he could command. One farmer was willing to take the book if he would accept pay in apples; but this offer he did not for a moment entertain, judging that he would find it difficult to carry about the apples, and probably difficult to dispose of them. However, he managed to sell two copies, though he had to call at twenty places to do it. Nevertheless, he felt well repaid by the degree of success he met with.

"Five books sold to-day!" thought Walter, complacently, as he started on his walk home. "That gives me six dollars and a quarter profit. I wish I could keep that up."
But our young merchant found that he was not likely to keep up such sales. The next day he sold but two copies, and the day succeeding three. Still, for three days and a half the aggregate sale was eleven copies, making a clear profit of thirteen dollars and seventy-five cents. At the end of the week he had sold twenty copies; but to make up this number he had been obliged to visit one or two neighboring villages.

He now prepared to move on. The next place to which he proposed to stop for a few days he will call Bolton. He had already written to Cleveland for a fresh supply of books, and he was yet to him there. He had but two books left, and his baggage, being contained in a small valise, he decided to walk the distance, partly out of economy, but principally because it would enable him to see the country at his leisure. During the first five miles he succeeded in selling two books, which he carried him only a few miles.

Walter was strong and stout, and enjoyed his walk. There was a freshness and novelty about his present mode of life, which he liked. He did not imagine he should like to be a book agent all his life, but for a time he found it quite agreeable.

He stopped under the shade of a large elm and ate the lunch which he had brought with him from the inn. The sandwiches and apples were good, and, with the addition of some water from a stream near by, made a very acceptable lunch. When he resumed his walk after resting a couple of hours, the weather had changed. In the morning it was bright sunshine. Now the clouds had gathered, and a storm seemed imminent. The rain matters were. Walter had managed to stray from the road. He found himself walking in a narrow lane, lined on either side by thick woods. Soon the rain came pattering down, at first in small drops, but quickly poured down in a drenching shower. Walter took refuge in the woods, congratulating himself that he had sold the books, which otherwise would have run the risk of being spoiled.

"I wish there were some house nearby in which I could rest," thought Walter. The prospect of being benighted in the woods in such weather was far from pleasant.

Looking around anxiously, he espied a small hut, which he followed, and he had hardly entered it, that it might lead to some place of refuge. To his great surprise he entered after a few minutes into a small clearing, perhaps half an acre in extent, in the middle of which was a rough cabin. It was a strange place for a house, but, rude as it was, Walter hailed its appearance with joy. At all events it promised protection from the weather, and the people who occupied it would doubtless be willing to give him, for pay, of course, supper and lodging. First of all, the accommodations would not be first class, but, our hero was prepared to take what he could get, and be thankful for it. Accordingly he advanced fearlessly and pounded on the door with his fist, as there was neither bell nor knocker.

The door not being opened immediately, he pounded again. This time a not particularly musical voice was heard from within.

"Is that you, Jack?"
"No," answered Walter, "I am Jack."
"That's not the name of the man who lives at a big house, and my apprehension that he might have been left by the person within was dispelled. Walter heard a bolt withdrawn, and the door opening revealed him in a manner which could not be considered very friendly or cordial.

"Who are you?" she demanded abruptly, keeping the door partly closed.
"I am a book agent," said Walter.
"Do you expect to sell any books here?" asked the woman, with grim humor.
"No," said Walter, "but I have been engaged in the storm, and lost my way. Can I stop here over night if the storm should hold on?"
"This isn't a tavern," said the woman, ungraciously.
"No, I suppose not," said Walter, "but it will be a favor to me if you will take me in, and I will pay you whatever you think right. I suppose there is no tavern nearby."

He had hoped there might be, for he had already made up his mind that this would not be a very agreeable place to stop.
"There's one five miles off," said the woman.
"That's too far to go in such weather, if you'll let me stay here, I will pay you whatever you ask in advance."
"Humph!" said the woman, doubtfully. "I don't know how Jack will like it."

As Walter could know nothing of the sentiments of the Jack referred to, he remained silent, and waited for the woman to make up her mind, believing that she would decide in his favor. He proved to be right.

"Well," she said, half unwillingly, "I don't know but I'll take you in, though it isn't my custom to accommodate travelers."
"I will try not to give you much trouble," said Walter, relieved to find that he was sure of food and shelter.
"Humph!" responded the woman.
She led the way into the building, which appeared to contain two rooms on the first floor, and probably the same number of chambers above. There was no entry, but the door opened at once into the kitchen.

"Come up to the fire if you're wet," said the woman.
The invitation was hospitable, but the manner was not. However, Walter was glad to accept the invitation, without thinking too much of the manner in which it was expressed, for his clothes were pretty well saturated by the rain. There was no stove, but an old brick fireplace, on which two stout logs were burning. There was one convenience, at least, about living in the woods—fuel was abundant, and required nothing but the labor of cutting it.

"I think I'll take off my shoes," said Walter.
"You can if you want to," said his grim hostess.
He extended his wet feet toward the fire, and felt a sense of comfort stealing over him. He could hear the rain falling furiously against the sides of the cabin, and felt glad that he was not compelled to stand the brunt of the storm.

He looked around him guardedly, not wishing to let his hostess see that he could do without her, except for a couple of days. Walter had before this visited the dwellings of the poor, but he had never seen a home so poorly provided with what are generally regarded as the necessities of life.

"I wonder what Lem would say if he should see me now," thought Walter, his thoughts going back to the Essex Classical Institute, and the friend whose studies he shared. They seemed far away, those days of careless happiness, when as yet the burdens of life were unfeared and scarcely even dreamed of. Did Walter sigh for their return? I think not, except on one account. His father was then alive, and he would have given years of his own life to recall that loved parent who had gone to the present, at least, to give up his business career, humble though it was, and go back to his studies. He enjoyed the novelty of his position. He enjoyed even his present adventure, in spite of the discomforts that attended it, and there was something exciting in looking about him, and realizing that he was a guest in a rough cabin in the midst of the woods, a thousand miles away from home.

Guarded as he had been in looking around him, it did not escape without observation.

"Well, young man, this is a poor place, isn't it?" asked the woman, moodily.
"I don't know," said Walter, wishing to be polite.
"What do you think, Mr. Walter?" said the woman. "Well, you're not obliged to stay, if you don't want to."
"But I do want to, and I am very much obliged to you for condescending to take me," said Walter, hastily.
"You said you would pay in advance," said the woman.

"So I will," said Walter, taking out his pocketbook, "if you will tell me how much I am to pay."
"You may give me a dollar," said the woman.

Walter drew out a roll of bills, and finding a one-dollar note, handed it to the woman.
She took it, glancing covetously at the remaining money which he replaced in his pocketbook. Walter noticed the glance, and though he was not inclined to be suspicious, it gave him a vague feeling of anxiety.

KING HARNESSSED A HORSE

Meanwhile, His Own Sat Day. Watching the monarch's work. Much-travelled people will testify that the most staid people in the world are found in Mecklenburg, Germany, says the Kansas City Star. Natives of that district are said to be even more dense than the inhabitants of the county of Wiltshire, England, and that is saying a good deal. The inhabitants of both of these places will admit the impetuosity, but they do not call it stupidity; they have another name for it. They have excited it into a virtue and call it "imperturbability." In the United States, if a country yoked didn't know the way to a town fifteen miles away, he would be accounted a fool. But in Mecklenburg the peasant one meets on the highway doesn't know, has never been there and never wants to go. That is imperturbability.

It is a mistake, however, to think that the country dullard never scores, as the king of Wurtemberg has discovered. Recently that royal individual went to shoot with the Grand Duke Adolphus of Mecklenburg. Accompanied by the grand duke's eldest son they drove in a luxurious motor car to the famous deer park at Neustrelitz. On the way they came upon a country (ill-cut) drawn at a snail's pace along the narrow road by a white horse. Perched on the seat were a peasant and his good wife. The chauffeur blew his horn and much to the royal party's surprise the horse began to prance briskly.

As the peasant made no attempt to pull the horse and cart out of the road the chauffeur repeated the "honk, honk." The horse reared and jumped about, but strange to say the peasant and his wife sat stolidly on the seat without any signs of excitement. Finally the horse flopped over on its side and lay quite still.

Immediately out jumped the king, the grand duke and the son of the grand duke and came running up to the fallen horse. The grand duke made a dive at the horse's head, his son grabbed the bridle and the king narrowly escaped serious injury in unfeelingly tracing the way the horse's hind legs were working like flails. All this while the peasant and his good wife sat calmly on their seat and watched the royal trio perpire at their self-imposed task. Finally after a great deal of pulling and coaxing the white horse succumbed to its feet and patiently submitted to being harnesssed by the three pairs of hands which probably never before had done such humble work. When everything was in order again, the grand duke handed the peasant a piece of money.

"There, there, my good man," he said, "it's all right this time, anyhow. Now you can tell your cronies that the grand duke and his son picked up your horse, and the king of Wurtemberg helped them."

A Fabulously Rich Nation.
The United States is a fabulously rich nation. The money in circulation amounts to $2,250,000,000 and the Federal treasury to $345,246,500. The value of domestic merchandise exported is $1,823,718,000, and that of all manufactures $14,802,147,000. The farm wealth of the country produced in 1907 is in round figures $7,412,000,000; the added mineral wealth for the year is $3,900,000,000. It has been pointed out with truth during the October "panic" that the national prosperity is not based on Wall street and its workings, but more deeply on the country's vast agricultural production. If this is the case—and it surely is—an inventory of the various crops reveals figures to comfort and cheer. That he who reads may learn, the values of the various farming industries are presented herewith: Wheat, $500,000,000; cotton, $975,000,000; corn, $1,350,000,000; hay, $900,000,000; poultry and eggs $600,000,000; dairy products, $1,735,000,000; live stock, $1,575,000,000. The sum representing our commerce with foreign nations in 1907 has more than trebled in the past three decades, and that year was the third running in which both exports and imports have totaled more than a billion of dollars. This statement of our national assets, this inventory of the fundamental prosperity of our country and its constituent States relieves all arping care. All need for financial worryment. It is something more than encouraging—it is inspiring.

The Retort Courtroom.
An official of the Department of the Interior tells of an incident at one of the government schools for the Indians.

A patronizing young woman of Cincinnati was being shown through the institution, when she came upon a fine looking Indian girl of perhaps 16 years of age. The Indian girl was hemming napkins, which the girl from Cincinnati watched for some moments in silence. Then she said to the Indian, "Are you civilized?"

The Sioux raised her head slowly from her work and glanced coldly at her interrogator. "No," she replied, "as her eyes again sank to her napkins; 'Are you?'"

Citing an Exception.
"It is one of the peculiarities of the man nature," remarked the moralizer, "that the more a man gets the more he wants."

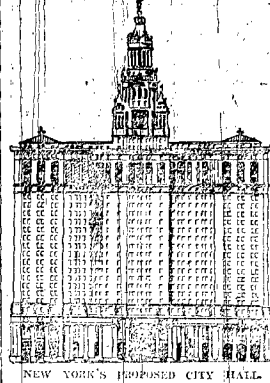

"Oh, I don't know," rejoined the demoralizer. "How about the man who is given thirty days by a police magistrate?"

The man who tells threesome stories usually has a big strong voice, deep determination, and gets to the end in spite of interruptions.

HIGHEST CITY HALL.

New York to Have a 34-Story Municipal Building Costing $7,000,000

The New York board of estimates and Mayor McClellan are now passing final plans for the highest city hall in the world. This 34-story building, to cost $7,000,000, will stand in the triangle of Park Row, Center and Duane streets, and tower 350 feet 3 inches above the sidewalk. It will be twice as high as the Flatiron and just a few feet shorter than the Singer building. The New York hall will house practically all the city departments and leave 23 floors to be rented by the city as offices. It is expected they will bring in $500,000 in rentals annually. French renaissance is the type, with exterior columns. Steel and stone is to be the construction. A peculiar feature of the building will be that all the rooms will be outside rooms and no interior light will be needed.

NEW YORK'S PROPOSED CITY HALL.

New York's municipal skyscraper will differ from the ordinary ones in that it will not depend upon its tower for its great height. The height of the roof of the main structure is to be 549 feet. From the roof to the head of the figure on the tower is a distance of 210 feet 5 inches. The figure will be 24 feet high and the diameter of the clock face is to be 25 feet.

HOW TO RESTORE A DROWNING MAN.
Here is a simple and effective way to restore a drowning man.
The man should be stood on his head in order that all the water possible be gotten from his lungs. The old method of rolling him on a barrel is not a bad one for the same purpose.
Then an effort should be made to induce artificial respiration. To this end put the person flat on his back and let some one catch hold of his arms just below the elbow.
Then raise the arms above the head and bring them down.
As they reach the body, press in on the ribs to force out the air gained by lifting the arms.
Keep this up at the rate of 15 times a minute.
Then try to get the heart to moving by giving a stimulant like liquor or a hypodermic injection.
Sometimes a slight fluttering of the heart is sufficient to get back life.
Get a physician as soon as possible.

A declaration of French leather workers is making a tour of American factories. Hebrew painters and paperhangers of Boston, Mass., are reforming their old union.
San Francisco (Cal.) Building Trades Council has organized an athletic association.
Carpenters of the City of Mexico have organized a labor union affiliated with the A. F. of L.
More of union car men are wearing the union button in Chicago to-day than ever before in the history of the organization.
White and negro longshoremen at New Orleans, La., have signed a five-year contract with the stevedores and steamship agents.

A seceding organization from the Brotherhood of Railroad Employees has broken the name of Brotherhood of Railroad Station Employees.
The railway truckmen are planning for the establishment of a home for their aged and indigent members. It is proposed to acquire a tract of 500 acres near Fort Scott, Kan., as the location for the institution.

St. Paul Typographical Union has decided to make a label exhibit at the Minnesota State fair, and will ask the Minnesota apolis union to join with it. Last year the St. Paul men made a label display which was very creditable.

In New York State a bill which takes from the health boards of the first-class cities the inspection of mercantile establishments and places it in the hands of the responsible labor department was passed at the extraordinary session of the Legislature and will go into effect on Oct. 1.

The next convention of the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders will be held during the second week in June, 1910, at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Cleveland (England) ironstone miners have decided to press for a 12 o'clock Saturday; that is, that operations shall cease at the mines at 12 o'clock, but no Saturdays instead of 12 o'clock, but no stoppage of work on the 12 o'clock day. There has been no general strike of the Cleveland ironstone miners for more than thirty years.

Initial steps are being taken by the Canadian Pacific toward securing the army of harvest laborers that is called for from the West every year. Advances from Montreal indicate that 25,000 men will be needed. Large crops are indicated.

At Hudson, Wis., by a vote of 4 to 4 the city council decided against issuing $30,000 bonds to build a coal gas plant. One member was absent, and the tie defeated the proposition, the mayor having not voted under the present charter. At the coming election Hudson citizens decided by a vote of 407 to 193 to erect a gas plant, but the final decision had to be made by the city council.

HELP FOR ALL IN GOD.

By Rev. Edwin W. Caswell.
The one hundred thousand spectators witnessing the Olympic games in London were filled with wonder when they saw a mere boy, from New York City, the smallest of the fifty-five competitors, win the great Marathon race.

Little as we can learn their names, quality of their training, and the business of the day, the will, purpose and faith are what made the boy's success. It was not a matter of force, but of faith, when the Japanese defeated the Russians and when John Hayes won the twenty-six mile race. Characteristics of weakness means prostration, disability, progress and development and these mean victory. No one can realize the young man of wealth fails to possibly be will fall of the great and noble work.

Carnegie and Rockefeller struggled up from the weakness of poverty to the summit of wealth and influence. Dante, Ruskin and Carlyle fought against the weakness of bodily ill, till they attained the climax of intellectual greatness. The handiwork of Milton, Bunyan and Matthewson of Scotland, to hold visions of thought and beauty beyond their fellows.

Hardships, privations and great difficulties in early life lifted Lagan and Grant into their loftiest goals of power. Prisons have been purified to make like Paul and Bunyan, where they were inspired to produce pictures that have delighted and blessed mankind in every land. Is it not a sublime truth that there is a pathway upward for every one? No wonder that Paul gloried in his infirmities, persecutions and distresses, for he exclaimed: "When I am weak, then am I strong, for the power of Christ will rest upon me."

The little child becomes strong because it stretches out its hand to the parent. The father is nobler when he bears his child out of danger into safety. So the sinful and weakling soul that stretches out its hands of faith to the Heavenly Father feels under the bosom of forgiveness and fatherhood, and who shall say God is not happier and mightier because of his embrace of helplessness?

Do you feel crushed by the law of "the survival of the fittest" or that "the weakest go to the wall"? Heaven's law of grace creates fitness and meekness for the highest inheritance.

Do you agonize in the convulsions of pain? It is the divine hand leading you to greater riches as earthquakes reveal the gold in the rocky rocks.

If God in nature can produce the diamond from the black carbon, the white fly from the black earth, and the great tree from the tiny seed, He can bring purity out of sinfulness, strength out of weakness and heaven out of hell. His power will enable the soul that trusts in Him to overcome dangerous hereditary tendencies, untoward environments, unspeakable difficulties, so that you may become the author of opportunities and the creator of circumstances, and, though, at last, like John Brown, you go down to ignominious death, your liberty-loving soul will go "marching on" through all millenniums, in blessed companionship with Him who arose from the weakness of the manger, the cross and the sepulchre to become conqueror and ruler of all worlds.

If we put out little crosses at the foot of His great cross, He will lift them up until they become a rainbow into crowns of glory forevermore.

DOES IT PAY?
By Henry F. Cope.
"What shall it profit a man?"—Mark 8:36.
The New England conference insisted that everything that fell good inside, therefore, be bad, that the fact that it was a pleasure to do any particular action was proof sufficient that that action was dangerous and sinful, that which pleased the palate must be pernicious to the health, that which the taste rejected must be "good for you."

Holding this view life became a bundle of contradictions, a perpetual warfare between those things which the Creator secures through our senses to suggest that we should do and those which prey prescribed. The good man was the unnatural one who exhausted himself in fighting against himself.

Religion becomes, under such circumstances, a matter of determining whether it pays to endure this present brief period of restrictions, privations, and denials in order to enjoy an eternity of bliss, whether it is worth while to endure purgatory on earth for the sake of paradise above.

The question of religion goes a great deal deeper than whether it pays to be miserable here in order to be blissfully blissful in glory. It goes deeper than considerations of cold cash or commercial supremacy; it is this deep, root question, does it pay to follow your ideals?

Is it worth while, at any cost, to persist in the path of being the best you know? Suggesting that obedience to that heavenly vision that comes at least once to us all leads into paths of pain, demands willingness to suffer and to bear loss, to remain unknown, to endure what many call failure, is it still worth while?

It is not an evidence of anything basely utilitarian in the character of this age that you have so often the test question, "What's the use?" applied to proposed causes of men or duty. Ultimately all things must come to this point of view, do they have any use, value, or they render service.

One is justified in putting the same test to every demand of religion. It is certainly a non-religious act to go on doing things in the church or in the name of religion without any thought of their purpose or value; it may be an irreligious act. Many a person is stunting his religious development by doing acts of religion without the religious motive.

If you urge a boy to go to Sunday school, and he answers: "O, what's the use?" would it be better, instead of forcing him into involuntary compliance, to fairly face his question and discover if there is any value, any use, any sufficient service in this which you urge him to do?

We have the moral right to go through any mechanical round of performance blindly making these motions, but simply because our fathers in the faith did these things, or our fathers in the faith commanded us to do them. There is nothing of faith in imitating practices, even in the name of religion.

Certainly, if a man is worthy, answer can come from the test of commercial stimulus. We must see how all the way or a part before we may know whether the high path pays. Is the whole world the market for the life that pays the great price for living?

Is the gift to the individual in strength and beauty of life worth the cost? Surely, it is. But all this life of things depends on the dynamic of the world of thought, that only a life inspired by noble aims can do even the least piece of work that is worthy.

It is the pursuit of some ideal that gives nobility in every calling. It is the pursuit of the ideal life that gives power in the art of living.

It is easy to see how it pays to do things, or to sell goods. Are we so blind that we cannot see both the life and the profit of the life that is lived for the supreme aims? The life that gladly loses the shadow for the substance, the things that perish for those that endure, that pay is not seen in the life that is lived for the sake of the things that are seen.

It is the pursuit of some ideal that gives nobility in every calling. It is the pursuit of the ideal life that gives power in the art of living.

Great Hawaiian Dock.

It has practically been decided by the Navy Department, on the advice of the naval officers who have to do with the preparation of ships for war, to make the dock at the new Pearl Harbor station
the largest of the naval structures of that port. It will be of the granite concrete type, which is best suited to withstand the influences of climate and resist the encroachments of water, and large enough to take in battleships which may be designed in the next twenty-five years. There is a difference of expert opinion as to the ultimate size of ships, some officers believing that the battleship has attained its maximum size. Others maintain that the 30,000-ton battleship is not far off. At all events, the Pearl Harbor dock will probably be nearly 900 feet in length. It will be no mistake to give the dock the largest possible dimensions, since a big dock can be used for accommodating several ships, and the space is not wasted. It is also pur-posed that the Pearl Harbor station shall be a model of its kind. It will cost in its completed state about $10,- 000,000, since it will have elaborate cooling, cold storage and handling facilities, as well as a plant for repairing ships.

Profitable Utilization.

On the boundary line of two farms
in an Austrian village there is a large gooseberry bush, from which the two farmers have for years gathered the product. "What grows on my side is mine, and you may have the rest," was the agreement.
Three years ago the neighbors had a misunderstanding, and this came to a climax when the gooseberries became ripe. A lawsuit followed, and appeals were made to higher judicial bodies.
The final decision has just been recorded in an Austrian paper.

Each party is to have the right to pick the berries which grow on his side of the line, just as it was originally, but neither may destroy the bush. The courts are charged half to each litigant.
Each farmer had to pay two hundred and twenty-five krona. The yearly yield of the bush is worth about one-half krona, and the judge told the litig-
ing farmers:

"With good luck, it will take you only eight hundred years to make the bush pay. Take good care of it!"

DEPARTMENT IN HARD FIGHT.

Huge Grain Storehouses Are De-

One of the fiercest and most specta-

years, which left a property loss of $1,558,000 in its wake and threatened a repetition of the conflagration of 1871,
started Monday afternoon in the dock
freighthouse of the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad at 16th street and the river. Two grain elevators, hundreds of thousands of bushels of grain,
a freight depot, fifty freight cars and a number of buildings and sheds were destroyed.

During the height of the blaze hundreds of burning boards and shingles
were carried on the breast of a strong southwest wind, and the situation became so critical at one time that Fire Marshal Horan prophesied a general conflagration throughout the city, if the fire crossed the river. Desperate work by the firemen kept the flames from spreading.

So intense was the heat at one time
that the firemen could not approach

Temperature Rises to 96.4 Degrees,
Highest Since July 21, 1901.
A heat wave that killed, prostrated,
sickened, crazed and irritated struck Chicago Monday. The thermometer reached 96.4 degrees. There was only one place in the United States warmer than Chicago, and that was Kansas City, Mo. The federal thermometer there registered 98 degrees as its high mark, but even with this record it is not certain that different wind and humidity conditions may not have made the Missouri city much more endurable than Chicago. The odd part of it all was that there was a wind of from twenty to twenty-five miles an hour
most of the day. Not since July 21, 1901, has Chicago had a higher thermometer. On that date the mark showed 103 degrees.

The second disastrous automobile ac-occurred Monday afternoon near Burlingame, the fashionable suburb of the city, when a huge tonneau plunged down a steep embankment as the result of the snapping of the brakes and caused the death of five of the occupants and injury to two others.

Coming down a steep grade near Crystal Lake, Miss Ethel McCormick, who was at the wheel, endeavored to check the speed of the car by applying the foot brake. It failed to hold the automobile, and she hastily threw on the emergency brakes. They snapped.
Then the young woman endeavored to the right. The front wheel, however,

Budding Fruit Trees.
It is sometimes desirable to bud or graft trees at a time when cleft grafting can not be done. The work can be done in late August, September and early October. The purpose of budding trees is very much the same as that of grafting. The apple, plum and rosebush, particularly, may be operated upon to advantage and with good results.

The work of budding can be done by a sharp, round-pointed knife and a piece of yarn. Usually the best results follow by selecting a place where the branch is from 3/8 to 1/2 inch in diameter, and where the bark is smooth and healthy. With the rounded part of

THE STEPS IN BUDDING.

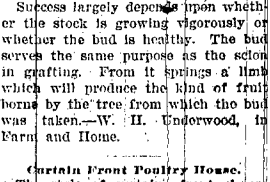

The knife cut lengthwise of the branch
just through the bark, a slit about 1/2 inch long, and at the top of this slit cut across about 1/2 inch, as shown at a. Next remove from a branch of the same season's growth of the desired variety one of the strong, healthy buds by cutting from below the bud up and under it. Start about 1/2 inch below the bud and come out again 1/2 inch above the bud, as at b. Cut deep enough into the wood so as not to injure the bud, and cut it so as not to leave too much wood under the bud.

Then place the bud, c, on the end of the knife and push down into the slit, as above described. Push securely in place, so that the bud is about 1 inch below the upper cut. Then wrap carefully with yarn, as at d. In two or three weeks examine, and see if the bud
has grown fast and so that the yarn is not injuring it. Should the yarn be loose, retie. The bud should start to grow the following spring.

Success largely depends upon whether the stock is growing vigorously or whether the bud is healthy. The bud serves the same purpose as the scion in grafting. From it springs a limb which will produce the kind of fruit borne by the tree from which the bud was taken.—W. H. Underwood, in Farm and Home.

Getting a Start with Sheep.

When the farmers in the corn and grass states reach the point where they have their fields all fenced hog tight,
they should not delay for any considerable length of time getting a start in sheep, says Wallace's Farmer. It is not necessary to have a large flock. It is a good deal better not to have it for two or three reasons: One is that sheep
do not do well with hogs and cattle.
This is the reason why so few sheep are kept in the hog and cattle country.
Another reason is that those who have had no experience in sheep would do well to advance slowly, and it need be retreat rapidly. Twenty-five ewes and a good buck are as many as the inexperienced farmer should start with. The expense of these is comparatively small,
the possible loss therefore not great in case the man should prove not to be a fit man to handle sheep. There are some men of this kind. The chances of loss, however, are very small where the farmer has any kind of sheep experience
about him.

Testing the Health of an Animal.

The pulse of a horse when at rest
beats forty times per minute; of a ox
from fifty to fifty-five; of a sheep
and a pig about seventy to eighty.

The pulse may be felt wherever a big artery crosses a bone. It is generally examined in the horse on the cord which passes over the bone of the lower jaw in front of its curved position, or in the body ridge above the eye; and in cattle over the middle of the first rib; in sheep by placing the hand on the left side, where the beating of the heart may be felt.

Any material variations of the pulse from the figures given above may be considered as a sign of disease. If rapid, hard and full it is an indication of high fever or inflammation; if rapid, small and weak, low fever, loss of blood or weakness. If slow the possibilities point to brain disease, and if irregular to heart troubles.

Protect the Birds.

The farmer is liable to forget his bird friends. I wish to tell some of my farmer friends what I have done
this spring, in regard to our quails.
When our assessor came around I gave in some quails, as well as domestic fowls for taxation, as I knew about how many we had on our farm which winter was over. Some will say that you could not tell how many birds
you have, because they will be on your farm one day, and on your neighbor's the next. While that is true, do not our domestic fowls go over on our neighbor's place, also, if you give them opportunity to do so?
Which most people do that I know of. But do they not come back home every evening to roost? It is the same with the quail, and he will roost on the farm where he is bred and hatched, providing he is unmoes-ted by hunters, hawks, etc. If you want to chase your domestic fowls
with dog and gun one-tenth as much as you do the poor little quail, in the fall of the year, do you think that there would be many chickens on the roost in your chicken house at night?

The writer has known coveys that after being chased and shot at all day, would be whistling the call just at dusk, and after getting back together would fly to roost.

I think that anything that is as valuable as the quail and stays with you through such circumstances,
should be protected better than most of our farmers are doing.—J. H. T., in the Indiana Farmer.

The Black Raspberry.

The black raspberry has its peculiarities, and among them is that of the annual travel to new soil by means of the lips. Stocks from the hill are comparatively worthless for new plantations, and growers of valuable varieties must obtain their plants from the tips of the present year's growth. The first part of July, if it has not been attended to sooner, when the growing canes
have reached the height of 4 feet, nip
out the point with thumb and finger,
and soon branches will come out along
the cane, increasing the number to take root, and adding to the productiveness of the plant the next season. Leave the bearing cane in its place until fall.
Later, when it is time for the lips to attach themselves to the soil, the rooting can be facilitated by a slight covering of dirt. In preparing for the crop in spring heal in the branches to two or three feet, according to their strength.

Intensive Farming.

The possibilities of a small farm under intensive cultivation are strikingly shown in the following record of production from eleven acres, located near Reading, Pa.: Three thousand six hundred and fifteen bunches of radishes,
30 bushels of white China radishes, 773 bushels of onions, 1,800 boxes of strawberries, 675 bunches and 20 bushels of peas, 500 bunches of lima beans, 12 bushels of soup beans, 75 bushels of peas, 63 bushels of string beans, 125 bushels of potatoes, 40 baskets of to-matos, 1,000 heads of lettuce, 5,000 heads of cabbage, 600 dozen ears of corn, 125 baskets of egg plant, 100,000
poches, 40 bushels of turnips, 12 bushels of carrots, 35 bushels of parsnips,
1,000 roots of horseradish, 2,000 stalks
of endive, 20,000 stalks of celery, 25
bushels of artichokes, and 8 bushels of peppercorn.

Sow Fall Wheat Early.

In the great corn belt of the Middle West most farmers are afraid their wheat will make too much top in the fall and sow very late in order to avoid the Hessian fly. As a rule, however, it is better to sow early enough to get eight or ten inches growth. Harrow
the seed bed frequently, making a fine dust mulch, which will conserve moisture and cause regular germination.
Wheat put in this way makes a stronger growth in the spring and matures at least a week earlier. If early and late seeded wheat come through the winter
without injury the early wheat will always outyield the other, although it may have a tendency to lodge. Watch your own wheat next spring and see how it comes out and then sow next fall at a time to make it better the following year.

Science vs. Superstition.

It is considered advertising of divining
rod achievements is pointed out by a British engineer as a serious injustice to hydrogeological experts and artesian engineers. The mysterious twig shows water no oftener than ordinary guessing. Science has a far better record, and in his own experience water has been found in hundreds of places all over Great Britain by the study of geology and physical geography, not one attempt in fifty having failed where success was confidently expected, and hardly a success having been recorded where conditions seemed adverse.

Largest Duck Farm.

Australia is said to have the largest duck farm and the largest incubator in the world. The incubator has a capacity of 11,440 duck eggs or 14,080 hen eggs. The machine is, in fact, a hothouse. It stands in open ground and is constructed of ordinary pine boards, with corrugated iron roof. The egg trays each hold 180 duck or 160 hen
eggs, and there are four of these trays,
end to end, in eleven tiers, one above
the other on each side of the room,
making a total of eighty-eight.

The Tartar lady uses a slice of onion
to perfume herself.

SEEK COULD NOT WALK

For Months—Burning Humor on Ankles—Opiates Alone Brought Sleep—Eczema Yielded to Cuti-curea.

"I had eczema for over two years.
I had two physicians, but they only gave me relief for a short time and I cannot enumerate the ointments and lotions I used to no purpose. My ankles were one mass of sores. The itching and burning were so intense that I could not sleep. I could not walk for nearly four months. One day my husband said I had better try the Cuticura Remedies. After using them three times
I had the best night's rest in months unless I took an opiate. I used one set of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Lills, and my ankles healed in a short time. It is now a year since I used Cuticura, and there has been no return of the eczema. Mrs. David Brown, Locke, Ark., May 18 and July 13, 1907."

A Look Ahead.

Queen Alexandra, of gracious presence herself, attended last spring's annual Mansion House fête in London, and because of that auspicious fact there is a tale to tell, says a writer in Esper's Weekly, and worth the waiting. One of the diminutive flower maidens was both pretty and plump, and when her majesty stopped for an instant to smile down upon her, what did she do but put up her eye for a kiss, which she received.

"Molly!" gasped her astounded mother, after the distinguished visitor had passed on. "How could you?"
"Molly gave good reason. 'I fought,'
said she, 'it wd be interesting to tell my grandchildren.'"

FIVE MONTHS IN HOSPITAL.

Discharged Because Doctors Could Not Cure.

Levi P. Brockway, 5 Second Ave., Anoka, Minn., says: "After lying for five months in a hospital I was discharged as incurable, and
given only six months to live. My heart was affected, I had another spells and
sometimes fell unconscious. I got so I couldn't use my arms,
my eyesight was impaired had the kidney secretions were badly disordered. I was completely worn out and discouraged when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. But they went right to the cause of the trouble and did their work well. I have been feeling well ever since."

The Technique of Home Making.

"Cook, sweep, dust and sew, these four words will never make a happy home," writes the editor in Woman's Home Companion. "They do not make sympathy, and love, and ambition,
and faith; but they go a long way toward making room for these things. The average bride has a trumful of ideals,
and maybe two trunksful of clothes.
Her cook book—if she has one—finds her at all at all—opens easily to 'Judge.' But unless she has mastered enough pages of this book to get three meals a day, without exhausting her own body and soul, and her husband's,
too, she will have little time for clothes and none at all for ideals. She finds herself involved in the mastery of the merest technical details. In spite of her best endeavors, her husband loses his enthusiasm for badly cooked food poorly served. Perhaps she tells him that he couldn't do it so well himself,
and then he tells her about what he can do—perhaps it's soldering a joint or adding up a column of figures or drawing a straight line between two given points—but anyhow he can do it, because it is his business and he has perfected himself in it, and if she and he and the Cook and Sweep and Dust
and Sew thing wide the doors of that house,
and Sympathy and Love and Ambition
and Faith make their escape."

Has a Better Thing.

"I used to know that man when he was a struggling lawyer. What business does he follow now?"
"Skimming cream."
"Skimming cream? Is he in the dairy business?"
"Dairy nothing! He's receiver for a bankrupt trust company."

THE COME AND SEE SIGN

This sign is permanently attached to the front of the main building of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

What Does This Sign Mean?
It means that public inspection of the Laboratory and methods of doing business is honestly desired. It means that there is nothing about the business which is not "open and above
board."

It means that a permanent invitation is extended to anyone to come and verify any and all statements made in the advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
Is it a purely vegetable compound
made from roots and herbs—with out drugs?

Come and See.

Do the women of America continually use as much of it as we are told to use?
Come and See.

Was there ever such a person as Lydia E. Pinkham, and is there any Mrs. Pinkham now to whom side woman are asked to write?
Come and See.

Is the vast private correspondence with sick women conducted by women only, and are the letters kept strictly confidential?
Come and See.

Have they really got letters from over one million, one hundred thousand women correspondents?
Come and See.

Have they proof that Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands of these women?
Come and See.

This advertisement is only for doctors. The great army of women, who know from their own personal experience that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female ills,
will still go on asking and being benefited by it. Has the poor old doctor suffering woman paid for her pain sake, let her get the best, for she might just as well wait with her health

Big Auction Sale

Of household goods etc., Saturday, August 22, at 3 p. m., west of Roe & Fortner's meat market.
A. Lewis, John L. Soules,
Owner. Auctioneer.

In politics the hankering for a seat in the "band wagon" often outweighs the considerations of friendship.

The row in the democratic family of Wayne county for the nomination for county attorney is waxing warm and with good prospects that it won't end at the primaries.

John R. Morris will have no opposition at the primaries for the nomination for representative. He is a good enough man to have no opposition at the election polls.

The success of Bristow in the Kansas senatorial contest is proof of the continued growth of progressive sentiment in the republican party. A few more changes will make the reactionaries in the Senate feel mighty lonesome.

W. J. Bryan was notified yesterday that he had been selected to ride the democratic donkey for the third time. William has got so used to accepting anything that comes his way that he said yes as quick as an old maid in accepting a matrimonial proposal.

It is reported that Mayor Dohman of Omaha is going to tour the state in a special train and give a wild west show at every stopping place in the interest of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor it will add a tinge of color to the campaign and draw crowds that may put Bryan in eclipse as a star attraction.

Mr. Bryan throws all responsibilities on the republican party for the conduct of the federal government since 1880 except for one interruption. In justice to keeping history straight it was during that interruption that free soup houses were established in the land. It was the one interruption of the march of progress in the "land of the free and the home of the brave," and it so firmly impressed itself in the minds of men that they do not hanker for its repetition.

John R. Morris, of Sherman precinct has consented to allow his friends to use his name as a candidate for the office of State Representative. There is probably no man in Wayne county who has a larger acquaintance or more friends than Mr. Morris. He has resided in Wayne county more than twenty years. He is a man of good judgement as is proven by the success that he has made in conducting his own affairs. The republicans of the district can all get together on Mr. Morris.—Carroll Index.

For County Attorney
I wish to announce myself as a candidate for the republican nomination as County Attorney, to be determined at the primaries to be held Sept. 1st.—Richard Closson, Carroll, Neb.

Announcement for County Attorney
I desire to announce to the Republican voters of Wayne county, that I am a candidate for the nomination for County Attorney of Wayne county, subject to the will of the voters at the primary election.
A. R. Davis.

Announcement for Senate
I hereby announce that I am a candidate for the nomination for senator in this Eleventh senatorial district, subject to the will of the republican voters at the primaries to be held September 1, 1908.—C. A. Randall.

Announcement for Commissioner.
I hereby announce myself for a candidate at the primaries Sept. 1, 1908 for the republican nomination for county commissioner of Wayne county, of the east district, for the unexpired term and for the full term commencing January 1, 1909.

Wm. H. Gildersleeve.

Announcement for Senate
I desire to announce to the republican voters of the eleventh Senatorial District, that I am a candidate for the nomination for Senator of said District at the Primary Election to be held September 1st, 1908, and hereby earnestly solicit the vote of every Republican in the District.—R. Y. Appleby.

Announcement for Commissioner
I wish to announce to the republican voters of Wayne county that I will be a candidate at the primaries September 1, 1908 for the republican nomination for county commissioner to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of R. Russell and for the full term commencing January 1, 1909.—Eph Anderson.

Announcement.
I hereby announce myself a Candidate for county attorney on the Republican ticket. If elected I will undertake to fulfill the duties of that office to the complete satisfaction of all persons and parties concerned in good government. The office of County Attorney has been monopolized many years for ring and private purposes. I am not and never have been tied up with any political ring or clique and if elected I will undertake to save Wayne county and the tax payers a large amount of money that no mere political-ring-made attorney would dare undertake if he wished to retain the future support of the ring. I very respectfully solicit the votes along with the moral support of all persons and parties regardless of political affiliations, who, I hope, believe as I do, that we should be vigilant not only in reform measures of law, but very vigilant in preventing political rings from monopolizing elective offices, county or state.

Normal College Commencement.
The seventeenth annual commencement was preceded by a week of Chautauqua which acted as an inspiration to great effort on the part of those taking part in the program. The commencement proper was ushered in by the annual contest between the two Literary societies. The two societies have done such excellent work all the year, that their friends expected much of their representatives, and they were not disappointed. Miss Kingsbury, head of the Latin and German Department and Miss Bellows, head of the English Department have charge of these two societies. The work has been of a high order, which was fully demonstrated by the following program. The Crescents were victorious. The following persons represented this society.
Essay How I would keep school. Rose Head
Oration Friendship. Georgia Austin
Recitation A Senator Entangled. Nellie Cash
Debate Emma Chicoine
Although this society was victorious does not indicate they were so superior to the Philos, for the final summing up showed them only a little more than one per cent ahead. The Philos presented the following as their part of the program.
Essay Music Mae C. Munger
Oration The Rights of the Laborer Vernon E. Rightmire
Recitation The Mission Box that Scandalized the Village Alice Heaton
Debate Archir L. Burham
Saturday night the Elocution Department presented a most excellent program. This department is presided over by Miss Jennie Bellows. The entertainment was of a high order and most entertaining.
1 A Modern Sewing Society—certainly depicted the majority of these true to life.
2 A Proposal Under Difficulties, was pronounced the best thing of the evening.
3 The First Formal Call, was most entertaining.
4 A Grecian Pantomime, by Miss McIntosh, was charming.
During the evening the Music Department gave the following selections:
Piano Solo Maidens Blush Tollychalk Corola Ton Brauchtsch
Piano Solo Rondo Brillante op 62 Weber Myrtle Hewins
Piano Duet Pas de Charge Mattie Myrtle Hewins, Margaret Jeffrey
Piano Solo Spring Song Mendels Sohn Minnie Goodsell
Sunday at 4 P. M. the Graduating Classes to the number of eighty-eight, in cap and gown, were seated in a body to listen to the Rev. J. L. Stine as he preached them a most able sermon. At 8 o'clock the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. presented the following program:
Hymn 56, Chapel Hymnal

 Address
 Hymn 111, Chapel Hymnal.
 Circle of Prayer.
 Association Hymn

These two associations have done most excellent work. The Y. M. C. A. sent two members to the students conference at Cascade, Col., and the young ladies one to the conference for young women.

A new society has recently been formed, known as the Catholic Students' Club. Another year we expect to hear from a representative of this body.

Monday evening found a large and appreciative audience. Every one was interested in one or more of the contestants, as a twenty dollar gold piece was to be given the winner. Mr. Chester Jones, president of the Certificate class, presided.

Miss Von Brauchtsch and Miss Fenner opened the evening entertainment with a piano duet. These entertainments have been made most enjoyable by the excellent music given. Miss Louie Ellis discoursed concerning "A Limit of Wealth." Miss Ellis was very nervous and as a result did not do herself justice.

"Schools of Diplomacy" by Chester A. Fenner, showed a careful preparation, as did "Christian Unity" by A. R. Herrell.

A charming vocal solo by Miss Gleason, set us in a frame of mind to most thoughtfully appreciate those that followed. Miss Alice Kate with "The Backbone of the Nation" carried off the prize.

"Our Nation Today" by Ralph V. Leinhard, was much enjoyed. "Our Navy" by Mary Mahood, was a close second. "Ireland's Demand" by P. E. Saunty was an able effort by a real Irishman. Everybody seemed pleased with the decision. Miss Kate has not only been an untiring student but a popular one as well. Popular because she has always been courteous and always in her place of duty.

Monday night seemed to have been a sort of inspiration, and on Tuesday evening a larger crowd was present to hear the Elocution contest, that was to decide who should be the recipient of the handsome medal which was to be the prize for that department. Miss Lela Olmsted, whose dignified bearing has placed her in the front rank as a student, presents.

The opening number, piano solo, by Miss Margaret Jeffrey was most charmingly rendered. Selection Prof. David Harum, by Miss Hattie Best, was very favorably received.

"The Arena Scene from Quo Vadis" by Miss Bessie Cash, showed that Miss Cash had made great improvement this year. Some pronounced this the best. "Trusty" by Miss Gleason, was very fine. Miss Gleason has much natural ability and we fear did not appreciate the fact that a little training might have won for her the prize.

"Jean Valjean and the Bishop," by Miss Marsh, was fine and won for her second place.

"Henry the Fifth's Wooing," by Hazel McIntosh was interesting. It hardly seemed suited to Miss McIntosh's style, but was well received, as was "The Love of Bernice" by Miss Saunty. "Taming the Shrew" by Miss Strickland was a fine selection of a part of Shakespeare's immortal Comedy. Miss Strickland had spent much time in its preparation and as a result was the victor. She simply showed that hard work and close application take the place of natural ability.

"A Leaf in the Storm" was the title of the recitation by Mr. Harry Ziener. Mr. Ziener did well. In fact the comments of the audience were that all the recitations were of a high order. The markings of the Judges, showed this to be true.

The lost contest took place Wednesday evening. Although the evening was dull and sultry, eight o'clock found the chapel full. Miss Rose Head, President of Teachers' class presiding.

Resolved, "That trial by Jury should be Abolished," was ably discussed by Arthur Anderson and Katherine Murphy for the affirmative, while Lela Olmsted and Chester Jones as ably declared for the negative.

The other question "That Socialism is a constructive force in the advancement of Modern Civilization" was affirmed by Burrett Wright and Orpha Anderson. The negative was ably upheld by Leo Pryor and August Nordgren. When the decision of the judges was announced, all seemed to have made the same decision. Miss Anderson certainly presented some fine arguments and in that forceful manner which characterizes all that Miss Orpha does. She was the recipient of the Craven Prize.

Thursday evening the Graduating exercises proper occurred. The address of the occasion was a masterpiece. Those who have followed Congressman Norris' career at Washington, knew there would be a fine address and were not disappointed. Mr. Norris and Prof. Pile were College class mates, and in all the years that have intervened they have been close personal friends.

When it came to presentation of diplomas, Fred, who has taken his father's place on so many occasions since his illness, did so now, and in a neat speech presented the 88 diplomas, as he also awarded the twenty dollar prizes as follows:

- 1 The most substantial improvement, Bressler prize, Minnie Goodsell
- 2 The best Oration, Tucker prize, Alice Kate
- 3 The Best Debate, Craven prize, Orpha Anderson
- 4 First rank in Scientific class, Dr. Leisenring prize, Nellie Cash
- 5 First rank in Teacher's class, S. R. Theobald prize, Edith Beechel
- 6 First rank in State Certificate class, Harrington prize, Mabel Armstrong
- 7 Best Recitation, Mines Medal, Jessie Strickland
- 8 First rank in Commercial Dept., Ley prize, Dan Hurress
- 9 First rank in Music Dept., Jones prize, Margaret Jeffrey
- 10 The Honor Roll, Faculty prize, Mary Mahood

Thus closed the 17th Annual Commencement. MEMBERS of the Alumni had been coming back for several days. Some coming early in order to attend the Chautauqua before Commencement proper. Alumni Day was all that we might wish, for two weeks old students had been returning until several hundred were ready for the exercises of that day.

One member came from western Colorado, while many came from the Dakotas, and Nebraska. The weather was ideal so the luncheon was served on the lawn. The fore-noon session was held in the chapel. Here the old students entertained the graduating classes, with stories of how good they always were as students and how perfect, always in deportment. After luncheon games of Basket ball, Tennis and Baseball made a full afternoon. The athletic field was in fine shape. All day the Manual Training Department was open and running. This fine department was a surprise to many of former students as it was only recently installed.

At six o'clock the Banquet Hall was thrown open. It certainly was a scene of beauty. The room used for this occasion was the Gymnasium. The room was beautifully decorated, while the tables were resplendent in all that makes a properly appointed banquet board.

Miss Mullen, who has had charge of the Culinary department of the college, assisted by a Sioux City cateress and a body of college girls, served a five course dinner that was faultless.

After the dinner the following toasts were given, Mrs. Bright, who has recently returned from a trip around the world to again take her place as an instructor in the college, was toast mistress. In her happy way she called for the following. Mr. Jno. Powers, address of welcome to the Graduating Classes. Response on behalf of the graduates, Miss Edith Beechel. First Impressions, Mr. Jno. Rohm, Our Bachelors, Miss Margaret Carroll, Supt. Perdue and others responded to toasts. Mr. E. O. Garret, a guest of the evening was called on and gave an entertaining speech. Mr. Garret was a student at Fremont when Mr. Pile had charge of the mathematics of that institution, more than seventeen years ago. This closed the work of the school for the year of 1907-'08. The prospects for the coming year are most auspicious. A number of the old students return for another year.

It is always interesting to the friends of the graduates to know something of their history. This we have gleaned from different sources and given it to you as we have gotten it. W. C. Altig is a South Dakota product. Mr. Altig has been a most diligent student for over three years. Next year he goes to Gayville, S. D. as principal. Miss Georgia Austin is a Nebraska product. She has gathered to herself many friends by her womanly qualities. She goes into the Norfolk school as one of the grad teachers. She will not disappoint her friends.

Miss Mabel Armstrong is another Nebraska girl. She has been a most untiring worker, and as a result carries the $20 prize, given the State Certificate Class. Miss Armstrong goes into her own neighborhood, in Dixon county as teacher. Miss Billie Adams by her quiet and ladylike manner has been a very popular student. She has been prominent in the Christian Association work. She goes to her home county, Stanton, as teacher.

Orpha Anderson claims Holt county as her birth place. She has been a most faithful student, and as a result was the winner of the $20 prize given for the best debate. She goes to Decatur as primary teacher.

Miss Busted was born in Iowa but at present is a resident of Madison county. She has been a fine student and has a host of friends. She goes back to Madison county as teacher of the same school she attended.

Esther Bengtson was born in Holdrege, Nebr. After graduating from the Wausa High school, where her people now reside, she became a student of the N. N. C. She will teach in Knox county.

Miss Emma Chicoine is an Iowa girl, having been born at Merville. Later her parents moved to Jefferson, S. D. She goes back to Dakota as teacher.

Miss Emma Clausen has been a most faithful student the past year and has made many friends. She returns to Madison county and will teach there the coming year.

Miss Elsie Duell resides in Norfolk. Miss Duell was a successful teacher before entering the Normal. Her work here has been very satisfactory and next year she will teach the Grammar grade of the Meadow Grove schools.

Miss Elsie Dobbin of Wayne county has been a most faithful student and goes to Pierce county next year as teacher.

Miss Maude Davis was born in Jamaica, Iowa. Maude has been one of those quiet students who has attended strictly to business. She goes to Butte, Nebr. as a teacher in the public schools.

Miss Julia Davis has been an exceptionally strong student. Her home is Emerson, Nebr., to which place she goes next year.

Miss Bessie Ellyson was born and reared in Newcastle, Nebr. She returns to Wayne for another year.

Miss Grace Eley comes from Genoa, Nebr. Her work here has been highly satisfactory. Miss Eley has contributed so much to the pleasure of the school on account of her musical ability. She will teach near Lindsey.

Miss Edna Gifford has been here all the year. She is one of those quiet but willing workers and we are sure will make a successful teacher.

Miss Edna Griffith is one of a trio of sisters who have graduated from the N. N. C. She like her sisters has been popular with both faculty and students. She remains at home the coming year.

Miss Minnie Goodsell has been a most faithful student. She has by her lady like manners won the highest honor that can be conferred by the school—the $20 prize for the most improvement along all lines. She will teach in her home county.

Miss Ida Gleason was born in N. Y. City and her early school days were spent in the schools of that city. She has much natural ability along dramatic lines. She goes to Madison County to teach.

Miss Aileen Hunter, whose home is Akeley, Minnesota, has been a successful student. Miss Hunter is not satisfied with her present attainments but returns next year to complete the Scientific Course.

Miss Helen Heenan, who has been a tireless worker for over two years goes to Holt county, her home, as a teacher.

Miss Helen Hoffman is a Wayne county girl and expects to teach in this county the coming year.

Miss Rose Head was born at Cascade, Iowa. She has been one of the republicans in the interest of his candidacy for renomination for state senator. The Senator looked after Wayne county's interests in the last legislature and he has warm friends here.

Wm. House is excavating ground on the two lots he bought of E. D. Mitchell for a fine two story residence which will be built this fall. This is one of the best residence locations in Wayne and with a new $5000 residence will add much to the appearance of that part of the town. He expects to have the building ready for occupancy before winter.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidney nerves get weak, then these organs always fail. Don't drug the Stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is simply a makeshift. Get a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is prepared expressly for these weak inside nerves. Strengthen these nerves, build them up with Dr. Shoop's Restorative—tablets or liquid—and see how quickly help will come. Sold by Felber's Pharmacy.

by taking what is known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative, improvement will be noticed. Of course, full health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. And best of all, you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it returns. Outside influences depress first the "inside nerves" then the stomach, Heart, and Kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see how quickly health will be yours again. Sold by Felber's Pharmacy.

In politics the hankering for a seat in the "band wagon" often out weighs the considerations of friend ship.

The row in the democratic family
of Wayne county for the nomina tion for county attorney is waxing warm and with good prospects that it won't end at the primaries.

John R. Morris will have no op position at the primaries for the nomination for representative. He is a good enough man to have no opposition at the election polls.

The success of Bristow in the Kan sas senatorial contest is proof of the continued growth of progressive
sentiment in the republican party.
A few more changes will make the reactionaries in the Senate fe mighty lonesome.

W. J. Bryan was notified yester day that he had been selected to ride the democratic donkey for the third time. William has got so used to accepting anything that comes his way that he said yes as quick as an old maid in accepting a matrimo nial proposal.

It is reported that Mayor Dohl man of Omaha is going to tour the state in a special train and give a wild west show at every stop place in the interest of his can didacy for the Democratic nomina tion for Governor it will add a tinge
of color to the campaign and draw crowds that may put Bryan in eclipse
as a star attraction.

Mr. Bryan throws all responsibil ities on the republican party for the conduct of the federal government
since 1880 except for one interrup tion. In justice to keeping history straight it was during that interrup tion that free soup houses were es tablished in the land. It was the

the primaries to be held Sept. 1st.—Richard Closson, Carroll,

Rev. S. M. Ritchie, Field Secretary of the State Anti-Saloon league and superintendent of the Omaha District will preach in the Presbyterian church Sunday morning and evening. The evening services will be a union meeting. His subject will be "Gospel Temperance." All are cordially invited to these meetings.

M. W. Miller who four years ago went to Escatawpa, Miss., is here on a month or two visit with old friends. Mr. Miller took the contract to cut and saw the timber, yellow pine and cypress of 2040 acres of land. He hired a saw mill and has been at work for some time. He expects to cut two million feet of timber from the land.

Speaking of tall men it may not be generally known that Wayne enjoys the distinction of having the tallest young man in north Nebraska. Young Walter Weber who is but seventeen years old stands six feet and three inches in his stocking feet. He is not wide out in proportion but future years will do that for him and he has good chances of being known as a giant in height.

Mrs. R. Philleo and Mrs. Epler went to Omaha last week to meet Mrs. Herbert Hopper who was on her way from Denver, Colo., to Dixon, Ill., with the remains of her husband who had died in Arizona. Herbert Hopper had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Philleo for many years when a young boy and in fact was practically raised by them.

August time, tells on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative, improvement will be noticed. Of course, full health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. And best of all, you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside influences depress first the "inside nerves" then the stomach, Heart, and Kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see how quickly health will be yours again. Sold by Felber's Pharmacy.

Republican Senatorial Contest Between Hopkins and Epps is Still in Doubt—Primary Returns Come in Slowly—Democrats Pick Stevenson.

At 2:30 o'clock Monday morning complete returns from 88 counties out of 102 in the state of Illinois give for the republican nomination for governor Deneen, 481,509; Yates, 170,225, giving Deneen a plurality of 311,284.

Eighty-eight counties give for the republican senatorial endorsement Hopkins, 117,822; Foss, 99,709; Mason 71,655.

The returns available at 1 o'clock consisted of the vote in 87 out of 102 counties in the state for senator and 62 counties for governor. Chicago and Cook county were included in both sets of figures. The vote for senator was Hopkins, 97,057; Foss, 68,573; Mason, 62,596. On governor the vote was Deneen, 167,151; Yates, 254,435.

The friends of Gov. Deneen confidently predict that he will secure the nomination by a majority of at least 30,000 over Yates and the Yates managers make about the same prediction for their man, Senator Hopkins.

Senator Hopkins declared late Sunday night that he believed that he would be endorsed for the senatorship by a plurality of 30,000 to 27,000.

The Foss managers claim they have carried many of the senatorial districts and that when the legislature comes to vote for senator the men from these districts must be guided by the vote of these districts in preference of what the vote of the entire state may have been.

That in this way Foss is certain to receive the election from the legislature even though he runs behind in the primary.

HURLED TO DEATH

Automobile Crashes Over a Steep Embankment. When an automobile plunged over a steep embankment on the Mitchell road two and a half miles west of Sylvania, O., Charles W. Pohlman, a wealthy Cleveland merchant tailor, and Father George Finney, pastor of St. Columbkille's parish, Cleveland, were instantly killed.

Mrs. Charles W. Pohlman, her daughter, Florence, and F. C. Dietzel, a Cleveland dentist, were in the touring car, but escaped injury.

The automobile landed at the bottom of the embankment bottom side up. The priest's head was crushed between the edge of the car and a large stone.

Mr. Pohlman who was driving the machine, was entangled in the steering gear, the wheel crushing his head.

MANY WORKMEN BURIED

Scores Caught Under the Ruins of a Tall Chimney. The thunder storm which passed over Szeged, Austria, Saturday, during which a large factory collapsed, burying a number of workmen, was now or less damage to a house in town. The only loss of life occurred in a hemp factory in Szeged, where a tall chimney which had just been built fell partially built heating house on which 100 workmen were working.

They were caught by the falling masonry and buried. Thus far seven and thirteen workmen have been killed. A woman who was taken to a hospital, was seriously injured.

Police Hunt for Negro. Armed possees under the direction of Sheriff Allen are searching Salem, N. J., and adjoining counties for a negro who committed a brutal assault upon Stella Lawrence, the 12-year-old daughter of Oscar Lawrence, a farmer, of Washington township.

Chicago's Population. Chicago has a population of 2,425,000, according to the 1908 city directory which was issued Monday. This is a gain over last year of 53,000.

St. Louis City Live Stock Market. Saturday quotations on the Sioux City live stock market follow: Beaves, $1.00 to 7.00. Top hogs, $6.40.

Vilas Fails to Gain. Advice from Madison, Wis., regarding the condition of ex-United States Senator Vilas is that the distinguished patient is likely to remain in a precarious condition for several months with the outcome uncertain. His right side is paralyzed and he remains comatose.

Sargent Slightly Ill. Frank P. Sargent, commissioner of the bureau of immigration and naturalization, is seriously ill at his residence. He is suffering from a nervous shock, the result of a fall recently at Newport, W. A.

Alarmed by Earthquake. The people of Constantine, Algeria, are still in a state of alarm from the earthquake shocks a few days ago, fearing a repetition, and there is, in consequence, a steady exodus to the country.

HARRY THAW BROKE

A Petition in Bankruptcy is Filed in Court.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed after 8 p. m. Friday night in the United States court by Attorney Charles Morchauer, of New York, representing Harry K. Thaw, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who is now confined in the Dutchess county, New York, jail. In the petition it is stated his assets are $128,012.38 and liabilities $455,140.43.

Roger O'Meara, a well known Pittsburgh detective and personal friend of the Thaw family, was appointed receiver. His bond was placed at $200,000 and John Nevell and James W. Platt, two prominent business men of this city, became securities for Mr. O'Meara.

The most interesting information given out regarding the proceedings is to be found in the petition asking for the appointment of a receiver in which it is alleged the action is taken for the purpose of preventing his property being dissipated in litigation over claims, many of which are unjust. The figures show that this refers to the lawyers and doctors.

SCANDAL IN PUBLIC HOME.

Grand Jury at Richmond, Va., Found Mrs. Ethel Gayford, who became a mother three weeks ago in the city home of Richmond, Va., will have to stand trial on a charge of having poisoned another baby in the same institution four days after the birth of her child. Corrosive sublimate and chloroform are alleged to have been used. The grand jury in its report severely arraigned the council committee for its system of caring for the city home, dismissed the superintendent for incompetency, criticized physicians and surgeons for failing to act in harmony, and reprimanded the city council for not making rules and voting the superintendent with the power and holding him responsible.

The report shows that in order to secure a laundress for the home a contract was made whereby she was to get drunk once a week. Nurses and other help are held to be wholly incompetent and incapable.

BUSINESS ON UP GRADE.

Reports to Dun's Review Give Indication of That Effect. Bank exchanges at all the leading cities of the United States are $2,211,779,000; 8.3 per cent less than a year ago. The loss continues quite large at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, New Orleans, Minneapolis and San Francisco, clearly due to conditions affecting special interests in those sections. St. Louis and Kansas City again report gains and at other leading cities losses are small.

Dispatches to the Review indicate further progress in the right direction, although the improvement is slow. A midsummer dullness affects the trade. The volume of the bank clearings, usually at the low point of the year in August, is reduced, but it is now materially above the amount in the earlier months of the year, showing an improvement in that respect.

Two Crushed to Death.

Crushed beneath a heavy cement drain which had fallen in upon them while they were at work in the yard of the St. John's orphan asylum in Brooklyn, N. Y., Thomas Roche and John McLaughlin were instantly killed and Charles Timony was so badly injured that he died en route to a hospital.

Fast Train is Wrecked.

One man was killed and several were injured Saturday night when the Texas express on the Southern Pacific railroad left the track several miles from the union station shortly after leaving New Orleans for Houston. Oliver Petrie, fireman, of Algiers, La., was killed.

Girl Routs Officers.

Miss Mary Fouts, widely known as the "mildred moonshiner," Saturday had a pitched battle with United States officers. Entrenched at her camp near Bargeant, Ky., the girl succeeded in fouting the officers after six shots had been fired, and Deputy United States Marshall Frank Day had been seriously wounded.

Miss Fleming Gets Bail.

Miss Julia Fleming, of New York, who is charged with complicity in connection with an alleged attempt to manufacture evidence to be used in the divorce suit against Frank J. Gould, has been released on $2,000 bail.

Boat Line Falls.

Delinquent ways and means have not yet been decided upon, but the general scope of the plan includes an extensive campaign of education to show that the interests of the public demand that the roads be allowed to increase their earnings.

It is also proposed to present their side of the case before the Interstate Commerce Commission and before the state railroad commissions whenever an opportunity presents itself.

The lead in the movement is being taken by the recently organized Nebraska State Railway Employee's Protective Association and by the American Protective Association of America, with headquarters at Kansas City, which is now being organized, and which already includes members from thirteen western states. Members of the Chicago division of the Order of Railway Conductors have already taken active steps in the matter and representatives of the other railway brotherhoods are taking an interest in the movement, although it has not yet been officially taken up by any of the latter organizations.

The men point out that the expenses of the railroads have been enormously increased during late years, while freight rates have been gradually reduced and that matters have now come to the point where an increase in revenue is imperative. If the railroads are to continue to maintain their property in first class condition and make needed extensions and improvements while maintaining the present scale of work.

OMAHA LUMBER MEN KICK.

Discrimination in Favor of Lincoln in Freight Rates. Complaints have been filed with the railway commission by wholesale lumber dealers of Omaha, against four railroad companies, alleging discrimination in favor of Lincoln and against Omaha in the matter of lumber rates to points in the state. The petition sets out that Omaha and Lincoln secure their lumber supply from mills the help from which is equal. To some points in Nebraska the rate from Omaha and Lincoln are equal, but to other points the rate from Omaha is from 0.50 to 2.55 cents per 100 pounds higher than from Lincoln.

The two cities have the same rate to points in Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming and South Dakota.

GROUND NOT SO CALLY DRY.

Corn and Other Crops Still in Good Condition in Nebraska.

While the ground in Nebraska is somewhat dry it is not seriously so except on the Kansas branch of the Missouri division of the Burlington, according to the crop and soil report of the Burlington railroad. Corn made good progress last week, except west of McCook, and on the Kansas branch, where it does not amount to much in the total crop. The estimate on the Lincoln division for corn is still at 103 per cent in comparison with an average crop, on the McCook division 82 per cent and on the Wymore division 80 per cent, which is 6 per cent better than the report of the week.

The week was most favorable for standing crops so that about all that part of the wheat crop which has not been threshed has been stacked.

Crops are turning out to be an average crop in Nebraska and of good quality. The estimate on the Lincoln division for corn is still at 103 per cent in comparison with an average crop. The Lyon branch west of Denver had several good rains last week, and the sugar beets on that line are consequently in fine shape.

Wheat in the 150,000 bushel basin will run from 30 to 40 bushels to the acre, and nearly all of it has been cut. Oats, in the vicinity of Lincoln, will run from 40 to 75 bushels to the acre. Corn is looking fine on the Alliance division, and there will be an excellent crop.

The outlook for a big beet crop near Sterling is fine, and in the vicinity of Hillside it is estimated the crop will run 30 tons to the acre.

LO LAY CHANGE TO SQUAW.

Indian Accused of Horse Stealing Says Tony Blackbird is Spite Work. Tony Blackbird, a half blood Sioux Indian, was arrested near Gordon two days ago by Deputy United States Marshal Proctor and brought to Omaha for arraignment before United States Commissioner Anderson on the charge of stealing two horses from the Black Hills agency in South Dakota. Blackbird was taken to Lincoln in the order of the commissioner to appear before Judge Munger, who is authorized to issue an order transferring the accused to the South Dakota federal jurisdiction, where the horse stealing is said to have been committed.

Blackbird claims that the charge against him is the result of spite work on the part of his former wife, Nellie Blackbird. He alleged that the horses belonged to him originally and upon his separation from his wife, who was married shortly after the operation, he took the horses with him. The charge is based on the claim that the horses and his charge Blackbird with running away with the animals. The Indian is anxious to return to South Dakota and stand trial on the charge against him, believing that he can get a better trial there than in Omaha, where he has been held.

Blackbird is a half blood Sioux Indian and was born in South Dakota. He is now in Lincoln, where he has been held since his arrest. He is a native of the Black Hills and was a member of the Black Hills band of Sioux Indians. He was captured by the United States army in 1876 and was held in a prison in Lincoln, Nebraska, for several years. He was then sent to the Black Hills agency, where he was employed as a laborer. He was arrested on the charge of stealing two horses from the agency.

ASSESSMENT CLERKS TRIBLE.

Assessment Clerks in Omaha. Recommendations of the Board of Equalization in the city of Omaha, which are being considered by the city council, will result in a 70 per cent increase in the value of real estate contemplated by the board. Mr. Golden produced figures to show that the land in Holt county, or about 70 per cent of it, had been assessed at a high and low by 30 per cent to low. He held of several transfers where the consideration was much higher than the actual amount paid for land. These transfers had been filed by the tax agents of the railroads. For a few miles out of Omaha, Mr. Golden said, there was a special road, as hard as brick, upon which the tax agents had been allowed to build a road and into a magnificent territory. The beautiful territory, however, he said, extended only for about four miles and then the land became practically worthless. His land, he said, had been assessed too high and he had secured a decrease through the city council, but others who were his neighbors, had not done before the board and therefore had received no decrease. In view of the fact 70 per cent of the land is assessed too high, he said, the county should not be raised. # DEATH TAKES U. S. SENATOR W. D. ALLISON

Noted Statesman Succumbs to Attack of Heart Failure at His Home in Dubuque.

Public Career Covering More Than Three Score Years Breaks All Records for Length.

United States Senator William D. Allison dropped dead at Dubuque, Iowa, Tuesday of heart failure. The senator's decease comes at the eve of his reelection to another term in the upper house, where he had been a leader for years. His death will perhaps throw Iowa politics into a turmoil again.

William Boyd Allison was born in Perry, Ohio, May 2, 1823. He passed his boyhood days on the farm, securing his preliminary education at the country schools, and graduating from the Western Reserve College in his native forest—the teen-agers of his neighbors have robbed him of them. Today he stands alone, striving with Titanic courage to endure the strain; yet seemingly doomed, in spite of his vast numbers, to sink under his toil, unless the help he needs be given.

In his statement Secretary Wilson declares: "The productiveness of the United States along agricultural lines is not keeping pace with the growth of our population. Meats are dear because meat-bearing animals are falling behind the population in relative numbers. Labor is scarce on the farm, and labor is dear on the farm, because the factory, the forest, the mine and the railroad are taking away the farmer's workers through wages fixed at rates the farmer can not afford to pay. The population of the United States is growing both by reason of the natural increase of the families domiciled in America and by accretions through immigration from abroad. But the immigrants do not reach to the farm. The farmers who do come to us from foreign countries do not find their way to the farms of this country; and the immigration laws prevent American farmers from going to foreign countries and selecting there the prospective immigrants whose services could aid them.

At no period of our history has the American farmer needed help so much as he needs it this year. There are said to be hundreds of thousands of idle men in the United States. All of them could secure employment on the farms—employment affording food, shelter and living wages. There are consequences awaiting us. The result of all this will be the bringing about of European conditions. Many of our working people to-day can not pay the prices current for meats. If we do not desire to have this condition of affairs go to greater extremes, steps should be taken to help the farmers secure a portion of the immigration that pours in upon our shores. Whatever may be the temporary effect of high prices for foodstuffs upon the prosperity of the farmer, the deprivations of one class of our population is the misfortune of all. High prices for meats and grains are not beneficial to the farmers of the country. If the farmers can not employ the help that is requisite for the growth of grains and the production of meats. And that is the case now with the farmers in a great many States of the Union. The United States has made remarkable growth as a manufacturing nation because material is cheaper and better here than in any other country of the world. Our farmers are making the most energetic efforts to produce. They have the best machinery the world of agriculture knows. They themselves work and their families work. But the demand is greater than they can supply.

The local fame of Senator Allison as an expert on monetary matters was extended to international boundaries when in 1892 he was chairman of the American delegation of the International Monetary conference at Brussels. It has been said that Senator Allison and Speaker Cannon know more of the actual mechanism of the American government than all the rest of Congress put together.

Women After a Lawmaker. Representative Glenn, who recently introduced into the Georgia Legislature a bill to invalidate a marriage contract based upon false appearances of the woman due to the use of pads, stays, crinoline girdles or other artificial devices, has asked the protection of the State owing to the large number of threatening letters he has received from women in all parts of the country. He says he takes it that the allegations must be some truth or the women would not be so angry.

Culebra Cut Now Half Done. The Washington office of the Panama Canal Commission states that the cut for the canal at Culebra is about half completed, a total of near 47,000,000 cubic yards having been excavated. Of this, however, the American workers have done only 15,145,427 yards. Chairman Goethals has reorganized the canal work so as to divide the whole into three geographical sections, in each of which the chief has charge of all classes of work.

A 1000-Foot Building Next. Before the new tower of the Metropolitan building is complete, with its title to the highest occupied structure in the world, New York is told that plans have been drawn for the erection of a tower 1000 feet high on the Mills building, in Broad street. The owner has not decided definitely.

FARMER MUST HAVE HELP

Secretary Wilson Points Out Reason for Hard Times.

It has remained for Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson to solve the true reason for high prices and the high cost of living which has been bothering the housewife and the mechanic for several years past. He says the people, the laboring people, are themselves to blame. They fail to provide the necessary help to the American farmer. In years gone by the farmer had his allies—other men who came to his aid, hardily supporting him when the burden grew too vast. But now everywhere—in mine and railroad, in factory and

The farmers who do come to us from foreign countries do not find their way to the farms of this country; and the immigration laws prevent American farmers from going to foreign countries and selecting there the prospective immigrants whose services could aid them.

At no period of our history has the American farmer needed help so much as he needs it this year. There are said to be hundreds of thousands of idle men in the United States. All of them could secure employment on the farms—employment affording food, shelter and living wages. There are consequences awaiting us. The result of all this will be the bringing about of European conditions. Many of our working people to-day can not pay the prices current for meats. If we do not desire to have this condition of affairs go to greater extremes, steps should be taken to help the farmers secure a portion of the immigration that pours in upon our shores. Whatever may be the temporary effect of high prices for foodstuffs upon the prosperity of the farmer, the deprivations of one class of our population is the misfortune of all. High prices for meats and grains are not beneficial to the farmers of the country. If the farmers can not employ the help that is requisite for the growth of grains and the production of meats. And that is the case now with the farmers in a great many States of the Union. The United States has made remarkable growth as a manufacturing nation because material is cheaper and better here than in any other country of the world. Our farmers are making the most energetic efforts to produce. They have the best machinery the world of agriculture knows. They themselves work and their families work. But the demand is greater than they can supply.

The local fame of Senator Allison as an expert on monetary matters was extended to international boundaries when in 1892 he was chairman of the American delegation of the International Monetary conference at Brussels. It has been said that Senator Allison and Speaker Cannon know more of the actual mechanism of the American government than all the rest of Congress put together.

Women After a Lawmaker. Representative Glenn, who recently introduced into the Georgia Legislature a bill to invalidate a marriage contract based upon false appearances of the woman due to the use of pads, stays, crinoline girdles or other artificial devices, has asked the protection of the State owing to the large number of threatening letters he has received from women in all parts of the country. He says he takes it that the allegations must be some truth or the women would not be so angry.

Culebra Cut Now Half Done. The Washington office of the Panama Canal Commission states that the cut for the canal at Culebra is about half completed, a total of near 47,000,000 cubic yards having been excavated. Of this, however, the American workers have done only 15,145,427 yards. Chairman Goethals has reorganized the canal work so as to divide the whole into three geographical sections, in each of which the chief has charge of all classes of work.

The owner has not decided definitely.

ZEPPELIN'S BIG FLYER WIPED OUT BY FLAME

Napoleon of Air Losses Craft by Fire and Explosion as He Triumphs.

GALE CAUSES DESTRUCTION

Alpine Storm Upsets Benzine, Which Ignites Gas Bag During Repair Work.

Overwhelmed with disaster in his hour of triumph Count Zeppelin Wednesday saw the giant airship in which he has wrested the supremacy of the air from a score of competitors catch fire, explode and drift away a mass of wreckage on the whiz of a resistless storm. Four men of the crew's crew were badly burned, but Zeppelin himself escaped injury. The end of Zeppelin's $125,000 machine—the fourth he has constructed—came at the village of Echterdingen, near Stuttgart, and only 65 miles from the finishing point of the 522-mile aerial journey which the count was making to complete, where tens of thousands of persons were already gathered to greet him as conqueror of the air.

Orders have already been given by Count Zeppelin for the construction of another airship. Subscription lists for funds with which to provide the means have been opened in Berlin, Bremen, Stuttgart and other towns in Germany and Switzerland.

Gets Check for $125,000.

While the airship was being destroyed by fire, Count Zeppelin was on his way to present Count Zeppelin with a check for $125,000, the budget estimate for aeronautic experiments, which it had been decided to give to the navigator as a reward for his many years of sacrifice in the interest of the fatherland.

Passing over Stuttgart at 10:20 in the morning on the last stage of his voyage, and steering straight for Friedrichsfehn, the Zeppelin airship moved along with the greatest ease. Five miles farther on, however, one of the motors suddenly developed defects and the balloon was brought to earth on a plateau near Echterdingen.

It was discovered that the cause of the breakdown was the overheating of the piston of the motor and the reduction of the gas in the balloon as the result of an ascension to an altitude of

A Composite Airship.

M. Malcot, a French aeronaut, has developed a new kind of air craft, which combines the principles of the balloon and the aeroplane. The directing part is the envelope of triangular shape. It is 82 feet long, with a surface of 429 square feet and made of bamboo and aluminum. In its center are the car and the apparatus for propelling and steering the whole. A twenty-eight horse-power motor drives a screw fan of walnut wood ten feet long and giving 1200 revolutions a minute. The whole weight of aeroplane and machinery is attached to a clear-shafted balloon 100 feet long and 25 feet wide, which is designed to give additional safety and buoyancy to the whole.

The first formal appeal of the Democratic candidates for contributions to their campaign fund has been made to the farmers of the land. It began with the statement that the first contribution this year came from an Iowa farmer, a naturalized Swede. Bryan's paper, the Commoner, is asked to call for and receive the offerings of the farmers to be turned over to the national committee. Bryan has been very busy receiving delegations at his Lincoln home and conferring with leaders. He made several special speeches into a phonograph machine.

J. G. Phelps-Stokes, the wealthy young New Yorker, who married Rose Pastor Baker of the rank of the western, has been nominated for the State Assembly by the Eighth District, which is on the lower West Side of the city. His brother-in-law, Robert Hunter, prominent as a Socialist writer, is to run for Congress in another East Side section of the city. The New York World though opposed to socialism, has come out in support of Stokes, taking the ground that "the best way to defeat socialism is to have its ablest advocates present." Stokes' program to the public was that he will take the money for his husband.

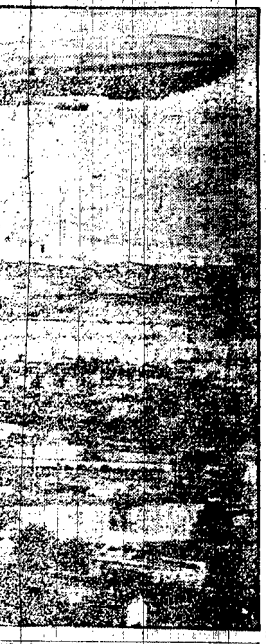

8000 feet, made by the navigator as a final test of his craft. Having already lost all hope of making the twenty-four hour continuous flight demanded by the German government as a condition of the purchase of the airship, Count Zeppelin recognized that time no longer counted and determined to have thorough repairs executed before continuing the trip. He therefore sent to Friedrichsfehn for a staff of mechanics to place the balloon on commission again.

Storm Grips Airship.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, while the repair work was still in progress, a fierce thunderstorm swept down from the Alps and seized the huge air flyer in its grip. The wind upset a quantity of benzine which lay around the machine. In a moment the fuel blazed up, the flames reached the gas bag floating aloft, and there was a tremendous explosion.

Simultaneously the hurricane tore the balloon from its anchorage and hurled it a very mass, in a southeasterly direction for fifty yards. Then the rear end of the great fabric dropped, the motors and frames attached to the under side crashed to the earth, knocking down several bystanders, and all that remained of the great airship floated away on the gale, a mass of blazing wreckage and material.

The accident to the Zeppelin airship

recalls the end of the French military airship Patrie in December, 1907, which was then considered the finest dirigible balloon in existence. A sudden gust of wind struck the airship and the 200 men who were holding the guide ropes were dragged for several hundred yards. The balloon shot up to a great height and disappeared. Five days later the Patrie came down in Ireland.

Count Zeppelin's record-breaking voyage with his great airship surprises no one familiar with the present state of the art of aerial navigation. That a modern motor balloon can be depended upon to make voyages of from one to two thousand miles, under fairly favorable conditions, has long been known to men who are familiar with aeronautics. Count Zeppelin's success is epoch-making in that it convinces a skeptical world of the practicability of airships and of their utility as engines of war and as instruments of exploration of the upper air, as well as of parts of the earth otherwise inaccessible, like the great unknown area surrounding the north pole. The recent demonstration, although it ended disastrously, without doubt will assure the rapid growth of aerial navies by the chief military powers. In fact, Germany, France, Great Britain and the United States are already moving in that direction. France has the Lebaudy and La Republicque already in commission, and Zeppelin's ship, it is understood, is to be taken over by the German navy.

SULTAN OF TURKEY TARGET FOR DAGGER

Stabbed in the Breast in His Palace and Saved from Death by Armor.

CAPTURE WOULD BE SLAYER

He Is a Minor Official and Gold Found on Him Indicates He Had Been Bribed to Commit Act.

Sultan Abdul Hamid of Turkey was stabbed in the breast at Constantinople by a minor palace official. Only the coat of mail which the Sultan always wears saved his life. This deflected the blow of the would-be assassin's knife, and rendered it practically harmless. The Sultan's assailant was seized at once by the guards which came at the ruler's call.

The Sultan's outcry as he grappled with the man across hundreds of palace attacks, and immediately the whole Yildiz, Kiosk was in an uproar. Soldiers came clattering in and formed a strong guard around the Sultan's private apartments. The commotion was unusual, even for the palace, which has been the scene of so many tragedies arising from attempts and feigned attempts against the Sultan's life. The would-be assassin apparently had been bribed to commit the act, as he had a large sum of gold in his pockets and his baggage was packed ready for flight.

Abdul Hamid is said to be the most hated monarch in Europe, not even excepting the Czar of Russia, and since his long reign he has lived in constant dread of assassination. He is credited with the death of his own brother because of his constant fear of his own life. His victims have been principally members of his household, who for trivial offenses were made targets for the bullets from his beautifully jeweled revolver that he carries constantly on his person. Abdul has ruled over the people of the Turkish empire for more than thirty-two years, having come to the throne in 1876 after successfully deposing his brother, Mourad V.

Former attempts have been made on the life of Abdul Hamid, the most sensational being that of July 22, 1905, when unknown assassins threw a bomb at the red ruler as he was leaving the mosque where the celebration of Salamiak had taken place. He escaped serious injury on that occasion, although thirty or forty people were killed. Again in October, 1906, when a report was spread that the Sultan was suffering from a serious illness, it was later learned that the real cause of his affliction was a bullet wound inflicted by one of his Turkish wives.

SINGER'S FINGERS BITTEN OFF.

Miss Emelle Gardner Has Encounter with Feroocious Beast in Dark. Her left arm frightfully lacerated and two fingers of her right hand severed off, Miss Emelle Gardner, an opera singer, is in a critical condition at the Coney Island Hospital as a result of being attacked by a huge bull terrier.

Miss Gardner has been spending the summer in her cottage at Seaside, Jersey Island. Her housekeeper, Mrs. Bangman, is the owner of a big female dog, which she kept in the rear yard, Sunday, on account of the heat Mrs. Bangman transferred the dog and her puppies to the pantry in the basement of the cottage.

At night Miss Gardner, who was alone in the house, entered the pantry. The room was dark, and as she closed the door the dog sprang upon her. Miss Gardner threw up her arms, but the teeth of the dog caught her left arm between the wrist and the elbow, crushing flesh and bones. As she struck at the brute with her right hand it slipped at the hand and severed the two first fingers.

COMMERCIAL FINANCIAL

CHICAGO.

A favorable official crop report, lighter commercial failures and an increased volume of payments through the banks are encouraging developments of the week. Important failures to liberal orders issued for rails, these indicating that rail-road managers felt warranted in entering the market for necessary supplies, which to some extent were without until financial conditions became suitably adjusted. Trade generally is now seen to be moving forward steadily, although the recovery is not so rapid, particularly in lines of heavy production affected by the long spell of hot weather.

Steel companies also disclose further extension in 1910 from their structural iron and lumber and increasing specifications for early completion involve the employment of additional machinery and hand labor at car, bridge and locomotive works. Distribution of mill and factory products adds to the freight tonnage moved by western roads, and more activity appears in lake transportation of the raw materials, the latter being heavier in iron, copper, lumber and various minor commodities.

Confidence in the market is now at a high stage, and the larger number of buyers and their operations stimulate absorption of raw goods, such as farm products, aggregate furniture and food products, aggregate bookings making a gratifying comparison with a year ago. The tendency is to buy more freely for forward deliveries, in order to secure merchandise being low and prices quoted for new goods having a finer appearance. The willingness has been reported for good and millinery, apparel, shoes, dress goods and millinery.

Indices reported in the Chicago market number 27, against 22 last week and 26 a year ago. Those with liabilities over $5,000 number 4, against 5 last week and 7 in 1907.—Dun's Review of Trade.

NEW YORK.

Trade in the city is generally favorable. The market for raw materials is active, and are reported by the leading cities, there being enlarging orders by jobbers and wholesalers. Industrial reports are generally of improved character, and indicate a weak market for raw materials, but some raw materials are in demand, such as iron, steel, copper, tin, zinc, lead, etc. There is a general feeling of confidence in the market, and early call for raw materials is reported, and that the market will be a strong one.
